ABOUT the Year 1590, Thomas Smith was the Queen's Cuſtomer; to whom ſhe let the Cuſtoms and Subſidies in the Port of LONDON Inwards to Farm; (who had long before been a Collector of them) for which he paid her Rent 20,000 l. per Annum: Whereas, as it was diſcovered, all the Incomes of thoſe Cuſtoms amounted yearly to 30,309 l. 15 s. 5 d. ſo that it appeared the Queen loſt yearly, by that Farm, 10,309 l. 15 s. 5 d. This the ſaid Carmarthen caſt up, thereby intending to let the Queen underſtand how much ſhe loſt by Farming out her Cuſtoms, viz. above 10,000 l. a Year.

A Clerk for Execution of Penal Statutes.

THERE was a new Officer propounded about the Year 1572, to be brought into the Cuſtom-houſe, viz. a Clerk for the Execution of Penal Statutes, namely one Middlemore, who had moved for this Place, and obtained a Patent for it upon Pretence that Forfeitures and Penalties made by Merchants might be the better anſwered to the Queen; about this Time, the Lord Treaſurer conſulted the chief Officers of the Cuſtom-houſe, who gave in their Reaſons againſt it; which were theſe: Firſt, that there was no Place for any more Officers or Clerks than were already there placed, but rather lack of Room for Expedition of the Merchants and Shippers when they came there. That there had been divers like Grants made for having of Places in the Cuſtom-houſe, to whom Denial had been made by the Lord Treaſurer to have any Place there.: And that for Middlemore's Patent they thought it not profitable for the Queen's Service that any Penal Laws ſhould be executed in her Cuſtom-houſe, for that it would much hinder her Revenue in her Cuſtoms and Suſidies, and alſo grieve the Merchants, who daily did diminiſh in their Trades, and employed their Monies upon Exchange, whereof her Majeſty had no Benefit. Finally, the Cuſtom-houſe had always been a quiet Place, appointed only for Receipt of the Queen's Revenues and Duties, and not for the Execution of Penal Statutes, which were repugnant one to the other.

Preſent State of the Cuſtom-houſe.

BY the foregoing Account, we ſee that the Cuſtoms were once farmed, in Queen Elizabeth's Reign, for 20,000 l. per Annum, which now bring in above an hundred Times as much, viz. above two Millions yearly.

THE Cuſtom-houſe is ſituated on the South Side, and not far from the Eaſt End of Thames-ſtreet. After the Fire of LONDON, viz. in the Year 1668, a very handſome Office was built here; but that being burnt in the Year 1718, it was rebuilt in a very ſpacious and commodious Manner, with Brick and Stone, adorned with an upper and lower Order of Architecture, the latter is with Stone Columns and Entablature of the Tuſcan Order; the former, with Pilaſters, Entablature and Pediments of the Ionick Order. The Length of the Building is 189 Feet, the Breadth, in the Middle, 27 Feet; but at the End much broader.

THE preſent Commiſſioners, and other Officers of this Houſe are:

THERE are beſides theſe, a conſiderable Number of inferior Officers, as extraordinary Tideſmen, Weighing-Porters, and Watchmen, who are only paid when they are employed, and ſtand faireſt for any Vacancy in the Eſtabliſhment.

NEAR this Cuſtomer's-key, towards the Eaſt, was the Water-gate, and towards the Weſt is Porter's-key; then Galley-key, where the Gallies were uſed to unlade, and land their Merchandizes and Wares; and that Part of Thames-ſtreet was therefore by ſome called Galley-row, but more commonly Petty Wales.

Porter's-key.

ON the North Side, as well as the South of Thames-ſtreet, were many large Houſes for Stowage, built for Merchants, towards the Eaſt End of it, namely, over-againſt Galley-key, Wool-key, and the Cuſtom-houſe. There were alſo ſome large Stone Buildings, the Ruins whereof were remaining in Stow's Time; but the firſt Builders and Owners of them being worn out of Memory, the common People affirmed, that they were built by Julius Cæſar: Some were of another Opinion, and that more likely, that this great Stone Building was ſome Time the Lodging appointed for the Princes of Wales, when they repaired to this City, and that therefore the Street in that Part is called Petty Wales, which Name remaineth there moſt commonly to this Day; as where the Kings of Scotland were uſed to be lodged betwixt Charing-Croſs and Whitehall, is ſtill called Scotland-yard; and where the Earls of Britain were lodged, without Alderſgate, is ſtill called Little-Britain.

An Hoſpital for Lunaticks.

IN the 44th Year of Edward III, an Hoſpital, in the Pariſh of Barking, was founded by Robert Denton, Chaplain, for the Suſtentation of poor Prieſts, and others, both Men and Women, who were ſick of the Phrenzy, there to remain till they were perfectly well, and reſtored to good Memory.

THERE was, in the ſixth Year of Henry V, in Tower-ſtreet Ward, a Meſſuage, or great Houſe, called Cobham's-Inn; and in the 37th of Henry VI, a Meſſuage in Thames-ſtreet, appertaining to Richard Longville. Some of the Ruins before ſpoke of, might very likely be of the aforeſaid Hoſpital, belonging, peradventure, to ſome Prior Alien, and ſo ſuppreſſed among the reſt, in the Reign of Edward III, or Henry V, who ſuppreſſed them all.

NOW for the modern State of this Ward, in relation to the Streets, Paſſages, and Places of Habitation, ſince the Fire of LONDON. It contains theſe principal Streets and Lanes, as hath been taken by a careful Survey; viz. Tower-ſtreet, Thames-ſtreet, Mark-lane, Mincing-lane, and Seething-lane, St. Olave Hart-ſtreet; then Idle-lane, St. Dunſtan's-hill, Harp-lane, Water-lane, and Beer-lane, in which Places are ſeveral Courts and Alleys.

Tower-ſtreet, of which there is the Great and the Little; of which latter, but ſome Part is in this Ward, beginning about the Middle, near unto St. Margaret Patton's Church, and falls into Great-Tower-ſtreet, which runs Eaſtwards unto Tower-hill, or Dock, and is a ſpacious Street, well built and inhabited by able Tradeſmen; and the rather, as being ſo great a Thoroughfare to and from Wapping, the Tower, St. Catharine's, and thoſe Parts bordering upon the Thames, repleniſhed with Seafaring Perſons.

THE Courts in this Street are, Mercers-court, ſeated on the North Side, very long, with turning Paſſages, and but indifferently inhabited. Carpenters-hall-court, a ſquare Place, with an open Paſſage into it, ſufficient for a Cart. Fowk's-court, very handſome and open, with a Free-Stone Pavement, and hath good Houſes, which are well inhabited. Black-ſwan-court, a pretty handſome open Place, with indifferent Houſes. Red-croſs-court, alſo pretty good. Beckford-court, a very handſome airy Place, with large Houſes, well inhabited, eſpecially the Upper End. White-lion-court, ſeated over-againſt Barking Church, is both ſmall and ordinary, and hath a Paſſage into Chitterling-alley. Prieſt's-alley, both narrow and ordinary, which with a turning Paſſage falls into Tower-dock: In this Alley are two ſmall Courts, very ordinary, and without Names. Roſe-alley, over-againſt Barking Church, being long and ordinary, and hath a Paſſage down Steps into Chitterling-alley, as alſo into Gloceſter-court. Then Barking Church, a Peculiar to the Archbiſhop of Canterbury; to which Church the Abbot of Barking was antiently Patron. The Diſmes 10 s. 8 d.

ON the Backſide of Barking Church-yard is an Alley, or Paſſage, into Tower-hill, with Houſes on the one Side, which have a Proſpect of the Church and Church-yard; and on this Part, being the North Side, was antiently Barking Chapel, long ſince diſſolved. On the South Eaſt Corner of Tower-ſtreet is a Row of Houſes fronting the Tower, and leading to Thames-ſtreet, being pleaſantly ſituated, having alſo the Proſpect of the Thames.

Thames-ſtreet is a Place of conſiderable Trade and taken up by great Dealers, as well by Wholeſale as Retale: And, altho' the Street, ſince the new Building, is broad, yet on Account of the Cuſtom-houſe, and the ſeveral Keys and Wharfs, it is extremely peſter'd with Carts, to the great Annoyance of the Inhabitants and Paſſengers thro' it. This Street runneth a very great Length from Eaſt to Weſt, even to Puddle-dock, which is about a Mile, but lies in ſeveral Wards. The Part in this Ward goeth no farther than Billingſgate.

THE preſent Names of the Keys or Wharfs lying on the South Side, beginning at the Tower-dock, are Brewers Key, Cheſter Key, Galley Key, Wool Key, Porter's Key, Cuſtom-houſe Key, Great Bear Key, Little Bear Key, Wiggins's Key, Ralf's Key, Temple Key, Little Dice Key, Great Dice Key, Smart's Key, and then Billingſgate; which which ſaid Keys are all made Uſe of for the Lading and Unlading of Merchants Goods, and ſome of theſe Keys are more conſiderable than others, particularly Bear Key, there being one of the greateſt Markets in England for Wheat and other Kind of Grain, brought hither by Coaſting Veſſels.

On the North Side of this Thames-ſtreet, beginning towards Billingſgate are theſe Courts, viz Dog-tavern-court, a handſome and genteel Place well inhabited; Wicheler's-yard, taken up in Warehouſes for ſtowing of Merchants Goods; Nag's-head-court, but ordinary, and here is kept the Coal-Meters Office; Smither's Coffee-houſe being in a Court wholly taken up by the ſaid Coffeehouſe, and hath a Paſſage into Water-lane; Vine-court, taken up by Warehouſes.

Beer-lane, comes out of Tower-ſtreet, and turns into Thames-ſtreet, a Place of ſmall Account. In this Lane are theſe Courts, viz. Gloceſter-court, a handſome Place with a Free Stone Pavement, and hath a Paſſage into Prieſt's-alley; Horn-alley, but indifferent, hath a Paſſage into Thames-ſtreet, another into Roſe-alley, and another into Chitterling-alley, both indifferent Places; Cuſtom-houſe-court, a handſome Place, with a Free Stone Pavement; at the Upper End of this Court is another ſmall Court ſo called, which hath a Paſſage through the Ship Tavern into Water-lane.

Water-lane, a very great Thorough-fare, occaſioned by the Cuſtom-houſe, as being the ready Paſſage to it, and is, for the generality, taken up by Publick-Houſes: This Lane is ſo called as running down to the Water-gate by the Cuſtom-houſe; but formerly it was called Sporiar-lane; in this Lane is Orance-court, having but two Houſes, the reſt taken up in Warehouſes; and here is the Trinity-houſe, and Ballaſt-Office, before ſpoken of.

Harp-lane comes out of Tower-ſtreet, and falls into Thames-ſtreet. On the Eaſt Side is Bakers-hall, already mentioned, ſome Time the Dwelling-houſe of John Chichley, Eſq; Chamberlain of the City of LONDON. On the Weſt Side of this Harp-lane is Croſs-lane, which is but ordinary, and leads to St. Mary's-hill; St. Dunſtan's-hill, formerly called Church-lane, runs as far as St. Dunſtan's Church-yard, and from thence down unto Thames-ſtreet. On the Weſt Side of the ſaid Church is another Lane, called Church-lane, which turning into another towards St. Mary-hill, is called Fowl-lane. This St. Dunſtan's-hill is a Place well inhabited by Merchants, eſpecially about the Church, and on the Eaſt Side, over-againſt the Church is Coffin-court, which is but narrow, and not over well inhabited.

Then St. Dunſtan's Church, before deſcribed; adjoining to this Church Northwards is Church-alley, which hath a handſome Free Stone Paving, and good Buildings, on the Side fronting the Church; and this Alley leadeth into Idle-lane, which comes out of the Weſt End of Tower-ſtreet, and falls into Thames-ſtreet. On the Weſt Side of this Lane is Croſs-lane, which falls into St. Mary-hill; by this Church is Prieſt's-alley, alſo of good Account.

Mincing-lane, antiently called Mincheon-lane, is built with good Houſes, which, for the generality, are taken up by Merchants and Perſons of Repute; the Street is broad, leading out of Tower-ſtreet, and going up into Fenchurch-ſtreet.

Mark-lane, or Mart-lane, a Place now well inhabited with divers large Houſes for Merchants; but there are yet ſome old Timber-Houſes in it. The greateſt Part of this Lane is in this Ward, to wit, from Tower-ſtreet unto that Part where the Poſt and Chain is placed a-croſs the Street, which is above the Weſt End of Hart-ſtreet: And in this Part of the Lane are theſe Places, viz. Sugar-loaf-alley, which is but indifferent; over-againſt which is the Old Navy-Office, Well-alley, being both ſmall and narrow; Pick-axe-alley, alſo ſmall, and Star-alley, which is but ordinary.

Hart-Street, is but ſhort, coming out of Mark-lane, and falls into Crutched-fryars, by St. Olave Hart-ſtreet Church, belonging to the Dioceſe of LONDON, a Church-yard behind it: Over-againſt this Church is Croſſeys, or Angel-court, which is an open Place, with good Buildings, well inhabited.

Seething, or Sything-lane, runneth Northwards from Tower-ſtreet unto Crutched-fryars: It is now a Place of no great Account, but amongſt the Inhabitants ſome are Merchants. Here is the Navy-Office, but the chief Gate for Entrance is out of Crutched-fryars: And in this Lane are theſe Courts and Places of Name, viz. John Deveres's-yard, broad in the Middle, but ordinary, with a narrow Paſſage into Mark-lane; Carr-yard, a handſome open Place, but meanly inhabited; St. Catharine's-court, handſome and well inhabited; Star-alley, newly built for Warehouſes and Tenements; Black-raven-court, an open Place, with new Brick Buildings, well inhabited; Plough-yard, but ordinary built and inhabited; Crown-court, but ſmall, with a Free Stone Pavement.

Tower-hill, the Weſt Row of Buildings, with Part of the Hill (which is in this Ward) is a handſome Structure, well inhabited and pleaſantly ſeated in an open Air, having the delightful Proſpect of the Thames and the Tower: And in this Row is Barking-alley, or Alleys, one leading into Tower-ſtreet, and the other into Seething-lane, in both which the Buildings encompaſs Barking Church on North and Eaſt Sides. Between Barking-alley and St. Catharine's-court, already taken Notice of, is

Near this Office is a Houſe formerly the Tranſport Office, which is now laid aſide.

Farther Northwards, is Muſcovy-court, an open Place, with a Free Stone Pavement. In this Court are good Brick Buildings, well inhabited, and a back Paſſage, with a Door, into the Navy-Office.

Formerly there were round the Tower, old Buildings, which incloſed the Ditch, or Moat: and there ſtood till the Reign of King Charles II. but being found incommodious, were all by a Command from above, Sir John Robinſon being Lieutenant, pulled down, and the Moat cleanſed and enlarged: So that now the Tower is not choaked up, but ſtands open on all Sides.

Thus

THUS much for the Bounds and Antiquity of this Ward; wherein are noted, firſt, the Tower of LONDON, three Pariſh Churches; the Cuſtom-houſe, Navy-Office, and Receiver's Office for Greenwich Hoſpital; and two Halls of Companies, viz. Clothworkers and Bakers.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, his Deputy, eight Common-Council-Men, 13 Conſtables, 12 Scavengers, 13 Wardmote Men, and a Beadle: It is taxed to the Fifteen, 26*l.*

THERE are to watch at the Stands within this Ward every Night, a Conſtable and the Beadle, with 40 Watchmen.

THE Jury-men, returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve as Jurors in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall in the Month of May.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir Charles Peers, Knt.

CHAP. III.

ALDGATE WARD.

THE ſecond Ward within the Walls, on the Eaſt Side of the City, is called Ealdgate, or Aldgate Ward, taking its Name from the ſaid Gate. The principal Street of this Ward beginneth at Aldgate, ſtretcheth Weſt, where was once a handſome Well, but now a Pump is placed. From thence, the Way being divided in two, the firſt and principal Street called Aldgate-ſtreet, runneth on the South Side to Lime-ſtreet Corner; and half that Street down on the Left Hand, is alſo in this Ward.

IN the Mid-way, on that South Side, betwixt Aldgate and Lime-ſtreet, is Hart-horn-alley, a Thorough-fare into Fenchurch-ſtreet; and another Alley, once called Sprinkle-alley, from an holy Water-pot, which uſed to hang there, but now Sugar-loaf-alley.

NEAR this was a large Houſe, and divers Tenements near adjoining, which ſome Time belonged to a diſſolved Priory, but afterwards given by King Henry VIII to one Mrs. Cornwallis, Widow, and her Heirs, in Reward for ſome fine Puddings which ſhe made and preſented to him: Such was the Princely Liberality of thoſe Times. A littler farther was the Houſe of Sir Nicholas Throgmorton, which is now the African-houſe.

THEN, ſomewhat more Weſt, is Belzeter's-lane, ſo called from the firſt Builder and Owner thereof, now corruptly called Billiter-lane; a Place conſiſting formerly of poor and ordinary Houſes, where it ſeems needy and beggarly People uſed to inhabit; whence the Proverb, A Bawdy Beggar of Billiter-lane; which is ſomewhere uſed by Sir Thomas More, in the Book he wrote againſt Tyndal.

BETWIXT this Belzeter's-lane and Lime-ſtreet, three new Houſes being to be built, in the Year 1590, in a Place where before was a large Garden Plat, incloſed from the Street by a high Brick Wall, upon taking down the ſaid Wall, and digging for Cellarage, another Wall of Stone was found directly under the Brick Wall, with an arched Gate-way of Stone, and Gates of Timber to be cloſed in the Midſt towards the Street; the Timber of the Gates was conſumed, but the Hinges of Iron were then remaining on their Staples on both Sides.

MOREOVER, in that Wall were ſquare Windows, with Bars of Iron on each Side this Gate; the Wall was above two Fathoms deep under Ground: This, Stow judged to be the Ruins of ſome Houſe burnt in the Reign of King Stephen, when the Fire began in the Houſe of one Aelward, near London-ſtone, and conſumed Eaſt to Aldgate: Whereby it appeareth, how greatly the Ground of the City hath been raiſed in that Place.

ON the North Side, this principal Street ſtretcheth to the Weſt Corner of St. Andrew's Church, and then the Ward turneth towards the North, by St. Mary-ſtreet, on the Eaſt Side of St. Auguſtine's Church, in the Wall, and by Bury's-marks again, or about by the Wall to Aldgate.

THE ſecond Way from Aldgate, more towards the South from the Pump aforeſaid, is called Fenchurch-ſtreet, and is of Aldgate Ward, to Culver-alley, which is on the Weſt Side of Ironmongers Hall.

AGAIN, from Aldgate, out of the principal Street, cloſe by the Gate and Wall of the City, runneth a Lane South to Crowched-fryars, Woodroſe-lane, and ſo to Tower-hill: And out of this Lane Weſt, a Street called Hart-ſtreet, which in that Ward ſtretcheth to Sydon, or Seething-lane, by St. Olaves's Church: One other Lane more Weſt from Aldgate, goeth by Northumberland Houſe toward Croſſed, or Crowched-fryars: Then on the ſame Side is the North End of Mark-lane, and Blanch-appleton, or Chappleton, where the Ward endeth.

THE antient Bounds of this Ward may be taken from the Extent of the Soke of the Priory of Chriſt Church; and what that is, may be known from what is wrote by one of that Convent, and preſerved in an old Book, called Dunthorne; where we read, Sciendum igitur quanta ſit Soka, cujus fines tales ſunt. A Porta de Aldgate, &c. i. e. "We muſt know therefore, how "great the Soke is, which hath ſuch Bounds: "From the Gate of Aldgate, as far as the Gate "of the Bailey of the Tower, called Cungate, and "all Cheken-lane, towards Barking Church, as "far as the Church-yard, except one Houſe "nearer than the Church-yard; and the Journey is returned the ſame Way, as far as the "Church of St. Olave's; and then we come "back by the Street which goes by Colemanchurch; then it goes forth towards Fenchurch, and ſo there on this Side our Houſes is "is a Lane, through which we ent unto the "the Houſe of Theobald Fitz-Ivo, Alderman; "which Lane now is ſtopped, becauſe it had "been ſuſpected for Thieves in the Night: "Therefore becauſe a Way was not open there, "we come back again by a Lane towards the "Church of St. Michael, and as far as Lime-ſtreet, to the Houſe of Richard Cavel. This "therefore is our Inward Soke, and theſe are "the Bounds of it. This the Queen-Mother "gave to us, with the Gate of Aldgate. From "Lime-ſtreet we go through the Street by the "Church of St. Andrew's, as far as the Chapel "of St. Auguſtine upon the Wall; then as far "as the Gate of the Church-yard. This is the "Circuit of our Inner Soke.

THUS much for the Bounds. Now for Monuments, or Places moſt antient and notable. Firſt, To begin with the diſſolved Priory of the Holy Trinity, called Chriſt Church, on the Right Hand within Aldgate. This Priory was founded by Matilda the Queen, Daughter to Malcolm, The Priory of the Holy Trinity.

Malcolm, King of Scotland, Wife to Henry I. in the ſame Place, where Siredus ſome Time began to erect a Church in Honour of the Croſs, and St. Mary Magdalene, of which the Dean and Chapter of Waltham were wont to receive thirty Shillings. The Queen was to acquit her Church thereof, and in Exchange gave unto them a Mill; King Henry, her Husband, confirmed her Gift. This Church was given to Norman, the firſt Canon Regular in all England.

THE ſaid Queen alſo gave unto the ſame Church, and thoſe that ſerved GOD therein, the Port of Aldgate, and the Soke thereunto belonging, with all Cuſtoms, ſo free as ſhe had held the ſame, and 25 l. Blanks, which ſhe had of the City of Exeter, as appeareth by her Deed, wherein ſhe nameth the Houſe Chriſt-church, and reporteth Aldgate to be of her Demains; which ſhe granted with two Parts of the Rent of the City of Exeter.

THE Deed of Queen Maud follows, as it was taken out of the Regiſter of the ſaid Priory, called there Prioratus de Crichurch.

Norman took on him to be Prior of Chriſt-Church, in the Year of Chriſt 1108, in the Pariſhes of St. Mary Magdalene, St. Michael, St. Catharine, and the Bleſſed Trinity, which now were made but one Pariſh of the Holy Trinity, and was, in old Time, of the Holy Croſs, or Holy Rood Pariſh.

THE Priory was built on a Piece of Ground in the Pariſh of St. Catharine, towards Aldgate, near the Chapel of St. Michael, and was above 300 Feet in Length. The Soke and Ward of Aldgate was then bounded, as is before ſhewn. The Queen was alſo aſſiſtant in procuring the Land and Engliſh Knighten Guild to be given to Prior Norman. The Honourable Geffrey de Clinton was alſo inſtrumental therein, and obtained, that the Canons might incloſe the Way betwixt their Church and the Wall of the City, &c. This Priory, in Proceſs of Time, became a very large Church, rich in Lands and Ornaments, and ſurpaſſed all the Priories in the City of LONDON, or Shire of Middleſex; the Prior whereof was an Alderman of LONDON, viz. of Portſoken Ward, as has been ſhewn in the Account of that Ward.

AFTER this great Priory had ſwallowed up thoſe four Pariſhes above-named, the Inhabitants of the Pariſh of St. Catharine's, procured themſelves a Chapel, or Church, to be built in the Church-yard of the Priory, for their more convenient and quiet Reſort to perform their Divine Service in; the Prior appointing them one of his Canons, according to his Pleaſure, to ſay Maſs to them: But ſtill they were bound to Chriſten their Children in the Conventual Church, and to come thither at all ſolemn Times, that being the Parochial Church; where, for a great while before, they commonly reſorted in a Part of that Church on the South, where the Altar of St. Mary Magdalene was placed: So that hereby Maſs was ſaying in two Places of the Church at one Time: Which, by the Noiſe of ſeveral celebrating together, a great Confuſion and Diſturbance was occaſioned. To prevent this, the ſaid Chapel was at length erected, where one of the Canons officiated: But in Time great Diſcord happened between the Priory and them, about their Neglect of Coming to the Conventual Church: And Reſtraint was put upon them, as to their frequenting their own Church or Chapel, and obligeing them to reſort to the great Church for the Chriſtening of their Children, and upon all the Holidays, eſpecially the Greater; as in the Night and Day of our Lord's Nativity, Good Friday, the Day of the Benediction of the Eaſter Wax-candle, the Morning of Eaſter-day, the Veſpers and Vigils of the Feaſts of the Holy Trinity, and the Dedication of the Conventual Church of the Holy Trinity. For theſe Things great Contentions aroſe between the Prior, Robert Exeter, and the Convent, and the aforeſaid Pariſhioners; and continued to the Time of William Haradon, and Lord Richard Clifford, Biſhop of LONDON: Who, in the Year 1414, made an Accommodation of their Differences by a Compoſition between them; the Terms of which were as follow, viz. That the ſaidPariſhioners of St. Catharine's, Chriſt's, or Cree-church, ſhould have a Baptiſmal Font a-new ſet up in their Church, or Chapel, for Baptizing of Children, and to have other Solemnities to be there performed (about which ſuch Contentions had before ariſen among them) for all Times hereafter: That they ſhould reſort to the Conventual Church on the Feſtivals and Dedication of the ſaid Conventual Church in the Eve of St. Bartholomew, yearly, and there, in Token of their Submiſſion, and Acknowledgment, each ſhould, in thoſe Feſtivals, offer their Pence, Half-pence, and Farthings: And that they might, if they pleaſed, keep the Dedication of St. Catharine in their own ſaid Chapel, or Church. Which, he the Biſhop, out of his paternal Affection towards them, yielded unto. Further, That they might not ring the Bells on Eaſter-day, till the Office was finiſhed at the Conventual Church. That one of the Canons, to be placed, or removed at the Pleaſure of the Prior, ſhould ſerve in the ſaid Chapel, as was uſual before this preſent Ordinance, to adminiſter to the ſaid Pariſhioners the Sacraments and Sacramentals, as antiently was done. That the Prior and Convent henceforth be not obliged to find the Ornaments, nor be at other Charges for the Chapel. All which Ordination, and Compoſition, the Prior and Convent, and the ſaid Pariſhioners, had received and promiſed inviolably to obſerve perpetually.

Euſtacius, the Eighth Prior, about the Year 1264, becauſe he would not deal with Temporal Matters, inſtituted Theobald Fitz-Juonis, Alderman of Portſoken Ward, under him; and William Riſing, Prior of Chriſt-Church, was ſworn Alderman of the ſaid Portſoken Ward, in the firſt of Richard II. Theſe Priors ſat and rode among the Aldermen of LONDON, in the ſame Livery, only the Prior's Habit was in Shape of a Spiritual Perſon, as Stow ſaith he himſelf ſaw in his Childhood; at which Time the Prior kept a moſt bountiful Houſe, both for Rich and Poor, as well within the Houſe, as at the Gates, to all Comers, according to their Conditions.

THERE were Monuments in this Church for the following Perſons:

Sir Robert Turke, and Dame Alice his Wife.

Geffrey Mandevile, 1215. And many others.

Lady Margaret le Scroope, who 1431, bequeathed her Body to be buried in the Church of St. Trinity of Chriſt-Church, LONDON. She was Wife of Roger le Scroope, Knight, and Daughter of Sir Robert Tiptoft.

BUT to take Leave of this Priory: King Henry VIII, having a Deſire to reward Sir Thomas Audley, Speaker of the Parliament againſt Cardinal Woolſey, as may be read in the Chronicle, ſent for the Prior, and commending him for his Hoſpitality, promiſed him Preferment, as a Man worthy of greater Dignity; which he ſurely performed, and then compounded with him to ſurrender all the Priory, with the Appurtenances, to him, in the Month of July, Anno 1531, in the 23d Year of his Reign. The Canons were ſent to other Houſes of the ſame Order: And the Priory, with the Appurtenances, King Henry gave to Sir Thomas Audley, newly Knighted, and afterwards made Lord Chancellor.

Sir Thomas Audley offered the great Church of this Priory, with a Peel of nine well tuned Bells, (whereof the four largeſt are now at Stepney, and the other five at St. Stephen's Coleman-ſtreet) to the Pariſhioners of St. Catharine Chriſt-church, in Exchange for their ſmall Pariſh Church, being willing to have it pull'd down, and to have it built there towards the Street: But the Pariſhioners, having Doubts in their Heads of After-claps, refuſed the Offer.

THEN was the Priory Church and Steeple proffered to whomſoever would take it down, and carry it from the Ground; but no Man would undertake the Offer: Whereupon Sir Thomas Audley was obliged to be at more Charges to take it down, than could be made of the Stones, Timber, Lead, Iron, &c. For the Workmen, with great Labour, beginning at the Top, looſed Stone from Stone, and threw them down, whereby the moſt Part of them were broken, and few remained whole, and thoſe were ſold very cheap: For all the Buildings, then made, about the City were of Brick and Timber. At that Time, any Man in the the City might have a Cart-load of hard Stone, for Paving, brought to his Door, for 6*d.* or 7*d.* with the Carriage.

THE ſaid Thomas Lord Audley built and dwelt on this Priory, during his Life, and died there, in the Year 1544; ſince which Time the ſaid Priory came, by Marriage of the Lord Audley's Daughter and Heir, to Thomas Duke of Norfolk, and was then called the Duke's-place.

TRINITY-CHRIST-CHURCH,

NOW CALLED

St. James Duke's Place.

AT this Time, the Inhabitants, dwelling in the ſaid Duke's-place, became utterly deſtitute of any Pariſh-Church for reſorting to Divine Worſhip: But the Pariſh-Church of St Catharine being ſo near, ſtanding in the Cœmitery, or Church-yard, of the diſſolved Priory, they went thither at the Hours of Service, and Adminiſtration of the Holy Sacraments, whereby they became a Burthen to the Pariſh, yet well enough to be borne withal, in regard to the Benefit enſuing by them: So that they were looked upon as equal Pariſhioners, exerciſing all Duties there, even as if it had been their own Pariſh.

THEY afterwards applied themſelves to the Archbiſhop; and he moved King James I, in their Behalf, who was ready to forward ſo religious a Deſign: But the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs, perceiving the Encouragement given, were reſolved to have the Honour of ſo pious a Work, by whoſe Means a new Pariſh-Church was built; and, in the Time it was erecting, was called Trinity Chriſt-church, being raiſed out of the Ruins of Trinity Priory in Duke's-place: And to this Purpoſe is an Inſcription, over the Door, on the North Side of the Chancel.

VERSES

Conſecrated to the Eternizing the Memory of the Right Honourable Sir Edward Barkham, Lord Mayor of LONDON, the religious Mr. George Whitmore, and Mr. Nicholas Raynton, Sheriffs and Aldermen of the Honourable Senate and City, for their pious re-edifying of the long decayed Ruins of Trinity Chriſt-church in Duke's-place.

As David would his Eyes no Reſt afford
Till he had found a Place out to the Lord
To build a Temple, ſo this Man of Worth,
The Mirrour which theſe latter Days bring forth:
Barkham, the worthy, whoſe immortal Name,
Marble's too weak to hold, for his Work's Fame;
He never ceaſed in Induſtry and Care,
From Ruin to redeem this Houſe of Prayer.
Following in this the Holy Patriarchs Ways,
That ready were an Altar ſtill to raiſe,
When they received a Bleſſing; ſo this Lord,
Scarce warm in Honour's Seat, did firſt accord,
To this moſt pious Work, by which is ſhewn
God's Bleſſings and his Thanks met both in one.
The Charge the Honourable City bears,
Whoſe Bounty in full Nobleneſs appears;
To Acts of bleſs'd Condition, in ſuch wiſe,
That all Things better'd by their Ruins riſe.
Two noble faithful Superviſors then,
Among a Senate of Religious Men,
Selected were, to whom the Care they gave,
The Generous Hamerſly, Cambel the Grave;
Each being a Maſter-piece of Zeal and Care,
Tow'rd God's own Temple, fit for Truths Affair.
Now at the bleſſed Foundreſs I arrive,
Matilda, whom Henry the firſt did wive,
The Chriſt'ndom ſhe gave, held the ſame,
Till James, our Sovereign, gave it his own Name:
And ſince, I touch Antiquity ſo near,
Obſerve what Notes remarkable appear:
An Alderman of LONDON was at firſt,
The Prior of this Church, falling to th' worſt;
'Tis now raiſed by th' Encouragement and Care,
Of a Lord Mayor of LONDON, which is rare:
And worth obſerving, then as I began,
I end beſt with the Honour of that Man.
This City's firſt Lord Mayor, lies buried here,
Fitz Alwin, of the Drapers Company;
And the Lord Mayor, whoſe Fame now ſhines ſo clear,
Barkham, is of the ſame Fraternity.

WHEN the Work was brought to ſuch Perfection, that nothing was wanting but Glazing the Windows; that was performed in this Manner.

THE main and great Eaſt Light in the Chancel, Sir Edward Barkham himſelf undertook, and effected it at his own Charge, as was expreſſed in the ſame Window: The other, more Southerly, the two worſhipful Gentlemen, Mr. George Whitmore, and Mr. Nicholas Ranton, worthily performed; and the third, ſtanding Northerly in the ſame Chancel, Mr. Walter Leigh, who had been a Serjeant at Arms to the King's Majeſty, and Sword-bearer of LONDON, did likewiſe, at his own Charge, perform. The two Weſtern Lights, in the Bottom of the Church, the Honourable Company of Drapers effected the one, and the Woodmongers Worſhipful Society finiſhed the other. Beſides, the two Southerly Windows, the one done at the Charge of Mr. Cornelius Fiſh, Chamberlain of LONDON, and the other by Mr. Waldron, then Marſhal. So now you have the Church of St. James's compleat.

ONLY there is a fair Monument in the Eaſt End of the Chancel, made in Reſemblance of a Golden Sun, with Beams and Rays, very ingeniouſly formed, characteriſing theſe Verſes in and among them.

The riſing here of the clear Goſpel's Sun,
Is through the Senate's free Donation,
The Globe of that bright Sun,
the God of Might,
Chriſt Jeſus is the Riſing,
and the Light,
The Heat the bleſſed Spirit
Of Truth and Right:
And as theſe three,
the Globe, the Light, the Heat,
Are all one Sun,
ſo Three one God compleat:
Thrice Allelujah, ſpeaks about the Rays,
That Three in one may only have the Praiſe.

THIS Church was conſecrated January 2, 1622, the Right Honourable Sir Peter Proby being then Lord Mayor, and the Right Worſhipful Mr. John Hodges, and Sir Humphrey Handford, Knt. Sheriffs and Aldermen.

AN authentick Copy of the aboveſaid Conſecration of St. James Duke's-place Church, is preſerved preſerved in a Regiſter-Book of the Pariſh, beginning, Univerſis & ſingulis, &c. Georgius, Permiſſione Divina London. Epiſ. Salutem in Domino ſempiternam, &c. i.e. To all and every one, &c. George, by Divine Permiſſion, Biſhop of LONDON, Health in the Lord everlaſting, &c. Then it ſet forth, How the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the City, had prayed him, that he would vouchſafe to ſeparate from all human or common and profane Uſes, and convert to ſacred and divine, the Chapel or Church, with the Steeple united to it, to the Honour of the Holy and Undivided Trinity, and for the Propagation of the Goſpel, being ſituate within a certain Precinct commonly called The Duke's-place, within the Gate of the aforeſaid City, called Aldgate, of the Dioceſe and Juriſdiction of LONDON, heretofore built; but afterwards, by the Authority of Parliament, diſſolved and turned to common Uſes: But that they had founded and built it again at their great Coſts; and had alſo aſſigned certain Plats of Ground joyning and contiguous to the ſaid Chapel, or Church, for burying the faithful Dead therein. Therefore he, the ſaid George, Biſhop of LONDON, deſirous to ſatisfy the laudable and pious Deſires of the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen, &c. in that Behalf, did, on Thurſday the 2d Day of January, 1622, between the Hours of eight and eleven the ſame Day, come to the Church or Chapel aforeſaid. At which Time and Place, he, with the moſt Reverend Father in Chriſt, George, by the Divine Providence, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Sir Henry Marten, Doctor of Law, and Knight, the Biſhop's Vicar General in Spirituals, ſtanding before the Weſt Folding-Doors of the Chapel or Church aforeſaid; the Honourable Peter Proby Lord Mayor of the City, together with ſome of his Worſhipful Brethren, viz. Sir John Leman, Sir William Cockin, Sir Edward Barkham, Knts. Martin Lumley, John Gore, William Gore, Cuthbert Hacket, James Campbel, Richard Herne, Hugh Hammerſly, Edward Allen, Robert Ducy, George Whitmore, and Nicholas Reynton, Eſqrs; Aldermen of the ſame City; John Hodges, Eſq; and Sir Humphrey Hanford, Knt. alſo Aldermen and Sheriffs, and others of the Commonalty accompanying them, came to them; and the ſaid Mayor, for himſelf and the Aldermen and Commonalty, publickly offered, gave, delivered, and granted to the ſaid Biſhop, the Chapel or Church, the Steeple and the Plats of Ground united to them, for the aforeſaid Uſes; beſeeching him to ſeparate the ſame from all profane Uſes by Virtue of his Paſtoral Office, and to convert them to ſuch as were ſacred and divine; and ſolemnly to dedicate the ſame to GOD: And then delivered to him the Keys of the Chapel or Church, and of the Steeple: Which the Biſhop receiving, he unlocked, and opened the Doors, and entered with the Archbiſhop, &c. and took Poſſeſſion. And in the very Threſhold, at his Entrance, bleſſed the Place after this Manner:

I was glad when they ſaid unto me, We will go into the Houſe of the Lord.

Peace be within theſe Walls, and Proſperity within theſe Doors.

Becauſe thou art a Houſe for the Lord our God, we will ſeek to do thee good.

I have choſen and ſanctified this Place, that my Name may be there for ever.

And mine Eyes and mine Heart ſhall be there perpetually.

THEN going a little forward, with bended Knees, and Hands towards the Eaſt, lifted up to Heaven, he made a devout Prayer, thereby Devoting and Dedicating the Place, from that Day, for ever, unto God, and Conſecrating it to his Service only, for Hearing his Word, Celebrating his Sacraments, and Offering up the Sacrifice of Prayer and Thankſgiving.

THEN, turning to the Congregation, ſtanding at the Doors of the Chapel, or Church, in the Sight of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, and a Multitude of the Faithful there preſent, by a formal Inſtrument in that Behalf conceived in Writing, and by the Vicar General offered and delivered to the Biſhop, he ſeparated the ſaid Chapel, or Church, with the Steeple, from human and profane Uſes, and dedicated it to GOD; and ſo declared it to be Dedicated and Conſecrated openly and publickly in theſe Words, In Nomine Dei, &c. i.e. In the Name of God, Amen. We GEORGE, by the Divine Permiſſion, Biſhop of LONDON, &c. Therein he mentioned the ſaid Church to be notoriouſly ſituated within his Dioceſe and Juriſdiction; and that he had dedicated the ſame to the Worſhip of the Holy and Undivided Trinity; and named it, The Church, or Chapel, of St. James within Aldgate.

THEN the ordinary Prayers were ſaid, with three Select Pſalms, by Thomas Langley, and other Petty Canons of St. Paul's. Then the 23d Pſalm was ſung with Muſical Inſtruments: And a Sermon was preached by John Whiting, D. D. out of 2 Samuel vii. He ſhall build a Houſe for my Name, &c.

THEN a Child was baptized; Sir Henry Marten, the Biſhop's Vicar-General, Sir William Cockain, Alderman, and the Lady Mayoreſs, being Sureties; baptized by the Biſhop, and named James.

THEN the Biſhop made another Prayer, praying GOD to accept that Day's Duty and Service of Dedicating that Church to his Great and Dreadful Name.

THEN the Biſhop went to the Chancel, and called the Mayor and Aldermen; to whom, being placed before the Lord's Table, he ſpake in theſe, or the like Words:

MY Lord Mayor, and you the Aldermen and Commonalty of this CITY; "You have done "a worthy Work in Building this Houſe for "GOD. It is your moſt earneſt Deſire to have "it Conſecrated; which Requeſt you have ob-"tained, and therein a double Favour both "from GOD, that it hath pleaſed him to accept "from ſimple Men, ſuch mean Offers, and to tie "his Pleaſure by Promiſe to ſuch Places as this, "and alſo from the Church, which hath appoint-"ed the Means for performing thereof; and this "Requeſt is by me already ſatisfied, and that Duty "performed. Now then you muſt know, that this "Place is become an Anathema; and that in "every Anathema is both a Conſecration "and an Execration, a Bleſſing and a Curſe. "If you ſhall uſe it rightly, and to that Pur-"poſe only for which it is ſanctified, it will be "an Anathema, a Bleſſing to you and your Fa-"milies: If otherwiſe, and that you profane it, "it will be an Anathema, a Curſe to you and "your Poſterity.

"THEREFORE I do here charge you, in the "Name of Almighty GOD, in whoſe Preſence "you now appear, and to whoſe Great and Glori-"ous Name this Place is now Dedicated; that "neither ye by yourſelves, nor by any Permiſſion "of others, do ſuffer any Thing to be done con-"trary to what is now intended and performed: "If ye ſhall, I do call the great GOD of Hea-"ven, before whoſe Altar ye now ſtand, and "this Congregation here, Witneſs againſt the "Souls of you and yours, at the dreadful Day "of Judgment: But my Hope is, you will not. "And yet, for more Aſſurance, I do require "you to paſs me your Promiſes before GOD and

" this Company, not to do or ſuffer it any way " to be profaned.

AND accordingly the Mayor and Aldermen gave their Words, and promiſed ſufficient to endow the Church for a Prieſt to ſerve in it.

AND then the Biſhop read a Prayer for a Collect.

THIS being done, they betook themſelves to the Lord's Supper, and the Archbiſhop, the Mayor, Aldermen, and ſeveral others received: And then the Biſhop pronounced another Prayer for a Concluſion.

THEN they all went to the Plats ſet out for the Church-yard, and one of the Biſhop's Chaplains, viz. Thomas Worral, B. D. read the 23d Chapter of Geneſis. Then the Vicar General gave the Biſhop an Inſtrument, ſetting forth the Places, with their Dimenſions, allotted for the Church-yard: And then the Biſhop read, In Nomine Domini, &c. Cum Honorandus Vir Dominus Mayor, &c. Then he added a Prayer, That thoſe that ſhould hereafter be committed to that Earth, might be ſo guided by GOD's Grace, while they are here in this World, that ſetting GOD evermore before their Eyes, and accounting all Things vain in Compariſon of their enjoying their only GOD and SAVIOUR, might live in his Fear, and die in his Faith, and ſo be made Heirs of his everlaſting Kingdom.

AND ſo the Biſhop diſmiſſed the whole Congregation in Peace, with the Apoſtolical Benediction.

THIS Inſtrument was ſigned and dated the 10th Day of January, Anno Dom. 1622, and of the Biſhop's Tranſlation the Second.

IN the Beginning of the Reign of K. Charles I, the Pariſh of St. Catharine Creechurch contended with this new Pariſh of St. James's Duke's-Place, as though all that Place was but a Precinct of the Pariſh of St. Catharine. In this Suit, Dr. Barnaby Gooch, Maſter of Magdalen College in Cambridge, with the Fellows of the ſame Houſe, Patrons of Creechurch, joined with Stephen Deniſon, Miniſter, or Curate, of the ſaid Pariſh. This Matter obtained a final Decree by three Judges, Delegates, Thomas Talbot, Hugh Barker, and Edmund Pope, Doctors of Law, viz. That within the Duke's-Place there formerly ſtood a certain Pariſh Church of the Holy Trinity, and that the Inhabitants within the ſaid Place frequented it, for the celebrating Divine Things. And this Church of St. James's, newly built and re-edified within the Place called Duke's-Place, was, and is, rightfully and lawfully, together with the Church-yard adjoining to it, conſecrated by GEORGE, by Divine Providence, Biſhop of LONDON, and named the Church of St. James's within Aldgate, and ought ſo to be had and eſteemed, and to be a Pariſh Church.

Sir Edward Barkham, Alderman of LONDON, by his Will, dated January 15, 1632, gave unto the Parſon of the new Church in Duke's-Place, the yearly Sum of 40 s. to be paid to the ſaid Parſon yearly, for the Time being, upon Good-Friday, upon Condition the ſaid Parſon preach a Sermon in the aforeſaid Church upon the Maunday-Thurſday; and to ten of the pooreſt People of the Pariſh, that have been at the Sermon that Day, 2 s. a-piece, to be diſtributed at the Diſcretion of the Church-wardens; that is, 20 s. to the Poor; which 3 l. to be yearly iſſuing out of a Meſſuage, or Tenement, called The Flower-de-Lis.

THIS Tenement being burnt down in the great Fire, the Heir of the ſaid Sir Edmund Barkham did, Anno 1668, pray the Judges, ſitting in the Hall of Clifford's-Inn, That the ſaid Legacy might therefore be abated; and the Judges ordered, that the third Part ſhould be abated for 40 Years next to come; to begin at Chriſtmas 1668; and when the 40 Years were expired, to be 3 l. as formerly.

The PARISH-CHURCH of St. CATHARINE CREECHURCH.

THE Pariſh-Church of St. Catharine ſtandeth in the Cœmitery of the ſame diſſolved Priory of the Holy Trinity, and is therefore called St. Catharine Chriſt's-Church.

THE Pariſhioners, as it appeareth by a Leiger-Book of Chriſt's Church Priory, did at firſt meet together for Divine Service, at the Altar of St. Mary Magdalen, in the South Part of this Conventual Church: But afterwards, an Inconvenience being found therein, per Diſſonantiam vocum, when Service was ſaying to the Canons in another Part of the Church, and at the ſame Time to the ſaid Pariſhioners here in this Part of it: Therefore, by the Conſent and Agreement, as well of the Prior and Convent, as of the Pariſhioners aforeſaid, the Chapel of St. Catharine was built in the Church-yard of the ſaid Church, at the Motion of the Lord Richard de Graveſhende, Biſhop of LONDON [who was Biſhop from the Year 1280 to 1303] In which Chapel Service might be more quietly performed: But there happened upon this much Contention and Diſcord between Robert Exeter the Prior, and the Pariſhioners; which continued to the Time of William Haradon, Prior, and Lord Richard Clifford, Biſhop of LONDON, who in the Time of his ordinary Viſitation, (which happend Anno 1414) made an Agreement between them by mutual Conſent, in the Compoſition following:

THAT a Baptiſmal Font in the Church or Chapel ſhould be erected a-new, for Baptizing of Children, and other Things there neceſſary or ſeaſonable to be done. And that other Solemnities and Services ſhould be performed, for perpetual future Times in their ſaid Church or Chapel.

ALSO, that the Pariſhioners repair yearly to the Conventual Church in the Feſtival of the Holy Trinity, and alſo in the Feſtival of the Dedication of the ſaid Conventual Church, falling out on the Morrow of St. Bartholomew the Apoſtle, every Year; and giving due Reverence to the ſaid Church, in Token of Subjection and Acknowledgment, each at leaſt in the ſame Feſtivals, ſhould offer humbly and devoutly ſingle Pence, Halfpence, or Farthings.

BUT in caſe the ſame Pariſhioners were minded to celebrate the Solemnity of the Dedication of the ſaid Church or Chapel of St. Catharine, in the ſame Church or Chapel, we do not hinder the Devotion and Will of the ſaid Pariſhioners; yea, rather with a Paternal Affection yield to it.

THAT there be no Ringing to the Office of the Reſurrection in the Church or Chapel, till ſuch Office in the Conventual Church, on the uſual Time, be done.

THAT Service be ſaid to the Pariſhioners by one of the ſaid Canons in their ſaid Church or Chapel, according to the Will of the Prior and Convent, as was accuſtomed antiently before this Ordinance.

TO have to the ſaid Pariſhioners all the Sacraments and Sacramentals to be performed by him, or by ſome Canon, or Secular Prieſt to be deputed in his Abſence.

THE Prior and Convent not bound to find a-new, or ſupport any Ornaments or Burthens to the ſame Church, on Account of this Ordinance, or having been enjoined by any, may they be forced to it. Given and acted in the Chapter-Houſe of the Priory, in the Year of the Incarnation of our Lord 1414. Witneſs John Swayn, Doctor of both Laws, our Chancellor, Peter Hynewick, &c.

THIS Compoſition was confirmed by the Pope.

WHEN Monday publiſhed his Edition of Stow, he ſaith this Church ſeemed to be very old, and that the high Street having been often raiſed by new Pavements, Men were fain to deſcend into the ſaid Church by divers Steps, ſeven in Number; the old Steeple, or Bell Tower was built about the Year 1504, long after the other Part, Sir John Percival, Merchant-Taylor, at his Death leaving Money for that Purpoſe.

THE preſent Structure was raiſed in the Year 1630, and the Dial-Poſt and Clock in 1662, the Entrance in Leadenhall-ſtreet is now up two or three Steps, by a handſome Door-caſe, adorned with two Pillars, and an open Pediment of the Ionick Order; it eſcaped the Fire in 1666, was repaired and beautified Anno 1686, at the Charge of the Pariſh, and again, in a very elegant Manner, the laſt Year, as appears by this Inſcription under the Organ Gallery:

This Church was new pewed, paved and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhioners. Ann. Dom, 1732.

At the North Weſt Angle of the Church, near the Organ is a neat Marble Monument, thus inſcribed:

Sacred to the Memory of Mr. Samuel Marſhal, who was a bright Scholar to the excellent Dr. Blow, an admired, uſeful and ſedulous Ornament to the Choir of St. Paul, above 11 Years, the exquiſite Organiſt of this Church, and Maſter to other good Organiſts.

His very artful, ſolemn, and moving Compoſitions and Performances, for, and in the Service of God, &c. tho' through his Humility diſregarded by himſelf, have deſervedly raiſed him a great Name and Eſteem among the beſt and moſt impartial Judges of them.

He was very unaffectedly charitable, generous, faithful, ſincere, neat and amiable, but ſuffered much by over Credulity, Exceſs of Modeſty, and good Nature, and by falſe Reports.

Before his laſt languiſhing Illneſs, occaſioned by Grief, he regained that Spirit of Piety, for which he had been early diſtinguiſhed, and ſo ended his Life, as has cauſed Joy in Heaven.

As he was fervently praying for Bleſſings on us all, and juſt had ſaid Amen, [the laſt Word he ever ſpoke] he ſweetly and gladly died in the Lord, March 11, $17\frac{13}{14}$, Æ. S. 27.

His Body lies interred under this Organ, facing the Middle Iſle, expecting a glorious Reſurrection to endleſs Bliſs.

In this Church likewiſe is interred Johanna Wife of John Sayer, Merchant.

Samuel Strype, Apprentice to James Stanier, Merchant.

Suſanna, ſome Time Wife of James Crawforth of this Pariſh, and eldeſt Daughter of John Strype, Clerk.

It is ſaid, that Hans Holben, the inimitable Painter in King Henry VIII's Time, was buried in this Church; and that the Earl of Arundel, that great Patron of Learning and Arts, would have ſet up a Monument to his Memory here, had he been certain where the Corpſe lay.

Of the Foundation of this Church, Mr. Strype gives the following Account:

The firſt Brick, as alſo the firſt Stone in this Foundation, was laid by Mr. Martin Bond of this Pariſh, Alderman's Deputy of the Ward, and one of our City Captains. The Brick was laid laid the 23d of June 1630, and the Stone (a principal Corner Stone) the 28th of July following.

MANY of the Pariſhioners (following this worthy Leader) laid every Man his Stone, with which they laid ſomething elſe, which the Workmen took up very thankfully.

ON the Back-ſide of the North Wall of the old Church, was a Cloiſter, the Breadth of it ſeven Feet and above: Which Cloiſter, by the taking down of that Wall, being taken into the Church, gave it all its Breadth to enlarge it.

IN digging under this Wall, there was found the Figure of half the Face of a Man, caſt in Lead; the Mould ſetting likewiſe upon it this Word, Comes.

DIGGING under the South Row of Pillars, they found the Skull of a Man, the Thickneſs of which was three Quarters of an Inch, and better; meaſured by many, and admired by all that have ſeen it.

AT the Weſt End of this Church, adjoining to the Steeple, ſtands a Pillar of the old Church, as it ſtood, and was there erected. This Pillar (from the Baſis, or Foot, to the Chapiter, or Head, upon which the old Arch was raiſed) being 18 Feet high, and but three to be ſeen above Ground, ſhews the Meaſure, or Height, to which the Floor of this Church had been raiſed above that of the old, which is, the hidden Part of the Pillar, or the 15 Feet of it buried.

THIS Structure, not of Brick, but built from the Ground with the choiceſt Free-Stone, was ſupplied, furniſhed, and enriched with whatſoever might add to its greater Grace and Luſtre, and finiſhed in the Year aforeſaid.

IN this Year (accounting from March to March) upon the 16th Day of January, it was Conſecrated by the Right Reverend Father in GOD, William Lord Biſhop of LONDON; and upon the ſame Day (as on ſuch it is uſual with us) were the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and the Sacrament of Baptiſm, adminiſtred.

IN this Church the Pulpit and Communion-Table are pure Cedar, and both the Gift of Mr. John Dyke, a Merchant, living in this Pariſh.

A very handſome Gate built at the Eaſt End of the South Wall, was the Gift of William Avenen, Citizen and Goldſmith of LONDON, who died in December 1631, as is expreſſed by an Inſcription over it.

The PARISH of St. ANDREW UNDERSHAFT

AT the North Weſt Corner of this Ward, in the ſaid high Street, ſtands the Pariſh Church of St. Andrew the Apoſtle, with an Addition, to be known from other Churches of that Name, of the Knape, or Underſhaft, and ſo called St. Andrew Underſhaft, becauſe that of old Time, every Year (on May-day in the Morning) it was uſed, that an high or long Shaft, or Maypole, was ſet up there in the midſt of the Street, before the South Door of the ſaid Church; which Shaft when it was ſet on End, and fixed in the Ground, was higher than the Church Steeple. Geffrey Chaucer, writing of a vain Boaſter, hath theſe Words, meaning of the Shaft.

Right well aloft
And high, ye bear your Head,
The Weather-Cock with flying,
As ye would kill
When he be ſtuffed
Bet of Wine than Bread,
Then look ye
When your Womb doth fill
As ye would bear
The great SHAFT of Cornhill.
Lord, ſo merrily
Crowdeth then your Croke,
That all the Street
May hear your Body Cloke.

THIS Shaft was not raiſed at any Time ſince Evil May-day, (ſo called from an Inſurrection made by Apprentices, and other young Perſons, againſt Aliens, in the Year 1517) but the ſaid Shaft was laid along over the Doors, and under the Pentiſes of one Row of Houſes, and Alley-gate, called from the Shaft, Shaft-alley, (being of the Poſſeſſions of Rocheſter Bridge) in the Ward of Lime-ſtreet.

IT was there hanged on Iron Hooks many Years, till the third of King Edward VI, that one Sir Stephen, Curate of St. Catharine Chriſt's Church, preaching at Paul's-Croſs, ſaid there, That this Shaft was made an Idol, by naming the Church of St. Andrew, with the Addition of Under that Shaft: He perſwaded them therefore, that the Names of Churches might be altered: Alſo, that the Names of Days in the Week might be changed, the Fiſh Days to be kept any Day, except Friday and Saturday, and the Lent any Time, ſave only betwixt Shrovetide and Eaſter.

Stow ſaith, That he oftentimes ſaw this Man forſake the Pulpit of his ſaid Pariſh Church, and preach out of an high Elm Tree in the midſt of the Church-yard, and then entering the Church, forſaking the Altar, he would ſing high Maſs in Engliſh, upon a Tomb of the Dead towards the North. He alſo heard his Sermon at Paul's-Croſs, and ſaw the Effect that followed: For in the Afternoon of the ſaid Sunday, the Neighbours, and Tenants to the ſaid Bridge, over whoſe Doors the ſaid Shaft had lain, after they had dined, to make themſelves ſtrong, gathered more Help, and with great Labour raiſing the Shaft from the Hooks, (whereon it had reſted 32 Years) they ſawed it in Pieces, every Man taking for his Share, ſo much as had lain over his Door or Stall, the Length of his Houſe; and they of the Alley, divided amongſt them ſo much as had lain over their Alley-Gate. Thus was this Idol as he, poor Man, termed it, mangled, and after burnt.

The Shaft, or Maypole, ſaw'd in Pieces and burnt.

SOON after there was a Commotion among the common People of Norfolk, Suffolk, Eſſex, and other Shires: On which Account ſtrict Orders were given to ſuppreſs all Rumours, divers Perſons were apprehended and executed by Martial Law; amongſt whom the Bailiff of Rumford in Eſſex was one, a Man very well beloved: He was early in the Morning of Mary Magdalen's Day, then kept Holiday, brought by the Sheriffs of LONDON, and the Knight Marſhal, to the Well within Aldgate, there to be executed upon a Gibbet, ſet up that Morning, where being on the Ladder, he ſpoke to this Effect:

Good People,

" I am come hither to die, but know not for " what Offence, except for Words by me ſpo- " ken Yeſternight to Sir Stephen, Curate and " Preacher of this Pariſh, which were theſe: " He asked me, What News in the Country? " I anſwered, Heavy News. Why, quoth he? " It is ſaid, quoth I, that many Men be up in " Eſſex, but Thanks be to GOD all is in good " Quiet about us: And this was all, as GOD be " my Judge, &c.

UPON theſe Words of the Priſoner, Sir Stephen, to avoid the Reproach of the People, left the City, and never heard of among them afterwards. Stow heard theſe Words of the Priſoner, for he was executed on the Pavement before his Door.

THUS much by way of Digreſſion; now to return to the Pariſh-Church of St. Andrew Underſhaft, for it ſtill retaineth that Name.

THIS Church was new built, and in the Year 1532 finiſhed at the Charge, for the moſt Part, of William Fitz-Williams, Eſq; (Sheriff of LONDON) in the Year 1506, and afterward of Council to King Henry VIII. It was alſo repaired and beautified in 1627, in Feb. 1704, and again in the Year 1723. It was all new wainſcotted, pewed, paved, and then finiſhed at the Pariſh Charge: It had the good Fortune to eſcape the Flames in the Year 1666, as the reſt of the Pariſh did, tho' the Fire came very near it.

THE Church is a Gothick Building, the Wainſcot, Pews, and Pulpit are of Norway Oak.

THE Pulpit is finely finnier'd, and carved. In the Pannel thereof, which directly fronts the South, there is a Glory, the Rays whereof and †IHS, (or Jeſus Holy Saviour) are particularly curious, and the whole adorned with Cherubims, Flowers, Fruit, Leaves, Books diſplayed, &c. in great Perfection.

THE Altar-piece is alſo new railed round, and paved with Marble, the Commandments done in Gold on Black, as the Creed and the Lord's Prayer are enrich'd with Cherubims; the Portraits of Moſes and Aaron painted, and upon the Cornice over the Commandments is the King's-Arms carved at large, over which are painted on Glaſs at full Length, the Effigies of theſe Royal Perſons, Edward VI, Queen Elizabeth, King James I, King Charles I, and King Charles II, Promoters of the Reformation of the Church, and there are alſo ſeveral Coats of Arms painted in the Windows round the Church, and the Roof is on the Inſide cieled, ſtrengthen'd and adorned with Timber. The Organ Gallery is alſo new and handſome, elevated on Columns of the Corinthian Order.

THE Length of this beautiful Church is about 96 Feet, Breadth 54, and Height 42. The Altitude of the Square Tower is about 73 Foot and a half, wherein are ſix Bells, and to the Top of the Turret it is about 91 Feet.

THIS well deſerving Citizen, and moſt elaborate Writer, is repreſented in this Monument by a good Figure, which ſeems to be of Stone; but Mr. Strype ſaith, He has been told by an ingenious Perſon in Antiquities, that it is only Clay burnt, and painted; a fine Art known in former Times. He is in this Monument ſitting with a Table before him, on which lieth a Book open, and hath many Books about him, with a reverend Aſpect, bald on his Head, a ſhort white Beard, and ſhort Hair above his Ears.

AS we are greatly indebted to this worthy Author, for the moſt Part of what relates to the Antiquities of LONDON, in this Work, it may not be improper to give ſome Account of him in this Place.

The Life of Stow.

John Stow, the Author of the Annals of England, and the Survey of LONDON, was born in that City, in the Pariſh of St. Michael Cornhill, Cornhill, about the Year 1525, in the 17th of Henry VIII. His Father, altho' he lived in Cornhill for the Sake of his Trade, yet was a Man of ſuch Rank and Eſtate, that he had a Garden to retire to for his Pleaſure and Diverſion, ſituated on the Backſide of Throgmorton-ſtreet, in Broad-ſtreet Ward, near the Place where now the Drapers Hall ſtandeth, which then was the Houſe of Sir Thomas Cromwell, King Henry VIII's great Miniſter, and Secretary of State.

Stow, a Taylor by Trade.

John Stow ſeemed to follow his Father's Trade, whatever it were. In a Letter of Grindal, Biſhop of LONDON, to the Privy Council, concerning a Search that was made by his Chaplain in Stow's Houſe, for Papiſtical Books, he called him Stow the Taylor, which perhaps might be more than barely relating to the Company of Merchant-Taylors, of which he was free; but might beſpeak him a Taylor by Trade, ſince in former Times, Men of that Occupation lived, and had their Shops in Cornhill, and were then of more Reputation and Wealth than of later Times Men of the ſame Trade commonly are.

THESE Shopkeepers, as they ſold Cloth out of the Piece, ſo they uſed to make and fit it for Wearing.

IN the Year 1544, Stow was in ſome great Danger, by Reaſon of a falſe Accuſation, given in againſt him by a Prieſt. But the Prieſt's Perjury, was at length diſcovered, and met with a due Deſert; for he was adjudged in the Star-chamber to ſtand upon the Pillory, and have his Cheek marked with F. A. for Falſe Accuſation.

HOW ſoon Stow removed from Cornhill, is uncertain, but in the third of Edward VI, he dwelled within Aldgate, where the Pump now ſtands, where a Man was hanged before his Houſe, as is before related.

AFTERWARDS Stow removed his Dwelling to Lime-ſtreet Ward, but in this Pariſh of St. Andrew Underſhaft, where he continued till his Death, following his beloved Study of the Hiſtory and Antiquity of England more than his Trade, on which Account he reduced himſelf at laſt to ſome Straits.

IT was about the Year 1560, that he began his Searches for compoſing a Chronicle. The greateſt Part of his Time from hence to his Death, he employed in collecting ſuch Matters as he thought worthy to be recommended to Poſterity, which was 40 Years and upwards.

INDEED, after ſome Time, he began to be diſcouraged, and to lay aſide theſe Studies, and follow his Calling more diligently, becauſe of the little Gain that came from his Studies, the great Charge of purchaſing Manuſcripts, and the Neceſſity of looking after a Subſiſtance and Proviſion for his Family: But Archbiſhop Parker (who as he was a great Friend to theſe Studies himſelf, ſo was he a Patron to others that addicted themſelves to them) excited him to go on, and was a good Benefactor to him, as he gratefully upon Occaſion acknowledged: And namely, in his Dedication of his Annals to Archbiſhop Whitgift, he ſaith, That he was hereunto induced, for that his worthy Predeceſſor, and his eſpecial Benefactor, Archbiſhop Parker, animated him in the Courſe of thoſe Studies; which otherwiſe he had long ſince diſcontinued: But that excellent Prelate died, and left him to ſtruggle with his former Diſcouragements. He worſted indeed hereby his Paternal Eſtate, neglected his Buſineſs, and was expoſed alſo to the Cenſures and Backbitings of Criticks, and other evil-diſpoſed Men; which is ſuggeſted by Edmund Howes, that ſet out with Enlargements, Stow's Chronicle, after his Death; who in his Preface, mentioned ſome, that when he, the ſaid Howes, had moved them to go on in a Continuation of Stow's Books, one cried he could not ſee, how in any civil Action, a Man ſhould ſpend his Travel, Time, and Money worſe than in that; acquiring no Regard nor Reward, except Backbiting and Detraction. Another ſwore an Oath, and ſaid, "That he thanked "God he was not yet Mad, to waſte his Time, "ſpend 200 l. a Year, trouble himſelf, and all "his Friends, only to gain Aſſurance of endleſs "Reproach, Loſs of Liberty, &c." hinting perhaps hereby what poor Stow at laſt was reduced to.

BUT to proceed to further Accidents of this Man's Life. He was looked upon as no great Friend to the Reformation of Religion; but being an Admirer of Antiquity in Religion, as well as in Hiſtory, he came into ſome Trouble in the Year 1568. Report was brought to the Queen's Council, as tho' he were a ſuſpicious Perſon, and had a great many dangerous Books of Superſtition in his Cuſtody: And, therefore, they ſent to Grindal, Biſhop of LONDON, (of whoſe Dioceſe Stow was) to cauſe his Study to be ſearched. Watts, the ſaid Biſhop's Chaplain, and Bedel, Clerk to the Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſion, and one Williams, another Divine, were accordingly diſpatched to Stow's Houſe, where all his Books and MSS they could find, were duly examined. The Report thereupon they made to the Biſhop was, That he had great Collections of his own for the Engliſh Chronicles; wherein, as Watts ſignified to the Biſhop, he ſeemed to have beſtowed much Travel. They found alſo a great Sort of old Books Printed; ſome fabulous, as of Sir Degory Triamour, &c. and a great Parcel of old MSS Chronicles, both in Parchment and Paper. And that, beſides, he had Miſcellaneous Tracts, touching Phyſick, Surgery, and Herbs, and Medicinal Recipes; and alſo fantaſtical old Popiſh Books printed in old Time; alſo others written in old Engliſh in Parchment: But another Sort of Books he had more modern, of which the ſaid Searchers thought fit to take an Inventory, as likely moſt to touch him; and they were Books lately ſet forth in the Realm, or beyond Sea, in Defence of Papiſtry. Which Books, as the Chaplain ſaid, declared him a great Fautor of that Religion. Some of theſe Books, the Liſt whereof ſo taken, and ſent to the Biſhop, were,

A Parliament of Chriſt; made by Thomas Heskyns.

The Hatchet of Hereſy; ſet out by Shacklock.

Expoſition of the Creed, Ten Commandments, Pater Noſter, Ave Maria. By Biſhop Bonner.

Five Homilies; made by Leonard Pollard, Prebendary of Worceſter.

A Proof of certain Articles of Religion, denied by Mr. Juell.

A Book made by Dorman.

With a great many more of that Kind.

HOW he came off is uncertain; but being looked after with a watchful Eye, his Inclinations in Religion being known, he was not long after, about the Year 1570, dangerouſly accuſed before the Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſioners, by one who had been his Servant, and after he had defrauded him of his Goods, now ſought to deprive him of his Life, by a falſe Accuſation, conſiſting of no leſs than Sevenſcore and odd Articles. A far leſs Number would have ſerved to have diſpatched a Man out of the World, if they could have been proved. The Witneſſes againſt him were ſuch, as ſome whereof had been detected of Perjury, others burnt in the Hand for Felony, and ſuch like. But nevertheleſs none of theſe could ſufficiently prove any one of thoſe numerous rous Articles againſt him before the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the other Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſioners, as appeared in their Regiſter. Stow would have proſecuted theſe, his falſe Accuſers, but was anſwered by Some, that there was no Remedy againſt them, by means of the Statute made; which, it ſeems, favoured Informers for the Queen.

THESE were dangerous Times to the Queen and State, by reaſon of Malecontents, and diſaffected Perſons to Religion, and the Pope's Creatures; who were ſent over to make Diſturbance in the Government, and had raiſed a dangerous Rebellion in the North. And ſo many innocent Perſons, ſuſpected to be of the Roman Religion, were brought into Queſtion.

Stow ſeems to have been accuſed by his own Brother, for in his Chronicle, in Queen Mary's Reign, Anno 1556, relating to the Puniſhment of a Man, who was brought from Weſtminſter, with his Face to the Horſe's Tail, and with a Paper on his Head, to the Standard in Cheap, and there ſet on the Pillory, and then burnt on the Cheek with the Letters F. A. for falſe accuſing of one of the Court of Common-Pleas of Treaſon. "The "like Juſtice, ſaid he, I once wiſhed to the like "Accuſer of his Maſter and eldeſt Brother, &c.

AND again, in his Survey of Cordwainer-ſtreet Ward, having mentioned one William Fitz-osbert, a Deceiver, a Murtherer, a filthy Fornicator, and among other Crimes, a falſe Accuſer of his elder Brother, who had in his Youth brought him up to Learning, and done many Things for him; and the ſad End he deſervedly came to at laſt, namely, draw'd by the Heels to the Elms in Smithfield, and there hanged: The Author ſeemed hereupon to think of his own Caſe, by his Note in the Margin, viz. A falſe Accuſer of his elder Brother, in the End was hanged. God amend, or ſhortly ſend ſuch an End to ſuch falſe Brethren.

HE hath alſo, in his Survey, another Fling at this falſe Brother of his; viz. where he was mentioning a Fuller, who dwelt at Shoreditch, that had impeached wrongfully of Treaſon, many honeſt Gentlemen in King Henry VI's Days, but was hanged, drawn, and quartered for his Pains, and his Head ſet on London-Bridge: And then ſhewing how juſtly this Puniſhment was inflicted on him, quoted a Place of Scripture for it, Deut. xvi. That if the Judges making Inquiſition, ſhould find a Perſon giving falſe Witneſs againſt his Brother, then they ſhould do unto him, as he had thought to do unto his Brother. And here in the Margin he writeth, The Reward of a falſe Brother.

Stow could not be taken off from his Studies, but earneſtly and indefatigably applied himſelf to make Collections of Hiſtorical Remarks, to enable him to compile an Hiſtory of England, under the ſeveral Kings thereof, and a Survey of the City of LONDON, his native Place. And to furniſh him with the former, he got into his Poſſeſſion as many of the antient Engliſh Writers, both printed and Manuſcript, as he could, by Money or Favour; and ſeemed, at length, to have ſo thoroughly converſed with them, that he was able to give a critical Character of all his Authors. He alſo became acquainted with ſuch as were famous for their Love of Antiquity in his Time; as Archbiſhop Parker, Lambard, admirably skilled in Saxon Learning, and Author of the Perambulation of Kent, Archion, Irenarcha, and other curious Things; Bowyer, Keeper of the Records of the Tower, and the firſt Digeſter of them into ſome Method, the learned Camden, and many others of leſs Note.

AND for his Knowledge in the Antiquities of the City, he alſo procured to himſelf all the old Books, Parchments, Inſtruments, Muniments, Charters, Regiſters, Journals, relating to LONDON, that he could poſſibly get. And withal got Acceſs into the Archives of the Chamber of LONDON, where he peruſed the Volumes of moſt Fame there, for the City's antient Privileges, Charters, Laws, and Cuſtoms; as the Books Horne, Dunthorne, Liber Albus, and doubtleſs many other Records preſerved in that Chamber.

THE firſt Book he put forth of the Hiſtory of England, was his Summary of the Chronicles of England, from the Coming in of Brute to his own Time. The Occaſion of his firſt ſetting upon this Hiſtorical Work, was by the Motion of the Lord Robert Dudley; when in the Year 1562, Stow preſented him with an ingenious Book of Edmund Dudley, his Grandfather's Compiling, during his Impriſonment in the Tower, entitled, The Tree of the Commonwealth; which he dedicated to King Henry VIII, but it never came to his Hand. The Original of this Piece Stow, a Collector of curious Things, obtained: And the Copy, fair written, he took an Occaſion to give to the ſaid Lord; but the Original he reſerved to himſelf. Then, at that great Man's Requeſt, he firſt collected his Summary, which he dedicated to him. In Reward whereof, ſaith he, I always received his hearty Thanks, with Commendations, and not otherwiſe. But the contrary had been maliciouſly reported by his Adverſary T. S. (his Brother, 'tis ſuppoſed.)

AFTER his Summary, he publiſhed (in the Year 1600, now after near forty Years Study of Hiſtory) his Flores Hiſtoriarum, that is, his Annals of this Land from the Time of the antient Britains, to his own; theſe were nothing elſe but his Summary greatly enlarged, which he dedicated to Archbiſhop Whitgift, moved thereunto, as he writ, by reaſon of that Prelate's great Love and entire Affection to all good Letters in general, and to Antiquities in particular, which had been ſo ſingular, that all that liked and loved good Studies, did juſtly eſteem him their Patron. This Epiſtle Dedicatory he dated from LONDON, Nov. the 24th, 1600. This Book was ſet forth again in the Year 1605, by Stow himſelf, with Enlargements, in the black Letter, in a thick Quarto, printed by George Biſhop. And even this was but a Contraction of a far larger Compoſition of the Hiſtory of England, which he had been forty Years and more a collecting, out of ſome hundreds of antient Authors, Regiſters, Chronicles, Lives, &c. and Writings of particular Cities and Towns: But the Printer, for ſome private Views, fearing, very likely, the Expence, choſe rather to be concerned in this leſs Work. In the next Page after his Epiſtle to the Reader, he ſets down the Names of the Authors, and Regiſters, Chronicles, Records, Books of Monaſteries, Charters, &c. whence he collected theſe his Annals: And one cannot but obſerve his infinite Pains, by that vaſt Number he had peruſed for his Purpoſe.

SOME Time before, (viz. Anno 1573) came forth the voluminous Chronicle of Britain, and the Kings and Queens thereof, printed and reprinted by Raphael Hollingſhead; being the laborious Collections of Reiner Wolfe, Printer to the Queen, and a grave and learned Citizen, and of others; which foreſtalled Stow's ſaid Hiſtory. But had the good Archbiſhop Parker liv'd, (who had ſet him on Work, both by his Requeſt and Command) it would have long before ſeen the Light, by that great Prelate's Furtherance, and (no doubt) Expence too. And it muſt be remembered here, that in the laſt and largeſt Edition of the ſaid Chronicle, (which ended at the Year 1587, and the 29th of the Queen) Stow communicated many conſiderable Additions to it, as in ſome Places of his Annals he lets us know, know, that he had a Hand in thoſe Chronicles ſet forth by Hollingſhead: Where, ſpeaking of a Book called, A Declaration of the favourable Dealing of the Queen's Commiſſioners, &c. he ſaith, "He had cauſed it to be ſet down in the "Continuation of that Chronicle, firſt collected "by Reyner Wolfe, and finiſhed by Ra. Holling- "ſhead". He alſo inſerted into the ſame Reyner Wolfe's Chronicle continued, A true and plain Declaration of the horrible Treaſons practiſed by William Parry. Likewiſe, A true and ſummary Report of ſome Part of the Earl of Northumberland's Treaſons delivered, &c. "Which, "ſaith Stow, are ſet down in my Continuation "of R. Wolfe's Chronicle. And likewiſe, A "Declaration of the Cauſe moving the Queen of "England to give Aid to the Defence of the Peo- "ple, afflicted and oppreſſed in the Low Coun- "tries". So that the whole Continuation, which was from the Year 1573, when that Chronicle firſt came out, to 1587, ſeems chiefly to be of Stow's Doing and Pains. Ralph Hollingſhead ended his Chronicle Anno 1576, with an Epilogue, wherein he acknowledged, that he had made Uſe of the Abridgment of Richard Grafton, and the Summaries of John Stow.

Survey of LONDON.

BUT now we proceed to another of his excellent Books publiſhed from Antiquities, viz. his Topographical Piece, called, A Survey of LONDON. The Reaſon that firſt put him upon doing this, was the Sight of a Book of the great Antiquarian, William Lambard, viz. his Perambulation of the County of Kent; whom (upon Occaſion of the mention of his Father's Monument in St. Michael Woodſtreet Church) he called his loving Friend, well known by ſundry learned Books which he publiſhed. As this Gentleman ſomewhere in that Book had deſired and called upon others, to write particular Deſcriptions of other Shires and Counties, where they were born, or dwelt, ſo our Author took his Warning, and attempted the Deſcription of this Place, where he was both born, and had his Habitation: Hoping alſo that he ſhould excite others, by his Example, to write Memorials of other Cities, and eminent Places of England, as he of this; and ſo to make up a whole Body of the Chorography of this Iſland among themſelves: And all this, he ſaid, was, that he might give Occaſion and Courage to Mr. Camden, to increaſe and beautify his ſingular Work of the Britannia.

Stow was alſo backed by ſome of his good Friends to ſet about this, as being a very fit Perſon to undertake it, having ſeen ſundry antient Writings and Muniments touching LONDON, by ſearching Records occaſionally for other Purpoſes; and alſo by many written Helps coming to his Hands, which few other had met with. It was likewiſe a Work very agreeable to his profeſſed Studies, and he accounted it a Duty that he owed to his native Mother and Country, and an Office that of Right he held himſelf bound in Love, to beſtow upon the Body Politick, and Members of the ſame.

AND how diligent Stow was, both by his Pains and Application, in gathering Matter for this his Book, appeared, in that he uſually reſorted to the Records, and thoſe who had the keeping of them, though ſome Time he met with no civil Reception from them; which may be gathered from a Paſſage of his in the Vintry Ward, where ſetting down divers Antiquities of the Company of Vintners, that he had collected, and ſtill enquiring after more, that being one of the antient and chief Corporations; he addreſſed himſelf one Day to the Hall, where was a Court of Aſſiſtants, and there read to them what he had collected concerning that Company for their Honour; thinking, that this would be ſo acceptable to them, the Brothers of that Society, that he ſhould have the Requeſt granted, that he intended to make to them; namely, To have the Leave to make further Search into their Archives, for the Uſe of his intended Survey: But what Anſwer ſome of them then gave him, and how he himſelf reſented it, may be ſeen by what he printed afterwards, under that Ward, concerning them; which was in the firſt Edition; but left out by himſelf in the ſecond and after Editions. His Words are theſe:

"HAVING thus much, not without Travel, "and ſome Charges, noted the Antiquity of "theſe Vintners, I repaired to the common "Hall of the ſame Company, and there ſhewed, "and read it in a Court of Aſſiſtants, requiring "them, as being one of the principal Compa- "nies in this City, of whom I meant therefore "to write more at large, if they knew any more "which might ſound to their Worſhip or Com- "mendation; at their Leiſure to ſend it me, "and I would join it to my former Collection. "At which Time I was anſwered by ſome, that "took upon them, That they were none of the "principal, but of the inferior Companies; and "ſo willing me to leave them, I departed, "and never ſince heard from them. Adding, "(which was Pity) that this had ſomewhat "diſcouraged him any farther to travel amongſt "the Companies, to learn ought at their "Hands.

HE lived to publiſh two Editions of his Survey, both in Quarto. The one, which was the firſt, came out Anno 1598; the other Anno 1603, within five Years; the firſt went off ſo well. This was printed by John Windet, Printer to the City, and dedicated, as the firſt was, to the Lord Mayor, the Commonalty, and Citizens. This Edition hath conſiderable Additions, put in by the Author, out of his old Store of many rare Notes of Antiquity, as he ſtiles them; and more he intended, but was prevented by Death.

IN the Year 1618, a third Edition, in Quarto, was publiſhed by A. M. a Citizen alſo, and dedicated to George Bolls, Lord Mayor, Sir Anthony Ben, Recorder, and all the Knights and Aldermen of the City; and to Dr. King, then Biſhop of LONDON. This Man made ſeveral Additions, (as he pretended) which, or much of which, (as he hinted in his Epiſtle) he had formerly from Stow himſelf; who, while he was alive, delivered him ſome of his beſt Collections, and uſed importunate Perſuaſions with him, to correct what he found amiſs, and to proceed in perfecting a Work ſo worthy: And being overcome by Affection to him, and much more by Reſpect to this Royal City, Birth-place to him as well as Stow, he undertook to further a Book (as far as his Abilites would extend) of ſuch needful Uſe. And this, he ſaith, he was employed about twelve Years in, and had the Encouragement of the Court of Aldermen in the Council-Chamber, being brought before them by Sir Henry Montague, the Recorder, afterwards Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench.

BUT the Additions this Editor made, were chiefly ſome Inſcriptions and Epitaphs ſet on the Monuments in the Pariſh Churches; a Continuation of the Names of the Mayors and Sheriffs to the Year of this Edition; and little more, except ſome Tranſcripts out of Stow's Summary and Annals; and here and there venturing to correct ſome pretended Errors of Stow, the Errors, indeed, being rather his own: For Stow was too exact and learned, to be corrected by ſuch an one, much inferior to him, both in Learning, and the Skill of Antiquity. Inſomuch, that it is wonderful, having had ſuch conſiderable Materials for the Work from Stow himſelf, and having alſo the Countenance of the Court of Aldermen, that ſo little Improvement of the Book was made by him. But in reſpect of his Diligence in converſing among Epitaphs, he is commended in the Epitaph upon his own Monument in Coleman-ſtreet Church.

He that hath many a Tomb-ſtone read,
I'th' Labour ſeeming more among the Dead
To Live, than with the Living; that ſurvey'd
Abſtruſe Antiquities, and o're them laid
Such vive and beauteous Colours with his Pen,
That ſpight of Time thoſe old are new agen, &c.

THIS A. M. was Anthony Monday, ſome Time the Pope's Scholar in the Seminary at Rome. Afterwards came home, and renouncing the Pope and Popery, wrote two Books concerning Matters of the Engliſh Prieſts and Papiſts abroad. One was called, The Diſcovery of Campion the Jeſuit, about the Year 1581, which he preſented to Bromley, Lord Chancellor; Lord Burleigh, Lord Treaſurer; and Robert Earl of Leiceſter. The other was, The Engliſh Roman Life, ſet forth Anno 1591, diſcovering the Lives of the Engliſhmen at Rome; and the Orders of the Engliſh Seminaries, &c.

THERE was yet a fourth Edition of the Survey put forth in the Year 1633, by the ſame A. M. together with H. D. C. J. and ſome others. This came out in Folio, and was likewiſe dedicated (as all the former Editions) to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, Recorder, and Citizens, by A. M. In this Edition was a Continuation of the Names of the Mayors and Sheriffs to that Year, and an Addition of the Coats of Arms of all the Mayors, and of all the Companies of LONDON, Merchants, and others; and ſome ſhort imperfect Account of the ſaid Companies Originals and Date of their Charters; ſome ſcattering Articles of the Statutes, Acts, and Cuſtoms of the City; an Act of Parliament, and an Act of Common Council, concerning the River Thames; the Oath of ſome City Officers; the Free Cuſtoms of the two Manors of Stepney and Hackney; more Cuſtoms and Orders for the City; Remains of other Things to be put in their due Places in the Work; which are concerning Dulwich College: The Time of the Reparations of Decays in the Churches, and Inſcriptions upon ſome Monuments and Stones there, or within four Miles Compaſs; with ſome other looſe, disjointed Matters, to be inſerted in proper Places of the Book; which, it ſeems, were ſent in to ſuch on whom the Care of the Work lay, but came too late. By this Time, the Book abounded with verbal Errata and Deviations from the Author's Edition, and Senſe; too tedious to mention many of them: Let one ſuffice.

IN the firſt Edition, in that Place of the Book where the Suburbs came to be handled, Wapping is divided into two diſtinct Places, viz. Wapping in the Woſe, and Wapping itſelf. In the ſecond Edition, (Stow being then in a weak Condition, and not able to look to the Sheets, as they came from the Preſs) Wapping in the Woſe was changed into Wapping in the Weſt, occaſioned, doubtleſs, by the Ignorance of him that had the Care of the Preſs, who knew not that Woſe or Ooſe meant a Mariſh Wet Land; which is perhaps that now called Wapping-Wall: But becauſe Wapping does not ſtand in the Weſt of LONDON, but contrary, in the Eaſt, therefore in the third Edition, it was printed Wapping in the Eaſt, and ſo remained in the fourth, in both which A. M. was concerned: By which we may judge of his Abilities to correct Stow; and in all the Editions, except the firſt, Wapping itſelf, which was the other Part of Wapping, was quite left out. So that this was one Error in the After-Editions of the Survey, that Wapping in the Woſe, and Wapping itſelf was turned into Wapping in the Weſt, and that turned into the Eaſt.

IN the Year 1720, this Book arrived to a fifth Edition, enlarged by ſome Scores of Sheets, ſet forth by the Reverend Mr. Strype, alſo a Citizen, born and bred, (as the former Editors were) and the Son of a Freeman of LONDON, and dedicated to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of LONDON, which Dedication they may claim by long and laudable Cuſtom, and alſo by their favourable Leave to conſult their Records. In this Edition great Numbers of Errors are corrected, and Stow reſtored to himſelf, the Remains are inſerted every where in their proper Places, the Hiſtory of the City brought down to that Time, and the Cuſtoms, Laws and Acts of Common Council (wherein the former Book was moſt of all defective) make a conſiderable Part of the Work.

IN both Books, viz. his Chronicle and Survey, Stow had the Advantage of making Uſe of Leland's ſix Volumes of Collections, where-ever he had them, which he tranſcribed, as it ſeems, for his own Uſe, and parted with them at length to the learned Camden, who is ſaid alſo to make great Uſe of them in writing his Britannia; and for theſe Papers of Leland, he had, by Agreement, an Annuity of 8*l.* during the ſaid Stow's Life. This we take upon the Credit of Brooks, or Brookſmouth, York Herald, in ſome Writings of his againſt Camden, intending thereby to charge him to have been a Plagiary; but to relate this Matter more particularly:

THIS Ralph Brookſmouth, as he had wrote a very virulent Book againſt Camden, entitled, A Diſcovery of Errors, &c. endeavouring therein to charge his Britannia with many Errors, eſpecially in Matters of Genealogy and Heraldry, and that ſince Queen Elizabeth had made him Clarencieux; ſo Cambden modeſtly, but learnedly, anſwered that angry Man, and vindicated what he had writ, and ſet his Anſwer at the End of an Edition of his Britannia, Anno 1600. This Herald wrote yet another Piece againſt Clarencieux, pretending to a ſecond Diſcovery of Errors in his Britannia, and in Juſtification of what he had publiſhed before, and that he had ſtolen from Leland: Therein he hath theſe Words:

" HIS new coated Britannia made and digeſt-
" ed of induſtrious Labours of John Leland, that " great Scholar, and painful Searcher of England's
" Antiquities, as may appear both by the ſaid
" Leland's ſix Volumes, written with his own " Hand, yet extant in Cuſtody of Mr. Osborne,
" of the Exchequer, as alſo by the ſaid Leland's
" New-Year's-Gift, dedicated to the ſame King,
" annexed to the End of my late Diſcovery,
" which ſix Books or Volumes were copied out
" by John Stow, and by him ſold to this learned " Man [Camden] for an Annuity of 8*l. per Ann.*
" which he did pay unto the ſaid Stow himſelf
" before his Death confeſſed to divers Perſons of " Credit, lamenting the Wrong done to Leland,
" both by that learned Man, and alſo by one
" Harriſon of Wyndeſore, who likewiſe had rob" bed Leland of the Iſlands adjacent to this " Realm of England, ſetting them in Holling-
" ſhead as his own Travels and Collection, &c."

Theſe Lines, reflecting unworthily upon Stow, as well as Camden, are eaſily anſwered, ſince both do freely acknowledge where they made Uſe of Leland, by ſetting his Name in their Margins.

AND our Author, as he had a Genius towards our Hiſtory, ſo he had an Advantage over many after him, in writing his Hiſtory and Survey, and that that was by living in thoſe Times when the Monaſteries were diſſolved. In which Places were repoſited moſt of the antient MSS as well relating to thoſe religious Foundations, as containing alſo Hiſtorical Accounts of the Kingdom, and Kings thereof, written by the Monks and learned Perſons, Members of thoſe Fraternities. By which Means he might probably come to the Sight of thoſe Regiſters, Records and Chronicles, which he ſo often cites.

And as Mr. Stow thus publiſhed, for the Benefit and Pleaſure of his Countrymen, his own Pains in Hiſtory; ſo likewiſe, as a hearty Promoter of the Antiquities of this Land, he gave all the Encouragement and Aſſiſtance that he could to others that beſtowed Labour that Way. Dr. David Powel, a learned Welchman, had communicated to him by Sir Henry Sidney, ſome Time Preſident of Wales, an antient MS of the Hiſtory and Antiquity of Wales, being a Collection of the Succeſſions and Acts of the Britiſh Princes after Cadwallador, unto the Year 1156, done by Caradoc of Lancarvan. Theſe Collections were kept in an Abbey of Conwey in Wales, and another Abbey, and were continued and augmented every three Years until the Year 1270. Theſe were copied out, ſo that there were an hundred Copies of them. This Book Humphrey Lloyd, Gentleman, tranſlated into Engliſh, and partly augmented out of Matthew Paris and Nicholas Trivet. The Copy of the Tranſlation Sir Henry Sidney (whoſe Diſpoſition was to ſeek after Antiquities, and the Weal Publick of the Countries, that he governed, rather than their Lands and Revenues) had lying by him a great while; and deſirous to have it printed, ſent for Dr. Powel, requiring him to peruſe and correct it, that it might be committed to the Preſs. For the poliſhing and improving this Work, he took a great deal of Pains, and had no ſmall Aſſiſtance from our Stow, who ſupplied him with a conſiderable Number of Manuſcript Hiſtorians, as the ſaid Powel acknowledges in his Preface.

He made many Notes and Corrections in the Works of the antient Poet Chaucer, of which he gives this Account himſelf, where he mentions his Tomb in the Abbey, That through his own painful Labour he had corrected thoſe Works, and twice increaſed them in Queen Elizabeth's Reign.

It doth not appear what Honour or Advantage Mr. Stow obtained, after all his extraordinary Pains and Study for the publick Good; unleſs that he ſeemed to have been made by the City their Chronicler, for ſo he is called in a Cauſe between the City and the Lieutenant of the Tower, about their Bounds and Liberties. By which Place it is likely he had the Liberty of Acceſs to the City Records. In this Cauſe he is called the City's fee'd Chronicler, but that, it is to be hoped, not becauſe he took Fees of the City to write only ſuch Things as might turn to their Honour and Advantage without a ſtrict Regard to Truth; but becauſe he received a Salary for the great Labour he was at in ſearching its Records and Archives to retrieve the Knowledge of its true Hiſtory, and of its antient Cuſtoms and Privileges.

He was afflicted near his End very much with Pain in his Feet; which, perhaps, was the Gout. In the Year 1602, or 1603, he was fain to keep his Bed four or five Months with it. Where he obſerved how his Affliction lay in that Part that formerly he had made ſo much Uſe of in walking many a Mile to ſearch after Antiquities, and antient Books and Manuſcripts. He was now within a Year or two of Fourſcore.

Together with his Age and his Infirmities, he was in his laſt Years oppreſs'd with Need; having ſpent his Patrimony, and the beſt Part of his Eſtate in theſe Studies, uſeful to this City, and to the Engliſh Nation, though not to himſelf. Theſe Afflictions he met with in his Life; but all Reproach his Memory hath out-lived, being now eſteemed one of the beſt and moſt exact of our Engliſh Hiſtorians.

In the Year 1604, he obtained a Licence from King James I, to collect the charitable Benevolence of well-diſpoſed People for his Subſiſtence, the Copy of which was communicated to Mr. Strype from the Rev. Dr. Tanner, then Chancellor of Norwich, by the Hands of Dr. Gibſon, the preſent Biſhop of LONDON, and is as followeth:

A Brief grant-ed to Stow by King James I.

STYWARD.

God Save the KING.

Printed by THOMAS BURFOOT.

THERE was another Brief granted to Stow, in the firſt Year of the King, as this above was granted the ſecond; that firſt expiring within a Twelvemonth, and ſo, probably, before the Collection was every where finiſhed. This firſt Brief was ſeconded by a Letter from the King, recommending the ſaid Stow's Condition: Which was to this Tenor:

" JAMES, by the Grace of GOD, King " of England, Scotland, France, and Ire- " land, Defender of the Faith, &c. To all our " well-beloved Subjects, Greeting. Whereas " our Loving Subject John Stow, a very aged and " worthy Member of our City of LONDON, " this five and forty Years hath, to his great " Charge, and with Neglect of his ordinary " Means of Maintenance, for the general Good, " as well of Poſterity as of the preſent Age, " compiled and publiſhed divers neceſſary Books " and Chronicles. And therefore We, in Re- " compence of theſe his painful Labours, and " for Encouragement to the like, have, in our " Royal Inclination, been pleaſed to grant our " Letters Patents under our Great Seal of Eng- " land, dated the 8th of May 1603; thereby " authorizing him the ſaid John Stow, and his " Deputy, to collect among our Loving Subjects " their voluntary Contribution and kind Gra- " tuity, as by the ſaid Letters Patents more at " large may appear. NOW, ſeeing that Our " ſaid Patents, being but one of themſelves, " cannot be ſhewed in divers Places, or Pariſhes, " at once, as the Occaſions of the ſpeedy put- " ting them in Execution may require. We " have therefore thought expedient, in this un- " uſual Manner, to recommend his Cauſe unto " you, having already in Our own Perſon, and " of Our ſpecial Grace, begun the largeſt, for " the Example of others. Given at our Palace " at Weſtminſter.

IT is without Date; this ſeeming to be the firſt Minutes of a Letter intended to be printed, and ſhewn by the Collectors, for the more Speed, where the Original Letters Patents could not ſo ſoon be produced.

ON the Back-ſide of this Letter was ſet down what was collected of the Pariſhioners of St. Mary Woolnoth, viz. 7 s. 6 d. with the Church-warden's Name ſubſcribed.

HE died April the 5th following, that is, within leſs than ſix Months after, of the Stone Cholick: So that it is to be feared, the poor Man made but little Progreſs in this Collection. 'Tis ſtrange that the City of LONDON, to which he had done ſuch Service and Honour, in writing ſuch an elaborate and accurate Survey thereof; nor the wealthy Company of Merchant-Taylors, of which he was a worthy and creditable Member; nor laſtly, the State, in grateful Remembrance of his diligent and faithful Pains, in compoſing an excellent Hiſtory of the Kingdom, neither of them had allotted him ſome Honorary Penſion during his Life. He being arrived at the Age of 80 Years, deceaſed, and was buried towards the upper End of the North Iſle of this Church of St. Andrew Underſhaft, and hath a handſome Monument ſet up for him, as before-mentioned. He left behind him a Widow and four Daughters.

AS to his Perſon, he was, as deſcribed by Edmund Howes, who well knew him, tall of Stature, lean in the Body and Face; his Eyes ſmall and Chryſtalline; of a pleaſant and chearful Countenance; his Sight and Memory very good; and he retained the true Uſe of all his Senſes to the Day of his Death. He was ſober, mild, and courteous. He always proteſted, never to have wrote any thing thro' Envy, Fear, or Favour, nor to ſeek his own particular Gain or Vain-glory; but that his only Pains and Care were to write Truth.

BUT before we finiſh Mr. Stow's Character, we muſt know more particularly what were the Diſpoſition, Inclination, and Endowments of his Mind; and what firſt offereth itſelf to be related in this Conſideration is, that he was an earneſt Student, and Lover of the Antiquity of his own Country; which was ſo great, that it made him, at length, lay aſide the Trade he was bred to, that he might wholly apply himſelf to it. He was an unwearied Reader of all Authors of Engliſh Hiſtory, whether printed, or in Manuſcript, and a Searcher into Records, Regiſters, Journals, Original Charters, Inſtruments, &c. as may be ſeen by the large Catalogues of them ſet down both in his Annals and Survey, as conſulted by him, and from whence the Materials and Authority of thoſe his Books were taken; as Teſtimonies of his Truth and Diligence.

AND it contented him not to have the reading of Books and Writings of this Kind, but he was greedy of making himſelf Poſſeſſor of them, as of a great Treaſure. By the Year 1568, he had furniſhed himſelf a conſiderable Library of ſuch; His Library. as appears from the Report of Mr. Watts, Archdeacon of LONDON, the Biſhop of LONDON's Chaplain, who was ſent to ſearch his Library, viz. " That he had a great Collection " of old Books and Manuſcripts, of all Sorts; " but eſpecially relating to Chronicle and Hi- " ſtory, both in Parchment and Paper; and that " there was abundance of Matter collected for " Hiſtory, Fundationes Eccleſiarum, Monaſteri- " orum, &c. Flores Hiſtoriarum, &c." And the Rarity of his Study was, that it was not only ſtored with antient Authors, but Original Charters, ters, Regiſters, and Chronicles of particular Places; ſuch as, the Regiſter of Bermondſey; the Regiſter of St. Edmund's-Bury; of the new Abby near the Tower; of St. Bartholomew Smithfield; of the Fryars Minors of LONDON, &c. theſe in Latin; other Regiſters in Engliſh; as, a Regiſter of the Knights of the Garter; a Regiſter of the Mayors of LONDON. He alſo had old Records of LONDON; Records of St. Aſaph; Chronicles of St. Alban's; Arnold's Chronicles; Annals of the Monaſtery of Hyde, &c. Moſt of which, he had purchaſed, or ſome way or other procured, with conſiderable Charge and Coſt (no Queſtion) out of his own Purſe. And he had the greater Opportunity to furniſh himſelf with theſe Things, living in the Times when they were diſperſed and ſcattered Abroad, and conveyed away into divers Hands, out of the Monaſteries and Religious Houſes, where they had been, for the moſt Part, diligently kept, and preſerved, and moſtly written by the Monks that dwelt and enjoyed their ſtudious Retirements there.

He was alſo a diligent Tranſcriber of ſuch antient and uſeful Books, and which he could not obtain or purchaſe, being of Eſteem with him, or ſerving to his Purpoſe. Thus he tranſcribed Leland's ſix Books of Collections, which turned very ſeaſonably to his Profit, as was ſaid before. Another Tranſcript of his was a Speech of Queen Elizabeth, to her Parliament, 27 Eliz. Anno 1584; which, with Stow's other Papers, coming afterwards into the Hands of Sir Simmonds d'Ews, Baronet, he preſented to the World, in his Journal of Parliaments; where he tells us, that it was written with Stow's own Hand; the Speech not being found in the Original Journal Book of the Upper Houſe, and therefore he ſupplied it out of a Copy which he had by him, written by John Stow, the Chronicler, with his own Hand, being verbatim, as followed, &c.

And as he had a good Library, repleniſhed with ſuch Books, ſo he was a very good Judge of them; and was able to diſcourſe critically concerning them. His Abilities this way may appear in Deſcriptions of antient Writers and Writings, being a little Tract (taken Notice of before) prefixed to his Summary of Chronicles, Printed Anno 1573, which begins with Aſſerus Menevenſis, of whom he gives this Deſcription: "A Man of great Holineſs and Learning, who "was ſent for from Menevia, or St. David's in "Wales, by King Alfrede, and by him made "Biſhop of Sherbourne, [the See] now called "Salisbury. It is ſaid, that King Alfrede e-"rected the School, or Univerſity of Oxford; "but this Aſſerus, writing purpoſely, diligent-"ly, and honourably of all King Alfrede's no-"ble Acts, maketh no Mention of. Divers "there be, and thoſe antient Writers, which "attribute all to the Engliſh Church at Rome, "which the late, without Conſideration, do "ſpeak of Oxford. Aſſerus flouriſhed in the "Year after Chriſt's Birth 890. Again,

"Alfredus Beverlacenſis, Treaſurer of the "College of Beverly, a deep Philoſopher, a di-"ligent Hiſtoriographer, and notable Divine, "brought up in the moſt antient and famous "Univerſity of Cambridge; he writ the Acci-"dents of Time, from the Beginning of the Bri-"tons, to the Year of Chriſt 1136, in the which "he lived. Again,

"Adam Merimouth, a Prebendary of St. "Paul's in LONDON; he ſeeing the Want "of Chronicles, and feeling the Neceſſity of "them, laboured earneſtly to commit Things "to Memory, and writ from the Year after "Chriſt's Birth 1320, unto the Year 1380, in "the which he flouriſhed. Further,

"Additiones Polycronicon were added by Tho-"mas Walſingham, born in Norfolk, and after "a Monk at St. Alban's. The Book called Po-"lychronicon, was writ by Ranulphus Higden, "a Monk of Cheſter. Thomas Walſingham's "chief Delight was in the Collection of Engliſh "Hiſtories, wherein he hath left, to the perpe-"tual Regiſtering his Name, divers other Monu-"ments of reverend Antiquity. He lived 1443. "Again,

"Galfridus Monumetenſis his Chronicle of "the Britons is of ſome ſcornfully rejected, "wherein they ſhew their great Unthankfulneſs, "not to embrace him, who painfully, for their "Behoof, playeth only the Part of an Interpre-"ter. Little Wiſdom, to condemn what they "cannot mend; or, if they can, not to conſi-"der the Time wherein he lived. The true "Hiſtory may, by a skilful Reader, be well "diſcerned from the falſe: And many Things "in him that ſeem ſtrange, are confirmed by "the beſt Writers of all Ages. He lived "1158.

"Again, He thus deſcribeth Gulielmus Ne-"vburgenſis, otherwiſe Gulielmus Petit, or "Parvus; who for his true Dealing in Hiſtories "is much commended by Polydore Virgil: But "it was an Italian Flouriſh, to put Galfridus "Monumetenſis out of Conceit, becauſe he re-"porteth (which the Italian cannot abide) "friendly and liberally of the Britons. His "Chronicle is lately printed at Antwerp, both "unhoneſtly and imperfectly, by the King's "Printer, Will. Silvius; for, leaving out Doctor "Turner's Preface, Dean of Wells, he inſerted "his own, and left out ſeveral Chapters, which "were in the Copy that Dr. Turner ſent unto "him: But it is well ſeen, that Novoburgenſis "was a good Divine, and diligent Hiſtoriogra-"pher, his untimely Preface being excepted. "He lived Anno 1200.

This is a Specimen large enough of Stow's Acquaintance with our antient Authors, and of his critical Skill and Judgment of them.

He delighted in thoſe that were inquiſitive with him in antient Hiſtory, and were truly learned therein. Their Converſation he uſed, and with them he loved to conſort; or if he were not perſonally acquainted with them, he reverenced them, and was well acquainted with their Labours: But as for ſuch as pretended to this Sort of Learning, and preſumed to ſet forth Hiſtories in their own Names, when they were none of their own, but unskilfully borrowed from others, and withal betraying much Ignorance therein, he was a great Enemy to them.

This made him not ſpare R. G. [that is, Richard Grafton] but laſh him whenſoever he came in his Way, being offended with him, both for ſtealing from him and from others, and by abuſing other Writers, and falſifying them. He gave his Book the ſpecious Title of, A Chronicle at large of the Affairs of England, and the Kings of the ſame, deduced from the Creation of the World, &c. Where firſt Stow noteth him for a great Miſ-quoter of Authors, both in Latin, as Flores Hiſtoriarum, Polydore Virgil, and Matthew Paris; and in the Vulgar Tongue, as Polychronicon, William Caxton, Fabian, Hall, and Cooper; which if looked into, will be found to have no ſuch Matter as he quotes. And as for other Authors which he pretended to cite, as Robert de Averbury, Thomas Walſingham, Henry of Leiceſter, the Regiſter of Bury, and many others, he had not ſo much as ſeen them, but took what he ſaid out of his (Stow's) Summary.

THIS Summary he abridged and publiſhed as his own; which, notwithſtanding it was diſcovered to be Stow's, he had the Confidence in the ſecond Impreſſion, to write a Preface to, in Vindication of himſelf againſt Stow.

Edward Hall wrote a Hiſtory of the Union of the two Houſes of York and Lancaſter, which, Stow ſaith, was hitherto held in great Eſteem, doubtleſs hereafter will be in greater. This Book was ſet forth by Grafton, as if it was his own, of which Stow ſpeaking, ſaith, "That ſome-body "without any ingenuous and plain Declaration "thereof, hath publiſhed, but not without mang-"ling, Mr. Hall's Book for his own." Thus would not Stow ſpare this Plagiary.

Our Author's good Judgment and Skill in Antiquity, joined with an inquiſitive Temper, rendered him uſeful in divers Reſpects. He was not to be put off with Frauds and ſuperſtitious Fables, commonly impoſed upon Men of leſs Accuracy; but was able to detect and diſcover them: And as he was a great Lover of Truth, ſo he was the more inquiſitive to find it out; and his Reading and Learning the better enabled him to do it. He confuted the Story of Edward Hall in his Chronicle, following a Fable (ſaith Stow) then on foot, concerning one Bolton, ſome Time Prior of St. Bartholomew: "That there being Prognoſ-"tications, that in the Year 1524, there ſhould "be ſuch Eclipſes in Watry Signs, and ſuch Con-"junctions, that by Waters and Floods many "People ſhould periſh. Whereupon many re-"moved to high Grounds for fear of drowning: "And particularly Prior Bolton built him an "Houſe upon Harrow on the Hill, and that thi-"ther he went, and made Proviſion of all Things "neceſſary within his Houſe, for the Space of "two Months, &c." This Stow would not let paſs without diligent Enquiry, and by credible Information found it not ſo: And that the Ground of the Story was only this, that this Prior being Parſon of Harrow, beſtowed ſome Reparation on the Parſonage-Houſe; and built only a Dove-houſe, to ſerve him when he quitted his Priory. Thus Stow ſifted out Matters, and was not to be carried away by Reports.

HE confuted alſo the commonly related and believed Report of William Walworth killing Jack Straw with his Dagger in the King's Preſence: And that from that Act of the Mayor the Dagger was added to the Arms of the City, which was before a Red Croſs only: Whereas that Dagger was miſtaken for St. Paul's Sword; borne before in the old Arms, as it ſeems. And that it was indeed Wat Tyler that was ſtruck by Walworth, in arreſting him with a ſound Blow on the Head; and afterwards wounded him with his Baſelard; whereas Jack Straw was taken and executed in Smithfield. As Stow gives a large Account of it, writing of Crooked-lane Church, in Candlewick-ſtreet Ward.

AND ſo again, he threw away the many fanciful Conjectures, whence the Name of Aldermanbury, a Place in LONDON, was pretended to be taken; diſdaining not once to mention them, as being all fabulous; but gives a more judicious Reaſon for that Name of Aldermanbury, appropriated to that Place, being antiently the Court where the Aldermen met; partly from his Skill in old Engliſh Words, and partly from his own Experience, he himſelf having ſeen there the Ruins of the old Court Hall of the Aldermen, which they uſed before Guildhall was built; which Place was then become a Carpenter's Yard. And Bery, or Bury, he underſtood to ſignify a Court or Hall, and meant no more than we mean by Guildhall; ſhewing that there in Aldermanbury, lying there on the Weſt of the preſent Guildhall, the Courts of the Mayor and Aldermen were continually holden, before Guildhall was built.

THE Shank-bone of a Man, or of a ſuppoſed Giant, which hung up by a Chain in the Cloiſter of Aldermanbury Church, of 28 Inches and an half long, was commonly reported to be digged up at St. Paul's, when the Bones were carried from the Charnel-Houſe, or the Cloiſter there, into Moorfields, in the Time of King Edward VI. but Stow made a Doubt of it; becauſe Reyner Wolfe, Stationer, a grave Antiquarian, and the Man that paid for the Carriage of thoſe Bones, never ſpoke a Word of any ſuch Bone found in either Place, tho' he had diſcourſed with him concerning thoſe Bones which he carried away: Adding, that if ſuch a monſtrous Bone had fallen into his Hands, it would not have eaſily been gotten from him, being one of the greateſt Preſervers of Antiquities in theſe Parts for his Time.

FURTHER, when the aforeſaid R. G. would have obtruded upon Peoples Belief, fabulous Reports concerning Relicks found of Giants, our Antiquary, by his Skill and accurate Search, evidently confuted them. The ſaid R. G. in a Book entitled, A Brief Collection of Hiſtory, wrote a Chapter of Giants, or monſtrous Men: And therein he ſaid, that in the Year 1564, and in ſuch a Day of the Month, he had in his Hand the Tooth of a Man that weighed ten Ounces, Troy Weight, and the Skull of the ſame Man was extant to be ſeen, that held five Pecks of Wheat, and the Shin-bones ſix Feet in Length. By which Proportion the Man muſt be 28 Feet long; and underneath in a kind of Glory he thus ſubſcribed: This ſaw R. G. And thence Grafton went on to mention one Gerard, a Giant, and his ſuppoſed Staff, which was then kept at an Inn in Baſing-lane, LONDON, called Gerard's Hall, which fabulous Tradition ſaid was the Giant's Houſe; and there indeed, to Stow's Time, was preſerved a Pole 40 Feet long, and 15 Inches about. But Stow was not ſo credulous, nor would impoſe ſuch incredible Stories upon his Readers, without better Enquiry: And in ſhort, he found that wondrous Tooth (tho' ſome Time he thought it might have belonged to ſome monſtrous Fiſh) to be nothing elſe but a Stone, and ſo he proved it. Nor was there any Shape of a Tooth: And there was no Skull at all to be found.

THIS prodigious Tooth, with a Shank-bone, that was 25 Inches of Aſſize, Stow ſpeaks of in Cheap Ward, hanging up in St. Laurence Jewry Church, and that he himſelf had ſeen them above 70 Years before, that is, before his own ſecond Edition of the Survey. Theſe hung in Chains of Iron upon a Pillar of Stone; that imaginary Tooth being about the Bigneſs of a Man's Fiſt, long ſince conveyed thence. The Shank-bone remained, which he conjectured might belong to ſome Elephant: And of this Bone he obſerved, not ſo much the Length (which moſt did) as the Thickneſs, Hardneſs, and Strength thereof. For it had fretted and worn the Stone Pillar by which it hung by often moving, but was not itſelf fretted or worn: And he obſerved further, a Difference between this Bone, and that hanging up in Aldermanbury, that as that was longer by three Inches and an half, ſo it was more light, pory, and ſpungy: This in St. Laurence's Church more hard and ſteely. That Bone therefore at Aldermanbury, Stow was apt to think was of a Man, and ſo he ſaid the Form ſhewed, concluding it to be more than after the Proportion of five Shank-bones of any Man now living among us.

AND as for the Giant Gerard and his Houſe and Staff, there he found it to be only a great Houſe, once belonging to a great Man, whoſe Name was Giſors, and his Houſe called Giſor's Hall, corrupted into Gerard's Hall.

AND

AND that high Pole which ſtood up in the high roofted Hall, that was ſaid to be his Staff, was nothing elſe (as he ſhewed from an old Cuſtom in LONDON) than a Maypole of Fir Wood that uſed to be ſet up at ſome Time of the Year in Summer, before the chiefeſt Hall or Houſe in the Pariſh, and at other Times to remain, and ſtand in the Hall before the Skreen: And that this could be no Giant's Houſe, he collected from the Doors that he had obſerved here, as not convenient at all for Men of ſuch monſtrous Proportion.

THERE was alſo ſtanding by this Pole a Ladder of the ſame Length, which, together with the ſaid Pole, the Vulgar, apt to invent and believe ſuperſtitious Stories, gave out, as the one to be the Giant's Staff that he uſed to halt withal, ſo the other, that whereby Men climbed up to the Top of it. Whereas the Pole was nothing elſe but a Maypole, as was ſaid before, which was uſed to be decked with Holm and Ivy at Chriſtmas, and the Ladder ſerved for Men to go up for the decking of it. This Giſor's Hall was a large ſpacious Houſe, having been the Habitation of the Giſors, flouriſhing much in Wealth and Honour in the City for a great while, in the Reign of King Henry III. and ſucceſſive Kings. One whereof, John Giſors, was Conſtable of the Tower, and Lord Mayor, Ann. 1245. Another of that Name, a Knight, lived there, Ann. 1311, and Mayor that Year and other Years; and ſince, ſeveral others of the ſame Name and Family were Owners of that Houſe.

THERE is no hindering the ignorant Populace from receiving and crediting Fancies, but Stow was juſtly offended with ſuch as would be Hiſtorians and Chroniclers, and thought learned, ſo eaſily to take up ſuch Lies, and recommend them in their Writings to Poſterity; as beſides Grafton, Reyner Wolfe, and others, did this.

ONCE again, whereas R. Grafton, in his Chronicle, had related concerning one Bartholomew Read, Goldſmith, Mayor Anno 1502; that in the Goldſmiths-Hall, he entertained, as his Gueſts, more than an hundred Perſons of great Eſtate; Meſſes, and Diſhes of Meat, ſerved in a vaſt Number: Nay, and that there was a Park, paled, in the ſame Hall, furniſhed with fruitful Trees, and Beaſts of Venery, and other like Circumſtances. Stow comparing the Dimenſions of that Hall with the Room that all thoſe Gueſts, with their Attendants, and other Magnificence did require, whereunto Weſtminſter-Hall (he ſaid) would ſcarcely have ſufficed, concluded it, with good Ground, a Fable, and far incredible, and altogether impoſſible.

HIS Learning in Antiquities made him further uſeful, as in detecting Falſhood, ſo in bringing Truth to Light, which ſometimes tended to decide Differences, and bring Controverſies to an End: As in ſettling and adjuſting Bounds and Limits, he more than once was ſerviceable to the City. He aſcertained the controverted Bounds of Lime-ſtreet Ward, towards the Wall, both againſt Biſhopſgate Ward, and Aldgate Ward, by producing old Records and Charters of St. Auguſtine's Papey, a Church and Houſe of Prieſts that ſtood there; tho' this Ward, whether by the Negligence of the Alderman of it, or ſome other Cauſe, had not then Right done it, according to the ſaid Evidence.

IN the latter End of Queen Elizabeth's Reign, was a Controverſy in Law, between the City of LONDON and the Lieutenant of the Tower, about the Buttings and Boundings of the City and Tower Liberties, which had been long in Conteſt; the City claiming the Tower-hill, and Litte Tower-hill; and ſo taking in Eaſt-Smithfield. Then they made Uſe of Stow, as, by his long Experience and Converſe in the City Records, likelieſt to ſtate this Matter clearly: But the Counſel of the Lieutenant, unjuſtly, beſtowed this Term upon him, Their fee'd Chronicler, Mr. Stow: Wherein ſurely that diligent impartial Hiſtorian was wronged, if the Words were taken in the worſt Senſe.

HE alſo ſet out the Boundaries of the Liberty of Creechurch within Aldgate, when it was ſold to the City by the Lord Thomas Howard.

BUT to take ſome further Notice of John Stow, as an Antiquarian; his Affection for Antiquities made him very inquiſitive after Things of that Kind; and a curious Obſerver, and a greedy Collector of them; of which take a few Inſtances.

IT was a notable Remark he made of King James IV, the unfortunate King of Scotland, and the ſtrange Neglect and unſeemly Diſregard of his dead Body, which tho' once a King, could not obtain a Monument; no, nor a Place of Burial. He was ſlain in the great Battle againſt the Engliſh in Flodden-field; and his dead Corpſe was brought away into England, and interred in the Monaſtery of Shene: Since the Diſſolution whereof, the Duke of Suffolk was lodged, and kept Houſe there. But among the Ruins and Violences offered to this Religious Houſe, the Bodies of the Dead could not reſt in Quiet: For here, in an old waſte Room, among old Timber, Lead, and other Rubbiſh, did Mr. Stow's Curioſity lead him to ſee the Body of that King thrown, and wrapt in Lead cloſe to the Head and Body. And what became of the Body afterwards, who can tell? but for the Head, Stow traced it further, telling us, that ſome Workmen, for their Pleaſure, ſtruck it off. Afterward, one Young, a Glazier to Queen Elizabeth, ſmelling a ſweet Savour come from thence, (by reaſon of its being embalmed) and ſeeing the ſame dried from all Moiſture, and yet the Form remaining, with the Hair of the Head, and Beard red, brought it to LONDON, to his Houſe in Wood-ſtreet, and kept it for ſome Time; and in the End, cauſed the Sexton to bury it, with other common Bones, taken out of the Charnel.

ONE Obſervation more, made by him, may be here mentioned, which is taken from Buck's Hiſtory of King Richard III; which Hiſtorian ſaith of Stow, That he was a Man indifferently inquiſitive after the verbal Relations of the Perſons of Princes, and curious in the Deſcriptions of their Features and Lineaments. And that in all his Enquiries, he could find no ſuch Note of Deformity in King Richard III, as Hiſtorians commonly relate; and that he acknowledged, viva voce, that he had ſpoken with ſome antient Men, who from their own Sight and Knowledge affirmed, That he was of bodily Shape, comely enough; only of low Stature.

HE was alſo a curious Obſerver of Manuſcripts, and a diligent Procurer of them to himſelf, whereſoever he could. He was mightily delighted with the Sight of a large Vellum (the faireſt that ever he ſaw) written by one John Coke, a Brother of St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, at the Age of 68 Years. Which Book had belonged to the Library of the ſaid Hoſpital, given to it, among other Books, by Sir John Wakering, Prieſt, Maſter of the Houſe Anno 1463; and ſince the Spoil of that Library, came into the Cuſtody of Mr. Walter Cope, Stow's worſhipful Friend, where he had ſeen it.

HE had in his Poſſeſſion a very valuable Manuſcript, (both for the Writer and Subject of it) wrote by a remarkable Man, Edmund Dudley, Eſq; a great Counſellor to King Henry VII; but beheaded in the Beginning of K. Henry VIII's Reign, Anno 1509. It was called The Tree of Commonwealth, and treated of Politicks, intended ed for the Uſe and Service of his Royal Maſter King Henry VIII; but being a Priſoner at the Writing, never came to his Hand. A Copy of this Book Stow preſented to Robert the great Earl of Leiceſter, ſprung from the ſaid Dudley; to whom it could not but be a very acceptable Gift: And he had his Thanks, but nothing elſe; as is obſerved before.

He giveth us ſomewhere an exact Account of the Works and Manuſcripts of John Gower, one of our antient Poets; and what were Printed, and what were not; ſome whereof he had in his Poſſeſſion: And of the three Books lying under his Head in his Monument in St. Saviour's Church, viz. Speculum Meditantis, (which he tells us was writ in French) Vox Clamantis, wrote in Latin, and Confeſſio Amantis, which laſt only was printed. He ſpoke alſo of Gower's Chronica Tripartita; which, he ſaith, was never printed.

As for the Speculum Meditantis, he never ſaw it, but heard that it was ſomewhere in Kent.

This Tripartite Chronicle is (or ſome Time was) extant in the Cotton Library: It is writ in Latin Monks Verſe, or at leaſt ſome Part of it, as in one Place, where the Author compareth King Richard II, and his Succeſſor King Henry IV together, in which Reigns Gower lived, preferring the latter to the former; Beginning

O! quam penſando, mores varioſque notando,
Si bene Scrutetur R. ab H. diſtare videtur? &c.

He was alſo poſſeſs'd of Leland's Commentaries, being a Deſcription of Britain (as was obſerved before) the Value of which, and the Author, are ſufficiently known; and of many more Engliſh and Britiſh Hiſtorians, which he lent to David Powel, D. D. in the compoſing of the Hiſtory of Cambria, viz. in written Hand, ſaith that Author to the Reader, I had Gildas Sapiens, alias Nennius, Henry Huntington, William Malmesbury, Marianus Scotus, Ralph Cogſhall, John Everſden, Nicholas Trivet, Florentius Vigornienſis, Simon of Durham, Roger Hoveden, and others; which, he ſaid, remained in the Cuſtody of John Stow, Citizen of LONDON. Adding, how he deſerved Commendation for getting together the antient Writers of the Hiſtories of this Land.

We are alſo beholden in a great Meaſure to him, as is before-mentioned, for ſome of the Editions and Enlargements of another Engliſh Poet, viz. Jefferey Chaucer; whoſe Poems were firſt collected and printed by William Caxton, Mercer, he that firſt brought the Art of Printing into England, in the Reign of Henry VI. They were increaſed again, and publiſhed by William Thynne, Eſq; in the Reign of Henry VIII; ſince corrected, and twice increaſed, (as he writes) through my own painful Labours, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, to wit, in the Year 1561; and again beautified with Notes, by me collected out of divers Records and Monuments, which I delivered to my loving Friend Thomas Speight. And he having drawn the ſame into a good Form and Method; as alſo explained the old and obſcure Words, publiſhed them Anno 1597.

He affected likewiſe old printed Books, and was a great Collector of them, whether Hiſtory, Divinity, Phyſick, &c. the Names of divers whereof are mentioned before Anno 1568; when, by Order of Council, his Study was ſearched for Superſtitious Books.

A few more Words are now to be added, to ſhew that he was skilful in ſome Sorts of Learning, neceſſary to qualify him for an able Antiquary, beſides what has been already ſaid of his natural Love of Truth, his diligent Inquiſitiveneſs into common Reports and Relations, his laborious Searches after old Manuſcripts; to which may be ſubjoined his Journies, which he ſometimes took, to be an Eye Witneſs, for his better Satisfaction. He had Knowledge in Heraldry and Genealogy, which he had made good Uſe of ſometimes, for the enlightning and aſſerting ſome Matters of Hiſtory.

Richard Lord Rich, ſome Time Lord Chancellor of England, made a great Figure in Stow's Time, being in high Place and Favour with King Henry VIII, and ſome of the ſucceeding Princes. This Man was raiſed from the City, ſome of his Anceſtors having been of the Mercers Company; Stow thought fit, for the Honour of the City, to take Notice of it, and ſhew'd us the Pedigree of this Lord in divers Deſcents, as far back as his Great Great Grandfather; he being the Son of Thomas Rich; and Thomas the Son of John; John the Son of Richard, Sheriff of LONDON Anno 1442, and buried in the Church of St. Lawrence Jury; and he the Son of Richard Rich of LONDON, Eſq;

He was particularly acquainted with William Smith, alias Rouge Dragon, who communicated ſeveral things to him, relating to Pedigrees and Deſcents; and Stow again communicated ſome Remarks of Armoury to him. He got a Sight of a fine Book of Genealogies from Smith: It was of all the whole Family of Savoy, compiled by one Philibert Pingonio, an Italian, Baron of Guzani; and becauſe ſome denied that Peter of Savoy, who built Savoy-Houſe in the Strand, was Earl of Savoy, (as he aſſerted) he proved it by this Book, that ſet down Thomas Earl of Savoy's Pedigree; and thence, he ſaith, he gathered this: That the ſaid Thomas had Iſſue, by Beatrice, Daughter of Aimon, Earl of Geneva, nine Sons and three Daughters: That Amadis his firſt Son ſucceeded the Earl of Savoy in the Year 1253; Peter his ſecond Son, (the Perſon he was ſpeaking of) Earl of Savoy and Richmond in the Year 1268; Philip his third Son, Earl of Savoy and Burgundy 1284; Thomas the fourth Earl of Flanders, and Prince of Piemont, &c. Boniface the Eighth, Archbiſhop of Canterbury; Beatrice his Daughter, married to Regimund Berengarius of Aragon, Earl of Provence and Narbone, who had Iſſue, and was Mother to five Queens. The firſt, Margaret, Wife to Lewis King of France; the ſecond, Eleanor, Wife to Henry III, King of England, &c. So fortunate an Iſſue from a ſmall Prince, that Stow thought it worth the tranſcribing and entering into his Survey.

He was alſo acquainted with another learned Herald, William Segar, alias Portcloſe, an Officer of Arms, with the Earl of Leiceſter, Governor of the Low Countries, who gave Stow a Relation of the Manner of keeping the Feaſt of St. George at Utrecht; having got from the ſaid Portcloſe, a true and faithful Deſcription of it. This Herald gave him alſo an Account of the French King's Inveſting with the Order of the Garter. The ſame Portcloſe told Stow, that Martin Skinke, a valiant Dutch Captain (who was Knighted by Leiceſter at the aforeſaid Feaſt) had promiſed to ſhew him ſeventy Enſigns that he had won in the Field.

His firm Judgment was, that the Arms of the City of LONDON, was ever borne with a Sword in the firſt Quarter, which was the Sword of St. Paul, and that it was at firſt only the Red Croſs, till the Dagger was added, upon Walworth's valiant killing Jack Straw, in honourable Memory thereof to the City, was all Fable, as ſhewed before.

And he was of the ſame Opinion afterwards, when Mr. Smith, the aboveſaid Purſuivant, had told him, that in our Lady Church of Antwerp he had ſeen in the Windows, the Picture of King Edward III, and of his Son; and alſo the Arms of divers divers Cities of England; and among the reſt, a Coat with a red Croſs, and the Letter L in the firſt Quarter; which he therefore thought might be the Bearing of the City of LONDON in thoſe Times; Mr. Stow would not be ſo perſuaded, but affirmed it to be always as it was. This Coat ſtood then in the uppermoſt North Window of that Church.

Stow was a true Antiquarian, in that he was not ſatisfied with Reports, or with the Credit of what he found in Print; but had Recourſe to Originals. He knew how much Falſhood is commonly thruſt upon Readers, either by the Careleſsneſs of Authors, or by taking up Things too credulouſly, and upon ſlight Grounds, or upon Hear-ſays, and the Credit of others. But Stow made Uſe of his own Legs (for he could never ride) travelling on Foot to many Cathedral Churches, and other Places, where antient Records and Charters were, and with his own Eyes to read them. Wherein he ſeemed to be very expert, as appears by that Multitude of Quotations and Tranſcriptions out of Chartularies, Regiſters, Records, Inſtruments, Muniments belonging to Monaſteries, that ſhew themſelves in his Hiſtory, eſpecially in his Survey.

He ſeemed to have peruſed all the Monuments and their Inſcriptions throughout all the Pariſhes of LONDON. He read Records of 400 Years before his own Time, which were occaſionally once mentioned where he writeth of Shoreditch; which Place in his own Editions he always called Soersditch: And ſo he could prove it writ in Records for 400 Years, as he noted in his Margin. Where, by the Way, A. M. the Editor of his Survey after his Death, hath utterly falſified his Author. For where the true Reading of Stow's Margin was, Soerſditch, ſo called more than 400 Years ſince, as I can prove by Record; the After-Editions read, Shoreditch, ſo called more than 400 Years ſince, &c. and ſo ſpoiling Stow's Senſe and Meaning: And beſides, every where thoſe Editions read Shoreſditch, where the former Editions ſet forth by Stow himſelf read Soerſditch. Many ſuch Errors crept into the laſt Editions of Stow's Survey, to the great Wronging of the accurate Author.

There is a Volume of theſe his Notes and Collections, which firſt came into the Poſſeſſion of Sir Simmonds d'Ews, Knt. and afterwards was procured by the late Earl of Oxford and Mortimer, and placed in his fine Library.

And tho' he were a Citizen, and bred up to a Shop, and Calling there, it is not to be doubted but he underſtood Latin well, as many other Citizens have done, and at this Day do, otherwiſe he could not have made Uſe of thoſe many antient Hiſtorians of Britiſh and Engliſh Affairs, which he often quoted, and made very judicious Uſe of in his Hiſtory: And he tells us expreſly of his reading a Latin Inſcription on a Stone-croſs, in the Church-yard, founded by Sir Walter Manny for Burial in a great Plague, which was this. Anno Dom. 1349, regnante magna Peſtilentia, conſecratum fuit hoc Cœmiterium, in qua & infra ſepta præſentis Monaſterij, ſepulta fuerunt Mortuorum Corpora pluſquam quinquaginta millia, præter alia multa ab hinc uſq; ad præſens; quorum animabus propitietur Deus. Amen.

In fine, his great Diligence is to be commended in Collecting, Retrieving and Publiſhing ſo much of the Engliſh Hiſtory to the Honour of his Country, and the Place where he was born; and beſides his own Endeavours, he wiſhed and excited others of Ability in his Days, to do their Part in ſo noble a Study, and at leaſt not to be behind-hand with the Monks and the Monkiſh Times, which he could not but praiſe for their Induſtry in writing their own Hiſtories, or of the Times before them.

And further, it is to be marked in Stow, to ſhew his Zeal for Hiſtorical Collections, the Remembrance he had, and the Record he made not only of Monks in former Times, but of ſuch as in latter Days beſtowed their Labour and Pains this Way. He nameth three ſuch. The firſt is John Shirley, who deceaſed in 1456, and lies buried in the Church of St. Bartholomew the Leſs, and hath a Monumental Inſcription, were Stow cannot forbear to give this Account of him; that among other his Labours, he collected the Works of Jeffery Chaucer and John Lydgate, and other learned Writers. Which Works were wrote in ſundry Volumes to remain to Poſterity; and added, that he had ſeen them, and partly did profeſs them. (Perhaps it ſhould be read, partly did poſſeſs them,) unleſs this his profeſſing them may mean his owning himſelf a Student in them, and ſuch like antient Writings.

The ſecond is Richard Arnold, who lived Anno 1519, a Citizen of LONDON, and inflamed with a Fervency toward good Learning, travelled principally in obſerving Matters worthy to be remembered, &c.

The third is Sir John Wriſt [the ſame Name, ſuppoſed, as Wryſe or Wryſley] "who gathered "by Commandment, at the Suppreſſion of Ab"beys, Charters of the Foundations of divers "Abbeys, Colleges, &c. This Sir John, ſtudi"ous of Britain's Antiquities, left his Heirs, in "writing, divers excellent Monuments, who did "keep them (ſaith Stow) too long from the Sight "of the Learned." So that he ſeems to have been in the like Commiſſion with John Leland. But theſe two laſt have been mentioned before.

And finally, he ſomewhere giveth this Commendation of Chronicles and Hiſtories of Things paſt, that they were, Witneſſes of the Times, Lights of the Truth, Encouragers of Virtue and Honeſty, and Correctors of Vice and Wickedneſs. So that it ſeems to have been ſome publick Spirit for the Common Good, that actuated him to follow ſo induſtriouſly theſe Studies.

And yet notwithſtanding all his Skill, Study, Exactneſs, and laborious Collections, he had the Misfortune to have his Pains and Faithfulneſs undervalued by ſome, and that partly, becauſe of his Trade and Calling. Among theſe Detractors was Dr. Sutcliff, a Perſon of conſiderable Eminency in the Church, who ſeems too haſtily and paſſionately to write thus of him in his Anſwer to Parſons's Three Converſions. When Parſons had alledged Stow's Chronicle, concerning Will. Thomas's Attempt to murther Queen Mary, for which he was executed, as a Traitor, Sutcliff, in Anſwer, makes Stow to be very partial in Queen Mary's Matters; and takes Occaſion to ſpeak contemptibly of him; "as in nothing of any Au"thority, being a ſilly and unlearned Botcher, "and abuſed by crafty Suggeſtors." And in another Place, Ironically, "a Worthy Chronicler to "ſet forth the noble Acts of Taylors and Bot"chers, of which Trade he was." But it is a Sign that Reverend Man knew little more of Stow, than that he was a Taylor.

Now, as to Mr. Stow's Religion and moral Qualities, let us add ſomething for a Concluſion. He was, no doubt, at firſt, a Favourer of the Popiſh Religion, and adhered rather to that than to the Reformed, as may appear from the Jealouſy the State had of him, which occaſioned the Order to Grindall, Biſhop of LONDON, Anno 1568, mentioned before, to have his Library ſearched for ſuperſtitious Books, and from the Books that were found there: As a little Book of Homilies, by Biſhop Bonner; Sermons by Dr. Watſon, Biſhop of Lincoln; a great printed Book, containing a Liſt of the Saints [which ſeems to be the Golden Legend] A Buckler of the Catholick Faith by Richard Smith, ſome Time Publick Profeſſor Profeſſor of Divinity in Oxford, a zealous Papiſt; A Defence of the Sacrifice of the Maſs; The Aſſertion and Defence of the Sacrament of the Altar; A Confutation of a Book called, A Defence of the true and Catholick Doctrine, &c. againſt the late Archbiſhop of Canterbury: All by the ſame Author. The Diſplaying of Proteſtants, by Miles Huggerd; A Brief Shew of falſe Wares, by Raſtal; The Copy of a Challenge, taken out of the Confutation of Mr. Juell's Sermon; The Trial of the Supremacy: Wherein is ſet forth the Unity of Chriſt's Church; and that there ought to be one Head, Biſhop, &c. Theſe Popiſh Books, with divers more, which have been taken Notice of, beſides a Maſs-Book, were found in his Houſe; a Catalogue whereof was taken, and ſent to the Biſhop; and he, according to Order, ſent it to the Council: Whence we may conclude which Way Stow ſtood inclined.

AND his Religion was, perhaps, the Grounds of all the Troubles he underwent, either in the Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſion Court, or Star Chamber, when his own Servant, and Brother, were his chief Accuſers, and laid many dangerous Things to his Charge. It might render him the leſs affected to the Religion in his Time reformed, when he took Notice, how ignorantly; nay, how ridiculouſly ſome ſhewed their Zeal, who profeſſed and preached it: Among which was Sir Stephen, the Curate before-mentioned, who preached againſt the Shaft belonging to this Church, and who informed againſt the poor Man hang'd at Stow's Door.

BUT he ſeemed, at length, to have a good Opinion of the Doctrine of the Church of England; for in Queen Elizabeth's Reign, he hath ſomewhere this Expreſſion, That Doctrine is more pure now, than it was in the Monkiſh World.

BUT whatever Reſpect he might ſecretly have for the old Religion, he could not endure Prieſts that were vitious and unchaſte; and was for ſevere Puniſhment to be laid upon them; and that by the Secular Hand, without ſtaying for Juſtice from the Ordinary, or their Spiritual Superior, on Pretence of their Privilege of Exemption from the Temporal Magiſtrate: And he blamed them for their Covetouſneſs and Partiality in pecuniary Commutations. Thus, in a certain Place of his Survey, he praiſed the City for their exemplary Puniſhment of Fornication, tho' they took the Office ſometimes out of the Hand of the Biſhops, who claimed the Cognizance thereof to belong to them: Shewing, How they put both lewd Women, and Prieſts too, into the Priſon, called the Tun in Cornhill, who were Guilty in that Reſpect. And he praiſed a certain Way, anciently uſed in the City for Puniſhment of light Females, by cauſing their Heads to be ſhaven, after the Manner of Thieves, and to be led about the City with Trumpets and Pipes ſounding before them, that their Perſons might be the more known. "Nor did they (addeth he) ſpare an "unclean Prieſt, a whit the more, becauſe of "his Office, but uſed ſuch as hardly; ſaying, "That they abhorred the Negligence of their "Prelates, and deteſted their Avarice; That for "Money, omitted the Puniſhment limited by "Law; and permitted thoſe they found Guilty, "to live favourably by their Fines: Wherefore "they would themſelves, they ſaid, purge the "City from ſuch Filthineſs, leaſt through God's "Vengeance, either Peſtilence, or Sword, might "happen to them; or that the Earth ſhould ſwallow them up.

AND elſewhere he ſpeaketh of the Puniſhment of a Chauntry Prieſt, as his juſt Deſerts, in St. Michael's Cornhill, that had twenty Nobles a Year, as the Salary of his Chauntry, who was too familiar with a Shopkeeper's Wife there; a Woman too that ſeemed the holieſt among a Congregation. But the Husband once coming, made him leap out of Window, and afterwards cauſed him to be puniſhed three Market Days, being conveyed through the High Streets and Markets of the City with a Paper on his Head wherein his Treſpaſs was writ, and each Day rung with Baſons, and Proclamation of his Fact, at the Turning of every Street, and alſo before Atwood's Stall (that was the Husband's Name) and the Church Door where he uſed to perform his Divine Service; and laſtly, was deprived of the Benefit of his Chauntry, and baniſhed the City for ever. Thus Stow ſpared not to expoſe unclean Prieſts, and to applaud the Puniſhments of Shame executed on them.

AND indeed, on all Occaſions he ſhewed great Diſlike of all Immorality, Injuſtice, Wrongs, Frauds, Unfaithfulneſs, Falſhood and Treachery, which ſhewed that Stow had an honeſt and good Mind.

AND this might be the Reaſon, why this good Man had the Miſhap ſometimes to fall under ſcurrilous and calumniating Tongues: One among the reſt (whereof he was forced to make publick Complaint to the Magiſtrate) had intolerably abuſed him, even at his Shop-door, reflecting upon his Chronicles, nay, upon his Trade, as Taylor, and chiefly upon his Integrity and Truth in his Hiſtories and Writings, as tho' they were but Lies; and beſides abuſive Language there was Aſſault and Battery added, together with all the Signs of Rage and Madneſs. All which after much Patience and Forbearance, able no longer to endure, he made his Complaint to the Magiſtrate. Which he drew up in this Manner:

"Pleaſeth it your Worſhip to underſtand, how "your poor Orator, John Stow, hath of late "been more than too much abuſed by one "William Ditcher, alias Tetford, and his Wife, "&c." The Proceſs whereof is too long to write; but briefly to touch Parts thereof. He ſpake much of this Man's railing at him, and of his Apprentice Fighting with Stow's Apprentice, and that he called him Prick-louſe Knave, and beggarly Knave, and Raſcal Knave, and ſaid, that he made a Chronicle of Lies. That he ſaid to the Parſon of the Pariſh, and to the Deputy of the Ward, that there came nothing but Rogues and Raſcals, and the vileſt of the Land to Stow's Houſe, which Raſcals had him from Alehouſe to Alehouſe every Night and Morning. That Williams's Wife, before the Stall of the ſaid John, railed againſt him more than a long Hour, but that he, John Stow, kept himſelf above Stairs, without any Anſwer making. That one Day the ſaid William leap'd in his Face, and that he feared he would have torn out his Eyes, foully ſcratched him, drew Blood of him, and was pulled off by the Neighbours. That the ſaid William threw Tileſheards and Stones at Stow's Apprentice, till he had driven him off the Stall from his Work. And then the ſaid William came to John's Stall, and ſaid, If he could catch the ſaid Apprentice, he would cart him, and vowed he would accuſe him to have killed the Man on the Mile's-End in Whitſon Week [that it ſeems was found dead there.] He alſo ſaid, That Stow's Wife had two Children by one Man, before ſhe was married, to the great Slander of the ſaid John Stow, and Hindrance of their Children, being four Daughters marriageable, and in Service with Right Worſhipful Perſonages. Further, That he cauſed one John Sneyling, being drunk, to come to the Stall of the ſaid Stow, and there to call him by ſuch a Name, as himſelf better deſerved; and at another Time called him the falſeeſt Man in England, and threatned to cart him, if he could get him out of his Door, called him

alſo Common Proctor, Common Barator, Common Drunkard, Raſcal, Villain, &c.

It is no wonder if this honeſt Man, for his Hatred of vicious and baſe Actions, and expoſing them, might thus be ſerved:

To give then ſome Inſtances hereof.

He often took Occaſion to rebuke ſuch as were falſe to their Truſts, and neglected the Performance of the Wills and charitable Donations repoſed in them; which, by his Experience, were moſt wretchedly abuſed ſometime by Executors putting the Money, Lands, or Houſes, into their own Pockets, or converting them ſome other Ways; among the Gifts given for the finiſhing Guildhall, LONDON, he mentioned Nicholas Alwyn, Grocer, ſome Time Mayor, who, by his laſt Will, about 1505, gave 73 l. 6 s. 8 d. for a Hanging of Tapeſtry, to ſerve for principal Days in Guildhall; but how that Gift was performed, he had not heard: A modeſt Expreſſion, importing that they, the Executors, had not performed it; and then more roundly he ſpeaks it out in general. For the Executors of our Time, having no Conſcience (I ſpeak of my own Knowledge) prove more Teſtaments than they perform.

And before him Simon Eyre, [or L'eyre, as he is written] a Draper, ſometime Mayor, who built the Granary and Chapel in Leadenhall, and deceaſed 1459, gave by his laſt Will and Teſtament (which Stow ſaid he had read) many moſt notable Charities, and, amongſt the reſt, he gave the Drapers 3000 Marks, on Condition to eſtabliſh in his Chapel a Maſter or Warden, five Secular Prieſts, ſix Clerks, and two Queriſters, to ſing daily Divine Service. Alſo one Maſter with an Uſher for Grammar, one Maſter for Writing, and the third for Song, with Houſing there, newly built for them for ever, with certain Salaries to each. And in Caſe the Drapers performed this not, then the 3000 Marks to go to the Prior and Convent of Chriſt-Church, with Condition as aforeſaid, otherwiſe to be diſpoſed by the Executors in Works of Charity. And then Stow's Concluſion bluntly and plainly follows. "Thus "much for his Teſtament not performed by eſta- "bliſhing of Divine Service in his Chapel, or the "Free Schools for Scholars; neither, how the Stock "of 3000 Marks, or rather 5000 Marks, was em- "ployed by his Executor, could I ever learn.

The like Obſervation he makes of Bernard Randolph, ſome Time Common Serjeant of the City, who gave 1000 l. in Lands or Annuities, for the Relief of the Poor in the Wards of Queenhith and Caſtle Baynard (where probably his Habitation had been) and in Tiſehurſt in Suſſex, where he was born; adding in his firſt Edition, (left out afterwards;) but that Money being left in Holdfaſt Hands, I have not heard how it was beſtowed. Having, very probably, made Enquiry after ſo large and notable a Legacy of that eminent Officer of the City.

And of later Time, Alderman Billingſly, living in the Pariſh of St. Catharine Coleman, gave by his Will 200 l. to this Pariſh, for the Relief of the Poor; which good Intent of his is obſerved not to be performed, and the Poor wronged: Tho' this indeed, is none of Stow's Obſervation, but of A. M. who ſet forth the Survey after Stow's Death.

And therefore, as he writes in a certain Place in his Survey, having known theſe Legacies of Charity left in Truſt with Executors, hardly, or never performed; he wiſhed Men to make their own Hands their Executors, and their Eyes their Overſeers; not forgetting the old Proverb:

Women be forgetful, Children be unkind,
Executors be covetous, and take what they find.
If any Body asks where the Dead's Goods became:
They anſwer,
He died a poor Man, ſo God me help and holy Dame.

Nor did he ſhrink at charging Corporations themſelves, as well as private Perſons for the Abuſe of the Charities of the Deceaſed.

In this [Aldgate] Ward, he giveth a Liſt of many charitable Gifts of Sir John Milbourn, who was ſometime Mayor, the Founder of the Alms-Houſes in Crutched-Fryars; and therein ſpecifies a particular Number of Penny Loaves and Quantity of Coals to be diſtributed to the Pariſhes of St. Edmund Lombard-ſtreet, and St. Michael's Cornhill, for ever, and that he made the Company of Drapers of LONDON, Truſtees; and ſettled upon them, for Performance, Twenty-three Meſſuages and Tenements, and eighteen Garden Plats in the Pariſh of St. Olave Hart-ſtreet: Whereupon Stow makes this ſevere Note in the Margin of his firſt and ſecond Edition, but left out in the After-Editions; That theſe Points were not performed; and that the Drapers unlawfully ſold theſe Tenements and Garden Plats, and the Poor were wronged. But Stow, tho' otherwiſe moſt careful and exact, in this Matter was miſinformed, there being no Mention in the Will of the ſaid Milbourn, of ſuch Bread or Coals given, or ſuch Houſes and Gardens aſſured to the Company: Yet hence may appear what a Diſlike he had of thoſe, who by ſuch Practices wronged both the Dead that gave the Charities, and the Living who ought to enjoy them.

Again, another Abuſe he diſcovered in the Pariſh of St. Michael's Cornhill, where he was born; and openly blamed the Executors and the Officers of the Pariſh; the former for detaining, the others for being ſo ſlack in recovering. One John Tolus, Alderman, in the Year 1548, gave to the ſaid Pariſh and Church-wardens his Tenement, with the Appurtenances in that Pariſh, towards the Reparation of the Church, and Relief of the Poor: But the Pariſh, (as he writes) never had the Gift, nor heard of it by the Space of 40 Years after. Such, ſaith he, was the Conſcience of G. Barne, and other Executors, to conceal it to themſelves; and ſuch the Negligence of the Pariſhioners, who being informed thereof, made no Claim thereunto.

That good Diſpoſition that was in him towards Charity, made him preſerve in his Survey, the charitable Gifts in many Pariſhes.

This Act alſo of his that follows, viz. in taking the poor Priſoners Part, will ſhew his Abhorrence of Oppreſſion, as well as Debauchery. In the Year 1552, he was of a Jury of Inqueſt to make an Enquiry againſt a Seſſions of Jail Delivery: In this Inqueſt he and his Jurymen found the Priſoners in Bread-ſtreet Compter, (for then the Compter was there) to be very hardly dealt withal in their Proviſions, and otherwiſe, and that, notwithſtanding many Warnings given the Keeper (whoſe Name was Husbands) by the Court of Aldermen, upon Complaint before. And moreover, they found that Thieves and Strumpets were lodged there four ſome Times in a Night; whereby they might be ſafe from Searchers that were abroad a Nights. Husbands, was for theſe Crimes indicted at the Seſſions, and made a Shift ſtill to rub it out; they removed the Priſoners away from him unto Wood-ſtreeet, where the Compter is ſtill kept.

There was another Sort of Men that this honeſt Heart roſe againſt, that affected and ſtrove to be Jurymen, who oftentimes for Reward were Perverters of Juſtice and Judgment. He called them the Ringleaders of Inqueſts making a gainful Occupation of it. Such as laboured to appear upon Niſi Prius's before they were warned, or procured to be warned, to come on by a Tallis; and ſuch as procured themſelves to be Foremen, when they could, and then took upon them to over-rule the reſt to their Opinion. Such a one ſhould be laboured by Plaintiff and Defendant, not without Promiſe of Reward; and therefore, ſaid he, to be ſuſpected of a bad Conſcience: And he added how he knew one ſuch that was carted and rung with Baſons, and baniſhed out of Billingſgate Ward: And yet afterward in Aldgate Ward made Conſtable, a Grand Juryman, and Foreman of their Wardmote-Inqueſt; and that he knew the like or worſe of others.

CHEATS and Impoſtors there were in his Time, who pretended to Skill, which they had not, or ſome Ways or other amuſed the People to draw Money out of their Pockets; of theſe many counterfeited themſelves Phyſicians, who at the ſame Time got poor Peoples Money, and endangered their Lives too. Stow was glad when Juſtice took hold of them, and brought them to Shame. Two of theſe he takes Occaſion to ſpeak of, with their Puniſhment; one in the Reign of King Edward VI, about the Year 1550, a Poulterer of Surrey, named Grig, who, by giving out that he would take no Money for his Cures, and by pretending to heal by Words and Prayers, was taken by the People for a Prophet, as well as a Phyſician. He was ſet on a Scaffold in Croydon, with a Paper on his Breaſt, on which was written his deceitful and Hypocritical Dealings, and afterwards ſet on the Pillory in Southwark, on Lady-day Fair; when the Mayor and Aldermen riding through the Fair, he asked them and all the Citizens Forgiveneſs. The other Cheat of a Doctor was long before, viz. Ann. 1382, who, as Stow relateth, was ſet upon an Horſe with his Face to the Horſe's Tail, and the Tail held in his Hand as a Bridle; a Collar of Jordans about his Neck, and a Whetſtone on his Breaſt [to denote him a great Liar] and in that Faſhion led through the City, and then baniſhed; and hereupon he telleth that many ſuch Deceivers ſtill were, who being never trained up in Reading or Practice of Phyſick, or Chirurgery, boaſted notwithſtanding to do great Cures, eſpecially upon Women, as in making them ſtrait that before were crooked, in any Part of their Bodies. The Contrary whereunto, ſaith he, is true, and then makes this Concluſion. That ſome had received Gold when they had better deſerved the Whetſtone. And laſtly, as a Diſproof of theſe Pretenders he addeth an Apophthegm witty enough, Not ſo eaſy to turn a crooked Body ſtrait, as to turn a Muſtard Quern. Nor one Leap out of a Docket maketh a Doctor.

BUT above all, he hated that Inhumanity, Ingratitude, nay Sacrilege, that many, in his Time, ſhewed to the Dead, in breaking down their Monuments, tearing away, defacing, and purloining the Braſs and Inſcriptions, or other Ornaments thereon, alienating their Vaults and Burying Places, and not ſuffering their Bones to reſt in Quiet; though many of them were the Builders, or good Benefactors to the Churches where their Sepulchres were. Againſt theſe baſe Practices, too common in thoſe Times, he often took Occaſion to declaim; and ſpared not them who were guilty herein.

AND as it grieved him to ſee the Monuments in Churches ſo violated, ſo he was much more grieved at the Overthrow of Churches themſelves, and ſo many noble venerable Structures of Religion: And he could not forbear ſometimes to expreſs his Admiration of theſe fine antient Works, the Effects of former Piety and Devotion; and, with as much Modeſty as he could, to reprove ſuch as pulled them down for their own Gain and Covetouſneſs. With ſuch a Touch he wiped the old Marquis of Wincheſter, who obtained the Auguſtin Fryars in LONDON, or ſome other; to which belonged a moſt curious ſpired Steeple, ſmall, high, and ſtrait, which Stow was mightily delighted with, and ſaid, he had not ſeen the like. The ſmall Spire of this Church had been overthrown by a Tempeſt of Wind, Anno 1362, but raiſed anew to that Beauty in which he had ſeen it. And ſo, ſaid he, it might have ſtood, had not private Benefit (the only Devourer of Antiquity) pulled it down. And then relating how the goodly Steeple, and all the Eaſt Part of the Church was taken down, and Houſes for one Man's Commodity raiſed in the Place; LONDON, he ſaid, had loſt a goodly Monument; and Time hereafter might more talk of it.

ANOTHER good Quality of Stow was, his Pity and Compaſſion for the Poor, on whoſe Account he uſed to commend the antient Hoſpitality which afforded them Relief, by Food and Harbour. Theſe Charities he obſerved to be much abated upon the Suppreſſion of Religious Houſes; many of thoſe Helps and Succours of the Poor being ſunk and loſt, the Revenues falling into private Hands, and become the Poſſeſſions of ſuch as were of a quite contrary Diſpoſition to the former Owners. And where Houſes were free for the charitable Entertainmet of poor People, even there (the Poor being turned out) Houſes were ſometimes erected for the Oppreſſions of the Poor, by hard Bargains made with the Workmen, and by racking the poor Tenants by advanced Rents. Upon this Occaſion he would not forbear now and then to expreſs his Mind; and particularly in Shoreditch Pariſh, where was a Place, called Rotten-row, conſiſting of ſmall Houſes with Gardens; which belonged to the Priory of Haliwel; who placed there a great many Poor, that dwelt there freely, only paying a Penny as an Acknowledgment to him at Chriſtmas, who then feaſted them all at the Priory with good Cheer. Afterwards, when that Priory was diſſolved, theſe Houſes, with the reſt of the Revenues, were ſwallowed up; and came, at length, into the Hands of one Ruſſel, who bought them a good Pennyworth, and new built them. And now was the Caſe quite altered; and there, where Charity and Relief was exerciſed, now became a Place of Rigour and Covetouſneſs: For this Man made his Bargains ſo hardly with his Carpenters, Bricklayers, and other Workmen, that they were undone by it; and then ſo rented theſe Buildings, and took ſuch large Fines of the Tenants, that it came to near as much as the Houſes coſt him: And yet the Place was now, from Rotten-Row, called Ruſſel-Row, in Honour of his Name, as Stow ſmartly reproacheth him.

AS he had a mighty Concern for the Reputation of the City, which it had obtained of antient Times, ſo he was uneaſy at ſome Things in his Time that abated it, and made the Citizens degenerate. He obſerved how it bred warlike People, that delighted in manly and healthful Exerciſes and Sports, whereby they were fitted for War, and Defence of their City and Country; namely, Wreſtling, Running at the Quinten, Shooting in the Long-Bow, Going to the Watches armed; which began now to be diſuſed: Whereof that of Shooting was much laid by, becauſe the common Grounds about the City began to be much incloſed; and ſo Room was wanted for that Exerciſe: Which Incloſures, for that Reaſon, as well as others, Stow diſliked; and ſo inſtead of that, and the other becoming Recreations, the Sports that then took Place, were Creeping, he ſaid, into Bowling-Allies, and Dicing-Houſes, near Home; where, ſaid he, they have Room enough to hazard their Money at unlawful Games: And where I leave them to take their Pleaſures. And noted likewiſe the Paſtimes in former Days, the younger Sort uſed to betake themſelves to on Holidays after Evening Prayer; the young Men playing at Bucklers, and the Maids, in the Sight of their Maſters and Miſtreſſes, dancing for the Garland, hanging croſs the the Streets, (but were now ſuppreſſed) worſe Practices, added he ſhortly, within Doors were to be feared.

AND thus we leave theſe Memorials of this honeſt good Citizen, to his laſting Praiſe, and for an Example to all the Natives of this moſt noble City, and proceed to the other Monuments in this Pariſh Church of St. Andrew Underſhaft.

NEAR Stow's Monument lieth buried the Body of Simon Burton, Citizen and Wax-Chandler of LONDON, a good Benefactor to the Poor of this Pariſh; who was three Times Maſter of his Company, and one of the Governors of St. Thomas's Hoſpital, and of the Common-Council of this Ward 29 Years. And ſince the Diſſolution of the Abbey of Bury, to Thomas Heneage, the Father, and Sir Thomas Heneage the Son.

Jews Synagogue.

THIS Houſe and Ground is now increaſed into many Tenements, and, amongſt the reſt, the Jews of LONDON have built themſelves a large Synagogue here, wainſcotted round. It ſtands Eaſt and Weſt, like one of our Churches. The great Door is on the Weſt; near to which Weſt End is a long Desk upon an Aſcent ſomewhat raiſed from the reſt of the Floor, where the Law is read. The Eaſt Wall is in Part railed in, and before the Wall is a Door, which is to open with a Key, where their Law ſeems to be laid up. Aloft on this Wall are the Ten Commandments, or ſome Part of them, inſcribed in Golden Hebrew Letters without Points. There are ſeven great Branched Candleſticks of Braſs, hanging down from the Top; and many other Places for Candles and Lamps. The Seats are Benches, with Backs to them that run along from Weſt to Eaſt, and the Galleries above, for the Women to ſit in, have Lettices before them.

NEXT to this, coming up again towards Aldgate, was the diſſolved Priory of the Holy Trinity, before ſpoken of.

THE ſecond Way from Aldgate, more towards the South, from the Pump, lieth Fenchurch-ſtreet, on the Right Hand whereof, near the End of Billiter-lane, is Ironmongers Hall, an old Building not worth deſcribing; but of the Company we ſhall ſpeak hereafter. On the Left Hand, or South Side of Fenchurch-ſtreet, runneth a Lane down towards Tower-hill, called Woodroffe-lane, and out of this Lane, toward the Weſt, a Street called Hart-ſtreet.

The Houſe of the Croſſed or Crutched-Fryars.

IN this Street, at the South Eaſt Corner thereof, ſome Time ſtood a Houſe of Crouched (or Croſſed) Fryars, founded by Ralph Hoſier, and William Sabernes, about the Year 1298. Stephen, the tenth Prior of the Holy Trinity in LONDON, granted three Tenements for 13 s. 8 d. by the Year, unto the ſaid Ralph Hoſier and William Sabernes, who afterwards became Fryars of St. Croſſe: Adam was the firſt Prior of that Houſe. Theſe Friars founded their Houſe in the Place of certain Tenements, purchaſed of Richard Wimbuſh, the twelfth Prior of the Holy Trinity, in the Year 1319, which was confirmed by Edward III, the 17th of his Reign, valued at 52 l. 13 s. 4 d. ſurrendered the 12th of November, 30 Henry VIII.

ONE Andrew de Bures gave to this Houſe, 5 Edward III, one Meſſuage and 28 Acres of Land, and one Acre of Meadow in Aketon; and one Meſſuage and 60 Acres of Land in Waldingfield in the County of Suffolk.

THERE was a Licence granted, 23 Edward III, to the Prior of the Holy Croſs, to get Lands in Oxon: And likewiſe the Prior obtained a Grant for a Tenement in Synedene-lane, the ſame with that now called Seething-lane.

THE very Ruins of this Religious Houſe are not now to be ſeen, and nothing of it remains, only it gives Name to the Street, being more commonly called Crutched-Fryars than Hart-ſtreet; but in the Place thereof now ſtands the Navy-Office, a noble Structure; and within the Compaſs of it many other fine Buildings.

AT a Common-Council, not long before the Beginning of Henry VIII's Reign, an Act paſſed for granting unto the Prior and Convent of the Croſſed Fryars, beſide the Tower of LONDON, (to the Intent that they ſhould pray for the good Eſtate of the City) ſome common Ground of the ſaid City, for the Enlargement of their Church, viz. in Breadth from the Eaſt End of their Church, from the main Wall thereof on the North Part, into the High Street there, five Feet of Aſſize; and at the Weſt End of their Church, in Breadth four Feet and a half, ſtretching in Length from the Eaſt toward the Weſt Part, ſeven Score and eight Feet and an half.

AFTERWARDS, at a Common-Council, holden on Tueſday, September 25, Anno 12, Henry VIII, the ſaid Prior and Convent petitioned for Succour, towards the edifying and Maintenance of their new Church; and to take upon them, and the whole City, to be their ſecond Founders. Whereupon it was agreed, that ſeveral Exhortations ſhould be made in Writing, to every Fellowſhip in LONDON, to ſee what they would do for their Devotions towards the ſame; and ſuch Sums to be certified to the Mayor and Aldermen, to the Intent it may be known to what it will amount.

A Prior of this Houſe in Henry VIII's Time, was not ſo obſervant as he ſhould be of the Rules of his Order; who on a Friday (a Day of ſomewhat more Mortification and Devotion than others) was found at 11 o'Clock, in Bed with a Whore, and taken by Barthelot, and others, appointed Viſitors by Order of Cromwell, the Vicar General. For the concealing of this Incontinency, the ſurprized Prior diſtributed 30 l. preſently among them, and promiſed 30 l. more. All which was certified to Cromwell, in a Letter wrote by the ſaid Barthelot. Theſe ſcandalous Crimes haſtened the Diſſolution of theſe Monaſteries.

IN this Houſe was buried Mr. John Tirres.

Which Prayers, as the Will directs, they ſhould eſpecially ſay for the good and proſperous Eſtate of the ſaid Sir John, and Dame Johan, their Children, and Friends now living; and after their Deceaſe, for the Souls of the ſaid Sir John, and Dame Johan, and Margaret his firſt Wife, their Fathers and Mothers, Children, and Friends Souls, and all Chriſtian Souls.

The Inſcription is, Ad laudem Dei & glorioſe Virginis MARIE, hoc Opus erexit Dominus JOHANNES MILBOURN, Miles & Alderman. hujus Civitatis, A. D. 1535. This Inſcription, formerly obſcure or defaced, is lately refreſhed, for the better remembering the Founder of this Alms-Houſe.

IN Stow's Time, the Place where this Church ſtood was made a Carpenter's Yard, and a Tennis-Court, and the Fryars-Hall a Glaſs-Houſe; which Houſe, in the Year 1575, on the 4th of September, burſt out in a terrible Fire, and having in it about 40,000 Billets of Wood, was conſumed to the Stone Walls, which were ſo thick, that they prevented the Fire ſpreading any farther. The Fryars Hall made a Glaſs-Houſe.

ADJOINING to this Fryars Church, by the Eaſt End thereof, in Woodroffe-lane, towards Tower-hill, are certain Alms-Houſes, fourteen in Number, built of Brick and Timber, founded by Sir John Milbourn, Draper, ſome Time Mayor, 1521.

AND over the Gate towards the Street, the old Inſcription, on a four ſquare Stone, is ſtill remaining, with the Figure of the Aſſumption of our Bleſſed Lady, ſupported by ſix Angels, in a Cloud of Glory. The Inſcription is, Ad laudem Dei & glorioſe Virginis MARIE, hoc Opus erexit Dominus JOHANNES MILBOURN, Miles & Alderman. hujus Civitatis, A. D. 1535. This Inſcription, formerly obſcure or defaced, is lately refreſhed, for the better remembering the Founder of this Alms-Houſe.

WHEREIN are placed thirteen aged poor Men, and their Wives, if they have Wives: Theſe have their Dwellings, Rent free, and 2*s.* 4*d.* a-piece, the firſt Day of every Month, for ever.

Sir Richard Champion, Draper, Mayor, about the eighth of Queen Elizabeth, gave 19*l.* 14*s.* per Annum, to thirteen poor Alms-Men at Tower-hill: On whom Sir John Milbourn, Draper, and Founder, had ſettled the like Maintenance of 19*l.* 14*s.* before.

CONCERNING this Gift of Sir John Milbourn, it appears by Dolphin's Will, That he built 13 Alms-Houſes in his Life-time on a Plat of Ground in the Pariſh of St. Olave's, near the Tower, in Aldgate Ward, next adjoining on the South Part of the Choir, or Chancel of the Conventual Church of the Priory of Croſſed Fryars of London, and the Convent of the ſaid Place, within the Precinct ſome Time of their Houſe. COMMUNIS EST QUÆ ASPICIS NOLI TERRERI MORTALITATIS FACIES the eighth Part of an Acre, with the Appurtenances. This Sir John Milbourn had of Edmund Stretham, Prior of the Croſſed Fryars, and the Convent; recovered 26 Henry VIII. as in the Huſtens of LONDON appeareth of Record.

Of theſe ſaid 13 Tenements, or Cottages, the ſaid Milbourn, and Dame Johan, his Wife, made a Gift in Truſt unto one William Dolphin, Citizen and Draper; as alſo of 11 other Meſſuages in ſeveral Pariſhes in LONDON: which were bought with the Money and Goods of the ſaid Sir John Milbourn and Dame Johan.

The Houſes were theſe: Five Meſſuages in Thames-ſtreet, in the Pariſh of St. Laurence Pountney: Two Meſſuages with their Appurtenances in the Pariſh of St. Nicholas near Newgate: Two Meſſuages with their Appurtenances in St. Martin's the Great, ſome Time belonging to the Reverend Father in Chriſt, John, Archbiſhop of Thebes, and Commendatory perpetual of Carliſle: Two Meſſuages or Tenements and Gardens, ſome Time John Cheſter's, afterwards Dame Johan, his late Wife, married to Sir John Milbourn, lying in the Pariſh of our Bleſſed Lady of Aldermary: Eleven in all.

All theſe 11 Meſſuages, with the ſaid 13 Cottages, the ſaid William Dolphin, by his Laſt Will, bearing Date the 8th Day of December, 36 Henry VIII. deviſed and bequeathed to the Maſter and Wardens, Brethren and Siſters of the Guild or Fraternity of our Bleſſed Lady of Drapers; to have and to hold to them and their Succeſſors for ever, for theſe Uſes, viz. with Part of the Rents and Iſſues, to diſpoſe and diſtribute 32 s. 10 d. Sterling, at 12 Times of the Year, to 13 poor People, Houſholders, either wedded Perſons or unmarried, Brethren or Siſters, of the ſame Fraternity of Drapers, as ſhould be admitted to the 13 Rooms: That is, 7 d. a Week a-piece, on every firſt Day of the Month, beginning the firſt Day of May in the Year 1536.

And in caſe there ſhould not be found within the Company of Drapers ſo many poor Houſeholders as would receive the ſame Alms, then there ſhould be named, to ſupply the ſame Number of Alms-men, other Houſeholders of the Pariſh of St. Edmund's in Lombard-ſtreet, and St. Bartholomew the Little, to receive the ſaid Alms.

These poor People were to be thus qualified, viz. to be of honeſt Converſation, and not detected of any open Crime; and after their Admiſſion, ſhould be reſtant and abiding upon the ſame; and not to keep any common Selling of Ale, Beer, or Wine, or any other Thing concerning Tippling, or any petty Oſtrey.

They were to be nominated, and put in, by Sir John Milbourn, and Dame Johan his Wife, during their Mortal Lives; and after their Deceaſes, by their Executors: And then by the Maſter and Wardens and Aſſiſtants of the Drapers for ever: And the ſaid Bedeſmen, or Alms-Men, were daily to come unto the Church of the Croſſed Fryars, in ſome Place near to the Tomb of the ſaid Milbourn, and Dame Johan; and there to abide and continue while the Service of God was ſaid.

This Allowance to the Poor of this Alms-Houſe, the Worſhipful Company of Drapers do faithfully pay; and have doubled it, and increaſed the Number of the poor Folks, from 13 to 15.

Next to the Alms-Houſes was the Houſe of the Lord Lumley, built in the Time of Hen. VIII. by Sir Thomas Wiat, the Father, upon a Piece of Ground that belonged to the Croſſed Fryars, which is the fartheſt Part of Aldgate Ward.

On the South Side of Fenchurch-ſtreet, over-againſt the Pump, among other large and handſome Houſes, was one, ſome Time belonging to the Prior of Monte Jovis, or Monaſtrie Cornute (Hornchurch) in Eſſex. It was the Prior's Inn, when he came to LONDON.

Then there is a Lane which leadeth down to Northumberland-place, in the Pariſh of St. Catharine Coleman: Here was formerly a Houſe, which belonged to Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland, in the 33d of Henry VI. but being left by the Earls, the Gardens thereof were turned into Bowling-alleys and Dicing-houſes; but is now all built upon.

At the Weſt End of this Lane, in the Way from Aldgate to Crutched-Fryars, of old Time, were certain Tenements called the Poor-Jury, from Jews inhabiting there.

The PARISH of St. CATHARINE COLEMAN.

Next to this Northumberland-place, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Catharine, called Coleman; which Addition of Coleman was taken from a great Haw-yard, or Garden, of old Time, called Coleman-Haw, in the Pariſh of the Trinity.

This Church was repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord 1620. In the Year 1624, their Veſtry was built, and a Gallery new made for the Poor of the Pariſh to ſit in; and having eſcaped the Flames in 1666, was again repaired in 1703. As to its Foundation, tho' the exact Time of its firſt Building cannot be juſtly aſcertained, yet it is very probable 'twas built in, or before, the Year 1182, which was the Reign of Richard I. becauſe that Date is carved on a Pew in the Church near the Chancel.

The Building is partly Gothick, and partly of the Tuſcan Order: And as to Ornaments, there is at the Weſt End of the Church, a ſmall Gallery, in the Front of which are ſeveral Figures of Cherubs, &c. done in Baſſo Relievo, and towards the South End hereof theſe Words:

Let thine Eye be upon this Houſe Day and Night.

At the North End of this Front, theſe Words:

This is the Houſe of GOD, and the Gate of Heaven.

And in the Middle, theſe Words:

Be Swift to Hear, be Slow to Speak.

The Pews and Pulpit are plain, but neat; and, as a farther Ornament, here is the Portraiture of King Carles I. at his Devotion; in his Left Hand holding a Scrole, on which are theſe Words, Chriſto Tracto; under his Feet, Carolus ΩΝ ΟΥΚ ΗΝ ΑΞΙΟΣ ΟΚΟΣΜΟΣ.

Heb. xi. 38.

Ecce Spectaculum dignum ad quod reſpiciat Deus operi ſuo intentus.
Vir fortis cum malâ fortunâ compoſitus.
Sen. de Provid. Cap. 2.

The Altar-piece conſiſts of the Commandments, done in Gold on Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Black Letters upon Gold; over the Lord's Prayer, are theſe Words, When ye pray ſay: And over the Creed theſe Words, Hold faſt the Form of ſound Words. All which are in a ſtrong Quadrangular Frame, adorned with a Seraphim and two Cherubims painted, as are theſe Words in large Characters, The Law was given by Moſes, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ.

Here is alſo in Memory of Queen Elizabeth, the Arms of England and France Quarterly, with this Motto, Semper Eadem. Under which are theſe Words, Elizabeth, late Queen of England, land, France, &c. came to the Crown November 1558; reigned 44 Years, ſlept in the Lord, March 24, 1602.

Many Daughters have done virtuouſly, but thou ſurmounteſt them all. MEMORIA IMMORTALIS.

ON the North Side of the Church, as you go up into the Pulpit, is this Inſcription, upon a Monument, by Way of Epitaph, on the Death of the Noble Virtuous and Charitable Gentlewoman Mrs. Barnes.

In antient Times, the Friends ſurviving gave,
Some rich Memorial to the dead Friend's Grave;

Gold,

Gold, Pearls, or Gems, which Cuſtom did intend,
Our Riches ought to wait upon our Friend,
In Life and Death. O bleſſed Ages! when Men parted Fortunes, and not Fortunes Men!
But now perverted are our preſent Ends,
That, for Wealth, ſell the Fame of living Friends.
The Dead we live by, now can Scant afford
The Rites and Sacrifice of one good Word:
Of which, leſt I be one, though I can bring,
For worthy Obſequie, no precious Thing;
My Gratitude preſents unto her Hearſe,
My Tears for Balme; for Offering my ſad Verſe.
Give leave, then, Grief, let my drown'd Muſe declare
What ſhe that's dead was, unto them that are,
The Rule and Index to find all the Good
That ever Heaven dealt upon Womanhood:
For if we but anatomize her Life,
We find both a good Woman, and good Wife:
Firſt ſhe lov'd God, not like the Phariſee,
In Oſtentation and Hypocriſie;
But even with all her Heart and all her Soul,
She ſecretly did raging Sin controul:
For ſhe, for Goodneſs ſake, was innocent,
And not for Glory, or Fear of Puniſhment.
Next, to her Neighbour, did her Love extend,
Ready to help at Need, and to be a Friend.
The Poor, and thoſe that never could repay,
But with their Prayers at the latter Day:
The Remnant of her Love ſhe did beſtow
Upon her Husband not in outward Show,
Or elſe in feign'd adulterate Flattery;
But in ſound Truth, and deep Sincerity.
Thus did ſhe live, divided in her Love
From this unworthy World and Nature then,
Which had but lent her, took her back agen.
Here let us live in Peace, and let us try,
To live like her, that we like her may die.
Come hither, Women, leave your Vanities,
Your Luſt, your Scorns, your Pride, your Fooleries:
For hither you muſt all. The Duſt and Grave
All your adored Braveries muſt have:
And all thoſe Beauties, that are now afraid
Of Air, of Sun, muſt in the Ground be laid.
Then deck your Souls, unto whoſe Quinteſſence,
Nor Time, nor Death, nor Grave can bring Offence.
For ſo you may for ever beautifie
Your ſelves as Angels, in Eternity.

On a Tomb, in the Southerly Part of this Church-yard is this Inſcription.

This Vault was purchaſed, Anno Dom. 1674, for Mrs. Mary Weſenham, Daughter to Robert Weſenham of Totenhill, in the County of Norfolk, Gent. and for her Mother and Father, and for their Relations.

Lodg'd and retir'd, here does lye
A Virgin who had learnt to dye;
Betimes her virtuous Race begun,
And to our Grief too ſoon 'twas done;
Nothing below could court her Love,
Eſpous'd ſhe is in Heaven above:
A joyful Feſtival to keep,
While with this Marble we muſt weep.
We'll in our Hearts engrave her ſpotleſs Name,
Which ſhall eternize Mary Weſenham.

Arms; here are a Feſs Dauncette, between three Mullets. The Colours not expreſſed.

At the South Door of the Church is a Grave-Stone, whereon is a Braſs Plate with this Inſcription, in an old Church Text Character.

I humbly do require all which paſs this Way,
For Henry Webb, Eſq; his Soul devoutly pray;
Which Gentleman Uſher was to King Henry VIII.
And now lieth here buried with Barbara his Wife,
Which the 5th of Feb. 1552, departed this Life,
And the laſt Day of March, in like Sort did he,
The 1000 Year of our Lord God Five hundred Fifty three.
On whoſe Soul, &c.

HERE is a Pariſh Workhouſe.

THIS Pariſh begins on the Eaſt Side of Billiter-lane, againſt Smith's Buildings, and extends Southward to Fenchurch-ſtreet, and from thence on the North Side of that Street Eaſtward to Angel-alley, and Sugar-loaf-alley, and takes in Part of Angel-alley. On the South Side of Fenchurch-ſtreet it extends from the George Weſtward, to within about ſeven Houſes of Mark-lane, and in that Compaſs takes in Northumberland-place, Magpye-alley, and French-ordinary-court, except one Houſe; and in Poor-jury-lane, it extends on the Weſt Side from the Sign of the Horſeſhoe Southward, to within four Doors of the Pump in Crutched-fryars, and takes in Cock-alley, Three-crown-court, and Ball-court.

THE Number of Houſe, 180.

IN this Pariſh was the Manor of Blanch-apleton, now corruptly called Blind-chapel-court: It belonged to Sir Thomas Roos of Hamelake, Knt. the 7th of Richard II. ſtanding at the North Eaſt Corner of Mark-lane. In the 3d of Edward IV. all Basket-makers, Wire-drawers, and other Foreigners, were permitted to have Shops in the Manor of Blanch-apleton, and no where elſe, within the City or Suburbs.

As to the preſent State of the whole Ward it ſtands thus:

IT firſt begins with Aldgate-ſtreet, which is broad, but ſhort, and very well inhabited by Tradeſmen, and, by giving Paſſage through the Gate, to and from the adjacent Parts, is a very great Thorough-fare. This Street begins at the Gate, and runs Weſtward to the Pump, where it divides itſelf into two Streets; one falling into Leadenhall-ſtreet, and the other into Fenchurch-ſtreet. Next the Gate is the chief, but narrow Entrance into Duke's-place, which is large, and for the moſt Part inhabited by Jews.

In this Place are ſeveral Courts, ſome of which are very large; as, where the Church of St. James Duke's Place ſtands. This Church did pretend to a Privilege above others, eſpecially in Marrying without Licenſes, which was, not many Years ago, taken away, by Act of Parliament, as well as from the Minories, and others, by laying very heavy Pecuniary Mulcts upon all Perſons whatſoever who marry without Banns, or Licenſe. Out of this Court, where the Church ſtands, is a Paſſage under an Arch into another large one, called Duke's Place Court; and to theſe two Courts, there are two Out-lets into that Part of Duke's Place which fronteth London-Wall, along which is a narrow Lane, called commonly Duke's Place, which turning South leads to Aldgate, and North Weſt to Bevis Marks, a Place generally taken up by Shoemaker's Shops. Here is a ſmall Place, called Vine Court, which is but ordinary. Likewiſe out of Duke's-place-court is a Street which leadeth to another, and both called Duke's Place. In this Place, in a large upper Room, was the old Jews Synagogue: From this Part is Henage-lane, which is but ordinary, and falls into Bevis Marks, which comes out of Duke's Place by London-wall, and falls into Camomile-ſtreet, which runs along by the Wall as far as St. Mary-axe: But neither this nor Bevis Marks are Places of great Account. On the South Side here is Plough-yard, which is pretty large, but chiefly taken up for Stabling and Coach-houſes, but towards the upper End hath one handſome Houſe, with a Garden before it; and near this Yard is Berry-ſtreet, which is very handſome and cleanly kept, with good uniform Buildings on both Sides, which are well inhabited by Merchants, and Perſons of Repute, who dwell privately, without Shops: This Street falls into one Part of Duke's-place, where there is a narrow Paſſage into St. Mary-axe, called Greyhound-alley, which is but ordinary.

St. Mary-axe, a Street that comes out of Bevis Marks by London-wall, and runneth up South to Leadenhall-ſtreet againſt Lime-ſtreet. And this Street, eſpecially the Eaſt Side, (which is only in this Ward) is generally taken up by Merchants, there being divers large and handſome Buildings ſeated backwards, with good Entrances to them ſhut up by Gates; and many of them have Gardens behind them.

AT the North End of St. Mary-axe, is Fletchers Hall, and at the South Corner the Pariſh Church of St. Andrew Underſhaft.

Leadenhall-ſtreet, a Place of great Trade, well inhabited, and a great Thorough-fare. In this Street are theſe Places; Pewter-pot-Inn; Allen's-court hath one large Houſe that fronts the Street, being ſome Time the Seat of Sir Thomas Allen, and therefore ſo called; Wheat-ſheaf-alley, hath a dark Entrance, and is but ordinary; Axe-alley, hath ſeveral Turnings, and leads into Bucker's-gardens, and ſo into Duke's-place, by the Jews Synagogue; the Crown Tavern, large and of a good Trade; the Royal African Houſe, a large Houſe, being the Place for the Management of the Affairs of that Company; Sugar-loaf-court, a pretty handſome Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, well built and inhabited; Black-raven-alley, ſmall and ordinary; Little Duke's-place, alſo mean and ſmall.

Lime-ſtreet, on the South Side of Leadenhall-ſtreet, leads into Fenchurch-ſtreet, and is for the generality taken up by Merchants, and Perſons of Repute. The Weſt Side of this Street lieth in Lime-ſtreet Ward; ſome Part in Langborn Ward; there being in this Ward but the Eaſt Side, from Leadenhall-ſtreet Corner unto a late built Street, called Cullum-ſtreet, from the Builder: And in this Part is Axe-yard, which is but indifferent; Lime-ſtreet-alley, by ſome called Billiter-alley, as leading into Billiter-ſquare, and through that Square Eaſt into Billiter-lane; betwixt this Alley an Axe-yard is a new Court built out of ſome Houſes pulled down.

EAST of Lime-ſtreet is Billiter-lane, which goes out of Leadenhall-ſtreet, and falls into Fenchurch-ſtreet againſt the End of Mark-lane. This Lane is of very little Account, the Buildings being very old Timber Houſes, which much want pulling down and new building, and the Inhabitants being as inconſiderable; as ſmall Brokers, Chandlers, and ſuch like: And 'tis great Pity that a Place ſo well ſeated ſhould be ſo mean: But the chief Ornament of this Place is Billiter-ſquare, on the Weſt Side; which is a very handſome, open, and airy Place, graced with good new Brick Buildings, well inhabited; and out of this Square is a handſome Free-Stone Paſſage, called Smith's Rents, which leadeth to Fenchurch-

Fenchurch-ſtreet; in this Street or Lane is Billet-court, which is both ſmall and ordinary.

Mark-lane, or Mart-lane, entering into which, on the Left Hand, there is a large, open, ſquare Place, with a Paſſage to it for Carts, called Blanch-apleton-court: It hath a turning Paſſage on the South Side, by an Alley, which encompaſſeth ſome of the Houſes. More South is Pick-axe-alley, very ſmall and ordinary, with a dark Entrance into it. This Lane is very long, falling into Tower-ſtreet; but the Part in this Ward is but ſmall, viz. the Eaſt Side from the Corner of Fenchurch-ſtreet, to Pick-axe-alley, the greateſt Part being in Tower-ſtreet Ward, with ſome Part in Langborn Ward.

Fenchurch-ſtreet is long, reaching from the Pump within Aldgate to Gracechurch-ſtreet, and, for the generality, well inhabited, and amongſt the Inhabitants divers Merchants: But of this Street, there is in this Ward no more than from Billiter-lane to Aldgate-ſtreet, on the North Side, and a little beyond Mark-lane to Aldgate-ſtreet, on the South Side; the reſt being in Langborn Ward. Between Mark-lane and St. Catharine Coleman Church, is a new Street lately built, with very handſome Houſes in it, called London-ſtreet, at the Corner of which, in Fenchurch-ſtreet, is a large Houſe, called the London-Tavern, which for elegant Entertainment is ſcarcely exceeded by any Tavern in the City, not even Pontack's, or the Rummer in Queen-ſtreet. Overagainſt St. Catharine Coleman Church is a magnificent Houſe now Building for two Jews, Brothers, whoſe Names are Franco. Adjoining to this Church, Weſtward, is Magpye-alley, which hath a narrow Paſſage into French-Ordinary-court, and ſo into Crutched-fryars. Sugarloaf-alley hath a Paſſage, with Free-ſtone Pavement, into Leadenhall-ſtreet. Northumberland-alley, which is where Northumberland-houſe once ſtood, but now converted into other Buildings, is very long, which, with ſeveral turning Paſſages, falls into Crutched-fryars; and for the generality is but an ordinary Place, as well for Houſes as Inhabitants, yet not without ſome few that are good.

Crutched, Crouched, or Croſſed-fryars, begins in the Weſt at Hart-ſtreet, and runs Eaſtward, taking in Part of the Navy-Office, and then turning Northwards falls into Aldgate; but that Part that runs Northward is called Poor-jury-lane, which is but ordinary. This Crutched-fryars-ſtreet hath ſeveral good Buildings and Places of Name, viz. on the North Side, French-Ordinary-court, already mentioned, being a large open Place, with good Buildings, eſpecially on the Eaſt Side; having Palliſado Pales, with Trees before the Court-Yards of the Houſes, and a Free-ſtone Pavement between the Houſes. Out of this Court is a Paſſage down Steps into Fenchurch-ſtreet.

THE Navy-Office, on the South Side of the Street, hath ſome Part in this Ward, viz. almoſt all the firſt Court, with the Side Buildings, and ſome ſmall Part of the Office itſelf; the other Part, viz. the back Part being in Tower-ſtreet Ward, where it is before ſpoken of.

Bunt's-Yard ſeated not far from the Navy-Office Eaſtward, a pretty large Place, but only for Stabling. Allam-yard, taken up for Warehouſes. River-ſtreet, a good large open Place, with Brick Buildings, well inhabited, leads to Great Tower-hill. Out of this Street, on the Eaſt Side, is Colcheſter-ſtreet; it hath good Brick Buildings, and falls into Woodroffe-lane, which begins at Crutched-fryars, and ſo leads to Tower-hill, in which Lane is a Mixture of Brick and Timber Houſes pretty well built and inhabited. In this Lane is Chain-alley, which hath one good Houſe and Garden to it. At the upper End of this Lane, and fronting Crutched-fryars, are good Brick Buildings, called Gold-ſquare, well inhabited. Gunpowder-alley, hath at the Upper-End ten Alms-Houſes for Men and their Wives, being the Gift of the Lord Banning, and now called Oxford's Alms-Houſes, the Earl marrying an Heireſs of the Bannings; theſe have but ſmall Allowances. Northumberland-alley comes out here into Poor-jury-lane, where is a large Brew-houſe. Black-horſe-yard, for Stabling, with ſome Dwelling-Houſes in it. Flower-de-lis-court, but ſmall. Three-crown-court, a handſome open Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Holſey's Rents, very ſmall and ordinary. Carpenter's-yard, a good handſome Court, very well inhabited. George-alley, long and narrow, with a Paſſage to Aldgate.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, his Deputy, ſix Common-Council-Men, ſix Conſtables, nine Scavengers, eighteen Wardmote-Men for Inqueſt, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 5 l.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, beſides the Conſtable and Beadle, 34 Watchmen; and for the Liberty of Duke's-place 10; in all 44.

THE Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt, are to ſerve as Jurors in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in the Month of January.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Micajah Perry, Eſq;

CHAP. IV.

LIME-STREET WARD.

THE next is Lime-ſtreet Ward, which Street it is ſuppoſed had firſt its Name from making or ſelling Lime there. The Eaſt Side of this Lime-ſtreet, from the North Corner thereof, to the midſt, is of Aldgate Ward, as is ſaid before: The Weſt Side, for the moſt Part from the North Corner Southward, is of this Lime-ſtreet Ward: The South End on both Sides is of Langborn Ward.

MONUMENTS, or Places of Note in this Ward are theſe: In Lime-ſtreet are ſeveral handſome Houſes for Merchants and others: There was ſome Time a Manſion Houſe of the King's, called The King's Artirce, whereof there was a Record in the 14th of Edward I. but now grown out of Knowledge. There was another great Houſe on the Weſt Side of Lime-ſtreet, having a Chapel on the South, and a Garden on the Weſt, then belonging to the Lord Nevill, which Garden was afterwards called the Green-yard of the Leadenhall.

AT the North Weſt Corner of Lime-ſtreet, was, of old Time, a great Meſſuage, called Benbridge's Inn: Raphe Holland, Draper, about the Year 1542, gave it to John Gill, Maſter, and to the Wardens and Fraternity of Taylors, and Linnen Armorers of St. John Baptiſt in LONDON, and to their Succeſſors for ever. They ſet up in the Place of it a large Frame of Timber, containing in the High Street one great Houſe, and before it, to the Corner of Lime-ſtreet, three other Tenements, the Corner Houſe being the largeſt: And then down Lime-ſtreet ſeveral Tenements, all which the Merchant-Taylors, in the Reign of Edward VI, ſold to Stephen Kyrton, Merchant-Taylor and Alderman. He gave with his Daughter Griſild, to Nicholas Woodroffe, the ſaid great Houſe, with two Tenements before it, in lieu of an hundred Pounds: Next to this in the High-ſtreet was the Lord Zouch's Meſſuage, or Tenement, and others. In the Place of which, Richard Wethel, Merchant-Taylor, built a handſome Houſe, with a high Tower, the ſecond in Number, and firſt of Timber, that had ever been built, to overlook Neighbours in the City.

NEXT to this, was another handſome Houſe, built by Stephen Kyrton, Alderman; afterwards rebuilt by Alderman Lee; but, when Monday's Edition of Stow came out, in the Poſſeſſion of Sir William Craven.

THEN was there a good Houſe, of old Time, called the Green-gate, with a Tenement and nine Shops, which Richard II, in the 15th Year of his Reign, gave to Roger Crophull, and Thomas Bromeſlet, Eſqrs; by the Name of the Green-gate, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew upon Cornhill, in Lime-ſtreet Ward: Since which Time, Philip Malpas, ſome Time Alderman, and one of the Sheriffs, dwelled therein, and was there robbed of his Goods, to a great Value, by Jack Cade, and other Rebels, in the Year 1449.

AFTERWARDS, in the Reign of Henry VII, it was ſeized into the King's Hands; and then granted firſt unto John Alſton, after that, unto William de la Rivers, and ſince by Henry VIII, to John Mutas, a Pickard, or Frenchman, who dwelled there, and harboured in his Houſe many Frenchmen, that calendred Worſted, and did other Things, contrary to the Franchiſes of the Citizens. Wherefore on Evil May-day, which was in the Year 1517, the Apprentices and others ſpoiled his Houſe, and if they could have found Mutas, they would have ſtruck off his Head. Sir Peter Mutas, Son to the ſaid John Mutas, ſold this Houſe to David Woodroffe, Alderman, whoſe Son Sir Nicholas Woodroffe, Alderman, ſold to John Moore, Alderman, that next poſſeſſed it.

NEXT was a Houſe, called the Leaden-porch, divided into two Tenements, whereof one was a Tavern, the other Houſe for a Merchant, likewiſe called the Leaden-porch.

NEAR this was a handſome Houſe, wherein divers Mayoralties had been kept, whereof two in the Remembrance of Stow, to wit, Sir William Bowyer, and Sir Henry Huberthorne.

THE next was the Leadenhall, which in the Year 1309, belonged to Sir Hugh Nevill, Knt. and the Lady Alice, his Widow, made a Feoffment thereof, by the Name of Leadenhall, with the Advowſons of the Church of St. Peter on Cornhill, and other Churches, to Richard Earl of Arundel and Surrey, 1362.

MORE, in the Year 1380, Alice Nevill, Widow to Sir John Nevill, Knt. of Eſſex, conformed to Thomas Cogſhall, and others, the ſaid Manor of Leadenhall, and the Advowſons, &c.

IN the Year 1384, Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, had the ſaid Manor. And in the Year 1408, Robert Rikeden of Eſſex, and Margaret his Wife, confirmed to Richard Whittington, and other Citizens of London, the ſaid Manor of Leadenhall, with the Appurtenances, the Advowſon of St. Peter's Church, St. Margaret Pattens, &c.

AND in the Year 1411, the ſaid Whittington and others confirmed the ſame to the Mayor and Commonalty of London, whereby it came to the Poſſeſſion of the City.

THEN in the Year 1443, the 21ſt of Henry VI, John Hatherly, Mayor, purchaſed Licence of the ſaid King to take up 200 Fodder of Lead, for the building of Water Conduits, a common Granary, and the Croſs in Weſt Cheap, more richly for the Honour of the City.

IN the Year next following, the Parſon and Pariſh of St. Dunſtan in the Eaſt of London, ſeeing the famous and mighty Man (for the Words be in the Grant, Cum nobilis & potens vir,) Simon Eyre, Citizen of London, among other his Works of Piety, effectually determined to erect and build a certain Granary, upon the Soil of the ſame City at Leadenhall, at his own Charges, for the common Utility of the ſaid City; to the amplifying and enlarging of the ſaid Granary, granted to Henry Frowicke, then Mayor, the Aldermen and Commonalty and their Succeſſors, for ever, all their Tenements, with the Appurtenances, ſometime called the Horſe Mill in Graſs-Street, for the annual Rent of four Pounds, &c.

ALSO, certain Evidences (of an Alley and Tenements pertaining to the Horſe Mill, adjoining to the ſaid Leadenhall in Graſs-ſtreet, given by William Kingſtone, Fiſhmonger, unto the Pariſh Church of St. Peter upon Cornhill) do ſpecify the ſaid Granary, to be built by the ſaid honourable and famous Merchant, Simon Eyre, ſometime an Upholſter, and then a Draper, in the Year 1419. He built it of ſquared Stone in the Form as now it ſheweth, with a large Chapel in the Eaſt Side of the Quadrant, over the Porch of which he cauſed to be written, Dextra Domini exaltavit me, The Lord's Right Hand exalted me.

WITHIN the ſaid Chapel on the North Wall was written, Honorandus famoſus Mercator. Simon Eyre, hujus Operis, &c. The honourable and famous Merchant, Simon Eyre, Founder of this Work, (once Mayor of this City,) Citizen and Draper of the ſame, departed out of this Life the 18th Day of September, the Year from the Incarnation of Chriſt 1459, and the 38th Year of the Reign of Henry VI. He was buried in his Pariſh Church of St. Mary Woolnoth in Lombard-ſtreet: He gave by his Teſtament ſomewhat to be diſtributed to all Priſons in LONDON, or within a Mile of that City to relieve them.

MORE, he gave 2000 Marks upon a Condition, which not performed, was then to be diſtributed to Maids Marriages, and other Deeds of Charity: He alſo gave 3000 Marks to the Company of Drapers, upon Condition, that they ſhould, within one Year after his Deceaſe, eſtabliſh perpetually a Maſter or Warden, five Secular Prieſts, ſix Clerks, and two Choriſters, to ſing daily Divine Service by Note, for ever, in his Chapel of the Leadenhall: Alſo three School-Maſters, with an Uſher, to wit, one Maſter with an Uſher for Grammar, one Maſter for Writing, and the third for Singing, with Houſing there newly built for them, for ever: The Maſter to have a Salary of 10*l.* and every other Prieſt 8*l.* every other Clerk 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* and every other Choriſter, five Marks; and if the Drapers refuſed this to do, within one Year after his deceaſe, then the three thouſand Marks to remain to the Prior and Convent of Chriſt's Church in LONDON, with Condition to eſtabliſh as is aforeſaid, within two Years after his Deceaſe: And if they refuſed, then the 3000 Marks to be diſpoſed by his Executors, as they beſt could deviſe in Works of Charity.

THUS much for his Teſtament, not performed, by eſtabliſhing of Divine Service in his Chapel, or Free-Schools for Scholars; neither how the Stock of 3000 Marks, or rather 5000 Marks, were employed by his Executors, was ever known. He left Iſſue, Thomas, who had Iſſue, Thomas, &c. True it is, that in the Year 1464, the 3d of Edward IV, it was agreed by the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of LONDON, that notwithſtanding the King's Letters Patent, lately before granted to them, touching the Tronage, nage, or Weighing of Wares, to be held at the Leadenhall; yet Suit ſhould be made to the King for new Letters Patent, to be granted to the Mayor, of the Staple, for the Tronage of Wools to be held there, and Order to be taken at the Diſcretion of Thomas Cooke, then Mayor, the Counſel of the City, Jeffrey Fielding, then Mayor of the Staple at Weſtminſter, and of the King's Council, what ſhould be paid to the Mayor and Aldermen of the City, for Laying and Houſing of the Wool there, that ſo they might be brought forth and weighed, &c.

As to the Chapel there, in the Year 1466, by Licence obtained of King Edward IV, in the 6th of his Reign, a Fraternity of the Trinity of ſixty Prieſts, beſides other Brethren and Siſters, in the ſame Chapel, was founded by William Rouſe, John Risby, and Thomas Aſhby, Prieſts.

Some of the which ſixty Prieſts, every Market Day in the Forenoon, did celebrate Divine Service there, to ſuch Market-People that repaired to Prayer: And once, every Year, they met all together, and had ſolemn Service, with Proceſſion of all the Brethren and Siſters. This Foundation was in the Year 1512, by a Common-Council, confirmed to the ſixty Trinity Prieſts, and to their Succeſſors, at the Will of the Mayor and Commonalty.

In the Year 1484, a great Fire happened upon the Leadenhall; many Houſes were there deſtroyed, with all the Stocks for Guns, and other Proviſion belonging to the City, which was a great Loſs, and no leſs Charge to be repaired by them.

In the Year 1503, the 18th of Henry VII, a Requeſt was made by the Commons of the City, concerning the Uſage of the ſaid Leadenhall, in Form as followeth:

Pleaſe it the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council, to enact,

" THAT all Frenchmen, bringing Canvas, " Linnen Cloth, and other Wares to be " ſold, and all Foreigns bringing Wolſtens, Says, " Stamins, Riverings, Nails, Iron-work, or any " other Wares, and alſo all Manner of Foreigns, " bringing Lead to the City to be ſold, ſhall " bring all ſuch their Wares aforeſaid, to the open " Market of the Leadenhall there, and no where " elſe, to be ſhewed, ſold, and uttered, like as " of old Time it hath been uſed, upon Pain of " Forfeiture of all the ſaid Wares, ſhewed, or " ſold, in any other Place than aforeſaid. The " Shew of the ſaid Wares to be made three Days " in a Week; that is to ſay, Monday, Tueſday, " and Wedneſday. It is alſo thought reaſonable " that the Common Beam be kept, from hence- " forth in the Leadenhall; and the Farmer to pay " therefore, reaſonable Rent to the Chamber: " For better it is, that the Chamber have Ad- " vantage than a Foreign Perſon. And alſo the " ſaid Leadenhall, which is more chargeable now " by half than profitable, ſhall better bear out " the Charges thereof. Alſo the Common Beam " for Wool, at Leadenhall, may pay yearly a " Rent to the Chamber of LONDON, to- " ward the Supportation and Charges of the ſame " Place; for Reaſon it is, that a common Office " occupied upon a common Ground, bear a " Charge to the Uſe of the Commonalty. Alſo " that Foreigns bringing Wools, or any other " Merchandizes, or Wares, to Leadenhall, to " be kept there for the Sale and Market, may " pay more largely for keeping of their Goods " than Freemen.

Thus much for the Requeſt of the Commons at this Time.

Now to ſet down ſome Proofs that the ſame hath been employed and uſed as a Granary for Corn and Grain, (as the ſame was firſt appointed) leaving all former Examples, this one may ſuffice; Roger Achley, Mayor of LONDON in the Year 1512, the 3d of Henry VIII, when the ſaid Mayor entered his Mayoralty, there was not found one hundred Quarters of Wheat in all the Garners of this City, either within the Liberties, or near adjoining: Through which Scarcity, when the Carts of Stratford came laden with Bread to the City (as they had been accuſtomed) there was ſuch Preſs about them, that one Man was ready to deſtroy another, in ſtriving to be ſerved for their Money: But this Scarcity laſted not long; for the Mayor (in ſhort Time) made ſuch Proviſion of Wheat, that the Bakers both of LONDON and Stratford were weary of taking it up, and were forced to take much more than they would: And for the reſt, the Mayor laid out the Money, and ſtowed it up in Leadenhall, and other Garners of the City. This Mayor alſo kept the Market ſo well, that he would be at the Leadenhall by four o'Clock in the Summer Mornings, and from thence he went to other Markets, to the great Comfort of the Citizens.

Moreover, in the Year 1528, the 20th of Henry VIII, Surveyors were appointed to view the Garners of the City; namely, the Bridge-houſe, and Leadenhall, how they were ſtored with Grain, for the Service of the City.

The Bread Carts, before mentioned, were certain long Carts, which the Bakers of Stratford were allowed to bring daily, except on the Sabbath, and principal Holidays, laden with Bread, two Ounces in the Penny Wheat Loaf, heavier than the Penny Wheat Loaf baked in the City; the ſame to be ſold in the Cheap, three, or four, Carts ſtanding there, between Gutheran's-lane and Fauſter's-lane End; one Cart on Cornhill, by the Conduit, and one other in Graſs-ſtreet. In the fourth Year of Edward II, Richard Reffeham being Mayor, a Baker, named John of Stratford, for making Bread leſs than the Aſſize, was, with a Fool's Hood on his Head, and Loaves of Bread about his Neck, drawn on a Hurdle through the Streets of the City.

Moreover, in the 44th Year of Edw. III, John Chicheſter being Mayor of LONDON, " There was a faithful Commune, (as Stow quotes " it, from a Book called, The Viſions of Pierce " Plowman) when no Cart came to Town with " baked Bread from Stratford; tho' gan Beggers " weepe, and Workemen were agaſt, a little " this will be thought long in the Date of our " Dirte, in a dry Averell, a thouſand and three " hundred, twice thirty and ten, &c.

In the twentieth of Henry VIII, Sir James Spencer being Mayor, ſix Bakers of Stratford were merced in the Guildhall of LONDON, for baking under the Aſſize appointed.

In the firſt Edition of Stow's Survey, which was in the Year 1598, the Ceaſing of theſe Stratford Bread-Carts was ſaid to be thirty Years before, which muſt then be about the Year 1568.

In the Year 1519, the 10th of Henry VIII, a Petition was exhibited by the Commons to the Common-Council, and was then allowed, concerning the Leadenhall, how they would have it uſed; which Petition was in the Form following:

To the Right Honourable the Mayor, and his Worſhipful Brethren the Aldermen, and to the diſcreet Commoners, in this Common-Council aſſembled:

" MEEKLY beſeeching, ſheweth unto " your good Lordſhip, and Maſter- " ſhips, divers and many Citizens of this City, " which with your Favours (under Correction) " think, that the great Place called the Leaden- " hall, ſhould, nor ought not to be letten to " Farm, to any Perſon or Perſons, and in eſpecial, " to any Fellowſhip or Company incorporate, to " have

" have and hold the ſame Hall for Term of " Years, for ſuch Inconveniences as thereby may " enſue, and come to the Hurt of the common " Weal of the ſaid City in Time to come, as " ſomewhat more largely may appear in the Ar- " ticles hereafter following:

" Firſt, If any Aſſembly, or haſty Gathering of " the Commons of the ſaid City, for Oppreſſing " or Subduing of miſ-ruled People within the ſaid " City, hereafter ſhall happen to be called or " commanded by the Mayor, Aldermen, and " other Governors and Counſellors of the ſaid " City for the Time being; there is none ſo con- " venient, meet, and neceſſary a Place to aſſem- " ble them in, within the ſaid City, as the ſaid " Leadenhall, both for Largeneſs of Room, and " for their ſure Defence in Time of their counſel- " ling together about the Premiſes. Alſo, in " that Place hath been uſed the Artillery Guns, " and other common Armours of the ſaid City, to " be ſafely kept in Readineſs, for the Safeguard, " Wealth and Defence of the ſaid City, to be " had and occupied at Times, when Need requi- " red. As alſo the Store of Timber, for the ne- " ceſſary Reparations of the Tenements belonging " to the Chamber of the ſaid City, there com- " monly hath been kept.

" Item, If any Triumph or Nobleſſe were to " be done, or ſhewed by the Commonalty of the " ſaid City, for the Honour of our Sovereign Lord " the King, and Realm, and for the Worſhip of " the City, the ſaid Leadenhall is the moſt meet " and convenient Place, to prepare and order the " ſaid Triumph therein, and from thence to iſſue " forth to the Places therefore appointed.

" Item, At any Largeſs or Dole of any Money, " made unto the poor People of this City; by " or after the Death of any worſhipful Perſon " within the ſaid City, it hath been uſed, to be " done and given in the ſaid Leadenhall, for that " the ſaid Place is moſt meet therefore.

" Item, The honourable Father, that was Maker " of the ſaid Hall, had a ſpecial Will, Intent and " Mind, (as it is commonly ſaid) that the Market " Men and Women, that came to the City with " Victuals and other Things, ſhould have their " free Standing within the ſaid Leadenhall, in wet " Weather, to keep themſelves and their Wares " dry; and thereby to encourage them, and all " others, to have the better Will and Deſire, the " more plenteouſly to reſort to the ſaid City, to " victual the ſame: And if the ſaid Hall ſhould " be let to Farm, the Will of the ſaid Honour- " able Father ſhould never be fulfilled, nor take " Effect.

" Item, If the ſaid Place, which is the chief " Fortreſs and moſt neceſſary Place within all the " City, for the Tuition and Safeguard of the " ſame, ſhould be let to Farm, out of the " Hands of the chief Heads of the ſame City, " and eſpecially to any other Body Politick, it " might at length (by Likelihood) be Occaſion of " Diſcord and Debate between the ſaid Bodies " Politick. Which God defend.

" FOR theſe and many other great and reaſon- " able Cauſes, which hereafter ſhall be ſhewed to " this Honourable Court, your ſaid Beſeechers " think it much neceſſary, that the ſaid Hall be " ſtill in the Hands of this City, and to be ſurely " kept by ſad and diſcreet Officers in ſuch wiſe, " that it may always be ready to be uſed and oc- " cupied, for the Common Weal of the ſaid " City when Need ſhall require, and in no Wiſe " to be let to any Body Politick. " Thus much for the Petition.

ABOUT the Year 1534, great Endeavours were uſed to have the ſaid Leadenhall made a Burſe, for the Aſſembly of Merchants, as they had been accuſtomed in Lombard-ſtreet. Many Common Councils were called to that End; but in the Year 1535, John Champneis being Mayor, it was fully concluded, that the Burſe ſhould remain in Lembard-ſtreet, as before, and no Mention to be made of Leadenhall, on this Account.

IN the Year 1546, when King Henry's Corpſe lay in State in his Chapel at Weſtminſter, in the Month of February, about 12 Days, here at Leadenhall, Heath Biſhop of Worceſter, the King's Almoner, and other his Miniſters and Aſſiſtants, did daily diſtribute to poor People of the City great Plenty of Money, as well as at Weſtminſter, and divers other Places in the ſeveral Wards, both in open Doles and by Way of Proclamation.

THE Uſe made of Leadenhall, Stow ſays, in his Youth, was thus: In a Part of the North Quadrant, on the Eaſt Side of the North Gate, were the common Beams for Weighing of Wool and other Wares, as had been accuſtomed: On the Weſt Side of the Gate, were the Scales to weigh Meal: The other three Sides were reſerved (for the moſt Part) to the Making and Reſting of the Pageants ſhewed at Midſummer, in the Watch: The Remnant of the Sides and Quadrants were employed for the Stowage of Woolſacks, but not cloſed up: The Lofts above, were partly uſed by the Painters, in working for the Decking of Pageants and other Devices, for beautifying of the Watch and Watchmen; the Reſidue of the Lofts were let out to Merchants, the Woolwinders and Packers therein, to wind and pack their Wools. Part of this Hall is employed as Warehouſes for Colcheſter, Bocking and Braintree Bays, which are open every Thurſday and Friday, from nine to eleven in the Morning, and from two to four in the Afternoon, when there is a great Market for that Commodity, and alſo for Sheeps Wool and Leather; and the reſt of it as Warehouſes for the Eaſt-India Company. Tueſdays and Fridays are Market-days for vaſt Quantities of green Hides, and Mondays, Wedneſdays, Fridays and Saturdays for Fleſh and other Food: And thus much for Leadenhall.

NOW, on the North of Lime-ſtreet Ward, are many handſome Houſes for Merchants, and proper Tenements for Artificers, with an Alley, called Shaft-alley, from the Shaft or May-pole, ſome Time lying over the Gate of it, as mentioned in the laſt Chapter, treating of Aldgate Ward.

IN the Year 1576, partly at the Charges of the Pariſh of St. Andrew, and partly at the Charges of the Chamber of London, a Water Pump was raiſed in this high Street of Lime-ſtreet Ward, near unto Lime-ſtreet Corner. For the placing of which Pump, having broken up the Ground, they were forced to dig more than two Fathoms deep, before they came to any main Ground; where they found an Hearth made of Britiſh, or Roman Tile, every Tile half a Yard ſquare, and about two Inches thick: They found Coal lying there alſo (for that lying whole will never conſume.) Then digging one Fathom into the Main, they found Water ſufficient, made their Prall, and ſet up the Pump.

IN St. Mary's-ſtreet there was, of old Time, a Pariſh Church of St. Mary the Virgin, St. Urſula, and the 11000 Virgins; which Church was commonly called St. Mary at the Axe, from the Sign of an Axe, over-againſt the Eaſt End thereof, or St. Mary Pellipar, of a Plat of Ground lying on the North Side thereof, pertaining to the Skinners in London. This Pariſh, about the Year 1565, was united to the Pariſh-Church of St. Andrew Underſhaft. And ſo was St. Mary at the Axe ſuppreſſed, and let out to be a Warehouſe for Merchants. Here was afterwards a Free-School kept. Againſt the Eaſt End of this Church was ſome Time a Wall, now turned to a Pump.

ALSO

ALSO against the North End of this St. Mary's-ſtreet, was ſome Time another Pariſh Church of St. Auguſtine, called St. Auguſtine in the Wall, becauſe it ſtood adjoining to the Wall of the City, and otherwiſe called St. Auguſtine's Papey, or the Poor.

IN this Pariſh an Earl of Oxford had a Houſe, and the laſt Will of Agnes Lady Bardolph, Anno 1403, was dated from hence in theſe Words, Hoſpitio, &c. from the Inn of the Habitation of the Lord, the Earl of Oxenford, in the Pariſh of St. Auguſtine de Papey, LONDON.

ABOUT the Year 1430, in the Reign of Henry VI, the ſame Church was allowed to the Brethren of the Papey, the Houſe of poor Prieſts, ſpoken of before in Aldgate Ward.

The Copy of the Donation of this Pariſh Church, about 1430, with the Church-yard, a Meſſuage, and Garden thereunto belonging, is now in the incomparable Library of the Right Honourable Edward Earl of Oxford, and ſeems to have ſome Time belonged to John Stow; it is as followeth:

ON the other Side is an Inſtrument, ſhewing the Foundation of this Hoſpital, the Founder thereof, and the Cauſe; to wit, out of Compaſſion to poor decayed Prieſts, and for their Relief and Subſiſtance. The Inſtrument is as follows:

THE Pariſhioners of this Church were appointed to the Pariſh-Church of Alhallows in the Wall, which is in Broad-ſtreet Ward. This Brotherhood, called Papey, being ſuppreſſed, the Church of Auguſtine was pulled down, and in the Place thereof one Grey an Apothecary, built a Stable and Hayloft. The two Pariſh-Churches, lying in Lime-ſtreet Ward, being both ſuppreſſed, there is not any one Place of Divine Service in this Ward, but the Inhabitants repair to Churches out of their Ward, namely to St. Peter's in Cornhill, in Cornhill Ward, St. Andrew's, in Aldgate Ward, Alhallows in the Wall, in Broad-ſtreet Ward, and ſome to St. Dennis's in Langborn Ward.

THERE having been ſome Diſpute, about what Ward this Church or Chapel of St. Auguſtine Papey ſhould of right belong, for the ſame was challenged by Aldgate Ward, and without Reaſon taken into Biſhopſgate Ward, Mr. Stow endeavoured to vindicate the Right of his own [Lime-ſtreet] Ward.

ABOUT 30 Years ſince, ſaith he, the Chamber of LONDON granted a Leaſe of Ground (in theſe Words) Lying near London-wall, in the Ward of Lime-ſtreet, from the Weſt of the ſaid Church or Chapel of St. Auguſtine Papey, towards Biſhopſgate, &c. On which Plat of Ground, the Leſſee built three Tenements, and placed Tenants there; theſe were charged to bear Scot and Lot, and ſome of them to bear Office in Lime-ſtreet Ward; all which they did willingly without grudging: And when any ſuſpected or diſordered Perſons were by the Landlord placed there, the Officers of Lime-ſtreet Ward fetched them out of their Houſes, committed them to ward, procured their due Puniſhments, and baniſhed them from thence. Whereby in ſhort Time that Place was reformed, and brought into good Order; which Thing being noted by them of Aldgate Ward, they moved their Alderman, Sir Thomas Offley, to call in thoſe Houſes to be of his Ward. But I, myſelf, ſhewing a fair Ledger Book, ſome Time pertaining to the late diſſolved Priory of the Holy Trinity within Aldgate, wherein were ſet down the juſt Bounds of Aldgate Ward, before Sir Thomas Offley, Sir Rowland Hayward, the Common Council, and Wardmote Inqueſt of the ſaid Lime-ſtreet Ward; Sir Thomas Offley gave over his Challenge, and ſo the Matter reſted in good Quiet, until the Year 1579, that Sir Richard Pype (being Mayor and Alderman of Biſhopſgate Ward) challenged thoſe Houſes to be of his Ward, whereunto (without Reaſon ſhewed) Sir Rowland Hayward yielded; and thus is that Side of the Street, from the North Corner of St. Mary's-ſtreet, almoſt to Biſhopſgate, (wherein is one Plat of Ground, letten by the Chamberlain of LONDON to the Pariſh of St. Martin Oteſwich, to be a Church-yard or Burying-place for the Dead of that Pariſh, &c.) unjuſtly drawn from the Ward of Lime-ſtreet.

SEVERAL other Proofs might have been ſet down, but this one following may ſuffice. The Mayor and Aldermen of LONDON made a Grant to the Frarernity of the Papey, in theſe Words:

" BE it remembered, that where now of late " the Maſter and Wardens of the Fraternity of " the Papey have made a Brick Wall, cloſing in " the Chapel of St. Auguſtine, called Papey Cha- " pel, ſituate in the Pariſh of All Saints in the " Wall, in the Ward of Lime-ſtreet, of the City " of LONDON, from the South Eaſt Corner " of the which Brick Wall, is a Scutcheon of 21 " Foot of Aſſize from the ſaid Corner Eaſtward: " And from the ſame Scutcheon there to a Meſ- " ſuage of 55 Foot and an half Weſtward: The " ſaid Scutcheon breaketh out of Line right South- " ward, betwixt the Meaſures aforeſaid, three " Foot and five Inches of Aſſize, upon the com- " mon Ground of the City aforeſaid: Ralph Ver- " ney, Mayor, and the Aldermen of the ſame " City, the 22d Day of October, the 6th Year of " Edward IV, granted to John Hod, Prieſt, " Mr. John Bolt, and Tho. Pachet, Prieſts, War- " dens of the Fraternity of Papey aforeſaid, and " to their Succeſſors for ever, &c. yielding 4*d.* " Sterling, yearly at Michaelmas:" And this is inrolled in the Guildhall of LONDON; which is a ſufficient Proof, that the ſame Plat of Ground is of Lime-ſtreet Ward.

ON the South Side of this Street, ſtretching Weſt from St. Mary's-ſtreet, towards Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, there was (of old Time) one large Meſſuage built of Stone and Timber in the Pariſh of St. Auguſtine in the Wall, now in the Pariſh of Alhallows in the ſame Wall, belonging to the Earl of Oxford, (for Richard de Vere, Earl of Oxford, poſſeſſed it in the 4th of Henry V.) but in Proceſs of Time, the Lands of the Earl fell to Females; amongſt which, one being married to Wingfield of Suffolk, this Houſe with the Appurtenances fell to his Lot, and was by his Heir, Sir Robert Wingfield, ſold to Mr. Edward Coke, at that Time the Queen's Attorney-General.

IT was ordered by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, at a Court holden on Thurſday the 24th of April, in the 4th Year of Edward VI, that the Chamberlain of LONDON ſhould yearly pay unto the Scavenger of Lime-ſtreet Ward, 20 s. by even Portions, out of the Profit coming by the Butchers Stalls in Leadenhall, toward the Cleanſing and ſweet Keeping of the ſame Ward.

ONE Note more of this Ward; in the Year 1371, the 45th of Edward III, a great Subſidy of 100,000 l. was granted towards the King's Wars in France. Whereof the Clergy paid 50,000 l. and the Laiety 50,000 l. to be levied in 39 Shires of England, containing Pariſhes 8600. Of every Pariſh, 5 l. 16 s. the Greater to help the Leſs. This City (as one of the Shires) then containing 24 Wards, and in them 110 Pariſhes, was therefore aſſeſſed to 635 l. 12 s. whereof Lime-ſtreet Ward did bear 34 s. and no more; ſo ſmall a Ward it was, and ſo accounted, as having no one whole Pariſh therein, but ſmall Portions only of two Pariſhes in that Ward.

NOW to deſcribe the modern State of this Ward, we muſt begin with Leadenhall-ſtreet, which is ſpacious, populous, and well inhabited; but the Houſes eſcaping the great Fire Anno 1666, are not ſo ſightly and uniform. In this Street are theſe Places; Sharp's-alley, ſeated againſt the Eaſt India Houſe, indifferent good. Token-houſe-yard, but ſmall, hath a Paſſage into Leadenhall. The King's-Arms-Inn, on the North of the Street, near to St. Mary-Axe, of a good Trade for Stage Coaches and Waggons out of Eſſex. The Eaſt India Houſe, on the South Side of the Street, ſtands where Sir William Craven's Houſe formerly was; this Houſe was rebuilt in the Year 1726, the Front next the Street is very magnificent, being a ſtrong Stone Building, with Pilaſters and Entablature of the Dorick Order, the reſt of it is very ſpacious, having large Rooms for the Directors, and Offices for the Clerks. It hath a large Hall and Court-yard, for the Reception of People who have Buſineſs here, to attend on the Company on their Court Days, which are every Wedneſday. There belongs to it alſo a Garden, with Warehouſes in the back Part towards Lime-ſtreet, into which there is a back Gate for the Entrance of Carts, to bring in their Goods. Theſe Warehouſes were rebuilt in a very handſome Manner, in the Year 1725; the Company have likewiſe Warehouſes in Seething-lane, the Steel-yard, and the Royal-Exchange, under the laſt of which they have Cellars entirely for Pepper.

WHILE this new Houſe was building, the Company tranſacted their Buſineſs in the old Cuſtom-houſe in Fenchurch-ſtreet.

THE firſt Eaſt-India Company was eſtabliſhed by Charter, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and ſince confirmed ſeveral Times, called, The Governor and Company of Merchants Trading into the Eaſt-Indies.

HERE was firſt ſubſcribed 739,782 l. 10 s. and a Year, or more, afterwards, by the additional Subſcription of 834,826 l. the Stock was made up 1,574,608 l. 10 s.

IN 1698, another Company was eſtabliſhed by Act of Parliament, called, The Engliſh Company of Merchants Trading to the Eaſt-Indies, who, upon their Settlement, advanced to the Government 2,000,000 l. Sterling; for which they had Intereſt given them at 8 per Cent. per Annum; of theſe two Millions the Members of the old Company ſubſcribed 315,000 l. which with 40 per Cent. more advanced, made up their Share of 2,000,000 l. upon the Union. Subſcribers of 500 l. and upwards, have a Vote for chooſing Directors

Directors, but none have more than one; none of which Directors are to have leſs than 2000 l. in the Capital Stock of the Company.

All Goods imported by the Company, are to be ſold openly by Inch of Candle, on pain of Forfeiture, one half to the King, and the other to the Proſecutor.

The Stock to be eſteemed, in Law, Perſonal Eſtate, and the Shares exempt from Taxes.

No Member ſhall in reſpect of his Stock only, be judged a Bankrupt.

In the Year 1702, July the 22d, for the mutual Advantage and Satisfaction of both Companies, an Expedient was found out for the uniting of them, and a Charter of Union was granted them. The new Company joined 15 l. per Cent. with as much of the old Company, which, with ſeveral Sums paid in afterwards, the Stock of the united Companies amounted to 170 l. per Share; and upon the Return of the Effects of both Companies, the united Stock was to augment until they became one entire Company, which was to be in ſeven Years after the Union.

The following is a LIST of the Directors of the United Company of Merchants of England, Trading to the Eaſt-Indies, Elected for the Year 1733.

Leadenhall is a very large Building of Free-Stone, containing within it three large Courts, or Yards, all encompaſſed with Buildings, wherein is kept a Market, one of the greateſt, the beſt, and the moſt general, for all Proviſions, in the City of LONDON, nay, of the Kingdom, and it may be, of all Europe. The Building hath flat Battlements leaded at the Top. And for the Conveniency of Peoples coming to this great Market (which is kept every Day of the Week, except Sundays, for one thing or other) beſides the principal Entrance out of Leadenhall-ſtreet, there are ſeveral others, out of Lime-ſtreet, and Gracechurch-ſtreet.

Of the three Courts, or Yards, that it conſiſts of, the firſt is that at the North Eaſt Corner of Gracechurch-ſtreet, and opens into Leadenhall-ſtreet. This Court, or Yard, contains in Length, from North to South, 164 Feet, and in Breadth, from Eaſt to Weſt, 80 Feet: Within this Court, or Yard, round about the ſame, are about 100 Standing-ſtalls for Butchers, for the ſelling only of Beef, and therefore this Court is called the Beef Market, many of which Stalls are 8, 10, or 12 Feet long, and 4, 5, or 6 Feet broad, with Racks, Hooks, Blocks, and all other Conveniences for the Sale of their Meat: All which Stalls are either under Warehouſes above-head, or ſheltered from the Weather by Roofs over them. This Yard is on Tueſdays a Market for Leather, to which Tanners do reſort. On Thurſdays the Waggons from Colcheſter, and other Parts, come with Bays, &c. and alſo the Felmongers with their Wool; and on Fridays, it is a Market for Raw-Hides, beſides Saturdays for Beef, as alſo other Proviſions.

The ſecond Market Yard is called the Green-yard, having been once a green Plat of Ground; afterwards it was the Cities Store-yard for Materials for Building, and the like, but now a Market only for Veal, Mutton, Lamb, &c. This Yard is 170 Feet in Length, from Eaſt to Weſt, and 90 Feet Broad from North to South. It hath in it above 140 Stalls for the Butchers, covered over, and of the Bigneſs of thoſe in the Beaf-Market. In the Middle of this Green-yard Market, North to South, is a Row of Shops, with Rooms over them for Fiſhmongers; and alſo on the South Side and Weſt End, are Houſes and Shops for Fiſhmongers. Towards the Eaſt End of this Yard is erected a handſome Market-Houſe, ſtanding upon Columns, with Vaults underneath, and Rooms above, with a Bell Tower, and a Clock, and under it are Butchers Stalls. The Tenements round about this Yard, are, for the moſt Part inhabited by Cooks, Victuallers, and ſuch like; and in the Paſſage leading out of the Streets into this Market, are Fiſhmongers, Poulterers, Cheeſemongers, and ſuch like Traders for Proviſion.

The third Market belonging to Leadenhall, was called the Herb Market, becauſe Herbs, Roots, Fruit, &c. were only ſold there; but being rebuilt in the Year 1730, is now called the New Market or Naſhe's Rents; and hath Shops in it chiefly for Butchers, and a new Paſſage into Lime-ſtreet. This Part of it is about 140 Feet Square; the Weſt, Eaſt, and North Sides, have Walks round them, cover'd over for Shelter, and ſtanding upon Columns; in which Walks there are Stalls for Gardiners, with Cellars under them. There is alſo in this Yard, one Range of Stalls, covered over, for ſuch as ſell Tripe, Neat-Feet, Sheeps-Trotters, &c. And on the South Side the Tenements, are taken; up by Victuallers, Poulterers, Cheſemongers, Butchers, and ſuch like. Beyond this are likewiſe ſome new Shops, built in the Year 1730, in that Part called the old Bacon Market, which are chiefly occupied by Poulterers and ſuch as deal in Bacon: And for the regular ordering of this Market, and thoſe Number of People that Reſort thither with their Goods, ſee the Chapter of Civil Government.

The general Conflagration of this City in 1666, terminated in that Part of the City near adjoining to this Hall, all the Houſes about it, and within the Yards belonging to it, being deſtroyed, there did (of this Fabrick) only remain the Stone-work, ſince which, the Courts and Yards belonging to this Building, and ſome other adjacent Grounds, purchaſed by the City, are wholly converted into a Market for the City's Uſe; the Place for the Reception of Country Butchers, and others, who brought Proviſions before to the City, being then only in Leadenhall-ſtreet, between Gracechurch-ſtreet and Lime-ſtreet, which was very incommodious, to the Market-People, as well as to the Paſſengers.

Lime-ſtreet, a Place well inhabited by Merchants, and others of Repute: At the End towards Fenchurch-ſtreet is Pewterers Hall, a handſome Building with a large Hall, Parlour, and Court Room adorned with Fret Work, Wainſcot and Hangings, alſo the Picture of Mr. William Smallwood, Maſter in the 2d of King Henry VII, who gave to the Maſter, Wardens, and Commonalty of the Company of Pewterers, LONDON, and their Succeſſors for ever, their Common Hall with a Garden and ſix Tenements thereto adjacent, by Will dated Auguſt 23, 1487. Near this Hall is a Paſſage into Leadenhall Market; a little more South is a good Houſe, formerly the Seat of Sir Robert Jeffreys, Knt. and Alderman, over-againſt which is Cullum-ſtreet, made a Street ſince the Fire, which with a turning Paſſage falls into Fenchurch-ſtreet, which Street being the greateſt Part in Langborn Ward is there treated of. About the Middle of the Street is a Place called Queen's-Square, or Queen's-Square Paſſage, leading into Leadenhall Market, a well built Place with a Free Stone Pavement; on the Ground on which this Place is built, was a large Houſe, the Habitation of a Merchant, and antiently ſuppoſed to belong to the Kings and Queens of England.

St. Mary Axe goes out of Leadenhall-ſtreet, and runs Northwards to Camomile-ſtreet by London-wall. It is a Street graced with good Buildings, and much inhabited by eminent Merchants. Out of this Street, and almoſt over-againſt St. Andrew's Underſhaft Church, is a Paſſage into Great St. Helen's; and toward the End is Soper's-yard, a mean Place, oppoſite to which is Fletchers Hall.

Camomile-ſtreet, hath but a ſmall Part in this Ward, not above 200 Feet from St. Mary-axe; the reſt is in Aldgate Ward.

To this Ward belongeth an Alderman and his Deputy, four Common-Council Men, four Conſtables, two Scavengers, 16 for the Wardmote Inqueſt, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen, at 1 l. 19 s. 2 d. ob. q.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir Richard Hopkins, Knt.

CHAP. V.

BISHOPSGATE WARD.

THE next is Biſhopſgate Ward, whereof a Part is without the Gate; and of the Suburbs, from the Bars by St. Mary Spital to Biſhopſgate, and a Part of Houndſditch, almoſt half thereof, alſo without the Wall, is of the ſame Ward.

Then within the Gate is Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, ſo called from the Gate, to a Pump, where was in old Time, a Well with two Buckets, by the Eaſt End of the Pariſh-Church of St. Martin Outwich, and then winding by the Weſt Corner of Leadenhall, down Gracechurch-ſtreet, to the Corner over-againſt St. Bennet's Gracechurch; and theſe are the Bounds of this Ward.

Among the Buildings, &c. moſt to be noted in this Ward, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Botolph without Biſhopſgate.

The PARISH of St. BOTOLPH BISHOPSGATE.

THIS Church ſtands in a handſome Churchyard, which of old Time adjoined to the Town Ditch, upon the very Bank thereof, and was incloſed with a Brick Wall, repaired by Sir William Allen, (Lord Mayor in 1571) becauſe he was born in this Pariſh, where alſo he was buried.

The North Wall of the old Church with the Roof thereof, and the middle Roof likewiſe were new built, and the Church begun to be repaired in the Year of our Lord 1617, Mr. Stephen Goſſon, then being Parſon.

The Repair of it in Pewing the Church throughout, painting, altering, adding and ordering to its greater Convenience and Beauty continued to the Year 1620, in which it was fully finiſhed.

The Charge of it amounting to 600 l. and upwards.

This was wholly taken down in the Year 1726, when it was began to be rebuilt, and was finiſhed in the Year 1729, at the Charge of the Pariſhioners. It is a very ſtrong and beautiful Piece of Architecture: The firſt Storey, fronting the Street, is adorned with Pilaſters, Entablature and Pediment of the Dorick Order; over the Pediment is a handſome Clock Dial-plate, againſt the Steeple; the 2d Storey of which is ſquare and adorned with Pilaſters of the Ionick Order, and at every Corner has an Urn with a gilt Flame coming out of it. The third Storey is round, having a Balluſtrade about it, and is adorned with ſmall Pillars of the Corinthian Order, and four Balls gilt with Gold; and at the Top of all the Steeple is an Urn with a gilt Flame iſſuing from it.

OVER and beſide the memorable Charity of this worthy Widow Mrs. Wood, God hath raiſed divers other good Benefactors to the Poor in the ſame Pariſh, as appeareth by this ſmall Recordation.

John Styward, Citizen, and Alderman of LONDON, had his Laſt Will and Teſtament enrolled in the Court of Huſtings, in the Guild-hall of LONDON, on Monday next before the Feaſt of St. Cuthbert the Biſhop, in the 13th Year of Edward IV, after the Conqueſt.

WHEREIN he gave to the poor People of this Pariſh, 25 Quarters of Charcoal, Yearly, to be delivered by the Company of Tallow-chandlers, betwixt the Feaſt of All Saints, and the Nativity of our bleſſed Saviour, with a Penalty of the Forfeiture of 20 s. for the firſt Quarter, if they be not delivered as aforeſaid; and 40 s. for the ſecond Quarter, 4 l. for the third Quarter, and 8 l. for the whole Year, if they be not delivered, and ſo double ſtill from Quarter to Quarter, if Defect of Payment herein be made.

John Bricket, Citizen and Tooth-drawer of LONDON (by his Laſt Will and Teſtament, dated the eleventh Day of February 1554) gave, for ever, at the Feaſt of Eaſter, 12 Sacks of Charcoal to the Poor of this Pariſh, out of two Tenements joining together at the South Side of Bell-alley Gate in this Pariſh.

THE Pariſh receive by the Gift of Mrs. Mary Wilkinſon, deceaſed, out of two Houſes in St. Mary Spital, four Load of Coals out of each Houſe, 30 Quarters being two Load. The firſt 30 Quarters to be given to the Poor of this Pariſh in the Month of November, for ever: The next 30 Quarters to be likewiſe given to the Poor of this Pariſh, in December, for ever. Provided, That out of each Load, the Overſeers of the Precinct of Norton Falgate, ſhall have 10 Sacks to be by them given to the Poor of that Precinct.

LIKEWISE is paid, Yearly, by the Company of Ironmongers, the Sum of 30 s per Ann.

of the Gift of Sir William Allen, to be diſtributed among the Poor in Bread.

ALSO of the Company of Vintners, the Sum of 20*s.* yearly, for ever, of the Gift of Sir Stephen Scudamore, Knt. and Alderman of LONDON.

ALSO of Mrs. Wood, the Relict of Mr. Thomas Wood, late of St. Botolph without Aldgate, the Sum of 10 s. yearly, for ever, to be received on St. Thomas's Day, iſſuing out of certain Tenements in Catharine-wheel-alley in this Pariſh, of the Gift of Mary Webſter, Widow.

Mrs. Price, in the Time of her Widowhood, did at her own Charge new build the Pulpit, in the Year of our Lord, 1614; and ſhortly after did likewiſe ſend (to furniſh the ſame) fair and rich Ornaments for the ſaid Pulpit, as alſo for the Communion Table. For the Pulpit a coſtly Cloth of Crimſon Velvet, edg'd at the Bottom with a deep Gold Fringe, and laced about with a handſome Gold Lace.

LIKEWISE a Cuſhion ſuitable to the ſame, with a very fine Border to adorn the upper Part of the Pulpit, edged likewiſe with a deep Gold Fringe.

AND for the Communion Table a large Carpet of Crimſon Velvet, edged with a deep Gold Fringe, alſo a Table-Cloth of fine Cambrick, to be uſed upon the Communion Days, with a Cambrick Cloth laced, to cover the Bread upon the Table: Alſo a fair Surplice of Cambricks for the Parſon's Uſe: All which were, with a new Hair Bruſh kept in a Sarcenet Caſe, to be locked up in a new Wainſcot Cheſt, by her bought for the ſame Purpoſe, and ſo carefully kept for their ſeveral Uſes. To the which Cheſt was ſet two Locks, with two ſeveral Keys, whereof the one to be kept by the Parſon of the Pariſh, the other by the Church-warden of the ſame Pariſh, for the ſafe keeping thereof.

As for the King's-Arms embroidered upon the ſaid Pulpit Cloth, it was made, ſet on, and freely given by Humphrey Swan, of this Pariſh, Embroiderer, in Remembrance of God's great Mercy extended towards him, in the Year of the great Viſitation, 1625. For in that Year he had buried his Wife, with divers of his Family, himſelf alſo lying a long while under the Lord's heavy Hand, without all Hope of Recovery. By God's gracious Providence, he was at laſt reſtored to his former Health: In regard whereof, and to expreſs his further Thankfulneſs to Almighty God, he adorned the ſaid Pulpit Cloth, as now it is.

MOREOVER, in the ſame Pariſh Church of St. Botolph, among other Benevolences given thereto, muſt not be omitted the bountiful Gift of Mr. William Hobby, Citizen and Ale-Brewer of LONDON, viz. the Tenor Bell in the Steeple, bearing his own Name, and called Hobby, which he cauſed to be founded at his own Coſt and Charges, and afterwards to be re-caſt two ſeveral Times, only to make it tuneable with the other Bells in the Steeple, which was performed accordingly; and they are now as perfect and pleaſing a Ring of Bells, as can be wiſhed.

WHEN he gave this Bell to the Pariſh, he enjoined this Condition, that at what Time ſoever any Man deceaſed, that had borne any Place of Eminence and Office in this Pariſh, and afterward happened (by any Croſs or Miſadventure) to fall into Decay, that yet he ſhould have the Benefit of the Bell's Service freely beſtowed on him at his Burial, not paying any Coſts or Duties therefore to the Church. No doubt but this Man had an honeſt Meaning and moſt charitable Mind, both in the Promiſe (which was in Merriment, and when he expected not Place of Degree or Office to fall on him) and likewiſe in the Performance, wherein he ſhewed himſelf no way ſlack, but as forward as any Man could be. Let his worthy Example incite others to the like good Inclination (one Way or other) towards the Church.

Mr. Ralph Pindar, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, Alderman's Deputy of this Ward, who was buried the 28th of May, 1622, gave to the Poor of this Pariſh in Money, 60*l.* for which is given to 13 poor People every Sunday in the Year, for ever, 2*d.* a-piece in good Wheaten Bread.

IN the Year 1626, Nicholas Reive, Scrivener in Cornhill (whoſe Father was Clerk of this Pariſh) gave by his Laſt Will and Teſtament the Sum of 406*l.* 5*s.* to the ſaid Pariſh, to buy ſo much Land as the ſaid Monies will extend to, and the Rents and Profits thereof to be given and diſtributed to the Comfort of ſuch poor People within this Pariſh. With which Monies was purchaſed certain Lands lying at Stratford Bow, the Rent of which Lands is 25*l. per Annum.*

IN the Year 1628, the 20th of June, William Earl of Devonſhire, died at Devonſhire Houſe, without Biſhopſgate, and gave 100*l.* for ever, to the Uſe of the Poor of this Pariſh. For which the Church-wardens do give every Sunday in the Year to 15 poor People of this Pariſh 2*d.* a-piece in good Wheaten Bread.

Arthur Batt, Eſq; in the Year 1731, gave to the Poor of Biſhopſgate Pariſh, one Hundred Pounds, to be put out to Intereſt, to be divided amongſt the Poor, yearly

THE Inſide of this Church is as beautiful as the Out; the Roof is arched, and ſupported by large Pillars of the Corinthian Order, and the Ceiling curiouſly fretted. The Pews, Gallery, Pulpit, and Altar, are of fine Oak, and neatly finiſhed.

WITHOUT the Church-yard Wall, was anciently a Cauſeway, leading to a Quadrant called Petty-France, from a great Number of Frenchmen living there. This Cauſeway was given by the City to the Pariſh of St. Botolph Biſhopſgate, which being made good level Ground, and walled in, was made a Burial-Place for their Dead. And becauſe the Pariſhioners would not ſhew themſelves unthankful to the City for ſo great a Benefit, their Acknowledgment of it ſtands over the Gate, at the Entrance into the ſaid Church-yard.

IN Petty-France, out of Chriſtian Burial, was buried Hodges Shaughſware, a Perſian Merchant, who, with his Son, came over with the Perſian Ambaſſador, and was buried by his own Son, who ſet up a Tomb of Stone, with certain Perſian Characters thereon; the Expoſition thus, "This Grave is made for Hodges Shaughſware, "the chiefeſt Servant to the King of Perſia, for "the Space of twenty Years, who came from the "King of Perſia, and died in his Service. If any "Perſian cometh out of that Country, let him "read this, and a Prayer for him; the Lord re-"ceive his Soul, for here lieth Maghmote Shaugh-"ſware, who was born in the Town of Novoy in "Perſia.

THIS Monument ſtands in Petty-France, at the Weſt End of the lower Church-yard of St. Botolph's Biſhopſgate, (not within, but without the Walls, out of the Bounds of the conſecrated Ground.) He was aged 44, and buried the 10th of Auguſt 1626. The Ambaſſador himſelf, young Shaughſware, his Son, and many other Perſians (with many Expreſſions of their infinite Love and Sorrow) following him to the Ground, between eight and nine o'Clock in the Morning. The Rites and Ceremonies that (with them) are due to the Dead, were chiefly performed by his Son, who ſitting croſs-legg'd, at the North End of the Grave, (for his Tomb ſtands North and South) did one while Read, and another while Sing, his Reading and Singing intermixed with Sighing and Weeping. And this, with other Things that were done in the Grave in private, continued about Half an Hour.

BUT this was but this Day's Buſineſs; for, as tho' this had not been enough to perform to their Friend departed to this Place, and to this End (that is Prayer, and other Funeral Devotions) ſome of them came every Morning and Evening at ſix and ſix, for the Space of a Month together; and had come (as it was then imagined) the whole Time of their Abode here in England, had not the Rudeneſs of our People diſturbed and prevented their Purpoſe.

THIS Living is a Rectory, in the Gift of the Biſhop of LONDON, the Value about 300 l. per Annum, rated in the King's Books at 20 l.

THE Rector is the Reverend Dr. Crowe; and the Lecturer the Reverend Dr. Watſon.

PRAYERS are at 11 in the Morning in the Summer, and at 6 in the Evening, except Holidays; Saturdays Prayers are at three during the Winter Half Year, and at four during the Summer Half Year. Here is no Organ, but ſix Bells.

THE Veſtry was uſed to be Select, conſiſting of 27, with the Rector and two Church-wardens for the Time being; but it is now general.

The Pariſh-Officers are:	The Ward-Officers are:
2 Church-wardens.	4 Common-Council-Men.
4 Overſeers.	3 Inqueſts.
	2 Conſtables.
	4 Scavengers.

HERE is one Charity School for 25 Boys, and 25 Girls, at preſent, who are taught, and put out Apprentices by Subſcription and Legacies. There are Alms-houſes in Lamb's-court, for the Poor of the Pariſh, maintained by Dulwich College; the London-Workhouſe is in this Pariſh, and there is another Workhouſe lately built for the Poor of the Pariſh.

THE Bounds of St. Botolph's Pariſh without Biſhopſgate, beginning at the Gate, extends to the the Bars Northward on the Weſt Side, and in that Compaſs takes in Petty-France, not long ſince a deſolate and ruinated Place, but now made a ſpacious Street, called New Broad-ſtreet, with many large uniform Houſes, and a handſome Meeting-houſe in it. Then next to St. Botolph's Church was the antient Hoſpital of St. Mary of Bethlem, founded by Simon Fitz Mary, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, in the Year 1246; he founded it to have been a Priory of Canons, with Brethren and Siſters: And King Edward III, granted a Protection for the Brethren, Militiæ beatæ Mariæ de Bethlem, within the City of LONDON, the 14th Year of his Reign. It was an Hoſpital afterwards for diſtracted People.

BUT the Deſign of the Foundation will more largely appear by this original Deed following:

The COPY of an antient Deed of Gift, given to Bethlem, or Bedlem, by Simon the Son of Mary.

"TO all the Children of our Mother Holy "Church, to whom this preſent Writing "ſhall come; Simon the Son of Mary ſendeth "greeting in our Lord. Where among other "Things, and before other Lands, the high Altitude of the heavenly Councils, marvelouſly "wrought by ſome readier Devotion, ought "to be more worſhipped, of which Things the "mortal Sickneſs (after the Fall of our firſt Father Adam) hath taken the Beginning of this "new Repairing: Therefore, forſooth, it beſeemeth worthy, that the Place, in which the "Sonne of God is become Man, and hath proceeded from the Virgin's Womb, which is Increaſer and Beginner of Man's Redemption, "namely, ought to be with Reverence worſhipped, and with beneficial Portions to be Increaſed. Therefore it is, that the ſaid Simon, "Sonne of Mary, having ſpecial and ſingular "Devotion to the Church of the glorious Virgin "at Bethlem, where the ſame Virgin of her "brought forth our Saviour incarnate, and lying "in the Cratch, and with her own Milk nouriſhed, and where the ſame Child to us there born, "the Chivalry of the heavenly Company ſang "the new Hymne, Gloria in excelſis Deo. The "ſame Time, the Increaſer of our Health (as a "King, and his Mother a Queene) willed to be "worſhipped of Kings. A new Starre going before them at the Honour and Reverence of the "ſame Child, and his meek Mother: And to the "Exaltation of my noble Lord, Henry, King of "England, whoſe Wife and Child the aforeſaid "Mother of God, and her only Son, have in their "Keeping and Protection, and to the manifold "Increaſe of this City of LONDON, in which "I was born, and alſo for the Health of my "Soul, and the Souls of my Predeceſſors and Succeſſors, my Father, Mother, and my Friends: "And eſpecially for the Souls of Guy of Marlowe, John Durant, Ralph Aſhwye, Maud, "Margaret, and Dennis, Women: Have given, "granted, and by this my preſent Charter, here "have confirmed to God, and to the Church of "St. Mary of Bethlem, all my Lands which I "have in the Pariſh of St. Botolph without Biſhopſgate of LONDON, that is to ſay, "whatſoever I there now have or had, or in Time "to come may have in Houſes, Gardens, Pools, "Ponds, Ditches and Pits, and all their Appurtenances, as they be cloſed in by their Bounds, "which now extends in Length from the King's "high Street, Eaſt, to the great Ditch in the "Weſt, which is called Deep Ditch, and, in "Breadth to the Lands of Ralph Downing, in "the North, and to the Land of the Church of "St. Botolph, in the South; to have and to hold "the aforeſaid Church of Bethlem, in free and "perpetual Alms; and alſo to make there a "Priory, and to ordain a Prior and Canons, "Brothers, and alſo Siſters; when Jeſus Chriſt "ſhall enlarge his Grace upon it: And in the "ſame Place, the Rule and Order of the ſaid "Church of Bethlem, ſolemnly profeſſing which "ſhall bear the Token of a Star, openly in their "Copes and Mantles of Profeſſion, and for to "ſay divine Service; therefore the Souls aforeſaid, and all Chriſtian Souls, and eſpecially to "receive there the Biſhop of Bethlem, Canons, "Brothers, and Meſſengers of the Church of "Bethlem, for evermore, as often as they ſhall "come thither: And that a Church or Oratory "there ſhall be built, as ſoon as our Lord "ſhall enlarge his Grace, under ſuch Form, that "the Order, Inſtitution of Priors, Canons, Brothers, Siſters, of the Viſitation, Correction, "and Reformation of the ſaid Place, to the "Biſhop of Bethlem, and his Succeſſors, and to "the Charter of his Church, and of his Meſſengers, as often as they ſhall come hither, as "ſhall ſeem to them expedient, no Man's Contradiction, notwithſtanding, ſhall pertain evermore, ſaving always the Services of the chief "Lords, as much as pertaineth to the ſaid Lands. "And to the more Surety of this Thing, I have "put myſelf out of this Land, and all mine; "and Lord Godfry, then choſen of the Nobles of "the City of Rome, Biſhop of Bethlem, and of "the Pope, confirmed then by his Name in England, in his Name, and of his Succeſſors, and "of the Chapter of his Church of Bethlem, into "bodily Poſſeſſion. I have indented and given "to his Poſſeſſion all the aforeſaid Lands, which "Poſſeſſion he hath received and entered in Form "aboveſaid. And in Token of Subjection and "Reverence, the ſaid Place in LONDON, "without Biſhopſgate, ſhall pay Yearly, in the "ſaid City a Mark Sterling, at Eaſter, to the "Biſhop of Bethlem, his Succeſſors, or his Meſſengers, in the Name of a Penſion. And if "the Faculties, or Goods of the ſaid Place, (our "Lord granting) happen to grow more, the ſaid "Place ſhall pay more in the Name of Penſion at "the ſaid Term to the Mother Church of Bethlem. This (forſooth) Gift and Confirmation "of my Deed, and the putting to of my Seal "for me and mine Heirs, I have ſtedfaſtly made "ſtrong, the Yeat of our Lord God A thouſand "two hundred forty-ſeven, the Wedneſday after "the Feaſt of St. Luke the Evangeliſt: Theſe "being Witneſſes, Peter, the Son of Allen, then "Mayor of LONDON, Nicholas Bet, then "Sheriff of the ſaid City, and Alderman of "the ſaid Ward; Raph Sparling, Alderman; "Godfrey of Campes, Simon Comicent, Simon "Bonner, Robert of Woodford, Thomas of "Woodford, Walter Pointell, Walter of Woodford, &c.

Stephen Gennings, Merchant-Taylor, gave 44*l.* towards the Purchaſe of the Patronage of this Hoſpital, by his Teſtament, Anno 1523.

AND in the Year 1546, the Mayor and Commonalty purchaſed the Patronage thereof, with all the Lands and Tenements thereunto belonging. The ſame Year King Henry VIII gave this Hoſpital unto the City.

IN the Year 1551, a Protection was granted by Letters Patents, from King Edward VI, dated March 7, to John Whitehead, Proctor for this Hoſpital of Bethlem, to beg within the Counties of Lincoln and Cambridge, the City of LONDON, and the Iſle of Ely, to endure for an whole Year, which was a Sign the Revenues of it were now become but ſmall, and not able to maintain the Charge.

THE Church and Chapel of this Hoſpital were taken down in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, and Houſes built there by the Governors of Chriſt's-Hoſpital in LONDON.

AT a Court of Aldermen, held on Tueſday the 20th of January, Anno 4, Edward VI, a Carr-room was freely given to the Inhabitants of Biſhopſgate Ward, to the Intent, that they ſhould cauſe the utter Parts of the ſaid Ward, without the Gate, to be kept clean.

ALSO at a Court of Aldermen, held on Tueſday the 7th, of April, Anno 5, Edward VI, it was ordered, that the Inhabitants within the Precinct of Bethlem, ſhould be (from thenceforth) united to the Pariſh-Church of St. Botolph without Biſhopſgate, and ſo by the Parſon and Pariſhioners, of the ſame Pariſh accepted and taken, and to be allotted and charged with them to all Offices and Charges (Tythes and Clerks Wages excepted) in Conſideration whereof, the Parſon of the Pariſh was to receive yearly out of the Chamber of LONDON, 20 s. the Pariſh-Clerk 6 s. 8*d.*

IN the Year 1569, Sir Thomas Roe, Merchant-Taylor, Mayor, cauſed to be incloſed with a Wall of Brick about one Acre of Ground being Part of the ſaid Hoſpital of Bethlem, to wit, on the Weſt, on the Bank of Deep Ditch, ſo called, parting the ſaid Wall of Bethlem from the Moorfield. This he did for Burial Eaſe to ſuch Pariſhes in LONDON, as wanted convenient Ground within their Pariſhes. The Lady his Wife was there buried (by whoſe Perſwaſion he incloſed it) but himſelf, born in LONDON, was buried in the Pariſh-Church of Hackney.

THIS was called New Church-yard, near Bethlem; where, upon Whitſunday, the Lord Mayor, and his Brethren the Aldermen, uſed to reſort to hear a Sermon: And this was practiſed Anno 1584, "when (according to a Letter "from Recorder Fleetwood to the Lord Treaſurer) "a very good Sermon was preached at this New "Church-yard before the Lord Mayor, Sir Ed-"ward Osborn and his Brethren: And by reaſon "no Plays were the ſame Day [i. e. Whitſunday "as there uſed to be] all the City was quiet.

ON the South Side of this Church-yard, over a Folding Gate, this Inſcription was engraven in great Letters.

Thomas Roe, Miles, cum Prætor eſſet Londinenſis, hunc Locum Reipublicæ, in Uſum Publicæ Sepulturæ communem, ſuo ſumptu dedicavit, Anno Dom. 1569.

WHICH Inſcription, even in the latter End of Queen Elizabeth's Reign began to decay, and ſome Letters were utterly defaced. Which was the Cauſe that A. F. one of the Compilers of Hollingſhea's Chronicle, inſerted it in the ſaid Book; that ſo the Memory of the worthy Benefactor might not vaniſh, and be loſt with the fading Inſcription.

ON the other Side Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, was a large Houſe built by the Lord John Powlet; and near that a larger and more beautiful Houſe built by Jaſper Fiſher, free of the Goldſmiths Company, one of the Six Clerks in Chancery, and a Juſtice of Peace. It was afterwards the Earl of Oxford's Houſe, and then the Earl of Devonſhire's. This Houſe being ſo large and ſumptuouſly built, by a Man of no great Birth, or Fortune, (for he was much in Debt) was mockingly called Fiſher's Folly. From hence, to the Weſt of Berward's-lane ſo called formerly, but now Hog-lane, was a large Cloſe, called Taſell-Cloſe, becauſe there were ſome Time Taſels planted there for the uſe of Clothworkers: Afterwards let to the Croſs-bow Makers, wherein they uſed to ſhoot for Games at the Popingey. Then the ſame being incloſed with a Brick Wall, ſerved as an Artillery-garden, to which the Gunners of the Tower repaired Weekly, namely, every Thurſday, and there levelled certain Braſs Pieces of great Artillery againſt a Butt of Earth, made for that Purpoſe.

William the laſt Prior of St. Mary Spital, with his Convent, granted over this Artillery-garden for thrice 99 Years, for the Uſe and Practice of great and ſmall Artillery.

THERE was a Charter granted to the Fraternity of Artillery in great and ſmall Ordnance by the famous Prince King Henry VIII. And the Piece of Ground, called the Artillery-garden, mentioned before, by his Means was appointed for the Exerciſe of the ſame Fraternity; as by the Leaſe thereof appeared, granted to the ſame Fraternity. Which Leaſe was put into the Hands of Sir William Pelham, Lieutenant of the Ordnance: And the ſame Charter ſince was delivered to the Lord Burleigh, Lord Treaſurer under Queen Elizabeth.

NOW, for the further Improvement of this Fraternity, and to make it uſeful to the Kingdom, one William Thomas, Maſter Gunner of the Queen's Ship the Victory, in the Year 1584. moved the Lords of her Council, that the ſame Charter might be confirmed, and new eſtabliſhed, with other needful Additions thereto: And chiefly, for the increaſing of good Gunners for the Queen's Navy and Forts, viz. That ſome of their Honours, with the Earl of Warwick (who was Maſter of the Ordnance) ſhould be the Chief Maſters or Governors of the ſaid Fraternity. That there might, by the Chief Maſters or Governors, be choſen four of the Chief of her Majeſty's Gunners to be Under-Maſters; who, with the Maſter Gunner of England, might have the Teaching of all the Scholars, and the Proving of all ſuch Men, as ſhould take upon them the Charge of a Gunner in any of her Majeſty's Ships, Forts or Caſtles, or ſhould have any Gunners Fee: and to make Report to the Chief Maſters of their Knowledge, before they ſhould be admitted to any Service. That no Ship or Veſſel, having Ordnance in her, ſhould croſs the Seas, without the ſame had in her ſuch Number of Gunners, as followeth, viz. That every Ship of the Burthen of 60 Ton, have three Gunners; whereof the Chief or Maſter Gunner to be ſuch an one, as ſhould be tried, allowed and licenſed by ſuch as ſhould be for that Purpoſe appointed. And every Ship of 80 Tons, four Gunners, to be tried, as aforeſaid. And ſo for every 20 Tons, one Gunner more. That the Chief Officers in the Havens, Towns, Ports and Places, where Shipping is uſed, ſhould take the Names of all Perſons in the ſame Towns, Ports and Places, which took Charge or ſerved as Gunners in any Ship or Veſſel; and the ſame to regiſter in a Book for that Purpoſe: And in every Eaſter Term to ſend up the ſame Names, and their Dwelling-places to the Maſter Gunner, and his four Aſſociates; by which it might be known, where to have skilful Gunners, to ſerve her Majeſty, when Opportunity required. That all ſuch Ships as ſhould be freighted within the River Thames, with Merchandizes or Goods, ſhould for the Safeguard thereof, have, for every two Pieces, one ſuch Sea-faring Man as ſhould be a Scholar, to be taught and inſtructed in the Science of Shooting in great and ſmall Ordnance, according to the Intent of her Majeſty's Allowance for the ſame Purpoſe. That there might be, by the chief Maſters, ſuch ſtrict Commandment given to the four Under-Maſters and the Maſter Gunner, that the Powder and other her Majeſty's Allowances for Teaching and Inſtructing Scholars in the Science or Myſtery of Shooting in great and ſmall Ordnance, be by them juſtly and truly expended about the ſame Purpoſe that it was allowed for, for, and not otherwiſe, upon ſome Pain and Penalty. That the four Aſſociates or Under Maſters, with the Maſter Gunner, for the better Service of her Majeſty, might have the Proof of all ſuch Salt-petre, Coal, Sulphur, Powder, Match, Ordnance, Carriages, Wheels, Stocks, and Iron Work, as ſhould be for her Majeſty's Service and Store; and that none ſhould be received, but that which they ſhould find to be good and fit for Service; and that upon a Penalty to be appointed by their Honours. Laſtly, That there might be ſet down ſuch a perfect Government in every of her Majeſty's Ships by their Honours, both for their own Safe-guards, and for a Terror to the Enemy, as heretofore was never put in Practice by any.

And all this, this Thomas the rather offered at this Time, ſince the Queen had now gotten a puiſſant Navy of Ships for Defence, and the Nobility, at their own great Charges, had furniſhed it with great and terrible Ordnance, for the Terror of her Enemies; but there was a great Want of skilful Men to ſupply the Room of Gunners: So, that if Proof were made, he aſſerted, there would not be found skilful Gunners ſufficient for four of her Men of War: But this Motion came to nothing.

There was alſo afterwards, for the laying up and preſerving of the Arms, an Armoury built. The Foundation of this Armoury, that remarkable Nurſery of Military Diſcipline, called The Artillery-garden, LONDON, was begun to be erected the firſt Day of May, Anno Dom. 1622, and was finiſhed the laſt of November then next following; Colonel Hugh Hamerſley being then Preſident; Edward Pierſe, Treaſurer; Henry Petowe, Marſhal; and John Bingham, Captain, and one of the Council of War for this Kingdom.

The Hoſpital of St. Mary, called the Spital.

Next to this was the diſſolved Priory and Hoſpital of our bleſſed Lady, commonly called St. Mary Spital, founded by Walter Brune, and Roſia his Wife, for Canons Regular; Walter, Archdeacon of LONDON, laid the firſt Stone in the Year 1197; William of St. Mary Church, then Biſhop of LONDON, dedicated it to the Honour of Jesus Christ, and his Mother the perpetual Virgin Mary, by the Name of Domus Dei, and Beatæ Mariæ extra Biſhopſgate, in the Pariſh of St. Botolph. The Bounds whereof, as appeareth by Compoſition betwixt the Parſon and Prior of the ſaid Hoſpital, concerning Tithes, begin at Berward's-lane, toward the South, and extend in Breadth to the Pariſh of St. Leonard Shoreſditch towards the North, and in Length from the King's-ſtreet on the Weſt, to the Biſhop of LONDON's Field, called Lolleſworth, on the Eaſt. The Prior of this St. Mary Spital, for the Emortiſing and Propriation of the Priory of Bikenacar in Eſſex, to this ſaid Houſe of St. Mary Spital, gave to Henry VII, 400 l. in the 22d of his Reign.

This Hoſpital, ſurrendered to Henry VIII, was reckoned to diſpend 478 l. wherein, beſides Ornaments of the Church, and other Goods pertaining to the Hoſpital, there were found ſtanding 180 Beds well furniſhed, for Receipt of the Poor of Charity; for it was an Hoſpital of great Relief. Sir Henry Pleſington, Knight, was buried there 1452.

In Place of this Hoſpital, and near adjoining, are now built many handſome Houſes for Merchants and others.

Here was the Houſe of a famous Italian Merchant, and Ambaſſador, much employed by Queen Elizabeth, namely, Sir Horatio Pallavicini. And in this ſame Houſe, in the firſt Year of King James I, the Ambaſſador from the Archduke of Auſtria lodged, with his Company.

Queen Elizabeth, in the Month of April 1559, came in great State from St. Mary Spital, attended with a thouſand Men in Harneſs, with Shirts of Mail, and Croſlets, and Morris-Pikes, and ten great Pieces carried through LONDON unto the Court, with Drums, Flutes, and Trumpets ſounding, and two Morris-Dancers; and in a Cart two white Bears.

A Part of the large Church-yard pertaining to this Hoſpital, and ſevered from the reſt with a Brick Wall, was for a long Time remaining, with a Pulpit Croſs therein, ſomewhat like to that in St. Paul's Church-yard: And againſt the ſaid Pulpit, on the South Side, before the Charnel and Chapel of St. Edmund the Biſhop, and St. Mary Magdalen, (which Chapel was founded about the Year 1391, by W. Eveſham, Citizen and Pepperer of LONDON, who was there buried) there was a handſome Houſe of two Stories high, for the Mayor, Aldermen, Sheriffs, and other Perſons of Diſtinction, to ſit in to hear the Sermons preached in the Eaſter Holidays. In the Part over them ſtood the Biſhop of LONDON, and other Prelates; afterwards the Aldermens Ladies uſed to ſtand, or ſit, at a Window there.

Sermons in the Eaſter Holidays at the Spital.

It was for a long Time a Cuſtom, on Good-Friday in the Afternoon, for ſome learned Man, by Appointment of the Prelates, to preach a Sermon at Paul's-Croſs, treating of Christ's Paſſion; and upon the three next Eaſter Holidays, Monday, Tueſday, and Wedneſday, other learned Men, by the like Appointment, uſed to preach in the Forenoon at the ſaid Spital, to perſuade the Articles of Christ's Reſurrection: And then on Low-Sunday, before Noon, another learned Man, at Paul's-Croſs, was to make Rehearſal of thoſe four former Sermons, either commending, or reproving them, as to him (by Judgment of the learned Divines) was thought convenient: And that done, he was to make a Sermon of himſelf, which in all were five Sermons in one. At theſe Sermons, ſo ſeverally preached, the Mayor, with his Brethren the Aldermen, were accuſtomed to be preſent in their Violets, at St. Paul's on Good-Friday, and in their Scarlets, both they and their Wives, at the Spital in the Holidays, except Wedneſday, in Violet; and the Mayor, with his Brethren, on Low-Sunday, in Scarlet, at Paul's-Croſs.

Touching the Antiquity of this Cuſtom: In the Year 1398, King Richard having procured from Rome, Confirmation of ſuch Statutes and Ordinances as were made in the Parliament begun at Weſtminſter and ended at Shrewsbury, he cauſed the ſame Confirmation to be read and pronounced at Paul's-Croſs, and at St. Mary Spital, in the Sermons before all the People. Philip Malpas, one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1439, the 18th of Henry VII, gave 20 s. by the Year, to the three Preachers at the Spital. Stephen Forſter, Mayor in the Year 1454, gave 40 s. to the Preachers of Paul's-Croſs and Spital. The aforeſaid Houſe, wherein the Mayor and Aldermen ſat at the Spital, was built (for that Purpoſe) out of the Goods, and by the Executors of Richard Rawſon, Alderman, and Iſabel his Wife, in the Year 1488. In the Year 1594, this Pulpit, being old, was taken down, and a new one ſet up, the Preacher's Face turned towards the South, which was before towards the Weſt. Alſo a large Houſe (on the Eaſt Side of the ſaid Pulpit) was then built for the Governors and Children of Chriſt's Hoſpital to ſit in, and this was done out of the Goods of William Elkins, Alderman: But within the firſt Year, the ſame Houſe decaying, and like to have fallen, was again (with great Coſt) repaired at the City's Charge.

thy Brethren, Dr. Samuel Wincope, Mr. Thomas Wincope, and Mr. John Wincope, learned and reverend Divines, preached at St. Mary Spital upon Monday, Tueſday, and Wedneſday in Eaſter Week. They were called to preach from the divers Places of their Habitations, diſtant many Miles from one another; and as they happily met here to preach, ſo did the Matter upon which they preached not leſs happily concur: For tho' their Texts were ſeveral, yet their Diſcourſes were upon the ſame Subject, with an apt Dependance upon one another, like the Links of a Golden Chain, the ſecond beginning where the firſt ended, and the third where the ſecond ended, and making a ſuitable and excellent Concluſion of the two former Sermons with his own.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Church-yard lieth a large Field, of old Time called Loleſworth, now Spittlefield, which about the Year 1576, was broken up for Clay to make Brick; in the digging whereof many Earthen Pots called Urnæ, were found full of Aſhes, and burnt Bones of Men, to wit, of the Romans, who inhabited here: For it was the Cuſtom of the Romans to burn their Dead, to put their Aſhes in an Urn, and then to bury the ſame, with certain Ceremonies, in ſome Field, appointed for that Purpoſe, near unto their City.

EVERY of theſe Pots had in them (with the Aſhes of the Dead) one Piece of Copper Money, with the Inſcription of the Emperor then reigning: Some of them were of Claudius, ſome of Veſpaſian, ſome of Nero, of Antoninus Pius, of Trajanus, and others. Beſides thoſe Urns many other Pots were found in the ſame Place, made of a white Earth, with long Necks, and Handles, like to our Stone Jugs: Theſe were empty, but ſeemed to be buried full of ſome liquid Matter, long ſince conſumed and ſoked through. For there were found divers Vials, and other faſhioned Glaſſes, ſome moſt curiouſly wrought, and ſome of Chryſtal, all which had Water in them, nothing differing in Clearneſs, Taſte, or Savour from common Spring-water, whatſoever it was at the firſt. Some of theſe Glaſſes had Oil in them very thick, and earthy in Savour. Some were ſuppoſed to have Balm in them, but had loſt the Virtue: Many of theſe Pots and Glaſſes were broken in cutting of the Clay, ſo that few were taken up whole.

THERE were alſo found divers Diſhes and Cups, of a fine red colour'd Earth, which ſhewed outwardly ſuch a ſhining Smoothneſs, as if they had been of Coral: Theſe had (in the Bottoms) Roman Letters printed. There were alſo Lamps of white Earth, and red, artificially wrought with divers Antiques about them, and three or four Images, made of white Earth, about a Span long each of them: One was of Pallas. Amongſt divers of thoſe Antiquities there was found one Urna with the Aſhes and Bones, and one Pot of white Earth very ſmall, not exceeding the Quantity of a Quarter of a Wine-Pint, made in the Shape of a Hare ſquatted upon her Legs, and between her Ears is the Mouth of the Pot.

THERE hath alſo been found in the ſame Field, divers Coffins of Stone, containing the Bones of Men, ſuppoſed to be Burials of ſome ſpecial Perſons in Time of the Britons, or Saxons, after that the Romans had left to govern here. Moreover, there were alſo found the Skull and Bones of Men, without Coffins, or rather whoſe Coffins, being of great Timber, were conſumed. Divers great Nails of Iron were there found, ſuch as are uſed in the Wheels of Shod Carts, being each of them as big as a Man's Finger, and a Quarter of a Yard long, the Heads two Inches over. Thoſe Nails were more wondered at than the reſt of the Things there found, and many Opinions of Men were uttered of them, namely, that the Men there buried, were murthered, by driving thoſe Nails into their Heads, a Thing unlikely. For a ſmaller Nail would more aptly ſerve to ſo bad a Purpoſe, and a more ſecret Place would likely be employed for their Burial.

Dr. Meric Caſaubon (ſince thoſe Times wherein the Things before-mentioned were obſerved) came into theſe Fields, and ſaw one of theſe Graves, newly opened, where was a Skull-bone broken by him that digged the Ground, and the Pieces ſcattered, and ſome carried away. But being obſerved to be beyond the ordinary Size, the King was acquainted with it, who appointed that the Pieces ſhould be retrieved as many as might be, and ſet together, which was done, and then being drawn out according to Art, the Proportion equalled a Buſhel in the Compaſs of it. There were Coins alſo found in that Grave; ſome whereof the ſaid Caſaubon had, and as for the Skull he conjectured it was once a Giant's, though ſome thought it might be an Elephant's. Such another Grave he ſpeaks of found in Dauphine in France, with old Coins about it: The Bones and Skeleton about 25 Feet and an half in Length; which he ſuppoſed might be a certain antient Giant, named Teutelochus, of which they had Traditions.

AND thus much for this Part of Biſhopſgate Ward, without the Gate. The old Gate has been already mentioned, and the new one being not yet finiſhed, we refer our Readers to the Appendix, in which ſhall be given ſome Account, with the Draught of it.

ONLY, for the Mention of certain Places hereabouts in the Biſhop of LONDON's Regiſter of Teſtaments, let this be inſerted.

Walter Caketon by his Will, Aug. 18, 1430, gave to the Dean and College of the Royal Free Chapel, of St. Stephen's Weſtminſter, 45 s. 4 d. Rent, which he had of the Gift and Grant of John Preſton, Clerk, going yearly out of the Tenement Brewhouſe, called Le Scot on the Hoop, ſituate in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, between the Tenement of the Prior of the Hoſpital of St. Mary without Biſhopſgate, on the North, and the Lane [Venellam] of St. Helen's on the South, and the Garden of the Parſon of the Church of St. Mary Somerſet on the Weſt, to have to the ſaid Dean and College for ever, under Condition, that they keep the Anniverſary of Robert Fewlmer, late Canon of the Chapel aforeſaid, and of the ſaid John Preſton, Canon of the ſaid Chapel.

Clerks Hall and their Alms-Houſes in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet.

AND firſt, to begin on the Left Hand of Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, from the Gate are certain Tenements of old Time, pertaining to a Brotherhood of St. Nicholas, granted to the Pariſh-Clerks of LONDON, for two Chaplains to be kept in the Chapel of St. Mary Magdalen, near unto the Guildhall of LONDON, in the 27th of Henry VI. The firſt of the Houſes towards the North, and againſt the Wall of the City, was ſome Time a large Inn or Court, called the Wreſtlers, from ſuch a Sign, and the laſt in the high Street towards the South was ſome Time alſo an Inn, called the Angel, from ſuch a Sign. Amongſt theſe ſaid Tenements was (on the ſame Street Side) an Entry or Court to the common Hall of the ſaid Pariſh-Clerks, with Alms-Houſes, ſeven in Number, adjoining, for Pariſh-Clerks, and their Wives, their Widows, ſuch as were advanced in Years, and not able for Labour. One of theſe by the ſaid Brotherhood of Pariſh-Clerks, was allowed 16 d. the Week, the other ſix had each of them 9 d. the Week, according to the Patent thereof granted. This Brotherhood (amongſt other) being ſuppreſſed: In the Reign of Edw. VI. the ſaid Hall with the other Building there, was given to Sir Robert Cheſter, a Knight of Cambridgeſhire; againſt whom the Pariſh-Clerks commenced a Suit, in the Reign of Queen Mary, and being being likely to have prevailed, the ſaid Sir Robert Cheſter pulled down the Hall, ſold the Timber, Stone, and Lead, and thereupon the Suit was ended. The Alms-houſes remained in Queen Elizabeth's Hands, and People were there placed, ſuch as could make the beſt Friends. Some of them taking the Penſion appointed, let out their Houſes for great Rent, giving Occaſion to the Parſon of the Pariſh to challenge Tithes of the Poor, &c.

In this Pariſh are rbout 1800 Houſes.

The PARISH of St. ETHELBURGA.

St. Ethelburga's.

NEXT to this is the ſmall Pariſh Church of St. Ethelburga. The Saint, to whom this Church is dedicated, was a Saxon Queen, Wife to holy Edwyn, the firſt Chriſtian King of Northumberland, and Daughter to King Ethelbert, of Kent, which Ethelburga, after the Martyrdom of her Lord and Husband, fled out of Northumberland into Kent, her Native Country, with Paulinus, Archbiſhop of York, taking with her, Eanſled her Daughter, and Vuſofrean her Son, together with Iffi, the Son of Offrid, who was the Son of the ſaid King Edwyn, and ſlain in the ſame Battle with his Father, where they were honourably received by Honorus, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and her Brother Eadbaldus, King of Kent; and having ſent the two Youths into France, where they ſoon died, ſhe determined to exclude out of her Mind all temporal Things, and to employ in a religious Soltitude all her Thoughts and Deſires upon Heaven, and God alone; which Intentions of her's being known to her Brother, King Ealbald, he beſtowed upon her a Village called Liming, where ſhe built a Monaſtery, and for ought appears, was the firſt Widow, (ſaith Creſſey) among the Saxons, which with a religious Veil (received from St. Paulinus) conſecrated herſelf to ſerve our Lord.

There ſhe continued in that Godly Vocation for many Years, full of Virtue and Sanctity of Life, and died about the Year 647. Her Memory is celebrated on the 10th of September in our Martyrology.

This Pariſh-Church Stow calls the Church of St. Ethelburgh, Virgin, but it ſeems to be a Miſtake (ſhe being, as appears above, a Widow.) It is a ſmall Church, and ſtands on the Eaſt Side of Biſhopſgate, in Biſhopſgate Ward within: It is ſubject to the Archdeacon, but the Advowſon having been granted to the Biſhop of LONDON, and his Succeſſors, ſince the Diſſolution, thoſe Biſhops have ſince collated and inducted to this Church.

The Patronage of this Church, was of old, in the Prioreſs and Convent of St. Helen (which ſtood next unto it) till the Suppreſſion of that Houſe, after which, it was granted by the Crown to the Biſhop of LONDON, and his Succeſſors, in whom it hath continued ever ſince.

Here was a Chantry founded for the Souls of Gilbert Maryon, and Chriſtine his Wife, as appears by the Admiſſion of a Chaplain to it in December 1436, at the Preſentation of the Rector, Church-wardens, and Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, as the true Patrons thereof.

It is uncertain when this Church was firſt erected; but it was repaired and beautified in the Year 1612, and the Steeple in the Year 1620; and having eſcaped the deplorable Fire in the Year 1666, the Steeple was again beautified and repaired in 1694, as the Church was in 1701, as appears on the Weſt Gallery with a Cypher of W. R. The South Gallery has this Inſcription at the Eaſt End of it.

This Gallery was given by Mr. Owen Saintpeer, (being Church-warden) in the Year 1629, only for the Daughters and Maid Servants of this Pariſh to ſit in.

By which Words are theſe Arms; Sable a Bend Argent, with a Lambeau of three Points for a Difference, quartered with Argent, a Croſs. Sable, and for the Creſt, on the Point of a Spear, Or, a Dolphin Proper.

And the Veſtry, at the Eaſt End, was built in 1702, at the Charge of the Pariſh.

This Church is a Gothick Building, with a ſmall Spire, and hath a Clock projecting into the Street.

As to the Ornament and Finiſhing, beſides the two Galleries before-mentioned, it is well pewed, and wainſcotted with Oak, near ſeven Feet high.

The Altar-piece was built in the Year 1705, of right Oak; it conſiſts of Pilaſters and Entablature of the Corinthian Order, with Enrichments, alſo Attick Pilaſters, a Compaſs or Circular Pediment, and Acroters, whereon are placed Lamps; and under the Pediment is a Glory. Here are alſo the Commandments, Lord's-Prayer, and Creed, done in Gold on Black; which, as alſo the Branch, was given by Mr. Clark of this Pariſh.

In this Church are a few Monuments and Grave-ſtones; as, for one Williams, who had attended on 42 Mayors, deceaſed the 19th of July 1583. He is covered with a flat Stone in the Body of the Chancel, on which there is the Repreſentation of a Man in Braſs, wearing a Gown, and one behind him kneeling, with his two Wives.

On the Stone theſe Verſes:

Unuſquiſq; diu gaudet, bene vivere nemo.
Quiſq; piè debet vivere [nemo] diu.

Against the North Wall, near the Chancel, on a black Marble Monument, adorned with Pediments, and two Babes weeping, is this Inſcription, viz.

Here lieth interred the Body of John Cornelius Linckebank, of LONDON, Merchant, who exchanged this Life in his grand Climacterical Year 63, the 30th of September 1655, leaving behind him, by his firſt Wife Mary, three Sons, Henry, Jacob, and Peter, and one beloved Daughter Mary.

There is alſo a Monument for John Lamb, Son of William Lamb, Gent. and Catharine his Wife, November 3, 1681.

Then ſomewhat more Weſt is another Court with a winding Lane coming out againſt the Weſt End of St. Andrew Underſhaft's Church.

The PARISH of St. HELEN.

St. Helen's

IN this Court ſtands the Church of St. Helen, ſome Time a Priory of Black Nuns: St. Helen, to whom this Priory was dedicated, by Conſtantius Chlorus, Governor of Britain under the Romans, was Mother of Conſtantine the Great, the firſt Chriſtian Emperor of Rome. She was the Daughter of Coel, Prince of the Britons, and born at Colcheſter in Eſſex, according to the Britiſh Chronicles. But ſome Greek Writers (among whom Nicephorus) relate, That ſhe was born at Drepanum in Bithynia in Aſia, being the Daughter of an Hoſt in that City, who brought her to Conſtantius, then happening to be there in his Paſſage as Ambaſſador in Perſia, who being enamoured of her great Beauty and Comlineſs, had the Uſe of her Body, and got her with Child, which Child being afterwards born, ſhe named Conſtantine. But Cardinal Baronius, in his Annals, Anno Chriſti 306, by ſome Arguments confutes this Relation, averring, that ſhe was by Birth a Briton, and no Concubine to Conſtantius Chlorus, but his lawful Wife.

THIS is that Helena, which in antient Writings is named Piiſſima & Venerabilis Auguſta. She went to Jeruſalem, and there found out Chriſt's Croſs, and ordained Quirinus, Biſhop of Jeruſalem. She afterwards returned to Rome, where ſhe died, and was interred about the Year of our Lord 326, aged 80 Years. From Rome ſhe was afterwards tranſlated by her Son Conſtantine to Conſtantinople, and from thence, as Peter de Natalibus writes, to Venice, where, ſays he, her Body lies buried in a Monaſtery dedicated to her Name. But others ſay, her Body was tranſlated to Rhemes, where her Tranſlation is celebrated, yearly, Feb. 7, and at Rome her Feſtivity is kept, Auguſt 18.

BEFORE ſhe came from Jeruſalem, ſhe repaired that City, adorning the ſame with many goodly Churches and Monuments. In many other Places ſhe erected divers Churches dedicated to her Name. In her native Country of Great Britain (for ſo the moſt authentick Writers affirm) ſhe left ſome Memorials of herſelf; for ſhe built (as it is ſaid) the Walls of LONDON and Colcheſter, and erected alſo a goodly Church at Bedford, which being turned into a Monaſtery, was afterwards deſtroyed by the Danes, about the Year 868. Who ſo deſires to read more of St. Helen, may ſatisfy himſelf out of Euſebius in Vita Conſtantini, Ruffinus, Sozomen, Peter de Natalibus, Nicephorus, and divers others.

THE ſaid Priory long ſince was founded before the Reign of Henry III. William Baſing, Dean of St. Paul's, was the firſt Founder, and was there buried, and William Baſing, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, in the ſecond Year of Edward II. was held alſo to be a Founder, or rather an Helper thereto. This Priory being valued at 314 l. 2 s. 6 d. was ſurrender'd the 25th of November, the 30th of Henry VIII. The whole Church, the Partition betwixt the Nuns Church and the Pariſh-Church being taken down, remaineth now to the Pariſh, and is a fair Pariſh-Church, but wanteth ſuch a Steeple as Sir Thomas Greſham promiſed to have built, in Recompence of Ground in their Church filled up with his Monument.

THE Nuns Hall, and other Houſing thereto pertaining, was ſince purchaſed by the Company of Leatherſellers, and is their common Hall.

The Parſonage of St. Helen's was in the Crown in the Days of Queen Elizabeth. A Leaſe whereof ſhe granted about the Year 1588 to one Captain Nicholas Oſeley for his good Service againſt the Spaniards. A Perſon, who being in Spain in theſe dangerous Times, had ſent very good Intelligence thence; and likewiſe in the Fight againſt the Spaniſh Fleet in 1588. Whereupon Howard, Lord Admiral, ſent a Letter in his Behalf to the Lord Treaſurer, that for the Cauſes abovementioned, it was the Queen's Pleaſure, that no Leaſe of the ſaid Parſonage ſhould, in the mean time, be granted out of the Exchequer, which might prevent the Reward of one that had ſo well deſerved, in adventuring his Life ſo many Ways in her Majeſty's Service.

THE

BUT before this, in the 10th of Elizabeth, May 27, the Queen granted to Cæſar Adelmare, and Thomas Colſil, the Rectory, Pariſh-Church, Meſſuages, Tithes, &c. for 21 Years; reſerving unto her Majeſty and her Heirs, the Advowſon of the Vicarage.

THE Rectory came afterwards to Michael Stanhope, Eſq; and Edward Stanhope, LL.D. and one of the Maſters of the Court of Chancery, 20 l. to be iſſuing from the ſaid Rectory every Year pro ſtipendio, i. e. for a Salary to a ſufficient Preacher of GOD's Word, to be allowed by the Biſhop of LONDON. The Pariſh have a Copy of the Queen's Sale, granting to them the whole Rectory and Church of St. Helen's, with their Rights, Members, and Appurtenances, late belonging to the Priory of St. Helen's, and all the Meſſuages, Houſes, Edifices, Gardens, and Tithes, Oblations, Rents, Fruits, Profits, Advantages, Commodities, &c. This bore Date, at Weſtminſter, Sept. 13, in the 41ſt of her Reign.

THIS Church was beautifully repaired, at the Charge of the Pariſhioners, having 1300 l. laid out upon it, in the Year 1633; and, eſcaping the dreadful Fire in 1666, was again repaired, and the ſmall Tower built in the Year 1699. It is a modern Gothick Building, and plainly appears to have been two Churches, there being only a North and South Iſle, and where the Middle Iſle is in other Churches, here is a Range of Pillars and Arches. The Pulpit is placed in the South Iſle, fronting Northward, and the Walls of this Building are moſtly of Brick and Stone, covered with a Finiſhing, having Battlements, and ſtrengthened with Buttereſſes.

IT has a handſome ſtrong Timber Roof. There are three Wainſcot Door-caſes, one at the Weſt-End is very ornamental, with Columns and Entablature of the Compoſite Order; alſo two Lions, and a Shield between two Cherubs, each ſuſtaining a Feſtoon, and in the Middle of the Pediment theſe Words carved:

This is none other but the Houſe of GOD, this is the Gate of Heaven.

IT is alſo pewed with Oak, and there are Seats on the North Side of the Church for the Children, and others of the Work-houſe in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, tho' the ſaid Workhouſe, as ſaid before, is in the Pariſh of St. Botolph: And the Altar-Piece is painted Deal of the Compoſite Order. The Inter-columns are the Commandments, between the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Gold Letters on Black. Over the Commandments is a Glory, and theſe Words:

If ye love me, keep my Commandments. St. John, Chap. xiv.

AND above the Cornice, the King's Arms, ſupported by two Angels; alſo in the Eaſt-Window, there are the Arms of LONDON, the Grocers, and two others, and in the other Windows, the Leatherſellers, and ſome few more.

THE Length of the Church is 111 Feet, Breadth 50, and Altitude 31; alſo that of the Steeple, which conſiſts of a ſmall Tower, a Kind of Cupola, and Turret, is 68 Feet, wherein are only two Bells.

In the Church of St. Helen are theſe MONUMENTS.

BENEATH the Body of the Church in the North Wall, and near the Weſt End of the Church, is a very ſpacious Marble Monument, with Columns and Entablature of the Corinthian Order; alſo two Arches, under the Weſtward of which are the Figures of him and nine Children, and under the Eaſtward thoſe of his Wife and ſeven Daughters, all in a Kneeling Poſture, and under is the Inſcription following.

Within this Monument lieth the earthly Parts of John Robinſon, Merchant of the Staple in LONDON, free of the Merchant-Taylors, and ſome Time Alderman of LONDON, and Chriſtian his Wife, eldeſt Daughter of Thomas Anderſon, Grocer. on the 24th of April 1592. Her Husband following her on the 19th of Feb. 1599. Both much beloved in their Lives, and more lamented at their Deaths, eſpecially by the Poor, to whom their good Deeds (being alive) begot many Prayers; now being dead many Tears. The Glaſs of his Life held 70 Years, and then run out. To live long and happy is an Honour, but to die happy a greater Glory; both theſe aſpired to both. Heaven do doubt hath their Souls, and this Houſe of Stone their Bodies, where they ſleep in Peace 'till the Summons of a glorious Reſurrection awakens them.

NOT far from this is the remarkable Monument of Mr. Bancroft, who was there buried in the Year 1728; it is a large, and indeed but clumſy, Piece of Stone Building, having four Urns, with gilt Flames at the Top, a Pair of Wainſcot Doors glazed to go into it, which he often did himſelf in his Life-time; the Key of theſe Doors is kept by the Drapers Company, to whom he left a great Eſtate; it is encompaſſed by a Rail of Iron, and hath this Inſcription upon it:

The Ground whereon this Tomb ſtands, was purchaſed of this Pariſh in 1723, by Francis Bancroft, Eſq; for the Interment of himſelf and Friends only, and was confirmed to him by a Faculty from the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, LONDON, the ſame Year; and in his Life-time he erected this Tomb, Anno 1726. and ſettled Part of his Eſtate in LONDON and Middleſex, for beautifying and keeping the ſame in Repair for ever.

OVER the Inſcription are his Arms, viz.

Or, Three Wheat-Sheaves of the ſame, on a Bend, Azure, between ſix croſs Croſslets of the laſt.

CREST, A Wheat-Sheaf, Or, between two Wings.

AGAINST the North Wall, and on the North Side of the Church, are Monuments for, Edward Berkley, Eſq; May 8, 1669.

Near the Veſtry Door, a little Monument againſt the Wall, for Gervaſe Reresby, ſprung from an antient Family in Yorkſhire; who lived thirty Years in Spain in great Reputation, died in England, Anno 1704. This Monument was erected by his only Son.

THERE is a printed Memorial hanging up in a Table, at the Entrance into this Church, of a young new born Child, that was taken up between the great Warehouſe and Sir John Spencer's back Gate, being (by a moſt unnatural Mother) there buried in a great Dunghil of Sea-Coal Aſhes, with the Face upward, yet found alive by Richard Atkinſon, who uſed to make clean this Paſſage there of the Soil, carrying it thence with his Wheelbarrow. The Child had not any Rag or Cloth about it, but was all bloodied, by reaſon that the Navel-String was untied, and the Body merely cruſted over with the Sea-Coal Duſt. Yet being made clean by the poor Man's Wife, it was found to be a moſt goodly Man-Child, ſtrong and well featured, without any Blemiſh, or Harm upon it. But ſtrangled inwardly, by ſucking in the noiſome Filth and Aſhes.

IT was chriſtened and named; Job Cinere extractus, Job taken out of the Aſhes. It lived three Days, and dying, lies buried in the Churchyard, the 5th of September, 1612, Richard Ball, Miniſter, William Robinſon and Richard Weſtney, Church-wardens; Thomas Edwards and Abraham Gramer, Side-Men; and John Harvey, Clerk.

THE Charities in this Pariſh given to the Poor are 2*s.* every Sunday (for ever) in Bread, allowed by the Gift of the afore-remembered Mr. Robinſon, and 1*s.* alſo in Bread every Sunday, given by Mrs. Sciol.

Sir Andrew Jud alſo founded ſix Alms-Houſes for certain poor People, and gave Lands to the Skinners, out of which they are to give 4*s.* every Week to ſix poor Alms-Men, 8*d.* a-piece, and 25*s.* 4*d.* a Year in Coals among them for ever. Theſe Houſes have been lately rebuilt, having this Inſcription over the Door.

Theſe Alms-Houſes were founded by Sir Andrew Jud, Knt. Citizen and Skinner, and Lord Mayor of LONDON, Anno Dom. 1551, for ſix poor Men of the ſaid Company. Rebuilt by the ſaid Company, Anno Dom. 1729.

HERE follows an exact Table of the Grants, Donations and Bequeſts conferred and ſettled upon this Pariſh, and the ſeveral Truſts and Uſes thereof collected by R. Bromley, Church-warden, March 20, 1703.

In which Grant is reſerved, to be paid by them 20*l. per Ann.* by Quarterly Payments, to be going out of the ſaid Rectory, for a Stipend or Salary, to a ſufficient Preacher of the Word of God, from Time to Time in the July 12, 1599, John Robinſon, Senior, Merchant of the Staple, by his Will, gave unto his Son Arthur a Meſſuage, or Tenement, with the Appurtenances, in the Pariſh of St. Olave, near the Tower of LONDON, to hold to him, and his Heirs Males of his Body, with ſeveral Remainders to his other Sons, and their Heirs Males, &c. And his Will is, That for ever ſhall be paid out of the ſaid Capital Houſe, to the Parſon and Church-wardens of this Pariſh, and their Succeſſors, yearly, by Quarterly Payments, 5 l. 4 s. which they ſhall diſtribute weekly, by 2 s. every Sunday Morning, in Bread to the Poor of this Pariſh, with a Clauſe for Diſtreſs. This was paid by the Wardens of the Carpenters Company.

September 29, 1603, Edward Fenner, of this Pariſh, Citizen and Carpenter, by his Will, did order and diſpoſe of his Meſſuage, or Tenement, with the Appurtenances, wherein he dwelt, to ſeveral Perſons, for their reſpective Lives, and after their Deceaſe, the Reverſion and Remainder thereof to the Miniſter and Church-wardens of this Pariſh, for the Time being, and their Succeſſors, for ever. And to the Maſter and Wardens of the Company of Carpenters LONDON, and their Succeſſors for ever; to the End that they, within four Years next after that they ſhould be poſſeſſed thereof, pay his next Heir then living, 20 l. And after that, all ſuch Rents then after made, be deviſed in two equal Parts: Whereof one Part to be diſtributed, yearly, for ever, to the Poor of this Pariſh.

THIS Houſe was then in Leaſe, by Indenture Tripartite, dated September 12, 1671, for 34 Years, at the Rent, for one Moiety thereof of 5 l. per Annum, to the Church-wardens of this Pariſh: But it is to be noted, That this Houſe was let by the Leſſees to William Poole, Sadler, at 32 l. per Annum by Leaſe; but Care was afterwards taken by the Officers of the Pariſh, to be better Husbands for their Poor; for upon the Expiration of this Leaſe, it was let out at the full Value, for the Uſe of the Poor.

March 11, 1607, William Prior, Citizen, and Pewterer of LONDON, by his Teſtament willed, after the Deceaſe of his Wife, the yearly Rent of his Meſſuage, or Tenement, in this Pariſh, to be paid to the Church-wardens, and to be by them laid out for ever, viz. 8 l. of the ſaid Rent to be beſtowed in Sea-Coals, and given to the Poor of this Pariſh. And alſo for two Sermons, to be preached yearly, for ever, viz. on the firſt Sunday in clean Lents one Sermon; and the other on the Day of his Burial, (which was March 27, 1608) for which Sermons he gave 13 s. 4 d. out of the ſaid Rent. And to the Church-wardens, for the Time being, for a Drinking, 2 l. yearly, to be ſpent on the Day the ſaid firſt Sermon ſhall be preached. And the reſt of the ſaid yearly Rent, to be to the Uſe of the Poor of the ſaid Pariſh.

THIS Houſe was then let by Leaſe, by Indenture dated June 4, 1697, for 21 Years, from Lady-Day 1699, at 30 l. per Annum.

September 1, 1631, Sir Martin Lumley, Knt. and Alderman of LONDON, by his Will, gave to the Church-wardens, and their Succeſſors, for ever, one Annuity, or Rent Charge, of 20 l. to be iſſuing out of his Meſſuage, or Tenement, in the Pariſh of St. John Evangeliſt, LONDON, called The Black Boy, at two Payments, Chriſtmas and Lady-Day; upon Truſt for the eſtabliſhing a Lecture, or Sermon, for ever, to be preached in this Pariſh-Church on Thurſdays Evening weekly, from Michaelmas to Lady-Day; the Church-wardens to pay the ſame to a godly Divine, for his Pains in preaching the ſaid Lecture. And to the ſaid Church-wardens likewiſe one other Annuity, or Rent Charge, of 4 l. per Annum, iſſuing out of the ſaid Meſſuage, or Tenement, by two Payments, at Chriſtmas and Lady-Day, for the Uſe of the Poor of this Pariſh.

THIS Houſe is now known by the Sign of The Bear and ragged Staff, in Watling-ſtreet, near St. Paul's Church.

Item, There is a Payment unto the Vicar of this Pariſh, of 3 l. per Annum, iſſuing out of a Meſſuage, ſome Time in the Occupation of Charles Perkins. This is ſaid to have been antiently the Vicarage Houſe, and of late was claimed by the Skinners Company.

October 14, 1633, William Robinſon, late of this Pariſh, Citizen and Mercer, by his Deed enrolled in Chancery, charged a Meſſuage, or Tenement, and two Yard Lands, and a Quarter of a Yard Land, in Haverton upon the Hill in Northamptonſhire, and all his Lands, with one Annuity of 2 l. 12 s. after his Deceaſe, for ever, to be paid to the Church-wardens and Overſeers of the Poor of this Pariſh at Lady-Day, to be diſtributed among the poor Penſioners of this Pariſh, by 12 d. per Week, in Wheaten Bread, every Sabbath Day, after Morning Service.

February 8, 1635, Thomas Fenner, Citizen of LONDON, did, by his Will, give all that his Meſſuage and Tenement in this Pariſh, after the Deceaſe of his Wife and Brother, unto the Parſon and Church-wardens of this Pariſh, upon Truſt that they ſhall, out of the Rent and Profit thereof, yearly diſtribute among ſeven poor Women of this Pariſh, in moſt Want, 7 l. and ſhall cauſe one Sermon, yearly, to be preached in this Church, on the Day he ſhall be buried, by ſome godly Preacher; and ſhall give to him for his Pains, for every Sermon 10 s. and that the Church-wardens may take the other 10 s. and all the reſt of the Rents and Profits of the ſaid Meſſuage, or Tenement, ſhall be to the Uſe of the Poor of the ſaid Pariſh.

Note, This Houſe was leaſed out to Thomas Kirkes, by Indenture dated November 21, 1689, for fifty Years, at 8 l. per Annum; he having rebuilt the ſame at his own Charge.

April 20, 1636, Joyce Featly, by her Will, or Writing, indented Tripartite, did appoint, That after the Death of Dr. Daniel Featly, her Husband, and herſelf, yearly to be paid by her Heirs, out of the Rents and Profits of a Meſſuage in the Pariſh of Lambeth in Surrey, (being Copyhold of the Manor of Kennington) for ever, 4 l. per Ann. to be paid to the Vicar and Church-wardens of this Pariſh, by Quarterly Payments, upon Truſt, to diſtribute 12 d. thereof weekly, every Sunday, in Bread; and 20 s. thereof, yearly, to the Preacher, to preach on the Day of her Burial, (and that happened on the 3d of October 1637) and in Default of ſuch Sermon, that ſaid 20 s. to go to the Poor of the Pariſh: And 6 s. yearly, to be beſtowed in repairing her Father's Tomb. And the other 2 s. yearly, to the Sexton, for keeping clean the ſame Tomb.

Note, That this Annuity did accrue due and payable in the Year 1645, upon the Death of the ſaid Dr. Featly, (who died April 21, that ſaid Year) but the Heirs of the ſaid Joyce refuſing to pay the ſame, the Vicar and Church-wardens ſued out an Inquiſition upon the Statute for Charitable Uſes; and in December 1648, obtained a Decree for the Payment thereof: But the Manor of Kennington being veſted in the Crown, and by reaſon of the Change of Government, and Confuſion in thoſe Times, the ſaid Decree was never put in Execution, or revived, until the Year 1702, when the Vicar and Church-wardens ſued out a Writ of Scire Facias, to revive the ſame Decree.

To

To which one Nicholas Lampen, and others, in Poſſeſſion of the Premiſes, put in Exceptions: And Matter coming to be heard before the Right Honourable the Lord Keeper, November 13, 1703, his Lordſhip diſmiſs'd the ſaid Exceptions, and ordered the Payment of the ſaid Annuities from Michaelmas 1703; but (for ſome Reaſons) with a Remittance of all Arrears. Which Order is made a final Decree of the Court of Chancery; and ſo enrolled in the Petty-bag Office, March 1703.

May 23, 1682, Diana Aſtrey, of this Pariſh, Widow, did, by her Will, give 10 s. yearly, for ever, to the Miniſter of this Pariſh, for better Encouragement to Preach, and to the Clerk, 2 s. 6 d. for ever.

May 16, 1684, by an Indenture (concluding an Agreement between Sir John Lawrence, Knt. and the Pariſhioners of this Pariſh) he obliged himſelf and his Heirs, Executors, &c. to pay a Legacy of 100 l. given to this Pariſh by Adam Lawrence, Merchant, by his Will, dated March 23, 1656, and to pay 150 l. due for Intereſt of the ſame at that Time, and to pay 100 l. more for Leave to make a Vault in the Pariſh Church, for the Uſe of himſelf and his Family: The ſaid Sir John Lawrence did, by the ſame Indenture, therefore grant to ſeveral Perſons and their Heirs for ever, in Truſt of the Pariſh, one Annuity or Rent Charge of 20 l. per Annum, to be iſſuing out of a Meſſuage or Tenement in this Pariſh, not long ſince in the Occupation of John Seagre, with a Clauſe for Diſtreſs: Redeemable upon Payment of 350 l. and the Annuity thereupon to ceaſe.

Note, This 20 l. per Annum, is to be applied towards the Encouragement of the Miniſter and for the Uſe of the Poor, at the Direction of the Pariſhioners in Veſtry aſſembled.

THERE is to be received, yearly, at Chriſtmas, by the Alderman of Biſhopſgate Ward, or his Beadle, 2 s. being the Gift of Margaret Dunn, payable from the Ironmongers Company, for the Uſe of the Poor of this Pariſh.

THIS Church of St. Helen's and Rectory was once in the Pariſh, if they could but have kept it, being held of the Crown by Leaſe: And there is, in a Pariſh-Book belonging to this Pariſh, the Copy of a Leaſe, from Queen Elizabeth to Cæſar Aldermarie (as it is writ for Adelmare) Eſq; and Thomas Colcel, (or Colſhill) Pariſhioners and Inhabitants of St. Helen's Pariſh in the City of LONDON, for, and in the Name of all the Pariſhioners and Inhabitants there, upon their Deſire, to be to them granted, of the Rectory of the ſaid Pariſh, for that Intent and Purpoſe, that the Rents, Iſſues, and Profits of the ſame ſhall from Time to Time riſe, grow, and increaſe, to the Uſe, Profit and Commodity of the Pariſhioners there. Therefore, in Conſideration of 17 l. 12 s. 2 d. paid by the ſaid Cæſar Aldermarie and Tho. Colcel at the Receipt of the Exchequer, ſhe (the ſaid Queen Elizabeth) granted, and to Farm deviſed to them, all that Rectory and Parſonage and Church of St. Helen's in the ſaid City, except and reſerved to her Majeſty, and her Heirs, the Advowſon of the Vicarage there: To have and to hold the ſaid Rectory, Pariſh, and Church, Meſſuages, Houſes, Tithes, Oblations, and other Profits, to the ſaid Cæſar and Thomas, their Executors and Aſſigns, from the Feaſt of St. Michael the Archangel, unto the Term of 21 Years: Yielding and paying, therefore, yearly, to her, her Heirs and Succeſſors, 8 l. 16 s. 1 d. The ſaid Cæſar and Thomas to pay as well the Prieſts Wages, there doing Divine Service, and all other Sums of Money for Bread and Wine, and other Neceſſaries in the Church, to be expended and paid.

THEN there was a Clauſe, that the ſaid Farmers ſhall repair the Chancel and Houſing to the ſaid Rectory belonging: And likewiſe a Clauſe, that after ſuch reaſonable Sums of Money received, paid and deducted, as they laid out, as well for the Fine of this Leaſe, or otherwiſe about the Sum, and obtaining the ſame, or of theſe Letters Patents; and from thenceforth, all ſuch Iſſues and Profits coming and iſſuing of the ſame Parſonage, all Charges of the ſaid Parſonage being deducted, they ſhall convert and diſpoſe to the Uſe and Commodity of the Pariſhioners, or cauſe to be converted or diſpoſed, during the ſaid Term. This was dated May the 27th, in the 10th Year of that Queen's Reign.

THE Pariſh ſeems to have had this Rectory in Leaſe before. For it is ſaid that March 21, 1564, the Pariſh paid Mr. Colcel, for the Charge of the Leaſe of the ſaid Parſonage, 20 l. according to an Order taken in the Veſtry.

ONE of theſe Farmers of the Rectory, viz. Mr. Cæſar, died ſoon after the aforeſaid Leaſe, namely, Anno 1569, and ſeems to have been the Father of Sir Julius Cæſar, a Civilian, and great Man under Queen Elizabeth and King James I, being Judge of the Admiralty, and a Privy-Counſellor, who lies buried in St. Helen's Church under a fair Monument, where, in a Latin Inſcription, his Character and Quality are told.

THIS Rectory came afterwards into the Poſſeſſion of the Stanhopes, viz. in the 41ſt of Queen Elizabeth, as hath been before-mentioned. The Pariſh have a Copy of her Sale thereof for the Sum of 610 l. 18 s. 7 d. ob. q. paid by Michael Stanhope, Eſq; one of the Grooms of the Privy-Chamber, and Edward Stanhope, Doctor of Law, and one of the Maſters of the Court of Chancery: "Granting to them the whole Rectory and "Church of St. Helen, with their Rights, Mem-"bers and Appurtenances, late belonging to the "Priory of St. Helen, and all the Meſſuages, "Houſes, Edifices, Gardens, Tithes, Oblations, "Rents, Fruits, Profits, Commodities, Advan-"tages, &c. belonging to the ſaid Rectory and "Church: And the annual Rent of 8 l. 16 s. 1 d. "formerly belonging to the ſaid Priory, and "Parcel of the Poſſeſſions. Which Priory, Rec-"tory and Church, is extended to the clear "yearly Value of 8 l. 16 s. 1 d. per Annum, to "hold by Fealty in free and common Soccage, "and not in Capite, nor by Military Service: "And, moreover, ſhe gave and granted all the "Rents, Iſſues, Revenues, Profits, &c. of all and "ſingular the Premiſes from the Feaſt of the "Annunciation of our Bleſſed Lady, laſt paſt, by "her Gift, abſq; compoto, 20 l. to be iſſuing from "the ſaid Rectory, pro ſtipendio ſive Salario, i. e. "for a Stipend or Salary for a ſufficient Preacher "of God's Word within the ſaid Church, to "preach from Time to Time, to be allowed by "the Biſhop of LONDON, for the Time "being, to be paid him Quarterly by equal "Portions, and from the ſaid Payments, to free "and indemnify her and her Succeſſors." This bore Date at Weſtminſter the 13th of September, 41 Regni.

THIS Living is now an Impropriation; the Impropriator is Mr. Freeman, the Tithes, 64 l. 12 s. 7 d. per Annum, rated in the King's Books.

THE

THE Number of Houses 138.

THE most remarkable Places are, 1. Leatherſellers-Hall, ſituated at the Eaſt End of Little St. Helen's. The Room called the Hall has Joiners and Plaiſterers Work, exceeding fine, conſidering the Antiquity of it: The Screen is magnificent, adorned with ſix Columns of the Ionick Order, and the Ceiling with Fretwork. 2. Crosby-Square, built with handſome Houſes, where was antiently one great Houſe, called Crosby-Place, being built by Sir John Crosby, Grocer and Woolman, in Place of certain Tenements, with their Appurtenances, let to him by Alice Aſhfield, Prioreſs of St. Helen's, and the Convent, at 99 Years, from the Year 1646, to the Year 1565, for the annual Rent of 11 l. 6 s. 8 d. This Houſe he built of Stone and Timber, very large and beautiful, and the higheſt at that Time in LONDON. He was one of the Sheriffs, and an Alderman in the Year 1470, Knighted by Edward IV, in the Year 1471, and died 1475; ſo ſhort a Time enjoyed he this ſtately Building.

WHAT the Contents and Particulars of the Demiſes granted to Crosby, by the Prioreſs, were, may be underſtood, by the Grant of Crosby-Place, and the Appurtenances made by King Henry VIII, to Anthony Bonvixi, the Italian Merchant, Rex omnibus, &c. cum Alicia Aſhfield, &c. wherein are mentioned, firſt, the great Meſſuage, or Tenement, commonly called Crosby-Place, with a certain Venell, i. e. Lane, or Paſſage, that extended in Length from the Eaſt Part of the ſaid Tenement, to the Corner, or South End, of a certain little Lane North, bending unto the Priory Cloſe: Alſo nine Meſſuages, ſituate and lying in the ſaid Pariſh of St. Helen; whereof ſix were ſituate and lying between the Front of the ſaid Tenement, and the Front of the Ball-Houſe, or Steeple, aforeſaid, and the ſix Meſſuages mentioned before, together with a certain void Place of Land, ſituate in the ſaid Pariſh, extending, in Length, toward the Eaſt by the ſaid Meſſuage, which Catharine Catesby formerly held, from the outward Part of the Plat, or Poſt, of the Bell-Houſe, abutting upon the North Part of the ſaid ſix Meſſuages, and the King's-ſtreet, unto the Church-yard there, five Feet and a half Aſſize, and thence extending in Breadth toward the South, directly to a certain Tenement there, formerly in the Tenure of Robert Smith; and two Meſſuages more of the ſaid nine Meſſuages jointly, ſituate within the Cloſe of the Priory: Of which one heretofore in the Tenure of the ſaid Robert Smith. And theſe were the Tenements and Appurtenances held of the Priory of St. Helen, by Sir John Crosby.

HE gave towards the reforming St. Helen's Church, five hundred Marks, which were laid out to the beſt Advantage; his Arms are both in the Stone-work, Roof of Timber, and Glaſing.

IT is thought a Fable, That he was named Crosby, from being found by a Croſs, for there were many of the Name of Crosby before him; namely, in the Year 1406, the 7th of Henry IV, the ſaid King gave to his Servant John Crosby, the Wardſhip of Joan, Daughter and ſole Heir to John Fordaine, Fiſhmonger.

AND before him, in the Reign of King Edward III, was another John Crosby, a Knight and Alderman of LONDON; who had a Son and Heir called John. Of this Sir John is this Record; Edwardus Princeps Walliæ, Dux Cornubiæ conceſſit, &c. Edward, Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwal, hath granted to Thomas Ribby, &c. "The Cuſtody of the Manor of Hane-
"worth, and the Advowſon of the Church of "Haneworth, which lately was John Crosby's,
"Knight, late Alderman of LONDON;
"which he held of the ſame Prince Edward,
"the Day wherein he died, to have, and to "hold, until the lawful Age of John, his Son
"and Heir, called John Crosby". It was confirmed by the King. This Haneworth is placed on the River Thames, not far from Hampton-Court; and in the Time of King Henry VIII, was in the Crown; and was ſo pleaſantly ſituated, that that King delighted in it, ſaith Camden, above any other of his Houſes.

Richard Duke of Gloceſter, lodged at Croſby-houſe.

Richard, Duke of Gloceſter, and Lord Protector, afterwards King of England, by the Name of Richard III, was lodged in this Houſe.

WHILE his Nephew Edward V. reigned, he here contrived his Plots, and here the Citizens came to him with the Profeſſions of their Love, and deſiring him to accept the Crown.

SINCE which Time, among other, Anthonio Bonvice, a rich Merchant of Italy, dwelled there, on whom it ſeems King Henry VIII. beſtowed it, Ann. 1542, with all belonging to it, as appears by the Copy of the Grant, running thus, Sciatis, &c. "Know ye, that we of our ſpecial

AFTER him German Gioli dwelt here.

THEN William Bond, Alderman, increaſed this Houſe in Heigth, with building a Turret on the Top thereof: He deceaſed in the Year 1576, and was buried in St. Helen's Church. Divers Ambaſſadors have been lodged there; namely, in the Year 1586, Henry Ramelius, Chancellor of Denmark, Ambaſſador unto the Queen's Majeſty of England from Frederick II. King of Denmark, an Ambaſſador of France, &c. Sir John Spencer, Alderman, purchaſed this Houſe, made great Reparations, kept his Mayoralty there, and afterwards built a very large Warehouſe near thereunto.

IN the firſt of King James I, when divers Ambaſſadors came into England, Monſieur de Roſney, Great Treaſurer of France, with his Retinue (which was very ſplendid) was there harboured, the Houſe then belonging to Sir John Spencer.

WITHIN Biſhopſgate alſo, and very likely in this Houſe, were lodged the youngeſt Son of William Prince of Orange, Monſieur Fulke, and the learned Monſieur Barnevelt; who came from the States of Holland and Zealand.

FROM Crosby-ſquare to Leadenhall Corner and ſo down Gracechurch-ſtreet, are ſeveral handſome Houſes for Traders, Merchants and others, particularly a very fine one belonging to Sir Roger Hudſon.

NOW, for the other Side of this Pariſh, namely, the Right Hand, hard by, within the Gate, was antiently a handſome Water Conduit, which Tho. Kneſworth, Mayor, in the Year 1505, founded. He gave 60 l. the reſt was furniſhed at the common Charges of the City. This Conduit was afterwards taken down and new built, when David Woodroffe, Alderman, gave 20 l. towards the Conveyance of more Water to it; and afterwards quite taken away.

FROM hence are many large Inns and Houſes, among others, that of Sir Thomas Greſham, Knt. who died in the Year 1579, and was buried in St. Helen's Church, under a Monument, by him prepared in his own Life; he appointed, by his Teſtament, that this Houſe ſhould be made a College, College, as has been already mentioned in Book I. Chap. XI.

SOMEWHAT Weſt from this Houſe, was one other large Houſe, wherein Sir William Hollis kept his Mayoralty, and was buried in the Pariſh-Church of St. Helen. Sir Andrew Jud alſo kept his Mayoralty there, and was buried at St. Helen's.

Alice Smith's Addition to Jud's Alms-Houſes.

Alice Smith of LONDON, Widow, Wife of Thomas Smith, of the ſame City, Eſq; and Cuſtomer of the Port of LONDON, in her laſt Will and Teſtament, bequeathed Lands to the Value of 15 l. by the Year, for ever, to the Company of Skinners, for the augmenting of the Penſions of certain Poor, inhabiting in eight Alms-Houſes, erected by Sir Andrew Jud, Knt. her Father, in the Pariſh of Great St. Helen's in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, LONDON. She hath alſo given in her laſt Will and Teſtament, to other charitable Uſes, as to the Hoſpitals, and to the Poor of other Pariſhes, and good Preachers, the Sum of 300 l. As alſo to the poor Scholars in the two Univerſities of Oxford and Cambridge, the Sum of 200 l. of which her laſt Will and Teſtament ſhe made her Son Thomas Smith, late Sheriff of LONDON, and Richard and Robert Smith, her Executors; who have performed the ſame according to her godly and charitable Mind.

The preſent State of Biſhopſgate Ward.

NOW to deſcribe the Streets and Places of this Ward in general, as they ſtand at preſent.

THIS Ward, within the Wall, did not ſuffer much by the Fire of LONDON, Anno 1666, and the Parts without the Gate not at all.

OF theſe two general Parts, firſt to begin with that within the Wall, wherein are theſe Streets, Lanes, and Alleys, in whole, or in Part, viz.

Gracechurch-ſtreet, on both Sides the Way, from Cornhill to Lombard-ſtreet, and Fenchurch-ſtreet.

Biſhopſgate-ſtreet in the whole.

St. Helen's, both the Great and Small, in the whole.

Crosby-ſquare, in the whole.

Camomile-ſtreet, in the whole.

Wormwood-ſtreet, but a ſmall Part. And in theſe Streets are divers Courts and Alleys.

Grace, or Graſs-church-ſtreet, a large and ſpacious Street, with well built and lofty Houſes, inhabited by good Tradeſmen; the whole Street begins at Eaſtcheap, and falls into Leadenhall-ſtreet at the four croſs Streets: But the Part in this Ward begins at Lombard-ſtreet End, as before noted.

IN this Street, on the Weſt Side, are theſe Courts and Places of Name, viz. Croſs-Keys-Inn, a Place of great Reſort, large, and well built, hath a Paſſage into George-yard. Bell-yard, a good, large, and well built Place, having a Paſſage into St. Peter's Church-yard, which Church, although, in Part, ſtanding in this Street, yet being in Cornhill Ward, is there treated of. Corbet's-court, a large, open, well built, and inhabited Place: Near this Court is Tobacco-roll-court, which has but one good Houſe in it: Church-alley, adjoining to St. Peter's Church: This Alley, with a turning Paſſage, falls into Cornhill.

THEN on the Eaſt Side of this Street, within the Limits of this Ward. which begins at Fenchurch-ſtreet, is Boar's-head-court, an open Place, taken up with Warehouſes for Wholeſale Dealers.

Leadenhall-herb-market, large, and not inferior to any in LONDON, is in this Ward; but the other Parts of Leadenhall, viz. the Fleſh Market, and the Fiſh Market, &c. are in Lime-ſtreet Ward. From this Street, the Ward, with ſomewhat a narrow Paſſage betwixt Cornhill and Leadenhall-ſtreet, falleth into Biſhopſgate-ſtreet.

Biſhopſgate-ſtreet is large, long, and ſpacious, and generally well inhabited: But the Fire of LONDON, 1666, not coming into theſe Parts, the Houſes, for the moſt Part, are old Timber Buildings, and nothing uniform. The like are the Parts without the Gate, but not ſo good, except in ſome Places, as Devonſhire-ſquare, &c.

IN this Street are theſe Courts, Alleys, and Places of Name, beginning on the Southern Part, and ſo towards the Gate, North. Sun-yard, a large Place, with a Paſſage into Broad-ſtreet, taken up for Stablings and Coach-Houſes, a Coachmaker, and ſome private Houſes.

Greſham College, a large, but old Building, which encompaſſeth a large ſquare Court, this being antiently the Seat of Sir Thomas Greſham, Knight, and now called Greſham College.

A little beyond this College are divers great Inns, viz. the Bull Inn, the Green Dragon, and the Four Swans, all three large, and of a conſiderable Trade and Reſort for Waggons and Stage-Coaches, that go Northwards. Here is the Queen's-Head Tavern, which hath a Paſſage into Queen's-Head-alley, leading into Broad-ſtreet. Sutton-court, but narrow, with a Free-ſtone Pavement, being a new built Court, with neat Brick Houſes; Peahen-alley, but ordinary. The Vine Inn, but indifferent, ſeated near Biſhopſgate.

THE Places Eaſt of Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, beginning at the Gate within, are as followeth:

Camomile-ſtreet, which runneth beyond St. Mary Axe, but the Part in this Ward goeth but a little beyond Cook's-court. This is a Street but of ſmall Account, either as to its Buildings, or Inhabitants. Clarke's-alley, but ordinary, eſpecially that Part which leadeth to Camomile-ſtreet. Angel-court, both ſmall and ordinary.

Little St. Helen's, a good large Place, having one or two Courts within it, with good old Timber Houſes, well inhabited, ſome by Merchants, at the lower End of which is ſeated Leatherſellers Hall, as ſaid before; and in another Part a Diſſenting Meeting-Houſe.

Great St. Helen's, a handſome, open, and large Court, with Rows of good Houſes, well inhabited; on the Eaſt Side of the Church and Church-yard, which is gracefully ſeated in the midſt of the Court, with Rows of Trees round about the Church-yard, very pleaſant in the Summer Seaſon; the Church is large and comely, and adorned with many ſtately Monuments, but wants a Steeple, the Bells hanging in a poor wooden Frame, not at all anſwerable to the reſt of the Church: Over the Church Door, on the South, is this Inſcription:

Sanctitas Decet
Sanctam Helenam. 1633.

PASSING this Court, the Paſſenger is led to two others, both of the ſame Name, and well inhabited; which, with a winding Paſſage, lead into St. Mary Axe, over-againſt St. Andrew Underſhaft Church; and in this Part of St. Helen's, on the South Side, is a Paſſage to Crosby-ſquare, which is the next Place of Remark on the Eaſt Side of Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, antiently a great Meſſuage. This large Building hath been of late Years converted into a curious open Square, with fair Brick Houſes, well inhabited by Gentry and Merchants; the Houſes having Paliſado Pales before, and Gardens behind them: And here is another large Meeting-Houſe. Out of this Square is a Paſſage through a back Gate-way, paſſing by a large Warehouſe, belonging to the Eaſt India Company, and ſo into Great St. Helen's.

len's. This Crosby Houſe, before its Re-building, was the Habitation of Sir James Langham, that eminent Citizen.

Biſhopſgate-Street without.

HAVING viewed the Ward within the Gate, we now paſs to that Part that ſtands without it.

THIS is alſo a very broad and ſpacious Street, but not ſo well built and inhabited as that within the Wall. It runs Northward a great Length, but no farther in the Freedom than to the Bars. In the Account of this Street, we begin next the Gate, at St. Botolph Biſhopſgate Church, already deſcribed, ſo take in all Places to the Bars on that Side; and then come back from the Bars on the other Side to Biſhopſgate again.

ADJOINING to St. Botolph Biſhopſgate Church-yard is the Rector's Houſe, and here an open Paſſage leads to a very magnificent Houſe, with a fine Garden, and a Court-Yard before it, graced with Trees, and a Stone Statue ſtanding on a Pedeſtal, in the Middle. This Houſe did formerly belong to the Family of the Daſhwoods, and is now in the Occupation of Sir Joſeph Eyles.

White-hart-court, a large open Place with handſome Buildings, eſpecially the Houſe that fronts the Court, which takes up the Breadth thereof.

THEN come you to Old Bethlem, or Bedlam, as it is vulgarly called; a Lane wherein ſtood an antient charitable Houſe for Keeping and Curing Lunaticks. But being old and much decayed in its Buildings, and likewiſe its Situation being very cloſe, and pent up with Houſes, the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, to whoſe Care it belonged, thought fit to erect another more commodious, which was finiſhed ſoon after the dreadful Fire of LONDON, in Moorfields, contiguous to London-wall; upon which this old Houſe was diſuſed, and now converted into other Buildings. The Place that generally goes by the Name of Old Bethlem, is very large, containing ſeveral Courts and Alleys; the principal Street comes out of Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, and runs into Moorfields, being a great Thorough-fare, and of ſome Note for its Inhabitants, who are Flax and Hemp-Dreſſers, Shoemakers, Yarn and Worſted Sellers, and Turners. In this Place are divers Courts and Alleys, as aforeſaid, which ſo run into one another that it is ſomething intricate to give a true Deſcription or Account of their Situation; the Names of them are, Bethlem-court, an open Place where the Hoſpital ſtood, at the upper End of which is a Paſſage out of the principal Street of Bethlem; Crown-court, large, with indifferent Buildings; Loom-alley, narrow, and ordinary; Houſewives-alley, narrow, which with a turning Paſſage runs a great Length; Halfmoon-alley, long, but narrow and ordinary, and falls into Round-court, ſomething open, but ordinary; and out of this Court is a Paſſage into Petty-france; Bullock-court, hath a Paſſage by Bethlem Church-yard into Cole's Rents, where are ſeveral Alleys and Courts within it; ſome without, and ſome with Names, as Roſe and Crown-court, a large and open Place, but ordinary, leading to Moorfields, and alſo into Halfmoon-alley, which leadeth into Biſhopſgate-ſtreet; near to this Alley is Baker's-court, which hath a Paſſage into Halfmoon-alley, as alſo into Vine-court, and Chequer-court; Bell-court, but ſmall, and oppoſite to Bethlem Church-yard; as is Three-leg-alley, which is narrow and ordinary, with a turning-Paſſage; likewiſe Dyer's-court, but ordinary, ſo called, as having a Dyer's Houſe at the upper End.

Petty-france, the greateſt Part of this is new built, and called New Broad-ſtreet; it is a moſt regular Building; the Houſes are after the Manner of thoſe by Hanover-ſquare and Burlington-gardens, and are the moſt elegant Buildings in the City; into this Place is a Paſſage from Bethlem-ſtreet, through Round-court, the Weſt End comes into Moorfields by the Poſtern-gate, and the Eaſt End runneth up to St. Botolph's Church-yard.

NORTHWARDS of Bethlem in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet is Still-alley, which is but ſmall; Garland-alley, an open Place, at the upper End of which is an Inn, as alſo a large Yard for Stabling and Coaches, and but ordinarily inhabited; Bottle-alley, hath a narrow Entrance, but openeth into a Free Stone Court, with well built Houſes, which ſaid Alley leadeth into another down Steps, bearing the ſame Name; and out of this is a Paſſage into Garland-alley; Swan-yard Inn, at the lower End hath Stables and Coach-houſes; Crown-yard, indifferent good, with an Entrance for Carts; Halfmoon-alley, ordinary, and ill inhabited; almoſt at the Entrance it divides itſelf, one Part falling into Halfmoon-court, which is a large Place, and the other Part in a ſtrait Line runs Weſtward into Moorfields; on the South Side of this Place is Stone-cutters-yard, an open but ordinary Place, and on the North Side is a ſmall Alley that leads to Dunning's-alley; Three Tun-alley, but indifferent; White Hind-court, an open Place with a narrow Paſſage into it, and indifferent as to its Houſes and Inhabitants; Sweetapple-court, ſo called from Sir John Sweetapple, Goldſmith, the Owner thereof, a handſome new built Place with an open Paſſage for Carts; this Place before its new Building was two, viz. Soper's-alley, and Horſhoe-yard; the upper End of this Court, or rather Lane, is taken up for Stables for Livery-Horſes, with Coach-houſes; Dunning's-alley, very large, and ordinary, the Weſt End divides itſelf, and falls into Halfmoon-alley, which leads into Moorfields; in this Alley are theſe Courts; Tripe-yard, very ſmall and ordinary; Adams-court, but ſmall, with a Paſſage into Sweetapple-court; Pump-court, but mean; Weſtminſter-hall-court, indifferent, with a Free Stone Pavement; Cripple-court, very ſmall and mean, with about two Houſes; Harrow-yard, alſo ſmall and ordinary; Bell-yard, inconſiderable; Lamb-alley, very narrow and ordinary, which, running a great Length, divides itſelf, one Part falling into Sugar-loaf-court, and the other into Long-alley; in this Alley are theſe Courts, Paved-court, Lamb-yard, and White-hart-yard, all three very mean; Angel-court, likewiſe very ordinary; Angel-alley, long and mean, at the upper End of which is a Timber-yard, and on the Weſt Side is a ſmall Court, and paſſing further leads into Angel-court, which is very inconſiderable. In this Alley are theſe Courts, Brown's-Court, but ſmall; Balam's-court; Sugar-loaf-yard; Pheaſant-cock-yard; Three-colts-alley, all four but ſmall and ordinary; Jews-harp-court, a handſome new built Place with a Free Stone Pavement; Brown's-yard, but ordinary; Cock-yard, very mean, at the upper End of which is Thacker's-court, but mean; Acorn-court, very narrow and ordinary; at the upper End it opens into a little Court, and out of this is a Paſſage into Skinner's-ſtreet; George-yard, inconſiderable; Skinner's-ſtreet, a handſome open Place with well built Houſes; Ship-yard, hath indifferent good Buildings, with a Free Stone Pavement; Primroſe-alley, long, narrow, and ordinary, hath a Paſſage into Long-alley; Gun-yard, indifferent long, at the upper End it opens itſelf into two Parts.

HAVING thus enumerated the various Places on the Weſt Side of Biſhopſgate, we come next to thoſe on the Eaſt Side, beginning next the Bars.

Biſhopſgate-ſtreet without, the Eaſt Side.

Mountague-court, a handſome open Place with a Free Stone Pavement, and good Buildings; Catharine-

Catharine-Wheel and George-yard, long, hath a Paſſage into Mountague-court, and another into the Artillery-ground; Red-lyon-brewhouſe, near which is the Red-lyon-Inn.

Artillery-lane, an open Place, with good Houſes, which, paſſing by Petticoat-lane, hath the South Weſt Side in this Ward, and runs behind Gun-ſtreet.

Wide [or White] Gate-ſtreet, a Place of ſome Account, falls into Petticoat-lane: In this Street is King's-head-court, as alſo Savage-court, both but indifferent Places; Roſe-alley, with a turning Paſſage falls into Petticoat-lane, an Alley of no great Account; Swedeland-alley, very ordinary; Sutton's-alley, both narrow and mean; Catharine-wheel-alley, narrow, and without Houſes, having only back Yards; it hath one Paſſage into Hand-alley, and another into Petticoat-lane: Nigh to this Alley, is Catharine-wheel Inn; Roſe-alley, long and narrow, falling into Hand-alley; Vine-court, a handſome Place, with good Houſes on the North Side, the South lying open to New-ſtreet, formerly called Hand-alley, having a Paſſage for Cart or Coach, its Buildings are good and well inhabited; King's-head-court, but ſmall with Free Stone Pavement; Three Slippers-court, alſo ſmall, with Free Stone Pavement; Hand-court, but ſmall, and falls into Roſe-alley; Walnut-tree-court, both ſmall and mean; Still-court, or Alley, indifferent good, falls into Houndſditch.

Devonſhire-ſquare, made out of an Houſe called Fiſher's Folly, an airy and creditable Place, and where the Counteſs of Devonſhire, in the Memory of Mr. Strype, who is now living, dwelt in great Repute for her Hoſpitality; it conſiſts of good Buildings, and they well inhabited by Merchants, and Perſons of Wealth. In this Square lived, about four Years ſince, no leſs than four Aldermen, at one Time, viz. Sir Edward Bellamy, Sir Richard Hopkins, Sir Edward Becher, and Sir Thomas Lomb. In the Middle of the Square, upon a Pedeſtal carved with Figures on each Side, and aſcended by three Steps, and encloſed with Iron Bars, ſtands a gilt Mercury: Hence is a Paſſage called Cavendiſh-court, which hath good Buildings, with a Free Stone Pavement, leading to Houndſditch.

More towards Biſhopſgate, is Magpye-alley, which is narrow; near unto this Alley is the Dolphin, an old Inn, large, and of good Account: And adjoining to Biſhopſgate is the Flying-horſe Inn.

Houndſditch, over-againſt St. Botolph's, Church, a long Street, running from Biſhopſgate to Aldgate: But the Part in this Ward goeth but to the Blue Anchor, the reſt is in Aldgate Ward. This Street is a Place of great Trade, and of Note for Saleſmen and Brokers, whoſe Dealings are in Apparel, Linnen and Upholſterers Goods. In this Street are a great many Alleys and Courts, of which ſome are without Name, and for the moſt Part are but ordinary, viz. Flying-horſe-yard, hath a turning Paſſage into Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, a Place of ſmall Account, only for Livery-ſtables; and Cavendiſh-court falls into Devonſhire ſtreet, already mentioned; Buckle-court, ſmall and ordinary.

There are to watch at Biſhopſgate, and the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, the Beadle, and 80 Watchmen, both within and without.

The Jury-men returned by the Inqueſts, are to ſerve for Jurors in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall in the Month of December.

Thus much for this Biſhopſgate Ward, which hath an Alderman, two Deputies, one without the Gate, another within, ſix Common Council-Men, ſeven Conſtables, ſeven Scavengers, 13 for the Wardmote Inqueſt, and a Beadle; it is taxed to the Fifteen at 13 l.

CHAP. VI.

The next is Broad-ſtreet Ward, which beginneth within Biſhopſgate, from where the Water-Conduit once ſtood, Weſtward on both Sides of the Street, by Alhallow's Church, to an Iron Grate on the Channel, which runneth into the Water-Courſe of Walbrook, before you come to the Poſtern called Moorgate: And this is the fartheſt Weſt Part of that Ward. Then you have Broad-ſtreet, from which the Ward taketh its Name, which ſtretcheth out of the former Street, from the Eaſt Corner of Alhallow's Church-yard, ſomewhat South to the Pariſh-Church of St. Peter Poor, on both Sides; and then by the South Gate of the Auguſtin-fryars, down Throckmorton-ſtreet, by Drapers Hall into Lothbury, to another Grate of Iron over the Channel there, whereby the Water runs into the Courſe of Walbrook; under the Eaſt End of St. Margaret's Church, certain Poſts of Timber are ſet up; and this is alſo the fartheſt Weſt Part of this Ward in the ſaid Street. Out of this Street it runs up Bartholomew-lane South to the North Side of the Exchange; then, more Eaſt out of the former Srreet, from over-againſt the Auguſtine-fryars Church South Gate, runs up another Part of Broad-ſtreet, South, to a Pump over-againſt St. Bennet's Church.

Then you have another Street, called Three Needle, or Thread-needle-ſtreet, beginning at the Pump by St. Martin's Outwitch Church-wall. This Street runs down on both Sides to Fink's, or Finch-lane, and half-way up that Lane to a Gate of a Merchant's Houſe on the Weſt Side. Then the aforeſaid Street from this Fink's-lane runs down by the Royal-Exchange, to the Stocks, and to a Place formerly called Scalding-houſe, or Scalding-wick, but now Scalding-alley; by the Weſt Side whereof, under the Pariſh-Church of St. Mildred, run the Courſe of Walbrook; And theſe are the Bounds of this Ward. The Places of eſpecial Note therein are theſe:

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS on LONDON-WALL.

Alhallows on London-Wall.

The Pariſh-Church of Alhallows on London-wall is ſo called, being dedicated to All Saints, and ſituated on the North Wall of LONDON, a little Eaſterly from Bethlem Hoſpital.

THIS Church is a Gothick Building, and, having eſcaped the Fire of LONDON, is not ſo beautiful as thoſe which were wholly new erected; it is well wainſcotted, and pewed, it is remarkable for having the Pulpit built in the Wall, and the Veſtry ſtands without the Wall; at the Eaſt End of this Church is a ſmall Gallery, the Front of which is adorned with Shields and their Compartments, elevated on ſmall Columns of the Tuſcan Order, which was new beautified, in the Year 1699, at the Charge of the Pariſh; Mr. Thomas Stanton, Church-warden.

AT the Altar the 10 Commandments, Lord's Prayer and Creed are done in Black, with Moſes, on the North, and Aaron on the South Side the Decalogue, finely painted, all under a Cornice, in the Middle whereof are the King's Arms. A little Southerly from this Altar is a Piece of Antiquity, being the Commandments done in an old Character upon Glaſs, which, hanging againſt a Window, are tranſparent; they are in a Sort of a triangular Frame, near five Feet high.

ON the North Wall is a very large Piece of Painting upon Cloth in a ſtrong Frame, of Queen Elizabeth lying on her Tomb with the Enſigns of Royalty and two golden Lions at her Head and Feet, and theſe Lines upon it:

To whoſe pious Memory his loving Wife erected this Monument.

Ask how he liv'd, and thou ſhall know his End;
He died a Saint to God, and to the Poor a Friend.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, for the Time being; and the Tythes are about 100 l. per Ann. It is rated in the King's Books at 8 l. 16 s. 8 d. Joining to the Parſonage-Houſe, which is at the Weſt End of the Church, there is a handſome Apartment building by the preſent Incumbent, who is the Reverend Mr. Woodford, the Lecturer is the Reverend Mr. Brown.

PRAYERS are Wedneſdays, Fridays, and Holidays at 11 o'Clock: Here are five Bells, but no Organ.

THE Veſtry conſiſts of thoſe who have ſerved or fined for Church-wardens and Conſtables.

THE Pariſh have a Houſe in Shoreditch of the yearly Value of 9 l.

The Pariſh Officers are:	The Ward Officers are:
2 Church-wardens.	1 Conſtable.
4 Overſeers of the Poor.	2 Inqueſts.
2 Sideſmen.	1 Scavenger.

THERE is a School called the Ward School, conſiſting of 50 Boys and 30 Girls, who are taught and cloathed, and 5 l. given with each when put out to Trades, &c. They come to each Church within the Ward by Turns, when there are Collections made for them.

THIS Pariſh begins at Bevis Marks, and extends along by the Wall towards Moorgate, as far as the Chain-Poſt near old Moorgate, and ends at Helmet-court, on the South Side of Wormwood-ſtreet, taking in all the Streets and Alleys within that Compaſs. It begins again at the Saracen's Head in Camomile-ſtreet, and reaches two Houſes beyond Cook's-court on that Side, and all the North Side from Little Moorgate to the Queen's-head and Sugar-loaf in Wormwood-ſtreet. It takes in four Houſes in St. Mary-axe, on the Eaſt Side, and five or ſix Houſes on the South Side of Camomile-ſtreet, and four Houſes on each Side of Broad-ſtreet.

THE Number of Houſes in this Pariſh are 300, of which 224 are in Broad-ſtreet Ward.

IN this Pariſh is Carpenters Hall, an old Building of Timber, with nothing very remarkable in it. Eaſtward of this was, in antient Times, a long high Wall of Stone, incloſing the North Side of a large Garden, adjoining to as large an Houſe, built in the Reigns of Henry VIII, and Edward VI, by Sir William Pawlet, Earl of Wilts, and after Marquis of Wincheſter, Lord Treaſurer of England. Through this Garden was a Foot-way, leading by the Weſt End of the Auguſtine-fryars Church ſtrait North, and opened ſomewhat Weſt from Alhallows Church, againſt London-wall, towards Moorgate, which Footway had Gates at each End, locked up every Night: But of later Times thoſe Gardens are all improved into good Buildings, and make a handſome Street, called Wincheſter-ſtreet, from the ſaid Marquis of Wincheſter, in which are ſeveral Houſes for Merchants and others, and at this Time the Office and Hall belonging to the York-Buildings Company. The great Houſe joining to the Gardens ſtretched to the North Corner of Broad-ſtreet, and then turned up the ſaid Street to the Eaſt End of Auguſtine-fryars Church, which the Lord Wincheſter pulled down, except the Weſt End thereof, incloſed from the Steeple and Choir, which was in the Year 1550 let to the Dutch Nation in LONDON, to be their Preaching Place.

Carpenters Hall

York-Building Houſe.

IN the 4th of King Edward VI, he granted by Letters Patents, dated the 24th of July 1551, all that Church, except the Choir to John Alaſco, and a Congregation of Germans, and other Strangers fled hither for the Sake of Religion, and to their Succeſſors, in puram & liberam Eleemoſynam, and the Church to be called The Temple of the Lord Jeſus; and Alaſco, to be the firſt Superintendent, and Gualter de Leone, Martinus Flandrus, Francis Riverius, and Richardus Gallus, to be the four firſt Miniſters: And this Gift hath been confirmed by the ſucceſſive Princes to the Dutch Strangers, and remains to them to this Day, for the holy Uſes of Prayer, Preaching and Adminiſtration of the Sacraments. This is a very ſpacious and comely Church, tho' but a Part of that Church that belonged to the Auguſtine-fryars: There is a handſome Library erected on the Weſt Part of it, which is very ornamental as well as uſeful: And the Miniſters which are now reduced to two, have convenient Houſes allotted them in the ſaid Fryars.

THE aforeſaid Charter is extant in the Collection of Records to The Hiſtory of the Reformation, Vol. II. Book I. Numb. LI.

IT has been cuſtomary for the Dutch and Walloon Churches, to pay a Deference to every Biſhop of LONDON, and to each Lord Mayor, upon their firſt Acceſs to their Dignity and Charge, and to preſent them with a Piece of Plate. Their Miniſters and Elders of both Churches, as Repreſentatives of the whole, at ſome convenient Time, make their Appearance before them, and one of the Miniſters makes a ſhort Speech to the Biſhop in Latin, to the Mayor in Engliſh. The Sum of what is ſpoken to the Biſhop is, "To "ſhew the original Plantation of their Church "in LONDON, by a Charter of King Edward VI, in the Year 1550, until they, with "many other pious Chriſtians, were fain to fly "the Realm in the Reign of Queen Mary: "But yet, that in the Year 1558, upon the Succeſs of the Reformed Religion, reſtored under "Queen Elizabeth, they began to fly hither a"gain by little and little, as to a Sanctuary, "from the Perſecution of the Duke D'Alva, the "Guiſes, and Prince of Parma. She, a true "Mother in Iſrael, reſtoring them the Place and "Privileges granted them by King Edward. "That King James I, her Succeſſor, willed this "Liberty of theirs to remain to them inviolate. "That their Miniſters have all along, to that "Time, been Men of Piety and Learning, pre"ſerving Peace and Brotherhood with the Eng"liſh Churches. And that as for the Biſhops of "this Dioceſe of LONDON, it appeared "from their Records, how lovingly in their "Reſtoration, Grindal received them, and what "Edwin Sandys, the next Biſhop moſt pru"dently performed, in appeaſing certain unſea"ſonable Controverſies ariſen among them, and "how Brotherly all the reſt of the Biſhops of "LONDON ſince had offered their Aſſiſt"ances to them. The like they certainly pro"miſed themſelves from him; and ſo congra"tulating him on his Preferment, and his Merit "of it, for his Piety and Eloquence, ſo well "known in Court, in the Univerſity, in the Ci"ty, and whole Kingdom, they conclude with "a Prayer, That GOD would endue him with "his Holy Spirit, that by his Miniſtry, the Glo"ry of GOD might be promoted, and his Church "edified.

THE Import of their Addreſs to the Lord Mayor is, "That they appear there before his "Honour, to congratulate him in the Name of "their Congregations, according to their yearly "Cuſtom. They pray Almighty GOD, by his "Holy Spirit, to qualify him for the great Du"ties belonging to his high Office and Calling, "that GOD's Glory may be advanced, and the "Church edified. And laſtly, beſeeching him, "according to the Example of his Predeceſſors, "to be favourable unto them Strangers, fled hi"ther, at firſt, for the true Profeſſion of the "Goſpel, and hitherto Charitably entertained "in this Honourable City". And then they Dine with the Lord Mayor.

TO which may be added a Word or two more of the Countenance, Authority has always given to this Dutch Church, when upon the Acceſs of King James I. to the Crown of Great Britain, Anno 1603, the ſaid Church made their humble Addreſs to him, he anſwered them in French, "That the Queen departed, made herſelf re"nowned through the whole World by two "Things; the one was, that ſhe always enter"tained and cheriſhed the Service of God in the "Kingdom, and the other, her Hoſpitality to"wards Strangers. Which Commendation of "her's he was deſirous to inherit. That if Occa"caſion had offered itſelf, when he was at a Di"ſtance, and lived as in a Corner of the World, "he would have made known his good Affection "to them: But now that it had pleaſed God to "conſtitute him King of this Country, he ſwore "to them, that if any moleſted them in their "Churches, they addreſſing to him, he would "avenge them. And that tho' they were not "his proper Subjects, yet he would maintain "and cheriſh them, as much as any Prince in the "World." He took Notice alſo of their former good Deſerts to the Queen and Kingdom; that is, "How they had always prayed for the "late Queen, and never gone beyond the Li"mits of their Duty; and how they had enriched "the Realm with many Arts, Manufactures, and "Sciences uſeful to the Publick.

FURTHER, in the Year 1642, they preferred a Petition to the Houſe of Lords, in Behalf of themſelves and of the reformed Foreign Churches in the Realm; as in Norwich, Colcheſter, Canterbury, Sandwich, &c. to this Purpoſe: "That "there might be an Ordinance of Parliament for "ſettling the Liberty and Exerciſe of their Reli"gion and Diſcipline, as they were uſed beyond "the Seas reſpectively in the reformed Churches "of their ſeveral Nations: And which they had "hitherto enjoyed by the Charter of King Edward VI. of ever bleſſed Memory, authorized "by his Parliament, and the gracious Favour of "all the ſucceeding Princes." Particularly,

"Firſt, That they might have free Liberty to "chooſe and appoint their own Miniſters and all "other Officers belonging to their Churches, ac"cording to their Diſcipline.

"Secondly, That no Member of their Congre"gations, being under the Cenſure of their Diſ"cipline, by reaſon of ſome ſcandalous Offence "committed, might be received as Member of "any other Church without a Certification from "his own Church.

"Thirdly, That no Church or Congregation of "Foreigners ſhould be authorized in this Realm, "which was not ſubject reſpectively to the Synods "of their ſeveral Nations." They added Reaſons for the third Article.

HEREUPON on Saturday, Jan. 21, 1642, (by Report of the Earl of Northumberland) the Houſe ordered, "That there be an Ordinance of Parlia"ment, for ſettling of the Liberty and Excerciſe "of their Religion and Diſcipline, as they are "uſed beyond the Seas reſpectively in the re"formed Churches of their ſeveral Nations, "which they have hitherto enjoyed by the Char"ter of King Edward VI. authorized by Parlia"ment, and the Favour of all ſucceeding Princes "of the reformed Religion, Queen Elizabeth, "King James, and his Majeſty that now is. In "particular Firſt, &c. as above in the three Arti"cles."

ABOUT the Year 1704, this Dutch Congregation in Auguſtine-fryars built, at their common Charge, upon a Piece of Ground in Middle Moorfields, purchaſed by them, a handſome Alms-Houſe, containing 26 Rooms, for maintaining their Poor, either Men or Women, beſides one complete Room where the Elders and Deacons meet weekly to pay the Penſions of the Alms-Folks, or to do other Buſineſs relating to their Poor. The Penſions are either more or leſs according as their Neceſſities require. The Rooms are not ſo appropriated to the Dutch Nation, but that any Engliſh Woman, whoſe Husband had been a Member of the ſaid Church, is capable of being admitted. And oftentimes it happens, that there be more Engliſh than Dutch harboured there.

THAT Portion of this Church which was Eaſt, and not granted to theſe Strangers, the aforeſaid Pawlet, Earl of Wilts, obtained in the fourth alſo of the ſaid King, who of his ſpecial Grace granted him totam ſuperiorem partem Eccleſiæ nuper fratrum Auguſtinen. infra Civitatem London. viz. Le Quere, La Cros Ile, & capellas ibidem.

THIS other Part then, namely, the Steeple, Choir, and Side Iſles to the Choir adjoining, the Earl reſerved to Houſhold Uſes, as for Stowage of Corn, Coal, and other Things. His Son and Heir, Marquis of Wincheſter, ſold the Monuments of Noblemen (there buried) in great Number, the Pave Stones, and whatſoever, (which coſt many thouſands) for one hundred Pounds, and in Place thereof made Stabling for Horſes. He cauſed the Lead to be taken off the Roofs of the Church, and laid Tile in ſtead thereof; which Exchange of Lead for Tile, proved not ſo profitable as he looked for, but rather to his Diſadvantage.

THIS Auguſtine Fryars Church is very large, it had formerly a moſt fine ſpired Steeple, ſmall, high, and ſtrait; it was founded by Humphrey Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, in the Year 1253. Reginald Cobham gave his Meſſuage in LONDON, to enlarge it, in the Year 1344. Humphrey Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, re-edified this Church in the Year 1354, whoſe Body was there buried in the Choir. The ſmall ſpired Steeple of this Church was overthrown by a Tempeſt of Wind in the Year 1362, but was raiſed anew, and was ſtanding in the Year 1603, when Stow ſet forth his ſecond Edition; but even then in a very dangerous, tottering Condition; but ſuch was the venerable Regard the City had of it, that a Petition being preferred to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, by the Inhabitants of St. Peter Poor, (in which Pariſh that Church of St. Auguſtine's ſtood) they readily concurred to promote the Repair thereof all they could, by uſing their Intereſt with the Marquis of Wincheſter, to whom the Property of that Monaſtery, and the Lands adjoining, belonged, (being granted to his Anceſtors at the Diſſolution of Monaſteries) and for that Purpoſe drew up a Letter to him, in the moſt pathetic Words, and moving Arguments, exciting him to go in Hand with that Work; which was as followeth:

Right Honourable, my very good Lord,

" THERE hath been offered of late unto " this Court, a moſt juſt and earneſt Pe- " tition, by divers of the chiefeſt of the Pariſh " of St. Peter Poor in LONDON, to move " us to be humble Suitors unto your Lordſhip, " in a Cauſe which is ſufficient to ſpeak for it- " ſelf, without the Mediation of any other, viz. " for the Repairing of the ruinous Steeple of the " Church, ſome Time called The Auguſtine Fry- " ars, now belonging to the Dutch Nation, ſitu- " ated in the ſame Pariſh of St. Peter Poor, the Fall " whereof (which, without ſpeedy Prevention, " is near at Hand) muſt needs bring with it not " only a great Deformity to the whole City, it " being, for Architecture, one of the beautifuleſt " and rareſt Spectacles thereof, but a fearful imi- " nent Danger to all the Inhabitants next ad- " joining. Your Lordſhip being moved herein, " (as we underſtand) a Year ſince, was pleaſed " to give honourable Promiſes, with Hope of " preſent Help, but the Effects not following, " according to your honourable Intention, we " are bold to renew the ſaid Suit again, eftſoons " craving at your Lordſhips Hands, a due Con- " ſideration of ſo worthy a Work, as to help to " build up the Houſe of GOD, one of the " chiefeſt Fountains, from whence hath ſprung " ſo great Glory to your Lordſhip's moſt noble " Deſcendency of the Pawlets, whoſe Steps " your Lordſhip muſt needs follow, to continue " to all Poſterity the Fame of ſo bountiful Be- " nefactors both to Church and Commonwealth.

" SO that I truſt we ſhall have the leſs Need " to importune your Lordſhip in ſo reaſonable a " Suit: Firſt, Becauſe it doth principally con- " cern your Lordſhip, being the Owner of the " greateſt Part of the ſaid Spear, or Staple: But " eſpecially that by diſburſing of a ſmall Sum of " Money, to the Value of 50, or 60 l. your " Lordſhip will do an excellent Work, very " helpful to many, and moſt grateful to all, as " well Engliſh as Strangers; who by this means " ſhall have Cauſe to magnify to the World, this " ſo honourable and charitable an Action. And " I and my Brethren ſhall much rejoice to be " relieved herein by your Lordſhip's moſt noble " Diſpoſition, rather than to fly the laſt Re- " medy of the Law of the Land, which in this " Caſe hath provided a Writ, De reparatione " facienda.

" THUS hoping as aſſuredly on your Lord- " ſhip's Favour, as we pray inceſſantly for your " continual Felicity, we humbly take Leave of " your Lordſhip. From London the 4th of Au- " guſt 1600.

Your Lordſhip's humbly to be commanded,

Here is alſo a very handſome Marble Monument ſet up for Sir Dennis Dutry, who died in the Year 1728; the Inſcription, as upon moſt of the other, is in the Dutch Language.

At the Eaſt End of this Church, between the two Iſles, is a Riſing with ſeveral Steps both from the North and South Sides, and likewiſe on the Weſt, unto a large Platform, whereon is placed a long Table with Seats againſt the Wall, and Formes round, for the Uſe of the holy Communion. On the Eaſt Wall at a due Height are the Ten Commandments in Dutch, largely written in Golden Letters.

On the Weſt End over the Skreen is the Library, inſcribed thus, Eccleſiæ Londino-Belgicæ Bibliotheca, extructa, ſumptibus Mariæ Dubois, 1659.

In this Library are divers valuable MSS and Letters of Calvin, Peter Martyr, and other Foreign Reformers.

The Church is very large and ſpacious, ſupported with two Rows of Stone Pillars. The Seats are all long Benches lined with green Cloth, ſtuffed for eaſy ſitting. The Floor with Deal-Boards laid over the Stones for Warmth: The Windows on the South Side have painted on them JESUS TEMPLE, in ſeveral Places.

The preſent State of this Dutch Church in Auguſtine-fryars, and the Congregation of Strangers or the Children of Strangers belonging to it, is thus:

They have two Miniſters, who preach twice every Sunday, and once in the Week beſides; and they adminiſter the Holy Sacrament Monthly, the laſt Sunday in the Month; and exchange Churches every firſt Sunday in the Month with the Walloon Congregation, for their Reception of the Sacrament, their own Church in Threadneedle-ſtreet, being too ſmall for them. The Miniſters have allowed them a good yearly Salary, and Houſes to dwell in, conveniently ſituated, near the ſaid Church, and a competent Subſiſtance for their Widows. M. Vandermerſh, a Merchant, and one of their Elders, built a Houſe, at his own Coſt, for one of the Miniſters, on which he laid out 400 l. and afterwards finiſhed it within, at a conſiderable farther Expence, greatly to his Commendation, and the laſting Memory of his Charity, and good Will to the Church.

They maintain their Poor at their own Charge, which ſtands them in near 1200 l. per Ann. Part of which they collect every Sunday, and Week-day, when there is a Sermon, at the Church-door, by Deacons of the Church, who ſtand there with Baſons to receive what the People are pleaſed to put in.

Near this Church was formerly a Glaſs-houſe, where Venice Glaſſes were made; and Venetians employed in the Work: And Mr. James Howel, an ingenious Man in King James I's Reign, was Steward to this Houſe (who was afterwards Clerk of the Council to King Charles I.) When he left this Place, ſcarce able to bear the continual Heat of it, he thus wittily expreſs'd himſelf, That had he continued ſtill Steward, he ſhould in a ſhort Time have melted away to nothing among thoſe hot Venetians. This Place afterwards became Pinners Hall: And of later Years ſome Part was fitted up with a Pulpit and Pews for Diſſenters from the Church of England to meet in, and there, on Tueſdays, was preached the Merchants Lecture, as it is called.

On the Eaſt Side of this Broad-ſtreet, which is the back Part of Greſham Houſe in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, are placed eight Alms-Houſes, built of Brick and Timber, by Sir Tho. Greſham, Knt. for eight Alms-Men, there placed Rent free; and receive each of them by his Gift, 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* yearly, for ever.

The PARISH of St. PETER POOR.

The Pariſh of St. Peter Poor.

Next to where Pawlet Houſe of old Time ſtood, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Peter Poor, ſo called, as being on its firſt Building dedicated to St. Peter, and Poor is added, to diſtinguiſh it from that of Cornhill, and others; not becauſe this Pariſh is poorer than others, it being inhabited chiefly by rich Merchants, and other Traders; but probably from ſuch as affected the Name, or Habit, of Poor, before the Diſſolution of the Fryary, of or belonging to St. Auguſtine's, near adjoining to it.

This Pariſh hath been alſo called St. Peter's by St. Auguſtine-fryars; as appears by an Inſtrument in the Tower Records, for Founding a Chauntry at St. Botolph's Biſhopſgate, where the Founder gives one Tenement, cum parvo Gardino cum pertinentiis in Paroch. St. Petri juxta fratres St. Auguſtini in Warda de Broad-ſtreet.

This Church, in the Year 1625, was enlarged on the North Side, upward of eight Feet, at the Charge of Sir William Garaway, Knight; whoſe Arms are in two Windows there, that coſt 400 l. In 1616, the Church was new pewed, and the Eaſt Window enlarged in 1617; the Roof and Inſide of the Church were beautified, the Gallery at the Weſt End, and the Steeple were new built, and Bells new caſt, Anno 1629, and 1630; all which being done at the Charge of the Pariſh amounted to near 1200 l. and having very narrowly eſcaped burning by the Fire in 1666, (the Flames abating cloſe by the Weſt End.) It remain'd in a bad Condition till the Year 1716, when when it was again repaired, and both inſide and out new beautified.

THE Roof is lined with Board painted; the Out-ſide covered with Slate. It is ſupported by Gothick Columns and Arches.

IT is paved with Tile and Stone, and there are three Iſles. The Walls are Brick and Stone, covered with a Finiſhing; and the Steeple and Tower are Brick.

THE Ornament is but mean at the Eaſt End. The Decalogue is in two Tables, placed above the Wainſcot, and painted on Glaſs, under a Glory, between two Cherubims, and dated 1634. The two Tables of the Lord's-Prayer and Creed, are on the North Side. It is alſo pewed with Oak, and there is ſome Wainſcot.

THE Dimenſions are, Length 54 Feet; Breadth 51; Altitude about 23 Feet; and that of the Steeple, being a Tower and Turret, about 75 Feet; in which Tower are five Bells.

BURIED in this Church,

Richard Fitz-Williams, Merchant-Taylor, 1520.

Epitaphium.

So frail and brittle is the Life of Man,
That who lives longeſt, liveth but a Span.
In Youth and Age all die, God hath ſo doom'd,
The Earth returns to Earth to be entomb'd.
WADSON, who of that Subſtance was compos'd,
Lies in his Mother's Center here enclos'd.
A Sheet doth hide his Face, but not his Fame,
The Grave contains his Corpſe, not his good Name,
For his good Name out-lives (O bleſſed Man)
When others good Names die, before they can.
The ſixth of January, that fatal Day,
Sixteen hundred twenty-four, he did pay
The Debt to Nature, which all Men do know,
He was no ſooner born, but he did owe.

If

If Virtues could have ſtay'd the Hand of Death,
Then WADSON ſtill had drawn his vital Breath.
His Soul above, his Worths do here remain,
Till Chriſt ſhall come to raiſe him up again.
Thus he enjoys Heaven's Immortality,
And here on Earth, Earth's happy Memory.

THE Number of Houſes about 140.

ON the South Side and at the Weſt End of the St. Auguſtine-fryars, were ſeveral handſome Houſes built, namely, in Throgmorton-ſtreet, eſpecially one very large and ſpacious in the Place of old and ſmall Tenements by Thomas Cromwell, Maſter of the King's Jewel-Houſe, after that Maſter of the Rolls, then Lord Cromwell, Knt. Lord Privy Seal, Vicar General, Earl of Eſſex, High Chamberlain of England, &c. Mr. Stow makes great Complaints of this Lord's ill Uſage of his Father, who had a Garden and Summer-Houſe, joining to the North Pales of my Lord's Garden: This Summer-Houſe was looſed from the Ground, and carried on Rowlers into his Father's Garden, 22 Feet, without any Warning given to him, or being able to obtain any other Anſwer, when he ſpoke of it to the Surveyors of the Work, than, That their Maſter had commanded them ſo to do.

THIS Houſe of the Lord Cromwell was bought by the Company of Drapers, in LONDON, and is now their Common Hall. It is a very ſpacious noble Building, containing the four Sides of a Quadrangle, each Side elevated on Columns, and adorned with Arches, by which there are conſtituted Piazzas, and between each Arch is a Shield, Mantling, and other Fret Work. To this Hall belongs a large and pleaſant Garden, with Walks. The Room called the Hall is adorned within with a ſtately Screen, Enrichment and fine Wainſcot, and there are ſeveral large Rooms wainſcotted with Oak. Drapers Hall.

FROM this Hall on the ſame Side of the Way, are ſeveral good Houſes till you come to Bartholomew-lane, ſo called from St. Bartholomew's Church, at the South Eaſt Corner thereof. In this Lane are ſeveral good Houſes on both Sides and ſo are there likewiſe in the other Street, which ſtretcheth from the St. Auguſtine's-fryars South Gate to the Corner, over-againſt St. Bennet Fink Church. Among other Buildings in this Street, the moſt antient was a Houſe appertaining to the Abbot of St. Alban's. There was alſo a large Free-School, belonging to the diſſolved Hoſpital of St. Anthony, and there are now many good Houſes leading up Threadneedle-ſtreet to the Pariſh-Church of St. Martin Outwich.

The

The PARISH of St. MARTIN OUTWICH.

St. Martin Outwich Church.

THIS Church is so called, as being dedicated to the Memory of St. Martin, and the Word Outwich (or more truly Oteswich) was added, because, as Mr. Stow has it, Martin de Oteswich, Nicholas de Oteswich, William de Oteswich, and John de Oteswich, were Founders thereof, and were there interred, as appears by an antient Record, but shews no Date.

THE Founders Names are as above; and tho' we cannot learn the just Time, when the Church was first built, yet this very Church seems to be at least of 250 Years standing, for there are painted on the Glass of the South East Window these Arms.

ARGENT, on a Bend Sable, three covered Cups of the Field, impaled with Gules, a Saltier Argent: And immediately under is the Date 1483.

BEFORE which Time however this must of Necessity have been a Church, for John Churchman, who acted as Trustee for the two last named Oteswiches, was Sheriff of LONDON, Anno 1385. He was a Person of publick Spirit; for he built a Custom-House near the Tower of LONDON, gave (for the said Oteswiches) the Advowson of the Church, four Messuages, 17 Shops, and their Appurtenances to the Merchant-Taylors Company for the Use of the Poor, and the said Mr. Churchman did many Things for the Use and Benefit of this City.

THE Vestry was repaired, and beautified, Anno 1659, and the Fire in 1666, not having damnified the Church, it was repaired and beautified in the Year 1708, and again new painted in the Year 1731.

THE main Parts of this Structure is old, the Walls of Brick and Stone covered with a Finishing, and the Roof with Tile, supported with Gothic and Tuscan Stone Columns and Arches, and the Ground of the Chancel is one Step higher than that of the Church, which hath but two Isles.

THE Finishing and Ornament is handsome enough, considering its Antiquity. The Roof is cieled with Wood, divided into Pannels, and painted.

IT is wainscotted mostly eight, but at the East End about 11 Feet high, and pewed with Oak, whose Ends and Doors are carved partly in Form of the Gothic Arch. The Altar-piece has the Commandments depicted in black Letters on Gold between the Portraits of Moses and Aaron, the first holding a Rod, the latter, on his Head a a Mitre, on his Breast, the Plate of precious Stones, called Urim and Thummim (or Lights and Perfection) below that are 6 Bells, and in his Hand, and Incense Pot. These are placed between two Pilasters, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed, in Frames, painted in Perspective; over the Commandments is a Glory, and above that a Cornice adorned with Pyramidal Figures, most of which Work is pretty old. Behind which is a large Window, in the Middle whereof is painted the King's Arms, and two other Coats on either Side, supposed to be those of Benefactors to the Church.

ON the South Side the Communion Table is a handsome Monument with this Inscription:

Remarkable Places.

South-Sea-Houſe.

Overagainst the Church, is the new South-Sea-Houſe, a moſt magnificent Structure of Brick and Stone, about a Quadrangle; ſupported by Stone Pillars of the Tuſcan Order, which form a fine Piazza. There is a beautiful Front of the Dorick Order, in Threadneedle-ſtreet. The Walls are of a very great Thickneſs; and there are Vaults underneath the Houſe, arched over, to preſerve their Treaſure and rich Merchandize from Fire. The ſeveral Offices for the Buſineſs of the Company, are admirable well diſpoſed; and the great Hall for Sales, the Dining-Room, Galleries, and Chambers, are hardly to be parallelled. There is another Houſe, which the Company make uſe of, and was their only Office, before the Part laſt mentioned was erected, which goes into Broad-ſtreet; it is a very old Building, and was formerly the Exciſe-Office.

Merchant-Taylors Hall.

Some ſmall Diſtance from St. Martin Outwich Church, is the Merchant-Taylors Hall, appertaining to the Guild and Fraternity of St. John Baptiſt, Time out of Mind called of Taylors and Linnen Armourers of LONDON: For King Edward I, in the 28th of his Reign, confirmed this Guild, by the Name of Taylors and Linnen Armourers, and alſo gave to the Brethren thereof, Authority every Year at Midſummer to hold a Feaſt, and to chooſe a Governor, or Maſter, with Wardens. Whereupon, the ſame Year, 1300, on the Feaſt Day of the Nativity of St. John Baptiſt, they choſe Henry de Ryall to be their Pilgrim: For the Maſter of this Myſtery (as one that travelled for the whole Company) was then ſo called, until the 11th Year of Richard II, and the four Wardens were then called Purveyors of Alms (now called Quarterage) of the ſaid Fraternity.

This Merchant-Taylors Hall, ſome Time pertaining to a worſhipful Gentleman, named Edmund Crepin (Dominus Crepin, after ſome Record) he, in the Year of Chriſt 1331, the 6th of Edward III, for a certain Sum of Money to him paid, made his Grant thereof, by the Name of his principal Meſſuage, in the Wards of Cornhill and Broad-ſtreet (which Sir Oliver Ingham, Knight, did then hold) to John of Yakeſly, the King's Pavilion-maker. This was called, the New Hall, or Taylors Inn, for a Difference from their old Hall, which was about the back Side of the Red Lion in Baſing-lane.

This Merchant-Taylors Hall is a ſpacious Building, having at the Entrance, in the Front, a handſome large Door-Caſe, adorned with two Demy Columns, their Entablature and Pediment of the Compoſite Order; and the Inſide is adorned with Hangings, which contain the Hiſtory of their Patron St. John Baptiſt; and which, tho' old, are very curious and valuable.

SOME Diſtance Weſt from this Hall is Finke's-lane, ſo called from Robert Finke, and Robert Finke his Son; James Finke, and Roſamond Finke. Robert Finke the Elder, new built the Pariſh-Church of St. Bennet, commonly called Finke, from the Founder; his Tenements were both of St. Bennet, and St. Martin Outwich; the one half of this Finke-lane is of Broad-ſtreet Ward, to wit, on the Weſt Side up to the great and principal Houſe, wherein the ſaid Finke dwelt.

The PARISH of St. BENNET FINKE.

St. Bennet Finke Church.

IN Threadneedle-ſtreet aforeſaid, a little Eaſtward from the Royal Exchange, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Bennet, or more properly St. Benedict; ſo called, being dedicated to St. Benedict the Abbot, Founder of the Order of Benedictine Monks (who was bred up at Rome, ſaid to do many Miracles, and to be a very holy Man, foretelling his own Death ſix Days before, which accordingly happened, Anno 518) and the Word Finke was added, becauſe the Church was founded by one Finke, as before-mentioned. It was repaired, and beautifully adorned, at the Pariſh Charge, amounting to 400 l. in the Year 1633; and in the Year 1666, being conſumed by the dreadful Fire, was again re-built, and finiſhed in the Year 1673.

THE Church is well built of Stone, and is a fine Piece of Architecture; the Body of the Church within being a compleat Elipſis (Oval) which appears a very commodious Form for the Auditory, and the Roof is an Eliptical Cupola (at the Center of which is a Turret glazed round) environed with a Cantaleever Cornice, and ſupported with ſix Stone Columns of the Compoſite Order; between each of which is a ſpacious Arch, and large ſix light Windows, made ſo by ſtrong Munions and Tranſums.

IT is well wainſcotted round with right Wainſcot, ſeven Feet and a half high, as alſo well pewed, and a handſome Pulpit of the ſame.

The Altar-Piece conſiſts of four ſmall Columns, with their Entablature of the Compoſite Order.

Between the two middle Columns, are the Commandments done in Gold Letters, on Black, adorn'd with Palm and Laurel Branches, and above this the King's Arms. Between the two North Columns are Moſes, and the two South Aaron well painted, over each of which is a circular Pediment, and on each Pediment, a Shield, with Compartment and Feſtoon. North from Moſes is the Lord's Prayer, and South from Aaron the Creed, done likewiſe in Gold upon Black, over each of which is a Cornice and triangular Pediment, all carved in right Wainſcot, and incloſed with ſtrong Rail and Ballaſter, within which the Floor is paved with Black and White Marble.

HERE is alſo a very beautiful Font, the Cover whereof is adorned with Feſtoons, Pine-apples, &c.

AND as a further Ornament to the Church, there is in one of the South Windows a South declining Weſt Dial, finely painted, and has this Motto:

Sine Lumine Inane.

AND in the Window a little Eaſtward from this, that worthy Benefactor (hereafter-mentioned) Mr. Holman's Coat of Arms, which are painted on the Glaſs, viz. Vert a Chevron between three Pheons Argent, which has a fine Compartment.

THE Length (or greater Diameter) of the Church, is 63 Feet, Breadth (or leſſer Diameter) 48, and the Altitude thereof 49. The Steeple conſiſts of a ſquare Tower, over which is a large Cupola, and above that a Spire, which are together above 110 Feet, and the Tower is adorned with Freſco Work of Feſtoons, &c.

ON the North Side of the Entrance into the Chancel are the Names of the Benefactors, done in Gold Letters on Black, adorned with a carved Frame, and an arching Pediment, under which is 1678, viz.

George Holman, Eſq; gave	1000

And there are ſeveral others of leſſer Note.

ON the Inſide of the Doors made to ſhut in this Table, in Gold Letters are theſe Words of our Saviour, Luke x. 37.

Abi & tu fac ſimiliter.

ON the South Side of the Entrance into the Choir, is, in a Wainſcot Frame, adorned with a circular Pediment, &c. a Table of Fees for Marriages and Burials, over which Table is done in Gold Letters theſe Words.

Fear God, Honour the King.

AND on the Inſide of the Doors that incloſe this Table, theſe Words:

Date Cæſari quæ Cæſaris, & quæ Dei Deo.

i. e.

Give unto Cæſar the Things that are Cæſar's, and to God the Things that are God's.

THE Number of Houſes about 100.

IN this Pariſh of Bennet Finke, certain Gaming-Houſes for Cards and Dice were noted; at which ſeveral Gameſters uſed to reſort. And about the Year 1551, one of theſe Houſes and the Gameſters there, were inform'd againſt to the Officers of the Exchequer, by one John Foſter of London; namely, That Andrew Cutler, Richard Weſterfield, Roger Ireland, John Bound, and William Wright, of London, by the Space of 40 Days in the ſaid Pariſh, did maintain a certain Houſe of playing at Dice and Cards contrary to the Law provided therefore. There came accordingly a Warrant to the Exchequer, that they had forfeited every one 40 s. and ſo the Exchequer was warranted to ſurceaſe for ever all Proceſſes, Executions, Quarrels and Demands, and they be diſcharged of the Premiſes.

Some Diſtance Weſt is the Royal Exchange, whereof more ſhall be ſpoken in the Ward of Cornhill, and a Copper-Plate given of the ſame.

ON the North Side of Threadneedle-ſtreet, near where the French Church now ſtands, was formerly the Hoſpital of St. Anthony, and ſome Time a Cell too of St. Anthony of Vienna. For King Henry III, granted to the Brotherhood of St. Anthony of Vienna, a Place amongſt the Jews, which was ſome Time their Synagogue, and had been built by them, about the Year 1231. But the Chriſtians obtained of the King, that it ſhould be dedicated to our Bleſſed Lady: And ſince, an Hoſpital being there built, was called St. Anthony's of London. It was founded in the Pariſh of St. Bennet Finke, for a Maſter, two Prieſts, one School-Maſter, and twelve poor Men: After which Foundation, amongſt other Things given to this Hoſpital, one was a Meſſuage and Garden, [whereon was built the fair large Free-School] and one other Parcel of Ground containing 37 Feet in Length, and 18 Feet in Breadth, in the Pariſh of St. Bennet Finke. This was given to the Maſter of the Hoſpital, to the enlarging of their Church, and Houſe to the ſame belonging, for a Maſter, 14 Prieſts, &c. in the 7th of Henry VI.

MOREOVER King Henry VI, in the 20th of his Reign, gave unto John Carpenter, Doctor of Divinity, Maſter of St. Anthony's Hoſpital, and to his Brethren and their Succeſſors for ever, his Manor of Ponington, with the Appurtenances, with certain Penſions and Portions of Milburn, Turneworth, Charlton, and Up-wimburne, in the County of Southampton, towards the Maintenance of five Scholars in the Univerſity of Oxford, to be brought up in the Faculty of Arts, after the Rate of 10 d. per Week for every Scholar: So that the ſaid Scholars, before their going to Oxford, be firſt inſtructed in the Rudiments of Grammar, at the College of Eaton, founded by ſaid King.

IN the Year 1474, Edward the IVth granted to William Say, Batchelor of Divinity, Maſter of the Hoſpital of St. Anthony's, to have Prieſts, Clerks, Scholars, poor Men, and Brethren of the ſame, Clerks, or Laymen, Queriſtors, Proctors, Meſſengers, Servants in Houſhold, and other Things whatſoever, like as the Prior, and Convent of St. Anthony of Vienna, &c. This Hoſpital was annexed, united, and appropriated unto the Collegiate Church of St. George in Windſor, about the Year 1485, as was reported by Sir Anthony Baker, Maſter of the ſaid Hoſpital to Sir John Woolfborne, Knt. and other Commiſſioners in the 37th of Henry VIII.

THE Proctors of this Houſe were to collect the Benevolence of charitable Perſons, towards the Building and Supporting thereof: And among other Things remarkable in this Place, Mr. Stow ſays, he remember'd that the Officers charged with with the Overſight of the Markets in this City, did ſeveral Times take from the Market-People, Pigs ſtarved, or otherwiſe unwholeſome for Man's Suſtenance; theſe they uſed to ſlit in the Ear; and one of the Proctors for St. Anthony's would tie a Bell about the Neck of one of them, and let it feed on the Dunghills, no Man would hurt or take it up; but if any gave them Bread, or other Feeding, ſuch they would know, watch for, and daily follow, whining till they had ſomewhat given them: From whence aroſe the Proverb, That ſuch-a-one would follow ſuch-a-one, and whine like an Anthony Pig. But if one of theſe Pigs grew to be fat, and came to good Liking, as oftentimes they would, then the Proctor took it up for the Uſe of the Hoſpital.

SINCE the ſaid annexing this Hoſpital to Windſor College, to wit, in the Year 1499, the 14th of Henry VII, Sir John Tate, ſome Time Ale-brewer, then a Mercer, cauſed his Brew-houſe, called the Swan, near adjoining to the ſaid Free Chapel, College, or Hoſpital of St. Anthony, to be taken down for the enlarging of the Church, which was then newly built; toward the Building whereof, the ſaid Tate gave great Sums of Money.

THIS goodly Foundation having a Free-School and Alms-Houſes for poor Men, built of hard Stone, adjoining to the Weſt End of the Church, was of old Time confirmed by Henry VI. in the Year 1447. The outward Work of this new Church was finiſhed in the Year 1501.

Sir John Tate, deceaſed 1514, and was there buried in a Monument by him prepared, as appeareth by an Indenture Tripartite, made between the ſaid John Tate, the Dean of Windſor, and William Milbourne, Chamberlain.

Walter Champion, Draper, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, 1529, was buried there, and gave to the Beadmen 20*l*. The Lands, by Year, of this Hoſpital, were valued in the 37th Year of Henry VIII, to be 55*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*.

HERE was alſo an antient Marble Tomb of John Taylor, ſome Time Maſter of the Rolls, remaining long after the French enjoyed the Church, viz.

Quia præſtat tempeſtive quam ſero ſapere, Executoribus negligentibus ac avaris hujuſmodi Curam relinquendo, Anno Dom. MDXXXII.

Quocunq; ingrederis, ſequitur mors corporis umbram.

ONE Johnſon (a Schoolmaſter here) became a Prebendary of Windſor, and then (by little and little) followed the Spoil of this Hoſpital: He firſt diſſolved the Choir, conveyed away the Plate and Ornaments, then the Bells, and laſtly, put out the Alms-Men from their Houſes, appointing them Portions of 12*d*. the Week to each: But afterwards their Houſes, with others, were let out for Rent, and the Church was a preaching Place for the French Nation, who hold it of the Church of Windſor.

THIS School was commended in the Reign of Henry VI, and ſince alſo commended above other; but now it is decayed, and come to nothing, by taking that from it, which belonged to it.

THE Scholars of this School uſed at a certain Time of the Year to go in Proceſſion. In the Year 1562, on the 15th Day of September, there ſet out from Mile-End two hundred Children of this St. Anthony's School, and ſo along through Aldgate down Cornhill, to the Stocks, and ſo to the Fryar Auguſtine's, with Streamers and Flags, and Drums beating.

THE French and Walloon Church is ſtill in this Place, having been new built after the Ruins of the former Church by the great Fire. Formerly three Paſtors belonged to it; and in the Year 1652, the Paſtors were, Delmey, Ciſner, and Stouppe. In thoſe Times the two latter diſagreed with the former; whom, at length, they, with the Conſiſtory, ſuſpended from his Miniſtry, upon Pretence of Non-ſubmiſſion to certain Acts made by the Conſiſtory. And when he acquieſced not in their Cenſure, they ſummoned him to appear before the Cœtus of the Strangers Churches in LONDON, as the true and competent Judge in ſuch Caſes, according to the Patent of King Edward VI. This Delmey had confuted in the Pulpit ſome Points that Ciſner and the other had preached. They had preached for the Obſervation of Holidays, and did moreover obſerve and keep ſuch Days; ſaying, that if they ſhould ſcruple to preach on thoſe Days, they ſhould ſcandalize the Churches of France and Geneva: But, on the other hand, Delmey urged, that in the Acts of two Colloquies of all the foreign Churches in this Realm, viz. that were kept Anno 1644, and Anno 1654, the Obſervation of Holidays were prohibited, and all publick Exerciſes thereon; and therefore he thought it his Duty to oppoſe them and their Doctrines, who thereby had made an Irruption upon the Church's Diſcipline and Government. This gave the firſt Ground of Offence between them. After Delmey's Suſpenſion, many of the Congregation were his Friends, for he was a pious Man, and a good Preacher; theſe ſided with him, and required him to be reſtored to his Preaching: And he appealed to a Colloquy of all the French Churches within the Kingdom, at Southampton, Norwich, Canterbury, Sandwich, &c. according to the Right and uſual Way in ſuch Caſes. Ciſner refuſed it, and declined their Judgment herein; and would have all Matters decided by themſelves and the Dutch Church in LONDON, contrary to their Diſcipline and Government, which had been made by Conſent of all the ſaid Churches. Upon this a great many Families of this Congregation preferred a Petition to Oliver Cromwel, the Protector, that Delmey's Cauſe might be heard before a Colloquy, which he granted. A Colloquy conſiſted of a Miniſter and an Elder of each Church. In ſeventy ſix Years there had been twenty nine Colloquies. This Conteſt was many Years before it was decided. And ſo much for the French Church: Near to which is

The PARISH of St. BARTHOLOMEW by the Exchange.

St. Bartholomew by Exchange.

THIS Church is ſo called being dedicated to St. Bartholomew, who was one of the twelve Apoſtles. He was by Birth a Galilean, of a noble Extraction, being Nephew to the King of Syria. By ſome he is thought to have been a Syrian of noble Extract, and to have derived his Pedigree from the Ptolomies of Ægypt, from no other Ground, ſaith Dr. Cave, as I believe, than from the Analogy of his Name. And ſome are of Opinion, Opinion that St. Bartholomew was that Nathaniel mentioned in the holy Scripture, in whom there was no Guile: Their Opinion being grounded on this Obſervation, that almoſt in every Place, where the Names of the Apoſtles are rehearſed, Bartholomew followeth next to Philip, as Nathaniel follows Philip in the Number of the Diſciples, John 1. 45. It is plain that he was a Galilean, as well as the reſt of the Apoſtles: And of Nathaniel, we know, it is particularly ſaid, that he was of Canaa in Galilee.

All Writers agree, that after Chriſt's Aſcenſion, St. Bartholomew journey'd into India, and after his Labours there, he returned to the more Weſtern and Northern Parts of Aſia. At Hierapolis in Phrygia, we find him in Company with St. Philip; hence probably he went into Lycaonia, the People whereof, Chryſoſtom ſays, he inſtructed and trained up in the Chriſtian Diſcipline. His laſt Remove was to Albanople in Armenia the Great, where, whilſt he ſought to reclaim the People from Idolatry, he was by the Governor of the Place commanded to be crucified with his Head downwards. He was buried at Albanople, where he ſuffered, whence his Body was afterwards tranſlated, firſt to Duras, a City in the Borders of Perſia, thence to Liparis, one of the Ionian Iſlands, thence to Beneventum in Italy; and laſt of all to Rome, by the Emperor Otho II. in the Time of Pope Gregory V.

This Pariſh-Church in old Records, is called Little St. Bartholomew's. It was new built by Thomas Pike, Alderman, with the Aſſiſtance of Nicholas Yoo, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, about the Year 1438.

Margery, the Wife of Sir John Lepington, and Daughter of Sir John Fray, founded a Chauntry there, 21 Edward IV. Sir William Capell, Mayor, added a Chapel on the South Side of this Church in the Year 1509; and James Wilford, one of the Sheriffs, and Citizen and Taylor, Anno 1499, appointed a Doctor in Divinity, to preach a Sermon here, on the Subject of Chriſt's Paſſion every Good Friday; and this Church having been conſumed by the Fire of LONDON, Anno 1666, was rebuilt and finiſhed in the Year 1679.

As to the Building, Order and Ornaments, the Roof is flat, divided into Quadrangles or Pannels, with Fretwork; and that Part over the Choir is adorned with Cherubims. It is a ſtrong Building, ſupported by large Arches and Columns of the Tuſcan Order; the Key-pieces of the Arches, have a Seraphim on each of them.

It is wainſcotted round the Church with Oak, eight Feet high, and about the Chancel nine Feet.

Here are three fine Door-caſes on the North, South, and Weſt Sides of the Church, whoſe Pilaſters, Entablature and Pediments are of the Corinthian Order, adorned with Cherubims, Shields, Feſtoons, &c. That towards the South being more particularly ſpacious and fine.

It is alſo regularly and well pewed.

The Altar-piece conſiſts of four Columns of the Corinthian Order, with their Entablature; between the two middle Columns are the Commandments done in Gold upon Black, over which is a ſpacious Glory painted on the Figure of a ſacrificed Lambskin, placed between two gilded Cherubims, and above theſe an open Pediment, and the King's Arms finely carved. Between the Commandments are the Portraits of Moſes and Aaron painted, as alſo the Lord's Prayer and Creed. The PARISH of St. CHRISTOPHERS.

ST. Chriſtopher, to whom this Church is dedicated, by moſt Writers is held to have been a Champion, and faithful Martyr of CHRIST; he is reported to be of the Race of the Canaanites. He, being as yet a Pagan, came to the City of Samos, in the Time of King Dagnus; but being, by GOD's Power, converted himſelf, he alſo converted a great Multitude of People (by ſome Writers it is ſaid 48000) to the Faith of JESUS CHRIST, to whom he conſtantly preached; and the believing People he often baptized. He brought to Repentance two Harlots, Nicea and Aquilina, (ſent by King Dagnus to debauch him in the Priſon) whom, with ſome Courtiers, he put to Death.

Chriſtopher, after many Diſputations with the King of the living GOD, againſt the vain Gods, &c. was tortured with exquiſite Tortures, and at laſt beheaded, Anno 254, as ſome write, under Decius the Emperor.

St. Chriſtopher (whoſe Pagan Name, before he was baptized, was Reprobus) was ſo named (as is vulgarly conceived) from his carrying of CHRIST upon his Shoulders over a River, and is uſually pictured with a great Staff, or Pole in his Hand, ſo carrying our Saviour, as aforeſaid. His Feſtival is annually celebrated on July 25.

HOW old the preſent Church is, is diſcovered by the following Words, which are engraved in a ſmall Plate over the Veſtry Door:

"THIS Church of St. Chriſtovil was finiſhed "in the Year of our Lord 1462, as was found in an "old Monument in a Glaſs Window of this "Veſtry, 1592.

Mr. Stow ſays, That in 1506, the Steeple was new built; and in 1621, it was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſh. The Walls were not burnt down by the terrible Flames of September 1666, but the Church was very much damnified, the Pillars and Arches, the Pews, Lead, and ſix Bells, being deſtroyed, but ſuch Care was taken, that they had probably eſcaped much better, had not the Church been filled with Paper. All which Church immediately after the Fire, was repaired, as it was again in the Year 1696; and laſtly, in a moſt neat and elegant Manner in the Year 1731.

THE old Part which the Fire left is Gothick, but the Pillars within are of the Tuſcan Order. The Walls are built of old Stone and Brick. The Floor of the Chancel is three Steps above that of the Church. The Ornaments are as follow:

THE Roof of the Church is lined with Timber, divided inro eight Quadrangles, and on the Key-ſtone of each Arch, is carved a Seraph. The Church is wainſcotted round with Oak, near eight Feet high, and with the like Timber it is handſomely pewed; the Pulpit of the ſame, the ſounding Board having the Ornaments of Cherubims, Feſtoons, &c.

THE Altar-piece is of the Tuſcan Order, adorned with Pilaſters and their Entablature. In the Middle are the Commandments, done in Gold on Blue, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed are done in Gold on Black, adorned with Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, &c. carved in Relievo: And at each End, a Pine Apple on Acroters. Over the Commandments is a Glory, and above the Cornice, the King's Arms, carved, gilt, and coloured. The Communion-Table is incloſed with Rail and Balliſter, and the Floor within is paved with white and black Marble.

ITS Dimenſions are, Length 60 Feet, Breadth 52, Height 40, and the Altitude of the Tower is about 80 Feet.

AMONG the Benefactors to the Church, Mr. John Kendrick was a very liberal one, whoſe laſt Will we ſhall give to our Readers at Length, as we find it in Mr. Monday's Edition of Stow, and likewiſe in Strype.

The laſt WILL and TESTAMENT of Mr. John Kendrick, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, who departed this Life the 30th Day of December, Anno 1624.

IN the Name of GOD, Amen. The 29th of December, Anno Domini 1624, and in the 22d Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord King James, &c.

I John Kendrick, of the City of LONDON, Draper, being Sick in Body, but of good and perfect Memory, (for which I give moſt humble and hearty Thanks to Almighty GOD) do make, ordain, and declare this my laſt Will and Teſtament, in Manner and Form following: That is to ſay, Firſt, And before all Things, I commend and commit my Soul to Almighty GOD, my Creator; truſting moſt aſſuredly to be ſaved by the Death, Paſſion, and only Merits of JESUS CHRIST, my Saviour and Redeemer.

AND I Will, that my Body be decently interred in Chriſtian Burial, in the Pariſh-Church of St. Chriſtopher, where I dwell; as mine Executor, hereafter named, ſhall Order and Appoint.

Item, I Give and Bequeath to ſixty Poor Men, to every of them a Gown of Broad-cloth, to wear on the Day of my Burial; and 12 d. apiece in Money to pay for their Dinners. The ſame poor Men to be ſuch as my Executors ſhall appoint.

Item,

Item, I Give and Bequeath black Gowns and Cloaks, to be worn at my Burial, by my Kindred, Friends, and Servants, as my Executor ſhall think meet; not exceeding the Sum of 600 l. in the ſaid Gowns and Cloaks, and the reſt of the Charges of my Funeral.

Item, I Give and Bequeath the Sum of 60 l. to be beſtowed upon a Dinner, provided for my Friends, and the Inhabitants of the Pariſh of St. Chriſtopher, where I now dwell, upon the Day of my Burial, and in ſuch Place as my Executor ſhall think meet and convenient.

Item, I Give and Bequeath to the Mayor and Burgeſſes of the Town of Reading, in the County of Berkſhire, (I mean, to the Body-Corporate, or Corporation, of the ſaid Town of Reading, by whatſoever Name, or Addition, the ſame is made known) the Sum of 7500 l. upon ſpecial Truſt and Confidence, that they ſhall therewith perform the Uſes following: That is to ſay,

The ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes ſhall Buy and Purchaſe unto them, and their Succeſſors, for ever, (I ſay, to the Body-Corporate of the ſaid Town of Reading, by whatſoever Name, or Addition, the ſame is made or known) Lands and Hereditaments, of the clear Value of 50 l. by the Year, over and above all Charges and Repriſes. Which Sum of 50 l. a Year, my Will and Meaning is, ſhall be paid by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, and their Succeſſors, unto my Siſter Anne Newman, yearly, during her natural Life. And after her Deceaſe, the ſame yearly Sum of 50 l. ſhall be paid by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, and their Succeſſors, to the Overſeers of the Poor of the ſaid Town of Reading (for the Time being) yearly, for ever: And by them, the ſaid Overſeers (for the Time being) ſhall be beſtowed and diſtributed to and among the poor People of the ſaid Town, for ever: To wit, the Moiety thereof, every half Year, in ſuch Sums, and to ſuch Perſons, as the ſaid Overſeers (for the Time being) ſhall think meet, according to the Neceſſity and Deſert of the ſame ſeveral Perſons.

Provided always, and my Meaning is, that this my yearly Gift ſhall not any Way abridge the ſaid Poor of the ordinary Allowances, uſually aſſeſſed and collected of the wealthier Sort of the Inhabitants of the ſaid Town, towards the Relief of the ſaid poor People, but ſhall be unto them as an Additament and clear Increaſe of Relief, yearly, for ever.

And if this my Gift and Proviſion ſhall happen (which I truſt it ſhall not) to be by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, or by the ſaid Overſeers for the Time being, ordered and diſpoſed contrary to my Meaning thus declared; or that my Will and Deſire above expreſſed, touching the Beſtowing and Diſtribution of the ſaid Sum of 50 l. yearly, be omitted, neglected, or left unperformed by the Space of one whole Year, after, it is, by this my Will, appointed to be diſtributed and beſtowed as aforeſaid, then my Will and Meaning is, that the ſaid Sum and Revenue of 50 l. a Year, ſhall be by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, and their Succeſſors, for the Time being, for ever, paid unto the Treaſurer of Chriſt's Hoſpital: And by the Governors of the ſame Hoſpital, employed and beſtowed in the Relief and Education of the poor Children, of the ſaid Hoſpital. Or elſe, that the ſaid Mayor, and Burgeſſes for the Time being, ſhall, by their Deed in Law, convey and make over the Lands and Hereditaments of the ſaid yearly Value of 50 l. unto the Mayor and Commonalty, and Citizens of the City of LONDON, and their Succeſſors for ever, unto the Uſe of the ſaid Hoſpital, to be employed as aforeſaid.

Provided always, that the ſaid 50 l. a Year, be yearly paid unto my ſaid Siſter Anne Newman, during her natural Life; and after her Deceaſe, to the charitable Uſes aforeſaid.

Moreover, my Will and Meaning is, as alſo my Truſt and Confidence in the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes of the Town of Reading, that with another competent Part of the ſaid Sum of 7500 l. ſo by me deviſed as aforeſaid, they, the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, ſhall buy and purchaſe unto them, and their Succeſſors for ever, a fair Plat of Ground, within the ſaid Town of Reading, or the Liberties thereof; and thereupon ſhall erect and build a ſtrong Houſe of Brick, fit, and commodious, for ſetting the Poor on Work therein. Or elſe ſhall buy and purchaſe ſuch an Houſe, being already built, if they can find one already fitting, or that may with a reaſonable Sum be made fit for the ſaid Uſe. The ſame Houſe to have a fair Garden adjoining, and to be from Time to Time kept in good and ſufficient Reparations, by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes for the Time being, for ever; which Houſe and Garden, my Will is, ſhall be uſed and occupied, by ſuch as the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes and their Succeſſors, from Time to Time, for ever, ſhall appoint and ordain, for the employing and handling of the Stock of Money, by me hereby left and deviſed to that Purpoſe.

And my Will and Meaning is, that the ſaid Lands and Tenements of the yearly Value of 50 l. and alſo the ſaid Houſe and Garden, being bought and purchaſed as aforeſaid, with Parcel of the ſaid Sum of 7500 l. Then the Reſidue and Remainder of the ſame 7500 l. ſhall make and be a common Stock to be employed and beſtowed in Trades of Cloathing, either in making of colour'd Cloaths, or Whites, as the Time ſhall require: And alſo in working of Wool, Hemp, Flax, Iron, grinding of Brazil Woods, and other Stuffs for Dying, or otherwiſe, as to the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes aforeſaid, and their Succeſſors, for ever, ſhall ſeem meet and convenient for the Employment of poor People, and for the Preſervation and Increaſe of the ſaid common Stock.

And the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, and their Succeſſors, for ever, ſhall have Election, Placing and Ordering, as alſo the Diſplacing (if Cauſe be) of all and every Perſon and Perſons, to be employed in the Handling and Husbanding of the common Stock in the Houſe aforeſaid, according to their, the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, good Diſcretion, from Time to Time, for ever.

Wherein yet my Deſire is, that they ſhall prefer the Poor of the ſaid Town to the ſaid Work and Employment, before others of other Places.

And for the Performance of theſe Premiſes, my Will is, that the Sum of 7500 l. before, for this End by me bequeathed to the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, or their Succeſſors, ſhall be paid unto them, or their Succeſſors in Manner and Form following, that is to ſay, 2000 l. thereof at the End of one Year next after my Deceaſe, other 2000 l. thereof at the End of two Years, next after the Day of my Deceaſe: And the Reſidue of the whole Sum, being 3500 l. at the End of three Years next enſuing after, and from the Day of my Deceaſe.

But if it ſhall happen (as my Truſt is it will not) that the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, or their Succeſſors ſhall neglect, omit, or fail to perform the Premiſes, according to my Will and Meaning above declared, or ſhall miſemploy the ſaid Stock, contrary to the true Intent and Meaning of this my Deviſe and Diſpoſition, for the Good of the Poor and their honeſt Employment and Maintenance as aforeſaid, and that ſuch their Neglect ſhall continue at any Time by the Space of one whole Year together, then my Will and Meaning is, that my ſaid whole Legacy of 7500 l. and every Part and Parcel thereof, ſhall be thence utterly void, fruſtrate, and of none Effect, as to, for and concerning the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes and their Succeſſors, and as to, for and concerning the Uſes thereof before limited and expreſſed. And that the ſaid whole common Stock, ſhall be, by them, the ſaid Mayor and Commonalty and Citizens of the City of LONDON, to the Uſe of Chriſt's Hoſpital in LONDON, according as I have above deviſed and diſpoſed, touching the Revenue of 50*l.* a Year, for ever, firſt bequeathed to the Uſe and Relief of the poor People of the Town of Reading.

As alſo my Will and Meaning is, that in this Caſe of Non-performance by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, the Houſe and Garden to be purchaſed in Reading, as aforeſaid, ſhall be by the ſaid Mayor and Burgeſſes, and their Succeſſors, conveyed and made over by their Deed ſufficient in Law, unto the ſaid Mayor and Commonalty of the City of LONDON, and their Succeſſors, for ever, to the like Uſe of Chriſt's Hoſpital in LONDON, as aforeſaid.

Item, I Give and Bequeath to the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgeſſes of the Town of Newbury, in the County of Berks, (I mean the Body-Corporate of the ſame Town) the Sum of 4000*l.* to buy and purchaſe therewith a commodious Houſe and Garden within the ſame Town, or the Liberties thereof, to ſet the Poor on Work: And with the Reſidue of the ſame Sum, to make a common Stock for the Employment of the Poor in the ſaid Houſe, according to the good Diſcretion of the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgeſſes, from Time to Time, for ever; and according to my Meaning before declared, in the Deviſing of the Sum of 7500*l.* to the Mayor and Burgeſſes of the Town of Reading, to the like Uſe.

But my Will and Meaning is, that if it ſhall happen (which I truſt will not) that the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgeſſes of the Town of Newbury, or their Succeſſors, ſhall neglect to perform my Truſt and Meaning, hereby committed unto them, or ſhall miſemploy the ſaid Stock, contrary to my good Intent to the Poor before declared, by the Space of one whole Year (at any Time) after my ſaid Legacy ſhall be paid unto them, then my Will and and Meaning is, that my ſaid whole Legacy of 4000*l.* and every Part and Parcel thereof, ſhall thenceforth be utterly void, and of none Effect, as to, for and concerning the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen and Burgeſſes of the Town of Newbury, and their Succeſſors, for ever: And that the ſaid whole common Stock, be, by them, the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgeſſes of the Town of Reading in the ſame County, to be by them and their Succeſſors, for ever, employed, beſtowed and uſed in like manner as I have by this my Will deviſed and appointed another Stock common for the Poor in the ſame Town of Reading, as by my Deviſe and Diſpoſition (before herein more at large expreſſed) doth and may appear.

In the like Manner alſo, my Will and Meaning is, that in caſe of ſuch Non-performance of my Will and Intent, by the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen and Burgeſſes of the Town of Newbury, the Houſe and Garden by them ſo to be purchaſed and built, as aforeſaid, ſhall be by the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgeſſes of the Town of Newbury, and their Succeſſors, conveyed and made over by their Deed ſufficient in Law, unto the Mayor and Burgeſſes of the ſaid Town of Reading, and their Succeſſors, for ever, to be by them ſold and converted into Money, and the ſame Money to be uſed and employed in their common Stock, for the Poor in the ſaid Town of Reading aforeſaid, in ſuch Sort, as I have formerly hereby expreſſed.

And for the Performance of the ſaid Truſt and Uſes, by the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen and Burgeſſes of the Town of Newbury aforeſaid, my Will and Meaning is, That the ſaid Sum of 4000*l.* ſo to them bequeathed and deviſed as aforeſaid, ſhall be paid unto them, or their Succeſſors, in Manner as followeth; that is to ſay, 1000*l.* thereof at the End of one Year, next enſuing after the Day of my Deceaſe: One other thouſand Pounds thereof at the End of two Years from and after my ſaid Deceaſe. And the Reſidue (being 2000*l.*) ſhall be paid them, at the End of three Years next after my Deceaſe.

Item, I give and bequeath to the Company of Drapers of the City of LONDON (of which Company I am free) the Sum of 2400*l.* to purchaſe Lands and Hereditaments, to the clear yearly Value of 100*l.* for ever, over and above all Charges and Repriſes: And with the ſame to perform theſe good Uſes hereafter-mentioned; that is to ſay,

The Sum of 24*l.* thereof, yearly, for ever, to be beſtowed in the Month of December, for the Releaſing of ſix poor Priſoners, out of the Priſons in LONDON, to wit, the two Compters, Ludgate, Newgate, and the Fleet, by 4*l.* for each Priſoner.

Or if ſuch cannot be found in the ſaid Priſons, or ſome of them to be releaſed for theſe Sums, then the ſame (or the Reſidue thereof) to be beſtowed in like releaſing of other Priſoners, out of ſome of the Priſons near LONDON, and out of the Liberties thereof; as to the Wardens of the ſaid Company (for the Time being) ſhall ſeem meet.

More, 20*l.* yearly, for ever, to the Curate of the Pariſh of St. Chriſtopher, wherein I now dwell, to read divine Service in the ſaid Pariſh-Church at ſix o'Clock in the Morning, every Day of the Week, for ever, in like manner as is now uſed in the Chapel, at the great North Gate of St. Paul's Church in LONDON.

More, to the Clerk and Sexton of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Chriſtopher, to each of them 50*s.* yearly, for ever, to do their ſeveral Attendance and Aſſiſtance at the Time of divine Service every Morning.

More, to the Church-wardens of the ſame Pariſh of St. Chriſtopher, 5*l.* yearly, for ever, for the Maintenance of Lights in the Winter Time.

More, to the poor Priſoners in LONDON, 10*l.* yearly, for ever, namely, to the Priſoners of the Compters in the Poultry and Wood-ſtreet, and in Newgate; to each of theſe Priſons, 40*s.* yearly, for ever.

To the poor Priſoners in Ludgate, and in the Fleet, to each Houſe, 30*s.* for ever.

And to the poor Priſoners in Bethlem, or Bedlam, 20*s.* yearly, for ever.

More, to the Clerk of the Company of Drapers, for the Time being, for his Pains herein, 40*s.* for ever.

More, to the Beadle of the ſaid Company, 30*s.* for ever.

More to the Beadle of Yeomanry of the ſame Company, 10*s.* yearly, for ever.

More, 25*l.* yearly, for ever to be diſtributed by the ſaid Wardens, among poor and religious Men and Women in the City of LONDON; to ſome more and to ſome leſs, as the ſaid Wardens ſhall find their Neceſſity and Deſert to be: Wherein my Deſire is, that poor Clothworkers and their Widows ſhall be firſt preferred; and next, the Poor of the Drapers Company. The Reſidue of the ſame Sum of 100*l.* a Year, being 4*l.* yearly, for ever, I entreat the four Wardens of the ſaid Company, to accept for their Pains, to be equally divided between them by 20*s.* to each of them, for the Time being, for ever.

And if the ſaid Company of Drapers, do either of Purpoſe or Negligence, omit and not perform, perform the Premiſes, but ſhall leave the ſame unperformed one whole Year, after they ſhall have received this my Legacy of 2400 l. (which I Will ſhall be paid them at the End of one Year next after my Deceaſe) then my Will and Mind is, that the Governors of Chriſt's Hoſpital, in LONDON, ſhall recover the 2400 l. before ſpecified, or the Lands and the Hereditaments, that the ſaid Company ſhall have bought with the ſame Money; and keep 20 l. yearly for ever of the ſame Rent, for the Maintenance of the poor Children in the ſaid Hoſpital, as if the ſame had been firſt given them. And the Drapers Company to have nothing to do with it, or the reſt of the ſaid 100 l. yearly for ever.

BUT this 20 l. a Year being ſo converted (as aforeſaid) to the Uſe of the Hoſpital, the Reſidue of the ſaid yearly Rent of 100 l. a Year, I Will that the Governors of the ſaid Hoſpital, ſhall pay and diſtribute yearly for ever, in Manner and Form as the ſaid Company of Drapers ſhould have done.

Item, I Give and Bequeath to the ſaid Company of Drapers, 100 l. to be paid within a Year after my Deceaſe, and by the Wardens of the ſaid Company, to be beſtowed in Plate: Such as they ſhall think good, for the Uſe of their common Hall in LONDON, at their Meetings and Dinners there.

Item, I Give and Bequeath to the Poor of Chriſt's Hoſpital in LONDON, 500 l. to be, by the Governors thereof, beſtowed in Lands and Hereditaments, for and towards the yearly Maintenance of the Children of the ſaid Hoſpital for ever. And after that, in like Manner, from three Years to three Years, for ever; and no Man to have the ſame Money twice: But if there ſhall not be Clothiers enough found in the ſame Town of Newbury, to enjoy this Loan as aforeſaid, then the ſame Money ſhall be lent alſo unto other Tradeſmen, free of the ſame Town, by the Sums and Terms of Years laſt before appointed, to ſuch as ſet moſt poor People on Work, according to the Diſcretion of the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgeſſes, to whom the ſaid 500 l. ſhall be paid, to the Uſe aforeſaid, at the End of one Year after my Deceaſe.

REMARKABLE PLACES.

Bartholomew Compaine, a Merchant of Flanders, gave 140 l. paid to the Lord Treaſurer of King Edward VI, for the Fee Simple of a large Meſſuage and Tenement in this Pariſh, formerly belonging to the Fraternity of our Lady in the Chapel of Barking, LONDON, being of the yearly Value of 14 l. to be held of free Burgage of the City of LONDON. (Perhaps this was that Houſe which was the Poſt-houſe before the Fire, and is now Prince's-ſtreet.)

Sir John Houblon, Knight and Alderman, ſome Time Lord Mayor of LONDON, one of the Commiſſioners of the Admiralty, and one of the Members of Parliament for the City, lived in this Pariſh, in a large Houſe, which being pulled down, there is now building in the Place where it ſtood, adjoining to St. Chriſtopher's Church.

The new Bank. THE New Bank of England, which is a moſt magnificent Structure; the Front next the Street is about eighty Feet in Length, adorned with Columns, Entablature, &c. of the Ionick Order. There is a handſome Court-yard between this and the main Building, which, like the other, is of Stone, and adorned with Pillars, Pilaſters, Entablature, and triangular Pediment of the Corinthian Order. The Hall is 79 Feet in Length, and 40 in Breadth, is wainſcotted about eight Feet high, has a fine Fretwork-Ceiling, and a large Venetian Window, at the Weſt End of it. Beyond this is another Quadrangle, with an Archade on the Eaſt and Weſt Sides of it; and on the North is the Accomptant's Office, which is 60 Feet long, and 28 Feet broad. There are handſome Apartments over this, and the other Sides of the Quadrangle, with a fine Stair-caſe, adorned with Fretwork; and under it are large Vaults, that have very ſtrong Walls, and Iron Grates, for the Preſervation of the Caſh.

OF the Bank of England, and the Directors, we ſhall give a farther Account, when we come into Cheap Ward, where the Buſineſs of the Governor and Company is at preſent tranſacted.

Scalding-alley. WEST of St. Chriſtopher's Church is Scalding-alley, called antiently Scalding-houſe, or Scalding-wicke, becauſe the Ground, for the moſt Part, was then employed by Poulterers, who dwelt in the High-ſtreet, from Stocks-market to the great Conduit. Their Poultry, which they ſold at their Stalls, was ſcalded in this Place. The Street yet bears the Name of the Poultrey, and the Poulterers, in Stow's Time, were but juſt departed from it into other Streets; as into Gracechurch-ſtreet, and to the Ends of St. Nicholas Fleſh Shambles. This Scalding-alley is the fartheſt Part of Broad-ſtreet Ward, and was once parted by the Water of Walbrook from Cheap Ward.

The modern State of Broad-ſtreet Ward. THE Streets, Lanes, Courts, Alleys, and Places now contained in this Ward, are, Threadneedle-ſtreet, on both Sides of the Way, from the North Weſt Corner of Cornhill, near St. Chriſtopher's Church, to St. Martin's Outwich Church at the Corner of Biſhopſgate-ſtreet; Bartholomew-lane, Prince's-ſtreet, almoſt as far as Catharine-court; the North End next to Lothbury, being in Coleman-ſtreet Ward; Lothbury, on both Sides from the Grate by St. Margaret's Church to Bartholomew-lane End. Throgmorton-ſtreet, on both Sides, unto Broad-ſtreet. Broad-ſtreet, on both Sides, from St. Bennet-Fink Church to London-wall. Wincheſter-ſtreet, Auguſtine-fryars, Wormwood-ſtreet, as far as Helmet-court in the Eaſt; London-wall-ſtreet, from a little Eaſtwards of Croſs-keys-court, unto the Beginning of Wormwood-ſtreet, by Broad-ſtreet End.

IN the Streets and Lanes are ſeveral Courts and Places, in the Deſcription of which we ſhall begin with London-wall-ſtreet, and ſo come Southward.

London-wall-ſtreet, ſo called, from having the City Wall running along the North Side. It is a Street of old Buildings, and they, for the moſt Part, but ordinary, and as ill inhabited, the Inhabitants being chiefly Curriers. This Street, extending beyond this Ward, is very long, taking its Beginning from Cripplegate: And in the Wall, beſides Moorgate, and the Poſterns Weſtwards toward Cripplegate, is another Poſtern, or Gate, oppoſite to Wincheſter-ſtreet, which gives a Paſſage into Moorfields. The Alleys, Courts, &c. beginning Weſt, are theſe, Bell-alley, or Back-alley, but narrow, ſeated on the Back-ſide of Coleman-ſtreet: This Alley is very long, but the Part in this Ward begins on the Eaſt Side, at the Black-poſts over-againſt Swan-alley; and from thence falls down into Thompſon's-rents, which is very narrow, and an ill Paſſage, and ſo to London-wall; Three-pidgeon-alley, very ordinary; White-horſe-Inn; a Place for Stabling; all theſe three fall into Bell-alley. Ball-alley, very ordinary. The Boarded-Entry, but indifferent. Three-tun-alley, large and indifferently built and inhabited. Maidenhead-court, ſomewhat long, but narrow, except at the upper End, which is wider and better built, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Wreſtler's-court, very long, with only Houſes on the Weſt Side, the Eaſt being the Back-ſide of Carpenters Hall. White-hart-Inn, indifferent large, chiefly for Coaches, and Stabling for Livery Horſes.

THIS Street to Broad-ſtreet is called Alhallows in the Wall, from the Church of that Name there ſeated.

HERE on the South is Wincheſter-ſtreet, the Great and the Little.

Great Wincheſter-ſtreet comes out of Broad-ſtreet on the Eaſt, and after ſome Space, turning Northwards falls into London-wall-ſtreet: It is an open broad Street, graced with good Buildings, which are well inhabited by Merchants and Perſons of Repute: Where it looks Northward, it is called Little Wincheſter-ſtreet, and leadeth to London-wall, where Little Moorgate, or Poſtern, opens into Moorfields.

THIS Little Wincheſter-ſtreet is not ſo broad, nor ſo well inhabited as the Great: And at the End next to London-wall is Nag's-head Inn, of no great Account, only for Livery Horſes. Out of Great Wincheſter-ſtreet on the South is a Paſſage ſage to Bell-alley, which is paved with Free-Stone, but very narrow, and leads into St. Auguſtine-fryars. Along from the Wall Church is Wormwood-ſtreet, of ſmall Account for Houſes, or Inhabitants. In this Street are Alms-Houſes for 12 poor Women, erected by Mr. Kemp, each having 12 d. a Week in Money, beſides ſome other Perquiſites: And in this Street are theſe Places, Hand-alley, but ſmall; Queen's-head-alley, very ordinary, both as to its Houſes and Inhabitants, this Alley with a turning Paſſage falls into a broad or open Place, out of which is a Paſſage into Biſhopſgate-ſtreet; Helmet-court, but indifferent, which aſcending up Steps comes into Sutton-court, which hath a Paſſage into Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, it is a pretty handſome new built Court, with a Free-Stone Pavement, and well inhabited, but this Court is in Biſhopſgate Ward; betwixt Helmet-court and Queen's-head-alley is Cock-yard, a Place of ordinary Account.

Now going back again, we turn South into Broad-ſtreet, very ſpacious, graced with good Buildings, which are well inhabited; which ſaid Street from London-wall runs Southwards, till bending Weſt, it falls into Throgmorton-ſtreet, and more South into Little Broad-ſtreet, and thence into Threadneedle-ſtreet; in this Broad-ſtreet are theſe Alleys, Courts, and Places of Name, beginning next to London-wall, Firſt, White-horſe-court, pretty large, with old Timber Houſes, nigh unto which is White-horſe-yard, only for Stablings; Vine-court, now built up into Houſes Bull-alley, but narrow, and ordinary; the Pay-office, that which formerly was Wincheſter-place, a large Houſe which has for many Years been made Uſe of as an Office for the Payment of Seamens Wages, and for Stores, &c. belonging to the Royal Navy. The preſent Treaſurer of the Navy, who is at the Head of this Office, is the Right Honourable the Lord Viſcount Torrington.

The Pay-Office.

By the Corner of this Houſe South is Wincheſter-ſtreet, already mentioned; Pin-makers Hall, and Pin-makers-alley, a pretty handſome Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement; Crown-court, ſtill more South, a handſome broad Place, with good Houſes, well inhabited by Merchants and others.

On the Eaſt Side of this Street, hereabout, is the back Part of Greſham College, which has ſome Part in this Ward, but is moſt of it in Biſhopſgate Ward. Here ſtands Greſham's Alms-Houſes, and near unto them is a Yard for Livery-Horſes, but without a Name; having ſome Houſes in it, and is a Thoroughfare into Biſhopſgate-ſtreet. Next to this is the South-Sea Houſe, ſpoken of before; the following is,

A List of the Names of the Governor, Sub-Governor, Deputy-Governor, and Directors of the ſaid Company, Trading to the South-Seas, and other Parts of America, and for encouraging the Fiſhery, choſen in the preſent Year 1733.

Oppoſite to this Office is the Pariſh Church of St. Peter's Poor, with a Dial hanging over the Street. A little beyond the Church is a Place called Auguſtine-Fryars, now built into ſeveral large Houſes partly inhabited by the Miniſter sof the Dutch Church, ſtanding here, and partly by Merchants.

Over-against Auguſtine-Fryars, is Little Broad-ſtreet, much narrower than the other, wherein are theſe Places: Adam's-Court, pretty large, well built and inhabited, at the Upper End is one Houſe larger than the reſt, being the Habitation of a Merchant; Cuſhion-Court, pretty handſome, but ſmall, containing only two good Houſes; Britain's-Yard, but ſmall, having but one Houſe; French-Court, indifferent well inhabited, with a Free Stone Pavement. Now back to Throgmorton-ſtreet, very well built and inhabited; the chief Place here is the Houſe and Garden belonging to the Drapers Company. In this Street are theſe Courts, and Places of Name, viz. Red-Lyon-Court, both ſmall and ordinary; New-Court, a pretty handſome ſquare Place with good Houſes; Shorter's-Court, a very neat ſquare Place, with open Paſſage, the Houſes well built and inhabited: St. Bartholomew's-Court, but mean; Angel-Court, very large and handſome, with good Buildings, the Habitation of Merchants and People of Repute; Copt-Hall-Court, a large and handſome open Place, with Houſes fit for good Inhabitants; Warnford-Court, a good large Place, very well built and inhabited, at the Upper End of which is a handſome large Houſe, ſevered from the reſt by a Wall which opens into a Court Yard with a Garden, which Houſe the Royal African Company made Uſe of, until their Removal to their Houſe in Leadenhall-ſtreet, and is now made Uſe of by the Managers of the Linnen Manufacture; Drapers-Hall, a very large and ſpacious Building, having a comely Quadrangle in the Entrance to it.

Next Throgmorton-ſtreet, Weſt, is Lothbury, a Street of pretty good Trade, eſpecially for Founders, for the making of Candleſticks, Bells, and divers Utenſils of Braſs and Copper; the Part of this Street, which is in this Ward, goeth but to the Corner of St. Margaret's Lothbury Church, which it takes in but a ſmall Part of, the reſt is in Coleman-ſtreet Ward: The Courts in this Part are, Green's-court, but ordinary; Prince's-court, likewiſe but ordinary; Faulcon-court, but ſmall, with a Free-Stone Pavement; Token-houſe-yard, a large Place, with well built Houſes, fit for good Inhabitants, eſpecially the Row on the Eaſt Side, which have Court Yards, with Brick Walls before them; at the Upper End of this Yard is a ſmall Paſſage down Steps into Bell-alley in Coleman-ſtreet Ward; this Place took its Name from an old Houſe there ſtanding, which antiently was the Office for delivering out of Farthings; Whalebone-court, large, with a Free-Stone Pavement, hath good Houſes, pretty well tenanted.

Coming back we paſs up St. Bartholomew-lane, which runs up to the North Side of the Royal Exchange; a Place well built and inhabited, and of a good Trade, and the rather, for being ſo great a Thoroughfare to and from the Exchange. NEXT is Caſtle-alley on the other Side, which falls into Cornhill: And to that Ward ſome Part of it belongs.

THEN is there a Paſſage into Cornhill on the Weſt Side of the Exchange: Then further on the Eaſt Side, are Sweeting's-Rents and Alley, both narrow Places, with Free-Stone Pavements; which alſo gives Paſſages into Cornhill, being Places taken up by Coffee-houſes, Eating-houſes and Shops.

A little further Eaſtward is the Pariſh-Church of St. Bennet-Fink, a very handſome Free-Stone Building, before treated of.

THEN ſtill further Eaſt, on the ſame Side, is Finch, or Fink-lane, and falls into Cornhill; this Lane is of no great Trade; the Part next Cornhill is out of this Ward. On the Weſt Side is Spread-eagle-court, but ordinary, which with a turning Paſſage falls into Threadneedle-ſtreet, againſt Little Broad-ſtreet.

CHAP. VII.

CORNHILL WARD.

Cornhill Ward.

THE next Ward towards the South is that of Cornhill; ſo called from a Corn Market, in antient Time, kept there, and is a Part of the principal High-ſtreet, Beginning at the Weſt End of Leadenhall, ſtretching down Weſt on both Sides, by the South End of Fink's, or Finch-lane, on the Right Hand, and by the North End of Birchover's-lane, on the Left, which Lanes, to the Middle of them, are in this Ward, and ſo down to Stocks-market; and theſe are the Bounds of this Ward. The upper or Eaſt Part of this Ward, and alſo a Part of Lime-ſtreet Ward, hath been a Market-place, as before ſaid, eſpecially for Corn, and ſince, for all Kind of Victuals, as is partly ſhewn in Lime-ſtreet Ward.

YET it appeareth on Record, that in the Year 1522, the Rippiers of Rye, and other Places, ſold their freſh Fiſh in Leadenhall Market, on Cornhill; but Foreign Butchers were not admitted to ſell Fleſh there till the Year 1533.

AND ſhortly after it was enacted, That the ſaid Butchers, and others, ſhould ſell their Beef and Mutton by Weight, to wit, Beef not above a Half-penny the Pound; and Mutton, Half-penny Half-farthing. Which Act being deviſed for the great Commodity of the Realm (as it was then thought) hath ſince proved far otherwiſe. For before that Time, a fat Ox was ſold at LONDON for 26*s.* 8*d.* at the moſt; a fat Weather for 3*s.* 4*d.* a fat Calf, the like Price; a fat Lamb for 12*d.* Pieces of Beef weighed two Pounds and a half at the leaſt; ſome, three Pounds, or better, for a Penny, on every Butcher's Stall in the City; and of thoſe Pieces of Beef, thirteen or fourteen for 12*d.* fat Mutton for 8*d.* the Quarter; and one hundred Weight of Beef for 4*s.* 8*d.* at the deareſt.

THE Number of Butchers then in the City and Suburbs, was accounted ſix Score, of which every one killed ſix Oxen a-piece weekly, which is in forty ſix Weeks, allowing ſix Weeks for Lent, 33,120 Oxen, or 720 Oxen weekly.

THE Foreign Butchers (for a long Time) ſtood in the High-ſtreet of Lime-ſtreet Ward, viz. Wedneſdays and Saturdays, and were ſome Gain to the Tenants, before whoſe Doors they ſtood, and into whoſe Houſes they ſet their Blocks and Stalls, on the North Side of that Street: But that Advantage being eſpied, they were taken into Leadenhall, there to pay for their Standing to the Chamber of LONDON.

THUS much for the Market upon Cornhill.

THE chief Ornaments in Cornhill Ward, of old Time, were theſe: Firſt, at the Eaſt End thereof, in the Middle of the High-ſtreet, and at the Parting of four Ways, was a Water Standard, placed there in the Year 1582, in Manner following: A certain German, or Dutchman, born, named Peter Morris, having made an artificial Forcier for that Purpoſe, conveyed Thames Water, in Pipes of Lead, over the Steeple of St. Magnus Church, at the North End of London-Bridge, and from thence into divers Houſes in Thames-ſtreet, New Fiſh-ſtreet, and Graſs-ſtreet, up to the Weſt Corner of Leadenhall, the higheſt Ground of all the City; where the Waſte of the main Pipe riſing into this Standard (provided at the Charges of the City) with four Spouts, running four Ways, at every Tide, according to Covenant, plentifully ſerving the Commodity of the Inhabitants near adjoining in their Houſes, and alſo cleanſing the Channels of the Street towards Biſhopſgate, Aldgate, the Bridge, and the Stocks-market.

NEXT to this was a handſome Conduit of ſweet Water, caſtellated in the midſt of that Ward and Street. This Conduit was firſt built of Stone in the Year 1282, by Henry Wallis, Mayor of LONDON, to be a Priſon for Night-walkers, and other ſuſpicious Perſons, and was called The Tun upon Cornhill, becauſe the ſame was built ſomewhat in Faſhion of a Tun, ſtanding on one End.

ALSO without the Weſt Side of this Tun was a fair Well of ſpringing Water, curbed round with hard Stone.

TO this Priſon of the Tun, the Night-Watches of this City committed not only Night-Walkers, but alſo other Perſons, as well Spiritual as Temporal, whom they ſuſpected of Incontinency, and puniſhed them according to the Cuſtoms of this City; but Complaint thereof being made about the Year of Chriſt, 1297, King Edward I. writeth to his Citizens thus:

Edward, by the Grace of God, &c. "Where-
"as Richard Graveſend, Biſhop of LON-"DON, hath ſhewed unto us, that by the "great Charter of England, the Church hath a "Privilege that no Clerk ſhall be impriſoned by "a Layman, without our Commandment, and "Breach of Peace, which notwithſtanding ſome
"Citizens of LONDON, upon meer Spight
"do enter in their Watches in Clerks Chambers,
"and then (like Felons) carry them to the Tun,
"which Henry de Wallis, ſome Time Mayor,
"built for Night-Walkers. Wherefore we Will
"that this our Commandment be proclaimed in "a full Huſtings, and that no Watch hereafter
"enter into any Clerks Chamber, under the For"feit of 30*l.* Dated at Carliſle, the 18th of March,
"in the 25th of our Reign.

ABOUT the Year of Chriſt 1299, the 27th of Edward I. certain principal Citizens of LONDON, to wit, J. Romane, Richard Glouceſter, Nicholas Faringdon, Adam Helingbury, J. Saly, John Dunſtable, Richard Aſhwy, John Wade, and William Strotford, broke up this Priſon, called the Tun, and took out certain Priſoners, for which they were puniſhed, by long Impriſonment, and great Fines, as in another Place is ſhewn. It coſt the Citizens, as ſome have written, more than 20000 Marks, which they were amerced in, before William de March, Treaſurer of the King's Exchequer, to purchaſe the King's Favour, and the Confirmation of their Liberties.

ALSO in the Year 1383, the 7th of Richard II. the Citizens of LONDON taking upon them the Rights that belonged to their Biſhops, firſt impriſoned ſuch Women that were taken in Fornication, or Adultery, in the ſaid Tun, and after, bringing them forth to the Sight of the World, they cauſed their Heads to be ſhaven after the Manner of Thieves, whom they named Appellators, and ſo to be led about the City, in Sight of all the Inhabitants, with Trumpets and Pipes ſounding before them, that their Perſons might be the more largely known; neither did they ſpare ſuch Kind of Men a whit the more, but uſed them as hardly, ſaying, they abhorred not only the Negligence of their Prelates, but alſo deteſted their Avarice, that ſtudied for Money, omitted the Puniſhment limited by Law, and permitted thoſe that were found guilty to live favourably by their Fine. Wherefore they would themſelves, they ſaid, purge their City from ſuch Filthineſs, leſt through God's Vengeance, either the Peſtilence or Sword ſhould happen to them. Laſt of all to be noted in the Charge of the Ward-mote Inqueſt in every Ward of the City were theſe Words: If there be any Prieſt in Service within the Ward, which before Time hath been ſet in the Tun, in Cornhill, for his Diſhoneſty, and hath forſworn the City, all ſuch ſhall be preſented.

NOW for the Puniſhment of Prieſts, in my Youth, ſaith Stow, one Note and no more; and here he telleth the Story, already mentioned in his Life, B. II. p. 330, of one John Atwood, Draper, dwelling in the Pariſh of St. Michael in Cornhill, directly againſt the Church, who having a proper Woman to his Wife, ſuch a one as ſeemed the holieſt amongſt a Thouſand, had alſo a luſty Chauntry Prieſt of the ſaid Pariſh-Church, repairing to his Houſe, with which Prieſt the ſaid Atwood would ſome Time after Supper play a Game at Tables for a Pint of Ale. It chanced on a Time, having Haſte of Work, and his Game proving long, he left his Wife to play it out, and went down to his Shop, but returning to fetch a preſſing Iron, he found ſuch Play (to his Miſliking) that he forced the Prieſt to leap out of a Window over the Penthouſe into the Street, and ſo run to his Lodging in the Church-yard. Atwood and his Wife were ſoon reconciled, ſo that he would not ſuffer her to be called in Queſtion, but the Prieſt being apprehended and committed, his Puniſhment was thus: He was on three Market-Days conveyed through the high Street and Markets of the City, with a Paper on his Head, whereon was written his Treſpaſs. The firſt Day he rode in a Carry; the ſecond on a Horſe, his Face to the Horſe's Tail; the third, led betwixt two, and every Day rung with Baſons, and Proclamations made of his Fact at every Turning of the Streets, and alſo before John Atwood's Stall and the Church Door of his Service, where he loſt his Chauntry of 20 Nobles the Year, and was baniſhed the City for ever.

IN the Year 1401, the ſaid Priſon-Houſe, called the Tun, was made a Ciſtern for ſweet Water, conveyed by Pipes of Lead from Tyburn, and was from thenceforth called the Conduit upon Cornhill. Then was the Wall planked over, and a ſtrong Priſon made of Timber called a Cage, with a Pair of Stocks ſet upon it, and this for Night-walkers: On the Top of which Cage was placed a Pillory, for the Puniſhment of Bakers, offending in the Aſſize of Bread; for Millers ſtealing of Corn at the Mill; and for Bawds and Scolds, and other Offenders.

AS in the Year 1468, the 7th of Edward IV. divers Perſons, being common Jurors, ſuch as at Aſſizes were forſworn for Rewards or Favour of Parties, were judged to ride from Newgate to the Pillory in Cornhill, with Mitres of Paper on their Heads, there to ſtand, and from thence again to Newgate. And this Judgment was given by the Mayor of LONDON.

IN the Year 1509, the firſt of Henry VIII. Darby Smith and Simpſon, Ringleaders of falſe Inqueſts, in LONDON, rode about the City with their Faces to the Horſes Tails, and Papers on their Heads, and were ſet on the Pillory in Cornhill, and after brought again to Newgate, where they died for very Shame, ſaith Robert Fabian.

THE aforeſaid Conduit upon Cornhill, was in the Year 1475, enlarged by Robert Drope, Draper, per, Mayor, that then dwelt in that Ward; he enlarged the Ciſtern of this Conduit with an Eaſt End of Stone and Lead, and caſtellated it in a comely Manner.

In the Year 1548, Sir Martin Bowes, Mayor, dwelling in Lombard-ſtreet, and having his Back Gate opening into Cornhill, againſt the ſaid Conduit, minded to have enlarged the Ciſtern thereof with a Weſt End, as Robert Drope before had done towards the Eaſt View; and Meaſure of the Plat was taken for this Work; but the Pillory and Cage being removed, they found the Ground planked, and the Well aforeſaid worn out of Memory; which Well they revived and reſtored to Uſe, ſetting the Pillory ſomewhat Weſt from the Well, and ſo this Work ceaſed.

On the North Side of this Street, from the Eaſt unto the Weſt, were good Houſes for Merchants and others, amongſt which one large Houſe was called the Weigh-Houſe, where Merchandizes, brought from beyond Seas, were to be weighed at the King's Beam. This Houſe had a Maſter, and under him four Maſter Porters, with Porters under them; they had a ſtrong Cart, and were uſed to have four Horſes, to draw and carry the Wares from the Merchants Houſes to the Beam, and back again. Sir Thomas Lovel, Knt. built this Houſe, with a handſome Front of Tenements towards the Street. All which he gave to the Grocers of LONDON, himſelf being free of the City, and a Brother of that Company.

Drapers, from antient Times, have had their Dwellings and Shops here in Cornhill. There was one John Olyver Pannarius de Cornhull; between three and four hundred Years ago we meet with Drapers of Cornhull, who were of the Fraternity of St. Mary of Bethlem, as appears by this Record. "On Honour, &c. To the Honour of our "Lord Jesu Christ, and his ſweet Mother "St. Mary, our Lady of Bethlem, in which moſt "holy Place our ſaid Lord Jesu Christ "was choſen to be born, in his Salvation of all "his People; in which Place of Bethlem the Star "appeared to the Shepherds, and gave and "ſhewed Light to the three Kings of Coloyne, "who offered in the ſame Place of Bethlem, three "Gifts, Gold, Myrrh, and Incenſe; one Fra-"ternity is begun, for the ſame Honour in "Amendment of their Lives, by the Aſſent of "the Fryar William Titte, Fryar of the Hoſpital "of our Lady of Bethlem, of LONDON, "which is a Cell of the Place of Bethlem; and "for other good People, Drapers of Cornhull, "and other good Men and Women, which will "be Brothers and Siſters, and maintain the Fra-"ternity, for the Term of their Lives, and all "the Points that follow; and to pay 20 s. En-"trance, and every Year 2 s. and every Quarter "6 d." which Fraternity was extant 1361, and their Feaſt was on the Purification of our Lady.

Then have you the ſaid Fink's-lane, the South End of which on both Sides is in Cornhill Ward.

The Royal-Exchange.

Then next is the Royal-Exchange, erected in the Year 1566, after this Order, viz. certain Houſes upon Cornhill, and the like upon the Back thereof, in the Ward of Broad-ſtreet, with three Alleys; the firſt called Swan-alley, opening into Cornhill; the ſecond, New-alley, paſſing thorow out of Cornhill into Broad-ſtreet Ward, over-againſt St. Bartholomew-lane; the third, St. Chriſtopher's-alley, opening in Broad-ſtreet Ward, and into St. Chriſtopher's Pariſh, containing in all fourſcore Houſes, were firſt purchaſed by the Citizens of LONDON, for more than 3532 l. as Mr. Stow ſaith; but the Mayor and Aldermen, in an Anſwer, ſet forth to the Lady Greſham's Supplication, ſay, it was above 4000 l. all theſe Houſes were ſold for 478 l. to ſuch as would take them down, and carry them thence. Alſo, the Ground or Plat was made plain at the Charge of the City, and then Poſſeſſion thereof was by certain Aldermen (in the Name of the whole Citizens) given to Sir Thomas Greſham, Knt. Agent to Queen Elizabeth, thereupon to build a Burſe, or Place for Merchants to aſſemble in, at his own Charges: And he, on the 7th of June, laying the firſt Stone of the Foundation, being Brick, accompanied with ſome Aldermen, every of them laid a Piece of Gold, which the Workmen took up, and forthwith followed upon the ſame with ſuch Diligence, that by the Month of November, in the Year 1567, the ſame was covered with Slate, and ſhortly after finiſhed.

In the Year 1570, on the 23d of January, the Queen's Majeſty, attended with her Nobility, came from her Houſe at the Strand, called Somerſet-houſe, and entered the City by Temple-bar, through Fleet-ſtreet, Cheapſide, and ſo by the North Side of the Burſe, through Threadneedle-ſtreet, to Sir Thomas Greſham's in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, where ſhe dined. After Dinner, her Majeſty returning through Cornhill, entered the Burſe on the South Side; and after ſhe had viewed every Part thereof above Ground, eſpecially the Pawne, which was richly furniſhed with all Sorts of the fineſt Wares in the City, ſhe cauſed the ſame Burſe, by an Herald and a Trumpet, to be proclaimed The Royal Exchange, and to be ſo called from thenceforth, and by no other Name.

The Rents of the Shops here brought in conſiderable Gains to Sir Thomas Greſham the Builder. And about five or ſix Years after, the Shops being all furniſhed with Wares, Greſham conſtrained all the Shopkeepers that had Shops above, to take Shops below, where was an equal Number; but theſe were in the loweſt Vaults of the Exchange. At this Time each Perſon paid four Marks a Year for every Shop above, and he would have as much for every Shop below, or elſe they ſhould not have one above: But after they had kept Shop below a little while, what with the Damp of the Vault, the Darkneſs of the Place, and the Unwillingneſs of Cuſtomers to buy their Wares there, they were ſo wearied, that they agreed among themſelves to give 4 l. a Year for a Shop above, that they might be freed from keeping Shop below; and ſo Sir Thomas ſhould turn the Vault to what other Uſe he would, either for Merchants Goods, or otherwiſe. Which Offer he accepted; and ſo the Tenants only furniſhed the Shops above, as they remain to this Day. And the Vaults have been uſed now a long Time for Stowing of Merchandizes, and chiefly Pepper.

Before this Exchange was thus built and compleated, there had been many Thoughts and Counſels among the Citizens and Merchants about the effecting of it; it being a thing greatly needed by thoſe that followed Merchandize, ſince it could not be carried on conveniently without ſuch a Place for Meeting and Conference together. And among the reſt, Richard Clough, Sir Thomas Greſham's Correſpondent in Antwerp, in the Year 1561, wrote a Letter to him, blaming the City of LONDON for neglecting ſo neceſſary a Thing; calling the Governors of the ſaid City, a Company that did ſtudy for nothing elſe than their own private Profit: "Con-"ſidering, added he, what a City LONDON "is; and that in ſo many Years the ſame found "not the Means to make a Burſe, but Mer-"chants muſt be content to ſtand and walk in "the Rain, more like Pedlars than Merchants. "In this Country, ſaid he, (meaning Antwerp) "and in all other, there is no kind of People "that have Occaſion to meet, but they have a "Place for that Purpoſe. Indeed, and if your "Buſineſs were done (here) and that I might " have the leiſure to go about it, and that I would " be a Means to Mr. Secretary to have his Fa- " vour therein; I would not doubt but to make " ſo fair a Burſe in LONDON, as the great " Burſe is in Antwerp, without ſolliciting any " Man more than he ſhall be well diſpoſed to " give, &c." Whence one may conjecture that Greſham had it in his Thoughts ſome Time before, and wanted only a Contribution from ſome wealthy Citizens, to aſſiſt in ſo expenſive a Work, which he obtained at laſt; the Citizens having purchaſed the Fee Simple of the Ground and Houſes, by certain Truſtees, conveyed it over to him to build the ſaid Burſe upon: And in the Conveyance he was to make a Re-aſſurance again to them, upon certain Conditions: But he dying before this was done, ſome Difference happened between the Lady Greſham and the City.

Sir Thomas Greſham got great Fame and Glory by this magnificent Work, and every one took Occaſion to extol him. Thus one Hugh Gough, in a Book dedicated to him ſoon after his Finiſhing this Structure, entertained him with Words to this Tenor, " That few had flouriſhed in " whom all theſe commendable Qualities had " reigned; as both to be beneficial to their " Country by ſafe Counſel, procuring of Safe- " guard for the ſame, and beſtowing of their Sub- " ſtance, to the Building of ſuch famous and " magnificent Works as might ſerve for common " Utility unto all Men. And by the Diſcretion " of thoſe Men that are learned and wiſe, if ever " any Subject hath enjoyed them, they attribute " it unto you. For what is he, which is igno- " rant of the Policies and Travails that your " Works have uſed and ſuſtained, to get Safe- " guard, and requiſite Furniture to the Realm; " beſide the infinite Riches given to the Build- " ing of that princely Work, commouly called " The Burſe: Which already declareth, and in " LONDON is openly to be ſeen, what Com- " modity generally it will bring to the Citizens " thereof. To what End ſhould I rehearſe, or " make mention of the great Diverſity which " Men account to be betwixt it and the huge " Tower of Babylon, or the outrageous Buildings " in Ægypt, named Pyramides; or of the ex- " ceeding Difference, wherein it excelleth the " intricate Labyrinths, and monſtrous Pillars e- " rected in divers Parts of the World? Conſi- " dering that it is unknown unto few, that theſe " were builded for a vain Oſtentation, or frivo- " lous Memorial, without any profitable Uſe; " or of Envy, becauſe the Founders thereof " would not leave ſuch Store of worldly Trea- " ſure unto their Succeſſors. I need not make " Rehearſal of your Courteſy, Gentleneſs, Friend- " ſhip and Liberality towards all Men; and, " which deſerveth no ſmall Commendation, to- " wards the Unknown and Strangers, &c.

AFTER the Death of Sir Thomas Greſham, the Founder of the Exchange, in the Year 1592, Lady Greſham, his Widow, contended with the Mayor and Truſtees for the Exchange; endeavouring to get an Act of Parliament to empower her and her Heirs to make Leaſes from Time to Time of 21 Years, or three Lives, of the Shops in the Exchange, keeping the Fines to herſelf, which was ſuppoſed to be againſt the Laſt Will of Sir Thomas, and contrary to an Act of Parliament made in the 23d Year of the Queen. She alſo complained, that the City did not, or would not, employ the Profits of the Exchange according to Sir Thomas's Will. This ſhe exhibited by Way of Supplication to the Counſel, againſt the Lord Mayor and his Brethren, the Aldermen.

To which they ſubjoined this Anſwer; " That " whereas the Lady Greſham had deſired to have " an Act of Parliament to authorize her and her " Heirs from Time to Time to make Leaſes of 21 " Years, or three Lives, of the Shops in the Royal- " Exchange, keeping the Fines thereof to herſelf, " and reſerving as many Rents as is now reſerved " to remain to the City of LONON: It is " thereunto anſwered, That the ſame her De- " mand is utterly againſt both the Laſt Will and " Teſtament of Sir Thomas Greſham, her late " Husband, as alſo expreſsly againſt an Act of " Parliament made in the 23d Year of her Ma- " jeſty's Reign. Unto which Act the ſaid Lady " Greſham was privy, and her Counſel was heard, " what they could ſay, before the ſaid Act " paſſed; and they ſay alſo, the ſame Requeſt of " the Lady Greſham is againſt all Reaſon and " Equity: For that the Citizens of the City of " LONDON, purchaſed in Fee Simple, in " the Name of Livers Feoffees, the Soil where- " upon the Royal-Exchange is built, and paid " for the ſame above 4000*l.* and in the eighth " Year of her Majeſty's Reign, conveyed the " ſame to Sir Thomas Greſham, upon Condition " to have Re-aſſurance made according to certain " Covenants, which was not done; and albeit " the Citizens might lawfully have entered for " Breach of the ſaid Condition, and preſently " taken the Rents and Profits of the Whole; " yet they have contented themſelves to accept " of the ſame according to the Laſt Will, and Act " of Parliament, and have ſuffered the ſaid Lady " Greſham to take the whole Profits: And yet " they have been at great Charges in the defend- " ing of Titles, made to ſome Part of the ſame, " and in paying of Quit-Rents, Tithes, and Wi- " dows Dowers; which they continue to this " Day.

" TOUCHING the Employment of the Pro- " fits of the Exchange, according to the Purport " of the Teſtament of Sir Thomas Greſham, it is " thereunto anſwered, that it meant, and ſo it " ſhall be performed, that the ſame, after the " Death of the Lady Greſham, ſhall be employed " juſtly and truly, according to the Truſt and " Confidence in them repoſed; which if they " ſhould break, there are Courts of Equity that " can take Order for Remedy thereof. But for- " aſmuch as the ſaid Lady Greſham is to have the " ſame during her Life, and the Employments " are not to be made 'till after her Death; there- " fore this Complaint is now made, before any " Injury be offered. And as it is now cauſeleſs, " ſo the Lord Mayor and Aldermen do aſſuredly " perſuade themſelves, there ſhall not at any " Time be any Cauſe given, of their Parts, to " complain againſt them. Wherefore their moſt " humble Suit is, that the ſaid Exchange may be " by them enjoyed, according to the ſaid Will, " and Act of Parliament.

THIS Lady Greſham died Anno 1596, the Rents of the Royal-Exchange, which ſhe enjoyed during her Life, with all Houſes, Buildings, Vaults and Profits thereof, amounted to the yearly Value of 751*l.* 5*s. per Ann.* over all Charges and Reprizes.

THIS Royal-Exchange was burnt down in the great Fire, but roſe again with more Splendor than before.

Its Ground-Plat is a Parallellogram, whoſe Length is 203 Feet, Breadth 171 Feet, Area, 127 Perch, Altitude of the Building, 56 Feet, and of the lofty Tower and Turret, or Lanthorn (whereon is the Figure of a Graſhopper, curiouſly done in poliſhed Braſs) 178 Feet, Length within, 144 Feet, Breadth, 117 Feet, Area, 61 ſquare Perches.

THIS ſtately Fabrick was erected at the Charge of the City and Company of Mercers, and coſt 80000*l.* between them. The Model was firſt ſhewn to King Charles II, who liked it well; but it was debated, whether they ſhould build after this Model or not, for Fear of launching into two

too great an Expence; ſeveral therefore were againſt it, but the Majority prevailed, having their Eye to the Honour of the City, and ſuppoſing the Shops above and below Stairs would in Time reimburſe them, which it appears now (too late) it will not; and ſo they are left in Debt for it.

THERE are Committees for this Exchange, and that other publick Building, called Greſham College, who manage the Rents and Payments thereof. Theſe Committees conſiſt of the Lord Mayor, for the Time being, and two Aldermen, and a certain Number of the Company of Mercers and the like of Citizens, commonly one of each of the other 11 Companies.

THIS curious Structure is thus built and adorned: The Walls are Portland Stone, Ruſtick Work, very ſtrong and neat, round the four Sides above Stairs are Shops about 200 in Number, which have been let from 20 l. to 60 l. each, but are now the greateſt Part unoccupied. There are Rails and Ballaſters on the Roof, which is covered with Lead. The aforeſaid Shops are elevated on 28 Columns or Pillars with Arches, whereby are conſtituted Ambulatories within the Exchange, for the Merchants to keep themſelves from Rain and other offenſive Weather; above which Arches is an Entablament and curious Enrichments, and on the Cornice another Range of Pilaſters, with Entablature (extending round the Inſide) and a curious Compaſs Pediment, in the Middle of the Cornice of each of the four Sides. Under the Pediment on the North Side are the King's Arms; on the South, thoſe of the City; and on the Eaſt, the Arms of Sir Thomas Greſham: And under the Pediment on the Weſt Side, the Arms of the Company of Mercers, with their reſpective Enrichments. The Intercolumns of the upper Range are 24 Niches, 19 of which are filled with the Statues of the Kings and Queens Regent of England, ſtanding erect, with their Robes and Regalia, except that of King James II, and King George II, which are habited like the Cæſars.

ON the South Side are ſeven Niches, of which four are filled, viz.

I. The moſt Eaſterly Figure, which has this Inſcription in Gold Letters, Edwardus Primus, Rex, Anno Dom. 1272. II. Weſtward, Edwardus III. Rex, Anno Dom. 1326. III. Henricus V. Rex, Anno Domini, 1412. IV. Henricus VI. Rex, Anno Domini, 1422.

ON the Weſt Side five Niches, four of which are filled, viz.

I. Under the moſt Southerly Figure is ſubſcribed in Gold Letters, Edwardus IV. Rex, Anno Domini 1460. II. Northward (the Crown pendant over his Head) Edwardus V. Rex, Anno Domini, 1483. III. Henricus VII. Rex, Anno Domini, 1487. IV. Henricus VIII. Rex, Anno Domini 1508.

ON the North Side ſeven Niches are filled viz.

I. THE moſt Weſterly, ſubſcribed in Gold Characters, Edwardus VI. Rex, Anno Domini 1547. II. Maria, Regina, Anno Domini 1553. III. Elizabetha, Regina, Anno Domini 1558. IV. Is ſubſcibed Sereniſſim. & Potentiſſim. Princip. Jacobo Primo, Mag. Brit. Fran. & Hibern. Reg. Fid. Defenſori, Societas Pannitonſorum poſuit A. D. 1684. V. VII. Jacobus II. Rex, Anno Domini 1685.

ON the Eaſt Side five Niches, one of which is vacant, the other fill'd, viz.

I. The moſt Northerly contains two Statues, viz. of King William and Queen Mary, ſubſcrib'd Gulielmus III. Rex, & Maria II. Regina, A. D. 1688, S. P. Q. Londin. Optim. Principibus, P. Southerly, the Statue of King George II. in the Habiliments of a Cæſar, wreathed upon the Head, and a Battoon or Truncheon in his Hand, little differing from that of Charles II. in the Center of the Area, only in looking Northward, inſcribed Georgius II. D. G. Mag. Brit. Fra. & Hib. Rex, Anno Dom. 1727, S. P. Q. L.

BESIDES the Niches wherein the Effigies of the aforenamed Kings are placed, the four that are vacant are the Places where Edward II, Richard II, Henry IV, and Richard III, ſhould have been; but it ſeems the City had no Mind to ſhew any Reſpect to the ſaid Kings, two of whom took away their Charter, and the other two were Uſurpers. One Thing more is to be added concerning the Statue of King Charles I, which after the King had loſt his Head, the Zealots of thoſe Times, to ſhew their Rage and Malice, threw down and broke to Pieces, cauſing to be writ under the Place where it ſtood, Exit Tyrannorum Ultimus, &c. The preſent Statue of that unfortunate Prince, was ſet up by the Grocers, to vindicate his Memory.

IN the Walls of the four Sides under the Piazza's within the Exchange are 28 ſeveral Niches round the Building, all vacant, except one near the North Weſt Angle, where is the Effigy of Sir Thomas Greſham, and the like is alſo (with Fret Work Cieling) above, where the Shops are, to which you aſcend by two ſpacious Stair-Caſes, having Black Marble Steps, one on the North, the other on the South Side: And the Area under the ſaid Piazza is a Pavement of White and Black Marble, but that of the reſt with fine Pebble, in the Center whereof is erected on a Marble Pedeſtal, about eight Foot high, the Statue of King Charles II, in Roman Habit; he is lively repreſented by the ingenious Hand of Mr. Gibbon, with a Battoon in his Hand, looking Southward: On this Side of the Pedeſtal, under an Imperial Crown, Wings, Trumpets of Fame, Sceptre, and Sword, Palm Branches, &c. theſe Words are inſcribed;

THIS Corporation, and that of the London-Aſſurance, which we ſhall mention before we conclude the Account of this Ward, were eſtabliſhed by Act of Parliament made in the Sixth of King George I. whereby it was enacted, that ſuch as ſhould be admitted as Members into the ſaid Corporations, ſhould be each a diſtinct and ſeparate Body Politick, for 31 Years, for the Aſſurance of Ships, Goods, and Merchandizes at Sea, or for lending Money upon Bottomry.

AND

And that each of the ſaid Corporations, in Conſideration of the many Benefits which might accrue to them by their Charters, ſhould pay into his Majeſty's Exchequer, the Sum of 300,000 l. for diſcharging the Debts of the Civil Liſts.

And that no other Society ſhould inſure Ships, or lend Money on Bottomry for the Future, but any private Perſon might inſure Ships, &c. as before; theſe Corporations however met with ſo little Encouragement, that the Crown was obliged to remit moſt Part of the Money they were to advance.

Next adjoining to the Royal Exchange, in Stow's Time, there remained Part of a large Stone Houſe, called the Caſtle, from ſuch a Sign at a Tavern Door; there was a Paſſage thro' this out of Cornhill into Threadneedle-ſtreet: The other Part of the ſaid Stone Houſe was taken down, for enlarging the Royal Exchange. This Stone Houſe was ſaid by ſome to have been a Church, whereof it had no Proportion; by others, a Jew's Houſe, as tho' none but Jews had dwelt in Stone Houſes: But that Opinion is without Warrant.

For, beſides the ſtrong Building of Stone Houſes, againſt Invaſion of Thieves in the Night, when no Watches where kept, in the Firſt Year of Richard I. to prevent the Caſualties of Fire, which often had happen'd in the City, when the Houſes were built of Timber, and covered with Reed or Straw, (Henry Fitz Alwine being Mayor) it was decreed, That from thenceforth no Man ſhould build within the City, but of Stone, until a certain Height, and to cover the ſame Building with Slate, or Brent Tiles.

The PARISH of St. PETER in CORNHILL.

St. Peter in Cornhill.

St. Peter, to whom this Church, and four or five more in the Cities of LONDON and Weſtminſter, are dedicated, was the Son of Jona, of the Province of Galilee, of the Town of Bethſaida, Brother of St. Andrew the Apoſtle, and the Prince of the Apoſtles. The particular Time of his Birth cannot be recovered, but probably he was at leaſt ten Years older than his Maſter.

The Name given him at his Circumciſion was Symon, or Symeon, (to which our Saviour added the Title of Cephas, which in Syriac, the vulgar Language of the Jews at that Time) ſignifying a Stone or Rock, as derived into the Greek Πετρος and by us Peter. In his Youth he was brought up to Fiſhing, which Trade he followed above a Year after he firſt ſaw our Saviour; but then, at our Saviour's Command, left all and followed him, and from this Time became his conſtant and inſeparable Diſciple.

He was crucified at Rome, on the Top of the Vatican Mount near Tybur, Anno Chriſti 69, (ſays Euſebius) in the Fourth of Nero; in the Twelfth (ſays Epiphanius); but more probably in the Tenth, or in the Year 65, (ſays Dr. Cave). He deſired not to be crucified the ordinary Way, but with his Head downwards, and Feet upwards, affirming, he was unworthy to ſuffer in the ſame Poſture in which his Lord had ſuffered before him.

His Body was buried in the Vatican near the Triumphal Way; over his Grave a ſmall Church was ſoon after erected, which being deſtroyed by Heliogabulus, his Body was removed to the Cœmetery, in the Appian Way, two Miles from Rome, from whence it was afterwards removed back to the Vatican, where it reſted ſomewhat obſcurely until the Reign of Conſtantine, who rebuilt and enlarged the Vatican, to the Honour of St. Peter, and infinitely enriched it with Gifts and Ornaments, which in every Age increaſed in Splendour and Riches, 'till it is become one of the Wonders of the World at this Day.

This our Apoſtle has written two Epiſtles, which have been received as Canonical. As to his Perſon, Authors give this following Account; That he was ſlender, and of a middle Size; his Complexion very pale, and his Hair curl'd and thick, but ſhort; his Eyes black, but ſpeckled with red, which, it is ſaid, proceeded from his frequent Weeping. As to his Temper, he was naturally fervent and eager, which was common to the Galileans; his Humility and Lowlineſs of Mind was ſingular, and his Love and Zeal for his Maſter admirable; his Courage was undaunted, and his Diligence in his Apoſtleſhip very wonderful.

The Hiſtory of this our Apoſtle may be read in the four Evangeliſts, and in the Acts of the Apoſtles, and in Dr. Cave's Lives of the Apoſtles, where his Life is written at large.

There are three Feſtivals celebrated in Memory of St. Peter; the firſt called the Feaſt of St. Peter and St. Paul, June 29, in Memory of both their Paſſions, which fell on that Day together, and is by ſome called Bis feſta Dies.

The ſecond is called the Feaſt of St. Peter ad Vincula, in Memory of St. Peter's Chains, which is annually kept on the Calends, or firſt Day of Auguſt. The original Inſtitution of which hath been variouſly related, and the Truth of them very much ſuſpected.

The third Feaſt of St. Peter is called the Feaſt of St. Peter's Chair, kept on February 22, in Memory of St. Peter's See, or Chair, at Antioch, ſome ſay at Rome; which Feaſt having been of a long Time celebrated in the Church of Romes, being grown out of Uſe, and neglected, was, by Pope Paul IV, in 1556, reſtored.

The Church of St. Peter is ſituated on the South Side, and towards the Eaſt End of Cornhill. Its Foundation is ſaid to be of great Antiquity, if an Inſcription on a South Pillar may be credited, which had the Author expected, he would have done well to have ſubſcribed his Name, or told us what Authors of Note he extracted the Relation from; for indeed the Truth thereof may be liable to be called in Queſtion, ſince in the ſame Inſcription it is ſo poſitively affirmed, (though ſo uncertain, that many good Authors differ in their Opinions about it) i. e. That Brute reigned in England 1245 Years before Lucius, &c. But waving that, the Inſcription ſets forth, that this Church was founded an Archbiſhop's See by King Lucius, A. D. 179, where it continued the Metropolitan of this Kingdom 400 Years, when it was removed to Canterbury, by Auſtin the Monk, &c. But Mr. Stow (from Joceline) ſays, That Thean, Archbiſhop of LONDON, with the Aſſiſtance of Ciran, Chief Butler to King Lucius, built this Church of St. Peter, and that Elevanus, Archbiſhop of LONDON, built the Library formerly thereto belonging; and from Harriſon's Deſcription of Britain; that it is more probable, that the Metropolitan Church, founded by King Lucius, was St. Peter's Weſtminſter, there appearing no ſuch Name as Cornhill before the Norman Conqueſt; the Similitude of Sound between the Word Thorney, where St. Peter's Weſtminſter ſtood, and Cornhill, might afterwards occaſion the Miſtake; but upon the whole it is evident, both from the Inſcription and Joceline, that (whether Lucius or Thean were the Founders) this Church was founded in King Lucius's Reign above 1570 Years ago, tho' whether the Archbiſhop's See was here or at Weſtminſter, or at the Place now St. Paul's (where the firſt Biſhop's See was) is ſomewhat uncertain. The Steeple was repaired in 1629, and the whole Church repaired and beautified Anno 1633, at the Pariſh Charge, amounting to about 1000 l. but but in the unfortunate Year 1666, the Flames demoliſhing this Church, it was rebuilt Anno 1680, and finiſhed 1681.

THIS Church is all built of Stone, except Part of the South Side, and the Tower, which is Brick; the reſt of the Steeple, viz. the Dome and Spire, are Timber covered with Lead, and ſupported with ſquare Pillars, adorned with Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order; the Area of the Chancel is one Step higher than that of the reſt of the Church, all which is paved with Stone; and there are three Iſles.

AS to the Finiſhing and Ornament, beſides the Pilaſters aforeſaid, it is wainſcotted round with Oak, ten Feet high, with which Kind of Timber the Chancel is ſeparated from the Church, by a Screen of ſeveral ſmall fluted Pillars and Arches, and four larger Pilaſters, and ſingle Cornice of the Corinthian Order, on which, over each of the ſaid Iſles is a Pediment, and a handſome Aperture out of the Middle Iſle into the Chancel, adorned with the King's Arms between (tho' at a ſmall Diſtance from) the Lion and Unicorn, and alſo a Cherub finely carved.

THE Altar-piece is alſo of Oak, having the Ornament of Pilaſters of the Ionick Order; the Intercolumns are the Decalogue between the Pater Noſter and the Creed, done in Gold Letters on Black, under a Glory between two Cherubims; the Foot-pace is Marble, incloſed with Rail and Ballaſter; and the Outſide of this End of the Church is alſo adorned with Pilaſters, Entablature, and Pediment of the ſaid Ionick Order, alſo Vaſes, Cartouches, &c.

AT the Weſt End of the Church is a neat Gallery, ſupported with Columns of the Tuſcan Order; and the Inſide of the Roof is divided into Pannels and Arches of Fret-work.

HERE are alſo four ornamental Wainſcot Door-caſes of the Corinthian Order, and Enrichments of Cherubims, Flowers, Cartouches, &c. and a pretty Marble Font; both Baſon, Foot-pace, and Rails of the ſame.

DIMENSIONS of this Church are, Length 80 Feet, Breadth 47, Altitude 40, and that of the Steeple (wherein is only one Bell) is about 140 Feet.

And that at the ſame Time, every Year, one of the ſaid four Collectors ſhall be choſen by the ſaid Collectors, to be principal Labourer for the Year enſuing; and ſo from Year to Year for ever. And that the principal Labourer ſhall have to himſelf, for his Labour about the Reparation of the Tenements, and in fulfilling my ſaid Will, and for his Pains taken in that Year, 6 s. 8 d. And that every of the ſaid three Collectors ſhall have 3 s. 4 d.

THERE was formerly a very handſome Library belonging to this Pariſh-Church, which was firſt built of Stone, and afterwards repaired with Brick by the Executors of Sir John Crosby, Alderman. Mr. Stow ſays, 50 Years before he wrote his Survey, it had been well furniſhed with Books, which were viewed and commended by John Leyland, but in his Time were all gone, and the Place occupied by a Schoolmaſter.

AS for the Parſonage Houſe and Glebe, the former was burnt down in the great Fire, and the Ground was let out by Dr. Hodges, then Rector to Samuel Purchaſe, Anno 1670, for 40 Years, at the Rent of 15 l. per Annum. It lies at the Weſt End of the Church and Church-yard in St. Peter's-alley, and contains in Length about 70 Feet.

THE Rent of 15 l. per Annum, reſerved upon this Leaſe for the Parſonage Houſe Ground, was parted withal by the then Incumbent, Dr. Beveridge, upon Condition that the Pariſh would make it up ſo much as to purchaſe the Leaſe of the Houſe where he then dwelt in Corbet-court, was aſſigned over by Purchaſe, in whoſe Hands it was, to Mr. Hinton and others, for the Parſon of St. Peter's Cornhill, and Succeſſors, by a Deed, dated Feb. 8, 1675, for the Term of 40 Years, commencing 1674, at a Pepper-corn per Ann.

THERE belonged to this Parſonage three Glebe Houſes, joining to the North End of the Church, fronting Cornhill. The Ground of which Houſes was leaſed by Dr. Hodges to the ſaid Purchaſe for 56 Years, Anno 1668, at the old Rent of 50 l. per Annum, according to a Decree of the Judges at Clifford's-Inn.

THIS Living is a Rectory, in the Gift of the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, the Value 110 l. per Annum, beſides Fees, and rated in the King's Books at 39 l. 5 s. 9 d. ob.

THE Rector is the Right Rev. Dr. Waugh, Lord Biſhop of Carliſle, and the Lecturer, Mr. Stephen Unwin.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL in CORNHILL.

St. Michael in Cornhill.

THIS Church is ſo called, being dedicated, as ſix more in this City are, to St. Michael the Archangel. The Word Michael ſignifies, Who is like God.

St. Michael the Archangel is mentioned in divers Places in the Holy Scripture, as Dan. x. 13, where he is ſtiled one of the Chief Princes, Dan. xii. 1. he is named the Great Prince. Jude, ver. 9. he contended with the Devil about the Body of Moſes. And Rev. xii. 17. Michael and his Angels fought againſt the Dragon.

HE was the Protector of the Jews, as we read in the forecited Place in Dan. xii. 1. where it is ſaid, At that Time ſhall Michael ſtand up, the Great Prince, who ſtandeth for the Children of thy People. And it is believed that he repreſented GOD's Majeſty in the Burning Buſh, and in Mount Sinai. He has been more particularly conſider'd as the Church's Protector, by the Roman Catholicks, who relate many Apparitions of his, and chiefly one in Apuleia, in 403, in the Popedom of Gelaſius I, whereof the Anniverſary is kept the eighth of May. Pope Boniface III, built a Church at Rome, in his Honour, on the Top of Adrian's Sepulchre, therefore called Mount St. Angelo: He is alſo Protector of France in particular, where there is a famous Monaſtery, named Mount St. Michael, which was built on a Rock in the Middle of the Sea, after ſuch an Apparition to St. Aubert, Biſhop of Auranges in Normandy.

THE Feſtival of St. Michael, is yearly celebrated on the 29th of September.

THE Church of which we are to ſpeak, ſituated on the South Side of Cornhill, is of an antient Foundation; for Alnothus, the Prieſt, gave it to the Abbot of Coveſham, or rather Eveſham, as Mr. Strype ſays, for there was no ſuch Abbey as Coveſham in England. Reynold, Abbot, and the Convent there, granted the ſame to Sparling, the Prieſt, to all Purpoſes, as he and his Predeceſſors before had held it; to the ſame Sparling they alſo granted all their Lands which they there had, except certain Lands, which Orgar le Prowde held of them, and paid 2 s. yearly. For this Grant Sparling was to pay one Mark Rent, yearly, to the ſaid Abbot of Coveſham, or Eveſham, and find him his Lodging, Salt, Water, and Fire, when he came to LONDON: This was granted 1133, about the 34th of Henry I.

THE Steeple or Bell-Tower of the old Church here was begun to be built in the Year 1421, and had a good Ring of ſix Bells in it, one of which was called Rus, being the Gift of William Rus, or Rous, Alderman and Goldſmith, about the Year 1430; this Bell was to be rung nightly at Eight of the Clock, and otherwiſe for Knels, and in Peals, and was rung by one Man 100 Years and upwards, after whom it was overhalled by four or five at once, and thrice broken. The new Caſting of it coſt the Pariſh 100 Marks.

SPEAKING of this Steeple, Mr. Stow tells this unaccountable Story, which take in his own Words. "Upon St. James's Night, certain "Men in the Loft, next under the Bells, ringing of a Peal, a Tempeſt of Lightning and "Thunder did ariſe, and an ugly ſhapen Sight "appeared to them, coming in at the South "Window, and lighted on the North; for Fear "whereof they all fell down, and lay as dead "for the Time, letting the Bells ring and ceaſe "of their own Accord. When the Ringers came "to themſelves, they found certain Stones of "the North Window to be raiſed and ſcrat, as "if they had been ſo much Butter printed with "a Lyon's Claw: The ſame Stones were faſtened "there again, and ſo remain 'till this Day. I "have ſeen them oft, and put a Feather or ſmall "Stick into the Holes where the Claws had "entered three or four Inches deep.

"AT the ſame Time certain main Timber "Poſts at Queen Hith were ſcrat and cleft from "Top to Bottom, and the Pulpit Croſs in Paul's "Church-yard was likewiſe ſcrat, cleft, and "overturned. One of the Ringers lived in my "Youth, whom I have often heard to verifie the "ſame.

IN the Years 1618, 1619, and 1620, a Repair was made of this Church, which coſt 644 l. and in Anno 1633 more, 300 l. at the Charge of the Pariſh; and being in the Year 1666 demoliſhed by the great Fire, except the Tower, it was rebuilt and finiſhed in 1672; it was again repaired in 1701; and laſtly in the Year 1723, was repaired, beautified, and the Tower rebuilt.

THE Nature and Order of the Building is as follows: The Walls are moſtly Stone, the Roof is camerated, having Groins and Impoſts, covered with Lead, and ſupported with Columns of the Tuſcan Order; and the Floor of the Church is four Steps above that of the Entrance, or nine above the Street. It is paved with Stone, and the Chancel moſt Part with Marble. It has three Iſles; and on the South Side are ſix light Windows.

IT is (tho' not large) a beautiful Church; the South Windows are adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Arches, which are enrich'd (on the Key-pieces) with Shields. The Pews are Oak, with which the Church is alſo wainſcotted eight Feet high. The Pulpit is adorned with a Cornice, and has Enrichments of Cherubims, and a Lamp.

THE Altar-piece with two Columns, Entablature, and Pediment of the Corinthian Order, the Columns painted Blue and Gold, and the reſt Olive Colour. The Intercolumns are the two Tables of the Decalogue between the Portraits of Moſes and Aaron, finely painted under a Seraphim, between two Cherubims, and as many Feſtoons; and the Cornice and Pediment are adorned with Cantalivers, all which Enrichments are gilt with Gold. In the Window above this, are the King's-Arms painted on the Glaſs, which Aperture is adorned with a Scarlet Feſtoon Curtain, painted as edged with Gold Fringe. On the North and South Sides of the Altar is a ſpacious Piedroit, and another on the South Side, painted, and a Chalice Paten, Incenſe Pot, Aaron's budded Rod, and the Pot of Manna, &c. painted; and on the Roof over the Table, is a Glory appearing in Clouds, painted and gilt, ſome of whoſe Rays are about eight Feet in Length. At the Eaſt End of the South Iſle are painted the Drapers Arms on the Glaſs of a Window there. At the Weſt End of the Church is a handſome Wainſcot Door-Caſe, adorn'd with two Columns and their Entablament, of the Corinthian Order, enriched with Feſtoons. This was done in the Year 1688, and over that an Organ Gallery.

THE Dimenſions of the Church are 87 Feet, Breadth 60, Altitude 35; and that of the Tower, to the Top of the ſmall ones at the four Angles, is about 130 Feet. It is built of old ſquare Stone and Boulder, wherein were, before the Fire, ten, and now a fine Ring of twelve Bells.

John Tolus, Alderman 1548, gave to John Willowby, Parſon of that Church, to Thomas Lodge, G. Hind, and P. Bolde, Church-wardens, and to their Succeſſors, (towards the Reparations of that Church, and Relief of the Poor, for ever) his Tenement, with the Appurtenances, in the Pariſh of St. Michael, which he had lately purchaſed of Alvery Randalph, of Badleſmeere in Kent: But the Pariſh never had the Gift, nor heard thereof by the Space of forty Years after; ſuch was the Conſcience of G. Barne, and other the Executors, to conceal it to themſelves; and ſuch was the Negligence of the Pariſhioners, that (being informed thereof) they laid no Claim unto it.

Philip Gunter, that was Alderman for a Time, and gave 400 l. to be diſcharged thereof, was buried in the Cloiſter, about the Year 1582, and Anne his Wife, &c.

Francis Beneſon, and William Towerſon.

On the South Side the Chancel.

Philip Gunter, Skinner, ſome Time Alderman of this City, departed this Life the 15th Day of February 1582, and lieth buried in the Cloiſter of this Church: Who married Anne, Daughter of Henry Barley, of Albery, in the County of Hereford, Eſq; and had Iſſue by her eleven Sons and four Daughters. He left good Maintenance for two Sermons, yearly, for ever, in this Church; the one on the 15th Day of March, the other on the 25th of December.

On the North Side the Chancel.

Here lieth buried the Body of Peter Houghton, of LONDON, Alderman. He was free of the Grocers Company, a Merchant of the Staple in England, and a Merchant-Adventurer. He was one of the Sheriffs of this City Anno 1593, and died the laſt Day of December 1596. He gave to the four Hoſpitals, (that is to ſay) St. Bartholomew's, Chriſt's Church, St. Thomas's and Bridewell, 600 l. equally to be divided between them. He gave alſo to the Grocers Company 400 l. to be lent to eight young Men of the ſame Company (gratis) from two Years to two Years, for ever: Which 1000 l. was paid by John Vernon, Merchant-Taylor, accordingly. He had to Wife Mary Houghton, who ſince married with Sir Thomas Vavaſor, Knight Marſhal. He had Children by her, two Sons, named Hatton and Peter, who died young; and two Daughters, Mary and Elizabeth. Mary was married to Sir James Scudamore, Knight; and Elizabeth to Sir Henry Bedingfield, Knight.

Under an Effigies, finely carved, in white Marble, is the following Inſcription:

Here lieth buried (by a deſired Promiſe made to Alderman Houghton, while he lived) the Body of John Vernon, Merchant-Taylor; who was Maſter of the ſaid Company Ann. 1609. And he was alſo a Merchant of the Staple in England. He died the Day of An. Dom.

Nemo ante obitum felix.

Here, in the Vault, lieth buried the Bodies of John Taylor, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, and Conſtance his Wife, one of the Daughters and Co-heirs of Reginald Wooddeſon, of Alresford in Hampſhire, Gent. They had Iſſue between them three Sons, John, who died young, Robert and John. He departed this Life the 4th Day of April 1597, being about the Age of 63 Years: And ſhe, being the Age of 67, the 29th of October 1614. Votum S. Pauli. Phil. 1. Adepti.

In the ſame Wall is a handſome ſmall Monument, thus inſcribed:

In March 1588,
Was buried in this Place,
Alexander Every, Merchant,
But 40 Years of Age,
Whoſe godly Gifts, by Will,
Are Warrants of God's Grace
In him. By whom,
Think on thy ſelfe, and on the Stage
Thou ſtand'ſt, and meaſure it,
And other worldly Things:
As Streams that ſwiftly ſlide
Down from their Springs.
An. Dom. 1570. primo Feb.

On the Ground is a handſome plated Stone, with this Inſcription:

Here lieth Francis Benneſon,
A Citizen was he,
A Merchant-Adventurer alſo,
And of the Myſtery
Of Haberdaſhers Company.
A Man of honeſt Name,
Who here on Earth, to fear of God,
His vital Days did frame.
Two Wives he had, the firſt of them
In Antwerp born ſhe was;
The other he a Widow left,
So God brought it to paſs.
His Soul (no doubt) doth now remain
With God among the reſt
Of other worthy Chriſtians,
Who evermore are bleſt.

On a handſome ſmall Monument, on a Pillar right againſt the Pulpit, is this Inſcription:

Hereunder lieth buried the Body of the worſhipful John Harby, Citizen and Skinner of LONDON, and free of the Merchant-Adventurers Company, for Muſcovia, Spain, and the Eaſt Indies: Who had two Wives, Anne Mording, Widow, by whom he had Iſſue four Sons, and one Daughter, viz. Thomas, Francis, John, William, and Emme. And laſtly, he married with Anne Saltonſtal, Daughter to Sir Richard Salſtontal, Knight, ſome Time Lord Mayor of this City; by whom he had two Sons, Richard and Daniel. Which John Harby after 74 Years, 74 Years, departed this Life the 15th Day of April 1610, expecting a joyful Reſurrection by JESUS CHRIST.

ON a fair Monument in the Cloiſter South, is the following Inſcription:

Hic dormivit in Chriſto Johannes Cowper, Armiger; uxorem habuit Elizabeth Ironſide ante ſe mortuam. Obiit 3 Junii. Anno Dom. 1609.

ON the North Side the Chancel, is a handſome Monument thus inſcribed:

Memoriæ Sacrum.

Laurentio & Mariæ Caldwell conjugibus, ſacro fœdere junctis, & duodenæ Prolis Parentibus. Quorum Uxor & Mater Maria obiit Octobris 20, Anno Dom. 1621. Maritus & Pater Laurentius, Novemb. 21, 1625. Septuagenariis utriſq; Liberalibus & ſuis, & de ſuis. Hoc ſepulchrum poſuere parentatis hæredes Bonitatis. Filii eorum obſervantiſſimi: Quos defunctos & Deus habet, & pauperes carendo lugent.

Omnia Oſſa juſti cuſtodit Dominus.

UNDER this, upon the Figure of a Tomb.

Here is lodged a loving Pair,
Sleeping, reſt they free from Care.
Though their Journey from their Birth,
Had been tedious long on Earth,
He that freed them from their Sin,
Sent them to this holy Inn,
Joyful Requiems for to Sing
Hallelujahs to their King.
Till the Summons, till the Day,
Till the Trump ſound, Riſe, Away.

ON the South Side the Chancel, is a handſome Marble Table ſet up for Benjamin Howel, Goldſmith, who departed this Life the 25th of April, 1715.

THIS Pariſh-Church hath, on the South Side thereof, a neat Cloiſter, and a good Church-yard, in in which was formetly a Pulpit Croſs, not much alike that which was in St. Paul's Church-yard.

Sir John Rudſtone, Mayor, cauſed the ſaid Pulpit Croſs, in his Life-time, to be built, the Church-yard to be enlarged, by Ground purchaſed of the next Pariſh; and alſo good Houſes to be raiſed for lodging the Choir Men, ſuch as at that Time were Aſſiſtants to Divine Service, then daily ſung by Note in that Church.

THE ſaid John Rudſtone died 1531, and was buried in a Vault under the ſaid Pulpit Croſs. He appointed Lands for Sermons to be preached there, but his Tomb was taken away before Mr. Stow's Time, among others, particularly one of Dr. Richard Yaxley, one of the Phyſicians to King Henry VIII, who was buried there, with his Wife, under a Tomb of Marble.

THE Choir of this Church being diſſolved, the Lodgings of the Choir Men were, by the grave Fathers of that Time, charitably appointed for the Receipt of antient decayed Pariſhioners, chiefly Widows.

AMONG the other Benefactions to this Church we muſt not omit that which is thus expreſſed over an Almonry ſet up at the Weſt End of the North Wall;

Spencer Cowper, Eſq; gave, by Will, 5*l. per Annum* in Bread, to be diſtributed every firſt Sunday in the Month, among the Poor of this Pariſh for ever, A. D. 1678.

THIS Living is a Rectory; the Advowſon is in the Drapers Company. Value per Act of Parliament 140 l. per Annum, beſides Perquiſites, Glebes, &c. and is rated in the King's Books at 35 l. 1 s. 8 d.

THE Rector is the Reverend Dr. Samuel Baker; and the Lecturer is the Rev. Mr. Warneford; the ſix o'Clock Lecturer, on Sundays, is the Reverend Mr. William Butler, Rector of St. Ann's Alderſgate.

PRAYERS are Wedneſdays and Fridays, about ten o'Clock. Here is a very good Organ, and twelve Bells, as before mentioned.

ONE End of St. Michael's-alley comes into Birchover-lane, ſo called from one Birchover, the firſt Builder and Owner thereof; but now corruptly called Birchin-lane; one half of which is in this Ward, the other in Langborn Ward.

IN this Birchin-lane, in the latter Time of King Henry VIII. a certain great Man of the Court had his Houſe; who practiſed a Diſorder: And his Example was ſo prevalent, that no Proclamations or Laws could redreſs it; inſomuch that a Writer of thoſe Days could not but take Notice of it in theſe Words, "Not fully 24 "Years ſince, (that was about 1540) when all "Acts of Parliament, many good Proclamations, "divers ſtrict Commandments, ſore Puniſhments "openly, ſpecial Words privately, could not do ſo "much, to take away one Miſorder, as the Example "of one big one of this Court did, ſtill to keep up "the ſame (perhaps it was the Exceſs of Apparel). "The Memory whereof doth yet remain as a com-"mon Proverb of Birchin-lane.

THIS Lane, and the high Street, near adjoining, were inhabited in old Times, by wealthy Drapers, and from thence, on that Side the Street down to the Stocks, in the Reign of Henry VI, dwelt Fripperers, or Upholſters, who ſold Apparel and old Houſhold Stuff.

ABOUT the ſame Time a Pint of Wine was ſold at the Pope's-Head Tavern for a Penny, and Bread given with it gratis.

THIS Pope's Head Tavern, with other Houſes adjoining, ſtrongly built of Stone, were formerly in one, belonging to ſome Perſon of great State, or rather to the King, as may be ſuppoſed by the Arms, viz. Three Lions Paſſant Gardant, which was the whole Arms of England, before the Reign of Edward III, who quarter'd them with the Arms of France. Theſe Arms, ſupported by two Angels, were handſomely and largely carved in the Fore Front of this Houſe towards the High Street.

IT has been ſaid, that King John had his Court in the aforeſaid Houſe, which is not unlikely, for Matthew Paris ſaith, in his Hiſtory, that, in the Year 1232, Henry III. ſent Hubert de Burgho, Earl of Kent, to Cornhill, in LONDON, there to anſwer all Matters objected againſt him, where he wiſely acquitted himſelf.

THE Pope's-Head Tavern hath a Foot-way through from Cornhill into Lombard-ſtreet; and down lower on the high Street of Cornhill, was another great Tavern, called the Cardinal's Hat, which had alſo a Thoroughfare into Lombard-ſtreet.

The modern State of Cornhill Ward. AS to the modern State of this Ward: It is but ſmall, having but one principal Street, which is Cornhill, from whence it takes its Name. This Street is very ſpacious, and repleniſhed with lofty Houſes, graced with good Fronts, and inhabited with Traders of Note, chiefly with Linen-Drapers on the North Side; there are ſeveral Upholſters and Woollen-Drapers on the South, and many Bookſellers about the Exchange, and by Reaſon of its Vicinity to which Place, not only this Street, but all the adjacent Parts are of great Reſort, and crowded with Merchants and Tradeſmen, inſomuch that the Taverns, Coffee-Houſes, Eating-Houſes, and other ſuch like Places of publick Reception; as they make conſiderable Gains, ſo they pay vaſt Rents.

THE Places of moſt note in this Street, beginning Weſtwardly on the South Side, are firſt, the Swan and Hoop Tavern, which hath a Paſſage into Lombard-ſtreet; next the Pope's-Head Tavern, with a narrow Paſſage alſo into Lombard-ſtreet, but well inhabited by Tradeſmen, eſpecially ſuch as keep Toyſhops, but is far ſhort of what it was before the Building of Exchange-alley, which lies next Eaſtward, and hath two Paſſages out of Cornhill, one into Lombard-ſtreet, and the other bending Eaſt into Birchin-lane.

IT is a large Place vaſtly improved, chiefly out of an Houſe of Alderman Backwel, a Goldſmith, before the great Fire, well built, inhabited by Tradeſmen, eſpecially that Paſſage into Lombard-ſtreet againſt the Exchange, and is a Place of a very conſiderable Concourſe of Merchants, Seafaring Men and other Traders, occaſioned by the great Coffee-Houſes (Jonathan's, Garraway's, &c.) that ſtand there. Now Brokers, and ſuch as deal in Buying and Selling of Stocks, do moſt frequent it. The Alley is broad and well paved with Free-Stone, neatly kept. The Fleece Tavern, ſeated in Cornhill, hath a Paſſage through the Jeruſalem, another noted Coffee-Houſe in this Alley, being a very large Houſe and of great Reſort.

GOING over on the North Side to the Street, moſt Weſtward, is the Globe Tavern.

Caſtle-Alley, adjoining Weſtward to the Exchange, being a great Thoroughfare. In this Alley is a ſmall Court ſo called.

ADJOINING to the Exchange, Eaſtwards, is Sweeting's-Alley, or Rents, being two narrow Paſſages into Threadneedle-ſtreet, with Free-Stone Pavements, which Alleys are generally inhabited by Coffee-Houſes, and other publick Houſes; but the greateſt Part of theſe Alleys, towards Threadneedle-ſtreet, are in Broad-ſtreet Ward.

NEXT Eaſtward, is Freeman's-yard, a large open Court, with a Free-Stone Pavement, well built and inhabited; Newman's-yard likewiſe, another open Place with good Houſes.

Finch, or Fink-lane, comes out of Cornhill, and falls into Threadneedle-ſtreet, over-againſt the French Church. Of this Lane the Part from Spread-Eagle-court to the Corner by Cornhill, which is about 112 Feet on both Sides, is in this Ward. The reſt in Broad-ſtreet Ward.

Weigh-houſe-yard, an open Place, with good Buildings: This was the Place where the Merchandizes, brought from beyond Seas, were to be weighed by the King's Beam. But now the ſaid Houſe is converted into other Uſes, and there is a new Weigh-houſe built in Little Eaſt-cheap for the ſaid Uſe; but little regarded, for that the Power doth not compel the Merchants to that great Trouble of ſending their Goods ſo to be weighed.

Star-court, Eaſtwards of Weigh-houſe-yard, a large open Place, well built and inhabited; and on the Weſt Side is a genteel Houſe incloſed from the reſt.

Birchin-lane, hath not above 170 Feet on both Sides of the Way in this Ward; the reſt towards Lombard-ſtreet, being in Langborn Ward. It is a Place of a conſiderable Trade, eſpecially for Mens Apparel; the greateſt Part of the Shopkeepers being Saleſmen. In this Lane are theſe Alleys, viz. Caſtle-alley, but ordinary; it falls into St. Michael's-alley; White-lion-alley, but ordinary; at the upper End is a Paſſage into George-yard, and in this Alley is Cock-court, which is but ſmall, and on the other Side is a Paſſage into Caſtle-alley.

BEYOND Birchin-lane, is St. Michael's Cornhill Church, which is ſeated backwards, but its chief Door for Entrance is in Cornhill, and behind the Church is a handſome Church-yard, encloſed with a Brick Wall. Adjoining to this Church Weſtward, is a Paſſage out of Cornhill, called St. Michael's-alley, which runs by the Church-yard, and turning Eaſtwards falls into Bell-yard, which leadeth to Gracechurch-ſtreet; in this Alley the Houſes ſtand on the Weſt and South Sides, the other Sides lying open, and looking into the Church-yard. Out of this Alley is a Paſſage into George-yard, and another into Birchin-lane.

MORE Eaſtward, not far from the Church of St. Michael, and at the very Corner of Gracechurch-ſtreet, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Peter's Cornhill; adjoining to which is St. Peter's-alley, well inhabited, and hath a Paſſage with a Free-Stone Pavement into Gracechurch-ſtreet.

THERE are to watch in the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, one Conſtable with the Beadle, and 16 Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve as Jurors in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in January.

THIS Ward has an Alderman, his Deputy, and ſix Common Council Men, four Conſtables, four Scavengers, 16 Wardmote Inqueſt-Men, and a Beadle.

IT is charged to the Fifteen, at 16*l.*

THE preſent Alderman of this Ward is John Salter, Eſq;

CHAP. VIII.

LANGBORN WARD.

LANGBORN Ward is ſo called from a long Born of ſweet Water, which, of old Time, breaking out into Fenchurch-ſtreet, ran down the ſame and Lombard-ſtreet, to the Weſt End of St. Mary Woolnoth's Church, where turning South, and breaking into many ſmall Shares, Rills, or Streams, it gave Name to Shareborn-lane, or Southborn-lane, as ſome have wrote it, becauſe it ran South to the River Thames. This Ward beginneth at the Weſt End of Aldgate Ward in Fenchurch-ſtreet, by Ironmongers Hall, which is on the North Side of that Street, at a Place called Culver-alley, where ſome Time was a Lane, thro' which was a Paſſage into Lime-ſtreet, but was long ago ſtopp'd up, on Account of Thieves that lurked there by Night; and in Stow's Time there was a Tennis-court in the ſaid Alley.

Fenchurch-ſtreet took that Name from a Fenny or Mooriſh Ground, ſo made by Means of this Born which paſſed through it; and therefore in the Guildhall of this City, this Ward is called by the Name of Langborn and Fenny about, and not Fenchurch-ſtreet.

not otherwiſe: Yet others are of Opinion that it took its Name from Fœnum, that is, Hay, ſold there, as Graſs-ſtreet took its Name from Graſs or Herbs there ſold. In the Midſt of this Street ſtood a ſmall Pariſh-Church called,

The PARISH of
St. GABRIEL FENCHURCH,

But Corruptly

FANCHURCH.

IN the LONDON Regiſter it was recorded by the Name of St. Mary Fenchurch, till the Year 1517, afterwards by that of All Saints Fenchurch, and St. Gabriel Fenchurch, from whence it may be conjectured, that it was dedicated to the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, to the Holy Angel Gabriel, and to all Saints.

THIS Church was enlarged in Length nine Feet, richly and very worthily beautified at the proper Coſt and Charges of the Pariſh, in the Years 1631 and 1632, amounting to 537 l. 7 s. 10 d.

THE King's Arms handſomely painted in the Chancel Window, was the free Gift of Thomas Clark, of this Pariſh, Glazier.

Helming Legget, Eſq; by Licence of Edw. III. in the 49th of his Reign, gave one Tenement, with a Curtelage thereto belonging, and a Garden with the Entry thereto leading, unto Sir John Harriot, Parſon of Fenchurch, and to his Succeſſors for ever; the Houſe to be a Parſonage Houſe, the Garden to be a Church-yard, or Burying-place for the Pariſh.

IN the 28th of Henry VIII, John Bayly, Clerk, Parſon of this Church, with the Conſent of the Biſhop of LONDON, the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, and the Lord Chancellor, Patron of this Church in Right of the King, let a Leaſe of certain Tenements, and Houſes with a Garden adjoining to the ſame, belonging to the Rector of this Church, ſituated in Church-alley, for the Term of 61 Years, to Richard Caryndon, and his Wife, for the annual Rent of 40 s.

IN 1636, the annual Profits of this Church were returned as followeth:

Tithes	83	03	6
Caſualties	2	08	2
Glebe	16	00	0
A Parſonage Houſe let for	30	00	0

THIS Church ſuffered the common Fate of a great many others in the late general Conflagration of this City; upon the new Building whereof, it was, by Act of Parliament, totally demoliſhed, and the Site thereof laid into the Street, but yet united and annexed to the Pariſh-Church of St. Margaret Pattens, both which together are made of the yearly Value of 120 l. in Lieu of Tithes to the Incumbent, as may be ſeen in St. Margaret's.

IN Fenchurch-ſtreet was an eminent Houſe called Denmark Houſe, where the Ruſſian Ambaſſadors were lodged in the Time of Queen Mary.

THE next is Lombard-ſtreet, ſo called from the Longobards, and other Merchants, Strangers of divers Nations, aſſembling there twice every Day. King Edward II, in the 12th of his Reign, confirmed a Meſſuage, ſome Time belonging to Robert Turke, abutting on Lombard-ſtreet toward the South, and toward Cornhill on the North, for the Merchants of Florence, which proveth that Street to have had the Name of Lombard-ſtreet, before the Reign of Edward II.

AS the Merchants formerly met here for Traffick, ſo the Pope's Merchants alſo chaffered here for their Commodities; and had good Markets for their Wafer Cakes, ſanctified at Rome, their Pardons, &c. For in an old Book, printed Anno 1545, called, A Lamentation againſt the City of LONDON, are theſe Words: "This fine "Flower have they made the chiefeſt of all their "Triſh Traſh. I pray thee, gentle Reader, "where not his Pardoners Merchants to them? "Yea, it is well known, that their Pardons, and "other of their Trumpery, hath been bought and "ſold in Lombard-ſtreet, and other Places, as "thou will buy and ſell a Horſe in Smithfield.

BEFORRE the Building of the Exchange, it was by divers Common Councils, about the 26th Year of King Henry VIII, conſulted upon, Whether there ſhould be a Burſe, or convenient Place of Meeting for Merchants, to treat of their Buſineſs. The ſame Year the King ſent his Letters to the City, for making of a new Burſe at Leadenhall: Whereupon it being put to Hands, whether the new Burſe ſhould be removed out of Lombard-ſtreet, it was agreed, that it ſhould not. So that the Merchants Meeting continued there, till the Royal Exchange was built, that is, until the 22d of December, in the Year 1568, on which Day the ſaid Merchants began to make their Meetings at the Burſe, a Place then new built for that Purpoſe in the Ward of Cornhill, as is before deſcribed in our laſt Chapter of that Ward.

SO that here antiently the Lombards or Bankers dwelt, and ſo they did to the Days of Queen Elizabeth, and ſo even do this Day. It was about the Middle of that Queen's Reign, that there was a Project for the Queen's Factors, (whereof Sir Thomas Greſham was Chief) to take up all the Money here in Lombard-ſtreet, and alſo in Antwerp (where the great Bank was) and ſo to make her own Benefit, and the Merchants Benefit thereof; by taking it up at the proper Juncture. That is to ſay, that her Majeſty's Factor ſhould take up all Money in Antwerp that might be gotten, when Store of Foreign Wares were there to be ſold to the Queen's Subjects; that by Scarceneſs of Money they might be ſold to them the cheaper, and for Time alſo. And that the ſaid Factor ſhould take up again all the Money in Lombard-ſtreet that might be gotten, when the ſame bought Foreign Wares came home, that her Subjects who bought them might be driven for Scantneſs of Money, to ſell them here the cheaper, and for Time.

THAT the ſaid Factor ſhould take up all the Money in Lombard-ſtreet, that might be gotten, every Monday, Tueſday, Wedneſday and Thurſday; both to raiſe the Exchange, and to make Money ſcant, that the Clothiers weekly at Blackwell-hall, might ſell the cheaper, and for Time alſo. That the ſaid Factor ſhould ſtore the Burſe of Antwerp ſo with Money again, when the ſame Cloths were come thither, that our Merchants might ſell the ſame there the dearer, and for leſs Time alſo. The ſame Factor ſhould by all poſſible ſible Means get up the Money in Lombard-ſtreet, by Exchange from all the Merchants Strangers, that they might not buy weekly any great Quantity of Cloaths at the Clothiers Hands or ready Money, and to keep up the Price of Cloth; but buy at the ſecond, the third, and fourth Hands of her Majeſty's Merchants upon Credit. Her Majeſty ſhould deliver her Factor a Maſs of Money on this Side the Sea, and beyond Sea, by his Travel and Skill, to employ about the Feats of Exchange; as to raiſe the Exchange of England with all Countries of the World, according to our Standard; to deliver out Money by Exchange to her Highneſs's Profit, to furniſh herſelf with any Sum of Money of a ſudden; to unfurniſh her Majeſty's Enemy (the Spaniard) of any Money he ſhould ſeek; to bring Home any Prince's Money in the World there might be Gain by; to drive all Merchants Strangers, and her Majeſty's own Merchants, from Exchange for England, that they might occupy Commodities, and ſo pay Cuſtom and Subſidy to her, both inward and outward, and to do all other Feats of Exchange that are infinite, and offered daily to be travelled in, for the Benefit of the Realm, and her Majeſty. This ſeems to have been Greſham's Device.

Pewterer's-Hall.

ON the North Side of this Ward is Lime-ſtreet; one half whereof, on both Sides, is of Langborn Ward; and therein, on the Weſt Side, is Pewterers Hall; in which is a handſome large Hall, Parlour, and Court-Room; adorned with Fret-work, Wainſcot, and Hangings; alſo the Picture of Mr. William Smallwood, Maſter of the Company in the ſecond Year of King Henry VII, who gave the Maſter, Wardens, and Commonalty of the Company of Pewterers, LONDON, and their Succeſſors, for ever, their Common--Hall, with a Garden, and ſix Tenements thereto adjoining, by Wills dated Auguſt 23, 1487.

The PARISH of St. DIONIS BACKCHURCH.

St. Dionis Backchurch.

AT the South Weſt Corner of Lime-ſtreet, ſtandeth the Pariſh-Church of St. Dionis, called Backchurch.

St. Dionis, Dionyſius, or Denis, (to whom this Church is conceived to be dedicated) was born at Athens in Greece, about Anno Chriſti 9, Ann. Auguſti Imperatoris 50. His Parents were Gentiles; but we may ſafely conclude them to have been Perſons of noble Quality, at leaſt of a better Rank than ordinary, ſeeing none were admitted to be Areopagite Judges, as this our Saint afterwards was, unleſs they were nobly born, and eminently exemplary for a virtuous and ſober Life.

BEING a Youth, he learned the liberal Sciences at Home in his own City; from thence he travelled into Egypt, being about the Age of 25 Years, where he enter'd into more abſtruſe Knowledge in Philoſophy, Aſtrology, and the like; and here he was in the City of Heliopolis, at ſuch Time as CHRIST was crucified: On which Day, obſerving the Eclipſe of the Sun to be wonderful and preternatural, he ſaid, "That "either GOD ſuffered, or ſympathiz'd and bore "Part with him that did.

HAVING finiſhed his Studies in Heliopolis, he returned to Athens, where he was advanced to be one of the Areopagus, which was a famous Senate-Houſe built upon a Hill in Athens, and thence called Areopagita.

IN this grave and venerable Judicature ſet our St. Denis, when St. Paul, about the Year 49, or 54, came to Athens, where he reſolutely aſſerted the Cauſe of Chriſtianity againſt the Attempts of the Stoic and Epicurean Philoſophers, upon which he was brought before the Areopagite Senate, where he gave an Account of his Doctrine which he preached, affirming the Reſurrection of the Dead, and a Day wherein the World ſhould be judged by CHRIST. His Diſcourſe, however, entertained by ſome with Scorn and Laughter, yet others were convinced, adhered to him and believed; among whom was our Dionyſius the Areopagite, and Damaris, who ſome Writers ſay was his Wife.

BEING baptized, he was made the Firſt Biſhop of Athens, and probably by St. Paul's own Hands. As to his being diſpatched into France, and founding an Epiſcopal See at Paris, where he is ſaid to ſuffer Martyrdom, and to carry his Head, after it was cut off, two Miles, we ſhall ſay no more, the Story being ſufficiently made appear to be fabulous by Dr. Cave, Dr. Dupin, and others; but tell the Reader, that this St. Dionyſius, after a moſt reſolute and eminent Confeſſion of the Faith; and after having undergone ſeveral of the ſevereſt Torments, gave the laſt and great Teſtimony to it, by laying down his Life at Athens, under the Reign (as is moſt probable) of Domitian.

THIS Church was new built (Mr. Stow ſays) in the Reign of Henry VI, to which one Mr. John Bugg, he thinks, contributed largely, by the Appearance of his Arms there; and John Darby the South Iſle. It had the Fate of being demoliſhed by that deſtructive Conflagration of 1666, but was ſoon re-built, being finiſhed Anno 1674, and the Steeple in 1684.

AS to the Order and Building, the latter is of Stone, the Tower and Pillars within are ſtrong, but Part of the Walls are Brick finiſhed over; the Columns, and alſo ſeveral Pilaſters that ſtrengthen the Walls within, and ſupport the Roof, are of the Ionick Order; as is alſo the End fronting Lime-ſtreet; and at the Weſt End is a ſmall Gallery.

THE Church is wainſcotted round about ſeven Feet high, and pewed with Oak.

THE Pulpit is carved, finnier'd, and adorned with Cherubims, Palm Branches, Feſtoons, &c. done in Baſſo Relievo, and at the Weſt End there is a handſome inner Door-caſe of the Compoſit Order.

THE Altar-piece conſiſts of four Columns of the Corinthian Order, each Couple having their Entablature, and arched Pediment, between which are the King's Arms carved. The Intercolumns are the Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Gold on Black, having Enrichments of Feſtoons, Cherubims, &c. The Floor within the Rail and Ballaſter, which incloſes this, is paved with Marble.

AND here is a Marble Font and Cover, placed directly Weſt, from the Communion Table, at the End of the Church.

THE Dimenſions of this Church, are Length 66 Feet, Breadth 59, Altitude, about 34, and that of the Tower and Turret 90 Feet.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS Lombard-Street.

Alhallows Lombard-ſtreet.

BY the Four Corners, formerly ſo called from Fenchurch-ſtreet in the Eaſt, Bridge-ſtreet on the South, Graſs-ſtreet on the North, and Lombard-ſtreet on the Weſt; and at the North Eaſt Corner of the laſt, viz. Lombard-ſtreet, is a handſome Pariſh Church, called Alhallows Graſs-church in Lombard-ſtreet, in antient Records, becauſe the Graſs Market went down that Way, and was there kept; but the Street was far larger than at preſent, ſeveral Incroachments having been made upon it.

WHEN this Church was new built, John Warner, Armourer, and Grocer, Sheriff 1494, built the South Iſle; his Son R. Warner, Eſq; finiſhed it in the Year 1516. The Pewterers Company were Beneſactors towards the North Iſle, &c. The Steeple, or Bell-Tower thereof was finiſhed in the Year 1544, about the thirty ſixth of Henry VIII. The Stone Porch of this Church was brought from the diſſolved Priory of St. John of Jeruſalem, by Smithfield: So was the Frame for their Bells. But the Bells being bought, were never brought thither, by Reaſon that one old Warner, Draper, of that Pariſh, dying, his Son Mark Warner, would not perform what his Father had begun and appointed; ſo that this handſome Steeple had but one Bell, which the Fryars were wont to uſe.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified in the Year 1622, and 1623; but being one of thoſe deſtroyed by the great Fire in 1666, was the laſt that was rebuilt, being finiſhed 1694.

IN this Church is only one Pillar, which, and alſo the Pilaſters, are of the Tuſcan Order.

THE Building is in Length 84 Feet, Breadth 52, and Height about 30. The Altitude of the Tower is about 85 Feet, built Square.

AS to its Ornaments, the Walls are lined round nine Feet high, with right Wainſcot: It is handſomely pewed, and has two very fine inner Door-caſes of Wainſcot.

A very ſpacious one on the North Side; and near the Eaſt End, of the Corinthian Order; the Pilaſters fluted, and the Capitals, Frieze and Cornice, well carved; over which is a large circular Pediment, whereon ſtands the Image of Death: And within this Work, next the Door, are other ſmall Pilaſters, and an arching Pediment, the Space between which, and the Cornice under it, is repleniſhed with a Piece of curious open Carving, the View whereof is intercepted by an artificial white Curtain, likewiſe carved, but ſo natural, that many have attempted to draw it on one Side, the better to ſee the Carving, which ſeems to be behind it.

THE other Door-caſe is at the Weſt End, and near the South Side of the Church, which is in every Reſpect like that aboveſaid, except that whereas the Figure over the other Door-caſe is that of Death, upon the Pediment of this is the Image of Time carved in Wood.

THE Pulpit is finely carved and finnier'd, as is alſo the Pillar and Sound-Board, which are of the Ionick Order, adorned with Palm-Branches, Flowers, Leaves, Fruit, Vaſes, &c.

AT the Roof is a Quandrangle of Fretwork, and between the Windows are Voluta's.

THE Altar-piece is ſpacious and finely carved. It is of right Wainſcot, and conſiſts of four Columns with their Entablature, all well cut with five Pediments of the Corinthian Order, viz. a Circular, and above it a Triangular, belonging to the two North Columns, and the like to the two Southward; the Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold Letters upon Black, and the Lord's Prayer and Creed is done in Black upon Gold: And in the Middle between the Arching Parts of the Frames for the Commandments, is a Pelican feeding her Young with her own Blood (an Emblem of our Saviour) and above the Cornice, over the Commandments, is a Glory finely painted, and adorned, with an Enrichment of Carving, as Flowers, Fruit, &c. above all which is a large Triangular Pediment and ſeven Candleſticks, repreſenting the ſeven Golden Candleſticks we read of in the Revelations; which Altar-piece is ſaid to have coſt not leſs than 186 l.

THE Communion Table is finely finniered; under is the Holy Lamb on a Chalice, and at each of the four Feet of the Table is a Dove.

AT the Weſt End is a handſome Gallery, the Front is Boleſtion Work, and therein are the Names of 42 Beneſactors to the Organ, done in Gold Letters; all which Finiſhing within the Church, coſt the Pariſh about 1000 l. Southward from the Altar-piece is the King's Arms, very Ornamental.

THIS Church of All Saints was given to the Church of Canterbury, by one Brightmer, Citizen of LONDON, with the Licence and Conſent of Stigand the Archbiſhop, and Godrie the Dean. Witneſs, among others, Liefſtane, Portreve. This Gift was Anno 1053. This Brightmer gave alſo his Meſſuage at Gerſchercke (Gaſs Church) to the ſame Church of Canterbury.

IN

In Graſs-Church-ſtreet was a Houſe with a Shop and Warehouſe called Green-Acre, for which a Rent of 5 l. had been reſerved Time out of Mind; but the Rent afterwards advancing (beſides a Fine) to 30 l. Yearly, a great Suit was commenced for the Increaſe of the Tythe proportionable.

And it came at laſt to a general Matter, wherein all the City Clergy were concerned, viz. for the Increaſe of the Tythe of Houſes in LONDON, according to the Improvement of Rent: For, Dun, Parſon of Graſs Church, petitioned the Lord Mayor in King James I, his Time, that whereas the Tythe of the ſaid Green Acre was paid to him only according to the Rate of 5 l. whereas he ought to have Allowance according to the Rate of 30 l. by the Year, &c. But the Lord Mayor allowing the old Rate, Dun went into Chancery, Sir Francis Bacon being then Lord Chancellor; and the Caſe was found ſo difficult, that a Special Commiſſion was granted unto the Archbiſhop of Canterbury and many others, both Great Officers of the King's Court and Chief Judges, having full Power given them for the hearing and determining of this Buſineſs, between the Citizens of LONDON, and the Parſons of the ſeveral Pariſhes, and to make an arbitrary End between them. They ſat at York-Houſe; but the main Queſtion remained undetermined, and no Reſolution was given. So the Caſe divided into ſix Parts, and is argued in Calthorp's Reports of Special Caſes.

O God, that heard'ſt
the cry of this thy creature, Make Izans many, in Virtue, Grace, and Feature.
As love (in Life)
conjoined us once,
And God (by death)
diſjoin'd us twaine:

And God (in joy)
join'd us again.

Sir John Bridges, Brug, or Bruges, (for by all theſe Names he is written in Stow) Mayor of LONDON in 1520, repaired this Church, and embattled it, and was there buried.

THIS Church ſeemed to be very antient, for in the Reign of William the Conqueror, Anno 1084, Godwinus, with his Wife Turund, for the Redemption of their Souls, and the Remiſſion of their Sins, and of all Chriſtians, gave this Church of St. Nicholas, and all his Houſes, with their Appurtenances, to St. Mary and St. Aldelme the Confeſſor, in the Church of Malmſbury, for ever: And afterwards Pope Innocent IV, by his Bull, bearing Date at Lyons 3 Ides of October, in the ſixth of his Pontificate, confirmed (inter alia) to the ſaid Monaſtery of Malmsbury, the Right of Patronage of this Church, and his Annual Rent of 5 s. uſually paid out of it to the ſame; which Patronage continued in the ſaid Abbot and Convent till their Suppreſſion, upon which it came to the Crown.

THIS Pariſh Church was repaired and beautified in 1615, at the Coſt of the Pariſhioners; but being burnt down by the dreadful Fire, was afterwards annex'd to that of St. Edmund Lombard-ſtreet, which is made the Parochial Church for the Inhabitants of both theſe Pariſhes, the Profits whereof, in lieu of Tithes, are made of the yearly Value of 180 l. to the Incumbent, as is above-mentioned. And the Site of this Church remains now only as a Burying-place for the Inhabitants of this Pariſh.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS STAINING.

Alhallows Staining.

ON the South Side. ſomewhat within Mark-lane, is the Pariſh Church of Alhallows Staining, which is ſo called as dedicated to All Saints, and the Word Staining, or Stane Church, (or Stone Church) as Stow takes it, was only to diſtinguiſh it from other Churches, that were of old built of Timber.

THE Church was repaired in many Parts of it, and very neatly and decently beautified at the Coſt of the Pariſhioners in the Year of our Lord 1630.

IT eſcaped the great Fire, but ſome Years after fell all down, yet giving ſome Warning of its Fall to the Sexton that was then digging a Grave near the Foundation of the Wall, he conveyed himſelf haſtily away, and ſaved his Life. The Church is now rebuilt, Sir John Fleet, Knt. and Alderman made the Veſtry.

THE Building is very plain, as well within as without, having neither Pillar nor Gallery; the Front of Free Stone, but it is of the Tuſcan Order, and is well wainſcotted round with right Wainſcot, ſeven Feet and a half high.

The PARISH of St. MARY WOOLNOTH.

ON the South Side of Lombard-ſtreet, at the Corner of Sherborn-lane, is ſeated the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Woolnoth; it had the Name of St. Mary, St. Mary Woolnoth.

St. Mary, being dedicated to the Virgin Mary; but for the additional Appellation of Woolnoth, neither Stow, nor any one elſe, gives any Reaſon.

THIS Church was new built about the Year 1438, from the very Foundation, as it ſeems, for there was a Commiſſion dated March 24, that Year, granted by Robert Gilbert, then Biſhop of LONDON, to the Biſhop of Enachdun in Ireland (a Biſhoprick now united to ſome other in that Kingdom) for the Conſecration thereof. By which Commiſſion he impowered the ſaid Biſhop to conſecrate, not only the Church, but alſo two Altars in it; one to the Honour of the Bleſſed Virgins St. Mary and St. Anne, and the other to St. John Baptiſt, and St. John Evangeliſt: And further, to aſſign the Feaſt of the Dedication of this Church to be on Thurſday next after the Feaſt of St. Anne, the Mother of the immaculate Virgin, which is Thurſday next after July 26.

Sir Hugh Brice, Goldſmith, Mayor, in the firſt of Henry VII, Keeper of the King's Exchange at LONDON, and one of the Governors of the King's Mint in the Tower of LONDON, under William Lord Haſtings, in the fifth of Edward IV, deceaſed, built in the Church a Chapel, called the Charnel; as alſo Part of the Body of the Church, and of the Steeple, and gave Money towards the Finiſhing thereof, beſides the Stone that he had prepared.

Sir Simon Eyre, a famous Merchant, ſome Time an Upholſter, then a Draper, and Mayor of LONDON in 1445, the Founder of Leadenhall, and a fair Chapel there, gave the Cardinal's Hat Tavern, in Lombard-ſtreet, with a Tenement annex'd on the Eaſt Part of it, and a Manſion-Houſe behind the Eaſt Tenement, together with an Alley from Lombard-ſtreet to Cornhill with the Appurtenances, all which were by him new built, towards a Brotherhood of our Lady in this Church.

George Lufken, ſome Time Taylor to the Prince, built the Chapel of St. George in this Church.

HERE was a perpetual Chantry founded for the Souls of Gregory de Rokeſley and Amicia his Wife, of which the Pariſhioners were Patrons, which Gregory was the ſame, who was Mayor of LONDON, from the Year 1275 to the Year 1282, and dying not long after, was buried in the Grey-fryars Church, in which Priory he built Chambers, and gave Beds to them.

ANOTHER perpetual Chantry was founded here at the Altar of the Bleſſed Virgin, and St. Anne, about the Year 1400, for the Souls of Thomas Nocket, Gregory Norton, and their Wives, and others their Relations, of which the Prioreſs and Convent of St. Mary Clerkenwell were Patrons. But theſe two Chantries, it ſeems, were afterwards united, by reaſon whereof the Rector, Church-wardens, and chief Pariſhioners preſented ſome Times, and ſome Time the ſaid Prioreſs and Convent of St. Mary Clerkenwell, as appears by the LONDON Regiſtry.

THE Advowſon of this Church was all along in the Gift of the Prioreſs and Convent of St. Helen's LONDON, till their Suppreſſion in the Reign of Henry VIII, who ſoon after, viz. in the 31ſt of his Reign, granted it to Sir Martin Bowes, in whoſe Family the Right of Patronage hath continued ever ſince.

THIS Church was burnt down in the great Fire, 1666, but rebuilt. Sir Robert Viner, Goldſmith, and Alderman of LONDON, contributed largely towards the Building; as a Memorial whereof there were Vines painted about that Part of the Church that fronted his Houſe and the Street. Inſomuch that the Church was uſed to be called Sir Robert Viner's Church.

THIS Church, with the Steeple, was pulled down in the Year 1716, by an Act of Parliament, impowering the Commiſſioners for Building 50 Churches to advance ſo much Money as would rebuild the ſaid Church, and to be repaired out of the Surplus Money ariſing from St. Paul's. This Church was rebuilding from the Date beforementioned, and finiſhed ſo as to be opened on Eaſter-day, 1727.

IT is a beautiful and ſtrong Building of Stone, the Steeple or Tower is ſquare, adorned with Pillars and Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order, the Roof is likewiſe ſquare, and ſupported by twelve magnificent fluted Columns, three at each Angle, with Architrave Frieze and Cornice of the Corinthian Order. The Pews, Pulpit, Galleries, and Wainſcot are of Oak finely finiſhed and carved. The Altar-piece is of the ſame Timber, and adorned with the Decalogue, under which are the Creed and the Lord's Prayer, all done in Gold Letters upon Black.

As to the preſent State of Langborn Ward, it conſiſts of theſe following Streets, Lanes and Alleys, in Whole or in Part:

Lombard-ſtreet, on the North Side thereof, beginning 100 Feet from the Weſt Corner thereof, and extending Eaſtward within 35 Feet of the Weſt Side of Gracechurch-ſtreet: And on the South Side from within 125 Feet of the Weſt Corner of the Street to Gracechurch-ſtreet. Fenchurch-ſtreet, on the North Side, from Gracechurch-ſtreet in the Weſt, unto Smith's-buildings, on the North Side of the Eaſt End, and unto Mark-lane, on the South Side. Beſides theſe two main Streets, theſe following: St. Swithin's-lane, Abchurch-lane, St. Nicholas-lane, St. Clement's-lane; all which are on the South Side of Lombard-ſtreet; and on the North Side are Pope's Head-alley, Exchange-alley, Birchin-lane, and George-yard. Then in Fenchurch-ſtreet on the North Side, Lime-ſtreet, Collum-ſtreet, and Smith's-buildings: And on the South Side Philpot-lane, Rood-lane, Mincing-lane, and Mark-lane: In all which ſaid Streets, Lanes and Alleys, there are ſeveral Courts; and of theſe in Order.

Lombard-ſtreet, is throughout graced with good and lofty Buildings, among which are many that ſurpaſs thoſe in other Streets, and is generally inhabited by Goldſmiths, Bankers, and other eminent Tradeſmen. At the Eaſt End near Gracechurch-ſtreet, on the North Side, is the Church of Alhallows, already deſcribed, one of the Peculiars of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury.

Ball-alley, not broad, but ſomewhat long, hath an Entrance by Alhallows Church, and with ſome Turnings falls into the Croſs-keys Inn; from whence it hath a Paſſage into Gracechurch-ſtreet. Near this was the George Inn; ſince the Fire rebuilt with very good Houſes, well inhabited; and Warehouſes; being a large open Yard, and now called George-yard: At the farther End of which is the George and Vulture Tavern; which is a large Houſe, and of great Trade, having a Paſſage into St. Michael's-alley, and ſo ſtrait forward into Cornhill; on the Right Hand the Paſſage leads into Gracechurch-ſtreet; on the Left into Birchin-lane through Caſtle-alley, and alſo through White-lyon-court.

Then next on the North Side is the Church of St. Edmund Lombard-ſtreet, which fronts St. Clement's-lane on the South. It is another Peculiar of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury.

A little farther Weſt on the ſame Side of the Way is Birchin-lane, which runs into Cornhill, a great Thoroughfare to and from the Exchange. It is well inhabited, eſpecially by Saleſmen for Mens Apparel. In this Lane are ſeveral Courts, and Alleys, viz. Exchange-alley, Caſtle-alley, and White Lyon-court, but are in Cornhill Ward.

But now for the South Side of Lombard-ſtreet, betwixt Gracechuch-ſtreet and St. Clement's-lane, are theſe Courts and Alleys, viz. White Hart-court, which hath a Paſſage through an Entry into another Court ſo called, which leadeth into Gracechurch-ſtreet, a Place well inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers, and moſt by Quakers, where they have their Meeting-houſe; but of this Court the greateſt Part is in Bridge Ward Within, that which is in this Ward being next to Lombard-ſtreet. Plough-yard, hath a good Free Stone Pavement, and the Houſes well built and inhabited. Three Kings-court, well inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers and others; out of this Court is a Paſſage into two others, the one leading into St. Clement's-lane, narrow and ordinary; but the other is large and open, and well Tenanted; and this Court hath a Paſſage into Nag's Head-court, which is long and large, and another Paſſage into St. Clement's-lane. George-alley, but ſmall.

On the other Side the Way, is the General Poſt-Office, which was the Dwelling Houſe of Sir Robert Viner, Goldſmith, Alderman of the City of LONDON, and built by him on the Ground where ſtood a great Tavern before the Fire in 1666. This is a large and ſtrong brick Building, with good Rooms and convenient Offices in it: the firſt Entrance from Lombard-ſtreet is through a great Gate and broad Paſſage into a handſome Court-yard, paved with Free Stone, encompaſſed by the Buildings of the Houſe; behind which is a Yard for Stabling and Coach-Houſes, where there is a Back Gate into Sherborn-lane.

NEXT adjoining to this Office, on one Side, is St. Mary Woolnoth's Church, before deſcribed; and a little from it on the other is Dove-court, a handſome ſquare Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement, having a Paſſage into Bearbinder-lane, and another into the Upper End of Swithin-lane, near its falling into Sherborn-lane, and another into Lombard-ſtreet; but Part of this Court, as alſo Swithin-lane, and Bearbinder-lane, are in Walbrook Ward.

OUT of Lombard-ſtreet, on the South Side, Sherborn-lane, Abchurch-lane, St. Nicholas-lane, and St. Clement's-lane take their Riſe, and run Southward into Cannon-ſtreet.

Sherborn-lane hath the greateſt Part in Walbrook Ward, where it is taken Notice of.

Abchurch-lane hath the greateſt Part in Candlewick Ward, where it is treated of; but in that Part of it, which is in this Ward, is the famous Tavern called Pontack's, from one of that Name, who formerly kept it. This Houſe, now kept by Mrs. Auſtin, has been always ſo noted for its Elegance in Entertainments, that it is not only made Uſe of by the rich Merchants, among whom it is ſeated, but very frequently by Perſons of the Firſt Quality from the Court End of the Town.

THE next is St. Nicholas-lane, well built and inhabited by Merchants and Wholeſale Dealers. The South End beyond Fox's Ordinary, is in Candlewick Ward. On the Weſt Side, near Lombard-ſtreet, is a ſmall Alley without a Name, and a little more Southwards, is the Church-yard of St. Nicholas Acons, which Church, as before-ſaid, was not rebuilt after the Fire of LONDON, but the Pariſh united to St. Edmund the King's in Lombard-ſtreet.

MORE South, on the ſame Side of the Way, is Fox's-court, or Ordinary, ſo called from a publick Eating-Houſe formerly there kept; it is a handſome Place, with good built Houſes, well inhabited by Merchants and Perſons of Repute. Near this Court is the Bell Tavern, which hath a Paſſage through Bell-alley into Cannon-ſtreet.

MORE Eaſt from Nicholas-lane is St. Clement's-lane, well built and inhabited. The South Part, which is next Cannon-ſtreet, is in Candlewick Ward; viz. from the North Side of St. Clement's Eaſtcheap Church, which Church is deſcribed in Candlewick Ward.

ADJOINING to this is a handſome Place called Church-alley; the North Side having a Row of Houſes, the South Side lying open to the Church and Church-yard.

A little more Northward, and on the ſame Side, is Nag's-head-court, a very large Place, well built and inhabited, having a Paſſage into Gracechurch-ſtreet. About the Middle of this Court is an open ſquare Place, well built and inhabited alſo. Out of this Court is likewiſe a Paſſage into Three-king's-court, which is a good ſquare Place, well tenanted; and out of this Court are two others, which bear the ſame Name of Nag's-head-court, the one leading to Lombard-ſtreet, and the other into St. Clement's-lane. And thus much for Lombard-ſtreet.

THEN farther Eaſt is Fenchurch-ſtreet, a Street of good Account, being large, well built, and inhabited by Merchants, and others. It is of a good Length, beginning near Aldgate, and running Weſtward into Gracechurch-ſtreet.

AT

At the Weſt Corner of this Street is the Church of St. Bennet Graſschurch; but not in this Ward.

The Courts, Alleys, and Places of Name in the Part of the Street in this Ward, are as follow, beginning at the Weſt End:

Firſt, The Ram-head-Inn, but ſmall and ordinary.

Ingram's-court, an open Place, with two good Houſes on each Side, built in the Place of Sir Thomas Ingram's Houſe, the Owner thereof.

Bell-yard, but ſmall.

The Mitre Tavern, a new, handſome built Houſe, and well accuſtomed.

St. Dionis Backchurch, before-mentioned, by the Corner of which is the Turning into Lime-ſtreet, running Northwards into Leadenhall-ſtreet, againſt St. Mary Axe; at which End it is narrower than in the Midſt. A Street taken up by ſeveral Merchants; but the Part in this Ward goeth not much farther than Collum-ſtreet, the greateſt Part being in Lime-ſtreet Ward, where it is ſpoken of.

But to return to Fenchurch-ſtreet:

Eastward of Lime-ſtreet is St. Paul's-alley; at the upper End of which are two or three good Houſes.

Hartford-court hath very handſome Houſes, and a Free-ſtone Pavement.

Collum-ſtreet, very open and large, with good new built Houſes, well inhabited, which, with a turning Paſſage Weſtward, falls into Lime-ſtreet: It takes its Name from Sir ——— Collum, Knt. the Owner thereof. In this Street is the Ipſwich-Arms-Inn, well built.

Fen-court, very handſome and broad, with a Free-ſtone Pavement; the Houſes are large and gracefully built, fit for Merchants, &c. who there inhabit. It hath a good Air, as lying open to Gardens on the Weſt Side.

Culver-court, but ſmall.

Smith's-Buildings hath a narrow Entrance, with a Free-ſtone Pavement; but at the upper End, the Court maketh an open Square, with very good Buildings, well inhabited: And this Court hath a good handſome open Paſſage into Lime-ſtreet, Weſt.

Next to Smith's-Rents, or Buildings, is Ironmonger's-Hall, an old Building. The Fire of LONDON ſtopping at this Part of Fenchurch-ſtreet, Billiter-lane, Leadenhall-ſtreet, and all the Eaſtern and Northern Parts from thence; all which want new Building. In this Hall the Turkey Company of Merchants have their Meetings, and keep their Courts.

In the South Side of Fenchurch-ſtreet are theſe Places of Name, beginning Eaſtward:

Mark-lane, or Mart-lane, over-againſt Billiter-lane, a long Street: But the Part in this Ward begins Southward of St. Alhallow's Staining Church, which it takes in, and all the Weſt Side to Fenchurch-ſtreet, the reſt being in Tower-ſtreet Ward.

This Alhallows Staining is obſcurely ſeated, lying backward from the Street, the Paſſage to it being through Star-alley, which hath a turning Paſſage into Fenchurch-ſtreet: This Alley hath old built Houſes on the North Side, on the South whereof is the Church. The Pariſh is in the Dioceſs of LONDON, the Abbot of Tourhill, in antient Times, was Patron.

West of Mark-lane, is Mincing, or Minchion-lane, which hath little or no Part in this Ward; it lieth in Tower-ſtreet Ward, where it muſt be ſought for.

Mediford-court, a very handſome large Court, with graceful new built Houſes of Brick, well inhabited, eſpecially the upper Part, or End, where the Houſes are more ſpacious, for the Reception of Merchants.

From this Court to Rood-lane, are ſeveral large Houſes built backwards, with Court-yards before them, and great Gates to the Street to ſhut up, being the Seats of Merchants; as Sir Thomas Cook, Knt. Alderman, ſome Time Governor of the Eaſt India Company, and Sheriff of LONDON.

Rood-lane hath alſo but a ſmall Part in this Ward, the greateſt being in Billingſgate Ward, but in this Part is Collum's-court, which is but ſmall.

Westward of Rood-lane is Cradle-court, which is but ſmall, with a Free-ſtone Pavement.

Philpot-lane; it falleth into Great Eaſtcheap, a Place pretty well ſupplied with Inhabitants: Amongſt which are ſeveral Merchants.

The South Part of this Ward, Northwards of Coopers Hall, is in Billingſgate Ward. On the Weſt Side is Braben-court, which is large, well built and inhabited; and on the Eaſt Side is Moſes-court, which is but narrow and ordinary.

There are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward every Night, a Conſtable, the Beadle, and 34 Watchmen.

The Jury returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve as Jurors in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in the Month of November.

It hath an Alderman, and his Deputy; Common Council-Men 8, Conſtables 15, Scavengers 9, Men of the Wardmote Inqueſt 17, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the 15, in the Exchequer at 20 l. 9 s. 8 d. In LONDON at 21 l.

The Alderman is Sir Henry Hankey.

Billingsgate Ward beginneth at the Weſt End of Tower-ſtreet Ward in Thames-ſtreet, about Smart's-key, and runneth down along that Street, on the South Side, to St. Magnus Church, at the Bridge Foot, and on the North Side of the ſaid Thames-ſtreet, from over-againſt Smart's-key, till over-againſt the North Weſt Corner of St. Magnus Church aforeſaid.

On this North Side of Thames-ſtreet is St. Mary-hill-lane, up to St. Margaret's Church, and then Part of St. Margaret's Pattens-ſteeet, at the End of St. Mary-hill-lane. Next out of Thames-ſtreet is Lucas-lane, and then Botolph-lane; and at the North End thereof Philpot-lane. Then is there Rother-lane, of old Time ſo called; and croſs the ſame Lane is Little Eaſtcheap; and theſe are the Bounds of this Billingſgate Ward.

Touching the principal Ornaments within this Ward. On the South Side of Thames-ſtreet, beginning at the Eaſt End thereof, there is firſt the ſaid Smart's-key, ſo called from one Smart ſome Time Owner thereof.

The Billingſgate.

THE next is Billingſgate, whereof the whole Ward taketh its Name, the which (leaving out the Fable thereof, faining it to be built by King Belin, a Briton, long before the Incarnation of CHRIST) is at this preſent a large Water-gate, Port, or Harbour for Ships and Boats, commonly arriving there with Fiſh, both Freſh and Salt, Shell-Fiſh, Salt, Oranges, Onions, and other Fruits and Roots.

TOUCHING the antient Cuſtoms of this Billingſgate, I have not read, ſaith Stow, in any Record, more than that in the Reign of Edward III, every great Ship landing there, paid for Standage two Pence; every little Ship with Orelocks, a Penny; the leſs Boat called a Battle, a Half-penny. Of two Quarters of Corn meaſured, the King was to have one Farthing; of a Comb of Corn, a Penny; of every Weight going out of the City, a Half-penny; of two Quarters of Sea Coals meaſured, a Farthing; and of every Tun of Ale going out of England beyond the Seas, by Merchant Strangers, four Pence; of every thouſand Herrings, a Farthing, except the Franchiſes.

ALTHO' Stow ſaith theſe Payments were not made before the Reign of Edward III. yet it appears in Brompton's Chronicle, inter Leges Ethelredi, which was Ann. 1016, that Tolls were then paid at Billingſgate.

AN Act of Parliament was made (10 and 11 of William III.) to make Billingſgate a free Market for the Sale of Fiſh; when it was enacted, "That "after the 10th of May 1699, Billingſgate "Market ſhould be every Day in the Week; "(except Sunday) a free and open Market for "all Sorts of Fiſh. And that it ſhould be lawful for any Perſon to buy or ſell any Sort of "Fiſh without Diſturbance.

THIS Act alſo ſettled the Tolls to be paid by the Fiſher-Boats; enacting, "That after the "ſaid 10th of May, no Perſon ſelling any Sort "of Fiſh in the ſaid Market, ſhould pay any "other Toll, or Duty to any Perſon or Perſons, "for coming with his Boat or Veſſel, or landing, "ſtanding, or ſelling, in, or at this Market, "than it was hereafter expreſſed, viz. For every "Veſſel of Salt, Fiſh, for Groundage, 8*d. per* "Day, and 20*d. per* Voyage, and no more, in "full of all Duties and Demands, to be diſtributed and diſpoſed of, as the Lord Mayor, "&c. ſhall yearly order and direct, according to "the Right of the reſpective Perſons thereunto. "For a Lobſter-Boat for Groundage per Day 2*d.* "and per Voyage 13*d.* and no more, in full as "aforeſaid. For every Veſſel of freſh Sea-Fiſh, "Groundage per Day, 2*d.* and per Voyage 13*d.* "For every Dogger-Boat or Smack, with Sea-"Fiſh, for Groundage per Day 2*d.* and per "Voyage 13*d.* For every Oyſter-Veſſel, or "Cock, per Day 2*d.* for Meetage one Half-"penny per Buſhel.

"And that it ſhould be lawful for any Perſon "that bought any Fiſh in the ſaid Market, to ſell "the ſame again in any other Market, Place, or "Places in the City of LONDON, or elſe-"where, by Retale, being ſound and wholeſome "Fiſh, without any Diſturbance or Moleſtation.

"AND that from and after the 10th of May, "that Perſon that ſhould take or demand any "Toll or Sample, or any Impoſition, or Set-"price of Sea-Fiſh, of Engliſh catching, ſhould "forfeit the Sum of 10*l.* the one Half to his "Majeſty, and the other Half to him that will "ſue for the ſame.

AND becauſe the Fiſhmongers cauſed the greateſt Part of the Fiſh to be bought up at Billingſgate, and then divided the ſame by Lot among themſelves, in order to buy and ſell at what Rate they pleaſed, it was alſo enacted, "That no "Perſon whatſoever, ſhould, after the ſaid 10th "of May, buy, or cauſe to be bought at the "ſaid Market of Billingſgate, any Quantity "of Fiſh, to be divided by Lot, among any "Fiſhmongers, or other Perſons, with an Intent "to be put afterwards to Sale by Retale, or other-"wiſe. Nor any Fiſhmonger to engroſs or buy "in the ſaid Market, any Quantity of Fiſh, but "what ſhall be for his own Sale or Uſe, and not "on the Behalf of any other Fiſhmongers ex-"poſed to Sale, on Pain of forfeiting 20*l.* for "every ſuch Offence, the one Half to the Uſe "of the Poor of the Pariſh where he lives, the "the other Half to his own Uſe that ſhall ſue "for it, provided nothing contained in this Act "ſhould be conſtrued to prohibit the Selling of "Mackarel before or after Divine Service.

AFTERWARDS, upon the Ingroſſing of great Quantities of Fiſh by ſome Perſons, to the Violation of this Act; this Order came forth Anno 1707, Sir Robert Bedingfield, Lord Mayor.

WHEREAS in and by an Act of Parliament made in the 10th and 11th Years of the Reign of King William III. intituled, An Act to make Billingſgate a Free Market for Sale of Fiſh, It is enacted, That it ſhall, and may be lawful for any Perſon or Perſons, to buy or ſell any Sort of Fiſh, in the ſaid Market, without any Diſturbance or Moleſtation whatſoever, and to ſell the ſame again in any other Market-place or Places within the City of LONDON, or elſewhere by Retale. But contrary to the true Intent and Meaning of the ſaid Act, divers Perſons do frequently buy and ingroſs to themſelves great Quantities of Fiſh, in, or at Billingſgate Market, and ſell the ſame again in the ſaid Market; which Practice tends greatly to the Enhanſing the Prices of Fiſh, and is puniſhable by the Statute made againſt Regrators, in the fifth and ſixth Years of the Reign of King Edward VI. Chap. 14.

FOR Prevention whereof for the future, It is now ordered by this Court, That no Fiſhmonger, Fiſhwoman, or other Perſon or Perſons whatſoever, do, or ſhall hereafter ſell or expoſe to Sale any Fiſh, in, or at Billingſgate Market, which was then before bought in the ſame Market; and that none but Fiſhermen, their Wives, Apprentices or Servants, be permitted to ſtand, ſtay or remain there to ſell by Retale the Fiſh by them taken, and brought to the ſaid Market to be ſold, ſo that the Citizens may have Fiſh at the firſt Hand for their own Uſe, according to the true Meaning of the Law: And it is further ordered by this Court, That the Hours limited for Beginning of the ſaid Fiſh-Market at Billingſgate, ſhall hereafter be ſtrictly obſerved, (that is to ſay) from Lady-day to Michaelmas, at four of the Clock in the Morning, and from Michaelmas to Lady-day, at ſix o'Clock in the Morning; and that before thoſe Hours none do preſume to buy or ſell any Sort of Fiſh at the ſaid Market, (except Herrings, Sprats, Mackarel and Shell-Fiſh) on Pain of being proceeded againſt as Foreſtallers of the Market: And the Yeomen of the Waterſide are ſtrictly enjoined and required to ſee this Order duly and conſtantly obſerved; and alſo, conſtantly to ring the Bell at Billingſgate preciſely at the Times aforeſaid, for the Beginning of the Market there; and that without fail they cauſe all Perſons that ſhall buy or ſell Fiſh there, before the ſaid Hours, and Ringing of the ſaid Bell, or ſhall regrate Fiſh, (that is to ſay, buy Fiſh, and ſell the ſame again in the ſaid Market) to be apprehended, and brought before the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor of this City, for the Time being, or ſome Juſtice of the Peace, to be bound over to the the Seſſions, there to anſwer the ſame: And it is further ordered, That no Fiſh (except Herrings, Sprats, Mackarel and Shell-Fiſh) be ſold aboard any Veſſel or Boat at Billingſgate; which the ſaid Yeomen of the Waterſide, and the Under-Water-Bailiff are likewiſe carefully to ſee obſerved, as they will anſwer the contrary at their Perils.

GIBSON.

NEXT to this is Somer's-key, which likewiſe took that Name from one Somer, who dwelt there, as did Lion-key from one Lion, Owner thereof, and ſince the Sign of the Lion.

Culver-key, juxta Billingſgate, is mentioned in the Biſhop of LONDON's Regiſter.

THEN is there a fair Wharf or Key, called Botolph's-gate, by that Name ſo called in the Times of William the Conqueror, and of Edward the Confeſſor, as is ſhewn already in the Deſcription of the Gates.

Botolph-wharf was in the Crown in Edward I's Time, who granted it to Richard de Kingſton in theſe Words: "Our common Key of St. Botolph "next Billingſgate, LONDON, with free go-"ing in and out to the ſame, in the Eaſt Head of "the ſame Place. Which Place hath Land con-"tained from the Tenement of the ſaid Richard "againſt the Weſt, and to the Head of the ſaid "Church, and the common Way which leadeth "to the Thames againſt the Weſt, 18 Ells and "one Quarter of an Ell, of the Iron Ell of our "Sovereign Lord the King of England, without "Inches meaſured: And it containeth in both "Heads, from the Wall of the ſaid Church unto "our common Key, in Breadth ſix Ells of the "Ell aforeſaid, without Inches meaſured. To "have and to hold to the ſaid Richard and his "Heirs, and to whom he will give, ſell, be-"queath, aſſign, or any other mannerwiſe alien, "and their Heirs, of us, our Succeſſors, &c. "freely, quietly, well and in Peace, &c. yield-"ing therefore a Silver Penny at the Feaſt of the "Nativity of St. John Baptiſt, for all Services, &c.

NEXT to this is:

The PARISH of St. BOTOLPH BILLINGSGATE.

The Pariſh of St. Botolph Billingſgate.

THE Church that belonged to this Pariſh ſtood over-againſt St. Botolph-lane End, on the South Side of Thames-ſtreet: Stow ſaith it was a proper Church, and ſeems to have been very antient; for, he ſaith, Botolph's-gate, which was known by that Name, in the Time of Edward the Confeſſor, was ſo called from the Pariſh-Church of St. Botolph near adjoining.

THIS Church of St. Botolph was given to the Canons of St. Paul's (as alſo the Church of St. Martin, juxta Candlewick-ſtreet) by Odgarus or Ordgarus; for by the Regiſter of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's it appears, That in the Reign of King Richard I. John Bocumter and Dionyſia his Wife, ſued the Canons of St. Paul's before the King's Juſtices for the aforeſaid two Churches of St. Botolph and St. Martin: But upon Inſpection of a Charter of the ſaid Canons, whereby it appeared, that they had the ſaid Churches by the Gift of the ſaid Ordgarus, his Sons, and Chriſtina the Mother of the ſaid Dionyſia, they renounced their Suit, and quitted all Claim to the ſaid Churches under their Seals, and the ſaid Canons thereupon promiſed yearly to celebrate the Obits of the ſaid John and Dionyſia, and alſo of the ſaid Ordgarus; all which was done in pleno Huſtingo per Conceſſionem & Licentiam Dom. Ranulphi de Glanvill, Dom. Regis Juſtic.

IN the Year 1636, the Profits of this Church were returned as follows:

	l.	s.	d.
Tythes	120	00	0
A Parſonage Houſe	10	00	0

BUT being burnt down in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, Anno 1666, it was annex'd to that of St. George Botolph-lane, which is now made the Parochial-Church to the Inhabitants of both theſe Pariſhes; and the Site of the former Church remains now only as a Burying-Place for the Inhabitants of that Pariſh.

IN the Year 1693, the Church-wardens, in their Preſentment, ſay, That moſt Part of the Ground whereon the Chancel ſtood was, ſince the Fire, taken by Sir Joſiah Child into the Paſſage to Botolph-wharf; for which he was to pay 100 l.

AND upon Part of that Ground where the Body of the Church ſtood, there is an Houſe built by Leaſe from the Pariſh, which had 200 l. Fine, and have a Ground Rent of 6*l. per Ann.*

ABOUT the Year 1677, a Vault was built for the Burial of their Dead in Part of their Church-yard; and, for the Benefit of the Poor, a Shop or Shed was built thereon, and leaſed out, Jan. 28, 1627, by the then Church-wardens, at 4*l. per Ann.* Rent.

ALSO upon a Faculty obtained from the Biſhop of LONDON, another Vault was built in another Part of the ſaid Church-yard, and the Church-wardens and Pariſhioners, having Power, by the ſaid Faculty, to build or erect a Covering or Shed over this Vault, did, for the Benefit of their Poor, at a publick Veſtry, on the 22d of March 1692-3, order the ſame Perſon who had the other Shop to be treated with, for building a Shop or Shed over the ſaid Vault, and did thereupon agree with him and let him a Leaſe thereof for 61 Years, in Conſideration of a Fine of 150 l.

MONUMENTS in this Church were, for

Thomas Snodland, ſome Time Parſon of the Pariſh; who gave certain Lands and Tenements by his Laſt Will, for the Maintenance of a Chaplain here, to celebrate for ever Divine Service, for the Soul of the ſaid Thomas, and for all other Souls, & pro ſalubri ſtatu fratrum fraternitatis Capellæ in Eccleſia prædict. i.e. and for the healthful Eſtate of the Brethren of the Guild of the Chapel in the Church aforeſaid. This was confirmed by King Edward III, in the 44th of his Reign, about 1370.

Of the Staple of Callis,

Here lieth now his Corpſe,
his Soul bright and fair,

HE gave a Stone Houſe to be a Reveſtry to that Church for ever: More, he gave Lands and Tenements to the Uſe of the Commonalty, that the Mayor and Chamberlain ſhould ſatisfy, unto the Diſcharge of all Perſons inhabiting within the Wards of Billingſgate, Downgate, and Aldgate, as oft as it ſhall happen any Fifteen, by Parliament to be granted. Alſo to the Exchequer, in Diſcharge of the Sheriffs, 10 l. yearly, which the Sheriffs uſed to pay for the Farm of Southwark, ſo that all Men of the Realm, coming or paſſing with Carriage, ſhould be free quitted and diſcharged of all Toll and other Payments, aforetime claimed by the Sheriffs.

FARTHER, That the Mayor and Chamberlain ſhall pay, yearly, to the Sheriffs, 8 l. ſo that the ſaid Sheriffs take no manner of Toll or Money of any Perſon of this Realm, for their Goods, Merchandizes, Victuals and Carriages, for their Paſſages at the great Gate of the Bridge of the City, nor at the Gate called the Draw-bridge, &c.

THE Overplus Money coming from the ſaid Lands and Tenements, divided into even Portions, the one Part to be employed to ſtore the Granaries of the City with Wheat, for the Relief of the poor Commonalty; and the other Moiety to clear and cleanſe the Shelves and other Stoppages of the River Thames, &c.

Stephen Forſter, Fiſhmonger, Mayor, in the Year 1454, and Dame Agnes his Wife, lie buried there.

THE Pariſh of St. Botolph, ſaith Stow, is no great Thing, notwithſtanding divers Strangers were there harboured in his Time, as may appear by a Preſentment then made, of Strangers Inhabitants in the Ward of Billingſgate, in theſe Words:

"IN Billingſgate Ward were one and fifty "Houſholds of Strangers; whereof thirty of "theſe

" theſe Houſholds inhabited in the Pariſh of St. " Botolph, in the chief and principal Houſes, " where they give 20 l. a Year for a Houſe, late- " ly Let for four Marks. The nearer they dwell " to the Water-ſide, the more they give for " Houſes; and within thirty Years before, there " was not in the whole Ward above three Ne- " therlanders, at which Time, there was within " the ſaid Pariſh levied for the Help of the Poor, " 27 l. by the Year; but ſince they came ſo " plentifully thither, there cannot be gathered " above 11 l. for the Strangers will not contri- " bute to ſuch Charges as other Citizens do.

On the North Side of this Ward is Boſſe-alley, ſo called from a Boſſe of Spring Water continually running, which ſtood by Billingſgate, againſt this Alley, and was ſome Time made by the Executors of Richard Whittington.

In this Ward there was a Houſe called The Boar's Head, inhabited by William Sanderſon, which came to King Edward VI, by the Statute about Chantries: Which, with the Shops, Cellars, Solers, and other Commodities and Eaſements, he ſold in the 2d of his Reign, (together with other Lands and Tenements) to John Sicklemore, and Walter Williams, for 2668 l. and upwards.

Then is St. Mary-hill-lane, which runneth up North from Billingſgate, to the End of St. Margaret-Pattens, commonly called Rood-lane; and the greateſt Half of that Lane is alſo of Billingſgate Ward.

The PARISH of St. MARY-HILL.

St. Mary-Hill. In this St. Mary-hill-lane, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary, called on the Hill, becauſe of the Aſcent from Billingſgate.

It is ſo called in Memory of the bleſſed Virgin: The firſt Foundation of a Church here is uncertain; but the laſt Church before the Fire, (to the Charge of Building whereof Robert Revel, Eſq; Sheriff 1490, gave liberally) was built about the Year 1497, as Stow ſaith, from the firſt Hint given by Robert Fabian, in theſe Words:

" In the Year 1497, in the Month of April, " as Labourers digged for the Foundation of a " Wall, within the Church of St. Mary-Hill, " near unto Billingſgate, they found a Coffin of " rotten Timber, and therein the Corpſe of a " Woman, whole of Skin, and of Bones undiſ- " ſevered, and the Joints of her Arms pliable, " without breaking of the Skin; upon whoſe " Sepulchre this was engraven:

In this Place lieth the Bodies of Richard Hackney, Fiſhmonger, and Alice his Wife. The which Richard was Sheriff in the 15th of Edward II.

Her Body was kept above Ground three or four Days without Nuiſance; but then it waxed unſavory, and ſo was again buried.

By the above Inſcription it appears that Body had lain in the Ground from the Year 1322, (the 15th of Edward II.) which was 175 Years before the Time of Rebuilding the Church, viz. in 1497, and conſequently ſo old the former Church muſt at leaſt have been.

The laſt Church was by the fatal Flames of 1666, reduced to Rubbiſh, except Part of the Walls, which yet ſtand in this new Church, rebuilt at the Charge of the Publick, as the other Churches that had the ſame Fate were, and was finiſhed in the Year 1672.

The Nature and Order of the Building is as follows: The Front, towards the Hill, is Stone; the reſt of the Walls Stone, cover'd with a Finiſhing. The Tower is alſo of Stone, and the Roof is cover'd with Lead: The Inſide thereof, over the Middle Iſle, is a little Arching, in the Middle whereof is a handſome Cupola. The Roofs of the Side Iſles are flat, and loweſt at the four Angles, ſupported by four Columns, which are properly of no Order at all, but of a Species compounded of the Dorick and Corinthian, as are two Pilaſters at Each End of the Church. The Floor of the Chancel is one Step higher than that of the Church, and the Foot Pace of the Altar aſcends two Steps above that of the Chancel; the two former are paved with Purbeck-Stone, the latter with white and black Marble; and the Windows on the North and South Sides are Gothick.

The Ornament and Finiſhing is agreeably neat; the Roof of the Cupola adorned with Cherubims, Arches, and Leaves, and the reſt of the Church Ceiling with Quadrangular Figures all of Fretwork; under which is a Cantaliver Cornice, extending almoſt round the Church.

It is well wainſcotted eight Feet high, and pewed with Oak; the Pulpit is of the ſame, and enriched with Cherubims, Feſtoons, and the Sound-Board finnier'd.

The Altar-piece is of Norway Oak, with a Cornice and Cartouch Pediment, whereon is placed the King's Arms; and, at ſome Diſtance, the Supporters. The Commandments are done in Black on Gold, under a Seraphim between two Cherubims; and there are other Enrichments of Cartouches, Fruit, &c. and above all, near the Roof are the Pater Noſter, and Creed; but ſo high that they are not eaſily to be read. Here is likewiſe a ſpacious Window, adorned with Pilaſters; but their Order is the Workman's Invention, as thoſe of the grand Pillars. Above this Window is a Glory, whoſe Rays iſſue out of an Equilateral Triangle, gilt with Gold.

The South Door-Caſe is of Oak, adorned with Pilaſters; their Entablature and Pediment of the Corinthian Order; and the like on the North Side, with Shields, Compartments, and Crown, between the Lion and Unicorn Seiant, and guarded with Shields.

The Dimenſions of this Church are, Length 96 Feet, Breadth 60, Altitude to the Ceiling of the Roof 26, and to the Center of the Cupola about 38 Feet; alſo that of the Steeple, conſiſting of a Tower and a Turret, about 96 Feet.

Sir Thomas Blanke, by Name,
Of honeſt Birth, of Merchants Trade, a Man of worthy Fame.
Religious was his Life to God,

With gentle Heart, and Spirit mild,
and Nature full of Pity,
Both Sheriff, Lord Mayor, and Alderman,

ON the other Side of the Tomb, Southward, was the following Epitaph on Dame Margaret Blanke, who departed this Life the ſecond of February, An. Dom. 1596.

Death was deceiv'd which thought theſe two to part:
For though this Knight firſt left this mortal Life,
Yet till ſhe died, he ſtill lived in her Heart.
What happier Husband or more kinder Wife?
Whom four and forty Changes of the Spring,
In ſacred Wedlock mutual Love had linkt:
The dear Remembrance of ſo dear a Thing,
Was not by Death in her chaſte Breaſt extinct.
Building this Tomb not long before ſhe died,
Her lateſt Duty to his Funeral Rite,
Crown'd with her Virtues like an honeſt Bride,
Here lies at Reſt by her beloved Knight.
Though worthy Blanke her Name it ſtill endures,
Yet, Traves, boaſt, her Birth was only yours.

The PARISH of St. MARGARET PATTENS.

St. Margaret Pattens.

ST. Margaret, to whom this Church, and three more in the City are dedicated (called alſo by ſome Writers St. Marina and Macrina) was a holy Virgin and Martyr. She was born at Antioch in Piſidia, being the Daughter of Ædeſius, by others nam'd Theodoſius, a famous Prieſt of the Gentiles.

Olybrius, Preſident of the Eaſtern Parts, was much enamour'd of her rare Beauty, and had a Deſire to make her his Wife; but underſtanding that ſhe was a Chriſtian, when as by no means he could turn her from her Faith in CHRIST, nor mollify her Zeal by any fair Perſuaſions, he try'd her by many cruel and unheard of Torments; but theſe not prevailing, ſhe was at laſt beheaded, on 31 Kal. Aug. or, as ſome write, on the 3 Id. Julii, Ann. Chriſti 292, under the Reign of the Emperor Decius.

THE Feſtival Day of her Commemoration is yearly celebrated on the 20th of July.

THERE are three other Margarets, which were Sainted; but being of a later Date, are none of them held to be the Margaret to whoſe Memory theſe Churches above-mentioned are dedicated; for that very few Churches have been founded, or newly erected, in this City of LONDON, ſince the Norman Conqueſt, ſince which Time the ſaid three Margarets were living, as appears by the ſeveral Stories related of them.

St. Margaret Pattens Church.

IN the Year 1538, the old Church here was taken down, to be new built, during which Time the Oblations made to the Rood in the Church-yard, were employed towards carrying on the Work: But about the 23d of May, in the Morning, the ſaid Rood was found to have been in the Night preceding, by People unknown, broken all to Pieces, together with the Tabernacle, wherein it had been placed.

ALSO on the 27th of the ſame Month, in the ſame Pariſh, amongſt the Basket-makers, a great and ſudden Fire happened in the Night-time, which within the Space of three Hours conſumed more than a dozen Houſes, and nine Perſons were burnt to Death there. And thus ceaſed the Work of this Church, being at that Time nigh finiſhed to the Steeple.

IT was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſh, Anno 1614; and in the Year 1666, being burnt in the fatal Fire, it was again rebuilt, and finiſhed, Anno Domini 1687.

IT is a pleaſant Church, the Walls at the Weſt End of Stone, that fronting Southward is of Brick, covered with a Finiſhing, and there are Stone Quoins: The Tower is alſo of Stone, with Acroteria and Spire of the Dorick Order. The outer Door-caſe at the Weſt End is of the Tuſcan, and the Pillars and Pilaſters within are of the Corinthian Order.

AS to the Ornament, the Roof is flat, having a Quadrangle of Fret-work, and the Arches adorned with the like.

ON the North Side is a neat Gallery of Oak, and the Church is wainſcotted about ſeven Feet and a half high, and pewed very well with the ſame Sort of Timber, of which alſo are two fine inner Door-caſes; that at the Weſt End of the Church being very ſpacious, and adorned with Pilaſters, Entablature, and circular Pediment, whereon is placed the King's Arms, finely carved.

THE Altar-piece is likewiſe carved Wainſcot, of the Corinthian Order, conſiſting of two Columns, Entablature, and Pediment; under which is a ſpacious Glory, and the Ten Commandments, done in Gold on Black, between the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Black Letters on Gold, with Enrichments of Fruit, Palm-Branches, &c. carved in Relievo, incloſed with Rail and Ballaſter, within which the Foot-pace is Black and White Marble; the Baſon alſo of the Font is of Marble, but has no Cover.

THE Dimenſions of the Church are, Length 66 Feet, Breadth 52, Altitude 32, and that of the Steeple, which conſiſts of a ſpacious Tower and Spire, is 198 Feet and two Inches.

The PARISH of St. GEORGE BOTOLPH-LANE.

ST. George, to whoſe Memory this Church is dedicated, was born in Cappadocia, of Chriſtian Parents, by whom he was educated from his Infancy in the Chriſtian Religion. He was trained up in the Wars under the Emperor Diocleſian, by whom, for his Dexterity in martial Affairs, (before he was diſcovered to be a Chriſtian) he was made a Tribune, and then an Earl (Comes.) After his Parents Death, being of the Age of twenty Years, he took Part of his Eſtate left him, and deſirous of Honour, repaired to the Emperor; but when he ſaw ſuch ſavage Cruelty exerciſed againſt the Chriſtians, he diſtributing all his Wealth and Apparel to the Poor, went of himſelf, without Fear, to the Emperor, aſſembled with his Council, and there boldly upbraided them for their Cruelty and profane Idolatry, profeſſing himſelf a Chriſtian; for which, when he would not be reclaimed, he was, by the Command of the Emperor, firſt caſt into Priſon, then tormented with the moſt cruel Tortures, as, torn with ſharp Hooks, caſt into burning Lime, rack'd with Cords, hack'd with ſharp Bills, and cut and ſlaſh'd with Swords; and, yet, in all theſe Torments, he was not perceived to be of a dejected or abject Spirit, but retain'd a generous Conſtancy to the laſt Breath of his Life: At laſt he was beheaded, on the 23d Day of April, which is yearly celebrated in Memory of his Martyrdom. St. George's Botolph-lane.

THIS St. George is the Patron of the Engliſh Nation, and alſo of the Noble Order of the Garter; but the Story of his killing the Dragon is look'd upon to be a Fable, or Allegory.

THIS Church of St. George Botolph-lane, ſo called, becauſe ſituate in Botolph-lane, a pretty Way up the Hill, on the Weſt Side thereof, is call'd alſo ſometimes St. George de Eaſtcheap becauſe near that Place.

IT was repaired and beautified, at the Charge of the Pariſh, in 1627; and being conſumed by the mercileſs Flames of 1666, it was again rebuilt, and finiſhed in the Year 1674; being a pretty, tho' ſmall Church, built of Stone. The Roof over the two Side Iſles lies flat; but that over the middle Iſle cammarated, and ſupported by Columns of the Compoſite Order; and here is a pretty Veſtry at the South East Corner.

IT is very well as to Ornament and Finiſhing; the Outſide of the East End is adorned with a Cornice and Pediment of Stone, and enrich'd with a Cherub and Feſtoon; the Roof with fretted Arches, and alſo ſeveral Quadrangular Figures, with an Entablament above the ſaid Column.

AT the Weſt End is a pretty Gallery of Bolection Wainſcot, and the Church is well pewed and and wainſcotted with Oak about nine Feet high; alſo a pretty Pulpit, adorned with an Architrave, Frieſe and Cornice with Compaſs, Pediments, and Enrichments of Feſtoons, Cherubims, &c. and there are two Wainſcot Door-caſes.

THE Altar-piece is of right Norway Oak, adorned with two Columns, Entablature, and Pediment, of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold Letters on Black; and juſt without the Columns are the Lord's-Prayer and Creed, done in Black on Gold. Over the Commandments is a Seraphim between two Cherubims gilt with Gold; and above the Cornice, in the Pediment, is the King's Arms, carved, gilt, and painted; and the whole has Enrichments of Fruit, Leaves, Cartouches, &c. carved in Baſſo Relievo. The Foot Pace for the Communion Table is Marble, and incloſed with Rail and Ballaſter.

THE Dimenſions of this Church are 54 Feet in Length, Breadth 36, Height 36, and the Altitude of the Steeple, wherein there are two Bells, is about 84 Feet to the Top of the Tower.

NUMBER of Houſes, beſides Warehouſes, 56.

IN both Pariſhes 104.

THESE two Pariſhes in Conjunction with the other Part of Billingſgate Ward, maintain 40 Boys by Subſcription.

Rother-lane, or Red-roſe-lane, from ſuch a Sign there, Stow ſays, was afterwards called Pudding-lane, becauſe the Butchers of Eaſtcheap had their Scalding-Houſe for Hogs there, and their Puddings with other Filth of Beaſts, were voided down that Way to their Dung-Boats on the Thames.

THIS Lane ſtretcheth from Thames-ſtreet to Little-Eaſtcheap; chiefly inhabited by Basket-makers, Turners, and Butchers, and is all of Billingſgate Ward.

THE Garland in Little-Eaſtcheap, ſome Time a Brewhouſe, with a Garden on the Backſide, adjoining to the Garden of Sir John Philpot, was the chief Houſe in this Eaſtcheap. It is now divided into ſundry ſmall Tenements, &c.

NOW for the preſent State and Condition of this Ward:

IN this Ward the dreadful Fire of LONDON began, and in a few Hours it was wholly laid in Aſhes. This Ward hath for its Weſtern Bounds Bridge Ward Within; for its Northern Langborn Ward; for its Eaſtern Tower-ſtreet Ward; and for its Southern the River Thames.

THE chief Places in this Ward are, Thames-ſtreet; Little Eaſtcheap, Pudding-lane, Botolph's-lane, Love-lane, St. Mary-hill, Rood-lane, for about 200 Feet, and Philpot-lane, for about 150 Feet; the reſt of theſe Lanes being in Langborn Ward: And in theſe Places are ſeveral Courts, and Places of Note; of which in order:

Thames-ſtreet is a Place of very conſiderable Trade, on Account of its convenient Situation near the Water, the Cuſtom-houſe, Billingſgate, and the ſeveral Wharfs and Keys for lading and unlading Merchants Goods, &c.

THE Keys, Wharfs, and Docks, which are now aſſigned and allowed to be lawful by an Act of Parliament, for ſhipping, lading, and landing of Goods and Merchandizes, are theſe; 1 Brewer's-key, 2 Cheſter's-key, 3 Gally-key, 4 Wool-dock, 5 Cuſtom-houſe-key, 6 Porter's-key, 7 Bear's-key, 8 Sab's-key, 9 Wiggan's-key, 10 Young's-key, 11 Rafe's-key, 12 Dice-key, 13 Smart's-key, 14 Billingſgate, 15 Somer's-key, 16 Lion's-key, 17 Botolph's-key, 18 Hamon's-key, 19 Gaunt's-key, 20 Cock's-key, and Freſh Wharf.

Billingſgate is that from which the Ward takes its Name, being a large Water-gate, Port, or Harbour for ſmall Veſſels, which here arrive with Fiſh, Salt, Oranges, Lemons, Onions, and ſeveral other Commodities; and in the Summer Seaſon with abundance of Cherries from Kent. Likewiſe Wheat, and other Grain at Smart's-key. And theſe Stairs of Billingſgate are very much reſorted unto by the Graveſend Watermen, this being the noted Place to Land and take Water at, for that and other Eaſtern Towns down the River. And here the Coalmen and Woodmongers meet every Morning about eight or nine o'Clock, this Place being their Exchange for the Coal Trade, which brings a great Reſort of People, and occaſions a great Trade to the Inhabitants. And this Place is now more frequented than in antient Time, when Queen-hith was made Uſe of for the ſaid Purpoſe, this being more commodious. And therefore it was ordained to be the only Port for all ſuch Sorts of Merchandizes.

Boſs-alley, being long, but very ordinary and narrow.

NEAR this Alley is St. Mary-hill, which runs Northwards to St. Margaret Pattens Church. This St. Mary-hill has very good Houſes on it, inhabited by ſeveral Merchants. On the Eaſt Side is Croſs-lane, which falls into Idle-lane, againſt St. Dunſtan's Church. Auſtin's-court, but mean, lying Northwards of Croſs-lane. Maſſie's-court, a little more Northwards, hath a dark Paſſage up Steps, and then is an open Court, but mean.

THE Church here Stow calls St. Mary on the Hill, but others have called it St. Mary at Hill, becauſe it ſtands not on the Hill, but at, or about the Middle of the Aſcent from Billingſgate to Little Eaſtcheap. The back Part of the Church ſtands in Love-lane, and adjoining to it is an Alley called Church-alley, which leadeth into Love-lane, and hath Buildings only on the South Side, pretty good, the other Side lying open to the Church-yard.

Love-lane, comes out of Little Eaſt-cheap, and falls into Thames-ſtreet, where it hath but a narrow Entrance only for a Coach or Cart: In this Lane on the North Weſt Corner, entering into Little Eaſtcheap, is the Weigh-houſe, built on the Ground, where the Church of St. Andrew Hubbard ſtood before the Fire of LONDON, 1666; which ſaid Weigh-houſe was before in Corn-hill. In this Houſe are weighed Merchandizes brought from beyond the Seas by the King's Beam, to which doth belong a Maſter, and under him four Maſter Porters, with labouring Porters under them. They uſed to have Carts and Horſes to fetch the Goods from the Merchants Warehouſes to the Beam, and to carry them back. The Houſe belongeth to the Company of Grocers, in whoſe Gift the ſeveral Porters, &c. Places were. But of late Years little is done in this Office, as wanting a compulſive Power to conſtrain Merchants to have their Goods weighed, they alledging it to be an unneceſſary Trouble and Charge. Over this Office or Weigh-houſe is a large Room, now made uſe of as a Meeting-houſe for ſome Diſſenters from the Church of England. On the Backſide of this Building is a Paſſage into St. Botolph's-lane; but the chief Entrance into this Weigh-houſe is in Little Eaſtcheap.

St. Botolph's-lane. The Pariſh-Church here is already ſpoken of; adjoining to which is George's-lane on the North Side, which gives an Entrance into the Church, and this Lane hath a narrow Paſſage into Pudding-lane. Over-againſt this Church is St. Botolph's-alley, indifferently well inhabited, with a broad Free-ſtone Paſſage into Love-lane. More Southward is St. Botolph's Church-yard, at the Upper End of which is two or three ordinary Houſes. This Lane, except the Part towards Thames-ſtreet, broad and well inhabited by Merchants. This Church of St. George Botolph's is in the Dioceſs of LONDON, the Abbot of Bermondſey was antiently Patron.

Pudding-lane. In this Lane it was that the dreadful Fire of LONDON, on the 2d of September, 1666, firſt began, which conſumed above 13000 Dwelling-Houſes.

ON the Houſe where this diſmal Fire began is this Inſcription, ſet up by Authority:

Here, by the Permiſſion of Heaven, Hell brake looſe upon this Proteſtant City, from the malicious Hearts of barbarous Papiſts, by the Hand of their Agent

Agent Hubert, who confeſſed, and on the Ruins of this Place declared his Fact, for which he was hanged, viz. That here began the dreadful Fire, which is deſcribed and perpetuated on and by the neighbouring Pillar, erected Anno 1680, in the Mayoralty of Sir Patience Ward, Knt.

IT was then a Baker's, now a Cooper's Houſe. And in Commemoration thereof, there is erected hard by, a ſtately Monument of Free-ſtone, of a vaſt Height, which taketh up a good Part of the Eaſt Side of Fiſh-ſtreet-hill; to the End it may be obvious to all that paſs that Way, being a very great Thoroughfare to and from Southwark, of which more in Bridge Ward Within.

ON the Eaſt Side of Pudding-lane is Fiſh-yard, a ſmall Court with a Free-ſtone Pavement. On the Weſt Side is a Paſſage to Fiſh-ſtreet-hill, by the Monument; and more Northwards on the Eaſt Side is Butchers Hall.

Little Eaſtcheap, ſevered from Great Eaſtcheap, by Gracechurch-ſtreet and Fiſhſtreet-hill. It is of chief Account for Butchers there inhabiting; on the North Side, and at the Corner of Rood-lane, ſtands St. Margaret Pattens Church, as aforeſaid; and betwixt Rood-lane and Philpot-lane is Turner's-alley, ſmall and narrow; at the upper End of which is a Garden, belonging to a Merchant's Houſe.

Rood-lane. This Lane is well built and inhabited by Merchants, and others.

Philpot-lane hath the greateſt Part in Langborn Ward.

Talbot-court, ſeated in Little Eaſtcheap, a large and well inhabited Place; out of which a narrow Paſſage leadeth into another handſome Court, which hath an Entrance into Gracechurch-ſtreet

THERE are to Watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward every Night, beſides a Conſtable and Beadle, 30 Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve as Jurors in the Courts of Guildhall, in the Month of May.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, ten Common Council-Men, eleven Conſtables, ſix Scavengers, fourteen Men of the Wardmote Inqueſt, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON at 32 l. and in the Exchequer at 31 l. 10 s.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir Edward Bellamy.

CHAP. X.

BRIDGE WARD WITHIN.

Bridge Ward. Within.

BRIDGE Ward within, ſo called from London-Bridge, which is a principal Part of this Ward, and beginning on the South End by Southwark, runneth along the Bridge, and North up Bridge-ſtreet, commonly called, from the Fiſh-Market, New Fiſh-ſtreet, from Fiſh-ſtreet-hill up Gracechurch-ſtreet, to the End of Lombard-ſtreet.

IN New Fiſh-ſtreet, and on Fiſh-ſtreet-hill, live Perſons of divers Trades, but chiefly Fiſhmongers.

THE Fiſhmongers who lived here upon Fiſh-ſtreet-hill, and thoſe of Old-fiſh-ſtreet, in the Reign of King Edward II, were the topping rich Men and Merchants of the Trade, and would not ſuffer any others that kept Stalls to Trade (as it ſeems) by Wholeſale with them. So that there was an Order iſſued out from John de Blund, Mayor, to forbid theſe Fiſhmongers to hinder the Trade. And it was enjoined by the ſaid Mayor, and divers Aldermen, to the Fiſhmongers of Bridge-ſtreet, and of the Old Fiſhery then preſent, (viz. at a Court held on Thurſday after the Feaſt of the Converſion of St. Paul, 34 Edward II.) that they, under a heavy Penalty, permit Fiſhmongers, Freemen of the City, ſtanding at Stalls, to Merchandize together with them, and freely to obtain their Shares of Merchandizes ſold, as it was fit and juſt, and the Freedom of the City required.

IN Gracechurch, or Graſs-ſtreet, as it was then called, was a handſome Conduit of ſweet Water, in old Times, caſtellated with Creſt and Vent, made there by the Appointment of Thomas Hill, Mayor 1484, who gave by his Teſtament an hundred Marks towards the Conveyance of Water to this Place. It was begun by his Executors in the Year 1491, and finiſhed by his Goods, whatſoever it coſt.

The PARISH of St. MAGNUS.

ST. Magnus the Martyr, (to whom this Church, probably, is dedicated; for there were divers other Martyrs of this Name, but none of whom ſuch ſpecial Notice is taken) ſuffer'd in Cæſarea in Cappadocia, in the Time of Aurelian the Emperor, Ann. Dom. 276, under Alexander the Governor, who after he had expoſed this holy Martyr, for refuſing to ſacrifice to the Pagan Gods, twice to the fiery Furnace to be conſumed in the Flames; thrice to the wild Beaſts to be devoured by them, but in vain; at laſt commanded him to be ſtoned; and when they had lain an Heap of Stones on him, and thought he was dead, on a ſudden, in every one's Hearing, he prayed to the Lord, that he would take away his Soul in Peace, and preſently gave up the Ghoſt. His Body was buried in that City, in a new Coffin on the 14th of the Kal. Decemb. St. Magnus

SOME obſerve the Feſtival of St. Magnus on the 19th of Auguſt, on which Day the Feaſt of St. Magnus the Martyr, Biſhop of Anagnia, is celebrated.

THE Church of St. Magnus, in ſome Writings is called Eccleſia S. Magni Martyris Civitatis London, juxta Pedem, vel ad Pedem, Pontis London.

IN the Year 1433, (Sir John Brockle, then Mayor of LONDON) upon a Controverſy that was then like to ariſe between the ſaid Mayor and the Commonalty of LONDON, and the Bridge-maſters on the one Part, and Richard Morysby, Archdeacon of LONDON, and Rector of this Church, on the other, about the Oblations, lations, and other ſpiritual Profits, which wer e made in a certain Chapel, called the Chapel of St. Thomas the Martyr upon the Bridge, within the Precincts of this Pariſh: There was a Compoſition or Agreement made and confirm'd by Robert (Fitzhugh) then Biſhop of LONDON, whereby (inter alia) it was agreed, That the Chaplains of the ſaid Chapel, and their Succeſſors, ſhould receive all the Profits of the ſaid Chapel to the Uſe of the ſame, and the Bridge, and ſhould pay yearly at Michaelmas the Sum of xx d. to the ſaid Church of St. Magnus, and to the Rector of the ſame, and the Succeſſors for ever.

In this Church of St. Magnus, Hugh Pourt (one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, in the Year 1302) and Margaret his Wife founded a perpetual Chantry.

Here was alſo another founded at the Altar of the Bleſſed Virgin for the Souls of Sir John Depeden, Knt. and Elizabeth his Wife, and Robert Ramſey, and Joan his Wife, and of their Parents and Benefactors, and all the Faithful deceaſed.

The old Church of St. Magnus had 500 l. laid out in the Repairs thereof, in the Years 1623, 1624, and 1625, and was richly beautified in 1629; but being a Sharer in the Calamity by Fire in 1666; it was again re-edified, Anno 1676, and the Steeple, as it now appears in 1705, in which Year, and 1706, this Church was new beautified.

The Church is very well built of Stone, that Part of the Roof over the Middle Iſle cammerated, over the two other Iſles flat, ſupported by Columns, of the Ionick Order, with their Entablature; and the Steeple (which is adorned with Vaſes, &c.) conſiſts of a Tower, a Lanthorn, a Cupola, and a ſpiry Turret.

The Church is adorned on the Outſide with a Door-caſe, of the Ionick Order, a curious Dial, having the Figures of Atlas and Hercules, St. Magnus and St. Margaret, (a ſtrange Confuſion of the Pagan and Chriſtian Theology) and two Cupids, one with a Sun, the other holding an Hour-glaſs, as alſo two Eagles, and ſeveral Cherubims; the two firſt Figures are very ſpacious, and lie on the Pediment of the Weſt Door-caſe, the reſt are erect, richly carved and gilt with Gold. This Clock was new gilt and repaired the laſt Year (1732.)

And the Inſide of the Roof enrich'd with Arches of Fretwork; alſo an architrave Frieſe and Cornice round the Walls of the Church. It is well pewed with Oak, and wainſcotted about ſeven Feet high. The Pulpit is alſo Oak, well carved and finier'd.

The Weſt Inner Door-caſe is very ſpacious adorned with two Pilaſters, and their Entablature, of the Corinthian Order, with Enrichments of Shield, Feſtoons, &c.

The North Door-caſe is of the ſame Order adorned with two Columns and their Entablament with Cartouches, Flowers, Leaves, &c.

The Altar-piece is alſo very neat, of the Corinthian Order, having the Ornament of four Columns, Entablaments and Pediments. The Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, between, the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Gold Letters on Green; under the the Upper Pediment is a Glory, and the whole is enrich'd with Cherubims, Palm Branches, &c.

The Altar Cloth here is finely embroider'd, and ſo curious a Piece of Work, that a very large Sum of Money, we are informed, was once offered for it, by ſome Foreigners.

The Benefactors towards the rebuilding, finiſhing, and furniſhing the Church with Ornaments, are preſerved in a Table hung up in the Church, viz.

The PARISH of St. LEONARD in EASTCHEAP.

St. Leonard in Eaſtcheap.

UP higher on this Hill, was the Pariſh-Church of St. Leonard Milk Church, ſo called from one William Melker, the Builder thereof, but more commonly St. Leonard's in Eaſtcheap, becauſe it ſtood at the Corner of Eaſtcheap.

IN the Year of our Lord, 1618, this Church, by a Caſualty of Fire, happening by Whiting of Baskets, in the Houſe of one Jerome Baynton, a Turner, (ſituate in Little Eaſtcheap, on the North Side of the ſaid Church, whoſe Houſe was burnt down, and in the Place thereof another built with Brick) was fired in the Steeple thereof, being a Spire covered with Lead; it was quenched, but not without great Pains and much Danger to ſome Perſons, (who were not unrewarded by the Pariſh) before any great Hurt was done to it by the Fire, more than the Defacing of it, and other Parts of the Church; but for that the ſaid Steeple was very old, much ruined and decayed in the Stone-work thereof, to prevent further Danger, it was pulled down, and all the Weſt End of the Church thereto adjoining, a new Foundation laid, inlarged three Feet toward the Eaſt, and new built, not without great Charge to the Inhabitants of the Pariſh, who were all willing and ready to contribute towards the Rebuilding, Repairing, and Beautifying the Houſe of GOD; and the better to ſet forward the Work, the Inhabitants of the Pariſh tax'd themſelves towards the Charge, at 198 l. 6*s.* 4*d.* but for that the Pariſh is but ſmall, and the greater Part of the Inhabitants poor, they were inforced, by their Petition, to ſeek Help from his Majeſty, (King James I.) who was graciouſly pleaſed to grant them his Letters Patents (for their Relief) to collect and gather in ſeveral Counties within this Kingdom towards the Charge of the Rebuilding the Steeple, and the Repairing of the Church.

The Steeple being finiſhed, the South Wall towards the Church-yard, being much decayed, was alſo taken down and new built, and the Church in other Parts repaired, the Charge thereof amounting to above 850 l. of which the Pariſh received by Way of Collection (toward their Charge) in LONDON, and other Places, the Sum of 170 l. 1*s.* 9*d.* and of other Benefactors, 10 l. 15*s.* they having one Patent for ſix Shires alſo; the Party that was employed to lay the Briefs, and gather the Collections, went away with all, and brought to the Pariſh neither Brief nor Money The Steeple of this Church, and the Wall on the South Side (towards the Church-yard) was built, and the Church, in other Parts, repaired and beautified, in the Years 1618, 1619, 1620, 1621.

The

The PARISH of St. BENNET GRACECHURCH.

St. Bennet Gracechurch.

ST. Benedict, or Bennet, (to whose Memory this, and other Churches in the City, are dedicated) was born at Nursia, a Town in Umbria in Italy. He was Patriarch of a famous Order called after his Name Benedictines, and was the first who brought a Monastical Life to be esteemed in the West, where the most antient Monks are the Benedictines, who are also the most famous of the Roman Church. He founded twelve Monasteries in his own Country, the chief whereof is Mont-Cassin; and gave them a Rule, which was afterwards approved by Pope Gregory the Great, Anno Dom. 595. They were called also Black Monks, from the Colour of their Habit, which was a Black loose Coat of Stuff, reaching down to their Heels, with a Cowl, or Hood, of the same, and a Scapular, and under that Coat another white Habit as large as the former, made of white Flannel, and Boots on their Legs. Of this Order were all our Cathedral Priories, except Carliol, and most of the richest Abbies in the Kingdom.

IN the sixteenth Year after he had finished his illustrious Monastery of Cassino, as Bede writes, on March 21, about the 62d Year of his Age, as Trithemius writes, he gave up his Ghost to the Lord, and was buried with his Sister Scholastica at Cassino, where he died. His Festival is celebrated yearly on March 21.

THE Order of St. Benedict has been the Source of several others, who follow the Rule of the first Founder, and have made new Branches of Monks in the Church of Rome.

THIS Church of St. Bennet, formerly called Grass-church, from the Herb-Market kept there, but now Gracechurch stands in Fenchurch-street, at the South West Corner thereof, the West End fronts Gracechurch-street.

IT is uncertain when the last Church here was first built, but Mr. Stow says, it was repaired and beautified in the Year 1630; and had a new Clock, Dial and Chimes added, Anno 1633. In the Year 1666, it was consumed by the Fire of LONDON, and again re-edified and finished in the Year 1685; and it was afterwards beautified, Anno 1693.

THE Roof is arched, adorned with Fretwork of Cherubims, &c.

IT is very well wainscotted round, ten Feet high, with right Norway Oak, and handsomely pewed; and at the West End of the Church is a neat little Gallery.

THE Pulpit is of the aforesaid Timber, very well finnier'd, carved, and adorned with Cherubims, Leaves, Fruit, &c.

THE Altar-piece is spacious, consisting of four fine Columns, with the Entablament of the Corinthian Order; between the two Middle ones are the Commandments, well done in Gold on Black, immediately over which is a Glory, being the Word Jehovah in Hebrew Characters, within an Equilateral Triangle; and above that two Cherubims, over which is a Circular Pediment, and above that the King's Arms in their proper Colours, within a fine Compartment, over which is a large Crown carved and gilt, and on each Side the said Arms, at about two Feet Distance, are the Lion and Unicorn, on two Acroters. Over each of the Outer Columns, a fine spacious Lamp, and between the said Columns the Effigies of Moses and Aaron; North and South from which are the Lord's-Prayer and Creed, done in black Letters upon Gold; over which are Circular Pediments, upon each of which is a gilded Shield, with its Compartments: And the whole is curiously enrich'd with Cartouches, Fruit, Leaves, Festoons, &c. all carved in fine Norway Oak.

OVER this carved Work is a large Piece of Architecture, painted in Perspective, representing the arched Roof, and Pilasters of a Building, which appear from under a Purple Velvet Festoon Curtain, elevated by two Cupids. All which Altar-piece is inclosed with Rail and Ballaster, and the Floor within is paved with black and white Marble.

HERE is also a curious Font, adorned with Cherubims, &c. and the Cover is fine carved Work, round which are these Words:

Suffer the little Children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of God.

THE Length of the Church within is about 60 Feet, Breadth 30, and Height about 32. It is mostly built with Stone; as is also the Tower or Steeple, whose Altitude is about 149 Feet, and where is a large gilded Clock-Dial, extending near as far as to the Middle of the Street.

Some old Monuments remained undefaced before the Fire; as of,

ON the Weſt Side of this Ward, at the North End of London-Bridge, is a Part of Thames-ſtreet, which is alſo of this Ward; that is to ſay, ſo much as of old Time was called Stockfiſhmonger's-row, from the Stockfiſhmongers Dwelling there. Fiſhmongers-hall.

ON the South Side of Thames-ſtreet, about the Midway betwixt the Bridge-foot and Ebgate-lane, ſtandeth the Fiſhmongers-Hall, which is a ſpacious Building, with a handſome Front towards the Water-Side, and the North Side is adorned with a Piazza, with Columns and Arches of the Ionic Order. There are Galleries round the Inſide, and the Figure of Sir William Wallworth, Fiſhmonger, who, when Lord Mayor, ſlew Wat Tyler; alſo a Screen of the Compoſite Order, with a Golden Buſto under the Pediment.

THESE Fiſhmongers were ſometimes of two ſeveral Companies, to wit, Stockfiſhmongers and Saltfiſhmongers; of whoſe Antiquity we find, that by the Name of the Fiſhmongers of LONDON, they were for foreſtalling, &c. contrary to the Laws and Conſtitutions of the City, fined to the King at 500 Marks the 8th of King Edward I. More, That the ſaid Fiſhmongers hearing of the great Victory obtained by the ſame King againſt the Scots, in the 26th of his Reign, made a triumphant and ſolemn Shew through the City, with divers Pageants, and more than a thouſand Horſemen, &c.

THESE two Companies of Stockfiſhmongers and Saltfiſhmongers, of old Time, had their ſeveral Halls; to wit, in Thames-ſtreet two; in New Fiſh-ſtreet two; and in Old Fiſh-ſtreet two, in each Place, one for either Company: In all, ſix ſeveral Halls, the Company was ſo great.

THESE Fiſhmongers have been famous Citizens, and have had ſix Mayors of their Company in twenty four Years; to wit, Walter Freke 1350, John Lofkin 1359. John Wroth 1361, John Pechie 1362, Simon Morden 1369, and William Walworth 1374. It followed, that in the Year 1382, through the Council of John Northampton, Draper, then being Mayor, William Eſſex, John More, Mercers, and Richard Northbury, the ſaid Fiſhmongers were greatly troubled, hindered of their Liberties, and almoſt deſtroyed by Congregations made againſt them: So that in a Parliament at LONDON, the Controverſy depending between the Mayor and Aldermen of LONDON, and the Fiſhmongers there, Nicholas Exton, Speaker for the Fiſhmongers, prayed the King to receive him and his Company into his Protection, for Fear of corporal Hurt. Whereupon it was commanded that each Party ſhould keep the Peace, upon Pain of loſing all they had: Hereupon a Fiſhmonger ſtarting up, replied, That the Complaint brought againſt them by the Movers, &c. was but Matter of Malice; for that the Fiſhmongers, in the Reign of Edward III, being chief Officers of the City, had, for their Miſdemeanors then done, committed the chief Exhibitors of thoſe Petitions to Priſon. In this Parliament the Fiſhmongers (by the King's Charter Patents) were reſtored to their Liberties. Notwithſtanding, in the Year next following, to wit, 1383, John Cavendiſh, Fiſhmonger, craved the Peace againſt the Chancellor of England, which was granted; And he put in Sureties, the Earl of Stafford and Salisbury, Cavendiſh challenging the Chancellor for taking a Bribe of 10 l. for favour of his Caſe; which the Chancellor, by Oath upon the Sacrament, avoideth. In farther Trial it was found, that the Chancellor's Man (without his Maſter's Privity) had taken it; whereupon Cavendiſh was adjudged to Priſon, and to pay the Chancellor a thouſand Marks for ſlandering him.

AFTER this, many of the Nobles aſſembled at Reading, to ſuppreſs the ſeditious Stirs of the ſaid John Northampton, or Combarton, late Mayor, that had attempted great and heinous Enterprizes, of which he was Convict. And when he ſtood Mute, nor could utter one Word, it was decreed, That he ſhould be committed to perpetual Priſon, his Goods confiſcate to the King's Uſe, and that he ſhould not come within a hundred Miles of LONDON during his Life. He was therefore ſent to the Caſtle of Tintegall, in the Confines of Cornwal, and in the mean Time the King's Servants plundered his Goods. John More, Richard Northbury, and others, were likewiſe there Convict, and condemned to perpetual Priſon, and their Goods, Confiſcate, for certain Congregations by them made againſt the Fiſhmongers in the City of LONDON, as is aforeſaid; but they obtained and had the King's Pardon, in the 14th of his Reign, as appeareth by Record: And thus were all theſe Troubles quieted.

THOSE Stockfiſhmongers and Saltfiſhmongers were united in the Year 1536, the 28th of Henry VIII, their Hall to be but one, in the Houſe given to them by Sir John Cornwall, Lord Franhope, and of Ampthull, in the Pariſh of St. Michael in Crooked-lane, in the Reign of Henry VI.

"Thus much, ſaith Stow, have I thought good "to Note of the Fiſhmongers, Men ignorant of "their own Antiquities, and not able ſo much "as to ſhew the Reaſon why, or when, they "were joined in Amity with the Gold-"ſmiths, and do give Part of their Arms, &c. "Neither to ſay ought of Sir William Walworth "the Glory of their Company (more, than that "he ſlew Jack Straw, which is meer Fable; for "the ſaid Jack Staw was, after the Overthrow "of the Rebels, taken, and by Judgment of "the Mayor, beheaded, which Confeſſion at the "Gallows is extant in my Annals. Where alſo "is ſet down the moſt valiant and praiſe-worthy "Act of Sir William Walworth, againſt the "principal Rebel Walter Tyler.

ON that South Side of Thames-ſtreet, was, in Stow's Time, Drinkwater-wharf, and Fiſh-wharf, in the Pariſh of St. Magnus. On the South Side Thames-ſtreet, St. Martin's-lane; a Part of which Lane was alſo of this Ward; to wit, on one Side to a Well of Water; and on the other Side as far up as againſt the ſaid Well. Then St. Michael's-lane, Part whereof alſo of this Ward, up to a Well there, &c.

THEN at the upper End of New Fiſh-ſtreet, is a Lane turning towards St. Michael's-lane, and is called Crooked-lane, from the crooked Windings thereof. Above this Lane's End, upon Fiſhſtreet-hill, was one great Houſe, for the moſt Part built of Stone, which pertained ſome Time to Edward the Black Prince, Son to Edward III, who was in his Life-time lodged there. It was afterwards a common Hoſtery, having the Black Bell for a Sign.

AS to the preſent State of this Ward:

THE Streets and Places of Note, are London-bridge, New Fiſh-ſtreet, Gracechurch-ſtreet, as far as Fenchurch-ſtreet.

Thames-ſtreet from New Fiſh-ſtreet unto Old Swan-lane in the Weſt, of which it takes in but the Eaſt Side.

St. Martin's-lane, about a hundred Feet of the South End next to Thames-ſtreet.

St. Michael's-lane, about a hundred and fifty Feet of the South End next to Thames-ſtreet.

Crooked-lane, about a hundred and twenty Feet of the Eaſt End of it.

WE begin with London-bridge; a Bridge not inferior to any in Europe for its Length, Breadth, and Buildings thereon, being ſuſtained by nineteen great Stone Arches, ſecured by Piles of Timber drove to the Bottom of the River, having a Draw-bridge towards Southwark, as alſo ſtrong Gates; and by the Houſes built thereon on both Sides, it ſeemeth rather a Street than a Bridge, being now furniſhed with good Timber Buildings, which are very well inhabited by ſufficient Tradeſmen, who have very conſiderable Dealings, as being ſo great a Thoroughfare from Southwark into LONDON: And amongſt theſe Buildings ſome are very large with curious Fronts in that Part near the Draw-bridge, where it hath an open Proſpect on both Sides into the River Thames; but we cannot help being of the Opinion of a late Writer, that this Bridge would have been more convenient for Paſſage, and a greater Ornament to the City, if, inſtead of the Houſes thereon, it had been only adorned with a ſtrong Breaſtwork and Baluſtrade.

THE Rents of the Houſes upon it belong to the City, for and towards the Maintenance of the ſaid Bridge, the Bridge-houſe, and Officers thereunto belonging, which are very conſiderable; the greateſt Part of the Land in St. George's-fields, Southwark, is alſo ſettled for the ſame Purpoſe: But of this Bridge ſee more in Book I, Chap. VII.

Fiſh-ſtreet-hill is a Street very well built, and inhabited by great Dealers, and the rather as being ſo great a Thoroughfare in and out of the City, Southwards.

ON the Eaſt Side near the Bridge is St. Magnus's Church, ſeated in the Corner going into Thames-ſtreet; it is in the Dioceſe of LONDON; the Abbots of Weſtminſter and Bermondſey were Patrons. It was deſtroyed by the Fire of LONDON.

ON the Weſt Side of the Bridge is the Waterhouſe, being a lofty wooden Building, which by Wheels, Iron Chains, &c. drinketh, or rather forceth up Water through leaden Pipes to the Top, where there is a Ciſtern, and from thence deſcends in other leaden Pipes to the Bottom, and thence, received by other Pipes, is conveyed under the Pavements of the Streets, and ſo ſerveth many Families in this Part of the City with Water, of which we have ſpoken before.

THEN paſſing Thames-ſtreet, on the Eaſt Side of Fiſh-ſtreet-hill is the Hoop-tavern, which hath a Paſſage into Thames-ſtreet.

King's-Head-court, open with indifferent good Buildings, hath a Paſſage into Pudding-lane.

Globe-yard, an open and ſomewhat large Place, having ſeveral Turnings, with a Free-ſtone Pavement, and is indifferently well inhabited.

Crooked-lane, on the Weſt Side, hath a turning Paſſage into St. Michael's-lane, but the greateſt Part being in Candlewick Ward is there treated of.

The Monument.

ON the Eaſt Side ſtands the Monument, ſeated in a Square, open to the Street, erected to perpetuate the Remembrance of the dreadful Fire of LONDON, in the Year 1666. This fine Piece of Architecture is the Deſign of that great Genius Sir Chriſtopher Wren; it is undoubtedly the fineſt modern Column in the World, and in ſome Reſpects may vie with the moſt famous of Antiquity, being 24 Feet higher than Trajan's Pillar at Rome.

THIS Column is of the Dorick Order, fluted; whoſe Altitude is 202 Feet from the Ground, the greateſt Diameter of the Shaft (or Body) of the Column is 15 Feet, the Ground bounded by the Plinth, or loweſt Part of the Pedeſtal, 28 Feet Square, and the Pedeſtal is in Altitude 40 Feet, all of Portland Stone; within is a large Stair-caſe of Black Marble, containing 345 Steps, 10 Inches and a half broad, and ſix Inches Riſers, and a Balcony within 32 Feet of the very Top; where is a curious and ſpacious gilded Flame, very ſuitable to the Intent of the whole Column.

THE North and South Sides of the Pedeſtal have each a Latin Inſcription, one deſcribing the Deſolation of this City laid in Aſhes, and the other its glorious Reſtauration. That on the North Side runs thus:

Anno Chriſti CIↃDCLXVI. Die 11. In the Year of Chriſt 1666, the 2d Day of September, Eaſtward from hence, at the Diſtance of 202 Feet (the Height of this Column) about Midnight a moſt terrible Fire broke out, which, driven on by a high Wind, not only waſted the adjacent Parts, but alſo Places very remote, with incredible Noiſe and Fury: It conſumed 89 Churches, the City Gates, Guildhall, many publick Structures, Hoſpitals, Schools, Libraries, a vaſt Number of ſtately Edifices, 13200 Dwelling-Houſes, 400 Streets; of 26 Wards, it utterly deſtroyed 15, and left eight others ſhatter'd and half burnt; the Ruins of the City were 436 Acres, from the Tower by the Thames Side, to the Temple Church, and from the North Eaſt Gate along the City Wall to Holborn-bridge: To the Eſtates and Fortunes of the Citizens it was mercileſs, but to their Lives very favourable; that it might in all Things reſemble the laſt Conflagration of the World.

The Deſtruction was ſudden, for in a ſmall Space of Time, the ſame City was ſeen moſt flouriſhing and reduced to nothing.

Three Days after, when this fatal Fire had baffled all human Counſels and Endeavours in the Opinion of all, as it were by the Will of Heaven, it ſtopp'd, and on every Side was extinguiſh'd.

THE South Side Inſcription thus:

Charles II. Son of Charles the Martyr, King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, a moſt gracious Prince, commiſerating the deplorable State of Things, whilſt the Ruins were yet ſmoaking, provided for the Comfort of his Citizens, and the Ornament of his City; remitted their Taxes, and referred the Petitions of the Magiſtrates and Inhabitants to the Parliament, who immediately paſſed an Act, that publick Works ſhould be reſtored to greater Beauty with publick Money, to be raiſed by an Impoſition on Coal; that Churches, and the Cathedral of St. Paul's, ſhould be rebuilt from their Foundations, with all Magnificence; that Bridges, Gates and Priſons ſhould be new made, the Sewers cleanſed, the Streets made ſtrait and regular, ſuch as was ſteep levelled, and thoſe too narrow made wider, Markets and Shambles removed to ſeparate Places. They alſo enacted, that every Houſe ſhould be built with Party Walls, and all in Front raiſed of equal Height, and thoſe Walls all of Square Stone or Brick; and that no Man ſhould delay beyond the Space of ſeven Years. Moreover, Care was taken by Law, to prevent all Suits about their Bounds. Alſo, Anniverſary Prayers were enjoined; and to perpetuate the Memory hereof to Poſterity, they cauſed this Column to be erected. The Work was carried on with Diligence, and LONDON is reſtored; but whether with greater Speed or Beauty, may be made a Queſtion. A three Years Time ſaw that finiſhed, which was ſuppoſed to be the Buſineſs of an Age.

The Eaſt Side of the Pedeſtal has alſo an Inſcription, expreſſing the Times in which this Pillar was began, continued and brought to Perfection. The Words are theſe:

And finiſh'd,
Sir Thomas Davis being Lord Mayor, in the Year 1677.

And whereas upon Evidence, it was thought that this dreadful Fire was contrived and carried on by the Popiſh Faction, the ſame is expreſſed in Engliſh round the Baſe of the Pedeſtal, under the ſaid Inſcriptions, in theſe following Words:

This Pillar was ſet up in perpetual Remembrance of the moſt dreadful Burning of this antient City; begun and carried on by the Treachery and Malice of the Popiſh Faction, in the Beginning of September, in the Year of our Lord 1666, in order to the carrying on their horrid Plot for Extirpating the Proteſtant Religion, and old Engliſh Liberty, and Introducing Popery and Slavery.

On the Front, or Weſt Side, of the Die of the Pedeſtal of this magnificent Column, is finely carved, a curious Emblem of this Tragical Scene, by the Maſterly Hand of Mr. Cibber, Father to the preſent King's Poet, who likewiſe carved the inimitable Figures on the Gate of Bethlem, already mentioned. The 11 principal Figures on this Pedeſtal are done in Alto, the reſt in Baſſo Relievo, viz.

I. At the North End of the ſaid Plain, is repreſented in Baſſo Relievo, the City in Flames, and the Inhabitants in a Conſternation, with their Arms extended upward, and crying out for Succour.

II. A little nearer the Horizon are the Arms, Cap of Maintenance, and other Enſigns of the City's Grandeur, partly buried under the Ruins.

III. On the Ruins lies the Figure of a Woman crowned with a Caſtle, her Breaſts pregnant, and in her Hand a Sword; denoting the ſtrong, plentiful, and well-govern'd City of LONDON in Diſtreſs.

IV. The Sovereign (King Charles II.) is repreſented ſtanding on an Anabathrum, or Place aſcended to by (three) Steps, in a Roman Habit, providing with his Power and prudent Directions (as is expreſſed by the Inſcription on the South Side) for the Comfort of his Citizens, and Ornament of his City.

V. On the ſaid Steps, ſtand, in the King's Preſence, the Figures of three Women, that next his Majeſty repreſenting Liberty, having in her Right Hand a Hat, whereon is the Word Libertas, denoting the Freedom, or Liberty, given to thoſe that engaged three Years in the Work.

VI. Another of the ſaid three Women is Ichnographia, with Rules and Compaſſes in one Hand (the Inſtruments whereby Plans and Deſigns are delineated in due Proportion) and a Scrol partly unrolled in the other Hand, whereon ſuch Deſigns are to be drawn; and near this is a Bee-hive, the known Emblem of Induſtry.

VII. The third of the ſaid Figures, repreſents Imagination, holding the Emblem of Invention, and having on her Head Wings, and ſmall Children (as being ſwift and fruitful) and on the Border of her Garment theſe Words, Non aliunde; all which ſhew, that the ſpeedy Re-erection of the City, is principally owing to Liberty, Imagination, Contrivance, Art, and Induſtry.

VIII. And farther, to encourage the ſaid Citizens, here is the Figure of Time, elevating the Woman in Diſtreſs, and Providence with his winged Hand, containing an Eye, promiſing Peace and Plenty, Plenty, by pointing towards thoſe two Figures appearing above the Clouds.

IX. Behind the King (as it were Eaſtward) the Work is going forward, as Scaffolding, Labourers carrying Materials, &c.

X. Partly within a camerated Cell, under the Sovereign's Feet, appeareth Envy, diabolically enraged at the Meaſures conterted, and the great Proſpect of Succeſs. He is endeavouring to renew the Diſaſter, by blowing Flames out of his Mouth towards the diſtreſſed City.

XI. On the ſame Plain, South End from the King, is a Lion with one Fore Foot tied up and curbed by the Left Hand of Fortitude, in whoſe Right Hand is a Sword, under which Figures appears the Muzzle of a Cannon, which denotes this deplorable Loſs and Misfortune to happen in Time of War.

XII. Between that and the King, is the Figure of Mars, with a Chaplet in his Hand, an Emblem, that an approaching honourable Peace would be the Conſequence of the War.

AND above this, round the Cornice of the Pedeſtal, are noble Enrichments of Trophy Work, and the King's Arms; alſo of the Sword, Mace, Cap of Maintenance, &c. and at the Angles are four very large Dragons, the Supporters of the City Arms.

IT will not be improper, we think, in this Place, to give a fuller Account of the terrible Fire, which was the Occaſion of ſetting up this Column, than what is inſcribed thereon: We ſhall begin with the Account of it, publiſhed by Authority in the Gazette, Monday, September the 10th, 1666.

An Account of the Fire of London.

ON the 2d Inſtant, at One o'Clock in the Morning, there happened to break out a ſad and deplorable Fire in Pudding-lane, near New Fiſh-ſtreet; which falling out at that Hour of the Night, and in a Quarter of the Town ſo cloſe built with Wooden Pitch'd Houſes, ſpread itſelf ſo far before Day, and with ſuch Diſtraction to the Inhabitants and Neighbours, that Care was not taken for the timely preventing the farther Diffuſion of it, by pulling down Houſes, as ought to have been; ſo that this lamentable Fire, in a ſhort Time, became too big to be maſtered by any Engines, or Working near it. It fell out moſt unhappily too, that a violent Eaſterly Wind fomented it, and kept it burning all that Day, and the Night following, ſpreading itſelf up to Gracechurch-ſtreet, and downwards from Cannon-ſtreet to the Water Side, as far as the Three Cranes in the Vintry.

THE People in all Parts about it, diſtracted by the Vaſtneſs of it, and their particular Care to carry away their Goods, many Attempts were made to prevent the ſpreading of it, by pulling down Houſes, and making great Intervals, but all in vain, the Fire ſeizing upon the Timber and Rubbiſh, and ſo continuing itſelf, even through thoſe Spaces, and raging in a bright Flame all Monday and Tueſday, notwithſtanding his Majeſty's own, and his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York's, indefatigable and perſonal Pains to apply all poſſible Remedies to prevent it, calling upon and helping the People with their Guards; and a great Number of Nobility and Gentry unweariedly aſſiſted therein, for which they were requited with a thouſand Bleſſings from the poor diſtreſſed People.

BY the Favour of GOD the Wind ſlackened a little on Tueſday Night, and the Flames meeting with Brick Buildings at the Temple, by little and little it was obſerved to loſe its Force on that Side; ſo that on Wedneſday Morning we began to hope well, and his Royal Highneſs never deſpairing, or ſlackening his perſonal Care, wrought ſo well that Day, aſſiſted in ſome Parts by the Lords of the Council, before and behind it, that a Stop was put to it at the Temple Church, near Holbourn-bridge, Pye-corner, Alderſgate, Cripplegate, near the lower End of Coleman-ſtreet, at the End of Baſing-hall-ſtreet, by the Poſtern, at the upper End of Biſhopſgate-ſtreet and Leaden-hall-ſtreet, at the Standard in Cornhill, at the Church in Fenchurch-ſtreet, near Clothworkers-hall in Mincing-lane, at the Middle of Mark-lane, and at the Tower-dock.

ON Thurſday, by the Bleſſing of GOD, it was wholly beat down and extinguiſh'd; but ſo as that Evening it unhappily burſt out again afreſh at the Temple, by the falling of ſome Sparks, (as is ſuppoſed) upon a Pile of Wooden Buildings; but his Royal Highneſs, who watch'd there that Night in Perſon, by the great Labours and Diligence uſed, and eſpecially by applying Powder to blow up the Houſes about it, before Day, moſt happily maſter'd it.

DIVERS Strangers, Dutch and French, were, during the Fire, apprehended, upon Suſpicion that they contributed miſchievouſly to it, who are all impriſoned, and Informations prepared to make a ſevere Inquiſition thereupon, by my Lord Chief Juſtice Keeling, aſſiſted by ſome of the Lords of the Privy-Council, and ſome principal Members of the City; notwithſtanding which Suſpicions, the Manner of the Burning all along in a Train, and ſo blown forwards in all its Way by ſtrong Winds, makes us conclude, the Whole was an Effect of an unhappy Chance; or, to ſpeak better, the heavy Hand of GOD upon us for our Sins, ſhewing us the Terror of his Judgment in thus raiſing the Fire, and immediately after his miraculous and never enough to be acknowledged Mercy in putting a Stop to it, when we were in the laſt Deſpair, and that all Attempts for the quenching it, however induſtriouſly purſued, ſeemed inſufficient. His Majeſty then ſat hourly in Council, and ever ſince hath continued making Rounds about the City in all Parts of it where the Danger and Miſchief was greateſt, 'till this Morning that he hath ſent his Grace the Duke of Albemarle, whom he hath called for to aſſiſt him in this great Occaſion, to put his happy and ſucceſsful Hand to the finiſhing this memorable Deliverance.

ABOUT the Tower, the ſeaſonable Orders given for plucking down Houſes to ſecure the Magazines of Powder, was more eſpecially ſucceſsful, that Part being up the Wind, notwithſtanding which it came almoſt to the very Gates of it, ſo as by this early Proviſion, the ſeveral Stores of War lodged in the Tower, were entirely ſaved: And we have further this infinite Cauſe particularly to give GOD Thanks, that the Fire did not happen in any of thoſe Places where his Majeſty's Naval Stores are kept, ſo as tho' it hath pleaſed GOD to viſit us with his own Hand, he hath not, by diſfurniſhing us with the Means of carrying on the War, ſubjected us to our Enemies.

IT muſt be obſerved, That this Fire happened in a Part of the Town, where, though the Commodities were not very rich, yet they were ſo bulky, that they could not well be removed; ſo that the Inhabitants of that Part where it firſt began, have ſuſtained very great Loſs; but by the beſt Enquiry we can make, the other Parts of the Town, where the Commodities were of greater Value, took the Alarm ſo early, that they ſaved moſt of their Goods of Value, which poſſibly may have diminiſhed the Loſs, though ſome think that if the whole Induſtry of the Inhabitants had been applied to the Stopping of the Fire, and not to the Saving of their particular Goods, the Succeſs might have been much better, not only to the Publick, but to many of them in their own Particulars.

THRO'

THRO' this ſad Accident it is eaſy to be imagined how many Perſons were neceſſitated to remove themſelves and Goods into the open Fields, where they were forced to continue ſome Time, which could not but work Compaſſion in the Beholders; but his Majeſty's Care was moſt ſignal on this Occaſion, who, beſides his Perſonal Pains, was frequent in conſulting all Ways for relieving thoſe diſtreſſed Perſons, which produced ſo good Effect, as well by his Majeſty's Proclamation, and the Orders iſſued to the Neighbouring Juſtices of the Peace, to encourage the ſending in Proviſions to the Markets, which are publickly known as by other Directions, that when his Majeſty, fearing leſt other Orders might not yet have been ſufficient, had commanded the Victualler of his Navy to ſend Bread into Moor-fields for the Relief of the Poor, which for the more ſpeedy Supply he ſent in Biſket out of the Sea-Stores; it was found that the Markets had been already ſo well ſupplied, that the People being unaccuſtomed to that Kind of Bread, declined it, and ſo it was returned, in great Part, to his Majeſty's Stores again, without any Uſe made of it.

AND we cannot but obſerve, to the Confutation of all his Majeſty's Enemies, who endeavour to perſwade the World Abroad of great Parties and Diſaffection at Home againſt his Majeſty's Government, that a greater Inſtance of the Affections of this City could never have been given, than hath been now given in this ſad and deplorable Accident, when, if at any Time, Diſorder might have been expected from the Loſſes, Diſtraction, and almoſt Deſperation of ſome Perſons in their private Fortunes; Thouſands of People not having Habitations to cover them. And yet in all this Time there hath been ſo far from any Appearance of Deſigns, or Attempts, againſt his Majeſty's Government, that his Majeſty and his Royal Brother, out of their Care to ſtop and prevent the Fire, frequently expoſing their Perſons with very ſmall Attendants, in all Parts of the Town; ſometimes even to be intermixed with thoſe who laboured in the Buſineſs, yet nevertheleſs there hath not been obſerved ſo much as a murmuring Word to fall from any; but on the contrary, even thoſe Perſons, whoſe Loſſes rendered their Conditions moſt deſperate, and to be fit Objects of others Prayers, beholding thoſe frequent Inſtances of his Majeſty's Care of his People, forgot their own Miſery, and filled the Streets with their Prayers for his Majeſty, whoſe Trouble they ſeemed to compaſſionate before their own.

THE Damage done by this Fire is thus computed. Burned and conſumed 12000 Houſes, within the Walls of the City, and above 1000 more without the Walls, but all of them within the Freedom and Liberty of LONDON; that is, in all 13000, or as others 13200 Houſes. There were alſo deſtroyed the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's, which at that Time was new building, and as to the Stone Work, almoſt finiſhed: Alſo 87 Pariſh-Churches, and ſix conſecrated Chapels; moſt of the principal and publick Edifices: As the great Guildhall, wherein were nine ſeveral Courts belonging to the City; the Royal-Exchange; the King's Cuſtom-houſe; Juſtice-hall, where the Seſſions were kept eight or nine Times in the Year for the Trial of Murderers, Felons and other Malefactors; the four Priſons; four of the principal Gates of the City; and fifty Halls of Companies, moſt of which were moſt magnificent Structures and Palaces. The whole Damage ſuſtained by this Fire is almoſt incredible. Yet to make ſome Computation, that which follows is the Method that hath been taken.

An Account of the vaſt Damage and Spoil made by the aforementioned Conflagration.

THAT the Reader may the better judge of the Damages done by this Fire, ſome have computed the Thirteen thouſand odd hundred Houſes burnt and deſtroyed, to be worth one with another 25 l. yearly Rent; which at the low Rent of 12 Years Purchaſe, will in the whole amount unto 3,900,000 l. Sterling, and upwards.

Of the ſtrange Concurrence of ſeveral Cauſes, (happening at the ſame Time) occaſioning the Fire ſo vigorouſly to ſpread and increaſe.

BESIDES the ſupine Negligence of the People (whether Maſter or Servants) of the Houſe, where this dreadful Conflagration began, next unto GOD's juſt Judgments for the heinous crying Sins of this Nation, and City in particular, ſome have made Enquiry into other natural Cauſes, which might Occaſion ſuch a geneal Ruin, from ſo ſmall a Beginning: And, Firſt, They conſider the Time of the Night when it firſt began, viz. between One and Two o'Clock, after Midnight, when all were in a dead Sleep.

Secondly, It was Saturday Night, when many of the moſt eminent Citizens, Merchants, and others, were retired into the Country, and none but Servants left to look to their City Houſes.

Thirdly, It was in the long Vacation, being that particular Time of the Year, when many wealthy Citizens and Tradeſmen are wont to be in the Country at Fairs, and getting in of Debts, and making up Accompts with their Chapmen.

Fourthly, The Cloſeneſs of the Building, and Narrowneſs of the Street where it began, did much facilitate the Progreſs of the Fire, by hindering of the Engines to be brought to play upon the Houſes on Fire.

Fifthly, The Matter of which the Houſes all thereabouts were, viz. Timber, and thoſe very old.

Sixthly, The Dryneſs of the preceeding Seaſon; there having been a great Drought even to that very Day, and all the Time that the Fire continued, which had ſo dried the Timber, that it was never more apt to take Fire.

Seventhly, The Nature of the Wares and Commodities ſtowed and vended in thoſe Parts, were the moſt Combuſtible of any other ſold in the whole City; as, Oil, Pitch, Tar, Cordage, Hemp, Flax, Roſin, Wax, Butter, Cheeſe, Wine, Brandy, Sugar, &c.

Eighthly, An Eaſterly Wind, (which is the drieſt of all others) had blown for ſeveral Days together before; and at that Time very ſtrongly.

Ninthly, The unexpected failing of the Water thereabouts at that Time; for the Engine at the North End of London-bridge, called the Thames-water-Tower, (which ſupplied all that Part of the City with Thames Water) was out of Order, and in a few Hours was itſelf burnt down, ſo that the Water Pipes, which conveyed the Water from thence through the Streets, were ſoon empty.

Laſtly, An unuſual Negligence at firſt, and a Confidence of eaſily quenching it, and of its ſtopping at ſeveral Places afterwards, turned at length into a Confuſion, Conſternation, and Deſpair; People chooſing rather by Flight to ſave their Goods, than by a vigorous Oppoſition to ſave their own Houſes, and the whole City.

To all which Reaſons muſt not be paſt over the general Suſpicion, that moſt then had of Incendiaries laying combuſtible Stuff in many Places, having obſerved divers diſtant Houſes to be on Fire together. And many were then taken up upon Suſpicion.

HAVING now given the Reader this brief View and Account of the Condition the City of LONDON was in, until Anno 1666; and how in that Year, by this dreadful Conflagration, the greateſt Part of it was buried in its own Aſhes, let it reſt in this ruinous Condition, till I acquaint you how, and by what Means, it came to be rebuilt in that magnificent, ſubſtantial and beautiful Manner, as now it is; with its Cathedral and Parochial Churches, Gates, Halls, Publick Edifices, &c. And of all ſuch additional Buildings, new Streets, Markets, Courts, and other Ornaments enjoined, ſuch as the like before were never erected: And this ſhall be our next Work.

II. For the Opening and Enlarging of ſeveral Streets and Publick Paſſages.

WHEREAS many antient Streets and Paſſages within the City of LONDON, and Liberty thereof, were narrow and incommodious for Carriages and Paſſengers, and prejudicial to the Trade and Health of the Inhabitants; and are neceſſary to be enlarged, as well for the Convenience as Ornament of the City: It is therefore enacted by this preſent Parliament, (Caroli II. Decimo Nono) that theſe Streets and Places following ſhall be enlarged, viz.

1. The Street called Fleet-ſtreet, from the Place where the Greyhound Tavern ſtood, to Ludgate, and from thence to Paul's Churchyard.

2. The Street leading from the Eaſt End of St. Paul's Church into Cheapſide.

3. The

3. The Street and Paſſage at the Eaſt End of Cheapſide, leading into the Poultry.

4. The Street and Paſſage out of the Poultry leading into the Weſt End of Cornhill, at or near the Place lately called the Stocks.

5. The Street called Blow-bladder-ſtreet, leading from the Weſt End of Cheapſide towards Newgate-market; and to enlarge the Street and Paſſage from thence towards Newgate-market, by laying the Ground where the Middle-Row in the Shambles there lately ſtood, into the ſaid Street; and in like manner, to enlarge the Paſſage from Newgate-market towards Newgate, by laying the Ground of the four late Houſes, between Warwick-lane End and Newgate-market, and the late Bell Inn there, into the Street.

6. The Lane, called Ave-mary-lane, leading from Pater-noſter-row to Ludgate-ſtreet.

7. And the Street or Paſſage at the End of St. Martin's-le-Grand, towards Blow-bladder-ſtreet, aforeſaid.

8. And alſo the Paſſage from St. Magnus's Church, to the Conduit in Gracechurch-ſtreet, and the North End of Gracechurch-ſtreet alſo.

9. Thames-ſtreet, from the Weſt Corner of St. Magnus's Church, to the Tower-dock.

10. To enlarge Old Fiſh-ſtreet, by laying the Middle-Row there into the Street.

11. And whereas the Way, or Paſſage, of Holbourn-bridge, is now too ſtrait and incommodious for the many Carriages and Paſſengers daily uſing and frequenting the ſame; and is therefore neceſſary to be enlarged: Be it therefore enacted, That it ſhall and may be lawful for the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commoners of the City of LONDON, ſo to enlarge and make wider the ſame, as that the ſaid Way and Paſſage may run in a Level Line, from a certain Timber Houſe on the North Side thereof, commonly called, or known, by the Name or Sign of the Cock; unto the Front of the Buldings of a certain Inn, called the Swan Inn, ſituate on the North Side of Holbourn-hill, as aforeſaid.

12. That the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of LONDON, may, and ſhall open and enlarge a Street, or Paſſage, called Water-lane, leading from Fleet-ſtreet to White-fryar's-dock, by the River Thames.

13. And open and enlarge one other Street, or Paſſage, through Mincing-lane, by St. Dunſtan's in the Eaſt, to Thames-ſtreet near the Cuſtom-houſe. And to make the ſaid Streets, or Paſſages, twenty four Feet in Breadth; for the Conveniency of Trade, and better Paſſage of Carts, and other Carriages, to and from the River Thames.

14. That the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council, alſo ſhall and may, by Virtue of this preſent Act, enlarge and make wider any ſuch ſtrait and narrow Paſſages within the ſaid City, as are leſs than fourteen Feet in Breadth.

AND of ſuch there have been many enlarged; too many here to be enumerated.

III. For the making of new Streets and Wharfs, Market Places, and other Publick Monuments.

1. THAT the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen are by this Act enabled to make, or cauſe to be made, a new Street, leading and extending from the Guildhall of the ſaid City, into Cheapſide; the ſame Street to be of ſuch Breadth and Wideneſs, as they ſhall judge meet and convenient.

2. That they ſhould alſo open and enlarge a Street, or Paſſage, to the River Thames, from Cheapſide through Soper-lane, and thence to Thames-ſtreet, and thenceforth to the River Thames: And from Three-cranes to the Thames aforeſaid. And to make the ſame Streets and Paſſages four and twenty Feet in Breadth.

3. That they ſhall alſo cauſe a Street to be opened, fourteen Feet wide, from the Weſt End of Threadneedle-ſtreet, down to Lothbury.

4. And it is enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That (for the better Benefit and Accommodation of Trade, and for other great Conveniencies) there ſhall be left a convenient Tract of Ground, all along from the Tower-wharf to London-bridge, and from London-bridge to the Temple, of the Breadth of forty Feet, from the North Side of the River Thames; to be converted to a Key, or publick and open Wharf. And that (in Order thereunto) all Buildings, Sheds, Pales, Walls, Incloſures, and other Obſtructions and Impediments whatſoever, now ſtanding, or being within forty Feet Northward of the ſaid River Thames, between the Places aforeſaid, (Cranes, Stairs, and Docks only excepted) ſhall be taken down and removed, and the ſaid Ground cleared and levelled: And that from henceforth there ſhall be no Building or Erection whatſoever, (except Cranes, Stairs, and Docks) placed or ſet within or upon the ſaid forty Feet of Ground, or any Part thereof, between the Places aforeſaid.

5. And that all Buildings that ſhall hereafter immediately border upon any Part of the ſaid Ground, upon the North Side thereof, ſhall front and be placed in the Line that ſhall be ſet out for the Bounds of the Breadth of the ſaid forty Feet of Ground Northward. And that the Buildings that ſhall be built upon that Line, and fronting the River Thames, ſhall be of the ſecond or third Sort or Rate of Buildings, hereafter mentioned in the Act for the Rebuilding of the City of LONDON, except Common Halls for Companies, and other Buildings; which ſhall be otherwiſe allowed of by the King's Majeſty.

6. And that all the ſaid Tract of Ground of the Breadth of forty Feet from the ſaid River, ſhall be open and at large, without any Diviſion or Separation: And that the Bounds of each Proprietor's Ground therein, ſhall be diſtinguiſhed only by Denter-ſtones, to be placed in the Pavement thereof.

7. And be it further enacted, That for the further Convenience of Trade, the Channel of Bridewell-dock, from the Channel of the River Thames to Holbourn-bridge, ſhall be ſunk to a ſufficient Level, whereby to make it Navigable: And that the Ground to be ſet out for the Breadth of the ſaid Channel, and of the Wharfs on each Side thereof, ſhall not be leſs in Breadth than one hundred Feet; nor ſhall exceed one hundred and twenty Feet in Breadth.

8. And that the Line of the ſaid Channel, and Wharfs and Levels thereof, together with the Cranes and Stairs to be placed thereon, ſhall be aſcertained by the Lord Mayor, &c. And that all the ſaid Wharf Ground on each Side the River, ſhall lie open and at large, (Cranes and Stairs only excepted) without any Diviſion or Separation; and each Perſon's Propriety therein, to be diſtinguiſhed only by Denter-ſtones in the Pavement thereof.

9. And that all Buildings bordering upon each Side of the ſaid Wharfs, ſhall front and be placed in the Line, that ſhall be ſet out for the Bounds of the Breadth of the Wharfs from the Channel. And that the ſaid Buildings ſhall be of the ſecond Rate of Building, mentioned in the Act for Rebuilding the City, &c.

10. Whereas by a late Act of this preſent Parliament it was enacted, That the Pariſhes to be rebuilt within the ſaid City of LONDON, in Lieu of thoſe which were demoliſhed by the late dreadful Fire, ſhould not exceed the Number of thirty nine: But foraſmuch as upon an exact Survey taken of the Number of Houſes to be rebuilt, and of the Extent of the reſpective Pariſhes Pariſhes neceſſary to be ſettled and continued within the ſaid City, it doth appear, That the Pariſhes to be ſettled and continued, and the Pariſh Churches to be rebuilt within the ſaid City, in Lieu of thoſe demoliſhed or conſumed by the ſaid late Fire, cannot conveniently, by Union, or otherways, be reduced to a leſs Number than fifty one. Be it therefore enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That the Number of Pariſhes to be ſettled, and the Pariſh Churches to be rebuilt, within the ſaid City of LONDON, ſhall be fifty one: The former Act, or any Thing therein contained to the contrary, notwithſtanding.

11. And that the Citizens of LONDON, and their Succeſſors, for all the Time to come, may retain the Memorial of ſo ſad a Deſolation, and reflect ſeriouſly upon their manifold Iniquities, which are the unhappy Cauſes of ſuch Judgments: Be it therefore enacted, That the ſecond Day of September (unleſs the ſame happen to be Sunday, and if ſo, then the next Day following) be yearly for ever hereafter obſerved, as a Day of Publick Faſting and Humiliation within the ſaid City, and Liberties thereof; to implore the Mercy of Almighty GOD upon the ſaid City; to make devout Prayers and Supplication unto him, to divert the like Calamity for the Time to come.

12. And the better to preſerve the Memory of this dreadful Viſitation: Be it further enacted, That a Column, or Pillar of Braſs or Stone, be erected on, or as near unto the Place where the ſaid Fire ſo unhappily began, as conveniently may be; in perpetual Remembrance thereof; with ſuch Inſcription thereon, as hereafter by the Mayor and Court of Aldermen, in that Behalf, be directed.

Of the Rebuilding of the City of LONDON ſo ſpeedily, ſubſtantially, and ſplendidly effected.

NOTWITHSTANDING the extraordinary Loſſes by the fore-mentioned Fire, the devouring Peſtilence in this City the Year preceding, and the chargeable War with the Dutch at that Time depending; yet, by the King's Grace, the Wiſdom of the Parliament then ſitting at Weſtminſter, the Diligence and Activity of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commoners of the ſaid City (who were almoſt the only Loſers by that fatal Accident) it was in the Space of four or five Years, well nigh rebuilt. Divers Churches, the ſtately Guild-hall, many Halls of Companies, and other Publick Edifices; all infinitely more Uniform, more Solid, and more Magnificent than before: So that no City in Europe, (nay, ſcarcely in the World) can ſtand in Competition with it, at leaſt in many Particulars.

How the Alterations and Augmentations enjoined: As alſo the Rebuilding of fifty one Parochial Churches, and the Cathedral of St. Paul's ſhould be accompliſhed.

THE fore-mentioned Alterations and Augmentations, to be made in the Rebuilding of the City of LONDON, being by Act of Parliament enjoined; they took it then into their Conſiderations, by what Means Money might be raiſed for the carrying on of thoſe Works, by them preſcribed and enacted. And in their Seſſion, Anno 19 Caroli II. Regis, they enacted as followeth:

FOR the enabling of the Lord Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of the City of LONDON, and their Succeſſors, to perform and accompliſh the Works in this Act mentioned; be it enacted by the Authority hereof,

THAT for all Sorts of Coals, which from and after the 24th Day of June 1667, and before the 24th Day of June 1677, ſhall be imported and brought into the Port of the City of LONDON, or the River Thames, within the Liberty of the ſaid City of LONDON, upon the ſame River to be ſold by the Chaldron or Tun, there ſhall be paid, by Way of Impoſition thereupon, (over and beſides all other Impoſitions and Duties, due and payable for any Sort of the ſaid Coals, by Virtue of any Law, or Statute, now in Force) according to the Rates hereafter mentioned. That is to ſay, For ſuch Sorts of Coals as are uſually ſold by the Chaldron, for every Chaldron thereof, containing thirty ſix Buſhels Wincheſter Meaſure, the Sum of 12 d. And for all ſuch Sorts of Coals as are Sold by the Tun, for every Tun thereof, containing twenty hundred Weight, the like Sum of 12 d. which ſaid Impoſition of 12 d. for every Chaldron, or Tun, of Coals, ſhall, during the Time aforeſaid, be anſwered and paid unto the Mayor and Commonalty, and Citizens, or their Deputy, or Deputies, by the Maſter, Owner, or Owners, or other Perſons, taking Charge of the Veſſel, before they ſhall break Bulk, or have a Meter aſſigned for the Meaſuring, or Weighing, of any Coals aforeſaid. The which Impoſition of 12 d. to be paid at ſuch Place, or Places, as by the Lord Mayor, and Court of Aldermen, ſhall from Time to Time be appointed for the Receipt thereof.

2. THAT all and every ſuch Sum and Sums of Money, which ſhall be raiſed upon the Receipt of the ſaid Impoſition of 12 d. for every Chaldron, or Tun, of Coals, ſhall, in the firſt Place, be applied and diſpoſed unto, and for the Satisfaction of ſuch Perſons, whoſe Grounds ſhall be taken and employed for the enlarging of the Streets and narrow Paſſages within the City. And after Satisfaction given for the ſame, the Reſidue ſhall be applied and diſpoſed unto, and for, the the Satisfaction of ſuch Perſons, whoſe Grounds ſhall be employed for the making of Wharfs, or Keys, on the North Side of the River Thames; and upon each Side of the Shore, called by the Name, or Names, of Bridewell-dock, Fleet-ditch, and Turn-mill-brook. And alſo for the Building and Making of ſuch Priſons within the ſaid City, as ſhall be neceſſary for the ſafe Cuſtody and Impriſonment of Felons, and other Malefactors.

Anno 22 Caroli II. Regis.

BUT foraſmuch as it doth and will require far greater Sums of Money, to give Satisfaction for the Ground to be taken and employed for the enlarging of the Streets, by this and the foreſaid Act appointed to be enlarged, and for Publick Market-Places, and other the Publick Uſes and Purpoſes in this Act mentioned. Therefore

3. For the further enabling the ſaid Mayor, Commonalty, and Citizens of the ſaid City, and their Succeſſors, to perform the Works in this and the ſaid Act mentioned; and alſo for the Rebuilding of the Pariſh Churches, by this Act appointed; be it enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That for all Sorts of Coals, which (from and after the firſt Day of May 1670, and before the twenty ninth Day of September, which ſhall be in the Year of our Lord 1687) ſhall be imported and brought into the ſaid Port of the City of LONDON, or River Thames, within the Liberties of the ſaid City, upon the ſaid River, there ſhall be paid, by Way of Impoſition thereupon, according to the Rates hereafter mentioned. For the avoiding of Suits of Law and other Differences that might ariſe between Landlords and Tenants, &c. after this General Calamity by the Fire.

FOR the avoiding of ſuch Inconveniences, which would of Neceſſity ariſe concerning the Repairing and new Building of Houſes, and Payment of Rents; which, if they ſhould not be determined with all Speed, and without Charge, would much obſtruct the Rebuilding of the ſaid City: Wherefore, the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons in Parliament aſſembled, made an Act for the Reconciling of ſuch Differences, entitled, An Act for Erecting a Judicature, for the Determination of Differences, touching Houſes burned or demoliſhed, by reaſon of the late Fire which happened in LONDON, wherein it was enacted;

1. That the Juſtices of the Courts of King's-Bench and Common-Pleas, and the Barons of the Coif of the Exchequer, or any three or more of them, are authoriſed to hear and determine all Differences and Demands whatſoever, which have or may ariſe between Landlords, Proprietors, Tenants, Leſſees, Under-Tenants, or late Occupiers of any of the Buildings, or other Things by the ſaid Fire demoliſhed.

2. 3. That they, without the Formalities of Proceedings in Courts of Law or Equity, ſhall and may, upon the Verdict or Inquiſition of Jurors, Teſtimony of Witneſſes upon Oath, Examination of Perſons intereſted, or by all or any of the ſaid Ways, or otherwiſe according to their Diſcretions, proceed to the Hearing and Determining of the Demands or Differences between the ſaid Parties concerning the Premiſes. And that the Definitive Order of the ſaid Juſtices and Barons ſhall be final; from which there ſhall be no Appeal, or Review. Nor ſhall any Writ of Error or Certiorari, lie for the Removal, or Reverſal of the ſame.

4 The ſaid Juſtices and Barons are hereby empowered, where they ſhall think it convenient, to order the Surrendering, Increaſing, Abridging, Ceaſing, Determining, or Charging of any Eſtates in the Premiſes, or to order new or longer Leaſes or Eſtates, not exceeding 40 Years, to be made of any of the Premiſes, by the Proprietors or Owners thereof, or other Perſons intereſted therein, to any Tenant or Sub-Tenant, or late Occupiers of the ſame; their Heirs or Aſſigns, at ſuch Rents and Fines, or without any Rent or Fine, as they ſhall think fit.

5. That all Orders made as aforeſaid, according to the Tenors thereof, ſhall be obeyed by all Perſons concerned therein reſpectively; and ſhall conclude and bind them, their Heirs, Succeſſors, Executors, Adminiſtrators, and Aſſigns reſpectively.

7. That

7. That for the Matters, and according to the Powers herein before-mentioned, ſhall be, and ſhall be taken to be a Court of Records: And that the Judgments and Determinations that ſhall be made between Party and Party by Authority of this Act, ſhall be recorded in a Book provided for that Purpoſe; which Book, ſo recorded and ſigned, ſhall be placed and intruſted in the Cuſtody of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of LONDON, for the Time being, to be kept with the Records of the ſaid City, and to remain as a perpetual and ſtanding Record.

8. That none of the ſaid Juſtices and Barons ſhall take any Fee or Reward whatſoever, directly or indirectly, for any Thing to be done by them, by Virtue or Colour of this preſent Act.

9. And for a Reward of the Officers to be employed herein, the ſaid Juſtices and Barons, are to order and direct a Table of ſuch reaſonable Fees to be made, as may carry on and effect the Purport and Intent of this Act.

THIS Act was to continue in Force till the laſt Day of December, in the Year of our Lord, 1668, and no longer: But all Differences in that Time not being ended, the former Act was continued till the 29th of September, 1671, and afterwards till the 29th of September 1672.

Avery.

As to the Occaſion of this dreadful Fire, whether it was wilful or accidental, it was for a long Time made a Party Diſpute, which ſeems in ſome Degree to be juſt now revived. Mr. Pope, a Gentleman of great Genius, but a profeſſed Roman Catholick, ſpeaking of the Monument, in a Poem of his, not long ſince publiſhed, ſays,

Where London's Column pointing at the Skies,
Like a tall Bully, lifts the Head, and lies.

And the Author of the Craftſman, a very popular Writer, has theſe remarkable Words, It ſeems almoſt wonderful that the Plague was not imputed to the Papiſts, as peremptorily as the Fire.

But notwithſtanding what theſe Gentlemen and others have ſaid, when we conſider that ſeveral Depoſitions were made ſoon after the Fire, of its breaking out in many different Places at the ſame Time, and that one Man confeſſed his ſetting Fire to the Houſe, where it began, when he was executed for the ſame, we cannot think Men will be eaſily convinced that it was entirely accidental: It has indeed been ſaid that the Perſon executed for it was a Hugonot, and therefore not likely to be employed by the Papiſts: But might not all Frenchmen at that Time paſs under the Name of Hugonots?

The following is the Account given of this Man, by Biſhop Kennet, in his Hiſtory of England.

" Various were the Conjectures (ſaith he) " how this Fire began. Moſt People did then " look upon it to be the Hand of God, in a ter- " rible Judgment, upon a wicked City; ſome " ſaid it was contrived and carried on by the Pa- " piſts, which was offered to be made appear in " the Popiſh Plot. Others did ſuſpect it an inſi- " dious Way of the Dutch and French making " War, their two Fleets being neareſt to joining " at that very Time. There was but one Man " tried at the Old Bailey for being the Incendiary, " who was convicted by his own Confeſſion, and " executed for it. His Name was Robert Hu- " bert, a French Hugonot, of Rohan in Nor- " mandy. Some People ſhamm'd away this Con- " feſſion, and ſaid he was Non compos Mentis, " and had a Mind, it ſeems, to aſſume the Glory " of being hang'd for the greateſt Villain. " Others ſay, he was ſober and penitent; and " being,

" being, after Conviction, carry'd through the " Ruins, to ſhew where he put Fire, he himſelf " directed through the Aſhes and Rubbiſh, and " pointing at the Spot whereon the firſt Burning-" Houſe ſtood. It was ſoon after complain'd of, " that Hubert was not ſufficiently examined who " ſet him to Work, or who joined with him. And " Mr. Hawles, in his Remarks upon Fitz-Har- " ris's Trial, is bold to ſay, That the Commons " reſolving to examine Hubert upon that Matter " next Day, Hubert was hang'd before the Houſe " ſat, ſo could tell no farther Tales.

WHERE the Opinions of Men are ſo much divided, as upon this Point, we ſhall not pretend to determine on either Side of the Queſtion; but beg Leave in this Place to take Notice of the great Advantages which have already, and might have, aroſe, to the City of LONDON, from this melancholy Occaſion.

THE firſt from the Obſervations of that learned Antiquary Dr. Woodward, late Phyſick Profeſſor at Greſham College, in a private Letter to Sir Chriſtopher Wren, wherein he ſaith,

" THAT the Fire of LONDON, how-" ever diſaſtrous it might be to the then Inhabi-" tants, proved infinitely beneficial to their Po-" ſterity, and to the Increaſe and vaſt Improve-" ment, as well of the Riches and Opulency, as " of the Buildings. And how by the means of " the Common Sewers, and other like Contri-" vances, ſuch Proviſion was made for Sweetneſs, " for Cleanneſs, and for Salubrity, that it is not " only the fineſt and pleaſanteſt, but the moſt " healthy City in the World; inſomuch, that " for the Plague, and other infectious Diſtem-" pers, with which it was formerly ſo frequently " annoyed; and by which ſo great Numbers of " the Inhabitants were taken off, but the very " Year before the Fire, (viz. Anno 1665) an Ex-" perience of above forty Years ſince hath ſhewn " it ſo wholly freed from, that he thought it " probable it was no longer obnoxious to, or " ever again likely to be infeſted by thoſe ſo fatal " and malicious Maladies.

THE other from ſome little Weekly Eſſays on the Buildings of LONDON, in which the Author ſhews himſelf to be not only an elegant Writer, but a Connoiſſeur in Science treats of.

Sir Chriſtopher Wren's Scheme for rebuilding the City.

" THE Fire of LONDON, ſaith he, fur-" niſhed the moſt perfect Occaſion that can ever " happen in any City, to rebuild it with Pomp " and Regularity. This Wren foreſaw, and, as " we are told, offered a Scheme for that Pur-" poſe, which would have made it the Wonder " of the World. He propoſed to have laid out " one large Street from Aldgate to Temple-Bar, " in the Middle of which was to have been a " large Square, capable of containing the new " Church of St. Paul, with a proper Diſtance " for the View all round it; whereby that huge " Building would not have been coop'd up, as " 'tis at preſent in ſuch a Manner, as no where " to be ſeen to Advantage at all; but would " have had a long and ample Viſta at each End, " to have reconcil'd it to a proper Point of View, " and give it one great Benefit, which, in all " Probability, it muſt now want for ever. He " farther propos'd to rebuild all the Pariſh-" Churches in ſuch a Manner as to be ſeen at " the End of every Viſta of Houſes, and diſ-" pers'd in ſuch Diſtances from each other, as " to appear neither too thick, nor thin, in Proſ-" pect; but give a proper Hightning to the " whole Bulk of the City, as it fill'd the Land-" ſcape: Laſtly, he propos'd to build all the " Houſes uniform, and ſupported on a Piazza, " like that of Covent-Garden; and, by the Wa-" ter-Side, from the Bridge to the Temple, he " had plann'd a long and broad Wharf, or Key, " where he deſign'd to have rang'd all the Halls " that belong to the ſeveral Companies of the " City, with proper Warehouſes for Merchants " between, to vary the Edifices, and make it at " once one of the moſt beautiful, and moſt uſe-" ful Ranges of Structure in the World. But " the Hurry of Rebuilding, and the Diſputes " about Property, prevented this glorious Scheme " from taking Place.

AS the Government of LONDON had taken the beſt Orders they could for preventing and ſuppreſſing of Fires; ſo in the Year 1681, they ſet themſelves upon contriving the Inſurance of Houſes in caſe of Fire. At a Meeting of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City, they declared, how they had, for many Years, under their Conſideration, the better ſecuring and inſuring the Inhabitants of this City and Liberties from dangerous Accidents happening by Fire, and now were reſolved forthwith to engage a ſufficient Fund, and undoubted Security, by the Chamber, in Lands and good Ground Rent, for the Performance thereof. And that a Committee, thereunto appointed, ſhould meet from Day to Day in Guildhall, every Afternoon, from three to ſix, to perfect the ſame Undertaking, to the good Satisfaction of all Perſons, both Citizens and others, who have, or ſhall have, Intereſt in any Building there.

THIS Notice was publiſhed in Print; being dated at Guildhall the 15th of October 1681.

PURSUANT to this, at a Common-Council, Sir John Moore, Mayor, November 16, 1681, it was agreed, That Books ſhould be prepared by the firſt of December following, and lodged in the Chamber of LONDON, for receiving and entering Subſcriptions: And that Lands and Ground Rents belonging to the City, to the Value of one hundred thouſand Pounds, ſhould be forthwith ſettled as a Fund, to inſure ſuch Houſes as ſhould be ſubſcribed for. And that hereafter, as Subſcriptions ſhould be made, a further additional Fund, by the Præmium which ſhould be received, ſhould be made. The Præmium for inſuring Brick Houſes, to be 4 l. per Cent. and for Timber Houſes, 8 l. per Cent.

BUT this would not take; perhaps, becauſe the Credit of the City, at this Time, was but low.

THESE ſad Accidents in the City by Fire, occaſioned oftentimes by the Negligence of Servants taking Tobacco, or not putting out their Candles, or putting live Embers in dangerous Places, or otherwiſe, moved the Parliament, in the ſeventh Year of Queen Anne, to make an Act; wherein was a Clauſe for the Puniſhment of ſuch Servants. And by an Act of Common-Council, Sir William Withers, Mayor, it was thought fit to be printed and made publick, and to be ſent into all the Wards of the City; that all Perſons whatſoever might be the better acquainted with it. And was as followeth:

Martis, viij° Die Junij, Anno Dom. 1708, Annoque Regni Reginæ ANNÆ, Magnæ Britanniæ, &c. Septimo.

IT is this Day ordered by this Court, That the Clauſe relating to Servants in a late Act of Parliament, entitled, An Act for the better preventing Miſchiefs that may happen by Fire, be forthwith printed, and ſent into the ſeveral Wards of this City, and by the Beadles delivered to every Houſe-keeper, that all Servants may be acquainted with the ſame, and know the Penalties nalties therein contained: Which Clauſe hereafter follows, viz.

AND whereas Fires often happen by the Negligence and Careleſſneſs of Servants, be it therefore enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That if any Menial, or other Servant, or Servants, thro' Negligence or Careleſſneſs, ſhall Fire, or cauſe to be fired, any Dwelling-Houſe, or Out-Houſe, or Houſes; ſuch Servant, or Servants, being thereof lawfully convicted, by the Oath of one or more credible Witneſſes, made before two or more of her Majeſty's Juſtices of the Peace, ſhall forfeit and pay the Sum of one hundred Pounds, unto the Church-wardens of ſuch Pariſh where ſuch Fire ſhall happen, to be diſtributed amongſt the Sufferers by ſuch Fire, in ſuch Proportions as to the ſaid Church-wardens ſhall ſeem juſt. And in caſe of Default, or Refuſal, to pay the ſame immediately after ſuch Conviction, the ſame being lawfully demanded by the ſaid Church-wardens; that then, and in ſuch Caſe, ſuch Servant, or Servants, ſhall, by Warrant under the Hand of two or more of her Majeſty's Juſtices of the Peace, be committed to ſome Workhouſe, or Houſe of Correction, as the ſaid Juſtices ſhall think fit, for the Space of eighteen Months; there to be kept to hard Labour.

GIBSON.

A Statute was made, 7 Regin. Annæ, Cap. 17. for preventing of Fires; that Engines ſhould be provided and kept in every Pariſh, and Stock-blocks, and Fire-Cocks, and other Implements and Materials for that Uſe: But that if the Veſtries within the weekly Bills of Mortality, ſhall think it neceſſary to have more than one great Engine, or Hand Engine, they may provide it at the Pariſh Charge, by Aſſeſſment to be made.

AND concerning Party-Walls, in the ſame Statute it was enacted, That they be wholly of Brick or Stone, excepting the Houſes built upon London-bridge. And that all Houſes to be built on old or new Foundations, within the Bills of Mortality, except on London-bridge, and on the River Thames below Bridge, ſhall have Party-Walls between Houſe and Houſe, wholly of Brick or Stone; except Door-Caſes, Windows, Lentils, &c.

CHAP. XI.

Candlewick-ſtreet, or Candlewright-ſtreet Ward, beginneth at the Eaſt End of Great Eaſtcheap, and paſſeth Weſt through Eaſtcheap to Candlewright-ſtreet, and through the ſame down to the North End of Suffolk-lane, on the South Side, and down that Lane, by the Weſt End of St. Laurence's Churchyard; and that is the fartheſt Part of this Ward. The Street of Great Eaſtcheap was ſo called from a Market there kept in the Eaſt Part of the City, as Weſtcheap was from another in the Weſt Part of it.

Eaſtcheap was a Fleſh Market for Butchers, and there were ſometimes Cooks mixed among them; for, ſaith Stow, of old Time when Friends did meet, and were diſpoſed to be merry, they went not to dine and ſup in Taverns (for they dreſſed not Meats to be ſold) but to the Cooks, where they call'd for what Meat they lik'd, which they always found ready dreſſed, at a reaſonable Rate.

In the Year 1410, the 11th of Henry IV, upon the Even of St. John Baptiſt, the King's Sons, Thomas and John, being in Eaſtcheap at Supper (or rather at Breakfaſt; for it was after the Watch was broken up, betwixt two and three o'Clock after Midnight) a great Quarrel happened between their Men, and other of the Court, which laſted an Hour, even till the Mayor and Sheriffs appeaſed the ſame; for which afterwards, the ſaid Mayor, Aldermen and Sheriffs, were ſent for to anſwer before the King; his Sons and divers Lords being highly moved againſt the City. At which Time, William Gaſcoigne, Chief Juſtice, required the Mayor and Aldermen, for the Citizens, to put them in the King's Grace. Whereunto they anſwered, that they had not offended, but (according to the Law) had done their beſt in ſtinting Debate, and maintaining of the Peace: Upon which Anſwer the King remitted all his Ire, and diſmiſſed them.

And to prove this Eaſtcheap to be a Place repleniſhed with Cooks, it may appear by a Song, called London Lickpenny, made by Lidgate a Monk of Bury, in the Reign of Henry V. in the Perſon of a Countryman coming to LONDON, and travelling through the ſame. In Weſtcheap (ſaith the Song) he was called on to buy Lawn, Paris Thread, Cotton Umble, and other Linen Cloaths, and ſuch like: (he ſpeaketh of no Silks) In Cornhill, to buy old Apparel, and Houſhold-ſtuff, where he was forced to buy his own Hood, which he had loſt in Weſtminſter-hall. In Candlewright-ſtreet, Drapers profferr'd him cheap Cloth. In Eaſtcheap, the Cooks cried Hot Ribs of Beef roaſted, Pyes well-bak'd, and other Victuals: There was clattering of Pots, Harp, Pipe and Sawtrie; yea by cock, nay by cock, for other greater Oaths were ſpared: Some ſang of Jenkin and Julian, &c. all which Melody liked well the Paſſenger, but he wanted Money to abide by it, and therefore got him into a Graveſend Barge, and home into Kent.

Candlewright, ſo called in old Records of the Guildhall of St. Mary Overies, and other, or Candlewick-ſtreet, took that Name (as may be ſuppoſed) either of the Chandlers, or Makers of Candles, both of Wax and Tallow; for Candlewright is a Maker of Candles, or of Weeke, which is the Cotton or Yarn thereof, or otherwiſe Wike, which is the Place where they uſed to work them; as Scalding-wike, by the Stocks-market, was ſo called from the Poulterers dreſſing and ſcalding their Poultry there: And in divers Countries, Dairy-houſes, or Cottages, wherein they make Butter and Cheeſe, are uſually call'd Wicks. There dwelled alſo of old Time divers Weavers of Woollen Cloth, brought in by Edward III; for in the 44th of his Reign, the Meetings of the Weavers, brought out of Flanders, were appointed to be in the Churchyard of St. Lawrence Poultney; and the Weavers of Brabant in the Churchyard of St. Mary Somerſet. There were then in this City Weavers of divers Sorts, to wit, of Drapery, of Tapery, and Napery. Theſe Weavers of Candlewright-ſtreet being, in ſhort Time, worn out, there Place is now poſſeſſed by rich Drapers, Sellers of Woollen Cloth, &c.

The PARISH of St. CLEMENT EASTCHEAP.

St. Clement's Eaſtcheap.

On the North Side of this Ward, at the Weſt End of Eaſtcheap is St. Clement's-lane, a Part whereof, on both Sides, is of Candlewick-ſtreet Ward; to wit, ſomewhat North, beyond the Pariſh-Church of St. Clement in Eaſtcheap.

St. Clement, to whom this Church is dedicated, was born at Rome, upon Mount Cælius, his Father's Name was Fauſtinus; he was a Diſciple of St. Peter, mentioned by St. Paul. Phil. iv, v. 3, As one of his Fellow-labourers, in the Goſpel; ordained Biſhop of Rome, in the Year of our Lord 93, and was (as moſt Writers agree) the fourth Biſhop of that See, where (according to Dr. Cave) he ſat ſole Biſhop of that whole Church, nine Years, 11 Months and 12 Days.

By his Piety and Learning he converted many to the Chriſtian Faith, for which Cauſe he was baniſhed by Trajan, the Emperor, to the Cherſoneſus, a diſconſolate Place beyond the Pontick Sea, to dig in the Marble Quarries, and labour in the Mines, where he found vaſt Numbers of Chriſtians condemned to the ſame miſerable Fate, whoſe Minds were not a little elevated under all their Preſſures, at the Sight of ſo good a Man, by whoſe conſtant Preaching, and the frequent Miracles he wrought, their Enemies were converted to a better Opinion of them and their Religion, the Inhabitants of thoſe Countries daily flocking over to the Faith, ſo that in a little Time Chriſtianity had beaten Paganiſm out of the Field, and all Monuments of Idolatry thereabouts were defaced and over-turned.

The Fame whereof ſo incens'd the Emperor, that he cauſed great Numbers of them to be put to Death; but this not availing, but rather increaſing the Number of Converts, St. Clement was pitched upon, as one of Note above the reſt, whoſe exemplary Puniſhment might ſtrike Dread and Terror into the reſt, and therefore he was carried on board of Ship, and thrown into the Sea, with an Anchor about his Neck, where the Chriſtians might deſpair to find him.

His

His Martyrdom happen'd on November 24, according to Baronius, and the ordinary Computation; but on the 9th of that Month, according to the Little Martyrology, publiſhed by Bucherius, and which, unqueſtionably, (ſaith Dr. Cave) was one of the true and genuine Calendars of the antient Church, in the third Year of Trajan, Anno Chriſti 100.

We ſhall ſay nothing of the miraculous Diſcovery of his Body, becauſe few would believe what is written of it. He is honour'd at Rome, by a Church erected to his Memory; and his Feſtival is yearly celebrated on the 23d of November.

As to the Time when this Church was firſt built, it is uncertain; but Stow ſaith, it was repaired at the Charge of the Pariſh, in the Year 1632; it was conſumed in the Fire in 1666, and was again well built in the Year 1686, at the publick Charge, (as the reſt were) of Brick and Stone.

It is of the Compoſite Order, having a flat Roof, a Tower, and Pilaſters round the Inſide of it; and as to Ornament,

The inſide of the Roof, (or the Cieling) is adorned with a ſpacious Circle, whoſe Periphery is curious Fretwork.

It is well wainſcotted eight Feet and a half high; the Pews are uniform; four handſome inner Door-Caſes, with Branches of Palm, Shields, with other Compartment, Cherubims, and Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order.

The Pulpit is alſo adorned with Finniering, Cherubims, Feſtoons, and Cupids, all carved in right Norway Oak.

Here is alſo a neat Marble Font, with a carved Cover finely embelliſh'd.

The Altar-piece is ſpacious and beautiful, conſiſting of ſix Columns, with their Entablature, of the Corinthian Order, and ſeven Pediments; at each End of two Triangular ones, are Lamps on Acroters, above which is a large circular Pediment, and under that is a Glory in the Shape of a Dove in Relievo, with ſolid Rays gilt with Gold, between Cherubims. The inner Columns are the Commandments, done in Gold Letters on Black, and outward from theſe, the Lord's-Prayer and Creed, done in Gold on Blue, the whole having the Enrichment of Fruit, Palm, and Laurel Branches, &c. incloſed with Rail and Balliſter, and the Ground paved with black and white Marble.

Here is alſo a neat Wainſcot Gallery on the South and Weſt Sides of the Church, and the King's Arms on the North Side carved in Wood.

The Dimenſions of the Church are, Length 64 Feet, Breadth 40, Altitude 34, and that of the Tower 88.

A Bill in Parliament being engroſſed for the Erecting a Church for the French Proteſtants, ſojourning in LONDON, in the Church-yard of this Pariſh of St. Martin Orgars, after the great Fire; the Pariſhioners offered Reaſons to the Parliament againſt it; declaring, nevertheleſs, that they were not againſt erecting a Church, but only againſt erecting it in the Place mentioned in the Bill: Since by the Act for Rebuilding the City, the Scite and Church-yard of St. Martins Orgars, was directed to be encloſed with a Wall, and laid open for a Burying-place for the Pariſh. The ſaid Act was for confirming a Leaſe of the Church-yard, made from the Parſon and Church-wardens of the ſaid Pariſh, unto certain Truſtees for 50 Years, to erect a Church there for French Proteſtants, with Liberty for the Parſon and Church-wardens during the ſaid Term, to renew the ſaid Leaſe for 50 Years, and ſo on. This was agreed on at a Veſtry: But many of the Pariſhioners not knowing of this that was done, and ſo without and contrary to their Aſſent, now put up their Reaſons againſt paſſing the Bill: But notwithſtanding the Bill paſſed; and there is a French Church there at this Time, where the Liturgy of the Church of England, being turned into French, is uſed.

NEXT is St. Nicholas-lane, for the moſt Part on both Sides of this Ward, almoſt to St. Nicholas Church.

The PARISH of St. MARY ABCHURCH.

THE bleſſed Virgin Mary was the Daughter of Joachim, a Galilean of Nazareth, and of Anne, his Wife, a Bethlehemite, both of the Tribe of Judah; the Time of her Birth was about Ann. Mund. 3956. Anne, the Mother of the Bleſſed Virgin, was barren till ſhe had been married 20 Years, which, among the Jews, was accounted a Shame and Reproach; inſomuch as Joachim coming to Jeruſalem to offer Sacrifice, was repulſed by Iſachar the High-Prieſt, for his Wife's Sterility; yet, after that he had been married 20 Years, God heard his Prayers, and by an Angel it was revealed unto him, that he ſhould have a Child by his Wife Anne, which came to paſs, ſhe being in Time delivered of a Female Child, which was the Bleſſed Virgin Mary: The Day of whoſe Birth is yearly celebrated on September 8.

THIS Bleſſed Virgin was afterwards eſpouſed to Joſeph, a Carpenter; after which, the Angel Gabriel appearing to her, ſhewed her how ſhe ſhould conceive by the Holy Ghoſt and bear a Son, which ſhould be called Jeſus, and this was at Nazareth, 16 Miles from Jeruſalem. The Day of which Annunciation is yearly celebrated on March 25, on which Day we begin our Year.

OUR Saviour Jeſus Chriſt was afterwards, according to the Angel's Prediction, born at Bethlehem in Judea; after whoſe Birth, three Wiſe Men came from the Eaſt, by Direction of a Star to Jeruſalem, to worſhip him that was born King of the Jews; which King Herod hearing, being much ſtartled thereat, enquired of the Prieſts and Scribes where Chriſt ſhould be born; they told him in Bethlehem; ſo he ſent the Wiſe Men thither, requiring them to bring him Word at their Return, that he might go and worſhip him; but after they had been at Bethlehem, and worſhipped the Child Jeſus, and offer'd their Gifts, Gold, Frankincenſe, and Myrrh, being warned of God in a Dream, they returned Home another Way; and Joſeph being warned in a Dream, took his Wife and Child, and fled into Egypt. Herod now being very angry that he was deluded by the Wiſe Men, ſlew all the Infants of two Years old, and under, in Bethlehem, and the Coaſts thereof.

AFTER Herod's Death, Joſeph and Mary return'd with the Child into Judea, by the Direction of God in a Dream, and ſeated themſelves at Nazareth, where they lived together. It appears by the Evangeliſts, (Luke ii. 42) that the Parents of Jeſus, when he was twelve Years old, went with him up to Jeruſalem, and that as they returned, the Child Jeſus tarried behind, and that after they had found him, he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was ſubject to them; but after this, how long Joſeph lived is not ſet down in Holy Scripture, nor in any authentick Author; but we read, that the Virgin Mary was at the crucifying of her Son Jeſus, ſtanding by the Croſs with other Women, to whom Jeſus ſaid (pointing to his Diſciple John, whom he loved) Woman, behold thy Son; and then ſaid to John, Behold thy Mother; and from that Hour that Diſciple took her to his own Home. So that from hence it is likely Joſeph was then dead, otherwiſe it is probable, that Chriſt would not have committed her to the Care of John: But how long the Bleſſed Virgin lived after Chriſt's Aſcenſion, there is no Certainty.

CONCERNING her Aſſumption, the Commemoration whereof is celebrated on Auguſt 15, it is reported by Tradition only, that at the Time of her Death all the Apoſtles diſperſed over all the World, were in a Moment lifted on high in the Air, and brought to Jeruſalem, where they were preſent at her Death, and that her Body being laid in a Coffin, was carried to Gethſemane, where a Choir of Angels attended on her ſacred Body three Days, with Angelical Harmony, which then being ended, the Apoſtles looking into the Coffin, found the Body gone, concluding thereupon, that ſhe was aſſumed into Heaven.

WHEN this Church of St. Mary was firſt built is uncertain; but Simon de Wynchecombe, Citizen and Armorer, and one of the Sheriffs of LONDON in 1383, founded a perpetual Chantry in the Church, by Licence from Richard II, in the 19th of his Reign, at the Altar of the Holy Trinity, of which Chantry, the Rector and Church-wardens of this Pariſh were Patrons. After which (to wit) in 1437, the then Rector and Church-wardens, with the Conſent of all the Pariſhioners, granted Licence to John Wall and John Skelton, two Chaplains of this Chantry, to build a Houſe upon three or four Poſts in the Weſt Part of this Church-yard, near to the Tenement of the Abbot of Gerondon, containing in Length 27 Feet, and in Breadth 14, for themſelves and their Succeſſors for ever, which was confirmed by the then Biſhop, and the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's.

IN 1526, by the Authority of Cuthbert Tunſtal, then Biſhop of LONDON, and Conſent of the Rector and Church-wardens of this Pariſh, one Richard Rogers, of the ſame Pariſh, Citizen and Clothworker of LONDON, built a Houſe conſiſting of two Chambers, in Length 25 Feet and a half, and in Breadth 12, and in Height nine and a half; at the Weſt End alſo of this Church-yard, between the Chambers pertaining to Wynchecombe's Chantry, and the Houſe of Thomas Roche, which he, by Indenture dated June 10, that Year, freely gave to the ſaid Rector and Church-wardens, and their Succeſſors for ever, to the Uſe of this Pariſh, with one half of the Profits thereof, to keep the ſaid Houſe in Repair, and with the other half to find the Paſchal within the ſaid Church, yearly, for ever; and what remained over, above the Charge of the Paſchal, was to be diſtributed as Alms among the Poor of the Pariſh, on Good Friday, yearly, for ever, for the Souls of him the ſaid Richard, his Wife, his Father and Mother, and all his Friends, and all Chriſtian Souls: All which was to be done by the ſaid Rector and Church-wardens, upon certain Penalties mentioned in the ſaid Indenture.

John Littleton and Thomas Houdon (ſays Stow) founded alſo Chantries here. This Church was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhioners, Ann. 1611, and being burnt down in the Fire of LONDON, was rebuilt Anno 1686.

IT is a neat Church, well built of Brick, and Stone Quoins, Windows and Door-caſes; the Tower is alſo of the like Materials, which Steeple has alſo a Cupola and Spire; the Roof is covered with Lead, and the Inſide thereof is a Dome finely painted above a Cantaliver Cornice, ſupported by one Column, and ſeveral Pilaſters and Membretto's of the Corinthian Order. In the Dome are four Port-hole Windows, opening Eaſt, Weſt, North, and South.

AS for Ornament and Finiſhing, beſides that of Pillars and Pilaſters, and Corniſh aboveſaid, this Church is wainſcotted round with right Norway Oak, about eleven Feet high; and there is a very pretty Gallery at the Weſt End, of the like Timber, having a Front of circular Pannels in carved Frames, with Enrichments of Cherubims; and under this Gallery a handſome Door-caſe, adorned with Architrave, Cornice, and Pediment, whereon are the King's Arms carved. The North Door-caſe is likewiſe adorned with Attick Pilaſters and Arches; alſo two fluted Pilaſters, Entablature, and Pediment, of the Corinthian Order, enrich'd with Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, Cornutes, &c.

THE Altar-piece is a moſt magnificent Piece of carved Work. It conſiſts of four Columns, their Entablature, and a ſpacious arched open Pediment, of the Corinthian Order; on which laſt is the Letter R. within a Garter, ſupported by two Cherubims. The Intercolumns are the Commandments, very neatly done in Gold Characters on Black; and the Lord's-Prayer and Creed are Gold on Blue; all the four Tables are within Frames, carved and gilt. Over the Columns are four Lamps on Acroters; and the whole has Enrichments, in great Variety, of ſpacious Feſtoons of Fruit, Leaves, Palm Branches, and a Pelican feeding her young, all curiouſly carved in Relievo.

THE Communion Table is finnier'd, and adorned with four Cherubims; it ſtands on a Foot-pace of black and white Marble.

HERE is a ſpacious Braſs Branch Candleſtick given by Mr. John Watſon, as mentioned hereafter in the Table of Benefactors.

In Life and Death thy Works did well purſue

Nobility of Action made that good.

The Figure that thy Monument may claim
With Juſtice; 'tis thine own, fit to inrol
Thy Memory here, as Heaven adorns thy Soul.
Sum up all Virtues in Man ever known,
And ſet them to thy Actions, th'are thine own.

Particular Praiſes would o'reſpread the Tomb.
Here's all in brief, who ſhall henceforth endite
A good Man's Epitaph, let him but write
The Copy of thy Life: It ſtands for all,
That ever made Man's Praiſe, or ever ſhall.

The PARISH of St. LAURENCE POULTNEY.

St. Laurence Poultney.

THE Pariſh-Church of St. Laurence, was increaſed with a Chapel of Jeſus, by Thomas Cole, for a Maſter and Chaplain: The which Chapel and Pariſh-Church was made a College of Jeſus, and of Corpus Chriſti, for a Maſter and ſeven Chaplains, by John Poultney, Mayor, and was confirmed by Edward III, the 20th of his Reign. Of him was this Church called St. Laurence Poultney in Candlewick-ſtreet. Which College was valued at 79 l. 17 s. 11 d. and was ſurrendered in the Reign of Edw. VI. who in the 2d of his Reign, granted and ſold unto John Cheke, his Schoolmaſter, and Walter Moyle, the ſaid College of Corpus Chriſti, which ſtood near the ſaid St. Laurence's Church, with ſeveral Meſſuages and Tenements there, together with the Cottages, Shops, Cellars, Solars, Chambers, Stables, Courts, and Curtelages thereunto belonging. Alſo there belonged unto the ſame College, a Capital Meſſuage and Tenement called Catford, ſituate in Lewiſham in Kent; which, with other Things, was granted to Henry Polſtede and William More, for 2034 l. odd Money.

IT was alſo called the College of St. Laurence de Polteney. The Founder had an Houſe called Polteney's Inn, which was exchanged for the Church of Napton in the County of Warwick, and laid to this College in 8 Richard II. And the Manor of Catford in the County of Kent, granted to the ſame College in 13 Edward III. To it alſo belonged Abchurch, and a Penſion thence.

William Thorp, Magiſter Colleg. Sti. Laurentii Pountney, LONDON. Apr. 16, 1426.

THE Steeple of this Church was new leaded, five new Bells were hung, and the Frames they hung in new made. All the Iſles were new raiſed and levelled, and the whole Church within and without repaired and beautified, at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh, in the Years of our Lord God 1631 and 1632, George Downes, Robert Mead, } Church-wardens.

ANTIENTLY through the Church-yard of St. Laurence Poultney Church, was a Way which the Rector once ſtopp'd up, or intended ſo to do, which cauſed a Precept directed to the Rector of St. Laurence in Candlewick-ſtreet Ward, that he ſhut not the Church-yard there; becauſe it was a common Way.

Robert Radcliffe, Earl of Suſſex, and Henry Radcliffe Earl of Suſſex, were buried there.

Alderman Beſwyke was buried there.

John Olyffe, Alderman.

Robert Browne, and others.

ON an antient Monument in the North Iſle Eaſtward, was this Inſcription:

Hereunder lieth the Body of William Beſwyke of Beſwyke, Citizen while he lived, and Draper, and ſome Time Alderman of LONDON, who deceaſed the 5th Day of May, An. Dom. 1567.

ON a fair Stone on the Ground in the ſame Iſle,

John Olyffe, Alderman, lying under this Stone, died the 26th Day of June 1577, aged 65 Years: He was married forty Years to Joan his Wife: He had ſeven Children, Anne, John, Joan, John, Thomas, Matthew, and Edward, who died all without Iſſue, ſave only Joan; who married John Leigh, Eſq; and Heir of Addington in Surrey, and had Iſſue Olyffe Leigh, now living.

ON another Stone, and fairly plated, in the South Iſle and Body of the Church, was the following Epitaph on Elizabeth Lucar.

Every Chriſtian Heart
ſeeketh to extol
The Glory of the Lord, our only Redeemer:

Wherefore

Wherefore Dame Fame must needs inroll
Paul Withypoll his Child, by Love and Nature,
Elizabeth, the Wife of Emanuel Lucar,
In whom was declared
the Goodneſs of the Lord,
With many high Virtues, which truly I will record.

She wrought all Needle-works that Women exerciſe, With Pen, Frame, or Stool, all Pictures artificial,
Curious Knots, or Trails, what Fancy could deviſe, Beaſts, Birds, or Flowers,
even as Things natural.
Three manner Hands could ſhe write, them fair all.
To ſpeak of Algoriſme, or Accounts, in every Faſhion,
Of Women, few like
(I think) in all this Nation.

Dame Cunning her gave a Gift right excellent,
The goodly Practice of her Science Muſical,
In divers Tongues to Sing,
and play with Inſtrument,
Both Vial and Lute, and alſo Virginal;
Nor only upon one,
but excellent in all.
For all other Virtues belonging to Nature,
God her appointed a very perfect Creature.

Latin and Spaniſh, and alſo Italian,
She ſpake, writ, and read,
with perfect Utterance;
And for the Engliſh, ſhe the Garland won:
In Dame Prudence School
by Grace's Purveyance;
Which cloathed her with Virtues, from naked Ignorance.
Reading the Scriptures,
to judge Light from Dark,
Directing her Faith to Chriſt, the only Mark.

The ſaid Elizabeth deceaſed the 29th Day of October, An. Dom. 1537, of Years not fully twenty ſeven. This Stone, and all herein contained, made at the Coſt of the ſaid Emanuel, Merchant-Taylor.

A Monument at the upper End of the North Iſle, with this Inſcription:

This Monument was erected Anno Domini 1620, by the Lady Ann Bromley, late Wife unto Sir Henry Bromley of Holt, in the County of Worceſter, Knight, Daughter of William Beſwyke, of LONDON, Alderman, in Remembrance of her firſt Husband, William Offley, of LONDON, Merchant; who, being Free of the Merchant-Taylors, fined both for Sheriff and Alderman.

He had Iſſue by the ſaid Anne, fifteen Children, whereof five are living; viz. William, Elizabeth, Margaret, Robert, and Mary. The reſt died Infants.

In the laſt Parochial Viſitation, the Church-wardens brought in, that they never knew or heard of any Houſe belonging to the Miniſter, it having been an Impropriation.

On the Eaſt Side of this Lane is Crooked-lane aforeſaid, by St. Michael's Church, toward New Fiſh-ſtreet. One of the moſt antient Houſes in this Lane is called The Leaden Porch, and belonged, ſome Time, to Sir John Merſton, Kt. the firſt of Edward IV.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL Crooked-lane.

St. Michael Crooked-lane.

THE Pariſh-Church of St. Michael's was ſome Time but a ſmall and homely Thing, ſtanding upon Part of that Ground, whereon now ſtandeth the Parſonage-Houſe: And the Ground thereabouts was a filthy Plat, by Reaſon of the Butchers in Eaſtcheap, who made the ſame their Layſtall.

William de Burgo gave two Meſſuages to that Church, ſituate in Candlewick (now Cannon) ſtreet, Anno 1317. John Loveken, Stock-Fiſhmonger, four Times Lord Mayor of LONDON (at laſt, Anno 1366) built St. Michael's Church there, and was buried in the Choir, under a fair marble Tomb.

His Arms were; a Chevron between three Falcons Volant.

This Church was afterwards increaſed with a new Choir and Side Chapel, by Sir William Wallworth, Stock-Fiſhmonger, Lord Mayor of LONDON, Anno 1374, who was Servant formerly to the ſaid Loveken; and who (when Mayor) wounded the Rebel Wat Tyler in Smithfield, for which he was by the King Knighted; as was alſo John Philpot, Nicholas Brember, and Robert Laud, Aldermen; the Mayor was rewarded alſo with 100 l. per Ann. the other three with 40 l. per Ann. to them and their Heirs for ever. This Sir William Wallworth afterwards founded in this Church a College of a Maſter and nine Prieſts; and deceaſing, Anno 1385, he was here buried.

His Arms; a Bend Ragul'd between two Garbs.

But this Monument being, amongſt others, defaced in the Reign of King Edward the VIth, was again ſince renewed by the Fiſhmongers; who for Lack of Knowledge, whatſoever ever before had been written in his Epitaph, followed a fabulous Book, and wrote Jack Straw, inſtead of Wat Tyler; a great Error, fit to be reformed there, and elſewhere.

THIS ſecond Monument, after the demoliſhing of the firſt, was ſet up in June 1562, with his Effigies in Alabaſter, in Armour gilt richly, by the Fiſhmongers, ſaith Stow; at the Coſt of William Parvis, Fiſhmonger, that dwelt at the Caſtle in New Fiſh-ſtreet, ſaith a MS. in the Cotton Library: (Perhaps he was the Maſter of the Company at that Time.) The Epitaph of ſo memorable a Citizen, being omitted in Stow, is here ſet down:

Here under lyth a Man of Fame,
William Wallwoꝛth called by Name.
Fiſhmonger he was in Lyfftime here,
And twiſe Lord Maioꝛ, as in Books appere;
Who with Courage ſtout and manly Myght
Slew Jack Straw in King Richard's Syght.
Foꝛ which Act done and trew Entent.
The Kyng made hym Knight incontinent.
And gave hym Armes, as here you ſee,
To declare his Fact and Chivaldrie.
He left this Lyff the Yere of our God
Thirteen hondꝛed fourſcoꝛe and three odd.

IT hath alſo been, and is now grown to a common Opinion, that in Reward of this Service done by the ſaid William Wallworth againſt the Rebel; that King Richard added to the Arms of this City (which was Argent, a plain Croſs Gules) a Sword, or Dagger, (for ſo they term it.) Whereof there is no ſuch Record, but rather that which foundeth to the contrary. For in the fourth Year of Richard II, in a full Aſſembly made in the upper Chamber of the Guildhall, ſummoned by this William Wallworth, then Mayor, as well of Aldermen, as of the Common-Council in every Ward, for certain Affairs concerning the King, it was there by Common-Conſent, agreed and ordained, that the old Seal of the Office of the Mayoralty of the City, being very ſmall, old, unapt, and uncomely for the Honour of the City, ſhould be broken, and one other new ſhould be had. Which the ſaid Mayor commanded to be made artificially, and honourably for the Exerciſe of the ſaid Office thereafter, in place of the other. In which new Seal, beſides the Images of Peter and Paul, which of old were rudely engraven, there ſhould be under the Feet of the ſaid Images, a Shield of the Arms of the ſaid City perfectly graved with two Lions ſupporting the ſame, with two Serjeants of Arms on either Part, one, and two Tabernacles, in which, above, ſhould ſtand two Angels, between whom (above the ſaid Images of Peter and Paul) ſhould be ſet the glorious Virgin. This being done, the old Seal of the Office was delivered to Richard Odiham Chamberlain, who broke it, and in Place thereof, was delivered the new Seal to the ſaid Mayor, to uſe in his Office of Mayoralty as Occaſion ſhould require. This new Seal ſeemeth to be made before William Wallworth was Knighted; for he is not there intitled Sir, as afterwards he was: And certain it is, that the ſame new Seal then made, is now in Uſe, and none other in that Office of Mayoralty; which may ſuffice to anſwer the former Fable, without ſhewing of any Evidence ſealed with the old Seal which was the Croſs and Sword, as now, &c. of St. Paul, and not the Dagger of William Wallworth.

THIS Church of St. Michael's was new Roofed in 1621, Charge 500 l. and ſharing in the common Calamity by Fire in the Year 1666, was re-edified Anno 1688. The Church was beautified, and the Tower finiſhed in 1698.

THE Building is in this Nature; the Walls of the Church and Steeple are Stone, the latter having four Pinnacles, on the Vertex whereof were many Vaſes, which are now broken off by the Wind, on the 27th of November 1703; being the moſt violent Storm known in the Memory of any one now living; it was a South Weſterly Wind, attended with ſmall Rain (and ſome ſay an Earthquake) beginning to blow very fierce about half an Hour paſt One; was at the higheſt from four to half an Hour paſt five: It much affected the South Part of the Nation, killing ſeveral Perſons by Land and Sea, and deſtroying and damniſying a great many Houſes and Shipping. It has a ſquare Roof covered with Lead, the Floor moſtly paved with Stone, that of the Chancel one Step higher than that of the reſt of the Church, which is without Columns, but with Arches and Impoſts.

IT is adorned with a Cornice of Crocket-work, extending round the Church's Roof; pewed and wainſcotted with Oak, the latter nine Feet high; the Weſt and South Door-caſes are of the ſame Sort of Timber, adorned with Pilaſters and Entablature of the Corinthian Order; the Frieſe, &c. enrich'd; and under the Arches are two artificial white Curtains carved very natural, as at Alhallows Lombard-ſtreet, and over the Weſt Door are the King's Arms.

THE Altar-piece is of the ſame Species of Materials, adorned with four Columns and Entablature of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Commandments done in gold Letters on Black, under a Glory; theſe between the Pater Noſter and Creed, done in Black on Gold, each under a gilded Cherub, and has Enrichments of two Lamps, Fruit, Leaves, &c. and theſe Words of our Saviour, in St. John's Goſpel, are under the Decalogue;

A new Commandment I give unto you, that you love one another.

DIMENSIONS are, Length 78 Feet, Breadth 46, Altitude 32, and that of the Tower to the Top of the Pinnacle about 100.

THERE has not been one Monument erected in this Church built ſince the Fire, but in the old one, beſides that of Sir William Wallworth, were the following for, Simon Mordon, Mayor, 1368.

Richard Radwel, Citizen and Stockfiſhmonger, who by his Will, 1415, gave two Marks, yearly, for ever, to the Miniſter and Church-wardens of the Pariſh, out of a Houſe in Thames-ſtreet. He gave alſo a Part of his Eſtate at Radwel in Hertfordſhire, for the Repair and Leading of the Church.

John Olney, Mayor, 1446.

Farewell, my Friends, the Tide abideth no Man
I am departed hence,
and ſo ſhall yee.
But in this Paſſage,
the beſt Song I can,

Is Requiem Æternam, now Jesu grant it me:
When I have ended
all mine Adversity,
Grant me in Paradise
to have a Mansion,
That shedst thy Blood for my Redemption.

John Finkell, one of the Sheriffs, 1487, was Knighted, and gave 40 l. to this Church, the one half for his Monument.

John Pattesley, Mayor, 1441.

Thomas Ewen, Grocer, bore half the Charges in Building of the Steeple, and was buried 1501.

Queen Elizabeth both was, and is alive,

In Heaven a Saint, in Earth a blessed Maid.

And then return'd to God,
At the Age of 70 Years, and somewhat odd.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

PART of Crooked-lane, St. Michael's-lane, Bell's-court, Moor's-court, Meeting-houſe-court, Three-tun-court, Money-court, Wheatſheaf-alley; and Part of Great Eaſtcheap.

NUMBER of Houſes 118, beſides the Parſonage-Houſe.

HARD by this St. Michael's Church, on the South Side thereof, in the Year 1560, on the 5th of July, through the ſhooting off a Gun, which broke into the Houſe of one Adrian Arten, a Dutchman, and ſet Fire on a Firkin and Barrel of Gun-powder, four Houſes were blown up, and divers others much ſhattered; eleven Men and Women were ſlain, and ſixteen ſo hurt and bruiſed, that they hardly eſcaped with Life.

WEST from this St. Michael's-lane is St. Martin's Orgar-lane, by Candlewick-ſtreet, which Lane is, on both Sides down to a Well, repleniſhed with fair and large Houſes for Merchants, and it is of this Ward: One of which Houſes was ſome Time called Beauchamp's-Inn, as pertaining unto them of that Family. Thomas Arundel, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, commonly for his Time was lodged there.

The Modern State of Candlewick-ſtreet Ward.

THE modern State of this Ward ſtands thus: The chief Streets and Lanes herein (whether the whole or greateſt Part of them) are Great Eaſtcheap, the whole on both Sides, except a very ſmall Part in the North Corner next to Graſschurch-ſtreet; Candlewick (now commonly called Cannon) ſtreet, from Green-Lettice-lane on both Sides to Great Eaſtcheap: Abchurch-lane, all, except 96 Feet on the Weſt Side, and about 140 Feet on the Eaſt Side of the North End towards Lombard-ſtreet. St. Nicholas-lane, about 200 Feet, at the South End, on both Sides. St. Clement's-lane, the South End, and about 180 Feet on the Weſt Side, and 150 Feet on the Eaſt Side. St. Michael's-lane, all but about 140 Feet at the South End on both Sides. Crooked-lane, the Weſt End, about half. St. Martin's-lane, all on both Sides, except about 95 Feet at the South End. St. Laurence Poultney-lane, or Hill, from Cannon-ſtreet on both Sides, a little beyond St. Laurence Church-yard. Green Lettice-lane, the Eaſt Side. And all theſe Streets and Lanes have ſeveral Courts and Alleys, and ſmall Paſſages, which ſhall be mentioned under each.

Great Eaſtcheap begins by the Corner of Fiſh-ſtreet-hill, and runs Weſtward unto St. Clement's-lane, where Cannon-ſtreet begins. It took its Name, Eaſtcheap, from a Market antiently there kept for the ſerving the Eaſt Part of the City: Which Market was afterwards removed to Leadenhall-ſtreet, and now is kept in Leadenhall. But ſtill Eaſtcheap continues a Fleſh Market, and is inhabited by a great many Butchers, as is Little Eaſtcheap alſo:

THIS Street is a great Thorough-fare from the Eaſtern Parts to thoſe in the Weſt. In this Street is the Boar's-head Tavern, under the Sign of which is wrote, This is the oldeſt Tavern in LONDON. It is in this Tavern where ſome of the Scenes of the Poet Shakeſpear's Henry IV, are laid, in which he introduces Prince Henry, Falſtaff, and his Companions. The Courts and Alleys are as followeth, beginning Eaſtwards, viz.

Small-alley, very ordinary, only for Stabling.

Maidenhead-court, but ſmall, with a Meeting-Houſe at the upper End.

Rat-alley, alſo narrow and very mean.

White Bell-alley, alſo ſmall and ordinary.

Cannon-ſtreet begins at Eaſtcheap, and runs Weſtwards to Green Lettice-lane; a Street well built and inhabited by able Tradeſmen: The Courts and Alleys are, Bell-alley, which hath a Paſſage into St. Nicholas-lane, through the Bell Tavern. Black Swan-alley, but indifferent. Artichoak-court, a pretty good Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement.

St. Clement's-lane, on the North Side of Cannon-ſtreet, falls into Lombard-ſtreet, a Place well built and inhabited; the Part in this Ward goeth a little beyond St. Clement's Eaſtcheap Church. Which is a handſome Brick Building, with Free-ſtone Work at the Corners; adjoining to which Church is a good handſome Place called Church-alley, the North Side having a Row of Houſes, and the South Side lying open to the Church and Church-yard. This Church is in the Dioceſe of LONDON; the Abbot of Weſtminſter was Patron.

St. Nicholas-lane, ſpoken of in Langborn Ward, in which the greateſt Part is ſeated.

Abchurch-lane comes out of Lombard-ſtreet, and runs up to Cannon-ſtreet, a Place well built and inhabited by Merchants and Perſons of Repute. In this Lane are theſe Courts and Alleys.

St. Nicholas-alley, but narrow, with a Paſſage into St. Nicholas-lane.

Lamb-alley, but indifferently inhabited, and narrow, with a Paſſage into Sherborn-lane; and near unto this Alley is Lamb-court, which is but ordinary.

St. Mary Abchurch. It is a good Brick Building, with a Church-yard encloſed by a Brick Wall; and hath an open large Free-ſtone Pavement on the South Side.

THE Lanes on the South Side of Cannon-ſtreet, are St. Michael's-lane, and Crooked-lane, St. Martin's-lane, St. Laurence Poultney-lane, and Green Lettice-lane.

St. Michael's-lane goes out of Great Eaſtcheap, and runs down into Thames-ſtreet, which Lane is almoſt all in this Ward; that Part towards Thames-ſtreet being in Dowgate Ward. It is a Place well built and inhabited. On the Eaſt Side is ſeated St. Michael's Crooked-lane Church. This Church is a Peculiar of Canterbury, the Archbiſhop thereof being Patron. Crooked-lane comes out of St. Michael's-lane by St. Michael's Church, and falls into Fiſh-ſtreet-hill againſt the Monument: Which Part next Fiſh-ſtreet is in the Bridge Ward Within. It is a Place of ſome Note for the Tin Ware there made and ſold; as alſo for Fiſhing Tackle.

ON the Weſt Side of St. Michael's-lane, over-againſt the Church, is Hockins-court, which is but ſmall, containing two Houſes. And on the ſame Side is Meeting-houſe-yard, ſo called from a Meeting-Houſe, which takes up the greateſt Part. Fen-court hath pretty good Houſes, and a Free-ſtone Pavement.

Three-tun-court, a good ſquare Place, with an open Entrance for Carts.

St. Martin's-lane alſo falls into Thames-ſtreet, and is well built and inhabited by Merchants. On the Eaſt Side is St. Martin's Orgar Church-yard; the Church not being rebuilt ſince its burning down in the great Fire, the Pariſh is united unto unto St. Clement's Eaſtcheap. Part of the Steeple remains, where there is a Dial, which hangs over into the Street.

St. Laurence Poultney-lane, ſo called from the Pariſh-Church there formerly ſtanding on the Weſt Side, that was conſumed by the Fire of LONDON, which is not ſince rebuilt; but the Pariſh is united unto St. Mary Abchurch: And the Place where the Church ſtood goes by the Name of St. Laurence Poultney-hill, which is an open Place, where, in the Houſe which was formerly Sir John Ward's, who was the laſt Alderman of this Ward, is kept the Office belonging to the Charitable Corporation, a Company eſtabliſhed on a very good Deſign, to aſſiſt the Poor with Money at ſmall Intereſt; but thro' the Roguery of ſome employed by them, the Proprietors were defrauded of the greateſt Part of their Capital Stock, amounting to near 400,000 l. The Parliament taking the Matter into Conſideration, paſſed an Act (in the laſt Seſſion 1733) to raiſe 500,000 l. by Way of Lottery, 100,000 l. of which to go towards the Relief of the unhappy Sufferers, in this Corporation; whoſe Affairs being in other Hands, and better regulated, may yet anſwer the good Intention for which they obtained their Charter. Great Part of this Hill is in Dowgate Ward.

Green Lettice-lane comes out of Cannon-ſtreet, and falls into St. Laurence Poultney-hill; a Place well inhabited. The Eaſt Side is only in this Ward; the Weſt in Wallbrook. Out of this Lane is a Paſſage into Suffolk-lane, which is alſo in Wallbrook Ward.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward every Night a Conſtable, the Beadle, and 24 Watchmen. The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt are to ſerve on Juries for this Ward in Guildhall, in the Month of December.

IT hath an Alderman, his Deputy, Common-Council-Men eight, Conſtables eight, Scavengers ſix, Wardmote Inqueſt Men 12, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen at 16 l.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir John Thompſon, Knt.

CHAP. XII.

WALLBROOK WARD.

Wallbrook Ward.

Wallbrook Ward begins at the Weſt End of Candlewick (now Cannon) Street, and runneth down the ſaid Street, Weſt towards Budge-row. It hath on the North Side of it St. Swithen's-lane, ſo called from St. Swithen's Pariſh-Church by London-ſtone. This Lane is repleniſhed, on both Sides, with handſome Houſes, and is wholly of this Ward.

The PARISH of St. SWITHEN.

St. Swithen's Church.

THE Pariſh-Church of St. Swithen ſtands at the South Weſt Corner of this Lane. The Saint to whom this Church is dedicated, was born Anno 800, or thereabouts, bred up in Piety and Learning, by the Monks at Wincheſter, was ordained Prieſt by Helmſtan, his Predeceſſor in that See, and afterwards became Prior of that Monaſtery.

Helmſtan being dead, Swithen, from being Prior, was made Biſhop of that See, conſecrated thereto by Celnoth, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, by the Appointment of Ethelwolfe (or Adulph) King of the Weſt Saxons, whoſe Tutor he had been in the Reign of Egbright (or Egbert) his Father.

HE was a Perſon of exemplary Life, very charitable to the Poor, and had that Regard for Places conſecrated to Religion, that he left Orders not to be buried in the Church, but without it, where his Corpſe muſt be trampled over by Paſſengers, and ſubject to the Falling of the Rain from above. He died Anno 862, as ſome write, and others 863.

IT ſhould ſeem, by long Continuance of Time, the Place where this Holy Biſhop was buried was forgot; for in the Year 970 (near 110 Years after his Sepulture) it was diſcover'd to a poor labouring Man, by St. Swithen himſelf; which poor Man, by the Saint's own Direction, told Ethelwold, Biſhop of Wincheſter, in what Place he was buried, who finding it accordingly, took up his Bones and Reliques, and put them up in a Shrine, where ſo many Miracles have been wrought, ſaith Malmsbury, as were never before in the Memory of Man.

THE Day of the Saint's Death is commemorated in the Roman Martyrology, July 2; but his Tranſlation having been made July 15, his principal Feaſt is celebrated in the Engliſh Churches on that Day.

THIS Church of St. Swithen was new built, Anno 1420, which was done chiefly at the Charge of Sir John Hind, Lord Mayor of LONDON, in the Years 1391, and 1404. Mr. Stow ſays, the Building was then augmented, both of the Church and Steeple, which implies that a Church was here before, and conſequently, that it is of a very antient Foundation.

ARMS of Hind; Argent on a Chevron, three Eſcallop Shells, on a Chief Azure a Lion Paſſant of the firſt.

THIS Church was repaired in the Years 1607, and 1608; and laſt, a little before the Fire, when about 1000 l. was laid out on it.

THIS Church and Tower are well built with Stone, the Roof covered with Lead, ſupported with Demy-Columns of the Compoſite Order; the Floor is paved with Stone, and pewed, with three Iſles; the Roof and Cupola, and the whole is commodious and pleaſant, tho' ſmall.

IT is well wainſcotted 10 Feet high, and pew'd with Oak, there is a neat Gallery on the North and North Weſt Sides, alſo a Pulpit carv'd and finnier'd; all, as likewiſe two inner Door-caſes, are of Wainſcot. The Altar-piece is of the ſame Species of Timber, it is adorned with four fluted Pilaſters, Entablature and Pediment of the Corinthian Order; in the Pediment the King Arms are carved, gilt and colour'd. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue depencil'd in Gold Letters on Black, within gilded Frames, under a Glory and two Cherubims, and all this between the Creed and Pater Noſter, done in Black and Gold, each under a Cherubim, with Enrichment of Fruit and Leaves of various Kinds; and the Roof is adorned with Pannels, Circles and Feſtoons of Crocket-

Crocket-work, and the three Front Sides, outward with Cornice and circular Pediment; alſo a Clock-Dial, adorned with the Figure of St. Swithen, gilt with Gold, ſtanding on a Pedeſtal between two Vaſes.

THE Dimenſions are, Length 61 Feet, from North to South; from Eaſt to Weſt, 42; Altitude about 40, and that of the Tower and Spire, about 150.

Honour, Integrity,

Thoſe three fill'd up the Life-time of this Man,
Of Honour the grave
Prætorſhip he bare,
Which he diſcharg'd with Conſcience, Truth, and Care.
He poſſeſs'd Earth,

His Charity was better

For when he gave,

To crown a Soul,

The PARISH of St. MARY BOTHAW.

The Pariſh of St. Mary Bothaw.

ON the South Side of Wallbrook Ward, from Candlewick-ſtreet, in the Midway betwixt London-ſtone and Wallbrook Corner, was a little Lane with a Turnpike in the midſt thereof, and in the ſame the Pariſh Church called St. Mary Bothaw, or Boat-haw, by the Erbar. This Church being near Downegate on the River Thames, had the Addition of Bothaw, or Boat-haw, from its near adjoining to a Haw, or Yard, wherein of old Time, Boats were made, and landed from Downegate to be mended, as may be ſuppoſed.

THIS ſeems of old to have been called alſo St. Mary de Bothache. Near which Church, on the North, were certain Land, and a Stone Houſe, and other Houſes, belonging to the Priory of Chriſt Church, Canterbury. The Prior Wibert (about Anno 1167) and the Convent granted to Ernis, and his Heirs, the Premiſes; paying 10 s. yearly, and giving on St. John Baptiſt's Day, a Towel (Manutergium) worth 8 d. to the Keeper of his Houſe, and two Pitchers, worth ſix Pieces of Money, and a Saltſellar worth four.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified, at the Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year 1621.

MONUMENTS.

WITHIN this Church, and the ſmall Cloiſter adjoining, ſeveral Noblemen, and Perſons of Diſtinction, were buried; but their Monuments either torn away, or much defaced, before the Fire.

THERE remained that of John Weſt, Eſq; buried in the Year 1408.

Thomas Huntley, Eſq; 1539; but his Monument defaced.

Lancelot Bathurſt, with this Inſcription:

Here lieth the Body of Lancelot Bathurſt, Citizen, Grocer, and choſen Alderman of this honourable City: Who deceaſed the 27th Day of September 1594, &c.

BUT the moſt remarkable Monument was that of Henry Fitz-Alwine, Draper, the firſt Lord Mayor of LONDON that ever was, who continued, by ſeveral Elections, in the Mayoralty above twenty four Years. His Monument can be proved to have been in this Church, ſaith Anthony Monday, as his Arms in the Glaſs Windows and Graveſtones do ſufficiently ſhew. Beſides, his Dwelling-houſe, divided into two or three, was given by him to the Drapers Company, and they pay a Quit-Rent, in his Name, yearly, for ever. All which are ſufficient to teſtify, that he was not buried in the Priory of the Holy Trinity within Aldgate, now called Duke's-Place, continueth Monday, as formerly hath been avouched by Mr. Stow.

But this is not Evidence enough againſt Stow's own Eyes; who, living in the Times before the Diſſolution of that Priory, may be preſumed to have ſeen Fitz-Alwine's Monument in that Church of the Priory, and ſo to have numbered him among the reſt of the Perſons that had Monuments there, in that Part of his Survey, where he ſpeaks of this Priory in Aldgate Ward. Fitz-Alwine might have his Arms in ſome of the Glaſs Windows of St. Mary Bothaw's Church, being a Pariſhioner, being Lord Mayor, and having given or glazed thoſe Windows; and his Coat of Arms might be upon ſome of the Grave-ſtones there, having ſome of his Children and Relations buried there. And it adds to the Probability that he was interred in that Priory, it being ſo uſual for Perſons of great Quality to be buried in ſuch religious Places, however expenſive it was, out of an Opinion then, that it would turn to their Souls Benefit.

In this Church was Queen Elizabeth's Monument, with this Inſcription:

ELIZABETH, Queen of England, France, and Ireland, &c. Daughter to King Henry VIII, and Grandchild to King Henry VII, by Elizabeth, eldeſt Daughter to Edward IV; having reſtored true Religion, reduced Coin to the juſt Value, aſſiſted France and the Low-Countries, and overcame the Spaniſh invincible Navy, enriched all England, and adminiſtered moſt prudently the Imperial State thereof forty five Years, in true Piety. In the ſeventieth Year of her Age, in moſt happy and peaceable manner, ſhe departed this Life; leaving her mortal Parts interred in the famous Church at Weſtminſter.

I have fought a good Fight, I have finiſhed my Courſe.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

Part of Cannon-ſtreet; Part of Oxford-court, and Turn-mill-lane; Part of Great Buſh-lane; Part of Chequer-yard; and Part of Scotch-yard.

Number of Houſes 50.

On the North Side of St. Swithen's Church and Church-yard was a large Houſe, ſome Time pertaining to the Prior of Tortington in Suſſex; ſince that to the Earls of Oxford, Anno 1598; to Sir John Hart, Alderman, (after him to Mr. Humphry Smith, Alderman of this City, who married a Daughter of the ſaid Hart.) Which Houſe hath a good Garden belonging thereunto, lying on the Weſt Side thereof. On the Back-ſide two other good Houſes in Wallbrook. In the Reign of King Henry VII, Sir Richard Empſon, Knight, (Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter) dwelled in one of them, and Edmond Dudley, Eſq; in the other; each of them had a Door of Intercourſe into this Garden, wherein they met, and conſulted on Matters at their Pleaſure. In this Oxford Place Sir Ambroſe Nicolas kept his Mayoralty: Since him, the ſaid Sir John Hart did likewiſe.

On the South Side of this High Street, near the Channel, is pitched, upright, a great Stone, called London Stone, fixed in the Ground very deep, faſtened with Bars of Iron, and otherwiſe ſo ſtrongly ſet, that if Carts do run againſt it, through Negligence, the Wheels be broken, and the Stone itſelf unſhaken.

London Stone.

The Cauſe why this Stone was there ſet, the very Time when, or other Memory hereof, there is none: But that the ſame hath long continued there, is manifeſt, namely, ſince (or rather before) the Conqueſt. For in the End of a fair written Goſpel Book, given to Chriſt's Church in Canterbury, by Ethelſtane, King of the Weſt Saxons, it is noted of Lands, or Rents, in LONDON, belonging to the ſaid Church, whereof one Parcel is deſcribed to lie near unto London Stone. Of later Times we read, that in the Year of Chriſt 1135, the firſt of King Stephen, a Fire, which began in the Houſe of one Ailward, near unto London Stone, conſumed all Eaſt to Aldgate. In which Fire the Priory of the Holy Trinity was burnt, and Weſt to St. Erkenwald's Shrine in St. Paul's Church.

Some have ſaid, this Stone was placed as a Mark in the Middle of the City within the Wall: But in Truth it ſtandeth far nearer to the River of Thames, than to the Wall of the City.

Some others have ſaid, the ſame was ſet for the tendering and making of Payment by Debtors to their Creditors, at their appointed Days and Times, till of later Time, Payments were more uſually made at the Font in Ponts Church (ſo writ in all the Editions of Stow, for Paul's undoubtedly) and now moſt commonly at the Royal Exchange. Some again, have imagined the ſame to be ſet up by one John or Thomas Londonſtone, dwelling there againſt it. But more likely it is, that ſuch Men have taken Name from the Stone, than the Stone from them; as did John at Noke, Thomas at Stile, William at Wall or Well, &c.

Some of our Fore-fathers had a Conceit that London Stone was ſet up in Signification of the City's Devotion towards Christ, and his Care and Protection of the City; under the Notion of a Stone, on which it was founded, and by his Favour ſo long preſerved: For that Way thoſe Rhimes of Fabian, in Praiſe of LONDON, ſeem to look.

It is ſo ſure a Stone that that is upon ſette,
For though ſome have it thrette
With Manaſes grym and grette
Yet Hurte had none:
Cryſte is the very Stone
That the Citie is ſet uppon,
Which from al hys Foone
Hath ever preſerved yt.

And ſince others have caſt in their Conjectures in a Matter ſo obſcure, by Reaſon of the Antiquity, ſaith Mr. Strype, let me add one or two of mine. The Romans reckoned their Miles from all great Towns and Places, by Stones pitched; and ſo they did in Britain. And perhaps this might be the Stone for LONDON; from which preciſe Place to meaſure their Miles from this City towards the other Parts of the Land. And this Street, in former Times, being the chief Street of LONDON, as Cheapſide now is, this London Stone ſeems to have been the Place (and likely enough upon this Stone) whence Proclamations and publick Notices of Things were given to the Citizens. There is a Paſſage in our Chronicles that favours this Conceit. In Henry the VI's Time, Anno 1450, when Jack Cade the Kentiſh Rebel, who feigned himſelf the Lord Mortimer, came through Southwark into LONDON, he marched to this Stone, where was a great Confluence of People, and the Lord Mayor among the reſt: Here he ſtruck his Sword upon it, and ſaid, Now is Mortimer Lord of this City: And there making a formal, but lying Declaration to the Mayor, departed back again to Southwark.

Perhaps

PERHAPS this Stone may be of greater Antiquity than the Times of the Romans, and was an Object, or Monument, of Heathen Worſhip: If any be moved ſo to think, from what an exquiſite Britiſh Antiquarian aſſerts, that the Britons erected Stones for religious Worſhip, and that the Druids had Pillars of Stone in Veneration. Which Cuſtom, he ſaith, they borrowed from the Greeks, who, as Pauſanias writeth, adored rude and unpoliſhed Stones.

DOWN Weſt from London Stone is Wallbrook Corner, where was a Conduit, new built in the Year 1568, at the City's Charge; but not rebuilt after the Fire of LONDON. From whence runneth up North to Stocks-market, a Street called Wallbrook, becauſe it ſtood on the Eaſt Side of a Brook by the Bank thereof: And the whole Ward taketh its Name from this Street.

THIS City, of old Time, from North to South, was not divided by a large Highway, or Street, as from Eaſt to Weſt, but by a Brook of Water which came from out the North Fields, through the Wall and Midſt of the City into the River Thames. This Water was called Wallbrook (not Gallus Brook, from a Roman Captain ſlain by Aſclepiadotus, and thrown therein, as ſome have fabled, but) from running through and from the Wall of the City.

THE Courſe whereof, (to proſecute it particularly) was and is from the ſaid Wall to St. Margaret's Church in Lothbury; from thence, beneath the lower Part of the Grocers Hall, about the Eaſt Part of their Kitchen, under St. Mildred's Church, ſomewhat Weſt from the ſaid Stocks-market: From thence through Bucklersbury, by one great Houſe built of Stone and Timber, called the Old Barge, becauſe Barges out of the River Thames were rowed up ſo far into this Brook, on the back Side of the Houſes in Wallbrook-ſtreet, (which Street taketh Name of the ſaid Brook) by the Weſt End of St. John's Church upon Wallbrook, under Horſhoe-bridge, by the Weſt Side of Tallow-Chandlers Hall, and of the Skinners Hall, and ſo behind the other Houſes to Elbow-lane, and by a Part thereof, down Greenwich-lane into the River Thames.

THIS is the Courſe of Wallbrook, which was (of old Time) bridged over in divers Places, for Paſſage of Horſes and Men, as need required: But ſince, by means of Encroachment on the Banks thereof, the Channel being greatly ſtraightned, and other Annoyances done thereunto; at length the ſame (by common Conſent) was arched over with Brick, and paved with Stone, equal with the Ground where-through it paſſed, and is now in moſt Places built upon, that no Man may by the Eye diſcern it. And therefore the Trace thereof is hardly known to the common People.

ON the Eaſt Side of Wallbrook, and at the North Corner thereof, is Stocks-market, which had this Beginning:

Stocks-market. ABOUT the Year of CHRIST, 1282, Henry Wallis, Mayor, cauſed divers Houſes in this City to be built towards the Maintenance of London-bridge; namely, one void Place unto the Pariſh-Church called Woolchurch, on the North Side thereof, where ſome Time (the Way being very large and broad) had ſtood a Pair of Stocks, for Puniſhment of Offenders. This Building took Name from thoſe Stocks, and was appointed (by him) to be a Market-place for Fiſh and Fleſh in the midſt of the City. Other Houſes were built in other Places, as by Patent of Edward the Firſt doth appear, dated the Tenth of his Reign.

THIS Stocks-market was ſome Time belonging to the Keepers of the Bridge of LONDON, and they let the Shops for Term of their Lives to the Butchers and Fiſhmongers, at certain Rents which were appropriated for the Uſe of the ſaid Bridge. But afterwards it was concluded, that no Keeper of the ſaid Bridge ſhould let the ſaid Shops for Life, without the Concurrence of the Mayor and Commonalty, as appears by this Record:

JOHN de Giſors being Mayor [about the Year 1312 or 1313] there was a Congregation of honeſt Men of the Commonalty met, to treat concerning the State of the Butchers and Fiſhmongers holding Places at the Stocks. And it was agreed by the whole Commonalty, that all they who took their Places by the Demiſe of John le Bevere, and of other ſix honeſt Men, to whom Henry le Galeys, heretofore Mayor, and the whole Commonalty, granted and demiſed the ſame Places, viz. That whole Houſe which is called the Stocks, for the Term of the Life of the ſaid John le Bevere, and his Companions, for a certain Sum of Money, which they render'd yearly to London-bridge, that they may enjoy the ſame. And the ſame John and the others may demiſe thoſe Places to the Butchers and Fiſhmongers, according to what was indented in a certain Writing between the ſaid Henry, the Mayor and the Commonalty, on the one Part, and the ſaid John &c. on the other, and enrolled in the Huſtings. And it was likewiſe agreed, that other Butchers who have ſince taken Places by the Demiſe of other Keepers of the Bridge, and have paid certain Sums, to have for the Term of their Lives, and can ſhew it, may have and hold them. And that for the future, thoſe Places which are not held in the aforeſaid Market, be taken into the Hands of the Commonalty, and be demiſed by the Keepers of the Bridge, who are now Tenants yearly [the Bridge-Keepers being from that Time yearly choſen.] And it is agreed, that no ſuch Keepers for the Time to come, have Power of letting any Places for Term of Life, without the Aſſent and Will of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty.

AFTER this, in the Year 1322, the 17th of Edw. II. a Decree was made by Hamond Chickwell, Mayor, that none ſhould ſell Fiſh or Fleſh out of the Markets appointed, to wit, Bridge-ſtreet, Eaſtcheap, Old Fiſh-ſtreet, St. Nicholas Shambles, and the ſaid Stocks, on Pain to forfeit ſuch Fiſh or Fleſh as were ſold, for the firſt Time; and the ſecond Time to loſe their Freedoms. Which Act was made by Commandment of the King, under his Letters Patents, dated at the Tower the 17th of his Reign: And then was this Stocks let to Farm for 46*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* by Year. This Stocks-market was again begun to be built in the Year 1410, in the 11th of Henry IV. and was finiſhed in the Year next following. In the Year 1507 the ſame was rented at 56*l.* 19*s.* 10*d.* And in the Year 1543, John Cotes being Mayor, there were in this Stocks-market, for Fiſhmongers, twenty five Boards or Stalls, rented yearly at 34*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* There were, for Butchers, eighteen Boards or Stalls, rented at 40*l.* 16*s.* 4*d*; and there were alſo Chambers above (ſixteen) rented at 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* in all 82*l.* 3*s.*

BY the Stocks was a Stone Conduit ſet up by the Inhabitants, where before was only a Pipe of Lead, as appears by an Act of Common Council, viz.

AT a Common Council held on Tueſday November the 27th, 1 Hen. VIII. this Petition was preferred and granted.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, and his Brethren the Aldermen, and to the diſcreet Perſons of the Common-Council of this City of LONDON.

BESEECHING your good Lordſhip and Maſterſhips, the Inhabitants dwelling about the Stocks, that by the Space of five or ſix Years paſt, a Vent of Water hath run by a Pipe of Lead beſide the Stocks; which Pipe of Lead, by reaſon that it is not cloſed, is daily hurt with Horſes and Carts: It may therefore pleaſe your good Lordſhips and Maſterſhips, and all our Maſters of the Common-Council, to grant and give Licence unto the ſaid Inhabitants, upon their own proper Coſts and Charges, to make, or cauſe to be made, a little Poſtern of Stone, with a Ciſtern of Lead therein: So that the ſaid Water ſhall be therein preſerved and conveyed; and ſo to be drawn out by Cocks, to the common Weal of all the ſaid Inhabitants thereabout dwelling. Thus at the Reverence of GOD, and in the Way of Charity.

NEXT to this Stocks was the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Woolchurch, ſo called, as before mentioned, from a Beam placed in the Church-yard to weigh Wool.

THIS Church was handſome and large, and rebuilt by Licence granted in the 20th of Henry VI, with Condition to be built fifteen Feet from the Stocks Market, for ſparing of Light to the ſame. The Parſon of this Church is to have four Marks the Year, for Tithe of the Stocks, paid him by the Maſters of the Bridge-houſe, by a ſpecial Decree made the 2d of Henry VII.

IT was richly repaired and beautified, at the Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord 1629.

A handſome Skreen, at the Middle Weſt Door of this Church, was the Gift of Captain Edward Dichfield, at the Time of his going out of his Office of Church-warden, in the Year 1620.

IN this Pariſh ſtood two Meſſuages and Tenements, in the ſeveral Tenures of William Franklyn and Fabian Withers, given for the Maintenance of one Prieſt, and an Anniverſary in the ſaid Church; which coming unto King Edward VI. by the Act that diſſolved Chantries, he ſold them, being the yearly Value of 8 l. to Alice Withers, Widow, in the 3d of his Reign, for 44 l.

William Bothe of LONDON, Grocer, made his Will June 12, 1434, to be buried in this Church, and bequeathed, Verſus Fabricam Corporis ejuſd. Eccleſ. de Maria de Woolchurche, ita ut Parochiani ejuſd. habeant Animam meam in eorum precib. ſpecialiter recommendat. 40 Mar. Sterlin.

GIFTS.

OF the Gifts and Legacies belonging to this Pariſh, the Church-wardens in the Parochial Viſitation, Anno 1693, brought in no other Account, but that they were too long to be inſerted in their Preſentment; and that a View might be had of them in their Pariſh Books.

AND they believed there was a Parſonage-Houſe there formerly, before the ſame was burnt down. It appeared by the Viſitation Book, Anno 1636, that the Glebe amounted to 22 l. 13 s. 4 d. But in the Year 1693, and the Years thereabouts, the Incumbent received but 16 l. 12 s. 4 d.

FROM Stock's-market Eaſt up into Lombard-ſtreet is Bearbinder-lane; then down lower in the Street called Wallbrook, is

The PARISH of St. STEPHEN WALLBROOK.

The Pariſh of St. Stephen Wallbrook.

ST. Stephen, to whom this Church is dedicated, was one of the ſeven Deacons ordained by the twelve Apoſtles, to take Care of the Publick Stock, and juſtly to diſtribute the ſame among the Widows and Poor, leaving the Exerciſe of Prayer, and the Miniſtry of the Word, to the Apoſtles.

HE was the firſt of the ſeven that were choſen, and was a Man that was full of Faith, and of the HOLY GHOST; did great Wonders and Miracles among the People, and with great Wiſdom confuted the erroneous Opinions among the Jews concerning the Meſſias; whoſe Wiſdom and Spirit they being not able to reſiſt, they ſuborned falſe Witneſſes, who depoſed, That he ſpake Blaſphemy againſt the Temple and the Law, ſaying, That JESUS of Nazareth ſhould deſtroy that Place, and change the Cuſtoms that Moſes delivered them; and being brought before the Council to anſwer the Accuſation, the High Prieſt gave him Leave to anſwer for himſelf, which he did with great Boldneſs and Courage, upbraided them as ſtiff-necked and uncircumciſed in Heart and Ears, always reſiſting the HOLY GHOST, as their Fathers did; and how their Fathers perſecuted and ſlew the Prophets, which ſhewed before of the Coming of the Juſt One, of whom they have now been the Betrayers and Murtherers. Hereat the Jews being cut to the Heart, gnaſhed on him with their Teeth, and caſt him out of the City, and ſtoned him, calling upon GOD, and ſaying, Lord Jeſus receive my Spirit; and then Kneeling down, cried with a loud Voice, Lord, lay not this Sin to their Charge; and having ſo ſaid he fell aſleep (and died) and was buried by devout Men, making great Lamentation over him. Acts vi. 7, 8.

IN Commemoration of this Proto-martyr, St. Stephen, there were two Feſtivals inſtituted, the one of his Paſſion, the other of the Invention of his Body. That of his Paſſion is celebrated on the 26th Day of December, whereas he ſuffered on the third of Auguſt; and that of his Invention on the third of Auguſt, whereas the Invention of his Body was on the 26th of December. Theſe Feſtivals, at firſt, were celebrated on their proper Days, but afterwards were changed, the one into the Place of the other, in Reverence to the Nativity of our Saviour CHRIST; and for that his Paſſion was more highly eſteemed than his Invention. Therefore it was thought fit that his Paſſion ſhould be more ſolemnly celebrated next to CHRIST's Nativity, and his Invention changed to be celebrated on the 3d of Auguſt.

WHAT is farther written of this firſt Martyr, St. Stephen, may be ſeen in Dr. Cave's Lives of the Fathers.

Robert Chichly, Mayor in the Year 1428, the ſixth of Henry VI, gave to this Pariſh of St. Stephen, one Plat of Ground, containing 208 Feet and a half in Length, and ſixty ſix Feet in Breadth, thereupon to build their new Church, and for their Church-yard. And in the ſeventh of Henry VI, the ſaid Robert (one of the Founders) laid the firſt Stone for himſelf, the ſecond for William Stondon, Mayor, with whoſe Goods the Ground that the Church ſtandeth on, and the Houſing, with the Ground of the Church-yard, was bought by the ſaid Chichly for two hundred Marks from the Grocers, which had been let before for twenty ſix Marks the Year. Robert Whittingham, Draper, laid the third Stone; Henry Barton then Mayor, &c.

THE ſaid Chichly gave 100 l. more to the ſaid Work, and bore the Charges of all the Timber Work on the Proceſſion Way, and laid the Lead upon it of his own Coſt. He alſo gave all the Timber for the Roofing of the two Side Iſles, and paid for the Carriage thereof.

THIS Church was finiſhed in the Year 1439. The Breadth thereof was 67 Feet, and Length 125 Feet; the Church-yard 90 Feet in Length, and 37 in Breadth, and more. Robert Whittingham, (made Knight of the Bath) in the Year 1432, purchaſed the Patronage of this Church from John Duke of Bedford, Uncle to Henry VI, and Edward IV, in the ſecond of his Reign, and gave it to Richard Lee, then Mayor.

THIS old Church of St. Stephen Wallbrook was repaired and beautified in the Years 1622, 1623, 1626, and 1632: The whole Coſt amounting to 510 l. 15 s. 6 d.

IN this Church was a certain Anniverſary founded to be celebrated; and a Meſſuage, in the Occupation of one Thomas Wagham, given for the Maintaining thereof. Which coming into Kiny Edward the VIth's Hands, it was granted in the third of his Reign to John How and John Broxholm.

AT this Church of St. Stephen Wallbrook Dr. Feckenham, Dean of St. Paul's, and other Popiſh Prieſts of the beſt Eloquence, in the Beginning of Queen Mary's Reign, frequently preached up here their Papal Doctrines to the Citizens: And of this Church a remarkable Man was now Incumbent, namely, Dr. Pendleton the Turncoat, who forſook the Religion when Queen Mary came to the Crown, which he earneſtly profeſſed in King Edward's Days, notwithſtanding his Proteſtations to the contrary.

AT a Houſe within this Pariſh Dr. Story, and other Commiſſioners of Queen Mary, for Matters of Religion, came one Day to Dinner, and ſent for Citizens charged with Hereſy and Treaſon.

THIS Church, being burnt in the Fire of LONDON, was rebuilt Anno 1676, at the publick Charge, except the Wainſcotting, which was done by the Grocers Company.

THIS Building is looked upon as the Maſterpiece of the great Sir Chriſtopher Wren; it is a moſt exquiſite Piece of Architecture, admired by every one who ſees it, of any Taſte, and talked of all over Europe; nay, one Author ſays, very juſtly, perhaps Italy itſelf can produce no modern Building that can vie with this in Taſte and Proportion. There is not a Beauty, which the Plan would admit of, that is not to be found here in its greateſt Perfection; and Foreigners call our Judgment in Queſtion, for underſtanding its Graces no better, and allowing it no higher a Degree of Fame.

THE Building is in this Manner: The Walls and Tower are Stone; Roof within, over the Middle Iſle, is arched; in the Center of which is a Cua Cupola, and a Lanthorn in the Middle of that; and over the reſt of the Church the Roof is flat, all covered with Lead, and ſupported by Columns and Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order; here are three Iſles, and a croſs Iſle paved with Stone; that of the Church and Chancel lying level, to which you aſcend 15 Steps from the Street.

THE Roof and Cupola are adorned with an Entablature and Arches; alſo with Enrichments of Shields, Palm-Branches and Roſes, of Fret-work, and Pannels of Crocket-work. The Walls are wainſcotted 10 Feet high, having Enrichments of the Grocers Arms within an handſome Compartment of Palm-Branches, &c. at the North End of the croſs Iſle is a Door-caſe, finely enriched with various Kinds of Fruit and Leaves; at the North Eaſt Angle is another, and at the Weſt End a third, very magnificent and ornamental, adorned with two Columns, Entablature and Pediment of the Corinthian Order, enriched with Cherubims, Feſtoons, and Arms of Chichly, all of right Wainſcot, of which Species of Timber is alſo the Altar-piece, which is adorned with two Columns, their Architrave, Friſe, and Cornice of the aforeſaid Order; on the Cornice are the King's Arms, with Supporters carved, gilt and painted between two Lamps, ſtanding one at each End of the Pediment; the Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold on Black (between the Portraitures of Moſes and Aaron) and under a Cherubim, and theſe under a Glory; without the Columns, are the Creed and Lord's Prayer done in Black on Gold, each under the Figure of a Dove deſcending, above which are two Shields, with Compartment, and Feſtoons, with other Enrichments to the whole, of Fruit, Leaves, &c. gilt with Gold; and on the Northerly Shield, are the Arms, Or a Chevron between three Cinquefoils Gules, intended, perhaps, for Chichley. The Communion-Table, which is a Semicircle finely finnier'd, and its Frame carved, is placed on a Foot-pace of Black and White Marble, incloſed with a circular Rail and Balliſter, which are two Steps (of Black Marble) higher than the Chancel: The Pulpit is alſo finely carved and finnier'd, and has Enrichments of Cherubims, Cupids, Feſtoons, and a Lamp. Here is alſo a White Marble Font, whoſe Type is curiouſly carved.

THE Dimenſions of this Church are, Length 75 Feet, Breadth 36, Altitude of the Middle Roof 34 Feet; of the Cupola and Lanthorn 58 Feet; and of the Tower to the Top of the Rail and Balliſter, about 70 Feet.

GIFTS.

HOW it was with this Pariſh as to its charitable Endowments, may appear hence: That it hath an Income of about 100 l. per Annum, employed in repairing and adorning the Church, and towards the building an Houſe for the Miniſter. And the Remainder goeth to the Relief of the Poor: But by whom, and to what Uſes originally given, is unknown.

A Legacy was left in Truſt to the Pariſh by one Dickenſon, for charitable Uſes, to the Value of 20 l. per Annum.

HERE alſo was a Parſonage-Houſe before the great Fire; but burnt down and rebuilt by Jerome Rawſtorne, upon a Leaſe of 40 Years, commencing 1674, Ground Rent 17 l. There is kept a Map, or Survey of the Dimenſions of the Ground.

TO this Pariſh, after the Fire of LONDON, was united that of St. Bennet Sherehog, the old Church belonging to which having ſtood in Cheap Ward, is there taken Notice of.

THIS Living is a Rectory in the Gift of the Grocers Company. The Value of the united Pariſhes, by Act of Parliament, is 100 l. per An. St. Stephen's is rated in the King's Books at 17 l. 13 s. 4 d. and St. Bennet's at 8 l. 13 s. 4 d.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

NUMBER of Houſes 76.

A Boy named Robert Fitz-Paine, 20 Hen. III. fell from an Horſe in Wallbrook-ſtreet by a Fright which Rob. de Donſtable put the Horſe into, on which the ſaid Robert rode; and within a Month after he died. For this the ſaid Robert appeared at the Tower before the King's Juſtices that then ſat there upon the Pleas of the Crown, and was not ſuſpected to intend the Death of the other. Yet becauſe he affrighted the Horſe fooliſhly and ignorantly, it was judged an Accident; but he was committed to Jail for his Folly.

LOWER down from this Pariſh-Church are divers Houſes, namely one, wherein Sir Richard Baker, a Knight of Kent, was lodged, and one wherein dwelled Mr. Thomas Gore, a Merchant, famous for Hoſpitality.

ON the Weſt Side of this Wallbrook-ſtreet; over-againſt the Stocks-market, is a Part of the High Street, called the Poultrey; on the South Weſt Side, till over againſt St. Mildred's Church, and the Scaldingwike, is of this Ward.

THEN down again Wallbrook-ſtreet, ſome ſmall Diſtance, is Bucklersbury, a Street ſo called from Buckle, that ſome Time was Owner thereof; Part of which Street on both Sides, three or four Houſes, to the Courſe of the Brook, is of this Ward; and ſo down Wallbrook-ſtreet to the South Corner: From whence Weſt, down Budge-row, a ſmall Diſtance to an Alley, and thro' that Alley South, by the Weſt End thereof, St. John's Church upon Wallbrook ſtood; by the South Side and Eaſt End of the ſame again to Wallbrook Corner, the Pariſh of St. John Upon Wallbrook, or St. John Baptiſt.

THIS Pariſh is united, ſince the Fire, to St. Antholin's, in Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward, where more will be ſaid of it; but as to the Church, it was called St. John Upon Wallbrook, becauſe the Weſt End thereof was on the very Bank of Wallbrook, by Horſhoe-bridge, a Bridge over the Brook in Horſe-bridge-lane.

THIS Church was new built in the Year 1621, but had no Monuments, of any Account, in it, except theſe, for William Combarton, Skinner, who gave Lands to that Church, and was bury'd 1410.

John Stone, Taylor, one of the Sheriffs 1466, was likewiſe buried there.

THIS Church, burnt down by the great Fire, was not rebuilt, but remains now a Burying-place.

NO Parſonage-Houſe, or Sight of a Parſonage-Houſe; nor any Garden belonging to the Parſon, as it was given in at the Parochial Viſitation 1693; yet in the Viſitation, 1636, there was a Parſonage-Houſe.

AND now we proceed to the modern State of this Ward:

Suffolk-ſtreet, the Weſt Side, at the North End, for about 85 Feet downwards.

Green-lettice-lane, only the Weſt Side.

Abchurch-lane, the Weſt Side, as far as the Church.

IN all theſe Streets and Lanes are ſeveral Courts and Places of Name which ſhall be taken Notice of in the reſpective Places; of which in Order.

Wallbrook. This Street of Wallbrook is well built, and inhabited by Merchants, and by Tradeſmen, eſpecially Furriers, for which it is of Note. On the Eaſt Side is Bond-court, which is large and open, the Turning at the upper End having good Houſes, and Free-ſtone Pavement; and that Entrance into this Court is broad enough for a Coach, or a Cart. On the Weſt Side is Bell-Inn, which is but indifferent.

St. Stephen's Wallbrook Church, ſeated on the Eaſt Side, and on the South Side of Stocks-market.

UP further North is Stocks-market: As to the preſent State of which, it is converted to a quite contrary Uſe: For, inſtead of Fleſh and Fiſh ſold there before the Fire, are now ſold Fruits, Roots, and Herbs; for which it is very conſiderable, and much reſorted to, being of Note for having the choiceſt in their Kind of all Sorts.

THIS Market is a large Tract of Ground, taking up not only all that which was the antient Fleſh and Fiſh-markets, but alſo the Ground on which Woolchurch ſtood, and contains from North to South in Length, thro' the Midſt, about 230 Feet; and in Breadth, from Eaſt to Weſt in the Midſt, about 108 Feet, beſide the waſte Ground on the Eaſt and Weſt Sides, which ſerve as a Street for Paſſage of People. On the Eaſt Side were planted Rows of Trees, very pleaſant to the Inhabitants, this Side being much better than the Weſt. About the Middle of this Row is an Entrance into a Court, in which is a good large Houſe, within the Bounds of this Market-Place; and more towards the North Side, are twenty two Standing Stalls, covered over, for Shelter of Fruit there ſold, as well on Market-Days as at other Times. The reſt of the Market-Place is taken up by Gardeners and others, for the Sale of Fruits, Roots, Herbs, and Flowers: But at the South Weſt Corner there are two Ranges of Stalls for a few Butchers, under a Shelter, with Racks, Blocks, Scales, &c.

The Statue of K. Charles II.

AT the North End of this Market-place, by a Water-Conduit-Pipe, is erected the Statue of King Charles II, which was done at the ſole Charge of Sir Robert Viner, Alderman, Knight and Baronet; of this clumſey Piece of Sculpture, we beg Leave to give the following Account, from an ingenious Author we have before quoted. "It is impoſſible to quit this Place, ſaith he, "without taking Notice of the Equeſtrian Sta-"tue raiſed here in Honour of Charles II. A "Thing in itſelf ſo exceedingly ridiculous and "abſurd, that 'tis not in one's Power to look "upon it without reflecting on the Taſtes of "thoſe who ſet it up: But, when we enquire into "the Hiſtory of it, the Farce improves upon our "Hands, and, what was before contemptible, "grows entertaining. This Statue was original-"ly made for John Sobieski, King of Poland, "but, by ſome Accident, was left upon the "Workman's Hands: About the ſame Time "the City was Loyal enough to pay their De-"voirs to King Charles, immediately upon his "Reſtoration; and, finding this Statue ready made "to their Hands, reſolved to do it the cheapeſt "Way, and convert the Polander into a Bri-"ton; and the Turk underneath his Horſe, into "Oliver Cromwell, to make their Compliment "compleat. In this very Manner it appears at "preſent, and the Turbant upon the laſt men-"tioned Figure is yet an undeniable Proof of "the Truth of the Story.

OUT of Stocks-Market is an Entrance into Lombard-ſtreet, which is but narrow, until it is paſt Pope's-head-alley, and then it widens and makes a good handſome Street, being alſo graced with lofty and good Buildings; for the generality taken up by Goldſmiths: But there is but little of the Street in this Ward, except towards this End, the reſt being in Langborn Ward, is there treated of.

Bearbinder-lane, a Place of no great Account as to Trade; it comes out of Stocks-Market, and falls into St. Swithen's-lane; Part is in Langborn Ward.

St. Swithen's-lane, well inhabited by Merchants and others. This Lane comes out of Lombard-ſtreet by St. Mary Woolnoth Church, and paſſing by Dove-court and Bearbinder-lane, (both which have ſome ſmall Part in this Ward, but the greateſt in Langborn Ward, have been there mentioned) and falls into Cannon-ſtreet by St. Swithen's Church. In this Lane are the following Places;

Brite's-alley, formerly called Horſeſhoe-alley, is both narrow and ſmall, having but one Houſe with a Paſſage into Sherborn-lane.

New-court, a very handſome large Place, with an open Paſſage into it for Coach or Cart: Here are very good Buildings, with Inhabitants anſwerable; and at the upper End is a very good large Houſe, incloſed from the reſt by a handſome Pale.

Salters-hall, a large Building ſeated in a good Court, with a Free-ſtone Pavement and well built Houſes: Adjoining to the ſaid Hall, is a large Presbyterian Meeting-houſe, handſomely fitted within, as to the Pews, &c. Out of this Court is a Paſſage into the Back-ſide of St. Swithen's Church, which falls into Cannon-ſtreet. In this Paſſage is Whiſtler's-court, which is pretty large, well built and inhabited, having a Free-ſtone Pavement.

MORE towards Cannon-ſtreet, is Oxford-court, which is pretty large and open, eſpecially the upper End, where are good Houſes. And in this Place antiently ſtood the Houſe of the Prior of Tortington in Suſſex, which afterwards fell to the Earls of Oxford, and, in proceſs of Time, from one to another, at length it was converted into Buildings, as now it is, and yet retains the Name of Oxford-court.

Sherborn-lane begins at the Corner of Swithen's-lane, by the Sign of the Cock againſt the back Gate of the Poſt-Office, and with a turning Paſſage by St. Mary Abchurch, falls into Cannon-ſtreet.

Cannon-ſtreet begins in the Weſt by the Corner of Dowgate-hill on the South, and Wallbrook on the North, and runs Eaſtwards into Great Eaſtcheap, a Street well built, and inhabited by good Tradeſmen, and is a great Thoroughfare; but the Part in this Ward goeth but to Green Lettice-lane, which hath the Weſt Side in this Ward, the Eaſt being in Candlewick Ward, where it is ſpoken of. In this Street is St. Swithen's Church, ſeated on the Weſt Side, and at the South Eaſt Corner of St. Swithen's-lane. It is in the Dioceſe of LONDON; the Prior of Tortington was Patron. It was deſtroyed in the Fire of LONDON, is rebuilt in a very handſome Manner of Free-ſtone, with a ſpired Steeple leaded, and hath a very fine Dial hanging over into the Street; and to this Church is united the Pariſh of St. Mary Bothaw; the Church whereof was burnt down and not rebuilt.

OVER againſt St. Swithen's Church is the famous old Stone called London Stone.

THIS Stone, before the Fire of LONDON, was much worn away, and, as it were, but a Stump remaining: But it is now, for the Preſervation of it, caſed over with a new Stone, handſomely wrought, cut hollow underneath, ſo as the old Stone may be ſeen, the new one being over it, to ſhelter and defend the old one.

ON the South Side of this Street, and almoſt againſt St. Swithen's Church, is Turn-wheel-lane, which runs up to Downgate-hill, being a Place well inhabited.

THE Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Bothaw ſtood in theſe Parts, burnt in the great Fire, not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to St. Swithen's, as was ſaid before.

Bucklersbury falls into Wallbrook, almoſt againſt St. Stephen's Wallbrook Church. It is a Place well built and inhabited: But in this Ward there is no great Part, the moſt being in Cordwainers Ward, where it will be taken Notice of.

NEAR this Street more Southward, ſtood the Church of St. John Baptiſt, which being deſtroyed by the Fire, is now encloſed for a Churchyard, and the Pariſh united to St. Antholin's.

In this Ward theſe following Lanes have ſome ſmall Part, the greateſt Part lying in other Wards, namely, Budge-row, and Cloak-lane, in Vintry Ward; Buſh-lane, and Suffolk-ſtreet, in Downgate Ward; and Green Lettice-lane, in Langborn Ward.

There are to Watch at the ſeveral Places, or Stands, in this Ward, every Night, one Conſtable, a Beadle, and twenty Watchmen.

The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts holden at Guildhall, in the Month of October.

This Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy; eight Common-Council-Men; nine Conſtables; ſix Scavengers; thirteen Wardmote Inqueſt Men, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON at 33 l. 5 s.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir John Taſh.

CHAP. XIII.

Downgate, or Dowgate, Ward, begins at the South End of Wallbrook Ward, over-againſt where the Eaſt End of St. John's Church upon Wallbrook ſtood, and deſcends on both Sides to where Downgate ſtood on the Thames, and is ſo called, from that Down-going, or deſcending, which there is to it; and from this Downgate the Ward took its Name. This Ward turneth into Thames-ſtreet Weſtward, about ten Houſes on a Side, to the Courſe of Wallbrook; but Eaſt in Thames-ſtreet (on both Sides) to Ebgate-lane, or Old-Swan; and over-againſt Ebgate, the Land Side hath many Lanes turning up, as ſhall be ſhewed.

But firſt to begin with the High Street, called Dowgate: At the upper End thereof was a handſome Conduit of Thames Water, caſtellated, and made in the Year 1568, at the Charge of the Citizens, and was called, The Conduit upon Downgate.

Tallow-Chandlers-hall

On the Weſt Side of this Street is the Tallow-Chandlers Hall, a large handſome Building, with Piazza's adorned with Columns and Arches of the Tuſcan Order.

Skinners-hall.

Somewhat lower ſtands the Skinners Hall, a noble Structure built with fine Brick, and richly finiſhed, the Hall with right Wainſcot, and the great Parlour with odoriferous Cedar. It is ſaid to have coſt 18000 l. Building. This Hall was called Copped Hall by Downgate, in the Pariſh of St. John upon Wallbrook. In the 19th Year of Edward II, Ralph Cobham poſſeſſed it, with five Shops, &c.

This Company of Skinners in LONDON, was incorporated by Edward III, in the firſt of his Reign: They had two Brotherhoods of Corpus Chriſti, viz. one at St. Mary Spittle, the other at St. Mary Bethlem, without Biſhopſgate. Richard II, in the 18th of his Reign, granted them to make their two Brotherhoods one, by the Name of the Fraternity of Corpus Chriſti of Skinners. Divers Royal Perſons were named to be Founders and Brethren of this Fraternity; to wit, ſix Kings, nine Dukes, two Earls, and one Lord. Kings, Edward III, Richard II, Henry IV, Henry V, Henry VI, and Edward IV.

This Fraternity had alſo once every Year, on Corpus Chriſti Day, after Noon, a Proceſſion, which paſſed through the principal Streets of the City; wherein was borne more than one hundred lighted Torches of Wax (coſtly garniſhed) and above two hundred Clerks and Prieſts, in Surplices and Copes, ſinging. After which was the Sheriffs Servants, the Clerks of the Compters, Chaplains for the Sheriffs, the Mayor's Serjeants, the Counſel of the City, the Mayor and Aldermen in Scarlet, and then the Skinners in their beſt Liveries.

Then lower down, there was a College of Prieſts called Jeſus Commons, a Houſe well furniſhed with Braſs, Pewter, Napery, Plate, &c. beſides a large Library well ſtored with Books. All which, of old Time, were given to a Number of Prieſts that ſhould keep Commons there; and as one left this Place (by Death, or otherwiſe) another ſhould be admitted into his room. But this Order being diſcontinued, the ſaid Houſe was diſſolved and turned to Tenements.

Down lower is Elbow-lane, and at the Corner thereof was one great Stone Houſe, called Old Hall: It is now taken down, and divers Houſes of Timber placed there. This was ſome Time pertaining to William de pont le Arch, and by him given to the Priory of St. Mary Overy in Southwark, in the Reign of Henry I. In this Elbow-lane is the Innholders Hall, and other good Houſes: This Lane runneth Weſt, and turneth South into Thames-ſtreet; and therefore (from that Bending) is called Elbow-lane. On the Eaſt Side of this Downgate-ſtreet was the great old Houſe called the Erbar, near to the Church of St. Mary Bothaw; Jefferey Scroope held it by the Gift of Edward III, in the fourteenth of his Reign. It belonged ſince to John Nevell, Lord of Raby, then to Richard Nevell, Earl of Warwick; Nevell, Earl of Salisbury, was lodged there, 1457. Then it came to George Duke of Clarence, and his Heirs Males, by the Gift of Edward IV, in the fourteenth of his Reign. Innholders-hall.

But to give a fuller (and that an authentic) Account of this antient Royal Meſſuage. The higheſt that Stow could go was, that Edward III, gave it to one of the honourable Family of the Scroopes. The laſt Poſſeſſor of that Name was William le Scroope, Knight, who lived in the Reign of Henry IV: He gave it for Term of Life to his Brother Ralph Earl of Weſtmoreland, who married Joan, Daughter of the Duke of Lancaſter, who was his ſecond Wife; from whom deſcended Richard Earl of Warwick, who poſſeſſed that Houſe; and being ſlain at Barnet Field, after his Death, this was given to George Duke of Clarence, who married Iſabel, Daughter of the ſaid Earl of Warwick, by Parliament, and to his Heirs, ſo long as there was Iſſue Male of the Marquis Montacute's Body living. And if it chanced the ſaid Iſſue Male to die, during the Life of the ſaid Duke, then the ſaid Duke to remain ſeized for Term of Life, ſaving the Right to all others, then then the Marquis and his Iſſue. Ralph Nevell Earl of Weſtmoreland, died ſeized thereof the 4th of Henry VI; Joan his Wife the 19th; Richard Earl of Sarum (Son to the ſaid Earl, of Dame Joan) the 38th Year of the ſame King; and Richard Earl of Warwick (Son of the ſaid Richard Earl of Sarum) the 10th of Edward IV; and George Duke of Clarence the 18th of the ſame King. After his Death, Edward his Son was ſeized of it. After, George Duke of Bedford (Son of John Nevell, Marquis Montacute, Son of Richard Earl of Sarum aforeſaid) died without Iſſue Male, 1 Edward V, the Lands remaining in the Hands of Edward, Son to the Duke of Clarence, till 15 Henry VII, at which Time he was attainted. And ſo the Lands came to the Crown, and there remained till 3 Henry VIII, at which Time he gave it to John Earl of Oxford, and the Heirs Male of his Body. And Anno 4to, the King gave the Reverſion to Sir Thomas Bulleyn, Knight, and the Heirs Male of his Body. Anno 5to. he reſtored, by his Letters Patents, Margaret, Daughter and Heir to George Duke of Clarence, and to all the Lands of Richard Earl of Sarum, who by Colour of Reſtitution entered, and was attainted 31 Henry VIII; ſo the Lands came back to the Crown, and was given the 32d of the ſame King, to Sir Philip Hoby, who the 36th ſold it to one Doulphin a Draper, who Anno 1 Mariæ, ſold it to the Company of Drapers.

BUT notwithſtanding this Account, by ſome Lawyers and Hiſtorians in thoſe Days, it appears by the Rolls Anno 6 Henry IV, that there was a Surrender of this Meſſuage of the Erbar from Ralph Earl of Weſtmoreland to the King, for the Uſe of John Darrel, and Walter de Arkham. And Richard III, poſſeſs'd this Erbar, called then, The King's Palace. And one Ralph Dowel, one of the Yeomen of the Crown, was Keeper of this Place to the ſaid King Richard, who made divers Reparations, as well upon the ſaid Place, as other Houſes thereunto belonging; particularly a Brewhouſe called the Chequer, belonging to the ſame, as appeareth by a Ledger-Book of that King's, wherein the Accompts of the ſaid Ralph are ſaid to be examined by John Hewyk one of the King's Auditors: And that Orders were given to Lethington, Bailiff of the Lordſhip of Clavering in Eſſex, to content him, 14*l.* 18*s.* 3*d. ob.* remaining behind in Arrears due to him for the ſaid Reparations.

BUT it was built by Sir Thomas Pulliſon, Mayor, and was afterwards inhabited by Sir Fr. Drake, that famous Warrior and Navigator.

NEXT to this great Houſe, is a Lane turning to Buſh-lane (of old Time called Carter-lane from Carts and Carmen having Stables there) and now called Chequer-lane, or Chequer-alley, from an Inn called the Chequer.

Joiners Hall.

IN Thames-ſtreet, on the Thames Side Weſt from Dowgate, is Greenwich-lane, of old Time ſo called, and now Friar-lane, from ſuch a Sign there ſet up. In this Lane is the Joiners Hall, which is remarkable for a curious and magnificent Screen at the Entrance into it, having Demy Savages and other Enrichments well carved in right Wainſcot, and the great Parlour is wainſcotted with Cedar.

THEN is Grantham-lane, ſo called from John Grantham, ſome Time Mayor and Owner thereof, whoſe Houſe was very large and ſtrong, built of Stone. Ralph Dodmer, firſt a Brewer, then a Mercer, Mayor 1529, dwelt there, and kept his Mayoralty in that Houſe: It is now a Brewhouſe, as it was before.

THEN was Downgate, which is ſpoken of in another Place. Eaſt from this Place is Coſin-lane, named from one William Coſin that dwelt there, in the 4th of Richard II, as divers his Predeceſſors, Father, Grandfather, &c. had done before him. William Coſin dwelling there, was one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1306, the 34th of Edward I. That Houſe ſtood at the South End of the Lane, having an old and artificial Conveyance of Thames Water into it, and was a Dye-houſe, called Lombard's Meſſuage. Adjoining to that Houſe was once erected an Engine to convey Thames Water to Downgate Conduit aforeſaid.

The Steelyard.

NEXT to this Lane on the Eaſt, is the Steel-houſe, or Steelyard (as they term it) a Place for Merchants of Almain, that uſed to bring hither, as well Wheat, Rye, and other Grain, as Cables, Ropes, Maſts, Pitch, Tar, Flax, Hemp, Linen Cloth, Wainſcots, Wax, Steel, and other profitable Merchandizes. Unto theſe Merchants, in the Year 1259, Henry III. in the 44th of his Reign, at the Requeſt of his Brother, Richard Earl of Cornwall, King of Almain, granted that all and ſingular the Merchants, having a Houſe in the City of LONDON, commonly called Guilda Aula Teutonicorum, ſhould be maintained and upholden through the whole Realm, by all ſuch Freedom, and free Uſages or Liberties, as by the King and in his noble Progenitors Time, they had, and enjoyed, &c. This Charter granted to the Teutonics, the King confirmed by this Letter directed to the Citizens of LONDON, in theſe Words:

Henricus Dei Gratia, &c.

" Henry, by the Grace of God, King of " England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Aquitain, " &c. To the Citizens of LONDON, to " whom theſe Preſents ſhall come, greeting: " Know ye that at the Inſtance of the moſt Se- " rene Prince of the Roman Empire, our Brother, " we have granted to theſe Merchants of Almain, " who have a Houſe in our City of LONDON, " which is called commonly Gyhall Teutonicorum, " that we will maintain them all and every one, " and preſerve them through our whole Kingdom, " in all their Liberties and free Cuſtoms, which " they have uſed in our Times, and in the Times " of our Progenitors, and will not withdraw ſuch " Liberties and free Cuſtoms from them, nor ſuf- " fer them to be at all withdrawn from, &c. " Witneſs myſelf at Weſtminſter the 15th of June, " in the 44th Year of our Reign.

Edward I. renewed and confirmed that Charter of Liberties granted by his Father. And in the 10th Year of the ſame Edward, Henry Wales being Mayor, a great Controverſy did ariſe between the ſaid Mayor and the Merchants of the Haunce of Almaine, about the Reparations of Biſhopſgate, then likely to fall; for that the ſaid Merchants enjoyed divers Privileges, in reſpect of maintaining the ſaid Gate, which they now denied to repair. For the appeaſing of which Controverſy, the King ſent his Writ to the Treaſurer, and Barons of his Exchequer, commanding that they ſhould make Inquiſition thereof: Before whom, the Merchants being called, when they were not able to diſcharge themſelves, ſince they enjoyed the Liberties to them granted for the ſame; a Precept was ſent to the Mayor and Sheriffs, to deſtrain the ſaid Merchants to make the Reparations, namely, Gerard Marbod, Alderman of the Haunce, Ralph de Cuſſarde, a Citizen of Colen, Ludero de Denevar, a Burgeſs of Trivon, John of Aras, a Burgeſs of Trivon, John de Dele, a Burgeſs of Munſter, then remaining in the ſaid City of LONDON, for themſelves and all other Merchants of the Haunce: And ſo they granted 210 Marks Sterling to the Mayor and Citizens, and undertook that they and their Succeſſors ſhould from Time to Time repair the ſaid Gate, Gate, and bear the third Part of the Charges in Money, and Men to defend it in Caſe of Need.

And for this Agreement, the ſaid Mayor and Citizens granted to the ſaid Merchants their Liberties, which they long enjoyed; as namely, amongſt the other Things, that they might lay up their Grain, which they brought into this Realm, in Inns, and ſell it in their Garners, within the Space of 40 Days after they had laid it up; except by the Mayor and Citizens they were expreſly forbidden, becauſe of Dearth, or other reaſonable Occaſions. Alſo they might have their Alderman, as they had been accuſtomed, provided always he were of the City, and preſented to the Mayor and Aldermen of the City, as often as any ſhould be choſen, and ſhould take the Oath before them to maintain Juſtice in their Courts, and to behave themſelves in their Office according to Law, and as it ſtood with the Cuſtoms of the City.

This whole Matter between the City and the Merchants of the Haunce is thus related in an authentic Book in the Chamber of LONDON, which is thus tranſlated from the Latin.

An Agreement between the Citizens of LONDON and the Teutonics, Anno 10. Edw. Son of King Henry. Henry le Galeis, Mayor of LONDON. Ann. 1282.

THEN by Reaſon of the Decay of a certain Gate of the ſaid City, which was called Biſhopſgate, a Contention aroſe between the ſaid Mayor and the Citizens of LONDON, on the one Part, and the Merchants of the Haunce of the Almains then abiding in the ſaid City; on the other, upon the Reparation of the ſaid Gate, which threatned Ruin. To the Building and Repair of which, the ſaid Merchants and others of the before-ſaid Haunce of the Parts of Almain reſorting to the ſame City, were obliged, for certain Liberties which the ſaid Merchants have in the ſaid City, and which they have long uſed, upon Account of ſuch Building and Repairing, as the ſame Mayor and Citizens aſſerted, &c. The ſaid Merchants denied it.

In the mean Time, the Contention depending, the King, at the Suggeſtion of the ſaid Mayor and Citizens, wrote to the Treaſurer and Barons of his Exchequer, that if they ſhould find the ſaid Merchants were bound to the Repair of the ſaid Gate, they ſhould diſtrain upon them. At length the Parties, coming before the ſaid Treaſurer and Barons, when nothing was propounded, on their Parts, which might excuſe them from the Reparation; eſpecially when it appeared concerning the Liberty which they had in the ſaid City; and for this Cauſe, it was commanded by the ſame Treaſurer and Barons, that the Mayor and Sheriffs ſhould diſtrain them to this Repair: The aforeſaid Merchants, viz. Gerard Marbod, Alderman of the ſaid Haunce, Ludulphus de Cuſſa of the City of Coln, Luderus de Linnenare, a Burgeſs of Trevir, Bertram of Hamburgh, Godeſchalc de Hudendale, Burgher of Trevir, John de Dole, Burgeſs of Munſter, then being in the ſame City; for themſelves and all other Merchants, and their Fellows of the Haunce aforeſaid, whoſoever and whenſoever reſorting thither for the future, for the Good of Peace, yielded and promiſed to the ſaid Mayor and Citizens of LONDON, to the Repair of the ſaid Gate for the preſent, 240 Marks Sterling to be paid: And that then their Succeſſors, Merchants of the Haunce, for all Time hereafter, will repair it, as often as there ſhall be need: And in Defence of the ſaid Gate, as often as there ſhall be need to keep it, ſhall bear the third Part of the Cuſtody thereof, at their Coſt, and Men above; and the Mayor and Citizens two Parts of the ſaid Cuſtody below: And in Conſideration of this Peace, Fine and Concord, the Mayor and Citizens have granted them their Liberties, which they have hitherto reaſonably uſed; to have to them and their Succeſſors, the Merchants of the Haunce for ever.

And moreover, for the aforeſaid Reparation and Cuſtody, that they be quit for ever of Murage, i. e. the Charge of repairing the City Walls as much as in them is; and that they may houſe and ſell their Corn, which ſhall be brought in by them to be ſold, in their Houſes and Granaries for 40 Days, for the Time of their aforeſaid Houſing; unleſs the ſaid Houſing be expreſly forbidden by the Lord the King, or the Mayor and Citizens, by Reaſon of the Dearth of Corn, or ſome other neceſſary Matter.

They granted alſo to them, that they might have their Alderman, as they had in former Times: Yet ſo, that that Alderman be of the Freedom of the ſaid City: And as often as he ſhall be choſen of the ſaid Merchants, he be preſented to the Mayor and Aldermen of the City, and take an Oath before them to do Right and Juſtice in all his Courts, and to behave himſelf in his Office, as he ought, and hath been accuſtomed, ſaving to the City its Right and Cuſtom.

And the ſaid Merchants promiſed, that they and their Succeſſors, as often as there ſhould be need, would be diſtrained for Reparation and Cuſtody of the ſaid Gate, to be performed in the Form aforeſaid by the ſame Merchants and Citizens. All theſe Things the Parties aforeſaid yielded and promiſed faithfully to keep: And for the greater Security to be made upon theſe Things by the Parties, together with the Seals appendant to this Writing between themſelves, have procured the Seal of the Illuſtrious Lord King of England to be hung to it, for perpetual Memory of the Matter aforeſaid, dated at LONDON in the Month of June the Year aboveſaid.

Thus much for their Privileges: Whereby it appeareth, that they were great Merchants of Corn, brought out of the Eaſt Parts hither, inſomuch, that the Occupiers of Husbandry in this Land were forced to complain of them, for bringing in ſuch Abundance, when the Corn of this Realm was at an eaſy Price. Whereupon it was ordained by Parliament, that no Perſon ſhould bring into any Part of this Realm, by Way of Merchandiſe, Wheat, Rye, or Barley, growing out of the ſaid Realm at any Time, when the Quarter of Wheat exceeded not the Price of 6*s.* 8*d.* Rye 4*s.* the Quarter, and Barley 3*s.* the Quarter, upon Forfeiture the one Half to the King, the other Half to the Seizers thereof. Theſe Merchants of the Haunce had their Guildhall in Thames-ſtreet, in Place aforeſaid, by the ſaid Coſin-lane. Their Hall was large, built of Stone, with three arched Gates towards the Street.

Afterwards, to wit, in the 6th of Richard II. they hired one Houſe next adjoining to their old Hall, which ſome Time belonged to Richard Lions, a famous Lapidary, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON in the 49th of Edward III. and in the 4th of Richard II. by the Rebels of Kent drawn out of that Houſe, and beheaded in Weſt Cheap. This alſo was a great Houſe, with a large Wharf on the Thames: And the Way thereunto was called Windgooſe, or Wildgooſe-lane, which is now called Windgooſe-alley, for that the ſame Alley is (for the moſt Part) built on by the Stilyard Merchants.

About the Time of King Henry IV, the Engliſh began to trade themſelves into the Eaſt Parts: At which the Eaſterlings, or Merchants of the Dutch Haunce, were ſo offended, that they took ſeveral of their Ships and Goods, and offered them ſeveral other Injuries: Which occaſioned ſioned great Complaints and Differences between the ſaid King Henry IV, and Conradus de Junigen, then Maſter-General of the Dutch Order in Pruſſia with the Haunce Town. And divers Embaſſies paſſed betwixt them on that Account. The Reſult of which in ſhort was this, That the ſaid King Henry IV, finding by the ſaid Privileges granted to Foreigners, his own Subjects, (to the great Prejudice of the Realm) very much crippled in their Trade, did revoke ſuch Parts of the Privileges of the aforeſaid Dutch Company, as were inconſiſtent with the Carrying on of a Trade by the Natives of this Realm: And for the better Encouragement of his own Subjects, did in the fifth Year of his Reign, grant his firſt Charter to the Merchants trading into the Eaſt Land: Containing many great Privileges and Immunities, as by the ſaid Charter may appear. Which had a good Effect for the bringing of the Trade much more into the Hands of the Natives of this Realm, than was before. King Edward IV, for their more ample Encouragement, did, in the ſecond Year of his Reign, grant another large Charter to the Merchants of England, eſpecially to thoſe reſiding in the Netherlands; with ſeveral additional Immunities and Privileges, as by the Charter at large may appear.

IN the firſt and ſecond of Philip and Mary, was granted to the Ruſſia Company. Afterwards confirmed by Act of Parliament in the eighth Year of Queen Elizabeth.

UNTIL whoſe Time, though the Trade of this Nation was carried on much more by the Natives thereof, than had been formerly, yet had the Society of the Dutch Haunce at the Steel-yard much the Advantage of them, by Means of their well regulated Societies, and the Privileges they enjoyed. Inſomuch that almoſt the whole Trade was driven by them to that Degree, that Queen Elizabeth herſelf, when ſhe came to have a War, was forced to buy the Hemp, Pitch, Tar, Powder, and other Naval Proviſions, which ſhe wanted, of Foreigners; and that too, at their Rates. Nor were there any Stores of either in the Land, to ſupply her Occaſions on a ſudden, but, what at great Rates, ſhe prevailed with them to fetch for her, even in Time of War: Her own Subjects being then but very little Traders.

TO remedy which, ſhe fell upon the Conſideration how ſhe might at Home have a well-grounded Dependence, to have thoſe neceſſary Commodities by her, that ſo ſhe might not want them, when ſhe moſt needed them: And after great Deliberation, no better Expedient could be found by the ſaid Queen and her Council, than by encouraging her own Subjects to be Merchants, which ſhe did by erecting out of them ſeveral Societies of Merchants; as that of the Eaſt Land Company, and other Companies. By which Means, and by cancelling many of the Privileges of the forementioned Dutch Haunce Society, the Trade in general, by Degrees, came to be managed by the Natives of this Realm. And conſequently, the Profit of all thoſe Trades accrued to the Engliſh Nation; Trade in general, and Engliſh Shipping was increaſed; her own Cuſtoms vaſtly augmented, and what was at firſt the great End of all, obtained, viz. That ſhe had conſtantly lying at Home, in the Hands of her own Subjects, all Sorts of naval Proviſions and Stores, which ſhe could make uſe of, as her Occaſions required them, without any Dependence on her Neighbours for the ſame.

AND thus, by Means of the erecting the forementioned Societies, and preſerving and encouraging that of the Merchants Adventurers, was the Trade at firſt gained from Foreigners to the Natives of the Realm, to its ineſtimable Advantage.

THE Abbot of St. Albans had a Meſſuage here, with a Key given to him, in the 34th of Henry VI.

THEN was another great Houſe, which ſome Time pertained to John Raynwell, Stockfiſhmonger, Mayor, and it was by him given to the Mayor and Commonalty, to the End that the Profits thereof ſhould be diſpoſed in Deeds of Piety: Which Houſe, in the 15th of Edward IV, was confirmed to the ſaid Merchants in Manner following, viz.

" IT is ordained by our Sovereign Lord and his " Parliament, that the ſaid Merchants of Al- " main, being of the Company called the " Guildhall Teutonicorum, (or the Flemiſh Geld) " that now be, or hereafter ſhall be, ſhall have, " hold, and enjoy to them and their Succeſſors " for ever, the ſaid Place, called the Steel-houſe, " yielding to the Mayor and Commonalty an " annual Rent of 70 l. 3 s. 4 d. &c. and other " Rents to others.

THERE were alſo Merchants of Coln Trafficking here, who ſeem to be the Beginners of this Haunce Trade. Theſe formerly paid divers Duties and Cuſtoms to the Kings of this Land, and particularly 2 s. from their Guildhall; which King Henry III, in the Year 1235, took off by his Charter; which was to this Tenor:

" KNOW ye, That we have quit claimed, for " us and our Heirs, our beloved Citizens of " Coln, and their Merchandizes, of thoſe 2 s. " which they were wont to give from their " Guildhall, LONDON, and of all Cuſtoms " and Demands which belong to us in LON- " DON, and throughout our whole Land in " England: And we have granted them to go " ſafe and come ſafe through all our Land, and " to buy and ſell both in the Town of LON- " DON, and elſewhere; ſaving the Liberty of " our City of LONDON. Wherefore we " Will and firmly Command, &c." Witneſs the Venerable Father, William, Biſhop of Carliſle, William de Ferrariis, Gilbert Baſſet, Walter Beauchamp, &c. by the Hand of the Venerable Father, the Biſhop of Chicheſter, our Chancellor, at Daintry, the 8th of Nov. An. Reg. 20.

WHICH Charter King Edward his Son confirmed Ann. 1290, by his Charter dated at Langley, the 18th of his Reign, July 28, which ran in this Tenor:

Archiepiſ. Epiſ. Abbatib. Priorib. Comitib. Baronib. &c. " To all Archbiſhops, Biſhops, " &c. We have looked upon a Charter that Lord " Henry, of good Memory, the King, our Father, " granted to the Citizens of Coln, &c. We alſo " quit Claim, &c. Witneſs Biſhop of Bath and " Wells, our Chancellor, Edmund, Earl of Corn- " wall, our Couſin, Walter de Beauchamp, " Steward of our Houſhold, &c.

IN the Year 1551, the 5th of Edward VI. through Complaint of the Engliſh Merchants, the Liberty of the Steel-yard Merchants was ſeized into the King's Hands, and ſo it reſteth.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS the MORE, Or the GREAT.

THEN is Church-lane, at the Weſt End of Alhallows Church, called Alhallows the More in Thames-ſtreet, for a Difference from Al- The Pariſh of Alhallows the Great.

hallows the Leſs, in the ſame Street. It is alſo called Alhallows ad fœnum in the Roperie, becauſe Hay (that Fœnum ſignifies) was ſold near thereunto, at Hay-wharf, and Ropes of old Time made or ſold in the High Street.

THIS was a good Church, with a large Cloiſter on the South Side thereof, about their Churchyard.

IT had much Coſt beſtowed on the Steeple; was in many Parts of it repaired, and throughout richly beautified, at the proper Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Years of our Lord God 1627 and 1629.

THERE was at this Time a Gallery built at the Weſt End of the Church: and in the North Iſle a new Door made, almoſt at the Upper End.

IN the Year 1632, all the Iſles, to the Chancel, were raiſed a Foot and a half, and the Pews a Foot above that: A Work much Gracing the Church, but eſpecially done for a ready and more eaſy Hearing. All the Charge ariſing to 600 l. and upwards.

IN the dreadful Fire in 1666, it was burnt down, and was afterwards re-erected, being finiſhed Anno 1683, deſigned by the great Architect, Sir Chr. Wren (as moſt other Churches that had the ſame Fate).

IT is of the Tuſcan Order, ſupported and adorned with Pillars and Membretto's of that Order, and ſtrong built of Stone.

ITS Length is about 87 Feet, Breadth 60, Height 33, and here is a ſquare Tower built of Stone 86 Feet high, but no Bells, except a ſmall one to ring to Prayers, &c.

AS to the Ornaments; here is a large Quadrangle on the Inſide of the Roof, and other Pieces of Fret-work, but no Galleries.

IT is well wainſcotted round with right Oak eight Feet high, and well pewed.

THE Chancel is ſeparated from the Body of the Church with a fine Piece of carved Work, conſiſting of ſmall open twiſted Columns with their Arches; in the Middle whereof, are two open carved Pilaſters (on both Sides of the Door-caſe) with their Architrave, Frieſe, Cornice and large open Pediment of the Compoſite Order; at the Upper Part of which Door-caſe is carved a large Eagle diſplayed, and over that the King's Arms, with Supporters, &c. and theſe (on the Cornice of this Partition) between two ſmaller Pediments; in the Middle whereof are two Shields with fine Compartments, all very well carved in right Wainſcot.

HERE is a ſpacious Altar-piece of Stone of the Corinthian Order, and the Tables of the Ten Commandments, as alſo the Lord's Prayer and Creed, are on a Marble adorned with Lamps, Cartouches, Cherubims, and the ſolid Figures or Images of Moſes and Aaron. The Communion-Table is a large Marble Slab, ſupported by a Figure in Stone of the Angel Gabriel, and its Foot-pace is alſo of Marble.

MONUMENTS.

THE old Church had ſome Monuments, and in the Choir ſome Plates on Grave-Stones, namely, of William Litchfield, Doctor of Divinity, who deceaſed the Year 1447; he was a great Student, and compiled many Books, both Moral and Divine, in Proſe and in Verſe; namely one, entitled, The Complaint of God unto ſinful Man. He made 3083 Sermons; as appeared by his own Hand-writing, and were found when he was dead.

ONE other Plate there is of John Brickles, Draper, who deceaſed in the Year 1451. He was a great Benefactor to that Church, and gave by his Teſtament certain Tenements, to the Relief of the Poor.

Joan Bruyn, Wife of Richard Bruyn, de Eſlingham, in the County of Kent, Eſq; was probably buried here. For by her Will, dated in June 1462, ſhe bequeathed her Body to be depoſited in the Church of Great Alhallows, LONDON.

Nicholas Loven, and William Preſton, founded Chantries there.

AT the Eaſt End of this Church goeth down a Lane, called Hay-Wharf-lane.

THEN was there another Lane, ſome Time called Woolſey's-gate, long ſince out of Uſe. For the lower Part thereof, upon the Bank of the Thames was built by the Earl of Shrewsbury, and the other End built on and ſtopped up by the Chamberlain of LONDON. John Butler, Draper, one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1420, dwelt there: He appointed his Houſe to be ſold, and the Amount thereof to be given to the Poor.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS the LESS.

The Pariſh of Alhallows the Leſs.

THEN was there the Pariſh-Church of Alhallows, called the Leſs; and by ſome, Alhallows on the Cellers, for it ſtood on Vaults. It was ſaid to be built by Sir John Poultney, ſome Time Mayor. The Steeple and Choir of this Church ſtood on an arched Gate, being the Entry to a great Houſe called Cold Harbour: The Choir falling down, was, in the Year 1594, by the Pariſhioners new built.

Cold Harbour.

NEAR to the Church of Alhallows, is Cold Harbour, concerning which, it is ſaid, that in 13 Edw. II. Sir John Abel. Kt. demiſed or let unto Henry Stow, Draper, all that his capital Meſſuage, called the Cold Harbour, in the Pariſh of All Saints ad Fœnum, and all the Appurtenances within the Gate, with the Key which Robert Hartford, Citizen, Son to William Hartford, had, and ought; and the aforeſaid Robert paid for it the Rent of 33 s. per Year. This Robert Hartford being Owner thereof, as alſo of other Lands in Surrey, deceaſing without Iſſue Male, left two Daughters his Coheirs, to wit, Idonea, married to Sir Ralph Bigot; and Maud, married to Sir Stephen Coſenten, Knts. between whom the ſaid Houſe and Lands were parted. After which, John Bigot, Son to the ſaid Sir Ralph, and Sir John Coſenton, did ſell their Moieties of Cold Harbour bour unto John Poultney, Son of Adam Poultney, 8 Edw. III. This Sir John Poultney dwelling in this Houſe, and being four Times Mayor, the ſaid Houſe took the Name of Poultney's Inn. Notwithſtanding, this Sir John Poultney, 21 Edw. III. by his Charter gave and confirmed to Humphrey de Bohune, Earl of Hereford and Eſſex, his whole Tenement, call'd Cold Harbour, with all the Tenements and Key adjoining, and Appurtenances ſome Time pertaining to Robert de Hertford, on the Way called Hay-wharf-lane, &c. for one Roſe at Midſummer, to him and his Heirs, for all Services, if the ſame were demanded. This Sir John Poultney deceaſed 1349, and left Iſſue by Margaret his Wife, William Poultney, who died without Iſſue: And Margaret his Mother was married to Sir Nicholas Lovel, Knt. &c. Philip St. Clear gave two Meſſuages pertaining to this Cold Harbour, in the Ropery, towards the inlarging of the Church and Churchyard of All Saints, called the Leſs, in the 20th of Richard II.

In the Year 1397, 21 Richard II. John Holland, Earl of Huntington, was lodged there, and Richard II. his Brother, dined with him: It was then counted a ſtately Houſe. But in the next Year following, Edmond, Earl of Cambridge, had this Houſe, and was there lodged in the Year 1398. Notwithſtanding, the ſaid Houſe ſtill retained the Name of Poultney's Inn, in the Reign of Henry VI. the 26th of his Reign, and not otherwiſe. It belonged ſince to H. Holland, Duke of Exeter, and he was lodged there in the Year 1472. In rhe Year 1485, Richard III, by his Letters Patents, granted and gave to John Writh, alias Garter, Principal King of Arms of Engliſhmen, and to the reſt of the King's Heralds and Purſuivants of Arms, all that Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances, called Cold Erbar, in the Pariſh of All Saints the Leſs, in LONDON, and their Succeſſors, for ever. Dated at Weſtminſter the ſecond of March, Anno regni ſui primo, without Fine or Fee. How the Heralds parted with this is not known, but in the Reign of King Henry VIII, the Biſhop of Durham's Houſe, near Charing-Croſs, being taken into the King's Hand, Cuthbert Tunſtal, Biſhop of Durham, was lodged there: Since which Time it belonged to the Earls of Shrewsbury, by Compoſition (as is ſuppoſed) from the ſaid Cuthbert Tunſtal. One Earl took it down, and in Place thereof built a great Number of ſmall Tenements, now let out for great Rents.

This great Houſe Biſhop Tunſtal enjoyed even to the laſt Year of King Edward VI, that is, to the Year 1553; when the Biſhop being under ſome Cloud, and depoſed from his Biſhoprick, they took from him this Houſe alſo; which the King granted to the Earl of Shrewsbury, with the Appurtenances to the ſaid Meſſuage belonging, together with ſix Houſes, or Tenements, in the Pariſh of St. Dunſtan's in the Eaſt, and divers other Lands in the County of York, to him and his Heirs, to the yearly Value of 66*l.* 16*s.* 1 ob. The Teſt of the Patent was the 30th of June, the King dying but ſix or ſeven Days after. For the Duke of Northumberberland, who now did all at Court, practiſed to gain as many of the Nobility as he could to his Purpoſe: And ſo this Gratification was made to the Earl of Shrewsbury, as were divers others of the Nobility, in other Reſpects, gratified.

What Title the Earls of Shrewsbury had in former Times to Cold Harbour, is uncertain; but it appears by Letters dated from thence, that that Houſe was inhabited by them, and their Servants, long before, namely, not far from the Beginning of King Henry VIII's Reign.

Also near to Alhallows Church was the Dyers Hall, which being burnt in the Fire of LONDON, hath not been again erected.

At a Common-Council holden December 11, Anno 3 Henry VIII, a Bill was exhibited at this Court by the Warden of the Dyers Company; whereby they claimed a Lane in the Ward of Downgate, called Bretaske-lane, to be their ſeveral Ground: For this a Search was made in the Books and Records of the City, by which it appeared, that the ſaid Lane was the common Lane of the City; and ſo they were anſwered by the Court.

Then were ſeveral large Brewhouſes, and others, to Ebgate-lane, where the Ward ends in the Eaſt. On the North Side of Thames-ſtreet are divers Lanes alſo. The firſt is at the South End of Elbow-lane, before ſpoken of, Weſt from Downgate, over againſt Greenwich-lane: Then many Houſes for Merchants, and others along that Side.

The next Lane Eaſt from Downgate, is called Buſh-lane, which turns up to Candlewick-ſtreet, and is of Downgate Ward. Next is Suffolk-lane, likewiſe turning up to Candlewick-ſtreet. In this Lane is the Famous Grammar-School, founded in the Year 1561, by the Maſter, Wardens, and Aſſiſtants of the Merchant-Taylors, in the Pariſh of St. Laurence Poultney; Richard Hills, ſome Time Maſter of that Company, having before given 500 l. towards the Purchaſe of an Houſe, called The Manor of the Roſe, ſome Time belonging to the Duke of Buckingham, wherein the ſaid School is kept; of which ſee more Book I, Chap. XIII.

Then is there another Lane, which turns up to St. Laurence's Hill, and to the South Weſt Corner of St. Laurence's Church-yard. Then another called Poultney-lane, that goeth up (of this Ward) to the South Eaſt Corner of St. Laurence's Church-yard; and ſo down again to the Weſt Corner of St. Martin Orgar-lane.

Concerning ſome one of theſe Lanes ſtopt up, there was an Order made; "That whereas "certain private Perſons had wrongfully ſet up "a Door at the End of Lane in Downgate Ward, and had converted it to their pri"vate Uſe; it was ordered May 28, Anno Eli"zabeth. 4to, that the City Chamberlain ſhould "take down the Door, and leave the Lane com"mon like other Streets in the City.

And this is all of Downgate Ward, the thirteenth in Number, lying Eaſt from the Water-Courſe of Wallbrook, and hath not any one Houſe on the Weſt Side of the ſaid Brook.

This for the Antiquities and antient State of this Ward. Now for the Ward as it ſtands at preſent, ſince the great Fire.

The chief Streets and Lanes in this Ward, in Whole, or in Part, are Thames-ſtreet, from St. Martin's-lane in the Eaſt, to Cloak-lane on the North Side of the Way, and to 160 Feet on the South Side of the Way beyond Dowgate-hill.

On the South Side of Thames-ſtreet, between it and the Thames, are theſe Lanes in this Ward, viz. Old Swan-lane, Cold Harbour, Alhallows-lane, Campion-lane, Fryars-lane, Coſins's-lane, Dowgate-dock, and the Still-yard; St. Laurence Poultney-hill, almoſt as far as St. Laurence Poultney's Church-yard; Duxford-lane, as far as St. Laurence's Church-yard; Suffolk-lane, as far as the Paſſage into Buſh-lane; Buſh-lane, almoſt the whole; Dowgate-hill, as far as Tallow-chandlers Hall Northwards; Checquer-yard, Elbow-lane, ſo far as the Church-yard, only the South Eaſt Side of the Way Cloak-lane, the South Side.

Thames-ſtreet is a great Thorough-fare for Carts to the ſeveral Wharfs, which render it a Place of a conſiderable Trade, and to be well inhabited. The Part of Thames-ſtreet in this Ward, begins Weſtward at Little Elbow-lane, and reaches Eaſtward to the Old Swan-lane, taking in the Weſt Side thereof. The Places on the South Side next the Thames, beginning Weſtward, are as followeth:

Fryars-lane, or Alley, very mean, narrow and long, having a Paſſage into Dowgate-dock, where there is a Lay-ſtall for the City Soil. In this Part is Joiners Hall, a pretty good Building, mentioned before.

Brewers-lane, alſo very ordinary, and runs down to Dowgate-dock, which is likewiſe as ordinary, chiefly ſerving for a Paſſage for Carts to the Lay-ſtall.

Coſins's-lane, near the Still-yard, hath an open Paſſage for Carts to the Thames Side. In this Place the Still-yard Merchants had a large Hall.

Wild-gooſe, or Wind-gooſe-alley, or Court, ſaid to be built by the Still-yard Merchants.

THE Still-yard, or Steel-yard, a large open Place, with a wide Paſſage for Carts to the River Side, where there is a Crane, and Stairs for landing Iron, of which here are always large Quantities kept. In this Yard are ſome good Houſes for Merchants who trade in Iron, for which it is of Note, but was formerly of greater, from the Merchants of Almain. Here are likewiſe, at preſent, large Warehouſes for depoſiting Goods belonging to the Eaſt India Company.

Great Alhallows Church, before deſcribed; on the Weſt of which is Alhallows-lane, pretty well built and inhabited, hath a Paſſage to the Thames, where there is a Pair of Stairs to land or take Water at. And on the Eaſt Side of the Church, was a Lane called Hay Wharf-lane, which fell down to the Thames; and near this Lane was another, formerly called Woolſey's Gate; but now there are no ſuch Places.

Watermens-Hall. Cold Harbour, at the lower End of which is ſeated Watermens Hall, fronting the River Thames. More Eaſtwards is Red-Bull-alley, but indifferent, hath a Paſſage to the Thames, and in it is one of the King's Roaſting Houſes, to which all Perſons who deal in Coffee, are obliged, by Act of Parliament, to bring their Berries to be roaſted; here is likewiſe a Coal Wharf.

Angel-alley, alſo but ordinary, the lower Part next the Thames, taken up by a Dyer.

Whitecock-alley, but narrow, the lower End falling into Dyers-Hall Ground: And here ſtood Dyers-Hall, which being burnt down in the Fire of LONDON, was not rebuilt; but the Company diſpoſed of the Ground, which is converted to other Uſes.

Fiſhermens-Hall. NEAR this alſo ſtands a Houſe, which was the Fiſhermens Hall; but is now let in Tenements.

George-alley, but narrow and ordinary, having at the lower End a Dye-Houſe.

Ebgate-lane, or Old-ſwan-alley, indifferently large, and good, leading down to the Old Swan Stairs; a Place much uſed by Watermen, as being a noted Landing-place, and very commodious, having ſo good a Pair of Stairs. It is a Place well built and inhabited. The Eaſt Side of this Lane is in Bridge Ward Within.

ON the North ſide of Thames-ſtreet are theſe Places, viz. St. Laurence Poultney's-lane, comes out of Cannon-ſtreet, and falls down into Thames-ſtreet; a Place well built and inhabited by Merchants and other Traders. Of this Lane, ſee more in Candlewick Ward.

Duxford-lane comes out of St. Laurence Poultney's Hill, and falls into Thames-ſtreet, a Place of no great Account.

Suffolk-lane alſo goes out of Thames-ſtreet; and with a turning Paſſage by Croſs-lane, which is but ordinary, comes into Green-lettice-lane, which is in Candlewick Ward, and ſo into Cannon-ſtreet.

Merchant-Taylors School. IN this Suffolk-lane is Merchant-Taylors School, a large good Building, and of great Note and Repute. It was burnt down by the Great Fire, and rebuilt by the Company.

Great Buſh-lane comes out of Cannon-ſtreet and falls into Thames-ſtreet; but the Part in this Ward goeth no farther than Scotch-yard, which is a good large open Place, well inhabited. This Lane is narrow, but well inhabited by Merchants and Perſons of Repute. Out of this Lane, on the ſaid Side, is Chequer-yard, which hath a Paſſage into Dowgate-hill, and is a good open Place; in which is ſeated Plumbers Hall, a good handſome Building. Plumbers-Hall. Likewiſe on the South Side is a Paſſage into Hand-yard. which is but ordinary, and falls into Thames-ſtreet. And on the ſame Side is the Chequer Inn, which hath a Gate or Paſſage into Dowgate-hill, an Inn of no great Account, being chiefly for Livery-Stables and Horſes.

Little Buſh-lane, of ſmall Account, comes out of Great Buſh-lane, and with a turning Paſſage falls into Thames-ſtreet.

Double-hand-court; very ordinary.

Dowgate-hill is ſuch a great Deſcent towards Thames-ſtreet, that in great and ſudden Rains the Water here comes down from other Streets with that Swiftneſs, that it oftentimes cauſeth a Flood in the lower Part. This Street is large and open, the Houſes well built, and inhabited. On the Weſt Side, near Budge-row, is the Church-yard of St. John Evangeliſt, where formerly the Church ſtood, not being rebuilt ſince the Fire. Adjoining to the Church-yard Wall, is Cloak-lane, which runs Weſtward to College-hill. Of this Lane only the South Side is in this Ward, the other Part being in Vintry Ward. On this Hill is ſeated Tallowchandlers-Hall, a very neat Building: It hath a ſquare Court with a Free-ſtone Pavement in the Midſt, and cloiſtered round, the Rooms over being ſuſtained by Stone Pillars, very neat. Tallow-chandlers-Hall.

A little more Southward, is ſeated Skinners-Hall, a large and graceful Building, with a ſpacious Court paved with Free-ſtone; at the Entrance is a large Gate, with the Company's Arms over it. The Hall is ſpacious, with ſeveral other good Rooms for Reception; inſomuch, that this Hall is often made uſe of either by the Mayor or one of the Sheriffs, during their Office, as fit to entertain ſo great a Reſort of People. Skinners Hall.

Elbow-lane, ſo called from its bending from Dowgate with an Elbow to Thames-ſtreet. Out of this Great Elbow-lane, over-againſt St. Michael's Royal Church, is Little Elbow-lane, which is that Part that makes the Bending, and falls into Thames-ſtreet; a Place of no great Account.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle, and thirty-ſix Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall in the Month of October.

IT hath an Alderman, his Deputy, eight Common-Council-Men, eight Conſtables, five Scavengers, fourteen Wardmote Inqueſt-Men, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen at 28 l.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir John Barnard.

BOOK III.

Containing a particular Inſpection into the Twelve Wards on the Weſt of WALLBROOK.

CHAP. I.

NOW we are to ſpeak of the other Wards, 12 in Number, all lying on the Weſt Side of the Courſe of Wallbrook: And firſt of the Vintry Ward, ſo called from the Vintners, and of the Vintry, a Part of the Bank of the River Thames, where the Merchants of Bourdeaux, cran'd their Wines out of Lighters, and other Veſſels, and there landed and made Sale of them, within 40 Days after, until the 28th of Edward I. At which Time the ſaid Merchants complained, that they could not ſell their Wines, paying Poundage, neither hire Houſes or Cellars to lay them in: And it was redreſſed by Virtue of the King's Writ, directed to the Mayor and Sheriffs of LONDON, dated at Carlaveroke, or Carliſle. Since which Time, many large Houſes (with Vaults and Cellars for Stowage of Wines, and Lodging of Wines, and Lodging of Bourdeaux Merchants) have been built, in Place where before-time were Cooks Shops. For Fitz-Stephen, in the Reign of Henry II, writeth, that upon the River Side, between the Wine in Ships, and the Wine to be ſold in Taverns, was a common Cookery, or Cooks Row, &c. as in another Place is ſet down.

THIS Ward beginneth in the Eaſt, at the Weſt End of Dowgate Ward, as the Water-courſe of Wallbrook parteth them, to wit, at Grantham's-lane, on the Thames Side, and at Elbow-lane, on the Land Side; it runs along in Thames-ſtreet, Weſt, about three Houſes beyond the Old Swan, a Brewhouſe on the Thames Side, and on the Land Side, about three Houſes Weſt, beyond St. James's at Garlick-hithe.

IN Breadth, this Ward ſtretcheth from the Vintry North, to the Wall of the Weſt Gate of the Tower Royal: The other North Part is of Cordwainer-ſtreet Ward.

OUT of this Royal-ſtreet, by where the South Gate of Tower-Royal ſtood, runneth a ſmall Street, Eaſt to St. John's upon Wallbrook, which Street was called Horſhoe-bridge, from ſuch a Bridge ſome Time over this Brook, which is now vaulted over.

THEN from the South Gate, Weſt, ran another Street called Knightrider's-ſtreet, by St. Thomas Apoſtle's Church on the North Side, and Wring-wren-lane, by the ſaid Church, at the Weſt End thereof, and to the Eaſt End of the Trinity Church in the ſaid Knightrider's-ſtreet; where this Ward endeth on that South Side the Street; but on the North Side, it runneth no farther than the Corner, in a Plat of Ground, where ſome Time ſtood Ormond-place. Yet we have another Lane lower down in Royal-ſtreet, ſtretching forth from over-againſt St. Michael's Church, to and by the North Side of St. James's Church by Garlich-hithe. This is called Kerion-lane: And thus much for the Bounds of the Vintry Ward. Now on the Thames Side Weſt from Grantham's-lane, was Herber-lane, or Brickle's-lane, ſo called of John Brickle, ſome Time Owner thereof.

THEN is Simſon's-lane, from one Simſon; or Emperor's-head-lane, from ſuch a Sign; then the Three Cranes-lane, ſo called, not only of a Sign of Three Cranes at a Tavern-door, but rather of three ſtrong Cranes of Timber, placed on the Vintry Wharf by the Thames Side, to crane up Wines there, as is before ſhewed. This Lane was of old Time, to wit, the 9th of Richard II. called the Painted Tavern-lane, from the Taverns being painted.

THEN next over-againſt St. Martin's Church, is a large Houſe built of Stone and Timber, with Vaults for the Stowage of Wines, and is called the Vintry. There dwelt John Giſors, Mayor of LONDON, and Conſtable of the Tower. And then was Henry Picard, Vintner, Mayor: In this Houſe Henry Picard feaſted four Kings in one Day; as ſhewed in Stow's Summary.

THEN next is Vannar's-lane, ſo called from one Vannar, who was Owner thereof. It is now called Church-lane, from the coming up from the Wharf to St. Martin's Church.

NEXT is Broad-lane; for that the ſame is broader for the Paſſage of Carts from the Vintry Wharf, than the other Lanes. At the North Weſt Corner of this Lane was the Pariſh-Clerks Hall, by them purchaſed, after they loſt their old Hall in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet; but their Hall is now in another Place, as will be mentioned hereafter. Next is Spittle-lane, of old Time ſo called, ſince Stodie's-lane, of the Owner thereof, named Stodie. Sir John Stodie, Vintner, Mayor in the Year 1357, gave it, with all the Quadrant wherein Vintners Hall now ſtands, with the Tenements round about, unto the Vintners. The Vintners Hall. Vintners built for themſelves a handſome Hall there, and alſo 13 Alms-Houſes for 13 poor People, which are kept of Charity Rent-free.

THIS Hall is well built of Brick, large and commodious, being three Sides of a Quadrangle. The Room called the Hall is paved with Marble, and the Walls richly wainſcotted with right Wainſcot, adorned with Fruit, Leaves, &c. finely carved; as is eſpecially the noble Screen at the Eaſt End, where the Aperture into the Hall is adorned with two Columns, their Entablature, and pitch'd Pediment; and on Acroters are placed the Figures of Bacchus between ſeveral Fames, and theſe between two Panthers. There are other carved Figures, as St. Martin their Patron, and the Cripple; and Pilaſters, with Embelliſhments of Coats of Arms, &c.

THIS Place of Stodie was called in old Records, The Manor of the Vintry. This Manor the ſaid Stodie, July the 3d, 2 Edward III, gave and granted to one John Tuke, Parſon of that Pariſh-Church; "To have and to hold the ſaid "Manor to him and his Succeſſors, to the Uſe "and Behalf the ſaid Church; the King's Li-"cence thereof not had, nor obtained." By Force of which Feoffment the ſaid John was ſeized thereof as of Fee, contrary to the Senſe of the Statute of Lands and Tenements to be put into Mortmains, had and provided. Of this there was an Inquiſition taken in 17 Edward IV, before Sir Ralph Joſſelyn; and there was likewiſe a Trial in the Exchequer about it. But King Richard III, granted it to the Company of Vintners.

THESE Vintners in LONDON were (of old Time) called Merchant Vintners of Gaſcoign, in the Records of Edward II the 11th Year, and Edward III the 9th Year; they were as well Engliſhmen as Strangers born beyond the Seas, but then Subjects to the Kings of England; great Bourdeaux Merchants of Gaſcoign and French Wines. Divers of them were Mayors of this City; namely, John Adrian, Vintner; Reginald at Conduit, John Oxenford, Hekry Picard, that feaſted the Kings of England, France, Scotland, and Cyprus: John Stodie, that gave Stodie's-lane to the Vintners: The four laſt were Mayors in the Reign of Edward III, and yet Gaſcoign Wines were then to be ſold at LONDON, at not above four Pence, nor Rheniſh Wines at above 6 d. the Gallon.

William More, Vinter, Mayor, in the Reign of Richard II.

OF Sweet Wines, it is ſaid, that in the 50th of Edward III. John Peachie, Fiſhmonger, was accuſed, for that he procured a Licence for the only Sale of them in LONDON; which, notwithſtanding he juſtified it by Law, he was impriſoned and fined.

IN the 6th of Henry VI. the Lombards corrupting their Sweet Wines; when Knowledge thereof came to John Rainwell, Mayor of LONDON, he (in divers Places of the City) commanded the Heads of the Butts and other Veſſels to be broken, to the Number of one hundred and fifty. So that the Liquor running out, paſſed thro' the City like a Stream of Rain Water, in the Sight of all the People; from whence there iſſued a moſt loathſome Savour.

IN the Reign of Henry VII. no Sweet Wines were brought into this Realm but Malmſey's, by the Longobards, or Lombards, paying to the King for his Licence 6 s. 8 d. for every Butt, beſides 12 d. for a large Bottle. Stowe ſaith, he remember'd Malmſey ſold at Three-half-pence a Pint; for Proof whereof, it appeareth in the Church-Book of St. Andrew-Underſhaft, that in the Year 1547, I. G. and S. K. then Church-wardens, for eighty Pints of Malmſey, ſpent in the Church, one Penny Half-penny the Pint, paid at the Year's End for the ſame, Ten Shillings.

MORE he ſaith, That no Sacks were ſold but Rumney, and that for Medicine more than for Drink.

IN the Reign of Henry IV. the young Prince Henry, Thomas Duke of Clarence, John Duke of Bedford, and Humphrey Duke of Gloceſter, the King's Sons, being at Supper amongſt the Merchants of LONDON in the Vintry, in the Houſe of Lewis John, Henry Scogan ſent to them a Ballad beginning thus:

My Noble Sonnes,
and eke my Lords deare,
I, your Father, called unworthily,
Send unto you this Ballad following here, Written with mine
owne Hand full rudely:
Although it be,
that I not reverently
Have written to your Eſtates, I you pray,
Mine uncunning
taketh benignely,
For God's Sake,
and hearken what I ſay.

THEN follow in like Metre 23 Staves, containing a Perſwaſion from loſing of Time fooliſhly, in Luſt and Vice, but to ſpend the ſame in Virtue and Godlineſs; as you may read in Geffery Chaucer's Works. The Succeſſors of thoſe Vintners and Wine-drawers, that retailed by the Pottle, Quart and Pint, were all incorporated by the Name of Wine-tunners, in the Reign of Edward III, and confirmed the 15th of Henry VI.

NEXT is Palmer's-lane, now called Anchor-lane. The Plummers have their Hall there, but are Tenants to the Vintners.

THEN is Worceſter-houſe, ſometimes belonging to the Earls of Worceſter, now divided into many Tenements. The Fruiterers had their Hall there; but have none at preſent.

ON the Land Side, in the Royal-ſtreet, was Pater-Noſter-lane, of old Time called Arches; for Robert de Suffolk gave to Walter Darford, his Tenement with the Appurtenance, in the Lane called Les Arches, in the Pariſh of St. Michael de Pater-Noſter Church, between the Wall of the Field called Wincheſter-field, on the Eaſt, and the ſame Lane on the Weſt, &c.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL, CALLED Pater-Noſter Church in the Royal.

THEN is the Pariſh-Church of St. Michael, called Pater-Noſter Church in the Royal,

THIS Church was new bnilt, and made a College of St. Spirit, and St. Mary, founded by Richard Whittington, Mercer, four Times Mayor, for a Maſter, four Fellows, Maſters of Art, Clerks, Conducts, Choriſts, &c. and an Alms-Houſe, called God's Houſe or Hoſpital, for 13 poor Men. One of them to be Tutor, and to have 16*d.* the Week, the other 12, each of them to have 14*d.* the Week for ever, with other neceſſary Proviſion, a common Seal, &c.

THESE (as the Manner then was) were bound to pray for the good Eſtate of Richard Whittington, and Alice his Wife, their Founders; and for Sir William Whittington, Knt. and Dame Joan his Wife; and for Hugh Fitzwarren, and Dame Molde his Wife, the Fathers and Mothers of the ſaid Richard Whittington, and Alice his Wife; for King Richard II, and Thomas of Woodſtock, Duke of Gloceſter, ſpecial Lords and Promoters of the ſaid Whittington, &c. It follows in the Will for Anne and Eleanor, the Wives of the ſaid King and Duke: Furtherмore, alſo for the good Health and State of our aforeſaid Lord, King Henry VI, and Archbiſhop (Henry Chicheley) that now be, and the Conſervators and Benefactors of the ſame Houſe, while they live, and for our good State, while we live, and for their Souls and ours, when they and we be paſſed out of this World; and generally for them, to whom the ſaid Richard Whittington and Alice were beholden to, in any Manner of wiſe while we live, and for all Chriſtian Souls.

THE Licence for this Foundation was granted by King Henry IV. the 11th of his Reign; and in the 12th of the ſame King's Reign, the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON granted to Richard Whittington, a vacant Piece of Ground, thereon to build his College in the Royal; all which was confirmed by Henry VI, the third of his Reign, to John Coventry, Jenkin Carpenter, and William Grove, Executors to Richard Whittington.

THIS Foundation was again confirmed by Parliament, the 10th of Henry VI. and was ſuppreſſed by the Statute of Edward VI. The Alms-Houſes, with the poor Men, do remain, and are paid by the Mercers.

THERE are extant in Cuſtody of the Mercers the original Ordinances of Richard Whittington's Charity, made by his Executors, Coventre, Carpenter, and Grove, fairly written. Where on the firſt Page is curiouſly allumined the ſaid Whittington lying on his Death-bed, a very lean conſumed Meagre Body, and his three Executors and a Prieſt, and divers others ſtanding by his Bed-ſide: Beginning, in the Black Character, thus,

TO alls the trew People of Cryſt, that ſhalle ſe or here the Things which be conteyned within theſe preſent Letters, John Coventre, John Carpenter, and William Grove, &c. Executors of the Teſtament of the worthy and notable Merchant, Richard Whittington, late Citizin and Mercer of the Cite of LONDON, and oftentimes Mayor of the ſame Cite, ſend Gretyng in our Lord God everlaſting.

THE fervent Deſire and beſy Intention of a prudent Wyfe, and devout Man ſhal be to caſt before and make ſeure the State and thende of the ſhort Liffe with Dedys of Mercy and Pite; and namely, to provyde for ſuch Pouer Perſons, which grievous Penuere and cruel Fortune have oppreſſed, and be not of Power to gete their Lyvin either by Craft or by any other Bodily Labour; whereby that at the Day of the laſt Jugement, he may take his Part with hem that ſhal be ſaved. This conſidering the aforeſaid worthy and notable Merchant Richard Whittington, the which while he leved had ryght liberal and large Hands to the Needy and poure People, charged ſtrictly, in his Death-bed, us his aforeſaid Executors, to ordeyne a Houſe of Almes after his Deth, for perpetual Suſtentacion of ſuch poure People as is to fore reherſed; and thereupon fully he declared his Wyll unto us: And we Wylling after our Power to fullfil th' intent of his commendable Wille and holeſome Deſire in this Part, as we be bound.

Firſt, Y founded by us, with ſufficient Authorite, in the Church of Seint Mighells, in the Royolle of LONDON, where the foreſaid Richard and Dame Alice his Wife be biried, a commendable College of certain Prieſts and Clerkis; to do there every Day Divine Service for the aforeſaid Richard and Alice.

WE have founded alſo, after the Wille aboveſaid, a Houſe of Almes for xiii pouere Folk ſucceſſively for evermore: to dwell and to be ſuſteined in the ſame Houſe; which Houſe is ſituated and edified upon a certain Soyl that we bought therefore late in the Pariſh of Seinte Mighells aboveſaid aboveſaid: That is to ſay, Bytween the aforeſaid Church and the Wall that cloſeth in the voyd Place, behind the heigh Auter of the ſame Church in the South Side, and our great Tenement, that was late the Houſe of the aforeſaid Richard Whittington in the North Side, and it ſtretcheth fro the Dwelling-place of the Maſter and the Preſtis of the College aboveſaid. The which alſo we did late to be now added in the Eaſt Side unto a great voyd Place of our Land. The which by the Help of God we purpoſe to do be hallowed lawfully for a Church-yard to the ſame Church within ſhort Time in the Weſt Side.

And in the more ful and clere Foundation and Ordinaunce, and alſo ſtablyng of the foreſaid Alms-Houſe for pouer Men, the Myght of the Fadre, the Wyſdom of the Sonne, and the Goodneſs of the Holy Ghoſt, firſt of al yealled unto our Help, we procede in this wyſe:

Fyrſt, Both by Lycence, Graunt, and Authorite of the right mighty Prince and Lord K. Henry VI, King of England, and of Fraunce, that now is; and alſo by the Will and Conſent of the ryght worthy Lord and Fadre in Cryſt, Henry by the Sufferaunce of God Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Primate of al England, and Legate of the See of Rome; of whoſe Juriſdiction immediate be the Church and Parriſhe aboveſaid; and the Graunt and Conſent of al and every Man, that had any Title or Intereſt in this Partie, before required and had.

The Ordinance of the College.

THEN the Ordinances follow: Which in ſhort were theſe:

To be twelve pouer Folks alonely of Men or Women togiddre; after the ſad Diſcretion and good Conſcience of thOverſeers underwrit, and Conſervators of the ſame Houſe, to be provided and admitted.

THE which every Day, when due and convenient Time is, ſhal pray for evermore, for al the now being alive, and alſo for the by-paſt, to God; whoſe Names of great Specialty been expreſſed in theſe Statutes underwrit.

To be one Principal, which ſhal paſs al other in Power and Reverence, and be called TUTOR. The Office and Charge of him ſhal be the Goods of the Almes-houſe, which ſhal come to his Hands, well and truly to miniſter. The Goods diſſevered to gather again togiddre, to the Uſe of the Almes-houſe: And at the Husbandry of the ſame Houſe, in as much as he may goodly overſee, diſpoſe and ordain; inforcing himſelf to edifie and nouriſh Charity and Peace among his Felawes.

THE pouer Folks unto the ſaid Tutor evermore ſhal obey.

THE ſame Houſe to be called for ever God's Houſe, or Almes-houſe, or the Hoſpital of Richard Whyttington.

THE Tutor to have a Place by himſelf, that is to ſay, a Cell, or little Houſe, with a Chimney and a Prevy, and other Neceſſaries; in the which he ſhall Lyegge and reſt. And that he may aloon and by himſelf, without Let of any other Perſoon intend to the Contemplation of God, if he woll.

THAT the ſeid Tutour and pouer Folke, whan they be in the aforeſaid Houſes and Cells, and alſo in the Cloiſters, and other Places of the foreſaid Almes-houſes, have themſelfes quietlie and peſably, without Noiſe, or Diſturbance, of his Felaws: And that they occupy themſelfs in Prayer, or Reading, or in Labour of her Hondes, or in ſome other Occupacion, &c.

It endeth thus:

IN Witneſs, we have put our Seals. Geven at LONDON the xxi Day of Decemb. in the Yere of our Lord a Thouſand CCCC xxiiii, and the Yere of K. Henry VI, after the Conqueſt the Thrydde.

For ever to be a Servant withyn yeare Comminaltie.

BUT further, for the Direction of their daily Devotion, of their Eating and their Habit, theſe were the Appointments and Ordinances.

EVERY Tutour and pouer Folk every Day firſt whan they riſe fro their Bedds, kneeling upon their Knees, ſey a Pater Noſter and an Ave Maria, with ſpecial and horty Recommendacion making of the foreſaid Richard Whittington and Alice, to God, and our Bleſſed Lady Maidyn Mary. And other Times of the Day, whan he may beſt and moſt commody have Leiſure thereto, for the Staat of al the Souls aboveſaid, ſay three or two Sauters of our Lady at the leaſt: That is to ſay, threies ſeaven Ave Marias, with xv Pater Noſters, and three Credes. But if he be letted with Febleneſs, or any other reaſonable Cawſe, one in the Day at the leaſt, in caſe it may be; That is to ſay, after the Meſſe, or whan Complyn is don, they come togidder within the College about the Tomb of the aforeſaid *Rich. THESE Executors of the Will of Richard Whittington conſtituted five Chaplains in his College founded in this Church, which were confirmed by the King, 3 Henry VI.

THIS Richard Whittington was (in this Church) three Times buried: Firſt, by his Executors, under a handſome Monument; then, in the Reign of Edward VI. the Parſon of that Church, thinking ſome great Riches (as he ſaid) to be buried with him, cauſed his Monument to be broken, his Body to be ſtript of his Leaden Sheet; and again the ſecond Time to be buried. And in the Reign of Queen Mary, the Pariſhioners were forced to take him up, to wrap him in Lead, as before, to bury him the third Time, and to place his Monument, or the like, over him again, which ſo remained, till the great Fire of LONDON violated his reſting Place again.

THIS Church of St. Michael Pater Noſter in the Vintry, the Capital Houſe, and Site thereof, called Whittington-College, alias Whittington, and one Garden belonging to the ſame, of the yearly Value of 4*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* was ſold to Armagill Waad, Clerk of the Council, in the 2d of Edward VI. for 92*l.* 2*s.*

St. Michael's Church was repaired and beautified at the proper Coſt of the Pariſh in the Year of our Lord 1630,

THE Charge of it amounting to 120*l.* 9*s.*

THERE was a Chantry founded in this Church of St. Michael de Pater Noſter in Riola; for maintaining which Richard II, in the 2d of his Reign, granted Licence, pro uno Cellario cum duobus Cellariis ſuperedificatis: So that the Rent of one Vault, and two other Vaults or Warehouſes built over it for Merchants Uſe, was for the Chantry Prieſt. The Right of preſenting a Prieſt to this Chantry was granted to the Dean of St. Mary de Arcubus, 1 Richard II.

THIS Church being burnt in the Year 1666, was rebuilt and finiſhed in the Year 1694, and the Pariſh of St. Martin Vintry annexed to it.

AS to the Nature of the Building, the Walls are Stone, and at the Eaſt End ſome Brick; it has a flat ſquare Roof covered with Lead; it has handſome five-light Windows, three Iſles, and the Floor is paved with Purbeck, but within the Rails of the Communion-Table with Black and White Marble.

ORNAMENTS are as follow: The Roof is adorned with Fret and Crocket-work, the Walls lined nine Feet high, a handſome Gallery at the Weſt End, ſupported by two Pillars and a Membretto of the Tuſcan Order; this Gallery, the Pews, Pulpit and Door-caſes, at the South Side and Eaſt End, are all of Oak; the Pulpit is neatly finnier'd and enriched with Fruit and Leaves; the latter adorned with Pilaſters, Entablement and Pediment, of the Corinthian Order, and two Shields with Compartments. The Altar-piece is of the ſame Kind of Timber adorned with four fluted Columns, their Architrave, &c. and open Compaſs-Pediment, where are carved the King's Arms. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue, Creed, and Pater Noſter; the former in Gold Letters on Black, under a Seraph and a Glory, and over two Cherubims; the two latter in Black on Gold, each under a Cherub; over the Columns are four Lamps, and the whole is alſo enriched with Fruit, and Corn-Ears, Flower, Leaves, and Cartouches.

THE Steeple here was erected and the Church new beautified in the Year 1713.

THE Church was again repaired and beautified the laſt Year (1732) at the Charge of the United Pariſhes.

Tower-Royal.

AT the Upper-End of this Street was the Tower Royal, whereof that Street took its Name. This Tower, and great Place, was ſo called from appertaining to the Kings of this Realm; but by whom the ſame was built, or of what Antiquity continued, is uncertain, more than that in the Reign of King Edward I, the ſecond, fourth, and ſeventh Years, it was the Tenement of Simon Beawmes. Alſo, that in the 36th of Edward III, the ſame was called the Royal, in the Pariſh of Michael de Pater-noſter; and that in the three and fortieth of his Reign, he gave it by the Name of his Inn, called the Royal, in his City of LONDON, in Value 20 l. by the Year, unto his College of St. Stephen at Weſtminſter. Notwithſtanding, in the Reign of Richard II, it was called, The Queen's Wardrobe, as appeareth by this that followeth:

"KING Richard, having in Smithfield overcome and diſperſed the Rebels, he, his Lords, and all his Company, entered the City of LONDON, with great Joy, and went to the Lady Princeſs his Mother, who was then lodged in the Tower Royal, called The Queen's Wardrobe, where ſhe had remained three Days and two Nights, right ſore abaſheg. But when ſhe ſaw the King her Son, ſhe was greatly rejoiced and ſaid, Ah Son, what great Sorrow have I ſuffered for you this Day! The King anſwered and ſaid; Certainly, Madam, I know it well, but now rejoice, and thank God, for I have this Day recovered mine Heritage, and the Realm of England, which I had near hand loſt.

THIS Tower ſeemeth to have been (at that Time) of good Defence, for when the Rebels had beſet the Tower of LONDON, and got Poſſeſſion thereof, taking from thence whom they liſted; as Mr. Stow has ſhewn in his Annals, the Princeſs being forced to fly, came to this Tower Royal, where ſhe was lodged, and remained ſafe, as has been mention'd. And it may belſo a ſuppoſed, that the King himſelf was at that Time lodged there; for in the Year 1386, Lion King of Armony, being chaſed out of his Realm by the Tartarians, received innumerable Gifts of the King and of his Nobles, the King then lying in the Royal; where he alſo granted to the ſaid King of Armony, a Charter of 1000 l. by the Year, during his Life. This, for Proof, may ſuffice, that Kings of England have been lodged in this Tower, though the ſame (of later Time) was neglected, and turned into Stabling for the King's Horſes, and afterwards let out to divers Men, and divided into Tenements.

THIS great Houſe, belonging antiently to the Kings of England, was inhabited by the firſt Duke of Norfolk, of the Family of the Howards; granted unto him by King Richard III. For in an old Ledger Book of that King's, it is ſaid, "That the King granted unto John Duke "of Norfolk, Meſſuagium cum Pertinenciis, voc. "Le Tower infra Paroch. Sancti Thomæ Lond.

Cutlers Hall.

IN Horſebridge-ſtreet is the Cutlers Hall, Richard de Wilehale, 1295, confirmed to Paul Butelar, this Houſe and the Edifices, in the Pariſh of St. Michael Pater Noſter Church, and St. John's upon Wallbrook. Which ſome Time Lawrence Giſors, and his Son Peter Giſors did poſſeſs, and afterwards Hugo de Hingham; and lieth between the Tenement of the ſaid Richard, towards the South, and the Lane called Horſeſhoe-bridge towards the North, and between the Way called Pater Noſter Church on the Weſt, and the Courſe of Wallbrook on the Eaſt, paying yearly one Clove of Gilliflowers at Eaſter, and to the Prior and Convent of St. Mary Overy 6 s. This Houſe ſome Time belonged to Simon Doleſly, Grocer, Mayor in the Year 1359. They of this Company were (of old Time) three Arts, or Sorts of Workmen, to wit, the firſt were Smiths, Forgers of Blades, and therefore called Bladers, and divers of them proved wealthy Men, as namely, Walter Nele, Blader, one of the Sheriffs, the 12th of Edward III, deceaſed 1352, and buried in St. James's Garlickhithe. He left Lands to the mending of Highways about LONDON, between Newgate and Wicombe, Aldgate and Chelmsford, Biſhopſgate and Ware, Southwark and Rocheſter, &c. The ſecond were Makers of Hafts, and otherwiſe Garniſhers of Blades. The third Sort were Sheathmakers for Swords, Daggers, and Knives. In the 10th of Henry IV, certain Ordinances were made betwixt the Bladers and other Cutlers; and in the 4th of Henry VI, they were all three drawn into one Fraternity, or Brotherhood, by the Name of Cutlers.

THEN is Knightrider's-ſtreet, ſo called (as is ſuppoſed) from Knights well armed and mounted at the Tower-Royal, riding from thence thro' that Street, Weſt to Creed-lane, and ſo out at Ludgate, towards Smithfield; when they were there at Turney, Juſt, or otherwiſe to ſhew their Activities before the King and States of the Realm.

The PARISH of St. MARTIN's in the Vintry.

The Pariſh of St. Martin's in the Vintry.

AT the South Corner of Royal-ſtreet, was the Pariſh-Church of St. Martin, called in the Vintry, ſome Time called St. Martin de Beremand Church.

John Edrop, Citizen and Vintner of LONDON, in his Teſtament made the ninth of Auguſt 1385, willed his Body to be buried in this Church: To which he bequeathed a hundred Shillings. Item, Lego ad opus Campanarum in dict. Eccleſia faciend. 20 Marcas.

THIS Church was new built about the Year 1399, by the Executors of Matthew Columbars, a Stranger born, a Bourdeaux Merchant of Gaſcoigne and French Wines: His Arms yet remain in the Eaſt Window, and is a Chevron, between three Columbines.

THIS Church was in Part re-edified, and in many Parts repaired and beautified at the Coſt and Charges of the Pariſhioners, in the ſecond Year of the Reign King James I.

THE Charge then amounting to the Sum of four hundred and ſixty odd Pounds.

IT was again repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord 1632, as before, at the Coſt of the Pariſh.

The PARISH of St. THOMAS APOSTLES.

The Pariſh of St. Thomas Apoſtles.

THE Charge of it amounting to near 300 l. But the Monuments of Antiquity were all defaced in Stow's Time, except ſome Arms in the Windows, as alſo in the Stone-work, which ſome ſuppoſe to be the Arms of John Barnes, Mercer, Mayor of LONDON in the Year 1371, a great Builder thereof. Henry Cauſton, Merchant, was a Benefactor, and had a Chantry there about 1396. Thomas Romain, Mayor 1310, had alſo a Chantry there about 1319. Fitz-Williams, alſo a Benefactor, had a Chantry there. More, Sir William Littelsbury, alias Horn, (for King Edward IV, ſo named him) becauſe he was a moſt excellent Blower in a Horn. He was a Salter, and Merchant of the Staple, Mayor of LONDON in the Year 1487, and was buried in this Church; having appointed (by his Teſtament) the Bells to be changed for four new ones, of good Tune and Sound; but that was not performed: He gave five hundred Marks towards the Repairing of Highways between LONDON and Cambridge. His Dwelling-houſe, with a Garden and Appurtenances in the ſaid Pariſh, he deviſed to be ſold, and beſtowed in charitable Actions, as his Executors would anſwer before GOD.

HIS Houſe called the George in Bread-ſtreet, he gave to the Salters, they to find a Prieſt in the ſaid Church, to have 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. the Year. After whoſe Death, ſhe took to her ſecond Husband, William Sheldin of Beeley in the County of Worceſter, Eſq; who alſo died, leaving her a Widow; and ſo ſhe continued many Years after; and then died, being about the Age of eighty Years, and was buried in March 1589, in the 32d Year of Queen Elizabeth.

NUMBER of Houſes 111.

IN this St. Thomas Apoſtles there was a Meſſuage, perhaps ſome Time the Dwelling of the Earls of Cornwal, called Ringed Hall. For in the Reign of Edward III, a Place ſo called, with four Shops and two Gardens in this Pariſh, was granted by Edmund Earl of Cornwal, to the Abbot of Beaulieu near Oxford. And regranted and a Plea thereupon in the Huſtings, 2 Richard II.

THEN Weſt from the ſaid Church, on the ſame Side, was one great Meſſuage, ſometimes called Ipres Inn, of William Ipres a Fleming, the firſt Builder thereof. This William was called out of Flanders, with a Number of Flemings, to the Aid of King Stephen, againſt Maude the Empreſs, in the Year 1138, and grew in Favour with the ſaid King for his Service, ſo far, that he built this his Houſe near Tower-Royal, in which Tower it ſeems the King was then lodged, as in the Heart of the City, for his moſt Safety.

Robert Earl of Glouceſter, Brother to the Empreſs, being taken, was committed to the Cuſtody of this William, to keep in the Caſtle of Rocheſter, till King Stephen was alſo taken, and then one was deliver'd in Exchange for the other, and both ſet free. This William of Ipres gave Edrede's Hithe, now called Queen-hithe, to the Prior and Canons of the Holy Trinity in LONDON. He founded the Abbey of Foxley in Kent, &c. In the firſt of Henry II. the ſaid William, with all the other Flemings (fearing the Indignation of the new King) departed the Land; but it ſeems the ſaid William was ſhortly called back again, and reſtored both to the King's Favour, and to his old poſſeſſions here; ſo that the Name and Family continued long after in this Realm, as will appear by this which follows.

IN the Year 1377, the 51ſt of Edward III. the Citizens of LONDON minding to have deſtroyed John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaſter, and Henry Percy, Marſhal, (for Cauſes ſet forth in Mr. Stow's Annals) fought up and down, and could not find them; for they were that Day to dine with John of Ipres at his Inn, which the Londoners knew not of, but thought the Duke and Marſhal had been at the Savoy, and therefore poſted thither. But one of the Duke's Knights ſeeing theſe things, came in great Haſte to the Place where the Duke was, and after he had knocked, and could not be let in, he ſaid to Haveland the Porter, If thou love my Lord and thy Life, open the Gate: With which Words he got Entry, and with great Fear he tells the Duke, that without the Gate were infinite Numbers of armed Men, and unleſs he took great Heed, that Day would be his laſt: With which Words the Duke leapt ſo haſtily (being eating Oyſters) that he hurt both his Legs againſt the Form: Wine was offered, but he could not drink for Haſte, and ſo fled with his Fellow, Henry Percy, out of a back Gate, and entering upon the Thames, never ſtaid rowing, until they came to a Houſe near the Manor of Kennington, where at that Time the Princeſs lay, with Richard the young Prince, before whom he made his Complaint, &c.

ON the other Side was a Meſſuage called Ringed Hall. King Henry VIII. the 32d of his Reign, gave the ſame, with four Tenements adjoining, to Morgan Philips, alias Wolfe, in the Pariſh of St. Thomas Apoſtles in LONDON, &c.

OVER againſt Ipres Inn, in Knightriders-ſtreet, at the Corner towards St. James at Garlick-hithe, was ſome Time a great Houſe built of Stone, and called Ormond-place, for that it ſome Time belonged to the Earls of Ormond. Edward the IVth, in the 5th of his Reign, gave to Elizabeth his Wife, the Manor of Greenwich, with the Town and Park, in the County of Kent. He alſo gave this Tenement called Ormond-place, with all the Appurtenances to the ſame, ſituate in the Pariſh of Trinity in Knightriders-ſtreet in LONDON.

LOWER down, in Royal-ſtreet, was Kerion-lane, from one Kerion, ſome Time dwelling there. In this Lane was the Glaſiers Hall; but they have had none ſince the Fire, but meet at Lorimers Hall.

The PARISH of St. JAMES GARLICK-HITHE.

THEN is the Pariſh-Church of St. James, call'd, at Garlick-hithe, or Garlick-hive; for that (of old Time) on the Bank of the River Thames, near to this Church, Garlick was uſually ſold. This was a handſome Church, whereof Richard Rothing, one of the Sheriffs, in 1326, is ſaid to be the new Builder.

THE North Iſle of this Church was new built, and the whole Church repaired and beautified at the the Charge of the Pariſhioners in the Year of our Lord 1624. The Charge of it amounting to 700*l.* and upwards.

THIS Church was burnt down in the great Fire of LONDON, but rebuilt, the Foundation being laid Anno 1676; built and opened 1682; compleatly finiſh'd 1683.

THE Church is well built of Stone, covered with Lead, with handſome outer Door-caſes, of the Corinthian Order.

THE Roof within is flat, and ſupported with 12 Columns (beſides ſeveral Pilaſters) of the Ionick Order.

AS to Ornament (beſides the ſaid Columns, and a large Cornice, as alſo the Fret-work Pannels, &c. of the Roof) the Church is neatly pewed and wainſcotted with right Wainſcot nine Feet high; has two fine ſpacious inner Door-caſes, of the Corinthian Order; and the Pulpit is finnier'd, and has Enrichments; all which are of Norway Oak.

THE Altar-piece is alſo of that Timber, adorned with two fluted Columns, Entablature, and Pediment of the laſt ſaid Order; in the Middle of which Pediment are the King's Arms finely carved. Here are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, between the Lord's Prayer and Creed in Black Letters on Gold, the Whole being embelliſh'd with Enrichments of Cherubims, Shields, Feſtoons, Leaves, Fruit, &c. incloſed with Rail and Balliſter, and within that Compaſs; the Foot-path for the Communion-Table is black and white Marble.

LENGTH of the Church is 75 Feet; Breadth 45; Height 40; and the Altitude of the Steeple (which is a Tower with Rail and Balliſter, above the Cornice at the Top) is about 90 Feet high.

Against the Wall in the South Iſle was this Inſcription:

Here Edmund Chapman, cloſed in Clay, undoubtedly doth reſt,
Who to his Neighbours (while he lived)
the Fruits of Love expreſt.
Fine Pews within this Church he made,
and with his Arms ſupport,
The Table and the Seats in Choir
he ſet in comely ſort.
To Pris'ners and to Hoſpitals
he living was a Friend,
And ever ſought the Innocent from Danger to defend.
Eſquire Joyner to our Queen
he in his Life-time was,
And Yeoman of her Armory at Greenwich in like Caſe.
Wherein he like a Servant juſt for Duty duly done,
Unto himſelf of Prince and Peers
The Love and Favour won.
Threeſcore ſeven Years he lived here in Worſhip and good Name;
And left this Life to live with CHRIST,
to his eternal Fame.
His Soul the fourteenth Day of May did from his Body fleet,
Which he with chearful Voice did yield to CHRIST his Saviour ſweet.
And on the eighteenth of that Month
by Computation juſt,
A thouſand five hundred eighty eight his Body was laid in Duſt.
But Body and Soul at laſt, be ſure, through GOD's abundant Grace,
Shall riſe and knit again in one,
and ſtand before his Face
Where with his Saints elect, we hope, he ſhall receive a Crown,
And live for ever with ſweet CHRIST,
in Glory and Renown.
Thus, Friends, by this dear Friend of ours,
let's learn to live and dye;
That after Death we may have Life,

The Modern State of this Ward.

THIS Ward is bounded on the Eaſt by Dowgate Ward, on the South by the River Thames, on the Weſt by Queen-hithe Ward, and on the North by Cordwainers Ward. The chief Streets in this Ward are Thames-ſtreet, and New Queen-ſtreet; then Garlick-hill, College-hill, and St. Thomas Apoſtles; in which ſaid Streets and Hills, are ſeveral Lanes, Courts, and Alleys.

Thames-ſtreet runneth through the Heart of this Ward from Eaſt to Weſt, being a Street, as before noted, well inhabited by able Tradeſmen: The Part in this Ward is from little Elbow-lane in the Eaſt, where Dowgate Ward joins unto it, and to Townſend-lane in the Weſt, where Queen-hithe Ward begins. In this Part of Thames-ſtreet, within this Ward, are theſe Places; Shepherd's-alley, long and narrow, but indifferent good. Black-ſwan-alley, indifferent well built. Here was formerly a large Houſe, called Worceſter-houſe, as belonging to the Earls of Worceſter, and from thence ſo called; now converted into Tenements, and here the Fruiterers had their Hall. Anchor-lane, long and narrow, running down to the Thames: It was formerly called Palmer's-lane; and here the Plumbers have their Hall. Vintners Hall, ſeated in Thames-ſtreet, now a curious large Building, which encloſeth a large ſquare Court, with a handſome Free-ſtone Pavement. The North Side Fronts the Street, where there is a curious Pair of Iron of Gates, with Free-ſtone Pillars on each Side, wreathed with Grapes and Leaves, and upon each of the Pillars are three Tuns, with a Bacchus ſitting thereon; behind the Hall, and other Buildings, is a Garden, from which is a Paſſage to the Thames, where there is a Pair of Stairs: And being open, hath a curious Proſpect.

New Queen-ſtreet, commonly called the Three Cranes in the Vintry, a good open Street, eſpecially that Part next Cheapſide, which is beſt built and inhabited; but it hath no more in this Ward, than a little beyond St. Thomas Apoſtle's, the reſt of this Street being in Cordwainers Ward and Cheap Ward. At the lower End of the Street, next the Thames, is a Pair of Stairs, the uſual Place for the Lord Mayor and Aldermen to take Water at, to go to Weſtminſter-hall, for the new Lord Mayor to be ſworn before the Barons of the Exchequer. This Place, with the Three Cranes, is now of ſome Account for the Coſtermongers, where they have their Warehouſes for their Fruit.

Church-lane, ſo called, as ſeated over-againſt St. Martin's Vintry Church, a long and narrow Lane, which leadeth to the River Thames; out of this Place is a Paſſage into new New Queen-ſtreet.

Three

Three Crane-court, long and narrow, running down to the Thames, where there is a Pair of Stairs; this Lane is alſo taken up by Coſtermongers. About the Middle of the Lane is a Paſſage into Church-lane, as alſo into Brickhill-lane. Over-againſt this Lane was the Church of St. Martin in the Vintry; it is in the Dioceſe of LONDON: The Abbot of Gloceſter was Patron, and the Deſmes 26 s. 8 d. This Church was conſumed in the Fire of LONDON 1666, and not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to St. Michael Royal.

Emperor's-head-lane, narrow and ordinary, with a Paſſage to the Thames. Tennis-court, or Fryar's-lane, runneth down almoſt to the Thames, where there is a Dyer's, and falls into Dowgate. In this Lane is the Entrance into Joiners Hall, a pretty neat Building, with a handſome, but ſmall Court before it, having a Free-ſtone Pavement, and a Pair of Gates at the Entrance, with carved Figures, being Demy Savages, on the Top of the Piers; but this Hall is in Dowgate Ward.

THE North Side of Thames-ſtreet hath theſe Places: Little Elbow-lane, which falls into Great Elbow-lane, and ſo into College-hill by St. Michael Royal Church, both which Lanes are indifferent.

THE Eaſt Part of this Lane is in Dowgate Ward. This Church of St. Michael's Royal is a curious Free-ſtone Building, having Battlements with turned Pillars, with a lofty towered Steeple of Free-ſtone.

IT is a Peculiar of Canterbury, the Wardens of the Company of Mercers were the Patrons. The Church was deſtroyed in the general Conflagration, and is now rebuilt, as aforeſaid: To which Pariſh is united that of St. Martin's in the Vintry.

College-hill comes out of St. Thomas Apoſtle's, and falls into Thames-ſtreet; a Place well built and inhabited by Merchants, and others. On the Weſt Side is Maiden-lane, which croſſeth New Queen-ſtreet, and falls into Garlick-hill, by St. James's Garlick-hithe Church. Out of this Lane is a Paſſage into Thames-ſtreet, and another into Maidenhead-court, which is but ordinary. On the Eaſt Side of College-hill is St. Michael's Royal Church; and almoſt over-againſt the ſaid Church is Buckingham Houſe, ſo called, as being bought by Villars, Duke of Buckingham, and where he ſome Time reſided upon a particular Humour: It is a very large and graceful Building, late the Seat of Sir John Lethuillier, an eminent Merchant, ſome Time Sheriff and Alderman of LONDON, deceaſed.

St. Thomas Apoſtle's, of which there are two, viz. Great St. Thomas Apoſtle's, which is in this Ward, and little St. Thomas Apoſtle's, which is in Cordwainers Ward. This Great St. Thomas Apoſtle's is a good handſome Street, and well inhabited; on the North Side was ſeated the Church of St. Thomas Apoſtle's, which, before its being burnt in the general Fire of LONDON, ſtood in the Middle of New Queen-ſtreet, a Street made ſince the Fire out of Soper-lane, &c. for a ſtrait Paſſage to the Water-Side from Guild-hall.

THIS Church not being built, the Pariſh is united unto St. Mary Aldermary.

Garlick-hill takes its Beginning in the North from Bow-lane, and falls into Thames-ſtreet, a Place well built, and inhabited. In this Place are theſe Courts, Sugar-loaf-court, a large Place, but ordinarily inhabited; it hath a Paſſage down Steps into Thames-ſtreet thro' a Place called the Bowling-alley. Three-Shear-court, ſmall and ordinary; over-againſt this Court is the Pariſh-Church of St. James Garlick-hithe: It is in the Dioceſe of LONDON; the Abbot of Weſtminſter was Patron, and the Diſmes are 9 s. 4 d. It was deſtroyed in the general Conflagration, and is rebuilt better than before.

Great Trinity-lane hath but a ſmall Part in this Ward.

Bow-lane hath alſo ſome ſmall Part in this Ward; but the greateſt Share is in Cordwainers Ward.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward every Night, a Conſtable, the Beadle, and 34 Watchmen.

THE Jury-men return'd by the Wardmote-Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts held in the Guild-Hall in the Month of April.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman and Deputy, nine Common-Council-Men, nine Conſtables, four Scavengers, fourteen Wardmote Inqueſt-Men, and a Beadle: It is taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 6 l. 13 s. 4 d.

THE Alderman of this Ward is Sir John Eyles, Bart.

CHAP. II.

CORDWAINERS-STREET WARD.

Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward.

THE next is Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward, ſo called from Cordwainers or Shoemakers, Curriers and Workers of Leather dwelling there. For it appears in the Records of Henry VI, the Ninth of his Reign, that an Order was taken then for Cordwainers and Curriers in Corney-ſtreet, and Sopers-lane.

THIS Ward begins in the Eaſt, on the Weſt Side of Wallbrook, and runs Weſt towards Budge-row (a Street ſo called from the Budge Furr, and Skinners dwelling there;) then up by St. Antholin's Church, thorough Aetheling (or Noble-ſtreet) as Leyland terms it, commonly called Watling-ſtreet, to the Red Lyon, a Place ſo called, from a great Lion of Timber placed there, at a Gate entering to a large Court, wherein were divers handſome and large Shops, well furniſh'd with Broad Cloths, and other Draperies of all Sorts to be ſold: And this is the fartheſt Weſt Part of this Ward.

ON the South Side of this Street from Budge-row, lyeth a Lane turning down by which the Weſt Gate of the Tower Royal ſtood; and to the South End of the Stone Wall, beyond the ſaid Gate; which is of this Ward, and is accounted a Part of the Royal Street.

AGAINST this Weſt Gate of the Tower Royal was another Lane, that runs Weſt to Cordwainers-ſtreet; and this is called Turnbaſe-lane; on the South Side whereof, was a Piece of Wringwren-lane, to the North Weſt Corner of St. Thomas the Apoſtle's. Then again out of the High-ſtreet, call'd Watling, is another Street which runs croſs the ſame; and this is Cordwainer-ſtreet; whereof the whole Ward takes its Name.

THIS Street begins by Weſtcheap; and St. Mary le Bow Church is the Head thereof on the Weſt Side, and it runs down South thorough that Part, which of latter Time was called Hoſier-lane, now Bow-lane; and then by the Weſt End of Aldermary Church, to the new built Houſes, in place of Ormond-Houſe, and ſo to Garlick-hill or hithe to St. James's Church.

THE upper Part of this Street towards Cheap, was called Hoſier-lane, from Hoſiers dwelling there, in the Place of Shoemakers: But now thoſe Hoſiers being worn out by Men of other Trades, (as the Hoſiers had worn out the Shoemakers) the ſame is called Bow-lane, from Bow Church.

ON the Weſt Side of Cordwainers-ſtreet, is Baſing-lane, right over-againſt Turnbaſe-lane. This Baſing-lane, Weſt, to the back Gate of the Red Lion in Watling-ſtreet, is of this Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward.

Now again on the North Side of the high Street, in Budge-row, by the Eaſt End of St. Anthony's Church, is St. Sithe's-lane, ſo called from St. Sithe's Church, (which ſtood againſt the North End of that Lane) and this Place is wholly of Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward: And alſo the South Side of Needlers-lane, which reacheth from the North End of St. Sithe's-lane, Weſt to Soper's-lane; then ſomewhat Weſt from St. Anthony's Church, is the South End of Soper's-lane, which took that Name, not from making Soap there, as ſome have ſuppoſed, but from one Alleyne le Soper, in the 9th of Edward II. Stow ſaith, he had read of no Soap making in this City, till within an hundred Years of his Time, that one John Lambe, dwelling in the Graſs-ſtreet, ſet up a Boiling Houſe. For this City, in former Times, was ſerved with white Soap in hard Cakes, called Caſtile Soap, and other, from beyond Sea; and with Grey Soap, ſpeckled with White from Briſtol; ſold here for a Penny a Pound, and never above a Penny Farthing, and Black Soap for an Halfpenny the Pound.

IN this Soper's-lane the Pepperers antiently dwelt, wealthy Tradeſmen, who dealt in Spices and Drugs: Two of this Trade were divers Times Mayors in the Reign of King Henry III. viz. Andrew Bocherel and John de Giſorcio, or Giſors. In the Reign of King Edward II, Anno 1315, they came to be governed by Rules and Orders, which are extant in one of the Books of the Chamber, under this Title, Ordinatio Piperarum de Soper's-lane; Beginning Ces ſount les Pointz que les bons Gentz de Sopere-lane del meſtier des peverers, &c. i. e. Theſe are the Points which the good Men of Soper's-lane of the Myſtery of Pepperers, by the Aſſent of Sir Stephen de Abyndone, Mayor of LONDON, John de Giſorce, Nicholas de Farendone, John de Wengrave, Robert de Kelſhbey, Will. le Leyre, &c. Aldermen; have made for the common Benefit of the whole People of the Land, &c.

THEN in Bow-lane (as they now call it) is Gooſe-lane, by Bow Church. William Eſſex, Mercer, had Tenements there, in the 26th of Edward III.

THEN from the South End of Bow-lane, up Watling-ſtreet, till over-againſt the Red Lion; and theſe are the Bounds of Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward.

The PARISH of St. ANTHONY, OR St. ANTHOLINE.

THIS Church, vulgarly called St. Antlin's, was dedicated to St. Anthony, as there were alſo a School and Hoſpital in this City.

St. Anthony was in his Time a famous and Holy Eremite, and Abbot of the Monks in Egypt, in the Time of the Emperor Conſtantine the Great, and of his Sons. He lived in the Country of Thebais, which St. Jerome takes to be the Land of Goſhen, wherein Jacob, the Patriarch, with his Sons dwelt.

THIS Anthony was famous for his Holy Life and Miracles, whoſe Acts, written by Athanaſius in Greek, were tranſlated into Latin by Evagrius.

IN the 20th Year of his Age he ſold all that he had, giving the one half to his Siſter, and the reſt to the Poor. At firſt he lived in a ſolitary Place not far diſtant from his own Town; when he was about 35 Years old, he withdrew himſelf into the Wilderneſs, living there a moſt auſtere Life; where after he had lived 20 Years ſolitarily, he then came abroad and converſed with other Monks, to whom he often reſorted; and he came into the Cities where he boldly preached Chriſt. At laſt, he retired again into a wild Deſert, where he ſeated himſelf on the Top of a ſteep Hill, living with ſlender Fare and Proviſion, Ann. Chriſti 271.

FROM him are derived the Eremites of the Order of St. Anthony, who live only with Bread, and Wine, and Salt; St. Athanaſius, with whom awhile he converſed and lived, wrote a Treatiſe of his Life, which, as Evagrius, ſo St. Jerome, alſo tranſlated out of Greek into Latin, at the Requeſt of Damachius.

IT is ſaid, that God gave a Privilege to St. Anthony, or a Preſervative againſt Fire; not only againſt the Diſeaſe called St. Anthony's Fire; but alſo from the Fire of Hell.

THE Monks of the Order of St. Anthony uſe a black Habit, with the Letter T, of a Blue Colour, on the Fore-Part of their Breaſt, in Imitation of St. Anthony, as they boaſt.

THESE Monks with their importunate begging, contrary to the Example of St. Anthony, are ſo troubleſome, that, if Men give them nothing they will preſently threaten them with St. Anthony's Fire; ſo that many ſimple People, out of Fear or blind Zeal, every Year uſed to beſtow on them a fat Pig, or Porker, (which they have ordinarily painted on their Pictures of St. Anthony) whereby they might procure their good Will and Prayers, and be ſecure from their Menaces.

St. Anthony having lived a very devout Life 105 Years, died at Thebais, in Egypt, Jan. 17, Anno Chriſti 358. His Body (ſaith Uſuardus) was buried by two of his Diſciples privately by his own Directions; ſo that it was unknown a long Time where it lay. At laſt, in the Time of the Emperor Juſtinian, it was found by Divine Revelation, and tranſlated thence to Alexandria, as Sigebert ſaith, Ann. 522, Marianus Scotius ſaith, Ann. 531, Coſpian, Ann. 541, others ſay at other Times, and laid there in the Church of St. John Baptiſt. It is ſaid, That his Body was afterwards tranſlated from Alexandria (Mirxus ſaith, from Conſtantinople) unto Vienna, in the Province of Narbon, in France, as ſome relate; and from thence he is otherwiſe ſtiled St. Anthony of Vienna.

THE Order of St. Anthony of Vienna was inſtituted by Ghaſton, and Girone, Noblemen of Vienna, under the Rule of Auguſtin, about the Year 1095, Pavin in Chron. Greſter de Feſt, p. 308.

MANY grave and credible Authors make Mention of St. Anthony, as St. Jerome, St. Auſtin, and others.

THE Commemoration of St. Anthony, is celebrated yearly on the 17th of January.

BESIDES this Holy Abbot Anthony, there was alſo St. Anthony of Padua, born at Lisbon in Portugal, called Malleus Hæreticorum; by whom ſuch Miracles have been reported to have been wrought as are almoſt incredible. He died June 13, Anno Domini 1231, being not above 36 Years old. He was canoniz'd a Saint by Pope Gregory IX. at Spoletum, next Year after his Death.

St. Antholianus alſo was an Holy Martyr, who ſuffered (with others) at Avergne in France, whoſe Commemoration is celebrated Feb. 9, of whom Mention is made by Bede, Cardinal Baronius, and others, whoſe Name coming near the vulgar Name of our Church St. Antlin's is here inſerted, if any ſhould fancy, that our Church of St. Antlin's might be ſo named from him: But, doubtleſs, this Church of St. Antlin's (corruptly ſo called from St. Anthony) was dedicated to the Memory of that famous Egyptian Abbot and Eremite St. Anthony, and to none other of that Name.

WHEN this Church was firſt founded is uncertain; but it is known that here was ſome Time a Cell of St. Anthony's of Vienna, founded by Henry II. and likewiſe the Church was re-edified by Thomas Knowles, Grocer, Mayor, and his Son, which muſt be about the Year 1399, whoſe Arms were Azure, Cruſuly a Croſs Moline voided and couped, Or, and

THAT John de Wells, Mayor, Anno 1431, built the South Iſle of the Church.

AND that John Tate, Citizen and Mercer, rebuilt this Church, Anno 1513.

IT was repaired and beautified Anno 1616, which coſt 1000 l. towards which Mr. Henry Jay, Alderman, Sir William Craven, Mr. William Parker, Mr. Adrian Moor, Mr. Thomas Boothby, Mr. Cleophas Smith, and Mr. Fra. Dorrington contributed bountifully. It was one of thoſe demoliſhed by the Fire in 1666, and was re-erected not long after; being finiſhed as it now appears in 1682.

IT is built of Stone, and covered with Lead, the Outſide being of the Tuſcan Order: But the Roof within (which is an Ecliptical Cupola, with four Port-hole Windows) is ſupported by eight Pillars of the Compoſite Order.

THE ſaid Cupola is adorned with Fret-work of Feſtoons, &c. and the Walls lined round with Wainſcot ſeven Feet high: And the Church is well pewed.

THERE is a fine Gallery at the Weſt End, which is likewiſe right Wainſcot Bolection Work ſwelling.

ALSO a Pulpit curiouſly finniered and carved, being adorned with Cherubims, Fruit, &c.

THE Altar-piece is right Wainſcot, conſiſting of four Columns of the Corinthian Order, fluted with their Entablature and two Pediments; the Intercolumns are the Lord's Prayer, Creed, and in the Center the Commandments in Frames, carved and gilt, over which is a Glory and three gilt Cherubims, and above them the King's Arms; on each Side whereof are two Lamps, and a fine Cartouch on the North of this Altar-piece, and another on the South, the whole being beautifully enriched with Feſtoons, Fruit, Palm-Branches, &c.

THE Communion-Table (which is a large Marble Slab placed on a carved Frame) is incloſed with Rail and Balliſter, and the Choir paved with Black and White Marbles, not far from which, on the North Side, ſtands the Marble Stone Font, with a carved Cover incloſed with handſome Iron Rails.

AND here is one large Branch.

THE Length of the Church is about 66 Feet, Breadth 54, and Height within 44 Feet.

HERE is alſo a neat Spire Steeple, in Altitude about 154 Feet, deſigned by Sir Chr. Wren, and built by Mr. Cartwright, wherein is one Bell.

Recogitabo tibi omnes annos meos in amaritudine animæ meæ.

The PARISH of St. MARY ALDERMARY.

St. Mary Aldermary.

NEXT, on the South Side of Budge-row, by the Weſt Corner thereof, and on the Eaſt of Cordwainers-ſtreet, or Bow-lane, is another Church, called St. Mary Aldermary, becauſe the ſame was very old, and elder than any Church of St. Mary in the City.

In St. Anthony's Pariſh aforeſaid, Sir William Craven, the great and wealthy Alderman (from whence the Lords of that Name deſcended) had his Shop, though his Dwelling-houſe was in the Pariſh of St. Andrew Underſhaft; which Shop, with the Houſe, he left to his Partners, Robert and John Parker. For ſo his Will ran: "My "Will and Mind is, that the ſaid J. P. and "R. P. ſhall have and enjoy the Leaſe of my "Houſe in the Pariſh of St. Antholin's in LON-"DON, which I hold of the Mercers Com-"pany; and the full Uſe and Occupation of "the Shop, Ware-houſes, Hall, Kitchen, Cham-"bers, Parlours, and all other Rooms to the "ſaid Meſe belonging, &c. for and during their "natural Lives. &c. they keeping the ſaid Houſe "in their own Poſſeſſion, paying the Mercers "Rent every half Year, maintaining the Houſe "in neceſſary Repairs, paying the Parſon's Du-"ties, and other Ceſſements, &c." And what his Trade and Calling was (which he continued to his Death) may appear in his ſaid Will: Where ordering a Loan of ſome Money, he willed it to be Lent out of ſuch Money, or Stock, as he had then going in Trade, or occupying in Woollen Cloth, or Clothes.

The old Church of St. Mary Aldermary, had its Foundation laid by Henry Keeble, Grocer, Mayor of LONDON in the Year 1510, who alſo gave 1000*l.* to finiſh it, with a Steeple. This worthy Founder died Anno 1518, and was here buried.

He was free of the Company of Grocers, and Son of George Keeble, Citizen and Grocer of LONDON.

But that Church falling a Sacrifice to the deplorable Flames in 1666, the preſent Structure was built at the Charge of Henry Rogers, Eſq; who gave 5000*l.* to the like pious Uſe, as appears by the Inſcription in Gold Letters, over the Weſt Door; thus Engliſhed:

"This Church (which was reduced to Aſhes "by the general Conflagration of the City, and "is now rebuilt with much greater Magnificence, "by the pious Liberality of one ſingle, but very "bountiful Hand, at the Expence of full 5000*l.*) "gratefully acknowledges in this comely Fron-"tiſpiece, That this pious Benefaction is owing "to Henry Rogers, Eſq; the great Grandſon of "Edward Rogers, of Canington, Knight, who "was a Confeſſor in Queen Mary's Days, and "the Heir alſo of his Piety: In the Year of our "Lord 1681.

The Memory of the Juſt ſhall be bleſſed.

(So far the Inſcription.)

This Gentleman left the ſaid Sum for rebuilding a Church; and his Executrix Mrs. Rogers was prevailed upon to apply it to that abovementioned. The Donation was given before the publick Fund was ſettled by Parliament on Coals, for rebuilding Churches damnified and demoliſhed by Fire.

It was wainſcotted and pewed at the Pariſh Charge; and the Altar-piece, with the Rails and Frame of the Communion-Table, were given by Dame Jane Smith, Relict of Sir John Smith, Knight, and Alderman of this City: So the Church was finiſhed Anno 1682: And the Steeple was, about the Year 1701, built at the publick Charge, with Money ariſing by the Coal Duty, and was beautified, moſtly paved, and a curious Vault made in the Year 1705.

As to the Order and Nature of the Building of this Church; the Walls are Stone, the Roof flattiſh, cover'd with Lead, and the Pillars that ſupport it, as alſo the Tower and Windows, are of the modern Gothick Order. The Floor of the Chancel is one Step higher than the Nave of the Church.

It is handſomely adorned and finiſhed, the Roof with Circles, Gothical Arches, and Branches of Crocket-work and Fret-work; the grand Arches with the Arms of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, i. e. that of the See, and theſe following; impaled with on a Chevron between three Croſſes Formy as many Martlets.

Alſo with the Arms, in ſeveral Places, of the laſt Founder (which are likewiſe on a Hatchment on the South Side of the Church, and in the Glaſs of the Eaſt Window) viz. Argent, a Chevron between three Bucks Tripant Sable.

LIKEWISE there are Cherubims, Palm-Branches, &c. all done in Fret-work; and over the North Iſle are two ſmall Cupola's.

IT is well pewed with Oak, and wainſcotted about 10 Feet high. The Pulpit is of the like Timber, carved and enriched with Cherubims, Fruit, &c.

THE Altar-piece is adorned with four Columns, their Entablature, and Compaſs Pediment, of the Corinthian Order; in the Middle of the Pediment, are the King's Arms carved, gilt, and painted. The Intercolumns, are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, and the Pater Noſter and the Creed in Black Letters on Gold. Over the Decalogue, is a Glory between two Cherubims, with other Enrichments of Cartouches, &c. gilt, for the moſt Part with Gold.

THE Communion-Table is a Marble Slab on a carved Frame, reſting on a Foot-pace of that Stone, Black and White, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

THERE are alſo three inner Wainſcot Door-caſes; that at the Weſt End is adorned with two fluted Pilaſters, their Architrave, Frieſe, Cornice and Pediment of the Corinthian Order, enrich'd with Leaves, Fruit, &c. and thoſe on the North and South Sides are plain.

THE Dimenſions of the Church, are Length 100 Feet, Breadth 63, Altitude about 45, and that of the Tower to the Vertex of the Pinnacles, near 135 Feet, wherein is one Bell.

MONUMENTS in this Church, were for

Henry Keeble, aforementioned, buried in a Vault by him prepared, with a fair Monument raiſed over him on the North Side of the Choir, now deſtroyed and gone; he gave by his Teſtament 1000*l.* towards the Building of the Church; and yet was not permitted a Reſting-Place for his Bones there.

This noble Benefactor ſeemed to have no Monument ſet over his Body for divers Years, till the Year 1534, or 1535. But William Blount, Lord Mountjoy, who married Alice, the ſaid Keeble's Daughter, by his Laſt Will, dated October 1534, ordered a Stone to be laid over him, upon this Conſideration, that there was no Stone upon him, and for that he had been a ſpecial Benefactor to the Building of Aldermary Church, to the Value of 2000*l.* and above, which was a great Sum of Money in thoſe Times.

Thomas Romaine, Mayor 1310, had a Chantry there.

Richard Chaucer, Vintner, (ſuppoſed to be Father to Sir Jeffrey Chaucer the Poet) gave to this Church his Tenement and Tavern, with the Appurtenances, in the Royal-ſtreet, the Corner of Kerion-lane, who was there buried 1348.

John Briton, Ralph Holland, Draper, one of the Sheriffs deceaſed 1452.

William Taylor, Grocer, Mayor, deceaſed 1483. He diſcharged that Ward of Fifteens, to be paid by the Poor.

Charles Blount, Lord Mountjoy, was there buried, about the Year 1545. He made or glazed the Eaſt Window, as appeareth by his Arms: His Epitaph was made by him in his Life-time thus:

Willingly have I ſought, and willingly have I found,
The fatal End that brought thither, as Duty bound:
Diſcharg'd I am of that I ought, to my Country by honeſt Wound,
My Soul departed Chriſt hath bought,
the End of Man, is Ground.

Sir William Laxton, Grocer, Mayor, deceaſed 1556, was buried in the Vault, prepared by Henry Keeble, principal Founder of that Church, for himſelf, but his Bones were caſt out, his Monument pulled down; and the Body of the ſaid Sir William Laxton, as alſo of Sir Thomas Lodge, Grocer, Mayor, laid in their Place, with Monuments over them for the Time.

Keeble's Epitaph outlives his Monument, which was as follows:

Here is fixt the Epitaph of Sir Henry Keeble, Knight,
Who was ſome Time of London Mayor,
a famous worthy Wight,
Which did this Aldermary Church erect and ſet upright.
Though Death prevail with mortal Wights,
and haſten every Day,
Yet Virtue over-lives the Grave,
her Fame doth not decay:
As Memories do ſhew reviv'd,
of one that was alive,
Who being dead, of virtuous Fame,
none ſhould ſeek to deprive;
Which ſo in Life deſerv'd renowne,
for Facts of his to ſee,
That may encourage other now,
of like good Mind to be.
Sir Henry Keeble, Knight, Lord Mayor of London here he ſate,
Of Grocers worthy Company,
the chiefeſt in his State,
Which in this City grew to Wealth,
and unto Worſhip came,
When Henry reign'd, who was the ſeventh of that redoubted Name;
But he to Honour did atchieve
the ſecond Golden Year
Of Henry's Reign, ſo call'd the eighth, and made his Fact appear.
When he this Aldermary Church
'gan build with great Expence,
Twice thirty Years agon, no doubt, counting the Time from hence:
Which Work began the Year of Chriſt,
well known of Chriſten Men,
One thouſand and five hundred juſt,
if ye will add but ten.
But lo, when Man purpoſeth moſt,
God doth diſpoſe the beſt,
And ſo before this Work was done,
God call'd this Knight to Reſt.
This Church as then not fully built,
he died about the Year,
When Ill May-day firſt took its Name, which is down fixed here:
Whoſe Works became a Sepulchre,
to ſhrowd him in that Caſe, God took his Soul, but Corpſe of his was laid about this Place.
Who when he died, of this his Work
ſo mindful ſtill he was,
That he bequeath'd one thouſand Pounds to have it brought to paſs.
The Execution of whoſe Gift, or where the Fault ſhould be,
The Work as yet unfiniſhed ſhall ſhew you all for me.
Which Church ſtands there, if any pleaſe
to finiſh up the ſame,
As he hath well begun, no doubt,
and to his endleſs Fame;

They

They ſhall not only well beſtow their Talent in this Life,
But after Death, when Bones be rot, their Fame ſhall be moſt rife:
With thankful Praiſe and good Report of our Parochians here,
Which have of right Sir Henry's Fame,
a-freſh renewed this Year.
God move the Minds of wealthy Men, their Works ſo to beſtow
As he hath done, that though they die, their virtuous Fame may flow.

Inclita perpetuo durabit Tempore Virtus,
Et floret fato non violanda truci.

On a handſome Monument in the Chancel is this Inſcription:

Sir Willam Laxton lies interred within this hollow Vault,
That by good Life had happy Death,
the End for which he ſought.
Of poor and rich he was belov'd,
his Dealings they were juſt,
God hath his Soul, his Body here
conſumed is to Duſt.

Here lives by Fame, that lately died,
Sir William Laxton's Wife,
That ever was a Doer good,
and liv'd a virtuous Life:
A mindful Matron of the Poor, and to the learned Sort,
A true and faithful Citizen, and died with good Report.

He died the 29th Day of July 1556.

On a ſmall Monument lying on the Ground is the following Inſcription:

Here lieth buried Sir Thomas Lodge, Knight, and Dame Anne his Wife: He was Lord Mayor in the Year of our Lord God, 1563, when God did viſit this City with a great Plague for our Sins.

For we are ſure that our Redeemer liveth, and that we ſhall riſe out of the Earth in the latter Day, &c. Job. 19.

Near adjoining to this Church of Aldermary was a perpetual Chantry at the Altar of St. John Baptiſt, in the Chapel near the Parochial Church, over a Channel there, formerly called Export's Chantry: And for the Maintaining thereof were given three Meſſuages and Tenements, in the Tenure of Walter Yong, Will. May, and Will. Campion, ſituate in the ſaid Pariſh. Theſe were by the King ſold to Walter Yong, and Edmond Yong, in the 2d of Edward VI.

Later Monuments

Late Monuments in this Church are theſe; againſt the South Wall a White Marble Monument of the Ionick Order, adorned with Columns, Feſtoons and Urns, with this Inſcription:

Recordare noviſſimi.

Near this Place lies interred Elizabeth Hanſon, Daughter of Sir Robert Hanſon, Knt. ſome Time Lord Mayor of this City, by Dame Catharine his Wife, one of the Coheirs of Michael Jones, Eſq;

Sir Robert and his Lady are buried in this Church.

Wit and Beauty, her celebrated Ornaments.

Beneath this Marble, at thy Feet, within the Confines of a narrow Urn, Lyes humble Duſt, a Bloſſom ſweet once as thou art, now waits a bleſt Return.

Her Life was holy, and her lateſt Breath
Expir'd in Love to God, and patient Death.

In the Middle of this Iſle lie interred three others of their Children.

Arms here are: Gules on a Chevron between three Oſtrich Feathers, Argent; as many Mullets Sable.

Against a North Pillar, fronting South-Eaſt, on a ſmall plain Marble Monument, is this Inſcription:

Peculiar Bleſſings bear the ſhorteſt Date,
And wond'rous Birth early reſign to Fate:
They're made by Nature of ſuperior Mould,
Of too refin'd a Subſtance to grow old.

Near this Place alſo lie two Sons and two Daughters.

On a ſpacious Marble Grave-ſtone, before the Rail of the Communion-Table, this Inſcription:

Here lieth the Body of Sir John Smith, Knt. Alderman, and ſometime Sheriff of LONDON, Son of James Smith, of Friday-ſtreet, Eſq; He firſt married Anne, Daughter of William Ways, of Windſor, by whom he had one Son; afterwards he married Jane, Daughter of Robert Dean, of this Pariſh, by whom he had ſix Sons and three Daughters; three Sons and two Daughters only ſurvived. Arcubus, from the Stone Arches, or Bows, that were on the Top of the Steeple, or Bell Tower thereof; for no other Part of the Church ſeemeth to have been arched at any Time. Yet hath the ſaid Church never been known by any other Name than St. Mary Bow, or Le Bow. Neither is the ſaid Church ſo called from the Court that was there kept, but the Court took its Name from the Place, and is called The Court of Arches, removed ſince to Doctors Commons.

THIS Church, in the Reign of William the Conqueror, being the firſt in this City built on Arches of Stone, was therefore called New Mary Church, or St. Mary de Arcubus, or Le Bow, in Weſt Cheaping. As Stratford Bridge, being the firſt built (by Martilda, the Queen, Wife to Henry I.) with Arches of Stone, was called Stratford Le Bow; which Names to the ſaid Church and Bridge, remain till this Day.

THE Chancel of this Church was raiſed, the Church new pewed, throughout repaired and beautified, in the Year of our Lord God 1620.

THIS Church, for divers Accidents happening there, hath been more famous than any other Pariſh Church of the whole City or Suburbs. Firſt, we read, That in the Year 1090, and the third of William Rufus, by Tempeſt of Wind, the Roof of the Church of St. Mary Le Bow in Cheap, was overturned, wherewith ſome Perſons were ſlain; and four of the Rafters, of ſix and twenty Feet in Length, with ſuch Violence were pitched in the Ground of the High-ſtreet, that ſcarcely four Feet of them remained above the Ground; which were fain to be cut even with the Ground, becauſe they could not be plucked out; for the City of LONDON was not then paved, but a mooriſh Ground.

IN the Year 1196, William Fitz-Osbert, a ſeditious Traitor, took the Steeple of Le Bow, and fortified it with Ammunition and Victuals; but it was aſſaulted, and William, with his Accomplices, were taken, (though not without Bloodſhed) for he was forced by Fire and Smoak to forſake the Church; and then being by the Judges condemned, he was by the Heels drawn to the Elmes in Smithfield, and there hanged with nine of his Fellows, where, becauſe his Favourers came not to deliver him, he forſook Mary's Son, (as he termed CHRIST our Saviour) and called upon the Devil to help and deliver him. Such was the End of this Deceiver, a Man of an evil Life, a ſecret Murtherer, a filthy Fornicator, a Polluter of Concubines, and (amongſt other his deteſtable Facts) a falſe Accuſer of his elder Brother, who had (in his Youth) brought him up in Learning, and done many Things for his Preferment.

IN the Year 1271, a great Part of the Steeple of Le Bow fell down, and ſlew many People, Men and Women. In the Year 1284, the 13th of Edward I, Lawrence Ducket, Goldſmith, having grievouſly wounded one Ralph Crepin, in Weſt Cheap, fled into Le Bow Church; into which (in the Night Time) entered certain evil Perſons, Friends unto the ſaid Ralph, and ſlew the ſaid Lawrence, lying in the Steeple, and then hanged him up; placing him ſo by the Window, as if he had hanged himſelf, and ſo was it found by Inquiſition. For which Fact Lawrence Ducket, being drawn by the Feet, was buried in a Ditch without the City: But ſhortly after, (by Relation of a Boy who lay with the ſaid Lawrence at the Time of his Death, and had hid him there for Fear) the Truth of the Matter was diſcloſed. For which Cauſe, Jordan Goodcheape, Ralph Crepin, Gilbert Clarke, and Jeffery Clarke, were attainted, and a certain Woman named Alice, that was chief Cauſer of the ſaid Miſchief, was burnt; and to the Number of ſixteen Men, were drawn and hanged: Beſides others, that being richer, after long Impriſonment, were made to ſuffer in the Purſe.

THE Church was interdicted, the Doors and Windows were ſtopped up with Thorns; but Lawrence was taken up, and honeſtly buried in the Church-yard.

THE Pariſh Church of St. Mary Le Bow, by means of Incroachment, and Building of Houſes, wanting Room in their Church-yard for Burial of their dead, John Rotham, or Rodham, Citizen and Taylor, by his Teſtament, dated the Year 1465, gave to the Parſon and Church-wardens there, for ever, a certain Garden in Hoſier-lane, to be a Church-yard; which ſo continued near a hundred Years, but now is built on, and is a private Man's Houſe. The old Steeple of this Church was by little and little re-edified, and new built up, at leaſt ſo much as was fallen down; many Men giving Sums of Money to the Furtherance thereof. So that at length, to wit, in the Year 1469, it was ordained by a Common-Council, that the Bow Bell ſhould be Nightly rung at nine of the Clock.

SHORTLY after, John Dunne, Mercer, by his Teſtament dated 1472, according to the Truſt of Reginald Longdon, gave to the Parſon and Church-wardens of St. Mary Le Bow, two Tenements, with the Appurtenances, ſince made into one, in Hoſier-lane, then ſo called, to the Maintenance of Bow Bell: The ſame to be rung as aforeſaid, and other Things to be obſerved, as by the Will appeareth.

THIS Bell being uſually rung ſomewhat late, Mr. Stow ſays, in his Time, as it ſeemed to the young Men Apprentices, and others in Cheap, they made and ſet up a Rhime againſt the Clerk, as followeth:

Clerk of the Bow Bell,
With the yellow Locks,
For thy late ringing,
Thy Head ſhall have Knocks.

IN anſwer to which the Clerk wrote:

Children of Cheap,
Hold you all ſtill,
For you ſhall have the Bow Bell rung at your Will.

THE Pariſh Clerk's Office, belonging to this Church, was to ring the Curfew Bell, as it was to be rung at three other Churches in LONDON, at a good Diſtance from each other. That ſo at this Notice, all the Curfew Bells in other Pariſhes might be rung at the proper Time; viz. Barking Church, St. Brides, and St. Giles's without Cripplegate. And if any Pariſh Clerk rung after the Curfews were rung at theſe Places, he was to be preſented by the Queſt of Wardmote in every Ward.

Robert Harding, Goldſmith, one of the Sheriffs 1478, gave to the new Work of that Steeple 40 l. John Haw, Mercer, 10 l. Dr. Allen, 4 l. Thomas Baldry, 4 l. and more was given by others. So that the ſaid Work of the Steeple was finiſhed in the Year 1512. The Arches, or Bows, thereon, with the Lanthorns, five in Number, to wit, one at each Corner, and one at Top, in the Middle, upon the Arches, were alſo afterwards finiſhed with Stone, brought from Cane in Normandy; delivered at the Cuſtomer's-key, for 4 s. 6 d. the Tun. William Copland, Taylor, the King's Merchant, and Andrew Fuller, Mercer, being Church-wardens 1515 and 1516. It is ſaid that this Copland gave the great Bell, which made the fifth in the Ring, and to be called the Bow Bell, and to be rung nightly at Nine of the Clock.

IT is ſaid alſo, that this Bell was firſt rung as a Knell at the Burial of the ſaid Copland. It ſeemeth, that the Lanthorns on the Top of this Steeple, were meant to have been glazed, and Lights in them to have been placed Nightly in the Winter; whereby Travellers to the City might have the better Sight thereof, and not to miſs their Ways.

IN this Pariſh, alſo, was a Grammar-School, by Commandment of King Henry VI, which School was (of old Time) kept in an Houſe for that Purpoſe, prepared in the Church-yard. But that School being decayed, as others about this City, the School-houſe was let out for Rent, in the Reign of Henry VIII, for 4*s*. the Year; a Cellar belonging to the Parſonage, for 2*s* the Year; and two Vaults under the Church, for 15*s*. both.

THE Church in the Year 1620 was new pewed and beautified; but being a Sharer in the Ruins made by the fatal Flames, in the Year 1666, was rebuilt and finiſhed Anno 1673; the Dial put up 1681.

Dame Dionis Williamſon, of Haleſhal, in the County of Norfolk, gave to the Inhabitants of this Pariſh, 2000*l*. towards the Rebuilding and ſplendid Furniſhing of this Church and Steeple; and furniſhing the ſame with Bells, &c. And ſurely, for the Number and Melody of the Bells, Bow, ſince the Fire, ſurpaſſeth former Times.

THE Church was repaired and beautified, and the preſent Altar-piece ſet up, at the Beginning of the Year 1706.

THE Church is well built of Brick, and ſome Stone, the Walls covered with a Finiſhing, the Roof is arched and ſupported with 10 Columns of the Corinthian Order, and covered with Lead. The Floor is paved with Stone; and there are three Iſles, beſides the Croſs Iſle at the Weſt End, and ſeveral handſome Six-Light Windows.

ORNAMENTS and Finiſhing are as follow: The Roof is adorned with Pannels and Arches of Crocket-work, and ſome Fret-work; between the Columns are Arches, and above them an Entablament; on the Key-pieces of the Arches are Cherubims: It is pewed, and wainſcotted nine Feet and an half high with Oak; the Pulpit of the ſame is finnier'd and carved, having Enrichments of Leaves, Coronets, Eſcalops, &c. Near the North Weſt Angle, is a handſome inner Door-caſe of right Wainſcot, adorned with four fluted Pilaſters, of the Corinthian Order, and another inner Door-caſe at the Weſt End, adorned with two ſuch Pilaſters and Entablature; where is alſo painted on the Glaſs of the Weſt Window, the Arms of the pious and charitable Lady Williamſon, viz.

Or, a Chevron, Gules, between three Trefoils ſlipt, Sable; impaled with Azure, a Chevron Counter embattelled, Or, Quartered with Sable, a Chevron ingrailed between three Talbots Paſſant, Argent.

THERE are handſome Galleries on the North and South Sides; at the Weſt End of each are Seats for the Charity Children, the Boys on one Side, and the Girls on the other. The Altar-piece is very neat; it is adorned below with four fluted Pilaſters and Entablature of the Corinthian Order, two on each Side of the Decalogue, done in Gold Letters on Black, under a Glory, all in one ſquare Frame carved and gilt; and above are two Attick Pilaſters, with Cornice and Compaſs Pediment, whereon are placed the Figures of ſeven Golden Candleſticks, with flaming Tapers. Under this Pediment is a ſpacious Glory, the Rays curiouſly finnier'd, repleniſhing a Circle about five Feet Diameter; in the Center whereof are theſe Words:

Glory be to God on high.

AND under, in one Line without the Circle, theſe Words:

In Earth Peace, Good-Will towards Men.

THIS upper Part of the Altar-piece is enriched with Palm-Branches, Leaves, and Voluta's, between two Lamps; and all the before-mentioned placed between ſpacious beautiful Columns, painted in Imitation of Lapis Lazuli; and their Entablature is painted like Porphory, the Capitals and Enrichments hereof being gilt with Gold; and without theſe Columns are placed the Lord's Prayer Northward, and Creed Southward: And at the Weſt End of the Church is a Marble Font ſtanding on a Marble Foot-pace; and the King's Arms are placed on the Front of the North Gallery.

Bow Steeple.

BUT the principal Ornament of this Church is the Steeple, erected near the North Weſt Angle thereof, and made contiguous by a Lobby, between the Church and the Steeple. It is accounted by judicious Artiſts an admirable Piece of Architecture, not to be parallell'd by the Steeple of any Parochial Church in Europe.

THE Author of ſome Weekly Eſſays, whom we have mentioned on other Occaſions, ſays, "This Steeple is a Maſter-piece in a peculiar "Kind of Building, which has no fix'd Rules to "direct it, nor is it to be reduced to any ſettled "Laws of Beauty: Without doubt, if we con-"ſider it only as a Part of ſome other Building, "it can be eſteemed no other than a delightful "Abſurdity: But if either conſidered in itſelf, "or as a Decoration of a whole City in Proſpect, "not only to be juſtified, but admir'd. It is "beyond Queſtion as perfect as human Imagi-"nation can contrive, or execute, and, till we "ſee it outdone, we ſhall hardly think it to be "equalled.

THIS Building was deſigned by the incomparable Sir Chriſtopher Wren; it is of Portland Stone, conſiſting of a Tower and Spire: The Tower is ſquare; in the North Side thereof is a Door and beautiful Door-caſe; the Peers and Arch are of the Tuſcan Order, and adorned with two Columns and Entablature of the Dorick Order; the Metops enriched with Cherubims; above the Cornice is an eliptical Aperture, on the Key a Cherub, whence by Way of Compartment, are extended two Feſtoons of large Fruit, ſuſtained lower by two Cupids in a ſitting Poſture, their Feet reſting on the Cornice; and the whole farther adorned with Ruſtick Work, and another Door-caſe of the ſame Form on the Weſt Side; above which, on the North Side is another Aperture and Balcony, and a little higher a Modellion Cornice; above that are four Windows (on each Side one) each adorned with four Pilaſters, with Entablament of the Ionick Order; on the Cornice an Acroteria, at each Angle four Cartouches erected tapering, and on the meeting of the upper Ends a ſpacious Vaſe, which terminates the Tower.

THE Spire begins with a circular Mure, and on that, a little higher than the Tops of the ſaid Vaſes, is a Range of Columns, with Entablature and Acroteria, of the Corinthian Order. This Balcony is adorned with Bows or Arches, all which you paſs under in walking round this Part of the Spire, which (a little higher) is adorned with Pedeſtals, their Columns and Entablature, of the Compoſite Order; ſo that here are the five Orders placed in the ſame Way they are commonly expreſſed.

ON the Cornice of this laſt Order ſtand ſeveral Cartouches, whereon is erected a Pyramidical Body of a conſiderable Altitude, and at the Ver- tex thereof a ſpacious Ball; and above that (as a Weather-cock) is the Figure of a Dragon of poliſhed Braſs, about 10 Feet long (with Wings ſomewhat expanded) and proportionably bulky; yet is turned by the leaſt Wind, ſo as to ſhew from what Quarter it blows very exactly.

THE Dimenſions of the Church within, are Length 65 Feet and a half, Breadth 63, Altitude 38, and that of the famous Steeple 225 Feet, wherein are eight large tuneable Bells.

The MONUMENTS in the old Church were theſe, viz.

UNDER

UNDER a Grave-ſtone at the Weſt End of the Church, lies Mrs. Julian Marſhal, Relict of John Marſhal, of St. Olave's Southwark, Wool-Merchant. Deceaſed the 25th of February, 1701. Aged about 89, and was here buried, according to her own Deſire.

She was always faithful to the Doctrine and Diſcipline of the Church of England, even in the moſt difficult Times. And as a Teſtimony of her Affection to the Church, left the greateſt Part of her Eſtate to ſuch orthodox and indigent Clergymen, as are throughly and truly conformable to the Doctrine and Ceremonies thereof.

AT the ſame End of the Church is a handſome Monument, with both their Effigies in Relief, for Colonel Bainton and his Lady. He died 26 May 1712. Aged 47. She the 6th of October 1719. Æt. ſuæ 49.

ALMOST cloſe to the laſt is another handſome Monument, with a curious Marble Buſto, under which is the following Inſcription:

Near this Place lie interred Mr. James Cart of this Pariſh, who died the 8th of June 1706, aged 46; and ſix of his nine Children, viz. one Son and two Daughters, who died Infants. Jane marry'd to John Church Medcalfe of London, Soap-maker, died the 10th of June 1717, aged 29 Years; buried at Windſor. William died the 19th of June 1717, aged 25 Years. Joſeph dy'd the 8th of September 1717; aged 21 Years. John died the 13th of September 1720, aged 35 Years; buried at St. Sepulchre's. Thomas Chew died the 27th of March 1722, aged 28 Years; buried at Dunſtable. James, late of St. John's-ſtreet, departed this Life the 9th of October 1731, aged 41 Years; lamented by the beſt of Mothers, to whom he paid a moſt extraordinary Duty to his laſt Moments.

ON the North Wall of the Church is a neat Marble Table hung up, thus inſcribed:

Near this Place lies interred, under a black Marble, with an Inſcription,
The Body of Thomas Gearing, Eſq; who departed this Life the 24th of June, 1730, in the 62d Year of his Age.

GIFTS and CHARITIES.

OF the large and liberal Charities given to this Pariſh, ſome of the following were communicated to Mr. Strype by Dr. Bradford, the late Biſhop of Rocheſter, who was formerly Incumbent there.

Samuel Leſe, Citizen and Clothworker, by his laſt Will, dated April 26, 1634, gave to the Company of Clothworkers two Houſes near Holbourn-bridge, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew's Holbourn, for divers pious and charitable Uſes; particularly, for a Sermon to be preached in the Pariſh of Bow, on the 1ſt of May yearly, 1 l. to the Clerk and Sexton 3 s. to the Church-wardens of the Pariſh of St. Andrew's Holbourn, for the uſe of the Poor yearly 2 l. To the Maſter and Wardens of the ſaid Company of Clothworkers, for their Pains in ſeeing the ſame performed, five Shillings a-piece; that is, one Pound five Shillings; (which Company come to the Sermon.) Theophilus Royle, Citizen and Draper of LONDON, by his laſt Will, dated Feb. 5, 1655, gave for a Sermon to be preached in St. Mary Le Bow, on the 5th of November, yearly, at five o'Clock, by the Rector of the ſaid Pariſh, in Commemoration of our great Deliverance from the Gunpowder Treaſon, 1 l. appointing that a Number of poor People, whereof three of the Drapers Company, ſhould be at the preaching of the ſame Sermon; and receive 5 s. a-piece, by the Hands of the Wardens.

DEPUTY Withers, formerly an Inhabitant of the Pariſh, who died in March, An. 1700, by his Will, gave to the Miniſter and Church-wardens of this Pariſh, an Annuity of 40 s. to be paid out of the Houſe in which he dwelt, viz. at the Corner of Bow-lane in Cheapſide, during the Leaſe of the ſaid Houſe; for a Sermon to be preached, yearly, on Good Friday in the Afternoon. Whereof to the Preacher 1 l. to the Reader of the Prayers of the Church of England, 5 s. to the Clerk and Sexton, 2 s. 6 d. a-piece. And to four of the pooreſt Inhabitants, that frequent the Prayers, 2 s. 6 d. a-piece.

THE following Sums were given by Will, for the Maintenance of a weekly Lecture in St. Mary Le Bow, by theſe Perſons following:

		l.
By George Palin, buried Oct. 16,	1610.	100
By Mrs. Stone, buried May 28,	1612.	10
By Mr. Banton, paid Nov. 3,	1623.	50
By Gabriel Cumberland, by Will	1626.	10
By Sarah Cox, about	1635.	40
	In all	210

IN January, An. 1621-2, on Thurſday at five o'Clock, the Lecture was ſet up. The ſeveral Legacies before-mentioned, having been laid out by the Church-wardens, together with ſome Addition (as it ſeems) of the Pariſh-Stock, for the Purchaſe of two Tenements, and a Shop, in Abchurch-lane, which was put into the Hands of Truſtees, of the ſame Pariſh; to employ the Rent of the ſaid Tenement, for the Maintenance of the ſaid Lecture.

THE Rent received, as appears by the Pariſh Books, for divers Years, until the great Fire, was 26 l. per Ann. The Lecturer received after the Rate of 30 l. per Ann. to the Year 1640. The Clerk and Sexton 20 s. a-piece, beſides Candles. From the Year 1640, to the Fire, he received 32 l. 10 s. After the Fire, the Houſes being burnt down, a Leaſe was made and ſigned by the Rector, Mr. Smalwood, and Church-wardens, July 16, 1668, granting to Thomas Bowes, Eſq; the Ground of the ſaid Houſes, for ninety Years; paying 12 l. per Ann.

WHEN the Church was rebuilt, the ſaid Mr. Smalwood, the then Rector, preached this Lecture once a Month, (viz. the Thurſday before the Sacrament) and received in Conſideration of it, the ſaid Ground Rent of 12 l. per Ann. Since Mr. Smalwood's Death, the Lecture is diſcontinued: But of late, the Rector finding it in the Pariſh Books, hath ſet it up again; which is preached by the Reader, as it was before, and the Salary paid.

IN this Church, for many Years, has been preached one of the moſt notable metaphyſical Lectures that ever was founded, viz. that inſtituted by the Honourable Robert Boyle, Eſq; a Gentleman famous for great Learning as well as Piety, (which ſhews they are not incompatible.) He ſettled a Salary of 50 l. per Annum, and appointed Dr. Tenniſon, the late Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Sir Henry Aſhurſt, Sir John Rotheram, and John Evelyn, Eſq; Truſtees for applying the ſaid Sum for the preaching of eight Sermons yearly, viz. on the firſt Mondays of January, February, March, April, May, September, October, and November, by ſuch Miniſter, and at ſuch Church, as the ſaid Truſtees ſhould think proper; no one to exceed three Years as Preacher thereof. And by this Foundation theſe Sermons are are to prove and eſtabliſh the Chriſtian Religion againſt Pagans, Jews, Mahometans, Atheiſts, and Deiſts; but not to deſcend to Controverſies among Chriſtians; likewiſe to aſſiſt and encourage the Propagation of the Chriſtian Religion; and to ſatisfy ſuch Scruples, and anſwer ſuch new Objections, as any may have or ſtart, and which have not yet met with full Anſwers.

How well the Founder's End has been anſwered, appears from the many learned and rational Diſcourſes which have came into the World through this Channel. To this Inſtitution we owe ſome of the moſt admired Pieces of two of the greateſt Divines, and moſt celebrated Names for Genius and Extent of Learning among the Moderns, and who, perhaps, never had their Superiors in ſome Parts of Knowledge, we mean the preſent Dr. Bentley, and the late Dr. Clarke. Although theſe Lectures have for many Years been preached at this Church, they were not indeed, by either of theſe great Men, but were preached at St. Martin's in the Fields, on the 7th of March 1691-2, by Dr. Bentley, who was the firſt that was appointed: This Gentleman's Diſcourſes were wrote to the Capacities of all Men, and yet acquired the Admiration of Judges for Solidity of Argument and Beauty of Diction. Dr. Clarke has not wrote to the Numbers which Dr. Bentley has; ſome Parts of his Diſcourſes requiring the Attention of the Philoſopher to ſee thro' his Chain of Argument; which when diſcovered, the inſeparable Connection appears to the Conviction and Delight of his Readers. This eminent Divine preached theſe Lectures in the Years 1704 and 1705, at St. Paul's Cathedral. The Benefits which ariſe to the World (for the Writings of a Bentley and a Clarke, are not confined to our own Iſland) from this wiſe and liberal Endowment of Mr. Boyle, ſhould fire other opulent and conſiderate Men, with the ſame generous Diſpoſition to do Honour to their Country, to profit the World, and do an Act grateful to the Divinity himſelf: And if her preſent Majeſty, who has diſtinguiſhed two of theſe Perſons by a peculiar Mark of Eſteem, was heartily diſpoſed to deliberate and execute a Deſign ſimilar to Mr. Boyle's, ſhe would greatly add to the Fame which ſhe has acquired by erecting Statues to the Memories of the illuſtrious Dead.

These Lectures have been preached this preſent Year 1733, in this Church by the Reverend Dr. Hayes, and for three Years before by the Reverend Dr. Berryman.

In this Pariſh of St. Mary Le Bow, was a Parſonage-Houſe, let out by Leaſe, to be built for forty Years, from Lady Day 1676, at 4 l. per Ann. being the Woolpack, an Alehouſe in Bow-lane.

There is alſo a Ground Rent of 40 s. the Miniſter received for an Houſe partly ſituated in the Church-yard; let by Leaſe to the Drapers, for ſixty five Years; from May 1, Anno 1670.

Without the North Side of this Church of St. Mary Le Bow, towards Weſt Cheap, ſtood a Building of Stone, called in Record Sildam, a Shed which greatly darkened the ſaid Church: For by means thereof, all the Windows and Doors, on that Side were ſtopped up.

This Building was made by King Edw. III. upon this Occaſion; In the Reign of the ſaid King, divers Juſtings were made in LONDON, betwixt Soper's-lane and the Croſs in Cheap; namely, one great Juſting was there in the Year 1330, the 4th of Edward III, whereof is noted thus. About the Feaſt of St. Michael, there was a great and ſolemn Juſting of all the ſtout Earls, Barons, and Nobles of the Realm, at LONDON, in Weſt Cheap, betwixt the great Croſs and the great Conduit, nigh Soper's-lane; which Juſting laſted three Days: Where Queen Philippa, with many Ladies, fell from a Stage of Timber, notwithſtanding, they were not hurt at all. Wherefore the Queen took great Care to ſave the Carpenters from Puniſhment: And through her Prayer, (which ſhe made on her Knees) ſhe pacified the King and Council; and thereby purchaſed great Love of the People.

After which Time, the King cauſed this Silde or Shed, to be made, and ſtrongly to be built of Stone, for himſelf, the Queen, and other Eſtates to ſtand in, there to behold the Juſtings, and other Shews at their Pleaſures. And this Houſe (for a long Time after) ſerved to that Uſe: Namely, in the Reign of Edward III, and Richard II. But in the Year 1410, Henry IV, in the 12th of his Reign, confirmed the Shed, or Building, to Stephen Spilman, William Marchford, and John Wattel, Mercers; by the Name of the new Sildam, Shed, or Building, with all the Shops, Cellars, and Edifices whatſoever appertaining, called Crounſilde (and in the 8th of the ſaid Henry, called Tamarſild) ſituate in the Mercery in Weſt Cheap, and in the Pariſh of St. Mary de Arcubus in LONDON; and a certain Shop in the ſaid Pariſh, between the ſame Shed, and the King's Highway of Weſt Cheap, annexed to the ſaid Shed, with two Shops, Cellars, and Edifices whatſoever; as well built, or any Way being over the ſaid Shop, as over the Entry of the ſaid Shed, which were holden of him in Priorgage, as all the City of LONDON is: And which were worth by Year, in all Iſſues, (according to the true Value of them) 7 l. 13 s. 4 d. as was found by Inquiſition there, before Thomas Knowles, Mayor, and Eſchetor in the ſaid City.

Notwithſtanding which Grant, the Kings of England, and other great Eſtates; as well of Foreign Countries repairing to this Realm, as Inhabitants of the ſame, have uſually repaired to this Place, therein to behold the Shews of this City, paſſing through Weſt Ceap, namely, the great Watches accuſtomed in the Night, on the Even of St. John Baptiſt, and St. Peter, at Midſummer; the Examples whereof were too long to recite: Wherefore let it ſuffice briefly to touch one:

IN the Year 1510, the 2d of Henry VIII, on St. John's Even, at Night, the King came to this Place; then called the King's-head in Cheap, in the Livery of a Yeoman of the Guard, with an Halbert on his Shoulder; and there beholding the Watch, departed privily, when the Watch was done; and was not known to any but to whom it pleaſed him: But on St. Peter's Night, next following, he and the Queen came Royally riding to the ſaid Place; and there, with their Nobles, beheld the Watch of the City, and returned in the Morning.

THIS Church of St. Mary, with the ſaid Shed of Stone, all the Houſing in and about Bow Church-yard, and without, on that Side the High-ſtreet of Cheap, to the Standard, are of Cordwainer-ſtreet Ward. Theſe Houſes were (of old Time) but Sheds; For no Houſing was otherwiſe, on that Side the Street; but of divers Sheds from Soper's-lane to the Standard, &c. Amongſt others, there were three Shops or Sheds by Soper's-lane, pertaining to the Prior of the Holy Trinity, within Aldgate. The one was let out for 28 s. one other for 20 s. and the third for 12 s. by the Year. Moreover, that Richard Goodcheape, Mercer, and Margery his Wife, Son to Jordan Goodcheape did let to John Dalinges the younger, Mercer, their Shed and Chamber in Weſt Cheap, in the Pariſh of St. Mary de Arches, for 3 s. 4 d. by the Year. Alſo the Men of Breadſtreet Ward contended with the Men of Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward, for a Sild or Shed oppoſite to the Standard, on the South Side; and it was found to to be of Cordwainers-ſtreet Ward, William Waldrone being then Mayor, the 1ſt of Henry VI.

Modern State of this Ward.

NOW for the preſent State of this Ward:

THE principal Streets and Lanes in it, are Bow-lane, new Queen-ſtreet, Budge-row, Little St. Thomas Apoſtle's, Pancras-lane, with a ſmall Part of Watling-ſtreet, and Baſing-lane.

Watling-ſtreet hath its greateſt Part in Bread-ſtreet Ward; what lies in this Ward, begins on the Eaſt Side of Red-lion-court, and ſo goeth to Budge-row. This Court is ſquare and large, well built and inhabited; having a Paſſage into Baſing-lane. Croſs-keys-court, a handſome Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement. St. Mary Aldermary Church-yard, a large Place with an open Paſſage for Coach or Cart, into Bow-lane; being a Place very well inhabited by Merchants, and Perſons of good Repute. In this Church-yard, at the End towards Bow-lane, is ſeated St. Mary Aldermary Church; being large and well built, with a tower'd Steeple all of Free Stone.

Baſing-lane hath but a ſmall Part in this Ward.

Bow-lane begins at Trinity-lane, and falls into Cheap-ſide, by St. Mary-le-Bow Church. The Part of this Lane, in this Ward, begins about 50 Feet from Cheapſide, on both Sides the Way: and 60 Feet beyond Baſing-lane: And then on the Weſt Side, only to Trinity-lane. This was antiently called Cordwainers-ſtreet, being well inhabited and built. In this Lane are theſe Courts and Places of Name, viz. Half-moon-court, by ſome called Lugg-yard, a Place ſomething open, but ordinary; it is likewiſe, by ſome, called Whalebone-court, from one that there boileth Whalebone Taylor's-court, a handſome open Place. Robin-Hood-court, indifferent long, and well built. New-court, a handſome genteel Place, with a Door next the Street, to ſhut up at Night. St. Mary Aldermary Church, the Weſt End ſeated in this Lane. Gooſe-alley, but ordinary; at the Upper End of which is Twelve Bell-court, which is but ſmall and narrow. It hath a Paſſage through Compter's-alley into Bow Church-yard, both Places of ſmall Account. George-alley, or Yard, but narrow, hath a Paſſage into New Queen-ſtreet, through Weld-court. Roſe-court, but mean and ordinary. St. Mary-le-Bow Church, the Front ſeated in Cheapſide, but the Back Part in Bow-lane.

New Queen-ſtreet, built in the Place where Soper's-lane was, and now made an open Street, (before the great Fire very narrow) with very good Houſes, well inhabited; it fronts King-ſtreet, which is oppoſite to Guildhall, and in a ſtrait Line runneth down to the Thames, at the Three Cranes; but the Part of this Street, in this Ward, goeth no farther than St. Thomas Apoſtle's. In this Street is Weld-court, a handſome ſquare Place, with well built and inhabited Houſes: This Court hath a Paſſage into George-yard, which falls into Bow-lane.

Pancras-lane comes out of New Queen-ſtreet, and falls into Bucklersbury; the South Side is in this Ward, and the North in Cheap Ward. This Lane is but ordinarily built and inhabited, except one large Houſe, the Dwelling of a Merchant, on the South Side; and on the North, before the Fire of LONDON, ſtood two Churches, viz. St. Pancras's Soper-lane, and St. Bennet's Sherehog; but theſe two Churches remain unbuilt, and united to others; viz. that of St. Pancras, to St. Mary le Bow; and that of St. Bennet Sherehog, to St. Stephen Wallbrook; but theſe two Churches were ſeated in Cheap Ward. Adjoining to St. Pancras's Church is a ſmall Court, but no fixed Name is given to it.

St. Sithe's-lane comes out of Pancras-lane, and falls in Budge-row, by St. Anthony's Church, a Lane well built, and inhabited by Merchants.

Budge-row takes its Riſe from Watling-ſtreet, and runs Eaſtwards to Cannon-ſtreet; from which it is ſevered by Wallbrook on the North, and Dowgate on the South. The Houſes are good, and taken up by good Tradeſmen, being ſo great a Thoroughfare. In this Street is Dodſon's-court, a large Place, well built and inhabited, and hath a Paſſage into Cloak-lane: On the South Side, is a Paſſage into Tower-Royal-ſtreet.

St. Anthony's Church, a very neat Free-ſtone Building, with a curious wrought Spire, and a Golden Ball on the Tower. On the Weſt Side of the Church is an open ſquare Place, and on the South Side are ſeveral Free Stones placed in the Street, Pyramid Faſhion, orderly along by the Church, the better to ſecure the Foot-Paſſengers from Carts and Coaches, this Part of the Street being very narrow.

Tower-Royal-ſtreet, but ſhort, comes out of Budge-row, and falls into St. Thomas Apoſtle's. In this Street is a handſome ſmall Court, which bears the Name of that Street: Strawberry-court but ſmall. For what more relates to this Street, ſee in Vintry Ward.

St. Thomas Apoſtle's, the Fore Street, or Great St. Thomas Apoſtle's, or the Backſide of St. Thomas mas Apoſtle's; and both Streets run Weſtward, croſſing New Queen-ſtreet, and falling into Bow-lane; but the Street of Great St. Thomas Apoſtle's is in Vintry Ward.

In Little St. Thomas, are theſe Courts, Croſs-Keys-court, which is but ſmall; Key-court, open and indifferent, well built and inhabited, with a Free-Stone Pavement.

There are placed at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, that watch every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle, and 24 Watchmen.

The Jurymen, returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in the Month of December.

This Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, eight Common-Council-Men, eight Conſtables, eight Scavengers, 14 Wardmote Inqueſt Men, and a Beadle. It ſtands taxed to the Fifteen in LONDON, at 52*l.* 16*s.* In the Exchequer, at 52*l.* 6*s.*

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir William Billers, at this Time Lord Mayor.

CHAP. III.

CHEAP WARD.

Cheap Ward.

NEXT adjoining is Cheap Ward, which took its Name from the Market that was there kept, called Weſt-Cheaping. This Ward begins on the Eaſt, on the Courſe of Wallbrook in Bucklersbury, and runs up, on both Sides, to where the great Conduit ſtood in Cheapſide. Alſo on the South Side of Bucklersbury, a Lane running up by where St. Sithe's, and near where St. Pancras Church ſtood, thro' Needler's-lane, on the North thereof; and then thro' a Piece of Soper's-lane, on both Sides up to the Cheap, are all of this Ward.

Then to begin again in the Eaſt, upon the ſaid Courſe of Wallbrook, is St. Mildred's Church in the Poultry, on the North Side; next to that is Grocer's-alley, called in old Times Coney-hope-lane; then about a Quarter Part of the Old Jury on the Weſt Side, and ſomething more on the Eaſt. Then is Ironmongers-lane, wholly on both Sides; and from the North End thereof, through Catton, or Cateaton-ſtreet, Weſt, to the North End of St. Lawrence's-lane; and about four Houſes Weſt beyond the ſame on that Side, and over-againſt Ironmongers-lane End, on the North Side of Cateaton-ſtreet, up by Guildhall and St. Lawrence's Church in the Jury, is altogether of Cheap Ward.

Then again in Cheapſide, more towards the Weſt, is St. Lawrence's-lane, before-named, which is wholly of this Ward; and laſt of all is Honey-lane, and ſo up to where the Standard ſtood on the North Side of the Cheap; and theſe are the Bounds of this Ward, and all the Places of antient Time; for King-ſtreet was not built till after the Fire.

Next for the Antiquities and Things worthy of Memory there: Firſt, Is Bucklers, or more properly Bucklesbury, ſo called from a Manor and Tenements appertaining to one Buckle, who there dwelt and kept his Courts. This Manor was ſuppoſed to be the great Stone Building, Part of which was remaining when Monday publiſhed his Edition of Stow in 1633, and was then called the Old Barge, from ſuch a Sign hanging out near the Gate of it. To this Place, it was commonly reported, that, when Wallbrook lay open, Barges were rowed, or towed up out of the Thames.

Also, on the North Side of this Street, directly over-againſt the ſaid Bucklesbury, was one antient ſtrong Tower of Stone: Which Tower, King Edward III, in the 18th of his Reign, by the Name of the King's Houſe, called Cornet's Tower in LONDON, did appoint to be his Exchange of Money, there to be kept: In the 29th, he granted it to Frydus-Guyniſane, and Landus Bardoile, Merchants of Luke, for 20*l.* the Year: And in the 32d of his Reign, he gave it to his College or Free Chapel of St. Stephen at Weſtminſter, by the Name of his Tower, called Cornet's Tower at Bucklesbury in LONDON.

This Tower was taken down by one Buckle, a Grocer, meaning, in Place thereof, to have ſet up and built a Frame of Timber; But the ſaid Buckle greedily labouring to pull down the old Tower, a Piece thereof fell upon him; which ſo bruiſed him, that his Life was thereby ſhortned; and another, that married his Widow, ſet up the new prepared Frame of Timber, and finiſhed the Work.

This whole Street, called Bucklesbury, on both the Sides throughout, was poſſeſſed by Grocers and Apothecaries toward the Weſt End thereof. On the South Side breaks out one other ſhort Lane, called in Records, Peneritch-ſtreet: It reacheth but to St. Sythe's-lane, and St. Sythe's Church was the fartheſt Part thereof. For by the Weſt End of the ſaid Church beginneth Needler's-lane, which reacheth to Soper's lane, as aforeſaid.

The PARISH of St. SYTHE, or BENNET SHEREHOG, or SHROG.

THE ſmall Pariſh-Church of St. Sythe's had alſo an Addition of Bennet-Shorne, or Shrog, or Sherehog, for by all theſe Names it has been written; but the moſt antient is Shorne. Wherefore it ſeems to have taken that Name from one Benedict Shorne, ſome Time a Citizen and Stock-fiſhmonger of LONDON, a new Builder, Repairer, or Benefactor thereof, in the Reign of Edward II. So that Shorne is but corruptly called Shrog, and more corruptly Shorehog, or Sherehog.

John Freſh, by his Will dated Sept. 1327, gave to the Miniſter, Church-wardens, and Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, four Marks yearly Rent, iſſuing out of his Houſe at the Corner of Do-little Lane, LONDON: In ſuſtentaconem Capellani idonei Divina celebratur infra Capellam Sanctæ Sythæ, pro anima ſua, & animabus Patris, Matris, Uxor. & Liberor. ſuor.

This Church being very much decay'd and periſhed, was amply repaired and beautified at the the Coſt of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord God 1628.

DIVERS fair Marble Stones, that formerly lay hidden under the Pews, were then removed, and placed in the Body of the Church, to add (as was moſt fit) to its further Grace and Beauty.

John Reyner, William Parker, } Church-wardens.

THERE were buried in this Church, John Froyſh, Mercer, Mayor, 1394. John Rochford, and Robert Rochford, John Hold, Alderman, Henry Froweke, Mercer, Mayor, 1435. Edward Warrington, John Morrice, John Huntley, Richard Lincoln, Felt-monger, 1548, Sir Ralph Warren, Mercer, Mayor, 1553; Sir John Lion, Grocer, Mayor, 1554. The two laſt had Monuments remaining till the Fire, in 1666, Edward Hall, Gentleman, of Gray's Inn, Common Serjeant of the City, and then Under-Sheriff, who wrote the large Chronicle from Richard the IId, to the End of the Reign of Henry the VIIIth, was buried in this Church.

ON a Monument in the Eaſt Wall of the Chancel, was this Inſcription:

Grace and Religion, with the beſt of Nature
All ſtriving to excell, yet all agreeing
To make one abſolute and perfect Creature:
Would any ſee a Sight,
ſo worth the ſeeing?
He comes too late:
Here ſhe lies buried,
With whom they lately liv'd,
and now are dead.

In the Vault here by,
Lieth buried the Body of Anne, the Wife of John Farrar, Gentleman, and Merchant-Adventurer of this City, Daughter of William Shepheard, of Great Rowlright, in the County of Oxenford, Eſq; She departed this Life the 12th Day of July, An. Dom. 1613, being then about the Age of 21 Years. To whoſe well-deſerving Memory, this Monument is by her ſaid Husband erected.

Here was a Bud,
beginning for her May:
Before her Flower,
Death took her hence away.
But for what Cauſe?
That Friends might joy the more,
Where there Hope is,
ſhe flouriſheth now before.
She is not loſt,
but in thoſe Joys remains,
Where Friends may ſee, and joy in her again.

ON an antient Marble Monument in the Chancel.

Here lyeth buried the Right Worſhipful Sir Ralph Warren, Kt. Alderman, and twice Lord Mayor of this City of LONDON, Mercer, Merchant of the Staple at Calais; with his two Wives, Dame Chriſtian, and Dame Joan. Which ſaid Sir Ralph departed this Life the 11th Day of July, Anno Dom. 1553.

THE Lady Joan White, one of the Daughters and Heirs of John Lake, of LONDON, Gent. died October the 8th, buried in this Pariſh-Church, November the 4th, 1573. She deceaſed at the Houſe of Sir Henry Williams, alias Cromwell, Kt. her Son-in-Law, called Hinchinbroke, in the County of Huntington. This Lady Joan was firſt marry'd to Sir Ralph Warren, Kt. Alderman, and twice Lord Mayor. By whom he had Iſſue Richard Warren, Eſq; Son and Heir, and Joan Lady Cromwell, her Daughter. She was afterwards marry'd to Sir Thomas White, Kt. Alderman, and ſome Time of LONDON, Founder of the College of St. John Baptiſt, Oxon. by whom ſhe had no Iſſue. The ſaid Sir Henry Williams, alias Cromwell, had Iſſue by the ſaid Lady Joan his Wife, Oliver Cromwell, Eſq; his Son and Heir, with other Sons.

ON a fair plated Stone, in the Midſt of the Chancel, was this Inſcription:

Here lyeth Katharine Prettyman, a Mayde of ſeventeene yeeres,
In Suffolke borne, in London bred,
as by her Death appears.
With Nature's gifts ſhe was adorn'd,
of honeſt birth and kin,
Her virtuous minde, with modeſt grace,
did love of many win.
But when ſhe ſhould with honeſt match have liv'd a wedded life,
Stay there (quoth Jove) the World is nought, for ſhe ſhall be my wife.
And Death, ſince thou haſt done thy due,
lay nuptial rites aſide,
And follow her unto the grave,
that ſhould have been your Bride:
Whoſe honeſt life, and faithful end,
her patience therewithall,
Doth plainly ſhew, that ſhe with Chriſt now lives, and ever ſhall.

She departed this Life the 11th Day of Auguſt 1594,

ON another plated Stone in the North Iſle.

NOW to ſhew the preſent State of this Pariſh, ſince the Demoliſhing of the Church by the great Fire, and what Charities belong to it:

IN the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1693, the Church-wardens brought in no Revenues to belong to their Pariſh, nor any Legacies or Gifts, except 5 l. per Annum, left by Mr. Daviſon, for Keeping in Repair a Vault, belonging to that Family, which they did, and employed the Remainder for the Uſe of the Poor.

THE Plate, Bells, and other Ornaments of the Church, which they had before the Fire, were imbezzled by the Church-wardens many Years ago.

THIS Church is not built again, but the Pariſh is laid to St. Stephen Wallbrook; and that Ground on which the Church ſtood, is employed as a burying Place for the Pariſhioners.

THERE was a Parſonage-Houſe before the Fire, rebuilt by Abraham Wooly, upon a Leaſe of 40 Years, paying the Parſon 5 l. per Ann. and no other Glebe pertaining to the Parſonage. But in the Viſitation Book, of the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1636, the Glebe belonging to the Rector, was brought in at 6 l. per Ann.

THE Veſtry is General.

The PARISH of

St. Pancras, in Pancras-lane,

Formerly called

SOPER's-LANE.

ST. Pancras, to whom this Church was dedicated, was Son of Cledonius, a Nobleman of Phrygia. After his Father's Death he was committed to the Tuition of his Uuncle Dionyſius, with whom he went to Rome, being 14 Years old. After the Death of his ſaid Uncle, he was apprehended for being a Chriſtian, and brought to the Emperor Diocleſian, who, by fair Words and large Promiſes, ſought to divert him from Chriſt, requiring him to offer Sacrifice to the Idol-Gods, which he refuſing, when by no Perſuaſion he could be drawn thereunto, he was, by the Emperor's Command, beheaded at Rome. His Body being ſtolen away by Night, was by Octavilla, a Woman of good Eſteem, embalmed with Spices, and buried. This was acted An. Chriſti 286, or according to Baronius 303.

AT Rome there is a Church, not far from the City Wall, dedicated to this Saint, wherein is his Sepulchre. His Feſtival is kept on May 12.

THERE was another St. Pancras, Biſhop of Tauromenium in Sicily, martyr'd by Anhaganus, a Pagan, whoſe Life was written by Evagrius, his Diſciple. He was born at Antioch; and his Feſtival is the 3d of April.

THIS Pariſh-Church was ſmall but had divers rich Pariſhioners belonging to it and many of them liberal Benefactors. It was repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord 1621, towards which Reparation, Sir Thomas Bennet, Alderman, Dame Anne Soame, and Mr. Thomas Chapman, were free and bountiful Benefactors. The laſt of theſe, Mr. Thomas Chapman, having in the Year 1617, given a fair and very coſtly Table, bearing the Figure of a Monument of that ever famous, after Death, as in her Life, Queen Elizabeth.

IN the Year 1624, the Son of this worthy Gentleman, Mr. Thomas Chapman, the younger, to the further beautifying of this Church, for the more graceful Entrance into it, built a very fair Porch, at his own Coſt and Charge: And a fair Communion-Table, with ſome other Repairs in the South Wall, was the Coſt of Mr. William Doricke, Citizen and Grocer of LONDON.

IN this Church there are buried Sir ——Aker, John Aker, John Bareus, Mercer, Mayor, 1370. John Beſton and his Wife. Robert Rayland, John Hamber, John le Gage, John Rowley, John Lambe, John Hadley, Grocer, Mayor, 1370. Richard Gardener, Mercer, Mayor, 1478. John Stockton, Mercer, Mayor, 1470. John Dane, Mercer, John Parker, Robert Marſhal, Alderman, 1439, and Elizabeth his Wife; Robert Corcheford, Robert Hatfield and Robert Hatfield; Nicholas Wilfilde, and Thomas his Son; alſo, Thomas Knowles, Mayor, and Thomas Knowles, his Son, twice Mayor.

Robert Burley, 1360, Richard Wilſon, 1525, Robert Packenton, Mercer, kill'd with a Gun, as he was going to Maſs, from his Houſe in Cheap, to St. Thomas of Acres, in the Year 1536. The Murderer was never diſcovered, but by his own Confeſſion, made when he came to the Gallows at Banbury, to be hanged for Felony. T. Warbury, Haberdaſher, 1545. James Huyſh, Grocer, 1590. Ambroſe Smith, &c.

ON a Monument in the North Wall of the Choir was this Inſcription:

Here under lieth buried James Huyſh, Citizen and Grocer of LONDON, third Son of John Huyſh, of Beauford, in the County of Somerſet, Eſq; which James had to his firſt Wife, Margaret Bourchier, by whom he had Iſſue eleven Children; and to his ſecond Wife, Mary Moffet, by whom he had Iſſue eighteen Children. He died the 20th Day of Auguſt, An. Dom. 1590.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

NUMBER of Houſes 32.

THEN is a Part of Soper's-lane, turning up to Cheap. By the Aſſent of Stephen Abunden, Mayor, the Pepperers in Soper's-lane were admitted to ſell all ſuch Spices, and other Wares, as Grocers uſe now to ſell; retaining the old Name of Pepperers in Soper's-lane: 'Till at length, in the Reign of Henry VI, the ſaid Soper's-lane was inhabited by Cordwainers and Curriers; after that, the Pepperers, or Grocers, had ſeated themſelves in a more open Street, to wit, in Bucklesbury, where they yet remained in the Time of Mr. Stow.

BY a Paſſage in an old Book, printed in Henry VIII's Reign, it appears that Soper's-lane was a noted Place where Pies were made, and ſet forth to be ſold; when Spices were ſo near at hand. "Thou muſt, at Eaſtre, receive the God "of Antichriſt; and thou muſt buy it, and pay "for it, as Men ſome Time bought Pies in So-"per-lane, [Lamentation againſt the City of LONDON, printed 1505.]

CHAUNDLERS antiently had their Shops alſo hereabouts; the Smell of whoſe Trade, it ſeems, was ſo nauſeous in the chief Street of the City, that they were appointed to remove thence, and remain elſewhere in the City.

AT the upper End of this Soper's-lane, in Cheapſide, was the common Place of Standing in great Shows paſſing by: As when Kings and Queens, Princes, or Foreign Ambaſſadors, paſt along towards Weſtminſter, or from Weſtminſter through LONDON, towards the Tower. Here was a Parcel of Land called The great Field in the Street, ſome Time in the Tenure of the Lady Catharine Dormer, Widow. This, under that Name, together with other things, was ſold to Sir Robert Cholmely, Knight, in the 2d of Edward VI. But it is a Doubt, whether it were a great Field in that King's Reign; but it ſeems antiently to have been ſo, though in Cheapſide, or very near it. Thus much for the South Wing of Cheap Ward.

NOW to begin again on the Bank of the ſaid Wallbrook, at the Eaſt End of the High Street, which is the main Body of this Ward. Firſt, over againſt the Pariſh-Church of St. Mildred, on the South Side of the Poultrey, up to the great Conduit, were divers Houſes, ſome times inhabited by Poulterers, afterwards by Grocers, Haberdaſhers, and Upholders. At the Weſt End of this Poultrey, on the South Side, was the great Conduit, which was the beginning of Weſt Cheap. This Conduit was the firſt ſweet Water that was convey'd by Pipes of Lead, under Ground, to this Place in the City, from Paddington. It was caſtellated with Stone, and ceſterned with Lead. Which was begun in the Year 1285, Henry Waleis being then Mayor. This Conduit was again new built by Thomas Ilame, one of the Sheriffs, in the Year 1479.

BEYOND the Conduit, on the South Side of Cheap, in Stow's Time, were Houſes, for the moſt Part, poſſeſs'd by Mercers, up to the North Corner of Cordwainers-ſtreet, which, he ſays, is corruptly called Bow-lane. Theſe Houſes, in former Times, were but Sheds, or Shops, with Solars over them, as one then remained at the End of Soper's-lane, wherein a Woman ſold Seeds, Roots, and Herbs.

The

The PARISH of St. MILDRED.

ON the North Side of the Poultrey is the Pariſh-Church of St. Mildred.

St. Mildred the Virgin, to whom this Church, and one more in the City, are dedicated, was Daughter to Merwaldus, a Prince (not King, as ſome call him) of Weſt Mercia, who was Brother (ſaith Matth. Weſtminſter) or Son, (ſaith Polidore Virgil) to Penda King of the Mercians. The Mother of Mildred, and Wife of Merwaldus, was named Dompnena (or Dompneva) ſaith Capgrave, (not naming her Husband) and Daughter to Ermenred, eldeſt Son of Eadbald, King of Kent, who died before his Father. But Matt. Weſtminſter ſaith, that Mildred's Mother's Name was Emenburga, (Daughter of Prince Ermenred) ſo likewiſe ſaith Polidore Virgil. However, Writers agree, That the Daughter of Ermenred, called Ermenburga by ſome, and Dompnena by Capgrave, as above, founded the Minſter Abby, in the Iſle of Thanet, by Grant and Aſſiſtance of King Egbert, Son of her Uncle Ercombert, whereof ſhe herſelf became the firſt Abbeſs, and her Daughter Mildred, who ſucceeded, was the ſecond.

THIS Holy Virgin St. Mildred (ſays the Author of the Engliſh Martyrology) contemning the vain Pleaſures of the World, went over, in her tender Years, into France, and there dedicated herſelf to GOD in a Monaſtery of Virgins at Kale; but afterwards returning into England, and gathering together ſeventy other Virgins, was conſecrated Abbeſs of a new Monaſtery in the Iſle of Thanet, by St. Theodore, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, where ſhe died the third Day before the Ides of July, An. 676, and was buried: Her Body was afterwards tranſlated, on July 13, to Canterbury, by Archbiſhop Lanfrank, with that of St. Edburga, and there placed in St. Gregory's Church, Anno Chriſti 1085. Part of her Reliques were tranſlated to Daventer in Gelderland. Her Depoſition was kept in Memory, Feb. 20. as her Tranſlation was July 13.

IN the Monaſticon it is ſaid, the Tranſlation of St. Mildred from the Iſle of Thanet to Canterbury, was An. 1030, 15 Kal. of June, Elſtan being then Abbot of Auguſtin, and there buried before the Altar of St. Peter, where ſhe had an eminent Tomb and an Altar. It is there alſo ſaid, That An. 1033, Abbot Ethelſtan tranſlated St. Mildred from Thanet to St. Auguſtine's.

Creſſy tells us, That the determinate Year of her Death is uncertain; but certain it is, ſays he, That it is wrongfully aſcribed by ſome Writers to the Year of Grace 664. For ſince the ſame Authors affirm, that her Siſter Milburga and ſhe were conſecrated by St. Theodore, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, who came not into Britain till after that Year, it is evident, that in their Computation there is an Anachroniſm; we may therefore (ſays he) more commodiouſly aſcribe it to the Year of our Lord's Incarnation 676.

HERE the Saint, to which this Church was dedicated, had her Shrine or Tabernacle, as it was called. And one Chriſtopher Suliok, who willed his Body to be buried here, bequeathed to the gilding of the Tabernacle of St. Mildred, in the Church aboveſaid, five Marks. And towards the Edifying and Reparation of Corpus Chriſti Chapel, in the Pariſh aforeſaid, five Marks.

THIS Will was made Auguſt 11, 1500.

IN what Years this Church was firſt erected, or who was the firſt Founder of it, we find not. But it appears by ſome antient Evidences of the ſaid Church, that from the Beginning, it had not ſo much ſpare Ground about it as to make a Church-yard, until the Year of our Lord God 1420, and the 8th of King Henry V, Thomas Morſted, Eſq and Surgeon to the Kings Henry IV, Henry V, and Henry VI, (And afterward, in Anno Domini 1436, Sheriff and Alderman of London) gave unto the Church a Parcel of Ground, lying between his Dwelling-Houſe and the ſaid Church, (and adjoining to the ſaid Church, toward the North) to make a Church-yard for the Burial of their Dead, containing in Length, from the Courſe of Wallbrook, toward the Weſt, forty-five Feet; and in Breadth, from the Church, toward the North, thirty-five Feet.

WITHIN a ſhort Time after, ſome-body of a religious and charitable Diſpoſition, erected upon the Sides of the ſaid Church-yard, upon Poſts and Pillars, with Cloyſters underneath, towards the Weſt, a Parſonage or Manſion, and free Dwelling of the Miniſters and Rectors of the ſaid Church: And toward the Eaſt, four Chambers, then called the Prieſts Chambers, now converted into a Tenement or Dwelling-Houſe, and demiſed for yearly Rent. But the Church-yard is much abridged, and, of late, fouly defaced, and the Light of the ſaid Parſonage hinder'd, by Addition of Pieces to the ſaid antient Chambers, which ought not to be.

AFTER ſome Years were expired, the Parſon and the Pariſhioners obſerving the Church to be very old, propoſed to take it down, and rebuild it again: Which they began to do about the Year of our Lord God 1456. At which Time Robert Snell and John King were Church-wardens, and continued in the Office till the End of the Year 1467. Toward which Building, as it may appear by their Accounts, John Saxton, being Rector or Parſon of the ſaid Church, gave thirty-two Pounds towards the building of the new Choir, which now ſtands upon the Courſe of Wallbrook. And afterwards, Richard Bowyer, being Parſon, gave Six Pounds Fifteen Shillings.

Lovel, Puery, and Richard Keſton, had their Arms in the Eaſt Windows, as Benefactors. The Roofing of the Church was garniſhed with the Arms of Thomas Archehul, or Aſchehul, one of the Church-wardens in the Year 1455, who was there buried.

IN After-times, to wit, Anno Domini 1594, the 35th of Queen Elizabeth, this Church-yard, and all the Buildings thereon, which had been thus long in the free Poſſeſſion of the Miniſters and Pariſhioners of the ſaid Church, were, thro' the Information of an evil-minded Man, then Tenant in the Chambers, ſold for concealed Land; whereby the ſaid Tenement, Church-yard and Cloyſters, were like to be loſt from the Poſſeſſion of the Church; and the Miniſters of the Church to be charged with an yearly Rent of their Parſonage-Houſe for ever. But the Parſon and Pariſhioners, by a judicial Proceeding then, in her Majeſty's Court of Exchequer, cleared all the whole Soil from that Incumbrance. The Tryal whereof was held by Niſi prius, in the Guild-hall of London; and the Record is kept in the Exchequer.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the proper Coſt of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord God 1626.

THE Charge of it amounting to the Sum of 183 l. and upwards, Anno Dom. 1666, being demoliſhed by the general Conflagration of the City, it was re-edified at the publick Charge, and finiſhed by the Contributions of the Pariſhioners, Ann. Dom. 1676.

THE preſent Church is built of Stone, with a flat Roof quadrangular, that at the South Weſt and North Weſt Angles being a little lower than the the reſt, cover'd with Lead, and ſupported with a Column and two Pilaſters, of the Ionick Order; the Floor is paved with Purbeck Stone; the Chancel with that and black Marble, being one Step higher than the Floor of the reſt of the Church, which has three ſmall Iſles.

THE Ornament of this Church is as follows: The Roof has a Circle inſcribed with a Quadrangle formed by fret-work and Crocket-work; the Outſide fronting the Poultrey, adorned with a Cornice, Pediment, and Acroteria's, with Enrichments of Leaves, &c. all cut Stone. In the Church at the Weſt End, is a handſome Gallery, and the Pews and Pulpit are all Oak, with which it is wainſcotted about eight Feet and a half high. The Altar-piece is of the ſame Species of Timber, adorned with two Columns, Entablature and Pediment, of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue, done in Gold Letters on Black, under a Glory and three Cherubims; above which are the King's Arms under a triangular Pediment, adorned with three Lamps. Without the Columns are the Creed and Pater Noſter, and Enrichments of Cherubims, Shields, Feſtoons and Cartouches; and the Foot-path of the Communion-Table is black and white Marble encloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

THE Dimenſions are, Length 56 Feet, Breadth 42, Altitude 36, and that of the Stone Tower about 75 Feet.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

PART of the Poultrey, Scalding-alley, Compter-alley, and Grocer's-alley.

NUMBER of Houſes 155.

THE Name of this Street called the Poultrey, has before been ſpoken of, as alſo of the Lane called Scalding-houſe, or Scalding-wyke, &c.

ON the North Side, about four Houſes Weſt from this Pariſh-Church of St. Mildred, is a Priſon-houſe, pertaining to one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, and is called the Compter in the Poultrey; and hath been there kept and continued Time out of Mind, for the Original thereof is not known. Somewhat Weſt from this Compter, was a proper Chapel, called Corpus Chriſti, and St. Mary at Coney-hope-lane End, in the Pariſh of St. Mildred, founded by one named Jonyrunnes, a Citizen of LONDON, in the Reign of Edward III; in which Chapel was a Guild, or Fraternity, that might diſpend in Lands better than 20 l. per Ann. It was ſuppreſſed by Henry VIII, and purchaſed by one Thomas Hobſon, Haberdaſher, who turned this Chapel into a Warehouſe and Shops, towards the Street, with Lodgings over them.

THEN is Coney-hope-lane, as it was of old Time called, from the Sign of three Conies hanging over a Poulterer's Stall at the Lane's End. In this Lane antiently was a Chapel dedicated to the bleſſed Virgin: So in the Biſhop of LONDON's Regiſter of Wills; Capella Beatæ Mariæ de Conyng-hope-lane, LONDON, Marteley's-alley in Coney-hope-alley.

WITHIN this Lane ſtandeth the Grocer's Hall, which Company were antiently called the Pepperers. In the Year 1411 the Cuſtos, or Guardian, and the Brethren of this Company purchaſed of the Lord Robert Fitzwaters, a Plat of Ground, with the Buildings thereupon, in the ſaid Coney-hope-lane, for 320 Marks; and then laid the Foundation of their new Common Hall.

AT this Hall is, at preſent, kept the Bank of England, till it is removed to the new Houſe, built for that Purpoſe, in Thread-needle-ſtreet, which we have already mention'd in Broad-ſtreet Ward, where it is ſituated.

THE Bank was eſtabliſhed by Act of Parliament, Anno 1693, 5 and 6 William and Mary, Chap. 20. for a Loan of 1,200,000 l. ſubſcribed and paid into the Government, at ſeveral Times; which Act laid an additional Duty on Tonage, Exciſe, &c. which it was propoſed would bring into the Exchequer 140,000 l. per Ann. of which 100,000 l. was ſecured to the Bank, as Intereſt, &c. for the ſaid 1,200,000 l. viz. 96,000 l. Intereſt, at eight per Cent. per Ann. and the 4000 l. for Salaries and Incidents, upon which Baſis the Governor and Company of the Bank of England were incorporated, with a Power to make Bye Laws, and Act in all other reſpects as a legal Corporation for thirteen Years.

BY their Charter they were conſtituted a Governor, Deputy-Governor, and twenty four Directors, thirteen of whom, whereof the Governor, or Deputy-Governor, to be one, made a Court; who were inveſted with the Power of Management, except at General Courts, of all the Members, which were to be held four Times a Year, or oftner, if demanded by nine Members, who had then each 500 l. Stock. And the Sum of 4000 l. in Capital Stock, qualified a Member for Governor; 3000 l. for Deputy Governor; and 2000 l. for Director: And the Appointment of Officers, and their Salaries, was by the Majority of ſuch Members as had in this Stock 500 l. and the Choice to be annually.

UPON this Foot the Bank continued till the Year 1696, when, by Reaſon of the ill State of the Coin, the ſelfiſh Practices of ſome Perſons, &c. the Credit both of the Exchequer and Bank were low, greater Demands being made upon the latter than they were able to anſwer; and the Tallies going at 50, or upwards, per Cent. Diſcount, an Act was made Anno 1696, 8 and 9 Will. III. Chap. 20. for reſtoring Credit to both, whereby any Perſon might make new Subſcriptions to the Bank, which was obliged to take them four Fifths in Tallies (upon a Par) and one Fifth in Bank Notes, by which Means the Capital Stock of the Bank was enlarged, the Demand on their Notes leſſened, their Credit revived, and the Diſcount on Tallies reduced much lower, the Government allowing eight per Cent. for all ſubſcribed, as aboveſaid, until the Funds might come in which would pay off in Courſe ſuch Tallies, and the Bank was to make a Dividend of the Principal to the Members, as thoſe Tallies were from Time to Time paid off.

UPON theſe Eſtabliſhments the Bank was reſtrained by the following Injunctions.

1. THAT no Perſon ſhould ſubſcribe above 10,000 l. before the firſt of July following, the opening opening of the Books, nor above 20,000 l. afterward.

II. They are not to borrow under their Seal more than 1,200,000 l. upon the firſt Eſtabliſhment, nor above the Sum ſubſcribed on the ſecond, otherwiſe each private Member ſhall make good his Proportion of the Deficiency that may be occaſioned thereby.

III. They are not to trade as a Corporation, but as hereafter-mentioned, nor impower any one to trade for them, under the Penalty of forfeiting Treble the Value of what they Trade for, of which the Informer ſhall have the 5th Part.

If they refuſe to pay any of their juſt Debts, the Exchequer muſt pay them out of the 100,000 l. as it ſhall become due to the Bank.

The Privileges of this Bank are

I. Their ſealed Notes were by Law made transferable by Indorſement.

II. They have Power to purchaſe Lands, (except thoſe of the Crown) and to receive Goods as a Security for Money lent, to buy Gold or Silver Bullion, and to ſell Goods, &c. forfeited to them.

III. Their Stock ſhall not be taxable in any Caſe.

IV. They may negotiate Bills of Exchange, and receive or take them for other Bills or Caſh.

V. The Government was to give them a Year's Notice upon paying them back their 1,200,000 l.

VI. To counterfeit their Notes was made Felony.

VII. No Perſon dealing in this Stock could be a Bankrupt thereby, nor the Stock liable to Foreign Attachment.

VIII. During the Continuance of this Bank, the Time for which was enlarged, no other Bank ſhall be erected by Parliamentary Authority.

In the Year 1707. Nathaniel Tench, Eſq; a worthy and intelligent Citizen, wrote a Defence of this Bank; being a Reply to a Pamphlet, called, Remarks upon the Bank of England; alſo to two other Pamphlets, wrote againſt the Bank, one intitled, A ſhort View of the apparent Danger and Miſchiefs from the Bank of England: The other, Reaſons offered againſt the Continuance of the Bank, in a Letter to a Member of Parliament. Theſe Remarks and Pamphlets were thrown abroad, to prejudice the Parliament againſt granting a further Enlargement of Time to the Bank. The chief Purpoſe of this Defence, was to vindicate a Corporation, and the Management thereof; not ſo much from Crimes they had already been guilty of in the Experiment of Eleven or Twelve Years, as the fear of what they might do hereafter. For it was acknowledged by their bittereſt Enemies, even in their Treatiſes wrote againſt it, That the Bank had been ſerviceable to the Government, and that the Managers thereof had not been guilty of thoſe Villanies and Knaveries, which they ſuppoſed their Succeſſors might be: But that it was a neceſſary Conſequence, that by a further Enlargement of their Time (if any ſuch they ſhould have) either they, or their Succeſſors, might, for Time, to come ſo prevaricate, as to be guilty of thoſe Crimes, which they took upon them to ſuppoſe; though hereof was not the leaſt Proof brought.

This Vindication of the Bank thus concludes, "That it might be with Truth concluded, that "ſince their firſt Eſtabliſhment, (which was then "about 12 or 13 Years) they never bought one "Foot of Land, they never monopolized any "one Commodity; that they had been ſo far "from obſtructing Trade, that they had very "much encouraged and enlarged it, by diſcountenancing Foreign and Inland Bills of Exchange; and by lending Money upon Notes, "to very great Sums, at very low Intereſt. That "they had never put any Hardſhips upon the "Government, as thoſe Authors would inſinuate; but had all Times ſerved it to the utmoſt "of their Power. That they had been ſo far "from raiſing the Intereſt of Money, that they "were the great, if not the only, Cauſe of lowering it, That they had never concerned themſelves in the Election of any one Member of "Parliament; nor never advanced a ſingle Penny to influence any Election. Neither could "any Man complain, that he did not receive "his Money on Demand, that called for it. In "ſhort, that notwithſtanding the Clamour and "Noiſe their Adverſaries made againſt them, they "had not brought any Inſtance, that they had "been guilty of any baſe, or unworthy Action, "in any one Fact committed by them, ſince "their firſt Eſtabliſhment. So that all the Clamour of their Ill-Willers, had been raiſed upon a bare Suſpicion of what their Succeſſors "might do hereafter.

West of this Coneyhope-lane, or Grocers-alley, is the Old Jury, whereof ſome ſmall Part is in this Ward, as before ſhewed.

The

The PARISH of St. MARY COLECHURCH.

AT the South End of the Old Jury was the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Colechurch, named from one Cole, who built it. This Church was erected upon a Vault above Ground, ſo that People were forced to go to it by Steps.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year 1623; but being conſumed in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, was not rebuilt, but the Pariſh was united to that of St. Mildred in the Poultrey, as is before-mentioned.

IN the laſt Summer (1733) a Vault being made before the Houſe of Mr. Henry Chapman, Paſtry-Cook, two Doors Weſt of the Old Jury, ſeveral Bones were dug up, and large Stones, ſuppoſed to be Part of this Church, or the Foundation of it.

THERE are no Monuments of this Church, more than that Henry IV, granted Licence to William Marſhal, and others, to found a Brotherhood of St. Catharine therein, becauſe Thomas Becket, and St. Edmond were baptized there.

THUS expreſſed in the Record in the Tower: In Eccleſ. de S. Maria de Colechurch, juxta magnum Aqueduct. in qua Eccleſia S. Thomas de Cantuar. & S. Edmund. Rex baptizati fuerunt. This aforeſaid Guild or Fraternity, was founded 1 Henry IV, and confirmed again 25 Henry VI.

THE Living of St. Mary Colechurch was but a Curacy. The Impropriators are the Mercers; who, before the Fire, gave the whole Benefit to the Incumbent. It had no Site, but was all veſted in the Mercers by Act of Parliament.

TO this Pariſh belonged a Gift-Sermon, to be preached on the 17th Day of November; the Benefit of which the Rector of St. Mildred enjoys.

PART of King-ſtreet, Part of Cheapſide, Part of the Poultrey, Part of the Old Jury, Part of Bucklesbury, Part of Dove-court, and Bird and Hand-court.

NUMBER of Houſes 75.

AT the Weſt End of the Poultrey, and alſo of Bucklesbury, begins the large Street called Cheapſide, but formerly Weſtcheapen, from a Market-place there, and ſtretcheth to where the little Conduit ſtood by Paul's Gate, but is not all of Cheap Ward. In the Eaſt Part of this Street ſtood the great Conduit ſpoken of before.

ABOUT the Middle of this Street, without Honey-lane was the Standard in Cheap, which John Wells, Grocer, Mayor 1430, cauſed to be made with a ſmall Ciſtern with freſh Water, having one Cock continually running, when the ſame was not turned or locked. This was finiſhed by his Executors, Thomas Knowles and John Chichley, who purchaſed Licence of King Henry IV, to convey Water, to make the Conduit.

THE ſaid King, by his Patent dated at Windſor, the 21ſt of his Reign, (which Patent was confirmed by Parliament 1442) granted Licenſe to Thomas Knowles, John Chichley, and others, Executors to the ſaid John Wells, with his Goods to make new the Highway, which leadeth from the City of LONDON, towards the Palace of Weſtminſter, before and nigh the Manor of Savoy, Parcel of the Dutchy of Lancaſter; a Way then very ruinous, and the Pavement broken, to the Hurt and Miſchief of the Subjects, "Which old Pavement, then remaining in that "Way, within the Length of five hundred Feet, "and all the Breadth of the ſame, before and "nigh the Site of the Manor aforeſaid; they to "break up, and with Stone, Gravel, and other "Stuff, one other good and ſufficient Way there "to make, for the Commodity of the Subjects. "And further, that the Standard in Cheap, "where divers Executions of the Law, before "Time, had been performed; which Standard, "at that preſent, was very ruinous with Age; "in which there was a Conduit, ſhould be taken "down, and another competent Standard of "Stone, together with a Conduit in the ſame, "of new, ſtrongly to be built, for the Commo-"dity and Honour of the City, with the Goods "of the ſaid Teſtator, without Interrupti-"on, &c.

NOW, whether the Standard in Weſt Cheap, ſo oft ſpoken of in former Time, be the ſame, and ſtood juſt in the ſame Place, or elſewhere; or that the ſame were removeable, were ſome queſtion. For it is manifeſt, that in the Reign of Edward III, and at other Times, when the great Juſtings, and their Runnings on Horſeback, were practiſed between the great Croſs, and the great Conduit at Soper's-lane End, there was no ſuch Standard, or other Obſtacle between them; neither was that Street paved with hard Stone, as now it is. We read, that in the Year 1293, three Men had their Right Hands cut off at the Standard in Cheap, for reſcuing a Priſoner arreſted by an Officer of the City. It was very likely therefore, that the old Croſs in Cheap (which was then newly built) was alſo the Standard.

BUT of the Executions at the Standard in Cheap, we read further; that in the Year 1326, the Burgeſſes of LONDON cauſed Walter Stapleton, Biſhop of Exeter, Treaſurer to Edward II, to be beheaded, with others, at the Standard in Cheap, but this was by Paul's Gate.

IN the Year 1351, the 26th of Edward III, two Fiſhmongers were beheaded at the Standard in Cheap. In the Year 1381, Wat Tyler beheaded Richard Lions, and others, there. In the Year 1399, Henry IV, cauſed the Blank Charters made by Richard II, to be burnt there. In the Year 1450, Jack Cade, Captain of the Kentiſh Rebels, beheaded the Lord Say there. In the Year 1461, John Davy had his Hand cut off there, becauſe he had ſtruck a Man before the Judges at Weſtminſter, &c.

THEN next was the great Croſs in Weſt Cheap, (but in Faringdon Ward within) which Croſs was there erected in the Year 1290, by Edward I, upon Occaſion thus: Queen Eleanor, his Wife, died at Herdeby, (a Town near to the City of Lincoln) her Body was brought from thence to Weſtminſter, and this King, in Memory of her, cauſed in every Place where her Body reſted in the Way, a ſtately Croſs of Stone to be made and erected, with the Queen's Image and Arms upon it; as at Grantham, Woborne, Northampton, Stony Stratford, Dunſtable, St. Albans, Waltham, Weſt Cheap, and at Charing; from whence ſhe was conveyed to Weſtminſter, and there buried.

THIS

THIS Croſs being, by Length of Time, much decayed, John Hatherly being Mayor of LONDON, procured in the Year 1441, Licence of King Henry VI, in the 21ſt of his Reign, to reedify the ſame in a more beautiful Manner, for the Honour of the City: And had a Licence alſo, to take up two hundred Fodder of Lead, for the Building thereof, and of certain Conduits, and a common Granary.

FOR there was now, not only a handſome Croſs to be ſet up in Weſt Cheap, but Conduits, with Standards, to be built, and Leaden-Pipes, that conveyed the Water above three Miles; and the Works about them to be looked after, and a common Granary to be erected a-new. For the authorizing and licenſing the City in which Works, the ſaid King Henry VI iſſued out Letters to this Tenor:

REX omnibus ad quos, &c. Salutem Sciatis, quod cum dilecti nobis Johannes Hatherly, Mayor & Cives London. pro communi Utilitatis & decenciæ totius ejuſd. Civitat. (cauſa) & ad univerſale proficuum, necnon ad omnium Ligeorum noſtrorum ibidem confluentium complacentiam, locis ibidem quamplurimis, prout decet, diverſos aque recentis, conductus cum Standardis ceteriſq; machinis & pipis plumbeis, quæ ultra tria milliaria ſub & ſupra terram decurrerunt & decurrerunt conſtruere & erigere, ac quandam communem Granariam de novo fabricare, & quandem Crucem ſpectabilem in Weſt Chepe dict. Civitatis pro quadam augea eiſdem conductibus tanquam mater deſervitur. Quæ ſine ſumma plumbe notabili, ac operariis eiſd. operibus neceſſariis exequi non valet, conſtruere & erigere proponant.

Nos utilitatem, decenciam & commodum predict. intime conſiderantes, de gra. noſtra ſpeciali conceſſimus, & licenciam dedimus, &c.

THIS common Garner, or Granary, ſpoken of in theſe Letters Patents, to be built a-new, was that which was built by Simon Eyre, or Leyre, Alderman, at Leadenhall, for the publick Uſe of the City. This Croſs to be erected here at Weſt Cheap, expreſs'd in theſe Letters Patents to ſerve pro quadam Augea tanquam mater, ſeems to be for an Increaſe and Supply of Water, as the Mother Aqueduct to the reſt of the Conduits; as though there were Pipes laid from hence to the Root.

THIS Croſs was then curiouſly wrought at the Charges of divers Citizens, viz. John Fiſher, Mercer, gave 600 Marks towards it; the ſame was begun to be ſet up 1484, and it was not finiſhed before the Year 1486, the 2d of Henry VI. It was new gilt all over in the Year 1522, againſt the Coming in of Charles V, Emperor; and was new burniſhed againſt the Coronation of Edw. VI. and in 1553, againſt the Coronation of Queen Mary; and gilt again in the Year 1554, againſt the Coming in of King Philip. Since the which Time, the ſaid Croſs having been preſented by divers Juries, (or Queſts of Wardmote) to ſtand in the Highway, to the Let of Carriages, &c. as they alledged, but could not have it removed; it followed, that in the Year 1581, the 21ſt of June, in the Night, the lower Images round about the ſaid Croſs, (being of CHRIST's Reſurrection, of the Virgin Mary, King Edward the Confeſſor, and ſuch like) were broken and defaced; whereupon Proclamation was made, That whoſoever would diſcover the Doers thereof, ſhould have 40 Crowns; but nothing came to Light. The Image of the bleſſed Virgin, at that Time, robbed of her Son, and her Arms broken, by which ſhe held him on her Knees; her whole Body was alſo haled with Ropes, and left ready to fall; but was, in the Year 1595, again faſtened and repaired. And in the Year 1596, about Bartholomew-tide, a new Son, miſhapen (as born out of Time) all naked, was laid in her Arms; the other Images remaining broken as before. On the Eaſt Side of the ſame Croſs, the Steps being taken thence, under the Image of CHRIST's Reſurrection defaced, was then ſet up a curious wrought Tabernacle of grey Marble, and in the ſame, an Alabaſter Image of Diana, a Woman (for the moſt Part naked) and Water conveyed from the Thames, prilling from her naked Breaſts for a Time, but the ſame was oft-times dried up, and decayed.

IN the Year 1599, the Timber of the Croſs at the Top being rotted within the Lead, the Arms thereof bending, were feared to have fallen, to the harming of ſome People; and therefore the whole Body of the Croſs was ſcaffolded about, and the Top thereof taken down, meaning in Place thereof to ſet up a Pyramid; but ſome of her Majeſty's honourable Counſellors directed their Letters to Sir Nicholas Moſley, then Mayor, by her Highneſs's expreſs Commandment, concerning the Croſs, forthwith to be repaired, and placed again as it formerly ſtood, &c. Notwithſtanding, the ſaid Croſs ſtood heedleſs more than a Year after: Whereupon the ſaid Counſellors, in great Number, meaning not any longer to permit the Continuance of ſuch a Contempt, wrote to William Rider, then Mayor, requiring him, by Virtue of her Highneſs's ſaid Direction and Commandment, without any further Delay, to accompliſh her Majeſty's moſt princely Care therein, reſpecting eſpecially the Antiquity and Continuance of that Monument, and antient Enſign of Chriſtianity, &c. dated the 24th of December 1600. After this a Croſs of Timber was framed, ſet up, covered with Lead, and gilded, the Body of the Croſs downward cleanſed from Duſt, and the Scaffold carried thence: About twelve Nights following, the Image of our Lady was again defaced, by pucking off her Crown, and almoſt her Head, taking from her her naked Child, and ſtabbing her in the Breaſt, &c. Thus much for the Croſs in Weſt Cheap.

THEN at the Weſt End of Weſt Cheap-ſtreet, was ſome Time a Croſs of Stone, called the Old Croſs. Ralph Higden, in his Polycronicon ſaith, that Walter Stapleton, Biſhop of Exeter, Treaſurer to Edward II, was by the Burgeſſes of LONDON beheaded at this Croſs, then called the Standard, without the North Door of St. Paul's Church, and ſo it is noted in other Writers that then lived. This old Croſs ſtood and remained at the Eaſt End of the Pariſh Church, called St. Michael in the Corn, by St. Paul's Gate, near to the North End of the Old Exchange, till the Year 1390, the 13th of Richard II, in Place of which old Croſs, then taken down, the ſaid Church of St. Michael was enlarged, and alſo a Water-conduit about the 9th of Henry VI.

HERE in Cheapſide in Bow Pariſh, formerly in the Time of King Henry VIII, and ſome Time after, lived a conſiderable Mercer, at the Sign of the Crown, and this, perhaps, was that Shop of which we have ſo odd a Story in our Chronicles, of the Maſter's being put to Death, for ſaying, in a jeſting Manner, That he would make his Son Heir to the Crown. The Perſon who kept it in King Henry VIII's Reign, was Mr. John Hare, of an antient Family in Suffolk, who left a good Eſtate behind him to his Children, who were many, beſides his charitable Legacies. He died Anno 1564. To Richard Hare, his fourth Son, (who, as it ſeems, continued his Father's Trade) he gave by his Will his ſaid Dwelling-Houſe at the Crown, with all the Shops, Cellars, Yards, and Ware-houſes, thereunto belonging. He was alſo Owner of the Manor of Stow Bardolph in the County of Norfolk; which he purchaſed of Queen Mary; and alſo the Parſon-age thereof, and other Lands and Tenements there, which he purchaſed of Richard Catlyn, Serjeant at Law: All which he gave by Will to his eldeſt Son and Heir, Nicholas Hare. He was likewiſe Owner of a great Manſion-place, (as it is called in his Will) with Gardens, Orchards, Houſes, Lands, and Tenements in Whitecroſs-ſtreet in the Pariſh of St. Giles's Cripplegate: Another Tenement in More-lane in the ſaid Pariſh, with Garden, Tenter-yards, and other Commodities and Profits thence ariſing, or occupied with the ſame.

HIS charitable Legacies were as follows: To the poor People of the Pariſh of our Lady of Bow, where he then dwelt, 40 s. to be divided among them. To the Poor of the Pariſh of our Lady in Homesfield in the County of Suffolk, where he was born, 20 s. To the two Hoſpitals, Chriſt's and St. Thomas's, to the Uſe of the Poor thereof, 40 l. to be equally divided. To St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital 10 l. To the five Lazar-Houſes about LONDON, 10 s. to every Houſe. To every Priſoner within Newgate, Ludgate, the Marſhalſea and the King's-Bench, 4 d. in Money, to every one that were Priſoners there at his Deceaſe. And to every one that ſhould be then Priſoners in the Compters of Woodſtreet and the Poultrey 4 d. a-piece. To the 13 poor Men in Whittington College, 2 s. a-piece.

OTHER Liberalities by his Will were: To the worſhipful Company of Mercers, to make Banquet withal after his Deceaſe 12 l. to be paid within three Months after his Deceaſe, to the Wardens of the Company then being. To every Man or Maid Servant, not afore-named (the reſt having particular Legacies aſſigned them) being his preſent Servants at the Time of his Death, 40 s. a-piece. Item, To divers Perſons of Quality, and Citizens of Rank, he bequeathed Rings to each, of fine Gold, weighing near the Weight of three Quarters of an Ounce every Ring. Theſe were Sir Thomas Leigh, Alderman, and my Lady his Wife, Sir Roger Martin, Alderman, Edmund Jackman, Alderman, Sir Thomas Greſham, Knt. and my Lady his Wife, &c. to the Number of 35 in all. All this is extracted from Mr. Hare's Laſt Will; which is ſet down thus largely, to ſhew the Wealth accruing to the Citizens in former Times by their Trades and Diligence therein: and likewiſe their Charities and Generoſities.

IN this Ward in Cheapſide, the Mercers chiefly had their Shops and Warehouſes in former Times, who were alſo great Merchants, and ſometimes went abroad beyond Sea for Traffick, and eſpecially in Italy. A Story relating to which happened in the Year 1450; an Italian Servant walking through Cheapſide with a Dagger at his Girdle, a Mercer's Servant, that before had been in Italy, went to him, and blamed him for wearing a Dagger, being a Stranger, and out of his own Country; and knowing that in his Country no Stranger might do ſo. For this Engliſhman had done ſo abroad, and was checked for it. But the Stranger gave ſuch Language to the Mercer, that they fell to quarrelling: And the Mercer at length by Force took his Dagger from him, and broke it upon his Head. The Stranger complained to the Mayor; and he, together with the Court of Aldermen, ſent the Mercer to Ward; but the Mayor and Sheriffs walking homeward through Cheap, were met by a great Number of Mercers Servants, and others; who ſuffered them not to paſs till they had delivered the young Man that was ſent to Priſon.

THIS Story is thus continued by another of our Hiſtorians: That this Tumult ran to the Houſes of divers Venetians, Lucaſians and Florentines, and ſpoiled and rifled them: But at length, the Mayor, with divers diſcreet and ſober Citizens, having taken ſome of them, diſperſed the reſt, and perſuaded them to go to their Houſes; but upon this a Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer, was iſſued to the Dukes of Exeter and Bucks, and other Noblemen, for Enquiry and Puniſhment of theſe Diſorders. But when they were ſet in Guildhall, a Number of light Perſons in Armour came to reſcue the Priſoners lately apprehended, as they were carried to their Arraignment, which made the two Dukes and other Commiſſioners quickly depart for that Time; yet certain diſcreet Citizens ſo handled the Matter, that no Diſorder followed of that Jury: And the Mayor, the next Day called a Common-Council, who appointed all the Wardens of the Companies to aſſemble their Companies in their Halls, and they to exhort them to keep Peace; and that if they eſpied any ready to make a Stir, or to attempt the Deliverance of ſuch as were in Priſon, ſecretly to write their Names and deliver them to the Mayor. This Courſe appeaſed the Outrage; and Commiſſioners afterwards ſat at Guildhall, where many of the Robbers were attainted and put to Execution; beſides Fines ſet upon divers Merchants for winking at the Matter.

Richard Malory, a rich Citizen lived in Weſt-Cheap in St. Peter's Pariſh (ſomewhat out of this Ward). The Meſſuage wherein he dwelt having been ſome religious, Poſſeſſion, came into the Hands of King Edward VI, who in his 2d Year ſold it to the ſaid Malory, for 128 l. with all other Houſes, Edifices, Shops, Cellars, Solars, Stables, and Gardens thereunto belonging, being of the yearly Value of 8 l. Thus much for the High Street of Cheapſide.

MERCERS-CHAPEL,

CALLED

St. Thomas of Acars, or Acons.

ON the North Side of this Street, and on the Weſtward of where St. Mary Colechurch ſtood, is the Mercers-chapel, ſome Time an Hoſpital, intituled St. Thomas of Acons or Acars, near to the great Conduit in Cheap, for a Maſter and Brethren, Militiæ Hoſpitalis, &c. ſaith the Record of Edward III, the 14th Year. It was founded by Thomas Fitz-Theobald de Heily, and Agnes, his Wife, Siſter to Thomas a Becket, in the Reign of Henry II. They gave to the Maſter and Brethren the Lands with the Appurtenances, that ſome Time were Gilbert a Becket's, Father of the ſaid Thomas, in the which he was born; there to make a Church. There was a Charnel and a Chapel over it of St. Nicholas and St. Stephen.

The Life of Thomas a Becket.

THE Life of Thomas a Becket (to whom this Hoſpital or Chapel was probably dedicated) is written by divers Authors, and diverſly, according to their Affection; we ſhall therefore ſay little of it, referring the Reader to ſuch as have written of him; and only give a ſhort Account of his Birth and Parentage, alſo of his Death, and why this Hoſpital was dedicated by the Name of St. Thomas of Acons or Acars.

THIS Thomas a Becket, was a Son of Gilbert Becket, a Citizen of LONDON, and of Matildis his Wife, who was the Daughter of a Pagan Prince, under whoſe Cuſtody, Gilbert being taken Priſoner, when he travell'd into the Holy Land, was for a Year and a half kept Priſoner, and at laſt eſcaping, by the Help of this Matildis (who fell in Love with him, being converted by him to the Chriſtian Religion) he came again ſafe into England, whom Matildis, not long after, for Love of him, adventured to follow, and getting ting away from her Father, came at laſt to LONDON, where finding Gilbert, he marri-ed her, and of her begat this Thomas, who was born in his Father's Houſe, which then was in the Place where Mercers Chapel in Cheapſide now ſtands.

He was murder'd in his own Cathedral Church at Canterbury, on Innocent's Day, at Even, Anno 1170, as he was going up the Steps towards the Choir, by four Knights, named Reynald Fitz-Urſe, Hugh de Mortenill, William de Tracy, and Richard Briton, none of which (as the Report is) lived above three Years after, and then died very penitent. His Body was firſt buried in the Undercraft of his own Cathedral-Church; whence, ſhortly after, it was taken up, put into a goodly Shrine, beſet with coſtly Jewels and precious Stones, and plac'd at the Eaſt End of the ſame Church, where it continued till the Time of Henry VIII, by whoſe Command his Monument was utterly deſtroy'd, and his Relicks burnt to Aſhes, Anno Dom. 1538.

Why this Chapel was dedicated to St. Thomas a Becket, by the Name of St. Thomas of Acons, is not perfectly known; but the following Account from the X. Scriptores, ſeems very probable: "When the City of Acars, or Acon, in the Holy "Land, (called alſo Ptolematis) was beſieg'd by "the Chriſtians, one William, an Engliſhman by "Nation, being Chaplain to Radulphus de Di- "ceto, Dean of LONDON, when he went to "Jeruſalem, bound himſelf by a Vow, that if he "ſhould proſperouſly enter Acon, he would build "a Chapel to St. Thomas the Martyr, at his "own Charge, according to his Ability; and "would procure there, to the Honour of the "ſaid Martyr, a Church-yard to be conſecrated; "which was done. Then many flocking from all "Parts to ſerve in this Chapel, William himſelf, "as a Token of his Chriſtianity, took on him "the Name of Prior; who, whilſt he ſerved Bo-"dily, as a Soldier of Christ, had an eſpe-"cial Care of the Poor, and he freely beſtowed "all his Diligence and Labour, in burying of "the Bodies of ſuch as died, as well naturally "as of others who were ſlain with the Sword, "repreſenting himſelf in Man's Sight, the next "Succeſſor of that great Tobias.

There is another Teſtimony out of the Theatre of Honour, Lib. 9. Cap. 11. where the Author repeating the military Orders of the Holy-Land, ſaith thus: "The Order of St. "Thomas was inſtituted by the King of Eng- "land, Richard, ſurnamed Cœur de Lyon, after "the Surprizal of Acars, and being of the Eng- "liſh Nation, they held the Rule of St. Au- "guſtine, wore a white Habit, and a full red "Croſs, charged in the Middle with a white "Scallop; they took for their Patron the Arch-"biſhop of Canterbury, the Metropolitan of "England, Thomas a Beckett, who ſuffered Mar-"tyrdom (as his Favourers ſay) under the King "of England, Henry II, of that Name. Peter "de Rupibus, Biſhop of Wincheſter, who had "been five Years in the Holy Land, removed the "Church there of St. Thomas the Martyr, from "an unfit Place to a more convenient, and cau-"ſed the Patriarch of Jeruſalem to take Order, "that the Brethren of this Church, who were "before Laymen, might be under the Order of "the Templers, wearing a Croſs on their Breaſt. "He bequeathed alſo to this Houſe of St. Tho- "mas of Acons, 500 Marks". So much M. Paris in vita Hen. III. p. 472. ſub Anno 1238.

Hereby it is clear, that the Dedication of this Hoſpital, or Chapel, to St. Thomas of Acons or Acar, muſt have relation to the like Dedication of the Chapel and Holy Order in the City of Acar, in the Holy Land, to the ſame Archbiſhop: All theſe three Dedications being near about one and the ſame Time, within few Years after the Archbiſhop's Death. And it is probable, that in Imitation of thoſe Dedications at Acars, this in LONDON might do the like.

From this St. Thomas antiently was a ſolemn Proceſſion uſed by the new Mayor; who, the Afternoon of the Day he was ſworn at the Exchequer, met with the Aldermen here; whence they repaired together to St. Paul's, and there prayed for the Soul of the Biſhop William at his Tomb; who was Biſhop of LONDON in the Time of William the Conqueror. Then they went to the Church-yard, to a Place where Thomas a Becket's Parents lay; and there they prayed for all faithful Souls departed. And then they went all back to St. Thomas of Acons again; and both Mayor and Aldermen offered each a Penny.

William Bouyndon, Magiſter Domus Sanctæ Thomæ Martyris de Acon, March 1419. Johan. Chadde, Civis & Cuttelar, LONDON, by his laſt Will dated June 13, 1482, gave to John Neet, Maſter of the Houſe of St. Thomas the Martyr of Acons, and to the Brethren of the ſaid Place, and their Succeſſors, his Tenement in Berſhaw-lane, in the Pariſh of St. Mary de Cole Church.

This Hoſpital was valued to diſpend 277 l. 3 s. 4 d. It was ſurrendered the 30th of Henry VIII, the 21ſt of October, and was ſince purchaſed by the Mercers, by means of Sir Richard Greſham, and was again ſet open on the Eve of St. Michael 1541, the 33d of Henry VIII; yet all was not ſold by that King, that belonged to this Fraternity; for King Edward VI, had Mills in Weſt Ham in Eſſex, called St. Thomas Milnes, being a Meſſuage and a Tenement, with two Mills, belonging to St. Thomas of Acars, which in that King's firſt Year he ſold to Gerard Harmond, to the yearly Value of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d.

The Image of Thomas a Becket, to which Popiſh Saint this Chapel was dedicated, ſtood over the Gate. But in the Month of January, the firſt of Queen Elizabeth's Reign, ſomebody threw it down and broke it; and ſet a Writing on the Church Door, reflecting on them that placed it there. It is now called the Mercer's Chapel; and therein is kept a free Grammar-School, as of old Time had been accuſtomed, and commanded by Parliament.

BEFORE this Hospital, towards the Street, was built a handsome and beautiful Chapel arched over with Stone, and thereupon the Mercers Hall, a most curious Piece of Work. Sir John Allen, Mercer, being a Founder, was there buried; but afterwards his Tomb was removed into the Body of the Hospital Church, and the Chapel was made into Shops, and let out for Rents by his Successors the Mercers.

THESE Mercers were enabled by Richard II. (by whom they were made a Company) to purchase Lands to the Value of 20 l. per Ann. They had three Messuages and Shops in the Parish of St. Martin Outwich in Bishopsgate Ward, for the Sustentation of the Poor, and a Chantry the 22d of Richard II. Henry IV, in the 12th of his Reign, confirmed to Stephen Spelman, W. Marchford, and John Whatile, Mercers, by the Name of one new Seldam, Shed, or Building, with Shops, Cellars, and Edifices whatsoever appertaining; the Buildings called Crownsilde, situate in the Mercery of West Cheap, in the Parish of St. Mary de Arcubus, in LONDON, &c. to be holden in Burgage, as all the City of LONDON is; and which were worth by Year, in all Issues, according to the true Value of them, 7 l. 13 s. 4 d. as was found by Inquisition before Thomas Knowles, Mayor, and Eschetor in the said City. Henry the IVth, in the 3d of his Reign, at the Request of John Coventry, John Carpenter, and William Grove, granted to the Merces to have a Chaplain, and a Brotherhood, for Relief of such of their Company as came to Decay by Misfortunes at Sea.

ON Tuesday, the 27th of April, Anno 10 Henry VIII, it was granted unto the Master and his Brethren of the Hospital of St. Thomas of Acons, in West Cheap, where St. Thomas the Martyr was born, (because they wanted Room in the Hospital) that for their more Ease they might make a Gallery in convenient Height and Breadth, from their said House overthwart the Street in the Old Jury, into a certain Garden and Buildings, which the Master and Brethren had then lately purchased. So as the said Gallery should be of such Height, as should not annoy Man, Horse, nor Cart: And to make a Window on either Side of the said Gallery; and therein, yearly, in the Winter, to have a sufficient Light, for the Comfort of them that passed by.

IN the Year 1536, on St. Peter's Night, King Henry VIII, and Queen Jane his Wife, stood in this Mercers Hall, then new built, and beheld the marching Watch of the City, most bravely set out, Sir John Allen, Mercer, one of the King's Council, being Mayor.

OF later Time, a famous learned Italian Archbishop, viz. the Archbishop of Spalatto, who had forsaken his Country Archbishoprick, for the Sake of the true Religion, came and dwelt in England, preached divers Sermons in the Italian Language, in the Mercers Chapel. The first Sermon, as it seems, he preached there, was in November, 1617, where were present, as his Auditors, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, the Earls of Arundel and Pembroke, the Lords Zouch and Compton, and many other of great Note. He preached there again upon Sunday, April 19, 1618: And so he did upon Sundays divers Years after. And from thence, even to our Remembrance, that Chapel was used for Italian Sermons, at which English Merchants, that had lived abroad, were present, and contributed to the Maintaining thereof.

THE Mercers Hall and Chapel were demolished by the great Fire, but new and magnificently built by the said Company. The Hall and great Parlour are finely wainscotted with right Oak, and adorned with Pilasters of the Ionick Order, the Ceiling with Fretwork, and the stately Piazzas are constituted by large Columns and Entablature of the Dorick Order. In the Hall are the King's Arms, those of the City, and others. The Front to Cheapside is very Ornamental; the Door-case is enrich'd with the Figures of two Cupids, mantling their Arms, Festoons, &c. and above the Balcony 'tis adorned with two Pilasters, their Entablature, and Pediment of the Ionick Order; the Intercolumns are the Figures of Faith and Hope, and that of Charity, in a Nich under the Cornice of the Pediment, with other Enrichments.

THE Chapel is neatly wainscotted, and paved with black and white Marble: In the Ambulatory leading to it, against the North Wall, is a Marble Tomb, with the Effigies, lying at full Length, of Richard Fishborne, Mercer, a worthy Benefactor, who died the 8th of April 1625.

AND at the Entrance into the Chapel are two Marble Tables, hanging one on each Side the middle Door, with the following Inscriptions: On that on the North Side;

M. S.

NEAR this Place lieth interred the Body of Margaret, the Wife of John Essington, of Grossington Hall in the County of Glocester, Gent. She was a Person of great Virtue and excellent Accomplishment, acquired by extraordinary Education. After a languishing Sickness, she was called to a better Life, March the 18th 1701.

TO whose pious Memory, her mournful Husband erected this Monument.

NEAR this Place also lie interred the Bodies of John Godfrey, Gent. the Father, and Thomas Godfrey, Citizen and Mercer of LONDON, Brother to Mrs. Margaret Essington, of whom the former having served the Right Worshipful Company of Mercers, with known Integrity, as Clerk, near sixty Years, deceased June 21, 1697, aged 80; the other dying May 1, 1698, aged 46, left a plentiful Estate to his beloved Sister.

ON the other Table on the South Side of the Door:

In Memory of John Warner, Citizen, who departed this Life the 10th Day of January 1702, in the 73d Year of his Age, erected by Anne his Wife, Daughter of George Price, Esq; late of Westbury in the County of Bucks.

Near this Place lieth the Body of Anna Maria, the Wife of John Warner, his Nephew, being the Daughter and only Child of George Price, of the County of Glocester, who departed from this World the 21st Day of July 1704, and in the 21st Year of her Age.

NEXT beyond the Mercers Hall is Ironmonger-lane, so called from Ironmongers once dwelling there.

The PARISH of St. MARTIN's POMARY, OR IRONMONGER-LANE.

THE Church of St. Martin in Ironmonger-lane, was ſmall, and called St. Martin Pomary, upon what Occaſion, Stow ſays, he knows not, but ſuppoſed it to be from Apples growing where Houſes were afterwards built.

THIS Church was given to the Prior and Canons of St. Bartholomew in Weſt Smithfield, by Ralph Triket (who was alſo a Benefactor to the Priories of the Holy Trinity, Chriſt-Church, and St. John of Jeruſalem); for in a Charter of King Henry III, dated at Wincheſter, June 15, in the 37th of his Reign, are theſe Words, viz. Ex Dono Radulphi Triket Eccleſiam Sancti Martini in Pomario, confirmed (among others) to the ſaid Prior and Convent of St. Bartholomew, and their Succeſſors, for ever, in whom the Patronage thereof continued till the general Suppreſſion, upon which it came to the Crown, and hath remained in it ever ſince.

Henry at Roth, Citizen and Chandler of LONDON, in 22 Edward III, founded a Chantry in this Church, and ordered ſix Marks to be paid yearly to a Prieſt to officiate there, and 40 d. for a Torch, out of his great Inn in St. Ethelburgh's Pariſh, in Biſhopſgate-ſtreet, which in 24 Hen. VIII, upon the then Tenants Refuſal to pay the ſaid reſpective Sums, out of the Rents thereof, was confirmed to the ſaid Chantry by the King, with the Advice and Conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons aſſembled in Parliament, with Power to diſtrain for the ſaid Sums and their Arrears.

HERE was likewiſe another perpetual Chantry founded for the Soul of William Forbour, to which the Biſhop of LONDON, collated in 1391, as devolved to him by Lapſe.

IN 1627, a great Part of the North Wall of this Church, being very much decayed, was rebuilt; and in 1629, the whole Church was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhioners.

THIS Church, being burnt down in the late dreadful Fire, is ſince annex'd to that of St. Olave's Jewry, which is now the Parochial-Church for both Pariſhes, of which more will be ſaid in Coleman-ſtreet Ward.

IN 1693, the Church-wardens preſented the Parſonage-Houſe, burnt down in the late dreadful Fire, but was with the Toft of Ground adjoining to it, demis'd and let out by Dr. Hibbert, the late Rector, on Aug. 21, 1673, to ſeveral of the Pariſhioners for 40 Years, at the reſerved Rent of 8 l. per Ann. to the ſaid Parſon and his Succeſſors; in which Leaſe, and under the ſame Ground-Rent, is alſo contained a Shed or Ground-Houſe, abutting on the Weſt End of the Church-yard.

THEY preſented likewiſe, that Mr. Stodder (beſides 50 s. yearly to the Uſe of the Poor of this Pariſh) left 40 s. yearly for a Sermon, to be preached on St. James's Day, by an unbeneficed Miniſter, in the Commemoration of the Deliverance, in the Year 1588; both which Sums are to be paid by the Ironmongers Company.

MONUMENTS.

HERE were no Monuments of any Account till after Stow's Time; among the laſt were theſe:

A handſome Monument at the Upper End of the Chancel, with this Inſcription:

Hereunder lieth buried Eleanor, Wife of Hamlet Clarke, Free of the worſhipful Company of Fiſhmongers, LONDON, and one of the four Clerks of the Lord Mayor's Court, LONDON, aforeſaid. She died on Sunday the 14th of January, 1626, and was buried on Friday the 19th of the ſame, after they had been married 33 Years, and about two Months. They had Iſſue only Mary, married to Ralph Latham, of Upminſter in the County of Eſſex, Eſq; Common-Serjeant at Law of this Honourable City: And the ſaid Eleanor had alſo Elizabeth another Daughter, by Charles Barnard, a former Huſband, married to Thomas Latham of Stilford in Eſſex, Gentleman.

ON a fair Stone in the North Iſle was the following Inſcription:

Here lieth interred the Body of Randal Pickering, late Citizen and Haberdaſher of LONDON, born at Turvine, in the County of Cheſter, who put off this Mortality, March 10, 1629: And Alice his Wife, Daughter of William Madox, and born in this Pariſh, who departed this Life the 20th of June 1618. By her he had Iſſue three Sons and three Daughters, William, Randal, Anne and Elizabeth ſurviving, John and Mary deceaſed.

FARTHER Weſt is St. Lawrence's-lane, ſo called from St. Lawrence's Church, which ſtandeth directly over-againſt the North End thereof. Antiquities in this Lane are no other, than that among many Houſes, there is a large Inn for Receipt of Travellers, called Bloſſom's Inn, but corruptly Boſom's Inn, and hath the Sign of St. Lawrence the Deacon, in a Border of Bloſſoms, or Flowers.

THEN, near to where the Standard in Cheap ſtood, is Honey-lane.

The PARISH of ALHALLOWS HONEY-LANE.

THE Church which ſtood here was ſmall. The Patronage of it was of old Time in the Gift of private Perſons, Citizens of LONDON; the Laſt whereof, Thomas Knowles, who in 1399, was Mayor of LONDON, and being by Company a Grocer, in all Likelyhood, either he or his Heirs, gave the Advowſon thereof to that Company: For it appears by what follows, that it has been in their Patronage ever ſince the Year 1471, and probably for ſome Years before. It is ſubject to the Archdeacon, ſaving only as to Wills and Adminiſtrations, which belong to the Commiſſary.

Sir John Norman, Draper, Mayor of LONDON in 1453, was buried in this Church. He was Son of John Norman, of Banbury in Oxfordſhire; and was the firſt Mayor that was rowed by Water to Weſtminſter, to take his Oath: He cauſed a Barge to be made at his own Charge, and every Company had ſmall Barges, well decked and trimm'd, to paſs along with him; for Joy whereof the Watermen made a Song in the Praiſe of him, beginning thus, Row thy Boat Norman, &c.

THIS Church being burnt down in the late dreadful Fire, was annex'd to St. Mary Le Bow; and and on the Site thereof, by Act of Parliament, is now Part of Honey-lane Market.

In 1693, the Rector and Church-wardens preſented a Parſonage-Houſe before the late dreadful Fire, but then burnt down, and the Ground thereof ſince ſwallowed up by the Market: And the Pariſh of St. Mary Le Bow (to which this is united) hath received all the Monies paid for the Site of the Ground of the Church and Church-yard.

Also, that they had no Bequeſts or charitable Gifts to their Church or Poor, or to any publick Uſe within their Pariſh, that they knew of.

The Veſtry is General.

Honey-lane, Part of Trump-ſtreet, and Part of Trump-alley.

Number of Houſes 20.

And thus much for Cheap Ward, in the high Street of Cheap; for it ſtretcheth no farther.

Next on the North Side of this Ward, is Catte-ſtreet, ſo called in Record, 24 Henry VI. but now corruptly Cateaton-ſtreet; which begins at the North End of Ironmonger-lane, and runs to the Weſt End of St. Lawrence's Church, as is aforeſaid.

Guildhall. On the North Side of this Street is the Guild-hall, wherein the nine Courts of the City are kept viz. 1. The Court of Common-Council. 2. The Court of the Lord Mayor, and his Brethren the Aldermen. 3. The Court of Huſtings. 4. The Court of Orphans. 5. The two Courts of the Sheriffs. 6. The Court of the Wardmote. 7. The Court of Hallmote. 8. The Court of Requeſts, commonly called the Court of Conſcience. 9. The Chamberlain's Court for Binding Apprentices, and making them Free.

The Guildhall ſtood formerly in or near Aldermanbury, or Aldermens-court, from which Situation of this Hall, the Street is ſaid to take its Denomination, and conſequently the Hall muſt have been founded before the Year 1189; for then we find this Street to have had that Name, as will be mentioned in Cripplegate Ward. And it is not unlikely that Edward the Confeſſor, who began to reign 1042, had a conſiderable Share in the firſt Foundation, his Arms being in ſeveral Places of this preſent Hall, which Robert Fabian ſaith was begun to be new-built in the Year 1411, the 12th of Henry IV. by Thomas Knowles, then Mayor, and by his Brethren the Aldermen. The ſame was made, of a little Cottage, a large and great Houſe, as it now ſtands. Towards the Charges whereof, the Companies gave great Benevolences. Alſo, Offences of Men were pardoned for Sums of Money, towards this Work: And extraordinary Fees were raiſed, Fines, Amercements, and other Things employed, during ſeven Years, and a Continuation thereof three Years more; all to be employed to this Building.

King Henry V, in the 3d Year of his Reign, which was about the Year 1415, granted the City free Paſſage for four Boats, by Water, and as many Carts by Land, with Servants to each, to bring Lime, Ragg-ſtone, and Free-ſtone, for the Work of Guildhall; as appears by theſe Letters Patents.

" Rex omnibus ad quos, &c. Salutem. Sciatis " quod ad Supplicationem dilectorum & fidelium " noſtrorum Majoris & Aldermannorum Civitatis " LONDON. conceſſimus, Quod ipſi habere " poſſint quatuor Batellos per Aquam, & quatuor " Carectas per Terram cum dictis ſervientibus " ſuis, viz. Joh. Lorekin, Stephano Charles, " Waltero Alpley, & Adamo Winter, Servitoribus Batellorum Predictor. ac Henrico Cok, Johe " Freek, Johe. Stevenes, & Joh. Davy, Servitoribus predictar. Carectarum, ad veniend. tranſeund. & redeund. conjunctim vel diviſim, per " Aquam & per Terram, ad Petras vocatas " Ragge, Calces, & Liberas Petras, pro Operatione & Factura Gayhalde dict. Civitatis noſtræ " ducend. &c.

The firſt Year of Henry VI, John Coventry, and John Carpenter, Executors to Richard Whittington, gave towards the Paving of this great Hall, 20*l.* and the next Year 15*l.* more to the ſaid Pavement, with hard Stone of Purbecke. They alſo glazed ſome Windows thereof, and of the Mayor's Court; on every of which Windows, the Arms of Richard Whittington are placed. The Foundation of the Mayor's Court was laid in the 3d Year of the Reign of Henry VI; and of the Porch, on the South Side of the Mayor's Court, in the 4th of the ſaid King. Then was built the Mayor's Chamber, and the Council-Chamber, with other Rooms above Stairs.

Another new Council-Chamber, with a handſome Room over it, appointed for an Archive to preſerve the Books and Records belonging to the City; and another under it, were began to be built the firſt Week after Eaſter, in the Time of the Mayoralty of Sir Tho. Middleton, Knight and Alderman, in the Year of our Lord 1614. It was fully finiſhed ſhortly after Michaelmas 1615, at the latter End of the Mayoralty of Sir Thomas Hayes, Knight and Alderman: But the Lord Mayor, and the Aldermen his Brethren, kept their firſt Court in the ſaid new Council-Chamber, on the 7th Day of November, in the Year of our Lord 1625, Sir John Jolles, Knight and Alderman, being then Lord Mayor: By whoſe Order and Direction, the ſaid Building was performed, from the firſt Beginning thereof, to the final Finiſhing of the ſame, amounting to the Charge of 1740*l.*

Laſt of all, in the ſaid King Henry VIth's Time, a ſtately Porch, entering the great Hall, was erected; the Front thereof, towards the South, being beautified with Images of Stone; ſuch as is ſhewed by theſe Verſes following, (in Black Characters) made about Anno 1568, by William Elderton, at that Time an Attorney in the Sheriffs Courts there:

Though moſt Images be pulled downe
And none be thought remaine in Towne,
I am ſure there be in LONDON yet
Seven Images, ſuch, and in ſuch Place,
As few or none,
I thinke, will hit:
Yet every Day
they ſhew their Face,
And thouſands ſee them every Yeere.
But few, I thinke,
can tell me where:

Where

Where JESU CHRIST
aloft doth ſtand,
Law and Learning
on either Hand:
Diſcipline in the Divel's Necke,
And hard by her
are three direct;
There Juſtice, Fortitude, and Temperance ſtand.
Where finde ye the like in all this Land?

THERE are ſtill remaining the Figures of Moſes and Aaron, above the Balcony; and below are the four Figures, which ſome have called, The four Cardinal Virtues; but Mr. Strype ſays,

" THE four leſſer Figures, two on each Side " the Porch, ſhew them to be four noble Ladies; " and, by their Dreſs and Habit, of great No- " bility and Religion. Who they were, I do " not pretend to aſſign, leaving it to the Con- " jecture of Antiquarians: But it is very pro- " bable they were ſome eminent Benefactreſſes, " or Friends to the City. One of theſe might " be Maud the Empreſs, who was born in LON- " DON; and another might be Queen Phi- " lippa, Wife to King Edward III, who gained " great Love of the Citizens, by Reaſon of a " Requeſt ſhe once made for ſome of them, on " her Knees, before the King and his Council.

HE that made the former Verſes, might, perhaps, have this crafty Deſign hereby; namely, the better to preſerve theſe antient and curious Statues from the Violence of the People, by concealing them under theſe feigned Fancies of his, whereby they might eſcape the ignorant Zeal of the Vulgar, who were in thoſe Times, wherein he wrote his Verſes, viz. 1568, very buſy in pulling down and defacing all the Images, as Popiſh Saints, and Monuments of Idolatry.

THESE Stone Statues are venerable for their Antiquity, and over-living the great Fire of LONDON; which, 'tis likely, were ſet up firſt when the Porch was built and finiſhed, which was not far from the Beginning of K. Hen. VII's Reign; that is, by Computation, above three Hundred Years ago.

DIVERS Aldermen glazed the Windows of the great old Hall, and other Courts, which was to be ſeen by their Arms in each. William Hariot, Draper, Mayor Anno 1481, gave 40 l. towards this Work. The Kitchens, and other Offices adjoining, were built afterwards, viz. about the Year 1501, by Procurement of Sir John Shaa, Goldſmith, Mayor, who was the firſt that kept his Feaſt there. The Mayors, before that, uſually had their Feaſts at the Merchant-Taylors, or Grocers Hall.

TOWARDS the Charges of this laſt Work, the Mayor had of the Fellowſhips of the City, by their own Agreement, certain Sums of Money, as of the Mercers 40 l. the Grocers 20 l. the Drapers 30 l. and ſo of the other Fellowſhips through the City, according to their Power.

ALSO Widows, and other well-diſpoſed Perſons, gave certain Sums of Money; as the Lady Hill, 10 l. the Lady Auſtrie, 10 l. and many others, till the Work was finiſhed.

Nicholas Alwin, Grocer, Mayor Anno 1499, deceaſed 1505, gave by his Teſtament, for a Hanging of Tapeſtry, to ſerve for principal Days in the Guild-hall, 73 l. 6 s. 8 d. " How this " Gift was performed, ſaith Stow, I have not " heard; for Executors of our Time, having no " Conſcience, (I ſpeak of my own Knowledge) " prove more Teſtaments than they perform.

THIS ſtately Hall being much damnified by the unhappy Conflagration of the City in the Year 1666, was rebuilt Anno 1669, and extreamly well beautified and repaired, both in and outſide, which coſt about 2500 l. This Structure appears at preſent thus: The Portico is adorned with a ſtately Gothick Frontiſpiece, enriched with the King's Arms under a Cornice, Pediment, and Vaſe, and between two Cartouches, and the City Supporters, on Acroters, and theſe between two other Vaſes, under which are Niches; and in the Middle of this Front are depenciled in Gold, theſe Words:

Reparata & ornata Thoma Rawlinſon, Milit. Majore, An. Dom. MDCCVI.

ABOVE the Balcony are the Figures of Moſes and Aaron; and on the Sides beneath are the four Cardinal Virtues, already mentioned, over the Aperture; and below the Balcony are depicted the Arms of the twenty four Companies.

THE Roof of the Inſide is flat, divided into Pannels, the Walls on the North and South Sides adorned with four Gothick Demy Pillars, painted White, and veined with Blue, and the Capitals gilt with Gold, upon which are the Royal Arms, and thoſe of Edward the Confeſſor. Going up nine or ten Steps to the Mayor's Court, on each Side, at ſome Height, are two Giants of an enormous Size, the one holding a Pole-ax, the other an Halbert, ſuppoſed by Mr. Strype to be an antient Briton and a Saxon.

BETWEEN theſe, and over the Steps and Aperture leading to the Mayor's Court, is a Balcony, ſupported at each End by four Iron Pillars in the Form of Palm-Trees, which compoſe ſomething like two Arbours; and theſe are uſed, on ſome Occaſions, as Offices for Clerks to write in: Under theſe are the following large capital Letters, S. P. Q. L. i. e. Senatus Populus Que Londinenſis.

IN the Front of the Balcony is a very fine Clock and Dial, in a curious Frame of Oak, at the four Corners of which are carved the four Cardinal Virtues, on the Top the Figure of Time, with a Cock on each Side of him.

ROUND the Top of the Hall are Colours and Standards (all hereafter deſcribed.) On fourteen Demi-Pillars (above the Capitals) are the King's Arms on the North Eaſtward, and the Arms of LONDON on the South Eaſtward Pillar; and Weſtward from them are the Arms of the Twelve Companies; at the Eaſt End are the King's Arms, between the Portraitures finely painted of their preſent Majeſties King George II. and Queen Caroline; cloſe by the firſt is the Picture of Queen Anne, at the Foot of an Anabathrum, under a rich Canopy; by the latter, his late Majeſty King George I, and at the ſame End of the Hall, but on the North and South Sides, the Pictures of King William III, and Queen Mary, fronting each other. The Intercolumns are painted in Imitation of Porphyry, and embelliſh'd with the Pictures in full Proportion, of eighteen Judges, which were there put up by the City in Gratitude for their ſignal Services done in determining Differences between Landlord and Tenant (without the Expence of Law-Suits) in Re-building the City, purſuant to an Act of Parliament, after the Fire in 1666.

THOSE on the South Side are:

Sir Heneage Finch.
Sir Orlando Bridgman.
Sir Matthew Hale.
Sir Richard Rainsford.
Sir Edward Turner.
Sir Thomas Tyrril.
Sir John Archer.
Sir William Morton.

On the North Side.

Sir Robert Atkins.
Sir John Vaughan.
Sir Francis North.

Sir Thomas Twiſden.
Sir Chriſtopher Turner.
Sir William Wyld.
Sir Hugh Windham.

At the Weſt End.

Sir William Ellys.
Sir Edward Thurland.
Sir Timothy Littleton.

AND in the Lord Mayor's Court (which is adorned with Fleakſtone, and other Painting and Gilding, and alſo the Figures of the four Cardinal Virtues) are the Portraits of Sir Samuel Brown, Sir John Kelynge, Sir Edward Atkins, and Sir William Windham, all (as thoſe above) painted in full Proportion in their Scarlet Robes as Judges.

AND in December 1706, there were given by the Queen to the City, to be put up in this Hall, 26 Standards, or Guidons, and 63 Colours; but there was Room only for 46 Colours, 19 Standards, and one Trophy of a Kettle-Drum, of the late Elector of Bavaria, which is very rich. That Enſign over Queen Ann's Portrait is accounted a great Rarity, being taken from the firſt Battalion of the French Foot Guards. Theſe were all taken by the Army of her Majeſty and her Allies, under the Command of his late Grace the Duke of Marlborough, at the Battle of Ramellies in Flanders, fought on Whitſunday 1706, upon a total Defeat of the French and Bavarian Forces, who had 10,000 Men killed, 6000 taken Priſoners, among whom were two Major-Generals, one Brigadier-General of Horſe, one of Foot, ſeveral others of Diſtinction, and 500 Officers of leſs Note; with all their Tents, Baggage and Ammunition; fifty one Pieces of Cannon, ſeveral Kettle-Drums, and upwards of 120 Standards and Colours; the Conſequences whereof was the Reduction of all Brabant, gaining the Towns of Bruſſels, Antwerp, Ghent, Bruges, Menin, Oſtend, Aeth, Dendermond, Mecklin, Louvain, Audenard, Courtray, Aloſt, &c. in the ſame Campaign.

THESE Colours, Standards, &c. were all brought in great Magnificence through Weſtminſter and LONDON. A Detachment of her Majeſty's Horſe-Guards, and Horſe-Grenadiers, and a Battalion drawn out of both Regiments of her Foot-Guards, drawn up on the Parade in St. James's, having received the ſaid Colours and Standards, (which had been laid up in Whitehall) they proceeded; twenty-ſix of the Gentlemen, in the Century of the Horſe-Guards, carrying each a Standard taken from the Enemy; and ſixty-three of the Pike-Men, in a Battalion of Foot-Guards, inſtead of their Pikes, carrying one of the Enemy's Colours. They marched through the Park, and St. James's Meuſe, where the Queen, from the Lady Fitzharding's Lodgings, ſaw them paſs, the Guns being fired at the ſame Time. And ſo they proceeded down the Pall-mall, the Strand, &c. to Guildhall, where they were ſet up, to remain as Trophies of that ſignal Victory.

THE ſame Month the great Duke of Marlborough, to whom this Victory was owing, was invited to Dinner at the Charge of the City, Sir Robert Beding field being Lord Mayor, upon which Occaſion a very grand Entertainment was made, at which a Song, wrote for the Purpoſe by Durfey the Poet, and ſet to Muſick by Mr. Weldon, was perform'd by Mr. Elford, of the Queen's Chapel, and Mr. Leveridge.

THIS Hall is in Length 153 Feet, Breadth 48, and Altitude within 55 Feet. It is uſed by the City for the Seſſion of the ſeveral Courts of Judicature before named; for feaſting our Kings, Queens, and other Potentates, Foreign Miniſters, &c. and laſtly, for chooſing the Lord Mayors, Sheriffs, Members of Parliament, &c. it being capacious enough to contain 7000 Perſons.

The CHAPEL of St. MARY MAGDALENE, by GUILDHALL.

THE Chapel, or College, of our Lady Mary Magdalene, and of All-ſaints, by the Guildhall, was called London-College, and built firſt in 1299. Peter Fanelore, Adam Fraun-cis, and Henry Frowicke, Citizens, gave one Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances, in the Pariſh of St. Foſter, to William Brampton, Cuſtos of the Chantry by them founded in the ſaid Chapel, with four Chaplains, and one other Houſe in the Pariſh of St. Giles without Cripplegate, in the 27th of Edward III, was given to them; which was about the Year 1353.

Richard II, in the 20th of his Reign, granted to Stephen Spilman, Mercer, Licence to give one Meſſuage, three Shops, and one Garden, with the Appurtenances belonging, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew Hubbard, to the Cuſtos and Chaplains of the ſaid Chapel, and to their Succeſſors, for their better Relief and Maintenance for ever.

KING Henry VI, in the 8th of his Reign, gave Licence to John Barnard, Cuſtos, and the Chaplains, to build a-new the ſaid Chapel or College of Guildhall. And the ſame Henry, in the 27th of his Reign, granted to the Pariſh-Clerks in London, a Guild of St. Nicholas, for two Chaplains, by them to be kept in the ſaid Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, near Guildhall, and to keep ſeven Alms-People. Henry Barton, Skinner, Mayor, founded a Chaplain there. Roger Depham, Mercer, and Sir William Langford, Kt. had alſo Chaplains there. This Chapel or College had a Cuſtos, ſeven Chaplains, three Clerks, and four Choiriſters.

MONUMENTS.

THERE were ſeveral Marble Tombs remaining in Stow's Time, but moſt of them defaced. The uppermoſt in the Choir, on the South Side, above the Re-veſtry Door, was the Tomb of John Wells, Grocer, Mayor, Anno 1431. The Figure of the ſaid Wells was carved on the Tomb, on the Door of the Re-veſtry, and other Places on that Side the Choir. Alſo in the Window over the Tomb, and in the Eaſt Window, was his Image, with Hands elevated, holding Scrolls, wherein is written, Mercy! The Writing in the Eaſt Window being broken, yet remaineth Wells. His Arms were alſo in the South Glaſs Window. All which ſhew, that the Eaſt End, and the South Side of the Choir of this Chapel, and the Re-veſtry, were by him both built and glazed.

HERE ſeems to have been buried Thomas Ryche, Citizen and Mercer of London: For, by his Will dated July 2, 1471, he bequeathed his Body to be buried in the Chapel of Guildhall, London. In which Will, he appointed Sir Relone Prieſt, by the Advice of his Father-in-Law, to pray for his Soul, &c. And that all ſuch Sums as he owed to his Father, Richard Ryche, ſhould be deliver'd to his Executrix Elizabeth his Wife. He bequeathed alſo to the Lady his Siſter, Dame Margaret Walden, (a Lady Abbeſs as it ſeems) to pray for his Soul, a gilt Cup covered, called The Tubbe, &c. To the poor People of Hoxton, the Day of his Burial, 100 Shillings, to pray for his Soul. To the Nieces of John Ryche, his Son, 40 Shillings, &c.

ON the North Side of the Choir, the Tomb of Thomas Kneſworth, Fiſhmonger, Mayor 1505, who deceaſed 1515, was defaced, and afterwards renewed by the Fiſhmongers. Two other Tombs there were, one of a Draper, the other of a Haberdaſher; their Names not known. Richard Stomine was written in the Window by the Haberdaſhers. Under flat Stones do lie divers Cuſtodes of the Chapel, Chaplains and Officers to the Chamber.

AMONGST others, John Clipſtone, Prieſt, ſome Time Cuſtos of the Library of the Guildhall, 1457. Another of Edmond Aliſon, Prieſt, one of the Cuſtodes of the Library, 1510, &c. Sir John Langley, Goldſmith, Mayor, 1576, lieth buried in the Vault, under the Tomb of John Wells, before-named.

OF later Times, theſe following have been buried in Guildhall Chapel, under flat Stones.

Gulielmus Avery, dum vixit celeberrimæ huic Civitati a Commentariis, Ob. 1671.

William Fluellin, Eſq; late Alderman of this City, 1675.

William Lightfoot, one of the four Attornies of the Lord Mayor's Court, and Regiſter of Sutton's Hoſpital, 1699.

AGAINST the South Wall of the Cloiſter, a Monument for Catharine Lightfoot, Daughter of Rob. Abbot, Wife of the ſaid Will. Lightfoot, died in Childbed, 1673.

THIS Chapel or College, valued to diſpend 12*l.* 8*s.* 9*d. per* Year, was ſurrender'd amongſt others. The Chapel remaineth to the Mayor and Commonalty, wherein they have Service weekly; as alſo at the Election of the Mayor, and at the Mayor's Feaſt, &c.

IN the 4th Year of the Reign of King Edward VI, the ſaid King ſold to the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON, the Site of the ſaid College of Guildhall, in the Pariſh of Baſſiſhaw, late diſſolved, and the Chapel there; and divers other Meſſuages, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments in the City of LONDON, in other Pariſhes, for the Sum of 456*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* upon their Humble Petition, the yearly Value being computed to be 40 l. 6*s.* 8*d.* The Date of the Patent was April 10, to commence from the Feaſt of the Annunciation of the bleſſed Virgin, in the 3d of the ſaid King's Reign.

UPON the Front of this Chapel, is ſet up, of latter Times, the Figures, in Stone, of the ſaid King Edward VI, Queen Elizabeth, with a Phœnix under her, and King Charles I. treading upon a Globe.

ADJOINING to this Chapel, on the South Side, was ſome Time a fair and large Library, furniſhed with Books, pertaining to the Guildhall and College.

THESE Books (as it is ſaid) were, in the Reign of Edward VI. ſent for by Edward Duke of Somerſet, Lord Protector, with Promiſe to be reſtored ſhortly. Men laded from thence three Carriages with them; but they were never returned. This Library was built by the Executors of Richard Whittington, and by William Bury. The Arms of Whittington are placed on the one Side in the Stone-work, and two Letters, to wit, W. and B. for William Bury, on the other Side. It is now lofted through, and made a Storehouſe for Cloths.

The PARISH of St. LAURENCE JURY.

SOUTH Weſt from this Guildhall is the Pariſh-Church of St. Laurence, called, In the Jury, becauſe of old Time, ſince the Reign of William the Conqueror, (that firſt brought Jews from Roan into this Realm) many Jews inhabited thereabout, until the Year 1290, the 18th of Edward I. they were wholly, and for ever, by the ſaid king baniſhed this Realm, having of their own Goods to bear their Charges, till they were out of his Dominions. The Number of the Jews, at that Time baniſhed, were 15060 Perſons: Whoſe Houſes being ſold, the King made of them a mighty Maſs of Money.

St. Laurence, to whom this Church was dedicated, was born at Hueſca in the Kingdom of Arragon, and made Archdeacon of the Church of Rome by Pope Sixtus II. in 260, who truſted him with the Treaſures of the Church. This was when the Emperor Valerian was putting forward a cruel Perſecution of the Chriſtians; in which, Pope Sixtus being taken among others, was viſited by Laurence his Archdeacon, whom he charged to diſtribute the Church-Treaſures he was intruſted with, to the poor Chriſtians that hid themſelves in ſubterraneous Caves, from the Fury of that Perſecution. St. Laurence having perform'd this Command, the next Day ſaw them leading the Pope to his Martyrdom, to whom he ſaid aloud, That he had, according to his Command, diſtributed the Church Treaſures to the Poor. The Soldiers hearing him ſpeak of Treaſures, laid hold on him, who appearing before the Emperor, he charged him to declare where theſe Treaſures were, which he had mentioned; St. Laurence demanded three Days Time to get them together, and preſent them to him; at the End thereof, he preſented a great Number of poor People to the Emperor, and told him, that they were the Treaſures of the Church he had ſpoken of. Valerian, incenſed at this Diſappointment, order'd his Skin to be torn in Pieces with Iron Scourges, and afterwards to be whipt with Rods, and Laſhes that had Lead at the End of them, and then to be ſet on the wooden Horſe, and have all his Limbs diſlocated; and, laſt of all, order'd a Kind of Gridiron, with a ſlow Fire under it to be made ready, upon which the Tyrant caus'd him to be laid down and roaſted, which Laurence endured with ſuch Conſtancy and Unconcernedneſs, as aſtoniſhed the Tyrant, and ſo chearfully render'd his Spirit to GOD, on the 10th of Auguſt 261, on which Day his Paſſion and Martyrdom are yearly celebrated.

WHEN this Church was firſt founded, is uncertain; but Stow ſaith it was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhioners in the Year of our Lord 1618.

TO this, in the Year 1631, they added the Coſt of a new and very curious Pulpit, then alſo ſetting off their Font, and the Place in which it ſtood, with a great deal of Coſt and Beauty.

IN the ſaid Year 1618, the Time of this Repair, all the Windows in this Church were glazed by ſo many good Benefactors, with the Arms of the Company of every one of them.

UNDER the middle Window in the Chancel, a very rich and coſtly one, was thus written:

Sir William Eaſtfield, Kt. and Alderman of this Honourable City, and free of the Worſhipful Company of Mercers, glazed this Window at his own proper Coſt and Charges, in the Year of our Lord 1442. And it was afterward repaired at the Charge of the ſaid Company, in the Year of our Lord 1618.

Her deathleſs Soul reſides above the Sky:
To which calm Region of Eternal Day,
Her younger Siſter kindly led the Way;
Where they their pious Father's Spirit meet,
And with tranſporting Joy each other greet.
How welcome muſt they be to Angels there,
Who were themſelves ſo like to Angels here:
In Bliſs they dwell, while, to their laſting Fame,
Their Mourning Mother raiſed this Marble (Frame:
Who ſecond Nuptials for two Nymphs deceas'd,
With Recompence of two ſweet Sons are bleſſed.
Long may thoſe charming Birds on Earth be (heard,
And then to ſing in Paradiſe preferr'd.

William Bird died the 2d of October 1698, aged four Years and a half.

One charming Bird to Paradiſe is flown;
Yet are we not of Comfort quite bereft,
Since one of this fair Brood is ſtill our own,
And ſtill to chear our drooping Soul is left.
This ſtays with us, whilſt that his Flight doth (take,
That Earth and Skies may one ſweet Conſort (make.

No Gifts, Legacies, or Bequeſts, are belonging to this Church or Pariſh, as it was given in at the Parochial Viſitation, Anno 1693. But there are two Weekly Lectures, one preached on Tueſdays, at 30 l. per Annum Another on Thurſdays, alſo at 30 l. per Annum.

There is one Grammar-School kept over the Veſtry.

There was no Parſonage or Vicarage-Houſe before the Fire. Since the Fire, the Pariſh took a Piece of Ground of the City of London, for a certain Number of Years, at the yearly Rent of 20 l. and there built an Houſe for the Vicar.

The Glebe does not now appear; but in the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1636, in the Preſentment, was brought in Rent for two Tenements at 8 l. per Annum.

The Maſter and Scholars of Baliol College in Oxford are the Impropriators of this Church. And a Law-Suit ariſing between them and the Pariſh, for Arrears of the ſaid impropriate Tithes in the Year 1694, both Parties referred themſelves to the final Determination of Sir Nicholas Lechmere, and Sir John Powel, Knts. two of the Barons of the Exchequer, and bound themſelves in the Penalty of 500 l. by Obligation, to ſtand to their Arbitrament; which was, to pay to John Sayer, Clerk, the Leſſee, in full Diſcharge of all Arrears. The Inhabitants or Occupiers of Houſes in the Pariſh to pay unto the Maſter and Scholars of the ſaid College 150 l. free of all Taxes, at the Feaſt of the Annunciation of the Bleſſed Virgin. And, hereafter, the ſaid Pariſh to pay their Tithes for ever, unto the ſaid Maſter and Scholars, or their Leſſee, according to the Rate to which the Inhabitants were aſſeſſed, in a Schedule annexed. The Chancel, for ever hereafter, to be repaired by the Inhabitants, they receiving the Profits of the Burials there. The ſaid Maſter and Scholars, to pay to the Vicar of the Pariſh, within 10 Days, 40 l. for two Years paſt, and 20 l. per Ann. for ever, to the ſaid Vicar, and his Succeſſors. Which ſaid 20 l. had been always paid by the College to the Vicar. This Award to be confirmed by Act of Parliament, at the Charge of the College, within two Years after the Date of theſe Preſents, being 20 Jan. 6. W. III. 1694. In which Act it appears, that the Rate of the Houſes in the above-mention'd Schedule, amounted to 150 l. per Annum, free of all Taxes; and to be paid by Quarterly Payments; and was to be in full Diſcharge of all Tithes, and Eccleſiaſtical Dues whatſoever.

To this Pariſh is united that of St. Mary Magdalen Milk-ſtreet, which is moſtly in the Ward of Cripplegate, but Part in Bread-ſtreet Ward.

The Living is valued by Act of Parliament at 124 l. per Ann. rated in the King's Books at 18 l. 5 d.

The Vicar is the Rev. Dr. William Beſt, and the Lecturer is the Rev. Mr. Shorey.

Prayers are at Eleven in the Morning, and Seven in the Evening daily. Here is a good Organ.

The Gift Sermons are one on every Tueſday, by ſome of our moſt noted Miniſters; the Rev. Dr. Trapp is the preſent Lecturer; it was given by the Lady Cambden above ſixty Years ago; as alſo Thurſday the ſame, by the Rev. Dr. Middleton; Friday Lecturer the Rev. Dr. Beſt the Vicar.

The Veſtry is General.

The Pariſh-Officers are,	The Ward-Officers are,
2 Church-wardens for St. Laurence; one for Milk-ſtreet Pariſh.	Uncertain in both Pariſhes.

Streets, Lanes, &c.

Part of Cateaton-ſtreet, Blackwell-Hall Paſſage; Part of Ironmonger-lane; Part of King-ſtreet; Part of Thrum-ſtreet, or Croſs-ſtreet; Part of Lawrence-lane; Caſtle-court; Part of Mumford's-court, Guildhall-yard; Part of Aldermanbury, Fountain-court; Part of Lad-lane; Part of Milk-ſtreet.

Number of Houſes 167.

In this Pariſh, a famous Man, Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper to Queen Elizabeth, and the Father of Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Verulam, the great Philoſopher, had a Meſſuage in King Edward's Reign, where he then lived; and in the 2d of the ſaid King, purchaſed it of him, together with other Meſſuages and Tenements.

Now for the preſent State of this Ward. The Streets and Lanes in this Ward, are theſe following:

Cheap Ward, on the North Side, begins about 54 Feet from the Eaſt Corner of Milk-ſtreet, and runs Eaſtward to the Weſt End of the Poultrey. And on the South Side, from about 33 Feet Weſt of Bow-lane Corner, runs Eaſtward to the Entrance into Bucklersbury. Honey-lane Market hath the Eaſt Part of it, a little Weſtward of the Market-Houſe. Old Jewry, the South Part on both Sides, as far as Baron Sneſſo's Houſe, which is about 136 Feet. Bucklersbury, all the Street on both Sides, except about 80 Feet of the Eaſt End. Pancraſs-lane, on both Sides, for 60 Feet, and then on the North Side only to King-ſtreet. New Queen-ſtreet on both Sides, as far as Pancraſs-lane on the Eaſt Side, and George-yard on the Weſt. The Poultrey on the North Side from Cheapſide, to the Eaſt Corner of St. Mildred's Church. And on the South Side, from Cheapſide to the Corner of Stocks-market.

Ironmonger-lane, the Whole. New King-ſtreet, the Whole. St. Laurence-lane, the Whole. Cateaton-ſtreet, on the North Side, from the Weſt Corner of St. Laurence Jewry Church, to within 25 Feet of Baſſiſhaw-ſtreet; and on the South Side, from about 96 Feet Weſt of St. Laurence Church, to about 40 Feet beyond Ironmonger-lane Eaſtwards.

Bow-lane hath not above 48 Feet on the Weſt Side of the North End; and about 60 Feet on the Eaſt Side of the North End. All Guildhall, and the Fore-Court, is in this Ward, but not Blackwell-hall.

Cheapſide is a very ſtately ſpacious Street, adorned with lofty Buildings, well inhabited by Goldſmiths, Linen-Drapers, Haberdaſhers, and other great Dealers. The Street (which is throughout of an equal Breadth) begins Weſtward at Pater-noſter-row, by which the Conduit ſtood, and in a ſtrait Line runs to the Poultrey; and from thence to the Royal-Exchange in Cornhill. But the whole Street lying in ſeveral Wards, the Courts and Alleys will be taken Notice of as they lie in their reſpective Wards. And as this Street is yet eſteemed the principal High Street in the City, ſo it was formerly graced with a great Conduit, a Standard, and a ſtately Croſs; which laſt was pulled down in the Civil Wars. In the laſt Part, almoſt over-againſt Mercers Chapel, ſtood a great Conduit; but this Conduit ſtanding almoſt in the Middle of the Street, being incommodious for Coaches and Carts, was thought fit by the Magiſtracy, after the great Fire, to be taken down, and not rebuilt.

Adjoining to this Street, on the North Side, is Honey-lane Market, the former Lane, and other Buildings, being, ſince the Fire of LONDON, converted into this Market; among which Buildings, was the Pariſh-Church of Allhallows Honey-lane, which not being thought

In this Pariſh, a famous Man, Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper to Queen Elizabeth, and the Father of Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Verulam, the great Philoſopher, had a Meſſuage in King Edward's Reign, where he then lived; and in the 2d of the ſaid King, purchaſed it of him, together with other Meſſuages and Tenements.

Now for the preſent State of this Ward. The Streets and Lanes in this Ward, are theſe following:

Cheap Ward, on the North Side, begins about 54 Feet from the Eaſt Corner of Milk-ſtreet, and runs Eaſtward to the Weſt End of the Poultrey. And on the South Side, from about 33 Feet Weſt of Bow-lane Corner, runs Eaſtward to the Entrance into Bucklersbury. Honey-lane Market hath the Eaſt Part of it, a little Weſtward of the Market-Houſe. Old Jewry, the South Part on both Sides, as far as Baron Suaſſo's Houſe, which is about 136 Feet. Bucklersbury, all the Street on both Sides, except about 80 Feet of the Eaſt End. Pancraſs-lane, on both Sides, for 60 Feet, and then on the North Side only to King-ſtreet. New Queen-ſtreet on both Sides, as far as Pancraſs-lane on the Eaſt Side, and George-yard on the Weſt. The Poultrey on the North Side from Cheapſide, to the Eaſt Corner of St. Mildred's Church. And on the South Side, from Cheapſide to the Corner of Stocks-market.

Ironmonger-lane, the Whole. New King-ſtreet, the Whole. St. Laurence-lane, the Whole. Cateaton-ſtreet, on the North Side, from the Weſt Corner of St. Laurence Jewry Church, to within 25 Feet of Baſſiſhaw-ſtreet; and on the South Side, from about 96 Feet Weſt of St. Laurence Church, to about 40 Feet beyond Ironmonger-lane Eaſtwards.

Bow-lane hath not above 48 Feet on the Weſt Side of the North End; and about 60 Feet on the Eaſt Side of the North End. All Guildhall, and the Fore-Court, is in this Ward, but not Blackwell-hall.

Cheapſide is a very ſtately ſpacious Street, adorned with lofty Buildings, well inhabited by Goldſmiths, Linen-Drapers, Haberdaſhers, and other great Dealers. The Street (which is throughout of an equal Breadth) begins Weſtward at Pater-noſter-row, by which the Conduit ſtood, and in a ſtrait Line runs to the Poultrey; and from thence to the Royal-Exchange in Cornhill. But the whole Street lying in ſeveral Wards, the Courts and Alleys will be taken Notice of as they lie in their reſpective Wards. And as this Street is yet eſteemed the principal High Street in the City, ſo it was formerly graced with a great Conduit, a Standard, and a ſtately Croſs; which laſt was pulled down in the Civil Wars. In the laſt Part, almoſt over-againſt Mercers Chapel, ſtood a great Conduit; but this Conduit ſtanding almoſt in the Middle of the Street, being incommodious for Coaches and Carts, was thought fit by the Magiſtracy, after the great Fire, to be taken down, and not rebuilt.

Adjoining to this Street, on the North Side, is Honey-lane Market, the former Lane, and other Buildings, being, ſince the Fire of LONDON, converted into this Market; among which Buildings, was the Pariſh-Church of Allhallows Honey-lane, which not being thought proper to be rebuilt. The Pariſh is united to St. Mary le Bow, as before taken Notice of.

THIS Market is well ſerved every Week, on Mondays, Wedneſdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, with Proviſions. The Place taken up by this Market is ſpacious, being in Length, from Eaſt to Weſt, 193 Feet; and from North to South, 97 Feet. In the Middle, is a large and ſquare Market-houſe, ſtanding on Pillars, with Rooms over it, and a Bell-Tower in the Midſt. There is in the Market 135 ſtanding Stalls for Butchers, with Racks, Blocks, and other Neceſſaries; all covered over, to ſhelter them from the Injury of Weather; and alſo, ſeveral Stalls for Fruiterers. The Weſt-End of the Market lieth open to Milk-ſtreet, where there is a Cock of Conduit Water, for the Uſe of the Market. There are two other Paſſages unto it, that is, one out of St. Laurence-lane, beſides that which comes out of Cheapſide; which Paſſages are inhabited by Grocers, Fiſhmongers, Poulterers, Victuallers, and Cheeſemongers. On the North-Weſt Corner of this Market is Robin-Hood-alley, being a Paſſage into Milk-ſtreet. Trump-alley lieth againſt Bow Church, which, turning Eaſtward, falleth into St. Laurence-lane: This Alley is indifferent in the middle Part, but the Entrances are but narrow.

Mercers Chapel is a very handſome Building, containing, beſides the Hall where the Company meets about their Affairs, ſeveral other Rooms and Apartments, running backwards, with a large Pair of Gates opening into Ironmonger-lane. The Front of this Chapel is in Cheapſide; over the Portico is the Figure of a Maiden's-Head with a Coronet on, and her Hair diſhevelled, as there is upon many Houſes on each Side of it, between the End of Ironmonger-lane, and the Old Jewry, about 11 in Number, which, we ſuppoſe, to belong to the Company, that being their Arms.

THE Old Jewry, Eaſt of this Chapel, hath but a little Part in this Ward, as was ſhewed before; the reſt is in Coleman-ſtreet Ward.

ON the South-End and Weſt-Side of this Street, ſtood the Pariſh-Church of St. Mary Colechurch. In this Part of the Old Jewry is Dove-court, being but ordinary, and is a Paſſage into Grocers-alley.

THEN on the South-Side of Cheapſide, and over-againſt Mercers Chapel is Bird-in-hand-alley, which is but indifferent. Feathers-court, which is alſo but ordinary. Golden-leg-court, or Leg-court, over-againſt St. Laurence-lane, but narrow, and none of the beſt. Crown-court, alſo oppoſite to St. Laurence-lane; a very handſome open Place, with good Houſes, neatly kept and well inhabited.

Bluckersbury turneth out of Cheapſide, and runs on the Back-Side of the Poultrey unto Wallbrook; a Street very well built and inhabited.

Barge-yard, a handſome open Place, well inhabited, having ſome large Houſes at the upper End.

TOWARDS the Weſt End of this Street, and on the South Side, is Pancras-lane, which falleth into Queen-ſtreet. The North Side of which Lane is in this Ward; and the South in Cordwainers Ward. On this North Side of the Lane, were two Pariſh-Churches, viz. St. Pancras Soper-lane, and St. Bennet Sherehog. That of St. Pancras was conſumed in the Fire of LONDON, and not rebuilt; but the Pariſh was united to St. Mary Le Bow: And the Place where the Church ſtood, is encloſed for a Burial Place for the Pariſhioners. And over Part of it, upon Columns, ſtands a Ciſtern to receive Water, which formerly came to the great Conduit at the Eaſt End of Cheapſide.

THE Pariſh-Church of St. Bennet Sherelog, was ſeated alſo on the North Side of Pancras-lane, and formerly called St. Sithe's Church. The Prior of St. Mary Overies was Patron of this Church: It was burnt down in the great Fire, and not rebuilt. But the ſmall Pariſh is united unto St. Stephen Wallbrook; and the Place where the Church ſtood, is ſevered with a Brick Wall, for a Burying Place for the Inhabitants.

New Queen-ſtreet, ſo called, as being a new Street ſince the Fire of LONDON, built in the Place of Soper-lane, but much broader. Which ſaid Street fronts New King-ſtreet: which was alſo made ſo ſpacious for the Grace of Guildhall, that fronteth both.

THE Part of the Street in this Ward, goeth no further than Pancras-lane, on the Eaſt Side, and to Weld-court on the Weſt Side; which is a very large Place, with an open Paſſage, and well inhabited, which falls into George-yard: This Yard hath a Paſſage into Bow-lane, and hath but a ſmall Part in this Ward; the like hath George-Yard, as hath alſo Weld-court, the greateſt Part being in Cordwainers Ward, where they are taken Notice of.

THE Poultrey, a very great Thoroughfare for Coaches, Carts, and Foot-Paſſengers, being ſeated in the Heart of the City, and leading to and from the Royal-Exchange; and from thence to Fleet-ſtreet, the Strand, Weſtminſter, and the Weſtern Parts: And therefore well inhabited by great Tradeſmen. It begins on the Weſt, by the Old Jewry, where Cheapſide ends, and reaches to the Stocks Market by Cornhill. On the North Side is Scalding-alley; a large Place, containing two or three Allies, and a ſquare Court with good Buildings, and well inhabited; but the greateſt Part is in Bread-ſtreet Ward, where it is mentioned.

St. Mildred's Poultrey: This Church is neatly built of Free-ſtone, with a graceful Dial hanging over into the Street. The Church was deſtroyed in the great Fire of LONDON, and rebuilt as now it is; and to this is united the Pariſh of St. Mary Colechurch.

SOMEWHAT Weſt of this Church is the Poultrey Compter, being the Priſon belonging to one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, for all ſuch as are arreſted within the City and Liberties thereof. It has been a Priſon for ſome Hundreds of Years paſt, and might poſſibly be called Compter, becauſe thoſe who are detained are obliged to accompt for the Cauſe of their Commitment before they are ſet at Liberty. The Poultrey Compter.

BESIDES this Priſon, there is another in Wood-ſtreet, of the ſame Nature, for the other Sheriff.

THE Charge of theſe Priſons is committed to the Sheriffs, who always enter into their Office on the 28th of September, which is the Eve of St. Michael the Archangel, and are accordingly ſworn to the Charge of the ſaid Office.

UNDER the Sheriffs there are divers other Officers belonging alike to both Compters, who give Security to the Sheriffs for their true and faithful Execution of their ſeveral Offices.

I. The firſt and principal Officer, next to the Sheriff, is the Secondary, whoſe Office is to return Writs, mark Warrants, impannel Juries for the Courts both above and below, and alſo for the Seſſions.

II. The Clerk of the Papers, whoſe Office is to impannel Juries for the Sheriffs Court; he enters up Judgment, and makes out all Proceſſes for the Sheriffs Courts.

III. Four Clerk Sitters, who enter Actions, take Bails, receive Verdicts after Trials, &c.

IV. Eighteen

IV. Eighteen Serjeants at Mace, and every Serjeant hath his Yeoman. Their Office is to arreſt, execute all Proceſſes, ſerve Writs and Executions upon Actions, and Summons from above, as well as from the Courts below; and each of the Serjeants give 400 l. Security to the Sheriff, for the due Execution of their Office. They wear blue coloured Cloth Gowns, which are allowed them by the Sheriffs, yearly, which they always wear upon their Waiting Days. Four of theſe Serjeants, and as many Yeomen out of each Compter, wait upon their reſpective Sheriffs daily, and during the Time of Seſſions, double the Number. At which Time, in the Mornings, they bring the Priſoners down from Newgate to the Seſſions-Houſe, put them in the Dock, and wait there all Day, and return the Priſoners back to the Jail at Night; and upon the Execution-days ſee the condemned Priſoners executed.

UNTO each Compter alſo belongs a Maſter-Keeper, and under him two Turnkeys, and other Servitors.

THE poorer Sort of Priſoners, as well in this Compter as in that in Wood-ſtreet, receive daily Relief from the Sheriff's Table, of all the broken Meat and Bread; and there are divers Gifts given by ſeveral well diſpoſed People, towards their Subſiſtence, of which the following Names are mentioned by Mr. Strype. And beſides theſe, there are other Benevolences frequently ſent to all the Priſoners in LONDON, by charitable Perſons, many of which do conceal their Names, doing it only for Charity ſake. And there are other Gifts, ſome for the Releaſement of ſuch as lie in only for Priſon-Fees; and for others, for the Releaſe of ſuch whoſe Debts are ſmall.

Grocers-alley. This Alley is ordinary, and generally inhabited by Alehouſe-keepers, called Spunging-houſes; for that the Serjeants belonging to the Poultrey-Compter, bring their Priſoners to theſe Houſes, and there lock them up, until ſuch Time as they do make an Agreement with their Creditors, and not be run into the Priſon; which ſometimes is a great Conveniency.

ON the Weſt Side of this Alley is a Paſſage into the Old Jewry, through Dove-court. At the upper End of this Alley is Grocers-hall, already mentioned.

THEN Weſtward is Old Jewry, and then Ironmonger-lane. This Lane cometh out of Cateaton-ſtreet, and falleth into Cheapſide. 'Tis a Place well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers. On the Eaſt Side is Church-alley, which hath an open Free-Stone Paſſage on the South Side of St. Olave's Church-yard into the Old Jewry. And on the Weſt Side of this Lane is a Paſſage into New King-ſtreet. In this Lane was the Pariſh-Church of St. Martin's Ironmonger-lane, and being burnt down in the Fire of LONDON is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh is united to St. Olave Jewry.

MORE Weſt is New King-ſtreet, built ſince the Fire of LONDON; a very ſpacious Street, garniſhed with very good Buildings, which are well inhabited by Norwich Factors, and other Wholeſale Dealers.

IT comes out of Cheapſide and falls into Cateaton-ſtreet, right againſt Guildhall. On the Weſt Side of this Street is an open Paſſage, or rather a ſhort Street, which goes into St. Laurence-lane, but hath, as yet, no Name given it.

STILL Weſt the next Lane is St. Laurence-lane, ſo called from St. Laurence Church, ſeated at the lower End fronting the Lane, and ſtanding in Cateaton-ſtreet. This Lane is well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers. On the Weſt Side is an open Paſſage, which leadeth to Honey-lane, viz. Duke-ſtreet. On the ſame Side is the old Inn called Bloſſom's Inn: It hath the Sign of St. Laurence upon a Grid-iron, in a Border of Flowers and Bloſſoms. This Inn is very large, and much reſorted to by Carriers, &c. and has a Back Gate into Honey-lane Market.

MORE Weſtward and on the ſame Side is Caſtle-court, which is indifferent broad, with good Houſes. It has a Paſſage into Montford's-Court, which leads into Milk-ſtreet; but not in this Ward.

Cateaton-ſtreet comes from the Corner of Milk-ſtreet, and goes to Baſſiſhaw-ſtreet. It is a Street of good Trade, and well inhabited. On the North Side, ſomewhat Eaſt from St. Laurence-lane, is Blackwell-hall-court, ſo called, as adjoining to Blackwell-hall, into which it hath an Entrance. This Blackwell-hall and the Lord Mayor's Chapel take up the Eaſt Side of Guildhall-court or Yard, which is very ſpacious; on the North Side is the Front of Guildhall; on the Weſt Side are new Brick Buildings, ſupported by Pillars; the Rooms are for Offices, and under them the Place lies open for the convenient ſtanding of the Coaches and Horſes of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen.

AS to the Power, Cuſtoms, and Practices of the ſeveral Courts kept in Guildhall, they will be treated of when we come to the Government of the City.

THERE are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, one Conſtable and a Beadle, with 25 Watchmen.

THE Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in the Month of February.

THIS Ward hath an Alderman, his Deputy, 12 Common-Council-Men, 11 Conſtables, nine Scavengers, 12 Men for the Wardmote Inqueſt, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen at 72 l. 16 s. and in the Exchequer at 72 l. 11 s.

CHAP. IV.

NEXT to Cheap Ward, on the North Side thereof is Coleman-ſtreet Ward, which begins alſo in the Eaſt, on the Courſe of Wallbrook, in Lothbury, and runs Weſt, (on the South Side) to the End of Ironmonger-lane, and on the North Side to the Weſt Corner of Baſinghall-ſtreet. On the South Side of Lothbury is the Street called the Old Jewry, more than one half of which, on both Sides the Way, is of this Ward.

ON the North Side lies Coleman-ſtreet, whereof the Ward takes its Name, wholly on both Sides to London-wall; and from that North End along by the Wall and Moorgate, Eaſt, to the Courſe of Wallbrook. And again, from Coleman-ſtreet, Weſt, to the Iron Grates, are the Bounds of this Ward.

ANTIQUITIES therein to be noted are theſe:

Firſt, The Street of Lothbery, Lathbery, or Loadbery, (for by all theſe Names it has been written) took the Name (as it ſeems) of a Bery, or Court, of old Time there kept, but by whom, is now grown out of Memory. "This Street, "ſaith Stow, is poſſeſſed, for the moſt part, by "Founders, who caſt Candleſticks, Chafing-"Diſhes, Spice Mortars, and ſuch like Copper "or Laten Works, and do afterwards turn them "with the Foot, and not with the Wheel, to "make them ſmooth and bright; which Turn-"ing and Scratting making a loathſome Noiſe "to the By-Paſſers, that have not been uſed to "the like, the Place was therefore by them diſ-"dainfully called Lothbury.

ON the South Side of this Street, among the Founders, were ſome good Houſes for Merchants; particularly one that had been the Jews Synagogue, which was defaced by the Citizens of LONDON, after they had ſlain 700 Jews, and ſpoiled the Reſidue of their Goods, in the Year 1262, the 47th of Henry III. And not long after, in the Year 1291, King Edward I. baniſhed the Remnant of the Jews out of England, as aforeſaid.

THE ſaid Synagogue being ſo ſuppreſſed, certain Friars got Poſſeſſion thereof. For in the Year 1257, (ſaith Matthew Paris) there was ſeen in LONDON a new Order of Friars, called, De Pœnitentia Jeſu, or Fratres de Sacca, becauſe they were apparalled in Sackcloth; who had their Houſe in LONDON, near unto Alderſgate, without the Gate; and had Licence of Henry III. in the 54th of his Reign, to remove from thence to any other Place; and in the 56th, he gave unto them this Jews Synagogue. After which Time, Eleanor the Queen, Wife to Edward I. took into her Protection, and warranted unto the Prior and Brethren De Pœnitentia Jeſu Chriſti, of LONDON, the ſaid Land and Building in Colechurch-ſtreet, in the Pariſh of St. Olave in the Jewry, and St. Margaret in Lothbury; by her granted, with Conſent of Stephen de Fulborn, Under-Warden of the Bridge-Houſe, and other Brethren of that Houſe, for Threeſcore Marks of Silver, which they received of the ſaid Prior and Brethren of Repentance, towards the Building of the ſaid Bridge.

QUEEN Eleanor's Charter is as follows, as it now remains in the Records of the Chamber of LONDON.

"Aliancra, Dei Gra. &c. Alianor, by the "Grace of God, Queen of England, Lady "of Ireland, Dutches of Aquitain, and by our "Lord King Henry; To al that ſhal ſe or hear "this Writing, Greeting in the Lord. Know "yee that we are bound and held for us and our "Heirs, to defend and warrant againſt al Men "for ever to the Priors and Friars of the Re-"pentance of Jeſus Chriſt, abiding in LON-"DON, al their Tenements, with al their Ap-"purtenances, which the Prior and Friars have "in the Street called Colcherchſtrate, in the "Pariſh of St. Olaves in the Jewry, and in the "Pariſh of St. Margaret de Lothbury, in the City "of LONDON; by the Grant and Confir-"mation which we have made to the ſaid Prior "and Brethren by this preſent Writing; with "the Aſſent and Wil of Frier Steven de Fulburn, "under Cuſtos of the Bridge-Houſe, and the "reſt of the Friars of the ſaid Houſe, for ſixty "Marks of Silver, which we have received of "the ſaid Prior and Brethren of Repentance of "Jeſus Chriſt, towards the building of the ſaid "Bridge, and for the finding of one Chaplain, "which the ſame Prior and Brethren perpetu-"ally find at their own Coſts, celebrating Ser-"vice for the Soul of Richard le Ken. Which "Richard bequeathed and aſſigned al the fore-"ſaid Tenement, with al the Appurtinences to "the Brethren of the ſaid Houſe of the Bridge, "for the Suſtentation of one Chaplain to cele-"brate Service for his Soul for ever, at their "Charges. In witneſs whereof, &c.

THIS Order of Friars gathered many good Scholars, and multiplied in Number exceedingly, until the Council of Lyons, by the which it was decreed, that (from that Time forth) there ſhould be no more Orders of Begging Friars permitted, but only the four Orders; to wit, the Dominicks, or Preachers; the Minorites, or Grey Friars; the Carmelites, or White Friars, and the Auguſtines: And ſo, from that Time, the Begging Friars decreaſed, and fell to nothing.

IN the Year 1305, Robert Fitzwalter requeſted and obtained of the ſaid King Edward I. that the ſame Friars of the Sacke, might aſſign to the ſaid Robert, their Chapel or Church, of old Time called The Synagogue of the Jews, near adjoining to the Manſion-Place of the ſame Robert, where now ſtands Grocers-hall: And the ſaid Synagogue was at the North Corner of the Old Jewry. Robert Large, Mercer, Mayor, in the Year 1439, kept his Mayoralty in this Houſe, and dwelled there until his dying Day.

THIS Houſe, which ſtood very probably where Mr. Gibſon, the Money Scrivener's, now ſtands, was of two Pariſhes, of St. Margaret's, as as opening into Lothbury, and of St. Olave, as opening into the Old Jewry. The aforeſaid Rob. Large gave liberally to both Pariſhes, but was buried in St. Olave's.

Hugh Clopton, Mercer, Mayor, An. Dom. 1492. dwelt in this Houſe, and kept his Mayoralty there; it was afterwards a Tavern, which had the Sign of the Wind-mill. And thus much for this Houſe, ſome Time the Jews Synagogue, afterwards a Houſe of Friars, then a Nobleman's Houſe, after that a Merchant's, wherein Mayoralties have been kept; then a Tavern; and now again the Houſe of a very wealthy and worthy Gentleman.

THEN is the Old Jewry, a Street ſo called of Jews ſome Time dwelling there, and near adjoining, in the Pariſhes of St. Olave, St. Michael Baſing-hall, St. Martin Ironmonger-lane, St. Laurence, called the Jewry, and ſo Weſt to Wood-ſtreet. William, Duke of Normandy, firſt brought them from Roan to inhabit here.

William Rufus favoured them ſo far, that he ſwore by Luke's Face, his common Oath, if they could overcome the Chriſtians, he would be one of their Sect.

Henry II. grievouſly puniſhed them for corrupting his Coin.

Richard I. forbad Jews and Women to be preſent at his Coronation, for Fear of Inchantments. For breaking of which Commandment, many Jews were ſlain, who being aſſembled to preſent the King with ſome Gift, one of them was ſtruck by a Chriſtian; which ſome unruly People perceiving, fell upon them, beat them to their Houſes, and burnt them therein, or ſlew them at their coming out,

ALSO the Jews at Norwich, St. Edmond's-bury, Lincoln, Stamford, and Lynn, were robbed and ſpoiled; and at York, to the Number of 500, beſides Women and Children, enter'd a Tower of the Caſtle, offered Money to be in Surety of their Lives; but the Chriſtians would not take it; whereupon they cut the Throats of their own Wives and Children, and caſt them over the Walls on the Chriſtians Heads; and then entering the King's Lodging, they burnt both the Houſe and themſelves.

King John, in the 11th of his Reign, commanded all the Jews, both Men and Women, to be impriſoned and grievouſly puniſhed, becauſe he would have all their Money. Some of them gave all they had, and promiſed more, to eſcape ſo many Kinds of Torments; for every one of them had one of their Eyes, at leaſt, plucked out. Amongſt whom there was one, which being tormented many Ways, would not ranſom himſelf 'till the King had cauſed (every Day) one of his great Teeth to be plucked out, by the Space of ſeven Days; and then he gave the King 10,000 Marks of Silver, to the End they ſhould pull out no more. The ſaid King, at that Time, ſpoiled the Jews of 60,000 Marks.

THE 17th of this King, the Barons broke into the Jews Houſes, rifled their Coffers, and with the Stone of their Houſes, repaired the Gates and Walls of LONDON.

KING Henry III. in the 11th of his Reign, granted to Semaine, or Ballaſter, the Houſe of Benomye Mittun the Jew, in the Pariſh of St. Michael Baſſinghaughe, in which the ſaid Benomye dwelt; with the fourth Part of all his Land in that Pariſh, which William Elie held of the Fee of Hugh Nevill; and all the Land in Coleman-ſtreet, belonging to the ſaid Benomye; and the fourth Part of the Land in the Pariſh of St. Laurence, which was the Fee of Tho. Buckerell, and were eſcheated to the King, for the Murther which the ſaid Benomye committed in the City of LONDON; to hold to the ſaid Semaine, and his Heirs, of the King, paying at Eaſter a Pair of gilt Spurs, and to do the Service thereof due unto the Lord's Court.

IN like Manner, and for like Services, the King granted to Guſo, for his Homage, the other Part of the Lands of the ſaid Benomye in St. Michael's Pariſh; which Law the Painter held, and was the King's Eſcheat; and the Lands of the ſaid Benomye, in the ſaid Pariſh, which Walter Turner held, and 15 Feet of Land, which Hugh Harman held, with 15 Iron Ells of Land and an half in the Front of Ironmonger-lane, in the Pariſh of St. Martin; which were the ſaid Benomye's, of the Fee of the Hoſpital of St. Giles; and which Adam the Smith held, with two Stone Houſes, which were Moſes the Jew of Canterbury's, in the Pariſh of St. Olave; and which are of the Fee of Arnold le Reus, and are the King's Eſcheats aforeſaid.

THE 16th of the ſaid Henry, the Jews in LONDON built a Synagogue; but the King commanded it ſhould be dedicated to our Bleſſed Lady: And after gave it to the Brethren of St. Anthonio of Vienna; and ſo it was called St. Anthony's Hoſpital.

THIS King Henry founded a Church and Houſe for converted Jews, in a new Street by the Temple, whereby it came to paſs, that (in ſhort Time) there was gathered a great Number of Converts.

THE 20th of this King Henry, ſeven Jews were brought from Norwich, who had ſtolen a chriſtened Child; had circumciſed, and had a Deſign to have crucified him at Eaſter. Wherefore their Bodies and Goods were at the King's Pleaſure. The 26th, the Jews were conſtrained to pay the King 20,000 Marks, at two Terms in the Year, or elſe to be kept in perpetual Priſon.

THE 35th, he took ineſtimable Sums of all rich Men; namely, of Aaron, a Jew, born at York, 14,000 Marks for himſelf, and 10,000 Marks for the Queen. And before, he had taken of the ſame Jew as much as in all amounted to 30,000 Marks of Silver, and 200 Marks of Gold to the Queen.

IN the 40th Year were brought up to Weſtminſter 202 Jews, from Lincoln, for crucifying a Child named Hugh; 18 of them were hanged.

THE 43d, a Jew at Tewksbury fell into a Privy on the Saturday, and would not that Day be taken out, for Reverence of his Sabbath: Wherefore Richard Clare, Earl of Gloceſter, kept him there the next Day, being the Chriſtian Sabbath, and on Monday he was dead.

THE 47th, the Barons ſlew of the Jews, at LONDON, 700. The reſt were ſpoiled, and their Synagogue defaced, becauſe one Jew would have forced a Chriſtian to have paid more than 2 s. for the Loan of 20 s. a Week.

THE 3d of Edward I, in a Parliament at LONDON, Uſury was forbidden to the Jews: And that all Uſurers might be known, the King commanded that every Uſurer ſhould wear a Table on his Breaſt, the Breadth of a Paveline, or elſe to quit the Realm.

THE 6th of the ſaid King Edward, a Reformation was made for Clipping of the King's Coin; for which Offence, 267 Perſons were drawn and hanged: Three were Engliſh Chriſtians, the other were Engliſh Jews.

THE ſame Year the Jews crucified a Child at Northampton; for which Fact many Jews in LONDON were drawn at Horſe-Tails and hanged.

THE 11th of Edward I, John Peckham, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, commanded the Biſhop of LONDON to deſtroy all the Jews Synagogues in his Dioceſe.

THE 16th of the ſame Edward, all the Jews in England, were, in one Day, apprehended by Precept from the King; but they redeemed themſelves for 12000 Pounds of Silver; notwithſtanding, in the 19th of his Reign, he baniſhed them all out of England; giving them ſomething to bear their Charge till they were out of his Realm. The Number of Jews then expulſed, were 15060 Perſons. The King made a mighty Maſs of Money of their Houſes, which he ſold; and yet the Commons of England had granted, and gave him a Fifteenth of all their Goods, to baniſh them.

THE ſaid King Edward I, in the 19th and 20th of his Reign, after this Baniſhment of the Jews, ſeized all their Lands and Houſes, and preſently made ſeveral Grants of them: Whereof, in LONDON, theſe were ſome; (where it may be obſerved, that their Dwellings were chiefly in the Parts of the City about Wood-ſtreet, Ladlane, Cateaton-ſtreet, Colechurch-ſtreet, Ironmongerlane, St. Laurence, and St. Olave Jewry).

TO Mattilda de Kellenden, thoſe Houſes, with the Appurtenances in Wood-ſtreet, and Ladlane, LONDON; which were Gamaliel de Oxons, and Batamans, the Son of Creſſei, late Jews of LONDON.

MANY Grants of Jews Houſes, that were Leo de Creſſey's, Son of Maſter Elias, the Jews of the Pariſh of St. Martin's de Pomer in Ironmonger-lane.

Benedict, the Son of Mayre the Jew; his Houſe in the Pariſh of St. Laurence in the Jewry and Cateaton-ſtreet, granted to Will. King.

A void Place in the Corner of Colechurch-ſtreet, which was Maſter Elias's, Son of Moſes, late Jew of LONDON.

Robert de Baſinges had a Grant of the Houſes which were Myriels, Son of Creſſy, Son of Gente, lying in the Pariſh of St. Mary Magdalene Milk-ſtreet.

Alayn de Cordwayner, had a Grant of Houſes, which were Aarons's, Son of Slemme, in the Pariſh of St. Olave in the Jewry, in Colechurch-ſtreet.

Johan. de Laufare had Houſes which belonged to the Community of the Jews in Wood-ſtreet.

MORE in Cateaton-Street: Houſes granted to the Friars and Convent of Chickſand; which Houſes were Elias le Eveſt's the Jew; and were ſituate between the Place of the Friars of the Sacke, and the King's-ſtreet, called Sporier-ſtreet.

John Veſty had a Grant of Houſes which were Moſes's, Son of Maſter Elias the Jew, ſtanding in the Corner of Woodſtreet.

CONCERNING a heavy yearly Tax, (called the King's Judaiſm) laid upon the Jews in general, this may be added here: That Anno 1271, 55 Henry III, Prince Edward, his eldeſt Son, going into the Holy Land, the King, his Father, gave him, to aſſiſt him in his Pilgrimage, 6000 Marks de Judaiſmo noſtro; whereof 4000 were paid him, and 2000 upon the King's Deſire, the King of Almayn, his dear Brother, lent the ſaid Prince. And King Henry, pro prædict. curialitate, granted the ſaid King of Almayn, his Executors or Aſſigns, to have Judaiſmum noſtrum. And a Grant of it to our Jews of England, from the Feaſt of St. Michael, 1271, to Michaelmas next following, for one full Year, for the ſaid 2000 Marks lent the King. That is to ſay, ſo that our Jews of England do pay within the ſaid Year, to our ſaid Brother, the ſaid 2000 Marks, at the Terms underwritten; and for Default of Payment, do forfeit 500 Marks, in the Name of a Pain. And upon the Payment of the 2000 Marks, the ſaid Judaiſm to return to Us and our Heirs. Thus much for the Jews.

The PARISH of St. OLAVE in the JEWRY.

IN this Street, called the Old Jewry, or Jury, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Olave, called Upwel, in old Records; and a Well was here under the Eaſt End of this Church, now turned to a Pump.

THERE were ſeveral Kings and Noblemen of the Name of Olave, among the Danes, Swedes, and Norwegians; but St. Olave, to whoſe Memory this, and two more Churches in the City, and one in Southwark are dedicated, was St. Olave the Martyr, King of Norway, who was the Son of Herald Grinska, a great Man in that Country.

THIS Olave expelled the Swedes out of the Kingdom of Norway, and reſtored his Country to its priſtine Liberty, and afterwards recovered Gotland; and departing thence he went into England to the Aſſiſtance of King Mildred, by the Engliſh called Etheldred, againſt the Danes for three Years together, where he performed many noble Exploits, expelling them out of the Cities, Towns, and Fortreſſes, and with a great Spoil return'd to Norway: But not long after he was recalled into England by the Widow of King Etheldred, deceaſed, to help her againſt Canutus, King of Denmark; but Canutus having made a Peace with the Engliſh, Olave return'd again ſpeedily into Norway, where the Norwegians created him their King.

AFTER this he concluded a firm Peace with Olave King of Swethland, and married that King's Daughter, and thereby was ſo ſtrengthened, that during the King of Swethland's Life, he had no Troubles with the Danes: But after the Death of King Olave of Swethland, this Olave King of Norway, as well at Home by his own Subjects, as abroad by the Danes, was continually moleſted with Wars; the Cauſe whereof chiefly was his taking upon him a ſtrict Courſe for the Defence of the Chriſtian Religion, which they affected not; for he profeſſed, that he had rather loſe his Life and Kingdom, than his Faith in Chriſt.

HIS Subjects, the Norwegians, complained to Canutus, King of Denmark, againſt their King Olave, charging him with altering their Laws and Cuſtoms, deſired Canutus to aſſiſt them againſt their King; and, in fine, made Canutus their King. But Olave being aſſiſted by Amandus King of Swethland (Son and Succeſſor to their late King Olave, deceaſed, and who had been bred up under this Olave, King of Norway) overthrew King Canutus in a great Sea-Fight. Yet Canutus, afterwards, having got 300 of Olave's Ships by Bribery to revolt to him, ſet upon Olave a-freſh, and vanquiſh'd him; ſo that he was forc'd to fly firſt into his own Country, where he was no otherwiſe entertain'd by his own Subjects, than as an Enemy. Thence he fled to Jeriſlaus, King of Ruſſia (who had married his Siſter) where he abode till the Norwegians being at Diſcord among themſelves concerning their Government, ſent for him to return to his Kingdom; which he did. But no ſooner was he come, but he was oppoſed in open Arms by one Part of his Subjects there, whom Canutus had ſtirr'd up againſt him, who in a diſloyal Battle overcame him, and murdered this Holy Friend of Chriſt, this moſt innocent King, which was done Anno 1028.

IT may be preſumed, that this good King Olave had well deſerved, and was well beloved, of of our Engliſh Nation, as well for his Friendſhip for aſſiſting them againſt the Danes, as for his Holy and Chriſtian Life, by the Erecting of ſo many Churches to his Memory.

THE Day of his Feſtival is celebrated, annually, on July 29.

John Brian, Parſon of this Church, founded a Chantry in it, and gave two Meſſuages to this Pariſh, 16 Edward II. which Gift was confirmed by the ſaid King.

AFTER this, upon ſome Conteſt that aroſe between the Chanter of this Chantry, and the Vicar and Church-Wardens of the Pariſh, about the Right and Diſpoſing of this Chantry, and the Lands and Tenements thereunto belonging, there was an Award made between them, April 26, 1531, by John Stokeſley, then Biſhop of LONDON; whereby (inter alia) it was awarded, that the ſaid Vicar and Church-Wardens ſhould give up their pretended Right of Patronage to the ſaid Chantry, to the Prior and Convent of Butley, to whom the ſaid Right of Patronage did originally belong.

Thomas Morſted, Eſq; (mentioned before in St. Mildred Poultrey) built a new fair Iſle to the Enlargement of this Church, on the North Side thereof, wherein he was buried, 1450.

THE Church was repaired in 1608, and again repaired and beautified in 1628; but ſuffering the common Fate with many others, in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, is ſince rebuilt, and made the Parochial-Church for this and the Pariſh of St. Martin Ironmonger-lane; which is annexed to it.

IT was re-edified and finiſhed in the Year 1673, in this Manner: The Walls are partly Brick, with Stone Facio's, Windows, and Door-Caſes, fronting towards the South; the Eaſt End is Stone; the Roof whereof is flat, covered with Lead; the Steeple (conſiſting of a handſome Tower with Pinnacles) is alſo of Stone, the Floor paved with Purbeck; there are two Iſles, a very large Chancel, the Area whereof (paved with Stone) is one Step higher toward the Weſt End; and that of the Altar is three Steps raiſed above that of the Chancel.

THE Ornaments are as follow: The Outſide of the Eaſt Side is adorned with Pilaſters, Cornices, and a ſpacious pitched Pediment; the upper Part of the Walls, at the meeting with the Roof round the Church, is enriched with Cherubims, Feſtoons, and Cartouches. At the Weſt End is a handſome Gallery, extending alſo a little Eaſtward on both Ends, fronted with Oak, and ſupported with Columns, of the Tuſcan Order; the Church is pewed with Oak, and the Walls wainſcotted about eight Feet and a half high. The South outer Door-Caſe is adorned with Pilaſters and Entablament, of the Dorick Order; and there are two handſome inner Door-Caſes opening towards the North and South (having Enrichments;) and a third in a fine Wainſcot Partition at the Weſt End of the Church. The Pulpit is placed on the North Side, made of Oak, enriched with Cherubims and Fruit. The Altar-Piece is of the ſame Species of Timber; adorned with Pilaſters, Entablature, and an open arched Pediment of the Corinthian Order; in which Pediment are placed the King's Arms, and theſe between two Lamps, or Vaſes. The Intercolumns are the Decalogue, under a Glory and three Cherubims, and placed between the Portraits of Moſes and Aaron, and theſe between the Pater Noſter and Creed; the Whole being enriched with Palm-Branches, Fruit, Leaves, Cartouches, &c.

THE Communion-Table is poſited on an Anabathrum of Black and White Marble, incloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

IN this Church, as a farther Ornament, here are three ſpacious Pieces of Painting, viz.

I. That on the North Side of the Chancel, is Queen Elizabeth lying on a fine Tomb; adorned with Columns of the Corinthian Order, with the Regalia, and under an arched Canopy, on which is placed her Arms between two Cherubs; but no Inſcription.

II. THE Picture of King Charles I.

III. AT the Weſt End of the Church is a very ſpacious and curious Piece of Painting, in a ſtrong Black Frame, being the Figure of Time, with Wings diſplayed, a Scythe in his Right, and an Hour-Glaſs in his Left Hand: At his Right Foot is a Cupid dormant, its Head repoſing on lovely Fruit, and another near his Left Arm. Under the Feet of Time lieth the Portrait of a Skeleton, about eight Feet in Length. And here are depencilled the Words in Proverbs xxvii. 1. of Job xvii. 11. and thoſe of Deut. xxxii. 29.

IN the old Church were buried William Dickman, Ferrour, or Ironmonger, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, 1367. Robert Havelocke, Ironmonger, 1390. John Organ, Mercer, one of the Sheriffs, 1385. John Forreſt, Vicar of St. Olave, and of St. Stephen, which at that Time was as a Chapel annexed to St. Olave's, 1399. Henry Friole, Taylor, 1400. Thomas Morſted, Eſq; Chirurgion to Henry IV, V, and VI. one of the Sheriffs, 1436. Adam Breakſpeare, Chaplain, 1411. William Kirkbie, Mercer, 1465. Robert Large, Mercer, Mayor, 1440; he gave to that Church 200 l. John Belwin, Founder, 1467. Gabriel Rave, Fuller, 1511. ——— Wentworth, Eſq; 1510. Thomas Mitchell, Ironmonger, 1527. Giles Dewes, Servant to Henry VII. and to Henry VIII. Dom.* 1566.

To the Poore he was liberall,
And gave for GOD's ſake;
But now his Fame is plentifull,
And he an heavenly Make;
He was like one of us,
According to our Mould;
But now he is unlike us
In Heaven where he would.
His Time was ſhort, in Sickneſs rare,
As to all is knowne:
But now his Time ſhall long endure,
And never be caſt downe.

On a plated Stone on the Ground in the South Iſle was the following Inſcription:

John Stent, for Term of his Life, by the Name of his Principal Palace in the Old Jewry. "This "was (in my Youth saith Stow) called the Old "Wardrobe: But of latter Time, the outward "Stone Wall hath been by little and little taken "down, and divers fair Houses built thereupon, "even round about.

KING Richard III. committed the Keeping of the Prince's Wardrobe, for so it was afterwards called, to his trusty Servant John Kendall, his Secretary, by his Patent, dated Decemb. 12, 1483, and left him to dwell in the same.

IN Edward VI's Reign, it was alienated from the Crown, being called a great Messuage, under the Name of the Prince's Wardrobe; to which belonged divers Houses, Edifices, Gardens, &c. being sold to Sir Anthony Cope, a Privy Counsellor in 3 Edward VI, for 60*l.* And in Consideration of Services, the yearly Value being reckoned at 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

The PARISH of St. MARGARET in LOTHBURY.

St. Margaret's Lothbury Church.

THIS Church of St. Margaret stands on the North Side of the Street, call'd Lothbury, upon the Water-course of Wallbrook in Coleman-street Ward. It is subject to the Archdeacon.

IT seems, saith Stow, to have been new built in 1440; for Robert Large, then Mayor of LONDON, gave to the Choir of this Church 100*s.* and 20*l.* for Ornaments; more to the Vaulting over the Water-course of Wallbrook, by the said Church, for enlarging thereof, 200 Marks.

IT was repaired and beautified at the Cost and Charge of the Parishioners in 1621, and having been demolished in the Conflagration in 1666, it was began to be re-edified in the Year 1686, and was compleatly finished, Anno 1690, and beautified again in 1706, and lastly Anno 1727.

IT is built of fine Stone with a Steeple, consisting of a spacious Tower, on which is a small Dome, and on that a Spire. It has a flat Roof leaded over, and on the Inside supported with Columns on the South, and Pilasters on the North, of the Corinthian Order; and the Chancel is one Step higher than the Church.

THE Inside Roof has a large quadrangular Cornice of Fret-work, and on the South Side of the Church is a neat Wainscot Gallery, with which Kind of Timber the Walls are lined round the Church about eight Feet high from the Ground; also the Pulpit is finnier'd, and enrich'd with Fruit, Leaves, Trumpets, &c. The Stairs of the Gallery were re-built by a voluntary Subscription of several of the Inhabitants of the Parish, An. Dom. 1717.

THE Altar-piece is ornamental, having four Columns with their Entablature of the Corinthian Order; also two Compass Pediments, whereon are four Lamps placed on Acroters. The Intercolumns are the Commandments, Lord's Prayer and Creed, the first done in Gold Letters on Black, the two last in Black on Gold. Just over the Commandments is a Glory on a Shield between two Cherubims gilt with Gold; over which, above the Cornice, and under the triangular Pediment, are the King's Arms, well carved in Relievo; and the whole is between two noble Pilasters of the Corinthian Order, painted in Imitation of Lapis Lazuli, and has Enrichments of Cartouches and Festoons, inclosed with Rail and Ballaster; and within that, the Foot-pace is paved with Black and White Marble.

THE Font (which is placed at the West End of the Church, and directly so from the Communion-Table) is very pretty.

THE Bason has these Histories cut in Basso Relievo on the Convexity.

I. The Garden of Eden, and the Fall of Man.
II. The Salvation of Noah, and his Family in the Ark.
III. John the Baptist baptizing our Saviour in the River Jordan.
IV. St. Philip Christening the Eunuch.

THE Type or Cover is also adorned with Figures of St. Margaret and Faith round the lower Part; above them, the Figures of Hope and Charity; and above these, are those of a Choir of Angels constituting a Coronet; and above all, is a Glory.

THERE are also several handsome Branch Candlesticks; and the South East inner Door-case is of Oak, adorned with Pilasters of the Corinthian Order, and Enrichments of Cherubims, &c. and the South West outer Door-case, with Columns and Entablature of the Corinthian Order.

HERE are also several Sentences of Holy Scripture in carved Frames, hung round the Church, above the Wainscot.

AND near the North East Corner, the Table of Fees and Duties are finely done in Gold Letters on Black, in a Frame neatly carved, and thereon the Figure of St. Margaret.

THERE is also a pretty Vestry, wainscotted at the Charge of Mr. James Boddington.

THE Dimensions are, Length 66 Feet, Breadth 54, Altitude 36; and that of the Steeple, which consists of a handsome Tower, with Acroteria and a Spire, is about 140 Feet, wherein are two Bells.

No Wealth, no Praiſe,
  No bright Renowne, no Skill,
No Force, no Fame,
  No Princes Love, no Toyle,
Though Forraine Lands,

His Fame yet lives,
  His Soule in Heaven hath reſt.

BY the Weſt End of this Pariſh-Church was a handſome Water-Conduit, built at the Charge of the City, in the Year 1546, Sir Martin Bowes being Mayor: Two Fifteens were levied of the Citizens, towards the Charges thereof. This Water was conveyed in great Abundance, from divers Springs, lying between Hoxton and Iſlington.

NEXT is the Founders Hall, which is remarkable for having a Scotch Kirk over it, there being but one more in England. Then along Weſt to the South Weſt Corner of Baſinghall-ſtreet, are many good Houſes for Merchants, Tradeſmen, &c. and at this Corner was antiently an old Building of Stone, belonging ſome Time to a certain Jew, named Manſere, the Son of Aaron, the Son of Coke the Jew, in the 7th of Edward I. afterwards to Rahere de Sopars-lane; then to Simon Francis; Thomas Bradbury, Mercer, kept his Mayoralty there, who died An. Dom. 1509. Founders Hall.

ON this North Side, againſt the Old Jewry, is Coleman-ſtreet, ſo called from Coleman, the firſt Builder and Owner thereof: As alſo of Cole-church, or Coleman-church, which was againſt the great Conduit in Cheap. This is a handſome large Street, repleniſhed on both Sides with ſeveral handſome Houſes, beſides Alleys, with ſmall Tenements in great Number. On the Eaſt Side of this Street, almoſt at the North End thereof is Armourers Hall, which Company of Armourers were made a Fraternity or Guild of St. George, with a Chantry in the Chapel of St. Thomas, in St. Paul's Church, in 1 Henry VI. Armourers Hall.

The PARISH of St. STEPHEN COLEMAN-STREET.

ON the Weſt Side, towards the South End, is the Pariſh-Church of St. Stephen, which Stow ſuppoſed to be a Chapel to St. Olave's; becauſe, as is beforementioned, Forreſt, the Vicar, is called the Vicar of St. Olave's, and of the Chapel of St. Stephen annexed; and this in the Year 1399: But it was called long before, viz. 15 Edward II. An. 1321, the Pariſh of St. Stephen: When a Licence was granted by that King, for five Marks Rent to be taken (for a Chantry founded in the Chapel of St. Margaret's Lothbury) of the Tenement of John Botener, in the Pariſh of St. Stephen Coleman-ſtreet.

THIS Church was in many Parts of it, carefully repaired, and throughout, fairly and commendably beautified at the proper Coſt and Charge

Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord 1622.

And further enriched and beautified with a very fair Gallery in the South Iſle, in the Year 1629; but being, by that unhappy Diſaſter of Fire in 1666, reduced to Ruins, it was begun to be re-edified in 1674, and was finiſhed in 1676, and the Gallery in 1691.

It is handſomly rebuilt (of Stone for the moſt Part;) the Roof is flat, having no Pillars to ſupport it; 'tis covered with Lead, and the Floor paved with Stone; that of the Chancel one Step higher than that of the Church, which has but two Iſles.

In this Church are the following Ornaments: On the Outſide, the Front of the Eaſt End is adorned with Cornice and circular Pediment, between two Pine Apples; and under the Pediment the Figure of a Cock, carved within a handſome Compartment, between two large Feſtoons, and two Windows environed with Enrichments. This is all (as the Steeple is) well done in Stone; and on the South Door into the Church-Yard, is finely carved, an Emblem of the Reſurrection, conſiſting of a Multitude of Figures, in various Poſtures, of Angels, Men, and Devils. The Roof within, adorned with a Cornice, and below Cartouches, Arches and Impoſts, enriched with Cherubims of Fret-Work. It is wainſcotted eight Feet high, and pewed with Oak; of which Species of Timber, there are four handſome inner Door-Caſes, two on the North, and two on the South Sides, each adorned with two Pilaſters, Entablature and Pediment of the Corinthian Order, with Enrichments. The Pulpit is neatly carved, and the Altar-Piece has the Ornament of two Columns, between ſix Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order; and to the former is a Pediment, where are placed the King's Arms carved, gilt and depicted. The Intercolumns are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, under a Glory between three Cherubims; theſe between the Portraitures of Moſes and Aaron, and all theſe between the Pater Noſter and Creed; with Enrichments, Feſtoons, Cartouches, &c. and the Foot-Pace of the Communion-Table is Black and White Marble (two Steps higher than the reſt of the Chancel,) incloſed with neat Rail and Ballaſter. At the Weſt End is a handſome Wainſcot Gallery, extending a litte Eaſtward on the North and South Sides.

Length of this Church 75 Feet, Breadth 35, Altitude about 24; and that of the Tower (beſides the Turret) 65; in which Tower there are eight Bells to ring in Peal.

Monuments in the old Church were, for

There was a Tomb on the South Side of the Choir, but without Inſcription. Thomas Bradbury, Mercer, Mayor, in the Year 1509, is ſaid to be buried there, but his Tomb was on the North Side of the Choir. As alſo one Edward Hurlock, Currier, to be a great Benefactor. Sir John-Garme Skirringham, 1468. Richard Hamney, 1418. Richard Colſel, &c.

Thomas Eyer, by his Will made the 9th of June, 1493, bequeathed to our Lady's Altar, and to the Brotherhood of the ſame, held in the Church of St. Stephen Coleman-ſtreet, a Frontal for an Altar, powdered with Gold, containing about three Yards in Length, and a quarter of a Yard in Breadth, with a Fringe.

On a handſome Monument, in the Chancel, was this Inſcription:

Here lyeth in Peace, the Body of the Right Worſhipful Sir William Glover, Knt. late Citizen and Alderman of LONDON, who, for the many good Gifts, both in ſincere Religion, Wiſedome, and Gravity, wherewith he was very plentifully graced, was elected Sheriffe of LONDON, and ſerved the ſame, Anno Domini, 1601. On another, cloſe by the laſt:

If humane Worth
Could have preſerv'd him ſtill,
He had beene much
Too ſtrong for Death to kill.
Yet being conquered,
Got by the Strife,
A better Being,
In a better Life:
So that great Victor
More Happineſſe tenfold
Than he bereft him.

On a handſome Tomb on the Eaſt Side of the South Iſle, was a long Epitaph in Latin Verſe, to the Memory of Sir William Daniel, there buried.

ON another Monument, likewiſe on the South Wall:

An honeſt Heart,
Religiouſly affected,
A zealous Soule,
A charitable Mind,
True dealing Conſcience,
All Untruth rejected,
All theſe in one
Are hard and far to find:
Yet in this Courſe,
Both Time and Truth have tryed,
In Youth and Age,
John Taylor liv'd and dyed.
His honeſt Heart,
His honeſt Friends have found;
His Zeal to GOD,
GOD and the Godly know;
His Charity,
His true Relief may ſound,
That on the poore

His heavenly Reſt,

To be with CHRIST
I wiſh to be diſſolved.

The bleſſed Token of
The Daughter's Love,
Unto the Father's kinde
And loving Care,
May to the World
This Monument approve,
How bleſſed Parents
In their Children are:
And bleſſed GOD, that
So his Love expreſſeth,
Who thus both Parents
And the Children bleſſeth.

To live, than with the Living) that ſurvaid
Abſtruſe Antiquities, and o're them laid
Such vive and beauteous Colours with his Pen,
That (Spite of Time) thoſe Old are new agen,
Under this Marble lies interred: His Tomb
Claiming (as worthily it may) this Room;
Among thoſe many Monuments, his Quill
Has ſo revived, helping now to fill
A Place with thoſe in his SURVEY, in which
He has a Monument more fair, more rich,
Than poliſht Stones could make him, where he (lyes,
Though dead, ſtill living, and in that ne'er dies.

ON the South Wall is a handſome Monument in Memory of Robert Vernon, Eſq; it is compoſed of White Marble, adorned with a Mantling, above which are two Cherubims; and under it are his Arms, two Finals, and this Inſcription:

In Memory of Henry Vernon, Eſq; (Son of Sir Thomas Vernon, Knt. of this Pariſh) who died the 7th Day of November, 1691, in the 31ſt Year of his Age, and lies buried at Aleppo, in Syria. He was a Perſon of ſtrict Virtue and exemplary Piety, juſt in his Dealings, dutiful to his Parents, and kind to his Relations; beloved, reſpected, and honoured in his Life, and lamented at his Death by Foreigners, as well as his own Countrymen. His Death was an inexpreſſible Affliction to his ſorrowful Father, who, out of a tender Sence of his own and the publick Loſs, dedicates this Monument to preſerve his Memory, and to recommend him as a Pattern worthy the Imitation of our young Merchants, who either remain in their own, or deſign for Foreign Countries.

ARMS here are; Argent, a Fret Sable, a Canton Gules.

The Part in this, and Baſinghall Ward, begins a little Eaſtward of Baſinghall-ſtreet, and runs to Croſs-keys-court. The Houſes are on the South Side, which commonly are but old Timber Houſes: A Place of no great Account, only ſome few Curriers dwell there. CHAP. V.

BASINGSHALL, or BASSISHAW WARD.

THE next adjoining to Coleman-ſtreet Ward, on the Weſt Side thereof, is Baſſingſhall Ward, very ſmall, conſiſting of one Street, called Baſingſhall-ſtreet, from Baſingshall, which was the principal Houſe in it. This Ward begins in the South at Bakewell-hall, which is the laſt of Coleman-ſtreet Ward, and runs from thence North down to London-wall, and ſome little Diſtance, both Eaſt and Weſt, againſt the ſaid Wall; and theſe are the Bounds of the Ward.

AMONG ſeveral good Houſes in this Street, on the Eaſt Side, are three Halls of Companies; Maſons Hall. firſt, Maſons Hall; this Company were once called Free-Maſons; but that Denomination ſeems now to belong to another Fraternity.

Weavers Hall. The next is Weavers Hall, which is neatly adorned on the Inſide with Hangings, Fret-Work, and a Screen of the Ionick Order. The Company is of great Antiquity, as appears by a Charter of Henry II. in theſe Words, Rex omnibus, ad quos, &c.

HENRY, King of England, Duke of Normandy, and of Guian, Earl of Anjou, to the Biſhop, Juſtices, Sheriffs, Barons, Miniſters, and all his true Lieges of LONDON, ſendeth greeting. Know ye, that we have granted to the Weavers in LONDON, their Guild to be had in LONDON, with all the Freedoms and Cuſtoms that they had in the Time of King Henry, my Grandfather. So that none but they intromit within the City of their Craft, but he be of their Guild; neither in Southwark, or other Places pertaining to LONDON, otherwiſe than it was done in the Time of King Henry, my Grandfather. Wherefore I will and ſtraightly command, that over all lawfully they may treat, and have all aforeſaid; as well in Peace, free, worſhipful, and wholly, as they had it, freer, better, worſhipfullier, and whollier, than in the Time of King Henry, my Grandfather. So that they yield yearly to me two Marks of Gold, at the Feaſt of St. Michael. And I forbid, that any Man to them do any Unright, or Diſeaſe, upon Pain of ten Pounds. Witneſs Thomas of Canterbury, Warwick fil. Gar. Chamberlaine, at Wincheſter.

ALSO the ſame Henry II. in the 31ſt of his Reign, made a Confirmation to the Weavers, that had a Guild, or Fraternity in LONDON; wherein it appeareth, that the ſaid Weavers made Woollen Cloth, and that they had the Correction thereof. But amongſt other Articles in that Patent, it was decreed, That if any Man made Cloth of Spaniſh Wool, mixed with Engliſh Wool, the Portgrave, or Principal Magiſtrate of LONDON, ought to burn it.

MOREOVER, in the Year 1197, King Richard I. at the Inſtance of Hubert, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Juſticiary of England, ordained, That the Woollen Cloths, in every Part of this Realm, ſhould be in Breadth two Yards within the Liſts, and as good in the Middle, as in the Sides, &c. King Henry III. granted to the Citizens of LONDON, that they ſhould not be vexed for the Burrels, or Cloth-liſted, according to the Conſtitution made for Breadth of Cloth the 9th of his Reign. Rich. II. in the 3d of his Reign, granted an Order of Agreement between the Weavers of LONDON, Engliſhmen, and Aliens or Strangers born, brought in by Edward III.

ALMOST at the North End of the Street is Girdlers Hall, well wainſcotted within, and adorned with a beautiful Screen of the Compoſite Order. So far for the Eaſt Side of this Ward. Girdlers Hall.

ON the Weſt Side, almoſt at the South End of the Street, is Bakewell Hall, corruptly called Blackwell Hall, and antiently Baſſings Hall. Concerning the Original whereof, there have been divers Opinions, which are to be paſſed over as Fables; for though it is a Building of great Antiquity, yet the Foundation thereof was certainly firſt laid ſince the Conqueſt of William Duke of Normandy; for the ſame was built upon Vaults of Stone, which Stone was brought from Caen in Normandy: The like of that of St. Paul's Church, built by Mauritius and his Succeſſors, Biſhops of LONDON. But that this Houſe has been a Temple, or Jewiſh Synagogue, (as ſome have fancied) Mr. Stow will not allow, ſeeing that it had no ſuch Form of Roundneſs, or other Likeneſs; neither had it the Form of a Church, for the Aſſembly of Chriſtians, which Fabricks are built Eaſt and Weſt; but contrariwiſe, the ſame was built North and in Form of a Nobleman's Houſe. And therefore the beſt Opinion is, that it was (of old Time) belonging to the Family of Baſſings, which was in this Realm, a Name of great Antiquity and Renown: And that it bore alſo the Name of that Family, and was called therefore Baſſings Haugh, or Hall. The Arms of that Family were (of old Time) abundantly placed in ſundry Parts of that Houſe, even in the Stone-Work, but more eſpecially on the Walls of the Hall; which carried a continual Painting of them on every Side, ſo cloſe together as one Eſcutcheon could be placed to another, which Stow had often ſeen and noted, before the old Building was taken down. Theſe Arms were, a Gerond of twelve Points, Or, and Azure. Of the Baſſings therefore, Builders of this Houſe, and Owners of the Ground near adjoining, that Ward takes the Name; as Coleman-ſtreet Ward, of Coleman, and Faringdon Ward, of William and Nicholas Faringdon; Men that were principal Owners of thoſe Places. Bakewell, or Blackwell Hall.

AND of old Time, the moſt noble Perſons that inhabited this City, were appointed to be principal Magiſtrates there; as was Godfrey de Magun (or Magnaville) Portgrave, or Sheriff, in the Reign of William the Conqueror, and of William Rufus. Hugh de Buck, in the Reign of Henry I. Aubery de Vere, Earl of Oxford. After him Gilbert Becket, in the Reign of King Stephen. After that, Godfrey de Magnaville, the Son of William, the Son of Godfrey de Magnaville, Earls of Eſſex, were Portgraves, or Sheriffs of LONDON and Middleſex. In the Reign of Henry II. Peter Fitzwalter; after him, John Fitznigel, &c. So likewiſe in the Reign of King John, the 16th of his Reign, a Time of great Troubles, in the Year 1214. Solomon Baſſing, and Hugh Baſſing, Barons of this Realm, as may be ſuppoſed, were Sheriffs; and the ſaid Solomon Baſſing was Mayor in the Year 1216, which was the 1ſt of Henry III. Alſo Adam Baſſing, Son of Solomon (as it ſeems) was one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1243, the 28th of Henry III.

UNTO this Adam de Baſſing, King Henry III. in the 31ſt of his Reign, gave and confirmed certain Meſſuages in Aldermanbury, and in Milk-ſtreet (Places not far from Baſſings-hall) and the Advowſon of the Church at Baſſings-hall, with ſundry Liberties and Privileges.

THIS Man was afterwards Mayor, in the Year 1251, the 36th of Henry III. Moreover, Thomas Baſſing was one of the Sheriffs, Anno 1269.

Robert Baſſing, Sheriff, 1279, and William Baſſing, 1308; more of this Family need not be noted, only that one Branch of it ſpread itſelf in Cambridgeſhire, near to a Water, or Bourn, and was therefore, for a Difference, called Baſſing at the Bourn, and, more ſhortly, Baſſingbourn, which gave the ſame Arms, as is afore ſhewed, to be painted about this old Hall. But this Family was quite worn out in Stow's Time, but had left their Name to the Place where they dwelt.

NOW, how Bakewell-hall took that Name, is another Queſtion. It is ſaid that Thomas Bakewell dwelt in this Houſe in the 36th of Edward III. and that in the 20th of Richard II. the ſaid King, for the Sum of 50 l. which the Mayor and Commonalty had paid into the Hanapar, granted Licence, ſo much as was in him, to John Froſh, William Parker, and Stephen Spilman, Citizens and Mercers, that they, the ſaid Meſſuage, called Bakewell-hall, and one Garden, with the Appurtenances, in the Pariſh of St. Michael of Baſſings-haugh, and of St. Laurence in the Jewry of LONDON, and one Meſſuage, two Shops and one Garden, in the ſaid Pariſh of St. Michael, which they held of the King in Burgage, might give and aſſign to the Mayor and Commonalty for ever, ad opus Communitatis.

THIS Bakewell-hall, thus eſtabliſhed, has been long ſince employed as a weekly Market-Place for Woollen Cloths, broad and narrow, brought from all Parts of this Realm there to be ſold. In the 21ſt of Richard II. Richard Whittington, Mayor; and in the 22d, Drew Barringtine being Mayor, it was decreed, That no Foreigner or Stranger ſhould ſell any Woollen Cloth, but in Bakewell-hall, upon Pain of Forfeiture thereof.

AN Act of Common-Council, held Auguſt the 1ſt, in the 8th of Henry VIII. concerning Blackwell-hall.

"WHEREAS by an Act of Common-Council, in the 22d Year of the Reign of King Richard II. it was ordained and eſtabliſhed, That no Manner of Perſon ſhould bring or convey any Woollen Cloths to the ſaid City, to be ſold, except they were firſt brought, harboured, and diſcharged, at the common Market of Blackwell-hall; therefore ordained and provided, and of old Time accuſtomed, upon Pain of Forfeiture of all the ſaid Cloths ſo harboured and laid, contrary to the ſaid Ordinance, was, by another Act of Common-Council, held at the Guildhall aforeſaid, the Day and Year aboveſaid, ratified, approved, and confirmed. And over that, it is now at this preſent ordained, eſtabliſhed, and enacted, That no Manner of Perſon, being Freeman of this City, after the Feaſt of the Nativity of our Lady, next coming, ſuffer any Manner of Perſon whatſoever, be he Free, or Foreign, to buy or ſell any Manner of Woollen Cloths, harboured, or lodged, contrary to the ſaid Ordinance: As Broad-cloth, Kerſeys, Cottons, Bridgwater Frizes, Doſſeins, or any other Manner of Cloth made of Wool, within his Shop, Chamber, or other Place within his Houſe, unleſs the ſaid Cloths were firſt brought to Blackwell-hall aforeſaid, and there bought and ſold: Or elſe the ſaid Freeman, the ſaid Cloths lawfully brought in the Country, out of the ſaid City; upon Pain to forfeit and to pay, to the Uſe of the Commonalty of this City, for the firſt Offence, for every Broad-cloth ſo ſold, harboured, or lodged, contrary to the ſaid Ordinance, 6 s. 8 d. for every Kerſey, 3 s. 4 d. for every Doſſein, Bridgewater, and other Pieces of Cloth made of Wool, 20 d. And for the ſecond Offence, the ſaid Pains to be doubled. And for the third Offence, the Party ſo offending, to be diſfranchiſed, and deprived clearly from the Liberties of this City for ever.

THIS Houſe afterwards growing ruinous, and in Danger of falling, Richard May, Merchant-Taylor, at his Deceaſe, gave towards the new building of the outward Part thereof, 300 l. upon Condition that the ſame ſhould be performed within three Years after his Deceaſe. Whereupon the old Blackwell-hall was taken down, and in the Month of February next following, the Foundation of a new, ſtrong, and beautiful Store-Houſe being laid, the Work thereof was diligently applied, that within the Space of 10 Months after, to the Charges of 2500 l. the ſame was finiſhed in the Year 1558; but being demoliſhed in the Flames of 1666, it was re-erected Anno 1672. The Door-Caſe in the Front, next Guildhall, is of Stone, adorned with two Columns, Entablature and Pediment of the Dorick Order; in the Pediment are the King's Arms, and the Arms of the City are lower, enriched with Cupids, &c.

THE City gave to Chriſt's Hoſpital the Profits ariſing from Lodging and Pitching of Cloth in the ſeveral Warehouſes, or Halls; for here is the Devonſhire, Gloceſter, Worceſter, Kentiſh, Medley, Spaniſh and Blanket Halls, beſides the like Profits of the Bays at Leadenhall. Cloths pay 1 d. each Pitching, and a Half-Penny per Week Reſting; and, to avoid Trouble, every Factor has a Reſt, or one certain Number, for which he pays, as admit a Reſt to be 180 Cloths.

And the next Week there are Cloths pitched } 90

STOCKINGS and Blankets pay by the Pack; all which, it is ſaid, amounts to about 1100 l. per Ann. clear. There are alſo ſeveral Statutes relating to the Regulation of this Market, as to Factors, and others concerned; and the whole Management is under the Inſpection of the Governors of Chriſt's Hoſpital, as is before ſaid, Book I. Chap. XIV.

NEXT beyond this Houſe, are ſeveral good Houſes, to the Back-gate of Guildhall, which Gate, and Part of the Building within the ſame, are of this Ward. Some ſmall Diſtance from this Coopers-hall. Gate the Coopers have their Common Hall: It is well built of Brick, and the Hall is a handſome Room, wainſcotted about 14 Feet high, paved with Marble, adorned with ſeveral Coats of Arms in the Glaſs, and the Portraiture, at full Length, of Sir John Fleet, Lord Mayor, 1693, and that of Mr. Henry Stroud, another worthy Member, who at his Deceaſe, An. 1704, when he died Maſter of the Company, gave 6500 l. to build and endow a Free-School and Alms-Houſes at Egham. And under the King's-Arms is the Buſto of King William III.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL BASSISHAW.

St. Michael Baſſiſhaw.

THE laſt Church before the Fire, was built (as may be gathered from Mr. Stow, &c.) about the Year 1450; and that being then rebuilding, and not a new Foundation, implies, that at leaſt one Church was, before that, worn out by Time; whence we may conclude, that a Church has been here near 500 Years; and we find Mr. Richard Sarich Rector here, Anno 1359. Toward the ſaid old Church, Mr. John Burton, and Agnes his Wife, were great Benefactors: It was repaired at the Pariſh Charge, in the Year 1630; and being reduced to Rubbiſh by the Flames in 1666, it was begun to be re-edified Anno 1676, and carried on in 1677, and 1678, and finiſhed in 1679; and in the Year 1697 was repaired and beautified.

AS to the Nature of the Structure, the Roof is camerated, Walls of Brick, the Tower of Stone, the Floor paved with Stone, that of the Chancel being a Step higher than the reſt; three Iſles; the Apertures of each Side ſimilar to thoſe of their Oppoſites in Number and Model; Pillars, &c. of the Corinthian Order.

IT is ornamentally finiſhed. The Roof divided into quadrangular Pannels of Crocket-work; that next the Altar having at each Angle a Cherub, and the like on the Key-pieces of each of the upper Windows; alſo a Cantaliever, Cornice, Frieſe, &c. enrich'd with Leaves, &c. and at the Weſt End, the King's Arms are magnificently done with Enrichments of two Cupids, and as many Shields and Mantling; all of Fret-work.

IT is wainſcotted round about eight Feet high, having a handſome Pulpit and ſpacious Door-caſe at the Weſt End; alſo one at the North, and another at the South Side, all of fine Oak, of the Corinthian Order.

THE Altar-piece is of the ſame Order, adorned with four Pilaſters, and Entablament; above which are two Attick Pilaſters, and an open arching Pediment, under which is painted a Curtain, ſuſtained in Feſtoons by two Cupids, between them a Glory appearing in Clouds; under which are two Tables of the Decalogue done in Golden Letters on Black, between the Portraitures of Moſes and Aaron, and theſe between the Pater Noſter, and Creed done in Black Characters on Gold, adorned with Cartouches.

UNDER Moſes are theſe Words: The Law was given by Moſes. And under Aaron theſe: But Grace and Truth came by JESUS CHRIST. Under the Lord's-Prayer theſe Words: This is my Commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. And the Creed is thus ſubſcribed: I came not to deſtroy the Law, but to fulfil.

AT the Weſt End is a neat Table of the cuſtomary Offerings (as it is expreſſed there.) The Outſide of the Eaſt End of this Church is adorned with a large circular Pediment between two Cartouches, the other End with Pine Apples.

THE Dimenſions are, Length 70 Feet, Breadth 50, Altitude 42, and that of the Tower about 75 Feet; wherein is only one Bell.

ON the South Side of the Church, on a fine japann'd Table, theſe Benefactors Names are placed, done in Golden Letters.

CRIPPLEGATE WARD.

THE next Ward is Cripplegate, conſiſting of ſeveral Streets and Lanes, lying as well without the Gate and Wall of the City, as within: For, firſt, within the Wall on the Eaſt Part thereof, toward the North, it runs to the Weſt Side of Baſing-hall Ward; and towards the South it joins to the Ward of Cheap. It begins at the Weſt End of St. Laurence's Church in the Jewry, on the North Side, and runs Weſt to a Pump, where, ſome Time, was a Well with two Buckets, at the South-Corner of Aldermanbury-ſtreet; which Street runs down North to Gayſpur-lane, and ſo to London-wall; which Street and Lane are wholly (on both Sides) of this Ward; and ſo are ſome few Houſes (on both Sides) from Gayſpur-lane, by and againſt the Wall of the City, Eaſt to the Grates, made for the Water-Courſe of the Channels, and Weſt to Cripplegate.

NOW on the South Side, from over-againſt the Weſt End of St. Laurence's Church, to the Pump, and then up Milk-ſtreet, South to Cheap; which Milk-ſtreet is wholly (on both Sides) of Cripplegate Ward; as alſo, without the South End of Milk-ſtreet, a Part of Weſt Cheap, viz. from the Place where the Standard ſtood, to where the Croſs was ſet. Then down great Wood-ſtreet, which is wholly of this Ward, on both Sides thereof; ſo is Little Wood-ſtreet, which runs down to Cripplegate.

OUT of this Wood-ſtreet are divers Lanes, namely, on the Eaſt Side is Lad-lane, which runs Eaſt to Milk-ſtreet Corner. Down lower in Wood-ſtreet, is Love-lane, which lies by the South Side of St. Alban's Church, in Wood-ſtreet, and runs down to the Conduit in Aldermanbury-ſtreet. Lower down in Wood-ſtreet, is Addle-ſtreet; out of which runs Philip-lane down to London-wall. Theſe are the Lanes on the Eaſt Side.

ON the Weſt Side of Wood-ſtreet, is Hugen-lane, by the South Side of St. Michael's Church, and goes through to Gutheron's-lane. Then lower is Maiden-lane, which runs Weſt to the North End of Gutheron's-lane; and up to the ſaid Lane, on the Eaſt Side thereof, 'till againſt Kery-lane, and back again. Then the ſaid Maiden-lane, on the North Side, goes up to Staining-lane, and up a Part thereof, on the Eaſt Side, to the fartheſt North Part of Haberdaſhers Hall, and back again to Wood-ſtreet. And there, lower down, is Silver-ſtreet, which is of this Ward, till you come to the Eaſt End of St. Olave's Church on the South Side, and to Monkwell-ſtreet on the North Side. Then down the ſaid Monkwell-ſtreet, on the Eaſt Side thereof, and ſo to Cripplegate, do make the Bound of this Ward within the Walls.

Without Cripplegate, Fore-ſtreet runs a-croſs before the Gate, from againſt the North Side of St. Giles's Church, along to Moor-lane End, and almoſt to Moorgate. The Houſes on that Side of Moorfields, and Alleys to Finſbury-court, are all of Cripplegate Ward.

JOINING to Moorfields is the New Artillery-Ground, ſo called, in Diſtinction from another Artillery-garden, near St. Mary-Spital, where formerly the Artillery Company exerciſed; who, about the latter End of King James I's Reign, were determined to remove thence; and to hold their Trainings and Practice of Arms here, being the third Field from Moorgate, next to the Six Windmills; which Field, Mr. Leat, one of the 20 Captains, with great Pains, was divers Years preparing to that Purpoſe. The Reaſon of this their Remove, was, becauſe now their Meetings and Number conſiſted of many more Soldiers than the old Ground could well contain, being ſometimes ſix thouſand. Though, ſometimes, they went to the Old Artillery, and continued ſo to do, Mr. Strype ſays, in his Memory.

THEN to turn back again through the aforeſaid Moor-lane, the next is Grub-ſtreet; more than half of it is in this Ward. The next is Whitecroſs-ſtreet, up to the End of Beech-lane; and then Redcroſs ſtreet wholly, with a Part of Golden-lane, to the Poſts there placed as a Boundary.

THEN is Beech-lane, before ſpoken of, on the Eaſt Side of the Redcroſs and the Barbican-ſtreet, more than half thereof, towards Aldersgate-ſtreet; and ſo have you the Bounds of Cripplegate Ward without the Walls.

NOW for Antiquities and Ornaments in this Ward, to be noted. Firſt, at the meeting of the Corners of the Old-Jewry, Milk-ſtreet, Lad-lane, and Aldermanbury, there was (of old Time) a fair Well with two Buckets, of late Years converted to a Pump. How Aldermanbury-ſtreet took that Name, many Fables have been reported, not worth relating. But to be ſhort, this Street took the Name of Aldermanbury; which is to ſay, a Court there kept in their Bury, or Court-Hall, now called the Guildhall: Which Hall (of old Time) ſtood in the Eaſt Side of the ſame Street, not far from the Weſt End of Guildhall, now uſed.

TOUCHING the Antiquity of this old Aldermanbury, or Court, is ſaid that Richard Renery, one of the Sheriffs of LONDON, in the 1ſt of Richard I. which was in the Year of Chriſt, 1189, gave to the Church of St. Mary at Oſney, by Oxford, certain Ground and Rents in Aldermanbury, of LONDON, as appeareth by the Regiſter of that Church, as is alſo entered into the Huſtings of the Guildhall in LONDON.

THIS old Bury, Court, or Hall, continued; and the Courts of the Mayor and Aldermen were continually held there, 'till the new Bury, Court, or Guildhall, that now is, was built and finiſhed; which Hall was firſt begun to be founded in the Year 1411, and was not fully finiſhed in 20 Years after,

IN this Aldermanbury-ſtreet are divers handſome Houſes on both Sides, for Merchants others: And in the Middle thereof is a fair Conduit, made at the Charge of William Eaſtfield, ſome Time Mayor, who took Order, as well for Water to be conveyed from Tyburn, and for the Building of this Conduit not far diſtant from his Dwelling-Houſe: As alſo, for a Standard of ſweet Water to be erected in Fleet-ſtreet; all which was done by his Executors, as in another Place is ſhewed.

The PARISH of St. MARY ALDERMANBURY.

S. Mary Aldermanbury.

THE firſt Building of a Church here is not eaſily diſcover'd, but Sir William Eſtfield, Mr. Stow ſays, was a great Benefactor to it: He alſo built the Steeple of the old Church, changed their Bells to five tuneable ones, and gave 100 l. to other Works of that Church, doing other Things for the Pariſh. This Sir William was Knight of the Bath, and Lord Mayor of LONDON, in the Year 1437.

THIS Church was almoſt new built at the Pariſh Charge, Anno 1633, and being demoliſhed by the raging Flames in 1666, was again erected and finiſhed, in the Year 1677.

IT is a Structure well built of Stone, as the Steeple is, conſiſting of a Tower and Turret. The Roof within is camerated and covered with Lead, which is ſupported with 12 Pillars of the Compoſite Order; it is paved with Stone: The Floor of the Chancel is one Step higher than that of the Body of the Church; and the Apertures are numerous and well placed, rendering it very pleaſant.

THE ornamental Part is handſome. At the Eaſt End, fronting Aldermanbury, is a large Cornice and Triangular Pediment; alſo two large Cartouches, and as many Pine-Apples of Stone carved.

THE Inſide of the Roof is adorned with Arches of Fret-Work, and the ſaid Columns with Entablament, the Cornice being Cantalivier.

IT is wainſcotted near nine Feet high, and pewed with Oak; the Pulpit is alſo of that Timber, with Enrichments of Cherubims. Here are alſo three plain but Wainſcot Inner Door-caſes.

THE Altar-Piece is adorned with two fluted Pilaſters, Entablature, and open circular Pediment, of the Corinthian Order. The Inter-Columns are the Commandments, between the Lord's Prayer and Creed, done in Gold Letters on Black: Above the Commandments, is a Seraphim between two Cherubims; and over them, above the Cornice, are the King's Arms, all carved and embelliſh'd, with Enrichments of Fruit, Leaves, &c. The Communion-Table is finnier'd, and its Footpace paved with Marble, encloſed with Rail and Balliſter.

HERE is alſo a ſpacious gilt Branch.

THE Dimenſions are, Length 72 Feet, Breadth 45, Altitude 38, and that of the Steeple, conſiſting of a Tower and Turret, about 90 Feet, wherein are two Bells.

NUMBER of Houſes 135.

BELOW this Church is a Lane called Gay-ſpur, now Philip-lane, which runs down to London-wall. In this Lane, at the North End thereof, was (of old Time) a Houſe of Nuns; which Houſe being in great Decay, William Elſing, Mercer, in the Year of Chriſt 1329, the 3d of Edw. III. began, in Place thereof, the Foundation of an Hoſpital, for Suſtentation of 100 blind Men. Towards the Erection whereof, he gave his two Houſes in the Pariſhes of St. Alphage, and our Bleſſed Lady in Aldermanbury, near Cripplegate; obtaining firſt the King's Letter of Mortmain, under the Great Seal of England,

THIS Houſe was afterwards called a Priory, or Hoſpital, of St. Mary, the Virgin, founded in the Year 1332, by William Elſing, for Canons regular; which William became the firſt Prior thereof.

Robert Elſing, Son to the ſaid William, gave to the ſaid Hoſpital, 12 l. by the Year, for the finding of three Prieſts. He alſo gave 5 l. towards the incloſing of the new Church-Yard without Aldgate, and 5 l. to the incloſing of the new Church-Yard without Alderſgate. To Thomas Elſing, his Son, 80 l. The reſt of his Goods to be ſold, and given to the Poor. This Houſe, valued at 193 l. 15 s. 5 d. was ſurrendered the 11th of May, the 22d of Henry VIII.

IN the ſame Place, where the aforeſaid Elſing's Spital and Priory were formerly ſituated, there is now erected a College for the Clergy of LONDON, and Liberties thereof, called by the Name of Sion College; and Alms-Houſes for 20 poor People, 10 Men and 10 Women. The Particulars whereof were ſhewn in the firſt Book, Chap. XI.

THERE were Monuments in Elſing Spital for,

Thomas Cheyne, Son to William Cheyne; Thomas, John and William, Sons of Sir Will. Cheyne. John Northampton, Draper, Mayor, 1381. Edmond Hungerford, Henry Frowicke, Joan, Daughter to Sir Will. Cheyne, Wife to William Stokes. Robert Elderbroke, Eſq; 1460. Dame Joan Ratcliffe, Wife of William Fowler; William Kingſton, Thomas Swineley, and Helen his Wife, &c.

THE principal Iſle of this Church, towards the North, was pulled down, and a Frame of four Houſes ſet up in the Place. The other Part of this Church, (from the Steeple upward) was converted into the Pariſh Church of St. Alphage: And the Pariſh Church which ſtood near unto the Wall of the City, by Cripplegate, was pulled down, and the Plat thereof made a Carpenter's Yard with Saw-Pits.

THE Hoſpital itſelf, the Prior, and Canons Houſe, with other Lodgings, were made a Dwelling-Houſe; the Church-Yard is a Garden-Plat, and a fair Gallery on the Cloiſter. The Lodgings for the Poor are tranſlated into Stabling for Horſes.

IN the Year 1541, Sir John Williams, Maſter of the King's Jewels, dwelling in this Houſe, on Chriſtmas Eve, at Night, about Seven of the Clock, a great Fire began in the Gallery thereof, which burnt ſo fiercely, that the Flame firing the whole Houſe, and conſuming it, was ſeen all the City over, and not eaſily quenched. Whereby many of the King's Jewels were burnt, and more imbezelled, as was ſaid.

The PARISH of St. ALPHAGE.

THERE is only this one Church in LONDON dedicated to this Saint, of whom take the following Account.

St. Alphage, or Elphege, was born of great Parentage, and ſpent his younger Years in the Monaſtery of Hirſt, where he firſt entered into Religion; after his Departure thence, he became Prior of Glaſtenbury (as Malmsbury ſaith) which Place, after a Seaſon, he left, and gave himſelf to a very ſtrict Kind of Life at Bath, for which he was ſo much admired (the rather becauſe he was a Perſon of great Lineage) as many went about to imitate him, and joining themſelves to him, made him their Governor, by the Name of Abbot. Having lived ſo a certain Space, he was called to the Biſhoprick of Wincheſter, Anno 984, where he continued 22 Years, and Anno 1006, was removed to Canterbury. He was a Man of wonderful Abſtinence, ſpent his Time altogether in Prayer, Study, and other neceſſary Buſineſs, and what with Preaching, and Example of Holy Life, he converted many unto CHRIST. At length in the Year 1012, it happened the Danes to be diſappointed of certain Tributes, for want whereof, they ſpoil'd and burnt the City and Church of Canterbury; of the Monks and People thereof, they put nine in ten to the Sword. As for the Archbiſhop, they kept him in Priſon ſeven Months, tormented him, and at laſt put him to Death at Greenwich on 13 Kal. of May (where afterwards that Pariſh-Church was built and dedicated to his Memory.) His Body was firſt buried in St. Paul's Church in LONDON; afterwards carried to Canterbury, by the Command of King Knute, and interr'd. He ſat ſix Years Archbiſhop, was afterwards made a Saint, and allowed the 19th of April for the Celebration of his Memory.

THE old Church of St. Alphage being much decayed in the Year of our Lord 1535, the Pariſhioners petitioned the Government for Licence to rebuild the ſaid Church; but they could only obtain a Grant for uſing the old Materials, as Stones, Lead, and Timber, in Order to repair and make good an old Chapel belonging to Elſing Spital. It was began to be repaired in the Year of our Lord 1624. The Repair continuing the two following Years. In which Time, the Maſons Work amounted to 400 l. The Reparations went on in the Years 1627, and 1628, in which laſt it was finiſhed; ariſing to 100 l. more, at the ſole Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh.

THIS Church was again repaired and beautified, 1701; it is a Gothick Building, both Windows and Pillars.

THE Length of the Church is 78 Feet, Breadth 42, and Altitude 22, the Tower is inconſiderable, being only about 40 Feet high, but there are in it ſix Bells that ring in Peal.

THE Ornament in this Church are not notable, nor the Wainſcot conſiderable, the Pews are pretty well, but moſtly of antient Form.

THE Pulpit is plain, and the Altar-Piece has the Commandments, Lord's Prayer and Creed,

IN the Year 1633, there was added to this a handſome Communion-Table, with a decent Frame about it; but in the fatal Flames of 1666, this Church being conſumed was not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to that of St. Laurence Jewry, as is before taken Notice of in the 3d Chapter of this Book.

ON a fair Stone in the ſame Iſle before the Monument aforenamed:

This Marble Witneſſe
Dew dropt with the Eyes
Of grieved Niobe, tels
Thee, that here lies
Her ſecond Huband's Joy,
Her firſt's Content,
Her Parents comfort,
Her Friends Ornament;
Her Neighbours welcome
Her dear Kindred's Loſſe
Her own Health's Foe, deeming all Pleaſure Droſſe;
The World a Jayle, whence,
through much Paine we ſee,
Her Soule at length hath purchaſt Liberty;
And ſoar'd on high where Her Redeemer lives;
Who (for her Torment)
Reſt and Glory gives.

ON an antient Tomb in the Chancel was this Inſcription:

Here lie the Bodies of Gerard Gore, Citizen, Merchant-Taylor, and Alderman of LONDON, and of Helen his Wife, who lived together married 57 Years. The ſaid Gerard died the 11th Day of December 1607, in the 91ſt Year of his Age. And ſhe departed this Life the 13th Day of February, in the foreſaid Year, being 75 Years old.

ON

ON a fair Stone at the Entrance into the Choir:

Here lyeth the Body of Thomas Henſhawe, Citizen and Merchant-Taylor of LONDON, who had to Wife Flower Henſhawe, and had Iſſue by her, nine Sons and four Daughters. He deceaſed the 11th Day of January 1611, aged 76 Yeeres; and ſhe died the 6th of March, 1615, aged about 60 Yeeres.

ON a handſome Monument on the North Side of the Chancel:

Here lieth the Body of Sir William Stone, Knt. Free of the Clothworkers and Turky Companies, ſome Time Alderman of this City. He was the Sonne of Reynold Stone, Citizen and Fiſhmonger of LONDON. The ſaid Sir William departed this Life the 14th of September, 1609, aged 63 Years, &c.

As the Earth, the Earth doth cover,
So under this Stone
Lyes another;
Sir William Stone,
Who long deceaſed,
E're the World's Love
Him releaſed;
So much it lov'd him;
For, they ſay,
He anſwered Death
Before his Day;
But 'tis not ſo;
For he was ſought
Of one that both him
Made and bought.
He remain'd
The great Lord's Treaſure,
Who called for him
At his Pleaſure,
And receiv'd him.
Yet be it ſaid,
Earth grieved that Heaven
So ſoon was paid.

Here likewiſe lyes
Inhumed in one Bed
Dame Barbara,
The wel beloved Wife
Of this remembred Knight;
Whoſe Soules are fled
From this dimme Vale
To everlaſting Life.
Where no more Change,
Nor no more Separation
Shall make them flye
From their bleſt Habitation;

Graſſe of Levitie,
Span in Brevity,
Flowers Felicity,
Fire of Miſery,
Winds Stability,
Is Mortality.

Their Riches were Like Corne lent to the Fielde,
What it receiv'd,
It manifold did yeeld.
Their Bodies have a Grave,
Their Virtues none,
But ſhall, with Time, grow Greene,
When they are gone.
Stone Walls, Braſſe Towers,
Decay as Flowers:
One gone, their Good
Is, Lo! here they ſtood.
So tranſitory
Is our Glory.

ON a Monument at the Eaſt End of the South Iſle:

This Stone, this Verſe,
Two Mountfords doe preſent,
The Corps of one,
The other's Monument:
Two lovely Brethren,
By their Virtues knowne,
Whom Cambridge, and King's Colledge call'd their own.
Osbert and Richard,
Of which worthy Paire,
The firſt imployed
By Sea in great Affaire;
Made Heaven his Haven,
And at that Port the other
(By Land) did overtake
His elder Brother.
So now the Bones
Of both are laid aſleepe,
Theſe in this Church,
Thoſe in the Eaſterne Deep:
'Till all the Dead
Shall wake from Sea and Land,
Before the Judge
Of Quicke and Dead to ſtand.
Amen.
We Sonne-leſſe Parents;
Yet not Childleſſe left,
Bewaile (as Men)
Our Seed untimely reft.
As Chriſtians, we hope,
And joy and ſay,
Heaven is our Home,
And thither, Death the Way.
By Sea or Land,
It skils not, ſo we minde
The faithful Pilgrims
Narrow Path to finde.

Queen Elizabeth's Monument in this Church.

Streets, Lanes, &c. in this Pariſh are,
PART of Milk-ſtreet; Part of Clement's-court, Godfrey's-court, Feathers-court, Sun-paſſage, King's-court, and Part of Cheapſide.

NUMBER of Houſes 70.

NEXT to this is Wood-ſtreet; for what Reaſon it was ſo called, is uncertain; but true it is, that, of old Time, according to a Decree made in the Reign of Richard I. the Houſes of LONDON were built of Stone, to prevent Fire. Which Kind of Building was uſed for 200 Years or more: But of later Time, to gain Ground, theſe Houſes have been taken down, and Houſes of Timber ſet up in their Places. It ſeems therefore, that this Street hath been of later Building, all of Timber, (for not one Houſe of Stone hath been known there) and therefore called Wood-ſtreet: Otherwiſe it might take the Name of ſome Builder, or Owner thereof.

Thomas Wood, one of the Sheriffs, in the Year 1491, dwelled there: He was an eſpecial Benefactor towards the building of St. Peter's Church at Wood-ſtreet End. He alſo built a beautiful Front of the Houſes in Cheap, over-againſt Wood-ſtreet End, which was called Goldſmiths-Row, garniſhed with the Likeneſs of Woodmen. His Predeceſſors might be the firſt Builders, Owners and Namers of this Street, after their own Name.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Street is one of the Priſon-Houſes, pertaining to the Sheriffs of LONDON, and is called the Compter in Wood-ſtreet; which was prepared to be a Priſon-Houſe

Houſe in the Year 1555; and, on the Eve of St. Michael the Archangel, the Priſoners that lay in the Compter in Bread-ſtreet, were removed to this Compter in Wood-ſtreet. Beneath this Compter is Lad-lane, or Ladle-hall; for ſo it is named on Record in the Pariſh of St. Michael in Wood-ſtreet; and beneath that is Love-lane, ſo called, ſays Stow, of Wantons.

By the laſt mentioned Lane is the Pariſh-Church of St. Alban's.

The PARISH of St. ALBAN WOOD-STREET.

ONE Note of the great Antiquity of this Church is the Name, by which it was firſt dedicated to St. Alban, the firſt Martyr of England. Another Character of the Antiquity of it is to be ſeen in the Manner of the turning of the Arches in the Windows, and Heads of the Pillars. A third Note appears in the Roman Bricks, here and there inlaid amongſt the Stones of the Building. Very probable it is, that this Church is, at leaſt, of as antient a Standing, as King Adelſtane, the Saxon; who, as Tradition ſays, had his Houſe at the Eaſt End of this Church. This King's Houſe having a Door alſo into Adel-ſtreet, in this Pariſh, gave Name, as 'tis thought, to the ſaid Adel-ſtreet: Which, in all Evidences, to this Day, is written King Adel-ſtreet. One great ſquare Tower of this King's Houſe ſeem'd, in Stow's Time, to be then remaining, and to be ſeen at the North Corner of Love-lane, as you come from Aldermanbury: Which Tower was of the very ſame Stone and Manner of Building with St. Alban's Church.

THIS Church, being wonderfully decayed and periſhed, was by theſe Gentlemen, Sir Henry Spiller, Inigo Jones, Eſq; Captain Leake, and Captain Williams, ſurveyed, to ſee what Repair might help it. But by theſe Gentlemen, and Workmen appointed with them, it was found to be too far gone for Repair. Neither would any Workman put himſelf into Hazard upon it; affirming it to be, in every Part of it, ſo ſpent, decayed, and feeble, that they muſt ſuddenly pluck it down, or it would prevent that Labour, and fall to the Ground of itſelf; which Failings every Day increaſing (and more and more growing and appearing) did moſt evidently ſeem to threaten.

FOR this Cauſe, many of the Pariſhioners refuſed to go to it; many that went, went unwillingly, but all with much Fear, where they ſate with more; their Danger, all the Time, much troubling and diſturbing their Devotion.

THIS great Neceſſity enforcing, it was taken down in the Year 1632, and was rebuilt, Anno 1634; but periſhing in the Flames of 1666, it was re-erected, and as it now appears, finiſhed in the Year 1685.

THE Building, both of the Inſide and out, of this Church is Gothick, as it was before the Fire.

IT is wainſcotted round with Norway Oak, ſeven Feet and a half from the Ground.

THERE is a Gallery at the Weſt End of the Church, in the Front of which is a fine Organ erected by Subſcription, An. Dom. 1728; alſo a Door-Caſe, and a ſpacious Arch under the Gallery, opening into the Nave of the Church.

THE Pulpit is finely carved, with an Enrichment, in Imitation of Fruit and Leaves; and the Sound-Board is a Hexagon, having round it a fine Cornice, adorned with Cherubims and other Embelliſhments, and the Inſide is neatly finniered.

THE Altar-Piece is very ornamental, conſiſting of four Columns, fluted with their Baſes, Pedeſtals, Entablature, and open Pediment of the Corinthian Order; and over each Column, upon Acroters, is a Lamp with a gilded Taper. Between the Inner Columns are the Ten Commandments, done in Gold Letters, upon Black. Between the two Northward, is the Lord's Prayer; and the two Southward, the Creed, done in Gold, upon Blue. Over the Commandments is a Glory between two Cherubims, and above the Cornice, the King's Arms with the Supporters, Helmet, and Creſt, richly carved under a Triangular Pediment; and on the North and South Side of the above deſcribed Ornaments, are two large Cartouches; all which Parts are carved in fine Wainſcot.

NUMBER of Houſes 112.

THIS Pariſh, after the Fire of LONDON, was united by Act of Parliament to St. Olave's Silver-ſtreet; of which ſee more in the next Chapter on Alderſgate Ward.

THEN

THEN is Adle-ſtreet; the Reaſon of which Name is unknown; only, that in old Evidences it is written King-Adel-ſtreet; and ſo called from King Adelſtane the Saxon. At this Time it is repleniſhed with good Buildings on both Sides, among which is the Plaiſterers-Hall, handſome, but ſmall; it was formerly the Pinners-Hall; but that Company decaying, and not being worth a Pin, ſaith Stow, it came to the Plaiſterers.

Plaiſterers-hall.

Brewers-hall.

NOT far from that, is the Brewers-Hall, a ſpacious and curious Building, with a graceful Appearance at the Entrance, of Columns and Arches of the Tuſcan Order, and Enrichments of Fruit, Leaves, &c. the Walls are Brick, the Window-Caſes, &c. Stone.

FROM the Weſt End of Adle-ſtreet, Little Wood-ſtreet runs down to Cripplegate; and ſomewhat Eaſt of the End of this Street, and facing London-wall, is the Curriers-Hall.

Curriers-hall.

NOW on the Weſt Side of Wood-ſtreet is Huggen-lane, which is but narrow, on Account of ſome Encroachments to Gutter-lane.

The PARISH of St. MICHAEL WOOD-STREET.

THIS Church of St. Michael, with the Addition of Wood-ſtreet, from its Situation on the Weſt Side of that Street, hath been ſometimes called St. Michael in Hogge-lane, or Huggen-lane, of one Hugan, that of old Time dwelt in that Lane, and was call'd Hugan in the Lane, which Lane runs down by the South Side of this Church; and it is at this Day call'd Huggen-lane.

Richard de Baſing ſtoke, in 33 Edw. III. 1359, by his laſt Will and Teſtament, gave all his Tenements in the Pariſh of St. Laurence Jewry, to the Rector of this Church, and four of the Pariſhioners, to find two Chaplains to ſay Maſs daily in this Church for the Souls of himſelf and Relations, &c. out of which, they were to pay them for ſo doing, eight Marks each per Annum; which Chaplains, after the Death of his Executors, were to be preſented from Time to Time by the Rector of this Church for the Time being, and four Pariſhioners, who were to have half a Mark yearly for their Pains, and with the Overplus of the Rent of the ſaid Tenements, were to keep the Chantry (which he had here) in good Repair.

IN the 16th of Richard II, Joh. Ive, Parſon of this Church, Joh. Forſter, Goldſmith, and Peter Fikeldon, Taylor, gave two Meſſuages and Shops, with Sollars, Cellars, &c. in this Pariſh and Street, and in Ladle (or Lad) Lane, to the Reparations of this Church and Chancel, and other Works of Charity.

THIS Church was repaired and beautified at the Coſt of the Pariſhioners, in the Year 1620.

BUT being burnt down in the late dreadful Fire, in 1666, is rebuilt, and made the Parochial Church for this and the Pariſh of St. Mary Staining, which is annext to it.

THE Walls of the Structure are built of Stone, and of the Ionick Order; the Roof flat and quadrangular, covered with Lead; the Windows are only on the South Side and Eaſt End; the Floor is paved with Stone; that of the Chancel a Step higher than that of the reſt of the Church; and here are three Iſles.

THE Roof is adorned with Fret-Work and Crocket-Work, the Walls with Arches and Impoſts; the Front towards Wood-ſtreet, with ſpacious Stone Pilaſters, their Entablature and pitched Pediment of the Ionick Order. The Church is wainſcotted round eight Feet high, and pewed with Oak, of which alſo the Pulpit is made, being finniered, and having Enrichments of Cherubims, Feſtoons, &c. The Altar-Piece is of the ſame Species of Timber, adorned with a ſingle Cornice and Compaſs Pediment, where the King's Arms are carved; above which is a Triangular Pediment, with a Glory; and below all this, are the Decalogue between the Lord's Prayer and Creed; the firſt done in Gold, on Black, the, latter the contrary. Theſe are placed between the Portraiture of Moſes and Aaron, painted in their proper Habits; the latter holding an Incenſe-Pot.

THE Length of the Church within, is 63 Feet, Breadth 42, Altitude 31, and that of the Tower (wherein are two Bells) is about 90 Feet.

ON a comely ſmall Monument, at the Eaſt End of the Choir, in the Wall, was this Inſcription:

Here lyeth John Blount, Citizen and Clothworker of LONDON, eldeſt Son of W. Blount, of Mauggareffield, in the County of Glocester, Eſq; who had to Wife Anne Layton, of whom he had Iſſue ſix Sonnes and eight Daughters; and lived together Man and Wife 29 Yeeres, in worſhipfull and good Reputation, and dyed at the Age of 63 Yeers, the 1ſt Day of May, 1599.

ON a leſs Monument in the ſame Iſle and Wall:

JOB xvii. 1.

My Breath is corrupt, my Days are cut off, the Grave for me.

ON another:

The Body of William Harvie, Citizen and Grocer of LONDON, and Deputy to the Alderman

Alderman of Creplegate Within, was buried the 20th Day of March, Anno Domini 1597, of the Age of 58 Yeeres. Maudlin, his firſt Wife, by whom he had Iſſue foure Sonnes and one Daughter, was buried the 16th Day of November, 1581. Margaret, his ſecond Wife, by whom he had Iſſue one Son, was buried the 14th of January, 1593. Joan, his third Wife, ſurvived.

Robert Harvie, his eldeſt Sonne, Citizen and Grocer of LONDON, was buried in his Father's Grave, the 9th of November, 1608, out of his Houſe in the Old Jewry, being of the Age of 47 Yeeres, 5 Moneths, and 10 Days; when he had ſerved his Prince, Comptroller of the Cuſtom-Houſe, and Warden of the Grocers. Hee had to Wife Sarah Audley, of whom hee had Iſſue three Sonnes and three Daughters, &c.

HERE was alſo Queen Elizabeth's Monument, with this Inſcription:

Here lyes her Type, who was of late
The Prop of Belgia, Stay of France,
Spain's Foile, Faith's Shield, and Queen of (State,
Of Arms, of Learning, Fate and Chance.
In brief, of Women ne'er was ſeen,
So great a Prince, ſo good a Queen.

Sith Vertue her Immortal made,
Death (envying all that cannot dye)
Her earthly Parts did ſo invade,
As in it wrackt Self-Majeſty.
But ſo her Spirits inſpir'd her Parts,
That ſhe ſtill lives in Loyal Hearts.

THERE is alſo, but without any outward Monument, the Head of James, the fourth King of the Scots of that Name, ſlain at Flodden-field, and buried here by this Occaſion. After the Battle, the Body of that King being found, was cloſed in Lead, and conveyed from thence to LONDON, and ſo to the Monaſtery of Sheen in Surrey, where it remained for a Time. But after the Diſſolution of that Houſe, in the Reign of Edward VI. Henry Gray, Duke of Suffolk, being lodged, and keeping Houſe there; Stow ſays, he was ſhewed the ſame Body, ſo wrapped in Lead; which Body was thrown into a Waſte-Room amongſt old Timber, Lead, and other Rubbiſh. Since which Time, Workmen there (for their fooliſh Pleaſure) hewed off his Head. And Lancelot Young, Maſter-Glaſier to Queen Elizabeth, ſmelling a ſweet Savor to come from thence; and ſeeing the ſame dried from Moiſture, and yet the Form remaining, with the Hair of the Head and Beard red, brought it to LONDON, to his Houſe in Wood-ſtreet, where (for a Time) he kept it for the Sweetneſs: But in the End, cauſed the Sexton of that Church to bury it amongſt other Bones taken out of their Charnel, &c.

BUT Mr. Speed relates, that (for all John Stow's fair Tale) Leſley, Biſhop of Roſs, ſays, this was the Head of the Laird Bonehard; and that King James was ſeen alive that Night the Battle happened, at Kelſo, whence he paſſed to Jeruſalem, and there ended his Days.

John Johnſton, in his Hiſtorical Inſcriptions of the Scottiſh Kings, makes the Place of this King's Burial uncertain: But from Lib. Monaſterii de Walley, in Com. Lanc. it appears, that he was interred among the Carthuſians, in the Priory of Sheen, at Richmond, from the Teſtimony of one who ſaw his Sepulchre there the ſame Year of his Death. And Wever ſays, this was, no doubt, the Place of his Burial (notwithſtanding what the Scottiſh Authors ſay.)

THERE are theſe Monuments in St. Michael's Wood-ſtreet Church, ſince the Fire:

Againſt the North Wall, two Monuments for the Harveys.

OTHER antient Monuments of the Harveys, ſet up for William Harvey, and Robert, and their Wives, ſtill remain, or are renewed ſince the firing of this Church.

NUMBER of Houſes 93.

MENTION is made in divers Records, of a Houſe in Wood-ſtreet, then called Black-hall; but no Man, at this Day, call tell in what Part.

IN the Time of King Richard II, Sir Henry Percy, the Son and Heir of Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland, had a Houſe in Wood-ſtreet in London, (whether this Black-hall or no, it is hard to trace) wherein he treated King Richard, the Duke of Lancaſter, the Duke of York, the Earl Marſhal, and his Father, the Earl of Northumberland, with others at Supper.

ON the North Side of this St. Michael's Church, is Maiden-lane, now ſo called; but (of old Time) Ingene-lane, or Inglane. In this Lane, the Wax-chandlers have their Common Hall on the South Side thereof, which is a handſome, tho' not ſpacious Building: And on the North Side, at Stayning-lane End, the Haberdaſhers have their Hall. It is a good Brick Building, particularly that Room called the Hall, is very neat and lofty, paved with Marble and Purbeck, wainſcotted about 12 Feet high, and the Screen at the Weſt End, where are two arched Apertures, is adorned with Pilaſters of the Corinthian Order, with Enrichments; and round the Hall are ſeveral Coats of Arms, as the King's, thoſe of LONDON, this Company's, and others. The Company of the Haberdaſhers, or Hurrers, of old Time ſo called, were incorporated a Brotherhood of St. Catharine, the 26th of Henry VI, and ſo confirmed by Henry VII, the 17th of his Reign; the Cappers and Hat-makers, or Hurrers, being one Company of Haberdaſhers.

Waxchandlers-hall.

Haberdaſhers-hall.

DOWN lower, in Wood-ſtreet, is Silver-ſtreet, in which are divers good Houſes.

AND, on the North Side thereof, is Monkſ-well-ſtreet, ſo called from a Well at the North End thereof; where the Abbot of Garendon had an Houſe or Cell, called St. James in the Wall, by Cripplegate, and certain Monks of their Houſe, were the Chaplains there. Wherefore the Well (belonging to that Cell or Hermitage) was called Monks-well, and the Street, from the Well, Monks-well-ſtreet.

Barber-Surgeons-hall.

IN this Street, on the Weſt Side, is the Barber-Surgeons-Hall, a magnificent Building, conſiſting of a ſpacious Hall, a Court-Room, a Theatre, Library, and other commodious Offices. The grand Entrance, from Monks-well-ſtreet, is enriched with the Company's Arms, Cartouches, large Fruit, &c. The Court-Room is adorned with a Fret-work Cieling, and the Pictures of King Henry VIII, and the Court of Aſſiſtants, in one fine Piece; the Pictures of K. Charles II, Sir Charles Scarborough, and Alderman Arris, who gave the Muſcle-Lecture, Dr. Grew, Reader of Anatomy, and Mr. Liſle, Barber to King Charles II. The Theatre contains four Degrees of Cedar Seats, one above another in elliptical Form, adorned with the Figures of the Seven Liberal Sciences, the twelve Signs of the Zodiac, and the Skeleton of an Oſtrich, put up by Dr. Hobbes 1682, with a Buſto of K. Charles I; two human Skins on wooden Frames, of a Man and a Woman, in Imitation of Adam and Eve, put up in 1645; a Mummy's Skull, given by Mr. Loveday 1655; the Skeleton of Etherton, with Copper Joints, (he was executed) given by Mr. Knowles in 1693; the Figure of a Man flea'd, where all the Muſcles appear in due Place and Proportion, done after the Life; the Skeletons of Cambery Beſs and Country Tom, (as they there call them) 1638; and three other Skeletons of human Bodies. The Roof of this Theatre is an elliptical Cupola. Here is alſo a Library, which is open on Tueſdays and Thurſdays.

THERE are two publick and two private Lectures annually in this Theatre, upon the Bodies of executed Malefactors.

THE Eaſt Side of this Street, down againſt London-wall, and the South Side thereof to Cripplegate, are of Cripplegate Ward, as is afore ſhewed.

IN this Street, by the Corner of Monks-well-ſtreet, is the Bowyers Hall. Bowyers-hall.

ON the Eaſt Side of Monks-well-ſtreet, are Alms-houſes, Twelve in Number, founded by Sir Ambroſe Nicholas, Salter, Mayor, 1575. Wherein he placed twelve poor and aged People Rent-free, having each of them Seven Pence a Week, and once a Year, each of them five Sacks of Charcoal, and one Quarter of a Hundred of Faggots, of his Gift for ever.

ON the North Side of the Way, turning towards Cripplegate, and even upon, or cloſe to London-wall as it were, are certain new erected Alms-houſes, ſix in Number, of the Coſt and Gift of Mr. Robert Rogers, Leather-ſeller; and very good Maintenance allowed, for ever, to ſuch People as are appointed to dwell in them.

THEY ſtand in Hart-ſtreet, and are for ſix antient Couple, with a Room below, and another above, for each. The Founder, and the Qualifications of ſuch as are admitted, will appear in the Inſcription on the ſaid Houſe, viz.

THE Gift of Robert Rogers, Merchant-Adventurer, and free of the Leather-ſellers Company. Who, among other good Deeds, gave 600 l. to build and lay out upon theſe Alms-houſes, for the Relief of ſuch ſix aged Couples, being Freemen and Freewomen, as have no Charge of Children. He died in the Year 1601. Erected Anno Dom. 1612.

IT is in the Diſpoſal of the City. Each receive 4 l. a Year.

THEN in Little Wood-ſtreet were ſeven Chambers in an Alley on the Weſt Side, founded for ſeven poor People, therein to dwell Rent-free; by Henry Barton, Skinner, Mayor, 1416.

THUS much for the Monuments of this Ward within the Walls.

The PARISH of St. GILES CRIPPLEGATE.

ST. Giles (to whom this Church, and one in the Out-Pariſhes in Middleſex call'd St. Giles in the Fields are dedicated) was born at Athens in Greece, of a Royal Progeny; his Father's Name was Theodorus, and his Mother Pelagia. He was of a ſingular Charity, and gave much to the Poor. After his Parents Death, who left him a plentiful Eſtate, he diſtributed his Patrimony among the Poor. He gave away the very Coat from his Back, to cover a poor ſick Man, who, ſo ſoon as he put it on, was perfectly well. From his Infancy he was ſo addicted to Divine Learning, and to Charity, that he ſeemed to have care of nothing elſe.

HE went into France to Cæſareus, Biſhop of Arles in Provence, where having ſtaid about two Years with the Biſhop, and having a Deſire to live more ſolitary from the Pleaſures of the World, and Concourſe of People, he privily departed thence into a Wilderneſs, where he obſcured himſelf in a horrid Cave, unto which Place Charles Martel, King of France (as my Author calls him) following his Hounds in Hunting, purſuing an Hind, accidentally came; which Hind gave Milk to nouriſh this Giles, and flying from the Hounds for Succour to the Cave, the Hounds, by the Prayers of Giles, were not able to purſue her further than a Stone's Caſt from the Cave, but there making a Stand, return'd howling howling to the Hunters; which being reported to Charles, he, with his Retinue, came in Perſon to the Cave, where Charles finding this Giles, and wondering to ſee ſo grave and holy Man in ſuch an uncouth Place, demanded of Giles what he was, and what he did there? who anſwered, That he hid himſelf there for Religion, and for Piety's ſake. Upon which Anſwer and Conference with him, admiring his Sanctity, he took ſuch an Affection to him, that this Charles Martel cauſed a Monaſtery to be erected in that Place, with much Intreaty for Giles's Conſent; over which, not without great Importunity, he made this Giles the Governor, or Abbot, who was very unwilling to accept thereof. This was at the City of Niſmes, near to Roan, ſays Radulph Ceſtrenſis (Lib. 5. Chap. 28.) This Relation is alſo written by Peter de Natalibus in Catal. Sanctorum, and others.

BESIDES Theology, this Giles profeſſed Phyſick, and wrote in Verſe de Paralyſi. He died in his Abbey at Niſmes, as ſome write, Anno Chriſti 700, and was afterwards canonized for a Saint.

THERE is a Church in Rome dedicated to St. Giles, which, on his Feſtival, is much frequented by Women for the Help of this Holy Abbot Giles: For they are confident, that St. Giles having been nouriſhed by the Milk of an Hind, can help ſuch as have Fevers, or which are in Danger of Child-Birth, or want Milk, or are Barren. So (Mirabilia Romæ, Edit. 1618. P. 38.)

HIS Feſtival is commonly celebrated Sept. 1. The Date of this Church's Foundation is very antient: It is ſaid to be built by Alfune, Biſhop of LONDON, about the Year of our Lord 1030, before the Reign of William the Conqueror, and though it was demoliſhed by Fire, in the Year 1545, yet it providentially had not the ſame Fate by the Flames in 1666, when many of its neighbour Churches ſuffered ſo much. The South Gallery was built at the Charge of William Worral, Anno 1682, and the Church was adorned and beautified at the latter End of the Year 1704, the new Altar-Piece, Pulpit and Pews (hereafter deſcribed) being then put up at the Pariſh Charge.

IT is built of old Stone, Boulder, and ſome Brick, finiſhed over. The Church is ſpacious, and (within) pleaſant. The Pillars, Arches, and Windows are Gothick, and the Columns ſupporting the Organ-Gallery are of the Tuſcan Order.

THE Roof of the Church is flat; that Part over the Middle Iſle is neatly cieled with Timber; that Part over the Altar is painted nebulous, and another Part between the two former is painted in Pannels, or Quadrangles, of white and veined Marble.

IT has handſome Boleſtion-Work Galleries on the North Weſt and South Sides. It is well pewed with Oak, and wainſcotted ſeven Feet high.

THE Pulpit is of fine Wainſcot, neatly carved and finniered, adorned with an Entablature and Pediments, and having Enrichments of Vaſes, Cherubims, Palm-Branches, Fruit, &c. done in Relievo.

AND the Font ſtands at the Weſt End of the Church, directly ſo from the Communion-Table; it is fine, blue, veined Marble, enriched with Cherubims, and has a Wainſcot Cover, of the Corinthian Order, adorned with Columns and Entablature; which Font is placed in the Centre of a Quadrangle, formed by Rail and Balliſter.

THE Altar-Piece is very ornamental, being as the Pews and Pulpit, of right Oak; it is finely carved, being adorned with ſix Pilaſters and Entablaments of the Corinthian Order. The Intercolumns, are the Commandments done in Gold Letters on Black; and the Lord's Prayer and Creed, are in Black, on Gold. Between the Arches of the Tables of the Commandments, and under the Cornice is a Pelican, with her Wings diſplayed, and feeding her Young with her own Blood: And above that is, God ſpake theſe Words. Over the Lord's Prayer are the Words, When ye pray, ſay; and over the other, The Apoſtle's Creed, in large Characters. And on Pediments over theſe, are Moſes and Aaron; the firſt holding a Rod, the ſecond an Incenſe-Pot.

AND on Acroters upon the Cornice, are ſeven Golden Candleſticks, with flaming Tapers; and in the Centre is a Book diſplayed, above which is a Cuſhion and Mitre, ſupported by two Cupids. Here is alſo painted a Crimſon-Velvet Feſtoon Curtain, edged with Gold Fringe.

THE carved Work has curious Enrichments, and the Foot-Pace of the Communion-Table is paved with fine poliſhed Black and White Marble, fenced and adorned with Rail and Balliſter; and on the Roof over this, is a very ſpacious Glory, gilt with Gold, whoſe Rays dart through the Clouds at a great Diſtance.

FRONTING Weſtward, between the Chancel and the Nave of the Church, are the King's Arms painted, within a carved Frame, having Enrichments gilt with Gold.

THE Dimenſions of the Church are, Length 114 Feet, Breadth 63, Heigth 42, and the Altitude of the Steeple (conſiſting of a Tower and Turret) is 122 Feet, wherein are 10 Bells to ring in Peal.

On a handſome Monument by the other :

A Remembrance of Thomas Busbie, Citizen and Cooper of LONDON, who departed this Life in the Year 1575, and was buried the 11th Day of July.

This Busbie, willing to relieve the poore,
With Fire, and with Bread,
Did give the Houſe wherein he dwelt,
Then called the Queene's Head.
Four full Loads of the beſt Charcoales
He would have bought each Yeere,
And forty dozen of Wheaten Bread,
For poore Houſeholders here.
To ſee theſe Things diſtributed,
This Busbie put in Truſt
The Vicar and Church-Wardens,
Thinking them to be juſt.
God grant that poore Houſeholders here,
May thankfull be for ſuch ;
So God will move the Minds of more,
To do for them as much :
And let this good Example move
Such Men as God hath bleſt,
To doe the like before they goe,
With Busbie to their Reſt.
Within this Chappel, Busbie's Bones,
In Duſt a while muſt ſtay,
'Till he that made them, raiſe them up,
To live with Chriſt for aye.

ON an engraven Plate fixed in the Wall:

A Remembrance of Maſter Richard Roper, &c.

If you on Earth that live, did know
What Reſt the Dead poſſeſſe,
You would not wiſh to wander here,
In Vale of Wretchedneſſe.
Good Helen, Wife to me that was,
Prepare thyſelfe with Speed,
That Thou and I, with this young Maid,
A Plant of both our Seed,
May reſt in One, and riſe in Three,
By Power of Godheads Might,
When we with Angels ſhall aſſemble,
To everlaſting Light.

ON a handſome Monument in the Wall beneath the Choir:

If Langley's Life you liſt to know,
Read on, and take a View,
Of Faith and Hope I will not ſpeake,
His Workes ſhall ſhew them true:
Who whilſt he liv'd, with Counſell grave,
The better Sort did guide,
A Stay to Weake, a Staffe to Poore,
Without Back-bite or Pride:
And when he dyed, he gave his Mite,
All that did him befall,
For ever (once a Yeere) to cloath
St. Giles his Poore withall.
All Saints he pointed for the Day,
Gownes twenty ready made,
With twenty Shirts, and twenty Smocks,
As they may beſt be had.
A Sermon eke he hath ordain'd,
That God may have his Praiſe,
And others might be won thereby,
To follow Langley's Wayes.
On Vicar and Church-Wardens then,
His Truſt he hath repos'd,
As they will anſwer him one Day.
When all ſhall be diſclos'd.
Thus being dead, yet ſtill he lives,
Lives, never for to dye,
In Heaven's Bliſſe, in the World's Fame;
And ſo I truſt ſhall I.

Buried the 6th of June, Anno 1616.

The Bearer's Sorrow, ſable Lions ſhow,
Like to that Lion which did overthrow
The Man of God; and charg'd alike, do ſtand,
Grand Guardants here to check the upheav'd Hand,
Unweeting Wights, or ignorant ſhall lay
Upon her hallow'd Corps, that here did pray.
A ſacred Temple 'twas wherein did ſhine
Her Maker's Glory, human and divine.
Sweet Commerce, ſanctify'd with Zeal, mov'd there,
In Beauty's Fabric, its own proper Sphere,
For which it tow'rs above the Sight of Eye,
God's Temples muſt ly low, that tower ſo high.

UNDER it are two Hands joined, one out of a Cloud, the other out of a Globe; theſe Words;

'Till then farewell.

Above Mr. Fox's, on the South Side of the Choir, is a very ſpacious fine White Marble Monument, adorned with Entablature, a Pediment, the Figure of a young Woman riſing from a Black Coffin, with her Winding-Sheet about her (as an Emblem of the Reſurrection) and two Cherubs; one offering her a Crown, the other a Chaplet, with the following Inſcription, partly on the Side of the Coffin, the reſt under it:

To the Memory

Of Conſtance Whitney, eldeſt Daughter to Sir Rob. Whitney, of Whitney; the proper Poſſeſſion of him and his Anceſtors, in Herefordſhire, for above 500 Yeeres paſt. Her Mother was the fourth Daughter of Sir Tho. Lucy, of Charlecote in Warwickſhire, by Conſtance Kingſmell, Daughter and Heire of Richard Kingſmell, Surveyor of the Court of Wards. This Lady Lucy, her Grandmother, ſo bred her ſince ſhe was eight Yeeres old.

As ſhe excelled in all noble Qualities becoming a Virgin of ſo ſweet Proportion of Beauty, and Harmony of Parts, ſhe had all Sweetneſſe of Manners anſwerable:

A delightfull Sharpneſſe of Wit;

An offenceleſſe Modeſty of Converſation;

A ſingular Reſpect and Piety to her Parents; but Religious even to Example.

She departed this Life moſt Chriſtianly, at Seventeen, dying the Grief of all, but to her Grandmother an unrecoverable Loſs, ſave in her Expectation, ſhe ſhall not ſtay long after her, and the Comfort of knowing who ſhe is, and where, in the Reſurrection, to meet her.

Here is no Date to this Monument, but it is probably very old, and is that, which from the Figure of the Lady riſing out of a Coffin, has occaſioned many fabulous Relations of a Woman buried here, who was afterwards, when the Sexton came to rob her Corpſe of a Ring, taken up alive, and became the Mother of ſeveral Children; beſides it is plain, not only from the Inſcription, but the Arms over it, that ſhe died a ſingle Woman.

The Arms are: Sable, a Croſs Chequey, Or and Gules, born in a Lozenge.

At the North Eaſt Angle of the Chancel, is a ſmall white Marble Monument, with this Inſcription:

Here lies Margaret Lucy, the ſecond Daughter of Sir Thomas Lucy of Charlecot, in the County of Warwick, (the Third by immediate Deſcent of the Name of Thomas) by Alice, ſole Daughter and Heir of Thomas Spenſer, of Clarendon, in the ſame County, Eſq; and Cuſtos Brevium of the Court of Common-Pleas at Weſtminſter; who departed this Life the 18th of November, 1634, and about the 19th Year of her Age.

For Diſcretion and Sweetneſs of Converſation, not many excelled, and for Piety and Patience in her Sickneſs and Death, few equalled her. Which is the Comfort of her neereſt Friends; to every of whom ſhe was dear, but eſpecially to her old Grandmother, the Lady Conſtance Lucy; under whoſe Government ſhe died. Who having long expected, every Day, to have gone before her, doth now truſt by Faith and Hope in the precious Blood of Chriſt Jeſus, ſhortly to follow after; and be made Partaker, together with her and others, of the unſpeakable and eternal Joys in his bleſſed Kingdom. To whom be all Honour, and Laud, and Praiſe, now and ever, Amen.

With her four little Saints, where now they ſing

NUMBER of Houſes, 1800.

THIS Pariſh was much larger, but hath lately had another taken out of it, call'd St. Luke, in Middleſex, of which we ſhall ſpeak in another Place.

THERE was in Cripplegate Church, of old Time, a Fraternity or Brotherhood of our bleſſed Lady, or Corpus Chriſti, and St. Giles; founded by John Bellancer, in the Reign of King Edward III, the 35th Year of his Reign.

SOME ſmall Diſtance from the Eaſt End of this Church was a Water-Conduit, brought in Pipes of Lead from Highbery, by John Middleton, one of the Executors to Sir William Eaſtfield. The Inhabitants adjoining caſtellated it at their own Coſts and Charges, about the Year 1483.

AT a Common-Council afterwards held, it was agreed, That the Chamberlain ſhould, at the Coſts of the Chamber, cauſe the common Well and Spring at St. Giles's, to be cover'd with a Houſe of Brick.

THERE was alſo a Boſs of clear Water, in the Wall of the Church-Yard, made at the Charges of Richard Whitington, ſometimes Mayor, and was like to that of Billingſgate. The ſame was afterwards turned into a Pump, and ſo quite decayed.

THERE was alſo a Pool of clear Water, near the Parſonage on the Weſt Side thereof; which was filled up in the Reign of Henry VI. The Spring was cooped in, and arched over with hard Stone; and Stairs of Stone to go down to the Spring, on the Bank of the Town-Ditch. And this was alſo done of the Goods, and by the Executors of Richard Whitington.

IN Whitecroſs-ſtreet, King Henry V. built one fair Houſe; and founded there a Brotherhood of St. Giles, to be kept. Which Houſe had ſome Time been an Hoſpital of the French Order, by the Name of St. Giles without Cripplegate, in the Reign of Edward I. The King having the Juriſdiction, and appointing a Cuſtos thereof, for the Precinct of St. Giles, &c. Which Hoſpital being ſuppreſſed, the Lands were given to the Brotherhood, for Relief of the Poor.

IN this Street was a White Croſs, and near it was built an Arch of Stone, under which ran a Courſe of Water down to the Moor, called now Moorfields. Which being too narrow for the free Courſe of the Water, and ſo an Annoyance to the Inhabitants, the 12 Men preſented it at an Inquiſition of the King's Juſtices, 3 Edw. I. And they preſented the Abbot of Ramſey, and the Prior of St. Trinity; whoſe Predeceſſors, ſix Years paſt, had built (as the Inquiſition ran) a certain Stone Arch at White Croſs, in the Ward of Cripplegate; beyond the Courſe of a certain Water coming down from Smethfeld del Barbican, in that Ward, towards the Moor. Which Arch the aforeſaid Abbot and Prior, and their Succeſſors, ought to maintain and repair: And which was ſo ſtrait, that the Water there could not have its full Courſe, to the Annoyance of the Inhabitants. Hereupon it was commanded the Sheriffs, to diſtrain the ſaid Abbot and Convent to mend the ſaid Arch.

ONE Alley, of divers Tenements, over-againſt the North Wall of St. Giles's Church-Yard, was appointed to be Alms-Houſes for the Poor, wherein they dwelt Rent-Free, and otherwiſe were relieved: But the ſaid Brotherhood was ſuppreſſed by Henry VIII. Since which Time, Sir John Greſham, Mayor, purchaſed the Lands thereof, and gave it to the Maintenance of a Free-School; which he had founded at Holt, a Market-Town in Norfolk.

IN Redcroſs-ſtreet, on the Weſt Side from St. Giles's Church-Yard, up to the Croſs, were many good Houſes, built outward, with divers Alleys, turning into a large Plat of Ground, of old Time called the Jews Garden; as being the only Place appointed them in England, wherein to bury their Dead; 'till the Year 1177, the 24th of Henry II. that it was permitted them (after long Suit to the King and Parliament at Oxford) to have ſpecial Place aſſigned them in every Quarter where they dwelt.

Tenementum & Terras, ſitüat. in Parochia Sti. Bothi. extra Aldrichgate, int. Tenement. nuper Rici. Odiham ex parte Auſtrali, ac Gardinum vocat. Jewyn Garden ex parte orien.

THE Plat Ground remained to the ſaid Jews, 'till the Time of their final Baniſhment out of England, and was afterwards turned into fair Garden Plats, and Summer Houſes for Pleaſure.

IT is now called Jewen-ſtreet, being a continued Street of Houſes on each Side of the Way, and leads into Alderſgate-ſtreet. This Place, with the Appurtenances, was antiently called Leyreſtowe; which King Edw. I. granted to William de Monte Forte, Dean of St. Paul's, LONDON. Being a Place (as it is expreſſed in a Record) without Cripplegate, and the Suburbs of LONDON, called Leyreſtowe: And which was the burying Place of the Jews of LONDON; which was valued at 40 s. per Annum.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Redcroſs-ſtreet is Beech-lane, perhaps ſo called of Nicholas de la Beech, Lieutenant of the Tower of LONDON, put out of that Office in the 13th of Edward III. This Lane ſtretches from Redcroſs-ſtreet to Whitecroſs-ſtreet, and is repleniſhed, not with Beech Trees, but with ordinary Houſes of Brick and Timber; amongſt which was (of old Time) a great Houſe, belonging to the Abbot of Ramſey, for his Lodging, when he repaired to the City.

ON the North Side of this Beech-lane, towards Whitecroſs-ſtreet, the Drapers of LONDON built eight Alms-Houſes of Brick and Timber, for eight poor Widows of their own Company, whom they placed there Rent-Free, according to the Gift of the Lady Askew, Widow to Sir Chriſtopher Askew, ſome Time Draper, and Mayor, 1533.

THEN in Golden-lane, Richard Gallard, of Iſlington, Eſq; Citizen and Painter-Stainer of LONDON, founded 13 Alms-Houſes for ſo many poor People placed in them Rent-Free. He gave to the Poor of the ſame Alms-Houſes, 2 d. a-piece, weekly; and a Load of Charcoal amongſt them, yearly, for ever. He left Lands about Iſlington, to maintain his Foundation.

ON the Weſt Side of Redcroſs-ſtreet, is a Street called Barbican; becauſe, ſome Time, there ſtood on the North Side thereof a Burghkenning, or Watch Tower of the City; called in ſome Language, a Barbican, as a Bikening is called a Beacon. This Burghkenning, by the Name of the Manor of Baſe-court, was given by Edward III. to Robert Ufford, Earl of Suffolk; and was after that pertaining to Peregrine Bertie, Lord Willoughby of Eresby.

THIS Barbican, and ſome Land about it, belonged to the Crown, in Edward I's Time. For in an Inquiſition made 3 Edward I, concerning Purpreſtures in the City, one Thomas Juvenal, about 12 Years before, appropriated to himſelf of the King's Soil, without Le Barbeken, a certain Place, containing 40 Feet in Length, and four Feet in Breadth, and incloſed the ſame Place with an Earth Wall: And Nicholas Brabanzoun then held it. Upon this Preſentment made by the Jurats, the King's Juſtices commanded the Sheriffs of LONDON to ſummon him the ſaid Nicholas; who ſaid, That he had nothing to do with, nor laid any Claim to the ſaid Purpreſture; but that he was Tenant to Thomas Fitz Simon de Burgh. He, the ſaid Thomas, came and prayed, that he might rent the ſame of the King, for 3 d. per Ann. which was granted, becauſe the 12 ſworn Men witneſſed, that the ſaid Incloſure was no Annoyance. And it was adjudged, that the King might recover the Arrearages of the ſaid Purpreſture, viz. 3 s. but no Forfeiture, becauſe it was of the ſaid Thomas's doing.

NEXT adjoining to this, was another great Houſe, called Garter-Houſe, or Place. Some Time built by Sir Thomas Writhe, or Writheſley, Knt. alias Garter, Principal King of Arms, ſecond Son of Sir John Writhe, Knt. alias Garter, and was Uncle to the firſt Thomas, Earl of Southampton, Knight of the Garter, and Chancellor of England. He built this Houſe, and in the Top thereof, a Chapel, which he dedicated by the Name of St. Trinitatis in Alto.

THIS

THUS much for that Part of Cripplegate Ward without the Wall, whereof more hereafter.

NOW we proceed to give an Account of the preſent State of this Ward.

THE Part of this Ward within the Wall, by which it is ſevered from that without, contains ſeveral Streets and Lanes, ſome in Whole, others in Part, viz. Milk-ſtreet, on both Sides, and the greater Part of Honey-lane Market; Cateaton-ſtreet, ſo far as to St. Laurence's Church, Lad-lane, Aldermanbury, Love-lane, Addle-ſtreet, London-wall-ſtreet, from Little Wood-ſtreet to beyond the Poſtern; Philip-lane, Great Wood-ſtreet; all about 70 Feet on the Weſt Side, towards Cheapſide; Little Wood-ſtreet, Hart-ſtreet, the South Side thereof; Monkſwell-ſtreet the Eaſt Side, Fell-ſtreet, Silver-ſtreet; Maiden-lane, the Eaſt Part thereof; Hugen-lane, Goldſmiths-ſtreet, the Whole, except 25 Feet on the Weſt Side; Gutter-lane, the Weſt Side from Maiden-lane, to over-againſt the End of Carey-ſtreet, on the Eaſt Side of the Way only; and Cheapſide, on the North Side, 170 Feet from the Corner of Wood-ſtreet, Eaſtward. In all which ſaid Places are ſeveral Courts and Places of Note.

AND of theſe Places in Order; and firſt, for thoſe within the Wall:

Milk-ſtreet comes out of Cheapſide, and falls into Lad-lane; this Street is well built and inhabited by Wholeſale Traders; and that Part that lies open to Honey-lane Market is the beſt.

Here in this Street, towards Cheapſide, ſtood the Pariſh Church of St. Magdalen's, Milk-ſtreet. It was deſtroyed in the dreadful Fire of LONDON, and not rebuilt; but the Pariſh is united to St. Laurence Jewry, and the Ground converted into the Market.

THE Courts and Alleys in this Street are, Caſtle-tavern-court, ſo called from the Caſtle Tavern therein ſeated. It hath a narrow Paſſage into Wood-ſtreet. Feathers-court, long and open, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Robin-hood-alley, has a Paſſage into Honey-lane Market. Crown-court, but ſmall. Mumford's-court, a large Place, well built, with a Free-Stone Pavement. About the Middle is a Paſſage into Caſtle-court, or Alley; which is likewiſe long, falling into St. Laurence-lane, and well inhabited. Clement-court, a handſome open Place, with good Houſes, and has a Paſſage up Steps into Fryars-court, which leads into Wood-ſtreet.

Cateaton-ſtreet, has but a ſmall Part in this Ward, viz. from the Corner of Aldermanbury to St. Laurence Jewry Church; the reſt is in Cheap Ward, and is a Street of good Trade.

Lad-lane lies betwixt Wood-ſtreet in the Weſt, and Milk-ſtreet and Aldermanbury in the Eaſt. It is likewiſe a Street of good Trade, and well inhabited. Here is the Swan Inn with two Necks; which is large, and of a conſiderable Trade for Northern Carriers. More towards Wood-ſtreet, are two ſmall Courts, or Alleys, but without Name.

Aldermanbury, an handſome Street, graced with good Buildings, which are well inhabited by Merchants Wholeſale Dealers, &c.

IN this Street are theſe Courts, viz. Fountain-court, on the Eaſt Side, a large ſquare Place, well inhabited and built; has a Paſſage into St. Laurence Church-alley, which leads into Cateaton-ſtreet; as alſo to Guildhall-court, or Yard. This Court was built out of a large Houſe, formerly the Seat of Sir Eraſmus de la Fountaine, Knt. deceaſed.

Dyer's-court, large, and well inhabited by Perſons of Repute, having an open Entrance for Coach or Cart. Carpenter's-court, a handſome Place, with a Free-Stone Pavement, well inhabited.

St. Mary Aldermanbury Church, a large Building, with a good Front; adjoining to which is a neat Church-Yard, adorned with Trees, within Side of the Wall, and a handſome Pair of Iron-Grates; on the Top of which is a ſmall Image of the Bleſſed Virgin, gilt with Gold.

NEAR unto this Church, on the South Side, is a handſome Conduit, built Tower-wiſe; and on the North Side is Hadley's-court, but ſmall, with a Free-Stone Pavement. Church-alley has a Paſſage into Baſinghall-ſtreet, by the Church. Axe Inn has a good Trade. George Inn is large, chiefly for Stabling and Coaches. Miller's-court, indifferent large, but with a narrow Paſſage.

Love-lane comes out of Aldermanbury, and falls into Wood-ſtreet, by St. Alban's Wood-ſtreet Church, where it divides, and one Part incompaſſes the Church, except the Front in Wood-ſtreet. In this Lane is Berry-court, which is handſome, and well built.

Addle-ſtreet, which alſo lies betwixt Aldermanbury and Wood-ſtreet, is yet much inhabited by Joiners, for the making of Bed-ſteds, Cheſts of Drawers, Scrutores, Tables, and ſuch like Joinery Wares. Here is the Plaiſterers Hall, a handſome Building. Not far from this Hall, and on the ſame Side of the Way, is Brewers Hall, which is a large and handſome Building, with a graceful Entrance into a large Court; the Pavement of Free-Stone, cloiſtered, and the Building over it ſuſtained by handſome Pillars.

London-wall is a long Street, coming out of Little Wood-ſtreet, by Cripplegate, and runs Eaſtward as far as Wincheſter-ſtreet, but goes no further in this Ward, than the Checquer Inn, which is a little beyond Coleman-ſtreet. This Street is but of little Trade, and chiefly for Curriers, and the Buildings old and ordinary; the North Side having only the City Wall, which gives a Paſſage into Moorfields, and the Parts adjacent by Moorgate, and two Poſterns, on each Side of the Gate one. The Places of Name in that Part of this Street within this Ward, are Checquer Inn, Fox and Gooſe Inn, Catharine Wheel Inn; all three of ſmall Account, only for Stablings.

St. Alphage Church, very old, ſeated over-againſt London-wall, and in the Street, at the upper End of Aldermanbury, called Giltſpur-ſtreet. This Church was not burnt in the late Fire of LONDON.

NEAR to this Church, ſomewhat more Weſtward over-againſt London-wall, is ſeated Sion College, a handſome Building, erected for the Clergy of this City and Liberties, where there is a conſiderable Library of excellent Books for their Uſe, and a long Library Room to keep them in, one Story high. Having underneath it 20 Rooms or Chambers, for ſo many poor People; of which, ten within the College are for ſo many Men; and ten without, which have their Doors in Philip-lane, for ſo many poor Women. But of this College, Notice hath been taken already.

MORE Weſtward of this College, is Philip-lane, which goes from London-wall, and falls into Addle-ſtreet, a Place indifferently built and inhabited. Alderſgate Ward.

THE next is Alderſgate Ward, which takes its Name from that North Gate of the City: This Ward alſo conſiſts of divers Streets and Lanes, lying as well within the Gate and Wall, as without: And firſt, to ſpeak of that Part within the Gate. The Eaſt Part thereof joins unto the Weſt Part of Cripplegate Ward, in Engain-lane, or Maiden-lane. It begins on the North Side of that Lane, at Staining-lane End, and runs up that Lane from Haberdaſhers Hall, to where St. Mary Staining Church ſtood; and by thence Eaſt, winding almoſt to Wood-ſtreet, and Weſt through Oat-lane, and then by the South Side of Bacon-houſe to Noble-ſtreet, and back again by Lillypot-lane, (which is alſo of that Ward) to Maiden-lane; ſo on that North Side, Weſt to where St. John Zachary's Church ſtood, and to Foſter-lane.

NOW on the South Side of Engain-lane, or Maiden-lane, is the Weſt Side of Gutter-lane, to Carey-lane; and Carey-lane itſelf (which is of this Ward) and back again into Engain-lane, by the North Side of Goldſmiths Hall, to Foſter-lane; and this is the Eaſt Wing of this Ward. Then is Foſter-lane, almoſt wholly in this Ward, and begins in the South toward Cheapſide, on the Eaſt, by the North Side of St. Foſter's Church; and runs down North Weſt by the Weſt End of Maiden-lane, by Lillypot-lane and Oat-lane, to Noble-ſtreet; and through that by Shelly-Houſe, (of old Time ſo called, as belonging to the Shellies.) For Sir Thomas Shelly, Knt. was Owner thereof in the 1ſt of Henry IV. It was afterwards called Bacon-houſe, becauſe the ſame was new built by Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal. Then down on that Side, to where St. Olave's Church ſtood in Silver-ſtreet, which was by the North Weſt End of Noble-ſtreet.

THEN again in Foſter-lane, this Ward begins on the Weſt Side thereof, over-againſt the South Weſt Corner of St. Foſter's Church, and runs down by where St. Leonard's Church ſtood, by Pope-lane End, and by St. Anne's-lane End; which Lane is alſo of this Ward.

THEN is the main Street of the Ward, which is called St. Martin's, and which includes St. Martin on the Eaſt Side thereof, and ſo down on both Sides to Alderſgate; and theſe are the Bounds of this Ward within the Wall and Gate.

OF the Gate we have already ſpoken in Book I. Chap. IV.

WITHOUT the Gate, the main Street, called Alderſgate-ſtreet, runs up North, on the Eaſt Side, to the Weſt End of Hounſditch, or Barbican-ſtreet; a Part of which Street is alſo of this Ward. And on the Weſt Side of Long-lane, a Part whereof is likewiſe of this Ward. Beyond which Alderſgate-ſtreet, is Goſwel-ſtreet up to the Bars.

AND on this Weſt Side of Alderſgate-ſtreet, by St. Botolph's Church, is Little-Britain, or Briton-ſtreet, as it was antiently called, which runs Weſt to the Pump, and then North to the Gate, which enters the Church-Yard, ſome Time pertaining to the Priory of St. Bartholomew, on the Eaſt Side: And on the Weſt Side, towards St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, to two Poſts there fixed; and theſe are the Bounds of this Alderſgate Ward Without.

THE Antiquities are theſe: Firſt, in Staining-lane, of old Time ſo called, as may be ſuppoſed, of Painters-Stainers dwelling there.

ON the Eaſt Side thereof, adjoining to Haberdaſhers Hall, are 10 Alms-Houſes, pertaining to the Haberdaſhers, wherein are placed 10 Alms-People of that Company; every one of them having 8 d. a-piece, every Friday, for ever, by the Gift of Thomas Huntlow, Haberdaſher, one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1539.

And Sir George Burton gave them 10 l. a Year for ever.

Marble nor Touch,
Nor Alabaſter can Reveale the Worth of
The long buried Man:
For oft (we ſee) Mens Goods,
When they are gone,
Do pious Deeds, when
They themſelves did none.
Mine (while I liv'd) my Goodneſſe did expreſſe,
'Tis not Inſcriptions make
Then more or leſſe;
In Chriſt I hope to riſe
Amongſt the Juſt,
Man is but Graſs, all muſt
To Wormes and Duſt.

Vertue and Death being
Both enamoured
On worthy Pemberton,
In Heat of Love;
To be poſſeſt of
That each coveted,
Thus did they dialogue,
And thus they ſtrove:

Vertue. WHAT Vertue challengeth, is but her Right.
Death. What Death layes claime to,
Who can contradict?
Vert. Vertue, whoſe Power
Exceeds all other Might.
Death. Where's Vertue's Power,
When Death makes all ſubmit?
Vert. I gave him Life;
And therefore he is mine.
Death. That Life he held
No longer than I liſt.
Vert. I made him more than Mortall, meere Divine.
Death. How hapt he could not Then Death's Stroke reſiſt?
Vert. Becauſe (by Nature)
All are borne to dye.
Death. Then thine owne Tongue
Yeelds Death the Victory.
Vert. No, Death, thou art deceiv'd
Thy envious Stroke
Hath given him Life
Immortal, 'gainſt thy Will:
Death. What Life can be, but Vaniſheth as Smoake?
Vert. A Life that all thy Darts
Can never kill.
Death. Have I not lock'd his Body in my Grave?
Vert. That was but Duſt, and
That I pray thee keepe.
Death. That is as much
As I deſire to have,
His comely Shape in My eternal Sleepe.
Vert. But where's his honourable
Life, Renowne, and Fame?
Death. They are but Breath,
Them I reſigne to thee.
Vert. Them I moſt covet.
Death. I preferre my Claime,
His Body mine.
Vert. Mine his Eternity.

And ſo they ceaſt,
Death triumphs o'er his Grave,
Vertue o'er that which Death can never have.

And as fair Trophees,
Fit to beautifie
His Hearſe, Vertue hangs
Up theſe Ornaments:
His Juſtice, Wiſdome,
And Integritie,
His Courage, dreadleſſe
Of what e're Events,
His upright Soole
In that high Dignitie,
Which London gives
Her chiefeſt Preſidents.
Free from compare
With ſuch as went before,
Or ſhould ſucceed.
It was his ſole Deſire
Truth might report thoſe
Actions leſſe or more,
Which honeſt Thoughts
Did in his Heart inſpire.
His Care of Learning,
And his liberal Minde
Unto the Poore;
Love to his Company,
Kindred and Friends, to Whom he was moſt kinde,
And whom he dealt with Truly bounteouſly.
Theſe Graces better doe
Become his Grave,
Than waſteful Words
Of fruitleſſe Flattery;
And their due Merit
(Doubtleſſe) he ſhall have,
Among the Bleſſed
In Eternity
Whereto fair Vertue now
Hath brought her Son,
Worthily honour'd,
Sir James Pemberton.

ON the Eaſt Side of this Foſter-lane, at the End of Maiden-lane, is the Goldſmiths Hall, which, ſince the Fire of LONDON, is made a ſtately Structure of Brick and Stone, having in it ſeveral ſpacious Apartments and a noble Hall well finiſhed and wainſcotted: This Hall has, of late Years, been more uſed than any other for the Lord Mayors to keep their Mayoralties in; but Stow ſaith, in his Time, It was neat but not large, and "therefore to ſay, continues he, that Bar-
" tholomew Read, Goldſmith, Mayor in the " Year 1502, kept ſuch a Feaſt in this Hall, as " ſome have fabuled, is far incredible, and alto" gether impoſſible, conſidering the Smallneſs of " the Hall, and Number of the Gueſts; which,
" as they ſay, were more than 100 Perſons of great
" Eſtate. For the Meſſes and Diſhes of Meats
" to them ſerved, the paled Park in the ſame
" Hall, furniſhed with fruitful Trees, Beaſts of " Venery, and other Circumſtances of that pre" tended Feaſt well weighed, Weſtminſter-hall
" would hardly have ſufficed. And therefore I

" pal Goldſmiths.

" Firſt, I read, that Leafſtane, Goldſmith,

" ry I. Alſo, that Henry Fitz Alewin, Fitz
" Leafſtane, Goldſmith, was Mayor of LON-" DON in 1 Richard I, and continued Mayor
" 24 Years. Alſo, that Gregory Rockſly, chief
" Saymaker of all the King's Mints within Eng- " land, (and therefore, by my Conjecture, a " Goldſmith) was Mayor in 3 Edward I, and
" continued Mayor ſeven Years together. Then

" Goldſmith, Alderman of Farringdon Ward,
" four Times Mayor in the Reign of Edward II.

The PARISH of St. OLAVE in SILVER-STREET.

THEN at the North End of Noble-ſtreet was the ſmall Pariſh-Church of St. Olave in Silver-ſtreet.

THIS Church being greatly decayed and periſhed was, in the Year of our Lord 1609, new built, and enlarged in the Breadth, ſeven Feet and above. In the Year of our Lord 1619, it was again repaired and beautified: And in the Year 1632, enriched with a very handſome Gallery, with this Inſcription in the ſeveral Parts or Panes thus:

Deo Patri Filio Spiritui Sancto
Trino & uni Gloria in Æternum.

Richardus Turner, & Johannes Morrel hanc Porticum ſuis ſumptibus erexerunt.

IT was without any notable Monuments, but theſe following.

MONUMENTS.

ON a fair plated Stone in the Chancel was this Inſcription:

Here under this Stone lieth buried the Body of John Darcy, ſecond Son to John Lord Darcy, of Ehie, who died in Anno 1593, aged 33 Years.

ON another Stone near to it:

Here lieth Griſſeilde Windſore, Daughter of Henry Lord Windſore, and Lady Anne his Wife, Daughter and Heir of Sir Thomas Rivet, Knt. who departed this Life the ſeven and twentieth Day of June, and in the Year of our Lord God 1600.

A Remembrance of Maſter John Baneſter, Chirurgeon, and Licentiate in Phyſicke.

Great Men that ne'er did
Good in all their Days,
But at the very inſtant
Of their Death,
Finde yet no meane
Commenders of their Praiſe,
Although it laſts no longer than a Breath.
Shall then good Men,
Though leſſer in Degree,
Finde none to give Them Right and Equity?

So

If one ſhall ſay, the great Man's Life was ſuch,
So good, ſo full
Of Hoſpitality:
When God doth know,
He nee'r did half ſo much,
Though thus he muſt
Be grac'd with Flattery: Shall mean Men then who
Such Works truly did,
Be nothing ſpoken of?
Oh! God forbid.

Not then, as equalling
With any Great,
My fatherly good
Friend, John Baneſter:
No more but Truth of Thee let me repeate,
A Sonnes Love-teares,
Thy Body to interre.
That ſuch as knew thee
Better farre than I,
May ſay, Thy Virtues
Did not with thee dye.

Thy Skill and Practice,
That itſelf commends,
Some of the beſt have Truly found the ſame;
Nor partially employed
To wealthy Friends,
But even the pooreſt Wretch,
The Sick and Lame
Felt of the beſt. Some Difference there might be:
The Rich payd ſomewhat,
Poore Men had it free.

Thy Care and Coſt layd out
For common Good,
In greater Meaſure
Than came in againe:
But that Heaven's Bleſſing
With thy Bounty ſtood,
Hardly had ſtretcht
So many to ſuſtaine.
But it is true: The Liberal Heart God loves,
And from him ſtill all
Cauſe of Lacke removes.

Thy weekly Charity
Given to the Poore
In Bread, beſide, in Money from thy Purſe:
Even in the hardeſt Yeeres
Dealt at thy Doore,
When ſome repin'd that
Every Day did worſe;
Makes poor Men ſay,
Our good Reliefe is gone,
Let them goe to thy Find-faults, and have none,

Poor maymed Soldiers
Sore-ſick hearted Men,
That under Miſeries
Hard Crowch did bow,
Were freely cur'd, methinkes
They cry: Lord, When,
Where ſhall we finde
Our good Phyſician no
I doubt not, but ſome
Others will as much:
Yet (in theſe Dayes) we Find not many ſuch.

Sleepe then thou happy
Soule, in end'leſſe reſt,
All good Mens Groanes
Be powred on thy Grave:
Live thou in Abraham's
Boſome with the bleſt;
Where Faith and Workes
Due Recompence ſhall have.
My Sight growes dimme,
Sighing my Heart makes ſore,
Tears blot my Paper,
I can write no more.

The PARISH of St. ANNE Within ALDERSGATE.

THEN is St. Anne's-lane, formerly called Pope-lane, from one Pope, who was Owner thereof; on the North Side of which is St. Anne's Church, once called St. Anne in the Willows; upon what Occaſion, Stow ſays, he knows not; but, ſome have ſaid, from Willows growing thereabouts, but even in his Time there was no void Place for Willows to grow, more than in the Church-Yard.

St. Anne, to whoſe Memory this Church is dedicated, was Mother of the Virgin Mary. She was Daughter of Matthan, a Prieſt of Bethlehem, of the Tribe of Aaron. She was married to Joachim, and after 20 or 22 Years Barrenneſs, bore Mary the 8th of September, in the 739th Year of Rome. Some great Authors are of Opinion, that St. Anne had three Daughters by Joachim; others, with Gerſon, ſay, that ſhe had them by three ſeveral Husbands: This Opinion they confirm by St. John, xix. 25. mentioning, that the Mother of Jeſus, her Siſter Mary, Wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalen, ſtood near the Croſs; yet Baronius, and other modern Authors aſſert, that theſe pretended Daughters were Anne's Siſters; ſaying, that ſhe did not marry after ſhe bore the Virgin Mary; and anſwer the Words of St. John thus, That in Scripture near Kinsfolks are often termed Brothers and Siſters.

Haræus, in vitis Sanctorum, tells us, That Anne, the Mother of the bleſſed Virgin Mary, was rhe Daughter of Gazirus, of the Tribe of Juda, and born in the Town of Bethlehem; that ſhe was the Wife of Joachim, who was of the ſame Tribe, and a Galilean of the Town of Nazareth; that ſhe died on the 7th Kal. of Auguſt, (on which Day her Feſtival is celebrated) and was buried in Bethlehem, in the Sepulchre of her Father.

BUT after all theſe, Bayle ſays, this Anne is no where ſpoken of in the Scriptures, nor in the Writings of the three firſt Centuries, and that St. Epiphanius is the firſt who mentions her.

St. Anne's within Alderſgate.

THERE is a conſtant received Tradition in the Pariſh, that St. Anne and St. Agnes were Siſters, who firſt built this Church at their own Charge, whence it was denominated St. Anne and Agnes within Alderſgate.

WHEN the old Church was firſt founded is uncertain; but we read of it in about 1400; and Stow ſaith it was burnt accidentally by Fire in the Year 1548, as far as it was combuſtible. It was beautifully repaired in 1624, but being again burnt in the dreadful Fire of 1666, was re-erected and finiſhed in the Year 1680, and ſtands in a Church-yard planted with Lime Trees, that flouriſh there; ſo that, Strype ſays, as it was formerly called St. Anne in the Willows, it may now be named St. Anne in the Limes. It was beautified and repaired Anno Domini 1703.

TO this Pariſh, by Act of Parliament, 22, 23 Carol. II. was united that of St. John Zachary, already taken Notice of.

THE Church is ſquare, and the Roof is ſupported by four handſome Pillars of the Corinthian Order, which are poſited in a Geometrical Square from each other.

THE Ornament of the Roof conſiſts of four Arches of Fret-work, with Flowers, Fruit, Leaves, Cherubims, &c. at the four Angles the Roof is lower, and conſiſts of four Quadrangles, within each of which is a Circle formed by a Circumference of very rich Fret-work.

THE Church is well wainſcotted round with right Norway Oak, eight Feet and a half high. There is alſo a good Gallery at the Weſt End, with a beautiful Font, having Piedroits and Pannels of Bolection Work.

ALSO a handſome Pulpit finely carved. The Altar-piece is likewiſe of fine Wainſcot, conſiſting of two fluted Pilaſters, with their Architrave, Frieſe and Cornice; between the Pilaſters are the Commandments done in Gold on Black, and without the Pilaſters are the Lord's Prayer and Creed done in Black upon Gold; and to the North and South thereof are large Cartouches, and other Enrichments of Leaves, Flowers, &c. carved. Under the Commandments are Palm-Branches, and between the Arches of the Tables is a ſpacious gilt Seraphim, and a Facio-piece, whereon is the Word GOD done in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and Engliſh; and above this, upon the Cornice, is the King's Arms, with Supporters well carved within a Scrole Pediment, and two Lamps having gilt Tapers. It is incloſed with handſome ſtrong Rail and Balliſter, and within that well paved with Black and White Marble.

THE Church is 53 Feet Square, the Altitude about 35 Feet, and that of the Tower to the Top of the Turret about 84 Feet.

St. MARTIN's Le GRAND.

THEN in St. Martin's-lane, was (of old Time) a fair and large College, of a Dean and Secular Canons, or Prieſts; which have had great Privilege, both of Sanctuary and otherwiſe, and was called St. Martin's Le-graund, founded by Ingelricus, and Edwardus, his Brother, in the Year of Chriſt, 1056, and confirmed by William the Conqueror, as appears by his Charter, dated 1068.

THAT Endowment this Houſe enjoyed, with all the Lands the Founders gave, was confirmed to it by William the Conqueror; who, alſo gave all the Moor Land without Cripplegate; and freed this Church, and the Canons, from all Diſturbance and Exaction of any Biſhops, Archdeacons, or their Miniſters, and from all Regal Services. And granted them Soc and Sac, Tol and Theam, with all thoſe antient Liberties, in the fulleſt Manner that any Church in England had. That Charter bears Date 1068, the 2d of his Reign, confirmed by John and Peter, Cardinals of Rome, and Legates of Pope Alexander.

IN former Times, the Deans and Canons of St. Martin's were great Men. One William Mulſe, in the Reign of Edward III. was Dean of St. Martin's, who was chief Chamberlain of the Exchequer, Receiver and Keeper of the King's Treaſure and Jewels. Then William Dighton, a Prebendary of St. Martin's, was Clerk of the Privy-Seal. Peter de Savoy was Dean in the Reign of Edward I.

AMONG other Franchiſes, antiently granted by the Kings of the Realm to the City of LONDON, one was, That all Inquiſitions to be taken by Juſtices and Miniſters of the King, of the Citizens of LONDON, ſhould be taken at St. Martin's le Grand, or at the Guild Hall of the ſaid City, and not elſewhere, except Inquiſitions of the Juſtice in Eyre, at the Tower of LONDON, Act of Parliament 37 Henry VIII. Cap. 5.

THE 22d of Edw. I. 1293, when the Cuſtos and Sheriffs had removed a Cauſe from the Court Chriſtian, about a Will, to their Court of Huſtings, that King appointed Gilbert de Thornton, his Chief Juſtice, and others, to come at a certain Day, for that Purpoſe appointed, unto St. Martin's the Great, LONDON; and there diligently to examine that Record and Proceſs, in the Preſence of the aforeſaid Cuſtos and Sheriffs. And ſignifying withal that he had likewiſe commanded the ſaid Cuſtos and Sheriffs, on a certain Day, which they, the Judges, ſhould certify them of, to bring before them that Record and Proceſs, with all Things pertaining to it, at St. Martin's the Great, LONDON.

ANTIENTLY, the Kings of England have ſometimes lodged here. A Writ of King Edw. I. was dated hence. *Thomas de Clirowe de Blechweth Captus & detent. in Priſona North. pro Tranſgr. Rex (Edw. I.) granted the Deanary of St. Martin's the Great, LONDON, Galfrido de Newband, by the Reſignation of Lodowick de Sabaudia, 20 Jan. 8. Edw. I.

THIS Church of St. Martin's, antiently was free from Epiſcopal Viſitation; nay, and from Papal Exactions: And peculiarly belonged to the King, as appears by the Record. Eccl'ia S. Martin's le Grand, LONDON. Libera ab Inſpectione Epali; ſpectat Regi; & de Juriſdictione papali ib'm amovend. Pro qua Rex appellat Papam dicte Exactionis. Exiguntur ab Eccl'ia Newport Comitat. S····· quæ Pars ejuſdem Decanatus, &c. And King Henry III. brought the Pope into Suit, for taking ſome Payments from the Church of Newport, that belonged to his Deanary.

IN the Biſhop of LONDON's Regiſter of old Wills, it is ſtiled a Pariſh.

Arthur Capel, late of the Pariſh of St. Martin's le Grand. The Adminiſtration of his Goods granted to his Brother William Capel, Anno 1542.

Nicholas Young, of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Martin's le Grand, Anno 1542.

THIS College claimed great Privileges of Sanctuary, and otherwiſe, as appeareth in a Book written by a Notary of that Houſe, about the Year 1442, the 19th of Henry VI. wherein, amongſt other Things is ſet down and declared; That on the 1ſt of September, in the Year aforeſaid, a Soldier, Priſoner in Newgate, as he was led by an Officer towards the Guidhall of LONDON, there came out of Panyer-alley five of his Fellowſhip, and took him from the Officer; brought him into Sanctuary at the Weſt Door of St. Martin's Church, and took Girth of that Place. But the ſame Day Philip Malpas, and Robert Marſhall, then Sheriffs of LONDON, with many others entered the ſaid Church, and forcibly took out with them the ſaid five Men, thither fled, led them fetter'd to the Compter, and from thence, chained by the Necks to Newgate. Of which violent-taking the Dean and Chapter in large manner complained to the King; and required him, as their Patron, to defend their Privileges, like as his Prdeceſſors had done, &c. All which Complaint and Suit, the Citizens by their Counſel, Markham, Serjeant at Law, John Carpenter, Common Clerk of the City, and others, learnedly anſwered; offering to prove, that the ſaid Place of St. Martin had no ſuch Immunity or Liberty as was pretended: Namely, Carpenter offered to loſe his Place, if that Church had more Immunity than the leaſt Church in LONDON. Notwithſtanding, after long debating of this Controverſy, by the King's Commandment and Aſſent of his Council in the Star-Chamber, the Chancellor and Treaſurer ſent a Writ unto the Sheriffs of LONDON, charging them to bring the ſaid five Perſons, with the Cauſe of their taking and with-holding, afore the King in his Chancery, on the Vigil of All-hallows. On which Day, the ſaid Sheriffs, with the Recorder, and Counſel of the City, brought and delivered them accordingly, afore the ſaid Lords; whereas the Chancellor, after he had declared the King's Commandment, ſent them to St. Martin's, there to abide freely, as in a Place having Liberties, &c.

THUS much out of that Book is noted, concerning the Privileges of that Place, challenged in thoſe Days: Since which Time, to wit, in the Year 1457, the 36th of the ſaid Henry VI. an Ordinance was made by the King and his Council, concerning the ſaid Sanctuary Men in St. Martin's le Grand; whereof the Articles are ſet down in the Book of K. within the Chamber of the Guild-hall, in the Leaf 299, and is in the Engliſh then uſed, as it ſtands in the Record.

Henricus *Dei Gratia, Rex Angliæ & Franciæ, Dominus Hiberniæ: Omnibus ad quos præſentes Literæ pervenerint, Salutem. THE fifth of Feverer, the Yeere of the Reigne of our Soveraigne Lord King Henry VI, thirty-fifth: At Weſtminſter, in the Star-Chamber, our ſaid Soveraigne Lord, calling to high Remembrance, the good and bleſſed entent that his full noble Progenitors have at all Times had, to the Honour, Worſhip, Conſervation and Wele of the Free Chapel of St. Martin's, within the City of LONDON; of the which, the King our Soveraign Lord, is Founder and Patron: Deſiring to do all that may ſerve to the Eaſe and reſtful Roule of the ſame; and Conſervation of the Sanctuary, Immunity, Privileges and Liberties, as appertain to the ſaid Chapel and Place; willing, that hereafter none occaſion be yeven to the Breach or hurting them: Remembring alſo, the great Complaints, Grudging, and Diſpleaſure, that his Subjects have taken, and ſpecially the Citizens and Commonalty of the ſaid City of LONDON; of the demeaning of miſruled Perſons coming and abiding in the ſaid Place, under Umbre and Colour of the Sanctuary there: the which have, at divers Times, iſſued out of the Sanctuary and committed many Ryots, Robberies, Manſlaughters, and other Miſchieves; were through the ſaid Sanctuary hath been greatly diſlaundered, and (over that) great Inconvenience like to enſue.

AFTER great Deliberation and Communication had, as well with Doctors of Divinity, as of Law, Civil and Canonicall; called alſo thereto the Judges of this our Land, and their Advices had in that Behalfe; other Men alſo of great Wiſedome and Experience, for the Weale and Conſervation of the ſaid Sanctuary, and to eſchew the ſaid Miſgovernance and Miſchief, called alſo before our ſaid Soveraigne Lord and his

And that the ſaid Declaration and Cauſe bee regiſtered in the common Regiſter, ordained therefore in the ſaid Sanctuary, and the Name of the ſaid Fugitive.

And that hee bee kept in Ward into the Time hee have found and made the ſaid Seurte: And if it ſo bee, that it be complained or ſhewed unto the King's Highneſſee, that the ſaid Seurte bee not ſufficient, that then, at the Commandment of the ſuid Councell, (if it bee thought neceſſary) the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, ſhall take other and better Securte; or elſe commit them to Ward, unto the Time better Securte bee found. 6. Item, If any Perſon having Tuition of the ſaid Sanctuary, from thence iſſue out by Day or by Night, and commit or do any Robbery, Murder, Treaſon, or Felony, or Battery ſo done (withouten forth) commit the ſame Miſdoer to Ward, there to remaine as long as he will abide in the Sanctuary. And if ſo bee hee will depart from thence, he ſhall depart at an Hour to be aſſigned unto him by Day, betwixt Sunne and Sunne.

And if any, being within the ſaid Sanctuary, be holden ſuſpect of the Things aboveſaid, let him be committed to Ward, 'till he find ſufficient Surety, as in the third Article aboveſaid.

8. Item, That common Putuers, Strumpets, and Bawdes, be not ſuſpected in the Sanctuary: And if they claime the Tuition of the ſaid Sanctuary, that they bee ſet in open Ward on Day times, 'till Shame cauſe them to depart, or to amend their vicious living.

And if they doe the contrary, to bee committed to Ward, 'till they finde ſufficient Surety, as in the third Article aboveſaid, to uſe their Crafts in Manner and Forme as doe the Inhabitants of the ſaid City,

City, and according to the Ordinances of the ſame City.

From theſe Regulations and Articles aforementioned, this St. Martin's appears to have been a Sanctuary for great Diſorders, and a Shelter for the looſeſt ſort of People; Rogues and Ruffians, Thieves, Felons, and Murtherers. From hence uſed to ruſh violent Perſons, Committers of Riots, Robberies, and Manſlaughters: Hither they brought in their Preys and ſtolen Goods, and concealed them here, and ſhared or ſold them to thoſe that dwelt here. Here were alſo harboured Picklocks, Counterfeiters of Keys and Seals, Forgers of falſe Evidences, ſuch as made counterfeit Chains, Beads, Ouches, Plate, Copper gilt for Gold; nay, common Strumpets and Bawds, Gameſters, and Players at Hazard and Dice, and other unlawful Games. And laſtly, Prophaners of Sundays, and other Feſtival Days, exerciſing their Crafts thereon.

And again, to this Licentiouſneſs was this Sanctuary grown in theſe Times, that in Henry VII. his Reign, one coming hither for Sanctuary, the Sheriffs took him thence by Violence, and brought him away. But obſerve what followed: The Abbot of Weſtminſter, (to whom this College now belonged) exhibited a Bill to the King againſt theſe Sheriffs, for arreſting and drawing out with Force, a privileged Perſon, out of the Sanctuary of St. Martin's, belonging to the ſaid Abbey. Which Matter was heard in the Court or Star-Chamber, before the Lords, and others of the King's Council, and Hody and Newton, Chief Juſtices. Which Juſtices determined, that by Law, the Party ought to enjoy the Privilege of Sanctuary: And the Sheriffs were grievouſly fined by particular Name. Which Sentence the Lord Dyer ſaw, as he reported under his own Hand. (And the Lord Coke ſaw in M. S. not printed) upon a Reference to him and Juſtice Southcote, out of the Star-Chamber, Trin. 11 Eliz. concerning the Sanctuary of Weſtminſter, for Hampton and Whitacres being in for Debt.

Concerning the Patron, Privilege, and exempt Juriſdiction of this Church, we may underſtand by an Inquiſition of the King's Juſtices, at the Tower, in the Reign of King Edward II. when the Jury made this Preſentment of it: That the Church of Great St. Martin's, LONDON, was in the Donation of the King; and that Richard de Ellefeld then held it, and was Dean there; they knew not by what Warrant, therefore the Sheriff was commanded to cauſe him to appear; who came, and ſaid, That he held the foreſaid Church of St. Martin's, as a Free Chapel of the Lord the King, by the Donation and Conceſſion of him, the preſent King; exempted from all ordinary Juriſdiction, and free by the Letters of the ſame King, which he produced, in theſe Words, Edwardus Dei gratia, &c. and by that Warrant he held that Church.

Before this Church there was a Solar, that is, a large airy Room, or Chamber, ſomewhat like the Galleries in ſome great Houſes, being Places of Entertainment and Pleaſure. This Solar was towards the Street, and had a Jetty outwards, which was ſo low that it annoyed the People paſſing along. It was preſented at the aforeſaid Inquiſition, in theſe Words: "That "the Dean and Canons of St. Martin's the "Great, held a certain Solar againſt the ſaid "Church, containing in Length 29 Feet, and "in Breadth 11 Feet; Cujus Gettificium eſt ni- "mis baſſum de tribus pedibus, i. e. Whoſe "Jetty was too low by three Feet. The Sheriff was commanded to ſummon them. Afterwards the Dean and Canons appeared by their Attorney, and yielded to take away what was an Annoyance by the View of the Jury. And therefore it was commanded the Sheriff to throw down whatſoever was an Annoyance: But the Dean was not fined, becauſe it was not his proper Deed.

Antiently when this College flouriſhed, a Curfeu Bell was rung here; as was at Bow, St. Giles's Cripplegate, and Barking. It was a great Bell to be heard at a Diſtance, to give the Citizens Warning of the Time of Night; and to keep within Doors. King Edward I. in his Reign, in Orders ſent to the City for keeping the Peace, againſt many Miſchiefs and Murders, Robberies, and beating down of People by certain Hectors, walking armed in the Streets a-Nights, commanded, that henceforth none ſhould be ſo hardy to be found wandering in the Streets, after Curfeu Bell ſounded at St. Martin's Le Grand.

This College was ſurrendered to King Edward VI. the 2d of his Reign, in the Year of Chriſt, 1548; and the ſame Year, the College-Church was pulled down, many Houſes built, highly priſed, and let to Strangers born; and ſuch others as claimed Benefit of the Privileges granted to the Canons, ſerving God Day and Night; (for ſo are the Words in the Charter of William the Conqueror) which may hardly be wreſted to Artificers, Buyers and Sellers, otherwiſe than is mentioned in the 21ſt of St. Matthew's Goſpel.

In the Eaſt Part, where the College Church ſtood, was afterwards a large Tavern built: And down to the Weſt, and ſo throughout the whole Precinct of that College, it was new built upon.

The following is the Charter granted by William the Conqueror, concerning the antient Priviledges of St. Martin's Le Grand.

THIS Deanary, together with the Sanctuary and Privileges, was, after, put to the Abbey of St. Peter's in Weſtminſter; as appeareth by what follows:

A DECLARATION of William, Abbot of the Monaſtery of St. Peter of Weſtminſter, concerning his Title to the Privilege and Sanctuary of St. Martin's le Grand, in LONDON; with the Precincts, Circuit, and Bounds of the ſame.

FIRST, the ſaid Abbot ſaith, That the Free Chapel of St. Martin's le Grand in LONDON, and the Precincts of St. Martin's aforeſaid, is a Place privileged; and was founded and endowed long Time before the Conqueſt, as well of Poſſeſſions as of Immunities, Franchiſes, and Liberties. And corroborate and inlarged by King William the Conqueror, like as it appeareth, as well by the Charter of the ſaid King William the Conqueror, as by divers other Charters, Writings, and Records.

Item, The ſaid King William the Conqueror, granted by his Charter to the ſame Place of St. Martin's, divers Liberties and Franchiſes, by ſpecial and general Words, as well in the Latin Tongue, as Saxon. And over that, granted to the ſaid Place of St. Martin's, all other Liberties, Immunities, and Cuſtoms, which any Church of this Realm beſt had. Which Grant importeth, and includeth in itſelf, as great Privileges, Franchiſes, and Immunities, as Weſtminſter, Beverlay, or any other Place privileged, hath within this Realm. And alſo the ſaid Words in Saxon, importeth ſuch Sentence. That the ſaid Place ſhould be franchiſed, privileged, and have Tuition and Immunities of all thoſe Perſons, which for Treaſon, Felonies, Treſpaſſes, or any other Cauſe, ſhould flee to the ſame, or abide therein. Which Franchiſes, Privilege, Tuition, and Immunities, the ſaid Place hath always peaceably had and enjoyed, from the ſaid Conqueror's Days, unto this preſent Time.

Item, The ſaid Franchiſes, Immunities, and Privileges of St. Martin's, have been corroborate, confirmed, allowed, and inlarged, by King Henry I, King Stephen, Henry II. King John, King Henry III. King Edward II. King Edward III. Richard II. Henry V. Henry VI. and in all other Kings Times ſince the Conqueſt. As by divers Charters, and Allowances before Juſtices of Oyer and Determiner, Writings and Records, more plainly at large is ſhewed, and may appear.

Item, It appeareth by divers Returns made by the Sheriffs of LONDON, as well in the King's-Bench, Common-Pleas, and all other the King's Courts, that the ſaid Place of St. Martin's is a Place privileged and Sanctuary. As by the ſame Returns, remaining of Record, more plainly may appear.

Item, The ſaid Abbot ſaith, That the Precinct, Circuit, and Bounds, of the Privilege and Sanctuary aforeſaid, be and extend, as hereafter followeth.

Imprimis, Beginning at a Wall lying directly againſt a Poſt that ſtandeth in the Middle of one Roger Wright's, a Grocer's Houſe, which ſtandeth on the Eaſt Side of the South Gate of St. Martin's: And from the Wall in the ſaid Grocer's Houſe, with the Half Deal of the Street, unto the Channel of the ſame Side that Houſe ſtandeth upon, Sanctuary. And ſo forth from the Eaſt, Weſtward, unto the Middle of St. Martin's-lane, next to the Chapel of St. Martin's, againſt the Tenement of the Bull's-head; which Tenement lieth at the South End of the ſaid Lane, on the Weſt Part.

Item, Half Part of the Street of St. Martin's-lane Sanctuary, from the South unto the North, as far forth, as the Houſes appertaining to the Bull-head do extend Northwards.

Item, From the ſaid Place of the Bull's-head, then the whole Lane of St. Martin's, Sanctuary on both Sides, unto a Poſt or Stoop that ſtandeth on the North Side, or End of the two Tenements, ſtanding by the great Gate next going into the Dean's-court.

Item, From the ſaid St. Martin's-lane, at the aforeſaid Bull's-head, turning by a Wall that divideth the ſaid Tenement of the Bull's-head, and St. Martin's Ground. Which Wall turneth and extendeth from the Eaſt Weſtwards, unto a back Wall that cloſeth in St. Martin's Ground of the Weſt Side; all within the ſaid Wall, Sanctuary.

Item, Along by the ſame back Wall that cloſeth in the Weſt Part of St. Martin's Ground, from the South End of the ſaid Wall into the North, unto a Wall that divideth my Lord of Northumberland's Ground, and St. Martin's Ground from the South End; all within the aforeſaid Walls, Sanctuary. And ſo forth, from the South Side, into the North of my Lord of Northumberland's Ground, Sanctuary. Along by a back Wall of the Grey Fryars; which back Wall cloſeth in my Lord of Northumberland's Ground of the Weſt Part, unto the North Part of Angel-alley, abutting Northwards, upon the South Side of Robert Bowman's Houſe, into the Street-wards. And ſo Sanctuary ſtill, from the ſaid back Wall of Grey-Fryars, along by the Angel-alley, and by the South Part of the ſaid Robert Bowman's Houſe, from the Weſt unto the Eaſt, until you come to a Poſt or Stoop ſtanding on the North Part of the two Tenements next lying on the North Side of a great Gate entering into the Dean's-court.

Item, From the aforeſaid Wall, along from the North, Southward uuto Hugh Payne's Dwelling-Houſe; and from thence, by the North Side of the ſaid Hugh Payne's Garden, Sanctuary ſtill; from the Weſt unto the Eaſt Part thereof.

Item, Again from the North Side of the above rehearſed Hugh Payne's Garden, Southward, unto the Dean's Garden, Sanctuary.

Item, Along by the Wall on the North Side of the Dean's Garden, from the Weſt into the Eaſt thereof, Sanctuary.

Item, From the North unto the South of the aforeſaid Dean's Garden, with St. Leonard's Church, Sanctuary, as by a Wall it there ſheweth.

Item, From the Eaſt End of St. Leonard's Church, Weſtward of the South of St. Martin's, unto the Bell-alley, Sanctuary; as appeareth alſo by another Wall there.

Item, From the Bell-alley, Southward, unto the Wall ſpoken of at the Beginning, which is within the Grocer's Houſe, againſt the Poſt that ſtandeth within the Middle of the ſame Houſe. And ſo forth directly again, unto the Channel of the High Street, that lieth before the South South Gate of St. Martin's; all within the Bounds rehearſed, Sanctuary.

Item, By a Statute made in the ——Year of King Edward III. it is affirmed, The ſaid Place of St. Martin's to be a Place franchiſed and privileged, having Tuition and Immunity, in Manner and Form as is above rehearſed. And in ſpecial, and for them that come in thither for Debt, Treaſon, and Felony. In Proof whereof the Judge that ſitteth there for the King, as in a Place, not of the City, but by Privilege ſeparate, (the Mayor not called thereto, as he is to the Deliverance of Newgate, and other ſuch Acts in the City) to have Knowledge there in a Caſe of Treaſon or Felony, hath ever, from Time that no Mind is, ſitten in the Gate of the ſaid Sanctuary. And the Perſon appeached, or indicted of Treaſon and Felony, hath been kept by the Officers on the further Side of the Street afore him; to the Intent that he come not of the other Side of the Channel, towards the Sanctuary there, to claim the Liberty and Franchiſes of the ſame.

Item, Whereas divers Kings of this Land, for Cauſes ſuch as moved them, have ſeized into their Hands the Franchiſes and Liberties that the City of LONDON had; by reaſon whereof they were not ſuffered to uſe or enjoy the ſaid Franchiſes, for as long as it hath liked unto the ſaid Kings. Yet the ſaid Chappel of St. Martin's le Grand, in the ſaid City of LONDON, with the Precinct of the ſame, at the ſaid Times of ſuch ſeazing of the aforeſaid Franchiſes, was afore and ſince always a Place privileged; without any Diſturbance, diminiſhing, or taking away by the ſaid Kings, or by their Miniſters. And peaceably uſed and enjoyed their Franchiſes, Liberties, and Immunities, within the Sanctuary and Precinct of St. Martin's, as in a Place excepted and privileged, and no Ways pertaining unto the ſaid City; no Parcel thereof, though it be within the ſaid City.

And moreover, The ſaid Abbot ſaith, That the ſaid Church, or Chappel of St. Martin's, within the ſaid Sanctuary and Precinct of the ſame; were of late, by the late King of famous Memory, King Henry VII. lawfully annexed and given to the ſaid Monaſtery of St. Peter of Weſtminſter; at which Time and Times, without Mind of Man before that, the ſaid Chappel and Precinct, Circuit and Bounds of the ſaid Sanctuary, comprized within the Limits above rehearſed, were uſed, allowed, and taken; and yet be as Sanctuary.

Thus far the Abbot of Weſtminſter's Declaration, at which Time (as it appears) there fell out ſo much Conteſtation concerning the Precincts of this Sanctuary, that the Matter was fain to be tried by antient ſworn Men depoſed in Court, as Witneſſes. What follows of their Depoſitions came to Mr. Strype's Hand, the reſt (and the Beginning) were loſt.

Item, The ſaid Henry Williamſon depoſeth for the claimed Bounds, and alſo for the Privilege of Sanctuary-Men, in the Half-Street and Lane next to St. Martin's; and for the ſetting up of the Gallows on Evil-May-Day; and for the removing thereof, as others therein before have depoſed.

Item, Ralph Twyn depoſeth, all wholly the claimed Bounds to be Sanctuary; and alſo the ſetting up of the Gallows, and removing of the ſame; and the Pavement to be done by the Abbot. And that he knew one Bland privileged both for Treaſon and Murder, even uſed to walk in the Street, claimed as Sanctuary, without any Diſturbance.

Item, William Bayley depoſeth all the claimed Bounds, and alſo the ſitting of the Juſtices in the South Gate: And that he heard the Juſtices ſay, that half the Street againſt the ſaid Gate was Sanctuary: And that there were Perſons therein arraigned, and others therein depoſed: And that he knew the ſaid Bland privileged for Treaſon and Felony, to dwell in Angel-alley: And that the Abbot ought to make the Pavement, as others have depoſed there.

Item, John Smith, Clerk, depoſeth for all the claimed Bounds, and further ſaith, that he knew Dr. Morton, and alſo the Cardinal Morton, to lie there; one in Roger Wright's Houſe, and the other in Angel-alley, they both being privileged for Treaſon: And alſo he ſuppoſeth both Angel-alley, and Bland-alley, to be holden of St. Martin's by certain Rent, as Parcel of the Earl of Northumberland's Tenements: And alſo for the Pavement, as others before have depoſed.

There was a memorable Cauſe tried about the Liberties, between this Collegiate Church of St. Martin's, and the City of LONDON, in the 27th of Henry VIII. which probably the former Declaration of the Abbot of Weſtminſter refers to. The City then, by her Recorder and Council, penned and exhibited theſe enſuing Articles againſt the Sanctuary of St. Martin's.

Articles declaring for the Mayor and Commonalty of LONDON; That the Encloſure and Chyrch of Seynt Martine's le Grande, the Meſſuages, Houſes, and Lane of Seint Martine's aforeſayd, be of, and in the Liberty and Juriſdiction of the ſaid City; and that there be, nor by any lawful Meane have been, any ſuch Privileges and Immunity, the which may, or ought to defend al Manner of enorm Enemies of God, the Chyrch, the King, and the Realm, unpuniſhed, as it hath been of long wrongfully accuſtomed. And eſpecially to diſherit our moſt dread Sovereign Lord, and his ſaid City and Chamber of LONDON, of ſuch Rights, Juriſdictions, Liberties, and free Cuſtoms, as of long Time before the Foundation, and at the Foundation of the ſaid Chyrch, and ever after, peaceably and quietly had uſed; and approved by divers Records, by Authority of Parliament, Letters Patents, and otherwiſe, as followeth:

Firſt, They ſeyen, that the City of LONDON is, and ſince the Tyme of Remembrance of Man, hath been the chief City of this Realm, and above al other Cities and Towns of the ſame, as wel in Honours, Liberties, and free Cuſtoms highly endowed; and the which famous City, in the Time of Seint Edward, King and Confeſſor, and long Time before, always hath been of itſelf one hoole County, and one hoole Juriſdiction and Liberty, by the ſaid Citizens, and their Predeceſſors, of the King and his Progenitors holden at Farm.

And the ſame Citizens then, and by al the Time aforeſaid, by reaſon of their ſeid Juriſdiction and Liberties, among others, have had Liberties and free Cuſtoms, to elect and make of themſelves, yeerely, certain principal Officers in the ſaid City, which faithfully ſhudde anſwer the King's Terme: And immediately under him, the People of the ſaid City, and others repairing to the ſame in Peace, Unity, and Juſtice, ſhudde govern after their old Laws and Cuſtoms: And alſo, to ſubſtitute under them other Under-Officers and Miniſters, to help for the Suſtentation and Execution of the Premiſſes, &c.

AND before this, in the Reign of Henry VI. was this great Cauſe in Diſpute, between the City and St. Martin's, before ſeveral Commiſſioners appointed to hear it. Then the Citizens pleaded, That William the Conqueror, before the Foundation of the aforeſaid Church, by Authority of his Parliament, and by two Charters, which the Mayor and Citizens then produced, he demiſed to the Citizens of LONDON, all the ſaid City and Sheriffwick of LONDON, with all Appendages, &c. And ſo pleading, inter alia, concluded thus: All and ſingular which the ſame Mayor and Citizens are ready to make good, as well for the ſaid Lord the King, as for themſelves.

IT ſeems that there hath been ſome later Differences about a new Door into the Liberties of the Freedom; whereupon a Court being called December 20, 1625, this Order was given out, to be enquired upon and certified.

IT is ordered by the Court, that the Foreman of the Inqueſt, with others of the ſame Inqueſt, ſhall view the South Gate and Entry leading from Bladder-ſtreet into this Liberty: And alſo a Door made by Thomas Rodes in the Eaſt Side of the ſame Entrey; and make their Reports under their Hands in Writing, on Monday next after Epiphany.

ACcording to the Direction of the Order aboveſaid, we whoſe Names are underwritten, being all of the Enqueſt ſworne for this Yeere, having viewed the Gate and Entry, doe find, and accordingly certifie, that Thomas Rodes, a Linnen Draper, dwelling in a Houſe next adjoining to the ſaid Entry, on the Eaſt Side thereof, (in Part of which Houſe Roger Wright did dwell) hath of late, without the Privity or Knowledge of the Inhabitants of this Liberty, taken downe, or cauſed to be taken downe and carried away, a Pair of ſtrong, ſufficient, and ſerviceable Gates, in the Night-Time; which were, and Time out of Mind have bin, the common South Gate of this Liberty. And inſtead thereof, hath ſet up a new Gate of Deale, opening all one Way, viz. towards the Weſt Side; whereas the former Paire of Gates or Leaves did fall open, the one towards the Eaſt Side, and the other towards the Weſt Side of the ſaid Entry. Alſo the ſaid Thomas Rodes hath broken down the Partition Wall on the Eaſt Side of the ſaid Entry; againſt which, one Leafe of the ſaid old Gate did fall open, as aforeſaid: And hath there made a new Doore (where never any was before, in the Memory of Man) of almoſt an Ell in Breadth, out of the Shop, into the ſaid Entry or common Paſſage into this Liberty. Whereby a free and open Paſſage is made out of the City of LONDON, the Shop of the ſaid Rodes, into this Liberty; to the great Prejudice of the Lords of the ſame Liberty, and to the great Hinderance and Damage of the Tenants and Inhabitants within the ſame. In witneſs whereof we have hereunto ſubſcribed our Names; dated the 9th of Jan. Ann. Dom. 1625.

THE Liberties of this Place, after the Diſſolution of the College, remained, and were preſerved very cautiouſly from Time to Time. And to know how the Government, Privileges, and State of it ſtood in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, theſe Matters following may explain in ſome Meaſure.

BECAUSE of the Liberty enjoyed by ſuch as lived within theſe Bounds, many Foreigners, Engliſh and others, Tradeſmen and Artificers, planted themſelves here, An. 1585. A Survey was taken of all the Strangers, being French, Germans, Dutch, and Scots, inhabiting here, and their Occupations. Many of them were Cordwainers, that is, Shoemakers, (which Trade ſtill continues there) Taylors, (hence the Tally-men who ſold Shreds of Cloth; and Button-makers, and Button-mould-makers, that remained there even until the great Fire). Here inhabited alſo Strangers, Goldſmiths, Purſemakers, Linen-Drapers, ſome Stationers, ſome Merchants, and Silk-Weavers. Here lived alſo two Silk-Twiſters, who Mr. Strype ſuppoſes were the firſt Silk-Throwin LONDON, and to have brought that Trade into England; wherefore he ſets down their Names; one was John James, born under the Dominion of King Philip, and made Denizen the 19th of December, in the 10th Year of Queen Elizabeth. The other was Anthony Emerick, born alſo under the Obedience of King Philip, and made Denizen the 1ſt of January, Ann. 17. Reginæ Elizabethæ.

THERE were upon that Survey aboveſaid, found to be of Houſholders, (Denizens, as well as others) their Wives, Children, and Servants, 161 in Number. Which nevertheleſs was leſs by half than was ſome Years before; for in 1569, their Number was 269.

THERE was a Conſtable and a Headborough for this Liberty: But divers Things here wanted providing for; in reſpect whereof, they that lived out of the Liberty, were in better Condition. Sundry of the Inhabitants refuſed to watch and ward, when upon Occaſion they were required, as good Subjects and honeſt Neighbours, ſo to do. They refuſed to contribute to ſuch Taxes and Payments as were ſet upon them for her Majeſty's Service, with the reſt of their Neighbours. Several viſited with the Sickneſs, would not obey the Orders appointed in that Behalf; that is, they would not keep their Doors and Windows ſhut, nor keep themſelves within their Houſes; but walked forth, and ſtruck out the Red Croſs ſet upon their Doors, and threatned to Miſchief ſuch as ſhould come to ſet any ſuch Croſſes there. And ſome repaired to the Court with their Wares, a Thing dangerous to the Queen and Nobility. There was no Priſon in the ſaid Liberty to commit ſuch as ſhould be troubleſome and offenſive, but the Gatehouſe in Weſtminſter; which was in another Shire, and out of the Liberty. And ſo they that were thus committed, commonly brought their Actions againſt thoſe that committed them, and put them to great Trouble.

HENCE in the Year 1593, the Officers and Inhabitants petitioned the Lord-Treaſurer to grant them ſuch good Ordinances for the Redreſs of the ſaid Diſorders, and ſufficient Authority for Execution of the ſame, for the good Government of the ſaid Liberty, and Conſervation of the People in Peace; as to his Lordſhip's diſcreet Wiſdom ſhould be thought meet: And that they might have a Priſon and Execution of Juſtice within the Precinct of the Liberty: And that he would ſend his Letters to the Conſtable and Headborough, to find out a convenient Place for ſuch Purpoſe; and to aſſeſs all the Inhabitants of the Liberty to the Charge thereof. The Lord-Treaſurer recommended this Matter to Sergeant Owen, and Mr. Lewis, two Lawyers; who gave their Judgments, that for all Matters for the Service of the Queen, the Inhabitants were compelled to perform the ſame. But for other Matters, they muſt make ſome By-Laws and Orders among themſelves, to bind themſelves to Performance. And that ſuch diſordered Perſons, whoſe Houſes were limited within the College, might be be puniſhed by Impriſonment; and in that contagious Time, very convenient to be executed.

THE Inhabitants alſo complained at this Time, that the Mayor's Officers entered into their Liberty at their Pleaſure, and ſearched and viewed all the Wares of the Shoemakers, according to a Statute lately made; not calling the Officer of the Liberty, or making him privy thereto. To this the Judgment of the aforeſaid Lawyers was, That the Searcher might enter into the Liberty, and ſearch alone. But, for that the Benefit of the Forfeitures were given to the Liberty, they thought it convenient that the Lord Mayor's Officer ſhould be with them: Which they thought might be obtained, if it pleaſed the Treaſurer to write to the Lord Mayor in that Behalf.

THIS Place, though in the Heart of the City of LONDON, is ſtill in the Liberty of Weſtminſter, and is governed, and votes for Parliament Men accordingly; and Perſons unfree may here follow their Profeſſions and Trades.

LOWER down, on the Weſt Side of St. Martin's-lane, in the Pariſh of St. Anne, almoſt by Alderſgate, was one great Houſe, commonly called Northumberland-houſe; it belonged to Henry Percy. King Henry IV. in the 7th of his Reign, gave this Houſe, with the Tenements thereunto appertaining, to Queen Jane, his Wife, and then it was called her Wardrobe. It was afterwards a Printing-Houſe, but now a Tavern.

Cooks Hall. NOW without Alderſgate, on the Eaſt Side of Alderſgate-ſtreet, is Cooks Hall; it ſtands againſt the End of Little-britain. From thence, along to Barbican, are many good Houſes on the Weſt Side, alſo to Long-lane, and ſo to Goſwell-ſtreet.

The PARISH of St. BOTOLPH Without ALDERSGATE.

IN Britain-ſtreet, now called Little-Britain, which took that Name from the Dukes of Britain lodging there, is the handſome Pariſh Church of St. Botolph; in which Church was ſome Time a Brotherhood of St. Fabian and Sebaſtian, founded in the Year 1377, the 51ſt of Edward III. and confirmed by Henry IV. in the 6th of his Reign. Then Henry VI. in the 24th of his Reign, to the Honour of the Trinity, gave Licence to Dame Joan Aſtley, ſome Time his Nurſe, to Richard Cawood, and Thomas Smith, to found the ſame a Fraternity, perpetually to have a Maſter and two Cuſtodes, with Brothers and Siſters, &c. This Brotherhood was endowed with Lands, more than 30 l. by the Year, and was ſuppreſſed by Edward VI.

THIS Brotherhood conſiſted of a Meſſuage, Houſe and Tenement, called Trinity-hall, otherwiſe, The Common Hall of the Fraternity, or Guild of the Holy Trinity, founded in the Church of St. Botolph Alderſgate, and alſo eight Meſſuages and Tenements, commonly called, The Trinity, alſo ſituate beneath Trinity-hall. They were in the Tenure of Alexander Chapman, and coming into King Edward's Hands by an Act of Parliament, he granted them to William Harris, alias Somers, in his ſecond Year

IN Trinity-hall Chapel:

IN the Windows there, ſtood divers Coats of Cavendiſh, Smith, William Purchaſe, Mayor of LONDON, Agard, Gatton, &c.

THE Steeple of this Church of St. Botolph, being very much decayed and periſhed, was, ſo far as they found it needful, pulled down, and rebuilt with Portland Stone, beautified with new Battlements and a Turret: Some Part of the Church repaired, and many of the Pews new made. As alſo a new Clock and Dial (at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners) in the Year 1627. The Charge of all amounting to 415 l.

THIS Church eſcaped the Fury of the Flames in 1666, though not entirely, for a ſmall Part of it was burnt.

IT is a Gothick Building, with Galleries on the North and Weſt Sides; alſo good Oak Pews, and a Pulpit carved of the ſame Species of Timber.

THERE is little Ornament; the Altar-Piece is old Painting, with Columns of the Compoſite Order, between which are the Commandments, adorned with three Cherubims; over which is a Glory, with the ſacred Word GOD done in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and Engliſh, and the Portraitures of Moſes on the one Side, and Aaron on the other Side of the Commandments; which Altar-Piece is rendered more ornamental by the many fine old Monuments ſituated near it; and the King's Arms are at the Eaſt End of the South Iſle.

THE Church is in Length (i. e. that Part paved and the Chancel) 78 Feet, Breadth 51, Height about 25, and that of the Steeple about 65 Feet, in which are ſix Bells, one of which is the Saint's Bell.

On a Pyramid erected againſt a Pillar:

What Epitaph
Shall we afford this Shrine?
Words cannot Grace
This Pyramid of thine:
Thy ſweet Perfections,
All ſumm'd up, were ſuch,
As Heavens (I thinke)
For Faith did thinke too much.
Religious Zeale
Did thy pure Heart command,
Pity thine Eye,
And Charity thy Hand.
Theſe Graces, joyn'd
With more of like Degree,
Make each Man's Word
An Epitaph for thee.
Calme was thy Death,
Well-ordered was thy Life,
A carefull Mother,
And a loving Wife.
Aske any, How
Theſe Vertues in thee grew?
Thou waſt a Spencer,
And a Mountague.

Mortua Tamworthi
Spectas monumenta, viator?
Quin potius vivus,
Diſce, quis ille fuit.
Si proavos quæras
Generoſo ſanguine ductus,
Uſque per innumeros
Invenietur Avos.
Si mores, dicam mores?
Nec amantior æqui,
Nec Patriæ quiſquam,
Nec probitatis erat.
Si quæ conditio,
(Si quid ſit laudis in illa)
Vita ſub illuſtri
Principe clara fuit.

Et ſi Principibus
Laus eſt placuiſſe probatis,
Laudibus hæc pars eſt
Annumeranda ſuis.
Jam volucris ſua luſtra
Novem tranſegerat ætas,
Quum mors hunc ſæva
Falce cruenta metat.

Nec vivere differ in horas,
Quæ ſua pars hodie,
Cras tua forſan erit.
